The action came one day after police revealed that the body of a youth found in 1979 has been identified as one of six black children previously listed as missing.

The identification of the body of Alfred James Evans, 14, of Atlanta, brought to nine the number of children under age 15 killed in Atlanta or south suburban East Point in the last 15 months. Five other black children are still missing.

The decomposed body of Evans, who was suffocated, was found last July four days after he disappeared, but positive identification by dental records was not made until Wednesday.

Police officials gathered Thursday to plan a door-to-door campaign to gather information about the killings and disappearance. Angelo Fuster, Mayor Maybard Jackson's press secretary, and "hundreds of policemen" would be on the patrols, and the city council was considering a curfew for children under age 15.

Meanwhile, the United Youth Adult Conference, a non-profit social services agency, scheduled searches over the next several Saturdays of areas where children were reported missing.

"We've had more than 200 volunteers so far," UYAC spokeswoman Helen Taylor said. "All sorts of people are volunteering their time and services."

This Saturday's search will concentrate on the area where 7-year-old Latonya Wilson, the only female among the missing chilren, was reportedly taken from the bedroom of her home on June 22.

The deaths, combined with the deaths of four black toddlers and a black teacher in a furnace explosion at a day care center Monday, has riddled the black community with fear and distrust.

Police say the furnace explosion was an unrelated accident, but some blacks have expressed fear that the incidents are somehow connected.

Jackson, who like most of the city's heirarchy is black, held news conferences each day this week, urging parents to discourage Halloween "trick-or-treating" and calling for a $100,000 reward for details about the dead and missing. The fund already totals $30,000.

The latest victim was Charles Stephens, 12, whose asphyxiated body was found a week ago.

Other victims include: Edward Hope Smith, 12, found shot to death near where Evans' body was discovered in July, 1979; Yusef Bell, 9, found strangled in October 1979, Milton Harvey, 14, found dead of undetermined causes in November, 1979; Angela Lanier, 12, found strangled last March; Eric Middlebrooks, 15, found stabbed and beaten to death in May; Anthony Carter, 9, found stabbed to death in July and Clifford Jones, 13, found strangled in August while visiting from Cleveland, Ohio.

Unemployment and Educational Solutions for Blacks

Independent presidential candidate John B. Anderson today proposed steps his administration would take to reduce high unemployment and improve educational opportunities for black Americans.

Speaking to the National Association of Black Journalists here, Anderson said he would support increased federal funding for effective job training programs and would propose additional programs through the Education Department to improve the quality of education for minorities.

Anderson further renewed his pledge to provide $8 billion in federal funds each year to go to cities to rebuild old neighborhoods, repave streets, support mass transportation systems and provide job training programs. The funds would be provided through two trust funds, one focused on mass transit, the other on infrastructure of cities.

"The overwhelming majority of black Americans live in our nation's cities," he said. "If our cities continue to decline, so will the well-being of black Americans. And there can be no doubt — our cities are in trouble."

The Illinois Congressman said he would also propose new housing initiatives to rehabilitate rundown buildings and buy buildings from absentee landlords. Anderson said he would ensure that minority contractors get a fair share of the new construction work generated by such programs.

"Mr. Carter has failed to put forward a coherent program of action," Anderson said. Mr. Carter has failed black America. And he knows it. When he travels to the South he doesn't talk about his record. Instead, he cynically stirs up racial animosities. Mr. Carter is deliberately manipulating the fears of black Americans to distract them from hiw own incompetence.

Announcements

Malcom X

If anyone is interested in teaching a course at the Malcom X Center, you may submit a course proposal and a resume to the Malcom X Center, Washington Lobby by Oct. 17. For further information please contact Fredrica Rollins at 546-6980 or MXC at 545-2819.

Tutors

All CCEBS students: Friday, Oct. 17th is the last day to submit requests for tutorial assistance for the Fall '80 semester.

Everywoman's Center

A meeting of the Working Women's Task Force at Everywoman's Center will be held on October 22, 1980 at 7:00 p.m. It will deal with issues affecting working women in the Amherst and UMass communities. All women are invited to attend and share their ideas on possible directions for the task force to take and to participate in planning activities for the fall.

A program of six weekly workshops is also being organized to focus on issues of concern to working women. These workshops will be held on Wednesday nights from 7:00 to 9:00 p.m. at Everywoman's Center. the first three are scheduled as follows:

October 29, 1980: Platform of Legislative Issues for Working Women

November 5, 1980: Organizing Working Women and the Amherst Nursing Home Strike; led by employees involved in the union organizing and strike efforts.

November 12, 1980: Sexual Harassment in the Workplace

Concert

Mass. Black United Fund is presenting its first annual benefit concert at Berklee Performing Center at 136 Mass. Ave., Boston, on Nov. 8 at 7:30 p.m. Tickets will be $10.50. See in concert Donald Byrd, Jackie McLean, Max Roach, Jaki Byard, John Neves and 125th Street Band.

McRae

World reknown jazz artist, Carmen McRae will be appearing at the Fine Arts Center, Sunday, Oct. 19 at 8 p.m. Tickets are available at the FAC Box Office.

LUTHER
By Brumsic Brandon, Jr.
HARDCORE, YOUR READING HAS BEEN ATROCIOUS ALL SEMESTER!
WHY DID YOU SAY IT WILL IMPROVE AS THE WEATHER GETS WARMER?
BECAUSE I LEARNED TO READ IN A SUMMER READING PROGRAM, MISS BACKLASH!
BRANDON JR.

SWA proposes change in motorcycle parking policy

By John DiPalazzo
Collegian Staff

The Southwest Assembly voted to recommend changes in the Southwest Residential Area motorcycle parking policy in their meeting last night.

SWA co-vice president James Budreau proposed the recommendation to the University of Massachusetts Parking and

The recommendations were made after John Orcutt, a Southwest resident and motorcycle owner, addressed the assembly last week on inadequate parking for motorcycles in Southwest.

The recommendations were made after John Orcutt, a Southwest resident and motorcycle owner, addressed the assembly last week on inadequate parking for motorcycles in Southwest.

Transportation Committee, which would allow motorcycle parking near the Washington dormitory, as well as better lighting for the present motorcycle parking area. Motorcycle parking near the Kennedy dormitory in the future was also a possibility, said Budreau.

The assembly appointed judges to the Student Government Association Judiciary which hears cases involving University grievances. Susan Langdon was appointed as a judge, and Steven Moylan and Andrew Prescott were appointed co-judges.

The appointments of Kevin O'Rourke, Maria DaRosa, and Risa Freeman were made to the Southwest Budget Committee, which helps finance the Southwest Residential College.

The assembly passed a resolution to charge 25 cents an hour for the use of the computer terminals located in the Hampden Student Center. The computer terminals are funded in part by the SWA, and revenue generated from the charge will be used to expand terminal operation hours.

The Assembly voted to refer to their Finance Committee a proposal by guest speaker Mark Frank to sponsor a contest involving Southwest bands. The proposed "Battle of the Bands" would include bands made up of University students, and would be held in the Hampden Student Center. "This would be a chance for local talent at UMass to get out," said Frank.

Steven Mazzola of Southwest radio station WZZZ told the assembly that the station can air announcements of dormitory and student organization functions, especially those relating to the Southwest area.

FOUR SEASONS
Molson Golden ----------10.99
Miller btl----------7.99
Bud btl----------7.99
Tuborg Dark btl----------6.99
Lucky Lager btl----------4.99
Mr. Boston Vodka 1.75----------8.99
Old Crow Bourbon 1.75----------11.99
Franzia Wine a full 4 litre----------4.99
Rosegarden Liebfraumilch 750 ml ---2.49
Arrow Peppermint Schnapps 750 ml 4.99
Wines/Liquors
Open 9-11 PM
rte.9, hadley, ma./584-8174
in front of the malls

CAMPUS TRAVEL CENTER
$AVE
30 - 50%
By Booking Early
Seats Limited
Campus Travel Center
Campus Center Univ. of Mass
Amherst, Mass 545-0500

ATTENTION
Departmental Graduate Student Organizations
The Graduate Student Senate is accepting applications for REVENUE SHARING FUNDS from Departments who have elected their senators.
For more information and to pick up your application forms please contact Michael Pazyra, GSS Treasurer, 919 Campus Center 545-2896.
Deadline is November 21

STEEPLE JACKS
Home Cooked Food
at its Finest
Breakfast-Lunch 6-2 pm
Located in the
Belly of Sunderland

The rusty nail Inn
Thurs & Fri Oct. 16 & 17th
Reggae Music
Loose Caboose
& I-tones
coming Nov 6 George Thorogood and the Destroyers
Sat. Oct 18
FAT
&
JUSTIN
Rt 47 Sunderland MA 665-4937

Did you Know?
At one of the nicest places in Town on a Sunday afternoon you can
MIKE'S WESTVIEW CAFE
you'll never forget you've been here
1. make your own sandwich (as high as you want)
2. Buy 2 12 oz. bottles of Old Mil beer
3. Watch the Pats Football game on Two TV's and relax all for $1.00 That's Incredible!
Oops! We're Sorry! Last Sunday we ran out of food! Promise it won't happen again. Come back this Sunday, have twice as much!
Friday Afternoon Happy Hour -
Free Smorgy w/Hot Dishes NO COVER

THE UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AT AMHERST
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
TONIGHT!
presents
. . .the kind of musical experience a listener may hope to have once or twice in a lifetime." London Observer
THE CLEVELAND QUARTET

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 17, 1980 8 PM
Tickets now on sale at the Fine Arts Center Box Office open noon-5 pm, M-F (413) 545-2511. Mail orders, phone reservations, group dinner-theater arrangements available.
$8, 7, 6 General Public
$7, 6, 5 Senior Citizens
$4, 3.50, 3 UMass Students

Editorial/Opinion

Letters

Zionism 'far from being racist'

To the Editor:

Taleb Bizri's hypocritical allegations in his letter, "Zionism Is Racism," (Collegian 9/26) must not be permitted to stand.

As a propagandist for the Palestine Liberation Organization, Bizri reveals his own racism when he complains that he has received a threatening phone call, yet offers not one drop of sympathy for innocent, Jewish children killed in cold blood by his boastful compatriots in the name of "Liberation."

Anyone of Arab heritage who equates Zionism with racism and genocide attempts to turn history upside down, and displace his own guilt with this propagandist lie.

There is no parallel in Jewish or Zionist history to compare with Arab enslavement of Black Africa. The capture of Kunte Kinte, in Alex Haley's historical novel "Roots," by white American slavers was the depiction of an exception to the rule. White slavers didn't have to capture Blacks. They bought them from the Arabs who controlled the slave trade of West Africa long after America's Civil War ended slavery in the United States. The Black people of West Africa had been subjugated by Arab conquerors who destroyed Black culture and forced Kunte Kinte's ancestors to kneel down to a foreign God: Allah.

Far from being racist, Zionism—the 2000 year old national liberation and self-determination movement of the most persecuted people on Earth—is committed to the freedom and equality of all people. In 1902, Theodore Hertzl, the founder of modern Zionism, in his definitive book "Alt-Neuland," wrote:

"There is still one problem of racial misfortune unsolved. The depths of that problem, in all their horror, only a Jew can fathom. I mean the negro problem . . . Think of the hair-raising horrors of the slave trade. Human beings, because their skins are black, are stolen, carried off, and sold. Their descendants grow up in alien surroundings despised and hated because their skin is differently pigmented. I am not ashamed to say though I may be thought ridiculous, now that I have lived to see the restoration of the Jews, I should like to pave the way for the restoration of the Negroes."

It is this heartfelt, powerful commitment to human freedom by Hertzl and Zionism that Taleb Bizri fears, because the simple purity of its democratic spirit threatens Pan-Arab Imperialism over the Middle East and Africa.

"Tell a lie that is big, often enough, and soon it shall be believed," said Joseph Goebbels, the Propaganda Chief of the German Nazis who destroyed European Jewry. This is the dictum behind Bizri's PLO lies about the victims of the Nazis who rose from the ashes of the Holocaust and went home to Palestine.

Cuelly, by accusing Zionism of racism Arab propagandists like Bizri, know they foment anti-semitism, the oldest form of racism. For is it not anti-semitic, and racist, to single out Jews for death in Paris, Munich, Rome, and Tel Aviv? Is it not anti-semitic, and racist, when 12 million Arabs vow to destroy three million Jews? Is it not anti-semitic and racist when 21 Arab Muslim states vow to make room for yet another Arab state by annihilating the one small state that is Jewish in their midst?

Taleb Bizri failed to point out—in his propagandistic hogwash regarding Israel and South Africa—that Jordan (a nation run by Palestinian Arabs) sold an entire tank brigade to South Africa, and that many European nations trade with South Africa. Even some Third World nations, including Black African states, quiety trade with South Africa, not because they support apartheid, but, as is the case with Israel, out of dire economic necessity. Israel has condemned South African racism and consistently voted against it at the United Nations. Furthermore, there is a significant Jewish population in South Africa th does what it can to fight racism. Helen Suzman, a South African Jew whose struggles against the forces of apartheid is known throughout the world, symbolizes the anti-racist valor of the Jewish spirit in every land where Jews reside.

Is it not anti-semitic and racist to only single out Jews who trade with South Africa?

Is it ludicrous to think that a tiny Jewish state is capable of committing genocide against its vast Arab neighbors. But the PLO has never changed its covenant to destroy "the Zionist entity." For them Israel doesn't exist. Is this not genocide in word as well as in deed?

Zionism has become the code word for Jew among political anti-semites like Taleb Bizri. Readers of the Collegian and NUMMO must not be fooled by his idealistic slogans as he fans the embers of hatred. All he truly believes in is force, and that is his most dangerous hypocricy.

Lou Golden
Waban, MA

Not birth control but self-control

To the Editor:

This letter is in response to the article concerning Fr. Quigley of the Newman Center (Collegian 10/15). In the article Fr. Quigley sanctions contraception. Also cited was a survey that showed 71 percent of Catholic priests agreed with him. These so called liberal clergy seem to be of the opinion that it's somehow better to preach watered down Christianity to a full church than to preach true Christianity to the righteous few. Wrong is still wrong even if everyone is wrong.

I would tell these birth control advocates to try a little self control. By advocating birth control, these clergymen are obviously advocating fornication, and here's what the Bible has to say about that:

"This I say then, walk in the Spirit, and ye shall not fulfill the lust of the flesh. For the flesh lusteth against the Spirit, and the Spirit against the flesh: and these are contrary the one to the other: so that ye cannot do the things that ye would."

—Galatians 5:16, 17

In moral quandries, I always rely on the greatest teacher this world will ever know — Jesus Christ. What would Jesus say? If we lived like him (which is what Christ vanity is all about) we wouldn't have to consider contraception, let alone endorse it.

Mark F. Moran
Amherst

Southside Johnny, and his band the Asbury Jukes, will perform at the Fine Arts Center November 2 at 8 p.m. Tickets go on sale Monday. (See related story.)

Preview:
Chartbusters and Asbury Jukes come to UMass

By Timothy Tonner
Collegian Correspondent

Students will get the chance to see two superb rock acts when the Union Program Council brings Robin Lane and the Chartbusters and Southside Johnny and the Asbury Jukes to the University.

The Chartbusters, a successful New Wave band popular for their hit "When Things Go Wrong," will perform at 8 p.m. Wednesday Oct. 26 at the Student Union Ballroom with special guest Signal, with guitarist Michael Gregory Jackson, a Northampton resident featured in the October issue of Guitar Player.

The following Sunday, Nov. 2 at 8 p.m., the Asbury Jukes will bring their dynamic act to the UMass Fine Arts Center.

Best known for their hits "I Don't Want to Go Home," "It Ain't the Meat (It's the Motion)," and the Bruce Springsteen favorite "The Fever," the Asbury Jukes have played on campus before enthusiastic crowds many times.

Opening for the Asbury Jukes will be Beaver Brown, a popular Springsteen-styled band who performed at the Hatch two weeks ago before a rowdy sold-out crowd.

Tickets for the Chartbusters show will go on sale today at For the Record in Amherst, TIX and Union Records. The cost will be $4 for students with a valid I.D. and $5.50 for the general public.

Asbury Jukes tickets will go on sale Monday to validated students for $6.50, $7 and $7.50 and to the general public for $7.50, $8 and $8.50 at Main St. Records and Platterpus Records in Northampton,and the Music Store in Greenfield in addition to the aforementioned locations.

Review:
Coast to Coast goes nowhere

By Robert B. Cargill
Collegian Staff

Coast to Coast takes its feature pricipals, Robert Blake and Dyan Cannon, across the country via a bludering, long-distance chase, but as for their performances, it never takes them anywhere.

Blake, known widely for his television character Baretta, is Charlie Callahan, a stereotypical truck driver (callous, obstinate, and ridiculously rugged) who reluctantly takes on a psychoneurotic woman (Cannon) as his passenger. Cannon, as Madie Levrington, is escaping incarceration in an insane asylum, a reaction to her husband's all-out efforts to put her there to save him from paying alimony. The resulting action is about as disarrayed as Cannon's golden mane.

Cannon's depiction of a mentally anguished, agitated and confused doctor's wife is at least, amusing, and she does manage moments of proficient acting. Cannon is sometimes splendid as the vexatious and whining Mrs. Levrington, but her character is overwrought, not only to Callahan the trucker, but to us, the moviegoers. So what if Madie has problems (and Cannon is great at telling us so); no one wants to listen to a stark, raving lunatic for 95 minutes even if it is a gorgeous Dyan Cannon.

As for Blake, he is merely adequate in his role, employing the same behavior that made him so popular on television. In the film's one love scene, it's difficult to believe Callahan is real, except when asked whether he's ever "made an angel in the snow" by the fluttery Madie fervently frolicking in the cold stuff, creating (in original post-coital fashion) one of those molds excitable children like to make. His reply? "I think I just did."

Solar energy conference begins Monday

By Chuck Kilfoye
Collegian Staff

Due to its location, and the interest of local residents the University of Massachusetts will host a week long solar energy conference beginning Monday.

"The conference, "Passive Solar 80," is being sponsored by the International Solar Energy Society and the New England Solar Energy Association (NESEA) in conjunction with local solar power factions.

"This is the fifth annual solar energy conference to be held by ISES," said Connie Krueger of the UMass Cooperative Extension Office. "Each year it is held in a different part of the United States. The Amherst area was selected this year because there is a lot of energy things happening in the New England area and because there is a big incentive for solar power in this region," said Krueger.

"The conference is comprised of four smaller separate little conferences," said NESEA coordinator Gale Kennedy. "On Monday, Women In Solar Energy (WISE) will hold seminars and workshops; there will also be an air envelope house workshop and a Builders and Remodelers seminar," Kennedy said. "Most of these events will be held in various rooms throughout the Campus Center, said Kennedy.

In addition to 120 speakers on solar power, ISES has provided for 130 exhibits displaying the lates advance in solar energy. "The seminars will mostly be geared to beginners who want to learn more about solar energy," said Kennedy. "It will give builders and remodelers a chance to get together and discuss the latest technology," said Kennedy.

A registration fee is necessary for participation in the week long conference. The cost runs between $50 and $100 to attend each workshop and seminar, which last for one to two day periods, according to the "Passive Solar 80" registration booklet.

"The money made from the conference goes to ISES and is used to sponsor more solar events," said Krueger. "If students wish to attend the conference but cannot afford the fee they can volunteer their time to work at the conference and be allowed to attend it at no cost," said Krueger.

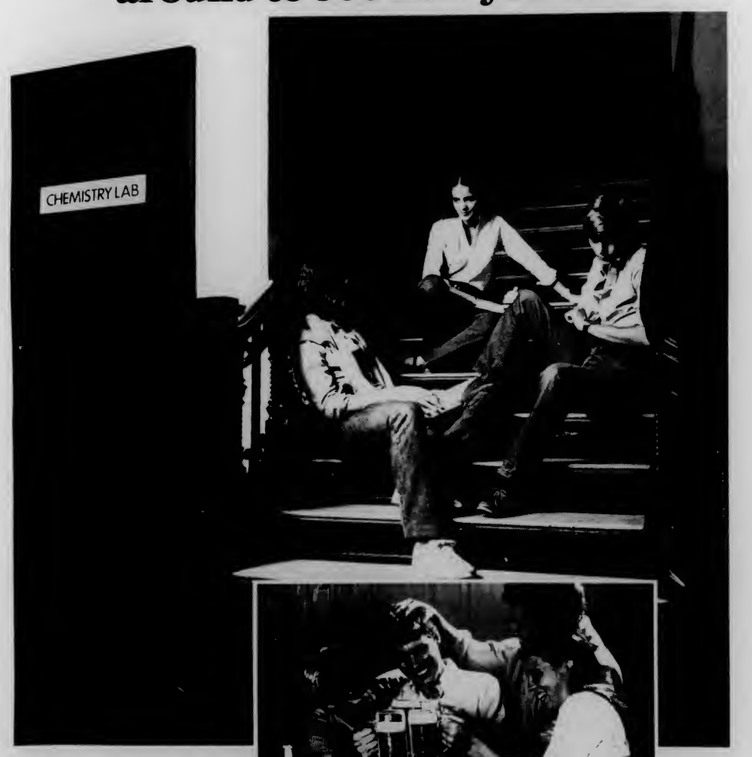
Susan Dolan, publicity coordinator for WISE explained that there would be six "hands-on" workshops dealing with construction of solar energy units.

How's Your Aim?
Enter the Cheshire "English Pub" Beer 1980 Dart Championships and find out! Your team may win $1,000 cash plus 5 10-speed Raleigh English Racers! See ad in this issue or call Mibsy Brooks at The Phoenix.
536-5390.

NOT JUST A DISCO DANCE
REGGAE
NEW WAVE
DISCO
FUNK
ROCK
MUZIK BY MARIO
LIGHT BY BOB DWELLEY
SATURDAY, OCT. 18 UMASS 9:00 pm
CAMPUS CENTER 10th FLOOR $1.50

Got something on your mind? Let people know in a letter to the Editor

Friends wish you luck on a big exam. Good friends stick around to see how you did.



They say they were just hanging around killing time and by the way, "How did you do?" You tell them a celebration is in order and that you're buying the beer. "Look," one of them says, "If you did that well, buy us something special." Tonight, let it be Löwenbräu.

Löwenbräu. Here's to good friends.
1980 Born Imported in U.S.A. by Miller Brewing Company, Milwaukee, Wisconsin

PSYCHOTHERAPY:
Individuals, couples, families. Sliding fee scale.
Psychological Services Center
545-0041

Deerfield Drive-In Theatre
Route 5 & 10
South Deerfield, MA
Tel. 665-8746
FRI-SAT-SUN
Oct. 17-18-19
FEMALE ATHLETES
also
V-THE HOT ONE
Showtime 7:30
Police to check IDs
under 18 not admitted

Irish ruins: The moody remains of greatness

In Ruins: The Once Great Houses Of Ireland (Knopf $22.50)
Photographs by Simon Marsden, Edited by Duncan McLaren

by Robert A. Huffman
Collegian Staff

In Ruins contains forty-one photographs of the stone remains of houses, castles, and abbeys in Ireland. The book makes no pretense of coming close to cataloguing all of Ireland's ruins, nor is it meant to be a textbook of history or architecture. In Ruins is, rather, a playground for the imagination.

The brief text amounts to little more than a general introduction and a caption for each photo. Editor Duncan McLaren provides the date of each building's construction, as well as the date of its destruction, desertion, or other reason for its present state. McLaren also sketches what went on between those years; stories triumphant and tragic, though now only whispered reminiscences of crumbling gargoyles and pilasters. Wisely, however, he leaves most of the history of these barren edifices to one's own imagination. Captions like "Down these stairs came the Countess of Bandon to join her house party for dinner" accompany images of abandoned rubble, and lead one to dream what it must have been like to live in a castle.

It is sobering indeed to realize that over half of these desolate relics, many of them former architectural gems, were destroyed during the revolutions of this century. On the other hand, Oliver Cromwell, whose destructive influence is evident throughout the British Isles, is responsible for the ruin of many of these grim monuments during his purges in the seventeenth century. Most depressing (and least romantic) though, is the most splendid home in this book — the neo-classical Kenure Park. Kenure Prk was torn down in 1978 to "make way for the construction of council houses." Other ruins stand as reminders of the follies of their erstwhile owners—men and women who succumbed to gambling, drinking, greed, or insanity.

Photographer Simon Marsden capture his subjects in true gothic fashion, enhancing their mysterious, romantic qualities by framing them with dark clouds and wizened, boney trees. Most of these dilapidated antiquities suffer the same degradation as Mount Shannon, where "the drawing room no longer has silk on the walls of gilt furnishings; ivy hangs there now, and large brown cows move through the open walls."

The only real problem with In Ruins (aside from McLaren's mistaking ionic columns for doric on page 12) is Marsden's reliance on brown photo tinting. While some of the pictures, such as the thirteenth century Danganbrack Tower or the once magnificent Castleboro House benefit from this treatment, the effect of everything looking like one's grandmother's black and whites gets predictable, and details are obscured. Nonetheless, the tinting does lend an eerie unity to the photos, propelling the reader from page to page, lost in a forgotten past.

Books

Feel lost and alone? Join the Collegian and make friends

Everything for Halloween
Check Our LOW Prices
Choose full head masks or create your own unique costume with these:

SPOOKTACULAR SELECTIONS
THEATRICAL MAKEUP, COLORED HAIRSPRAY GREASE PAINTS, TOOTH OUT, BEARDS FEET, HANDS, HATS, SPIRIT GUM, STAGE BLOOD, MUSTACHES, NOSES, FANGS, TEETH, WITCHES' HATS AND BROOMS, WIGS, HEAD PIECES LIQUID LATEX, STAGE WARTS, SPOCK EARS, STRANGE SPECS, ARROW THRU HEAD, DEVILS HORNS AND TAIL, BUNNY EARS AND TAIL AND A VARIETY OF SPECIALTY ITEMS

MOROSE MASQUERADES
MR. LURCH, UNCLE VAL, CHEWBACCA, ALIAS MR. HIDE, DARTH VADER, BIGFOOT, VAMPIRE, WITCH, DEAMON, SKULLHEAD, WOLFMAN, WEREWOLF, OLD TIMER, DRAGON FACE, DEATH CYBORG

NEW ADDITIONS FULL MASKS
YODA-UGNOUGHT-SPOCK-VULCAN MASTER-KLINGOH
NEW FOR KIDS
SESAME STREET FULL COSTUMES
FLAME RETARDANT
open daily and Saturday 8-5:15 Thurs. nite until 9:00pm
H.L. CHILDS & SON
25 State St. Northampton

Spirit Haus
The full-line liquor store that's close and has convenient parking.
CHECK OUR WEEKLY SPECIALS ON BEERS, LIQUORS AND WINE.
Largest selection of wines in Amherst; friendly, knowledgeable staff.
KEGS - ICE - CUPS - SNACKS
338 College Street. Open till 11 p.m.
Telephone 253-5384

SALE!
ONE DAY ONLY... SATURDAY, OCT. 18
JERGAS
ORIGINALLY: 12.95
save 5.00
SAT. ONLY... 7.95
FACES
A Store-full of Ideas
Downtown Amherst /Open 10-6, Mon.-Sat.

SALE
Fri & Sat only
Oct. 17 & 18
20% savings storewide!

the SHOE BIN
187 n. pleasant st., amherst, ma.

GREAT GIFTS
Lots of NEW CLOTHING
Daily 10 AM - 6 PM
THE MERCANTILE
AMHERST CARRIAGE SHOPS

PIZZARAMA
355 College St.

M-Th 11-1:30 AM
F-Sun 11:2:30 AM
FREE DELIVERY
253-3808 256-0115

ANNOUNCING
THE CHESHIRE
"ENGLISH PUB" BEER
1980 DART CHAMPIONSHIPS

Imported by N.P. Beverages, Inc., Lawrence, Mass.

$1,000 PLUS FIVE 10-SPEED RALEIGH ENGLISH RACERS TO WINNING TEAM!
(Sponsored by the Boston Phoenix and Cheshire "English Pub" Beer. All proceeds go to Muscular Dystrophy Association)

THE PRIZES
• Winning Team
• Semi-finalist Teams
• First 50 Teams Who Enter
$1,000 plus five 10 Speed Raleigh English Racers.
Engraved Silver Revere Bowl to each team.
Cheshire "English Pub" Beer Dart Championships T-shirt to each member.

CONTEST LOCATIONS

Monday Meets
11/3, 10, 17
Molly's
161 Brighton Ave.
Allston, MA.

Wednesday Meets
11/5, 12, 19
OXFORD ALE HOUSE
Harvard Square
Cambridge, MA.
ONE McKINLEY SQUARE BOSTON
1 McKinley Square
Boston, MA.
Plumbley's off the common
Main Street
Amherst, MA.

Thursday Meets
11/6, 13, 20
GLADSTONE'S
1239 Commonwealth Ave.
Allston, MA.
BOMPAS
Fenway-Boylston
1271 Boylston
Boston, MA.
Starting time is 7 PM at all locations

Bicycles Courtesy Of:
WHEEL WORKS
Bicycles and cross country ski sales, service, accessories and clothing
ACE WHEEL WORKS
2064 Massachusetts Avenue, Cambridge
MYSTIC VALLEY WHEEL WORKS
889 Main Street (Rte. 38), Winchester

HOW YOU ENTER
Fill out coupon below or call Mibsy Brooks, Boston Phoenix for details 536-5390

Mail To: 1980 Cheshire "English Pub" Beer
Dart Championships
c/o Boston Phoenix
100 Massachusetts Avenue
Boston, Mass. 02115

TEAM CAPTAIN/SPOKESMAN: _____
TELEPHONE: ( ) _____
TEAM MEMBERS: (1) _____
(2) _____
(3) _____
(4) _____
Alternate (5) _____
CONTEST SITE: First Choice _____
Second Choice _____

To enter simply fill out this coupon. Employees of the Boston Phoenix or Cheshire Beer and its advertising agencies may not enter. All contestants must be of amateur status and be over 20 years old. All matches will be judged by a Boston Phoenix representative and all rulings are final. Please enclose a tax-deductible entry fee of $5.00 per team and make check payable to the Muscular Dystrophy Association. All entries must be postmarked by October 28, 1980. No duplications or substitutions. Team Captain will be notified which contest site to report to with team.

High school bands compete

Staff photo by Paul Price.

The winner of this weekend's "Music Bowl" high school band competition may have the chance to appear at the halftime show of the Orange Bowl football game to be held in Miami this January.

The competition to be held at Alumni Stadium at the University of Massachusetts is one of ten being held around the nation said publicity director of the UMass band Eric Snoek

Ten bands will be competing for the opportunity to travel to Florida. Local bands included in the competition are: the Agawam High School Marching Band, the Chicopee Comprehensive Marching Colts, the Chicopee High School Marching Pacers, and the South Hadley High School Marching Pacers.

Other bands from Massachusetts are: the Blackstone Melville Marching Chargers, the Dennis-Yarmouth Dolphins and the East Brunswick High School band. Out of state bands include: the Bunnel High School Marching Band from Stratford, Conn., the Harbour Creek Marching Huskies from Pennsylvania, and the Mammonton High School Blue Devils from New Jersey.

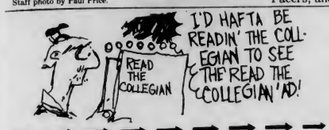
The Beatrice Foods Co., sponsor of the Music Bowl, will donate half of the proceeds from the gate to the Belchertown State School Friends Association. The remaining proceeds will be split up between the competing bands, Snoek said.

The winner of this weekend's competition will compete against the victors of the nine other competitions to determine which band will appear in the Orange Bowl.

UMass band director George Parks, program director of the event, said the bands will be scored on their musical performance, their marching skills and the bands' overall performance and coordination.

The first band will be stepping off the starting line at 7 p.m. The UMass Minuteman band will also give a guest performance.

Ticket prices are $4 for adults; $2 for students, and children under six will be admitted free.



"The Pink Panther"
at Mahar Auditorium
Friday, October 17th
7-9-11 Admission $1.00
sponsored by Alpha Chi Omega

家酒園南湖
Hunan Garden Restaurant
MANDARIN SZECHUEN CUISINE

"The Best Chinese Food"
Luncheon Specials Dinner Specials
Take-Out Service Full Cocktail Menu
Sun.-Thurs. 11:30 a.m.-10:00 p.m.
Fri. & Sat. 11:30 a.m.-11:00 p.m.
10 Belchertown Rd., at Route 9, Amherst
256-0251 256-0252

Sylvan Area Government Elections

Brown/Cashin/MacNamara will now accept nominations for officers—

President
Vice President
Treasurer

For further information and nomination papers contact your House Presidents
Nominations will close Monday, October 27th
Elections will be held Wednesday, October 29th

Cut Class

Next Week

Pick your favorite ArtCarved class ring. Cut it out. Keep it with you for a while. Get an idea what it's like to own the ring that says, "I did it!"

Then, next week, have the genuine article fitted by the ArtCarved representative visiting campus. For one week only, you'll have our newest selection of ring styles to choose from — and a specialist who will make sure the fit is perfect. Plus, there will be some incredible ArtCarved offers to cut the cost of your class ring . . .

CUT your ties with the past during our "Great Ring Exchange!" Trading your old 10K gold high school ring for a new ArtCarved college ring could save you as much as $90.

CUT the cost of a traditional or contemporary Siladium ring to just $74.95 — a special ArtCarved "Ring Week" discount up to $20.

CUT a smashing figure with a women's class ring from our exciting new "Designer Diamond Collection."

Any way you cut it, next week is the best week to select your ArtCarved class ring!

ARTCARVED COLLEGE RINGS
. . . SYMBOLIZING YOUR ABILITY TO ACHIEVE.
$20 Deposit Oct. 22, 23, 24 in the Campus Center the University Store
Deposit required. MasterCharge or VISA accepted.
© ArtCarved College Rings

Advancement Does Not Require An Advanced Degree

You can spend another two to three years in graduate school or you can turn four years of liberal arts education into a practical, challenging and rewarding career in just three months—as an Employee Benefit Specialist

Benefits today amount from 30 to 35 percent of wages and salaries. Recent pension legislation has created even more demand for trained specialists. As an Employee Benefit Specialist you'll be called upon to excercise your own judgement, initiative and intelligence in a challenging, professional environment with progressive responsibility.

The Institute for Employee Benefits Training is the first and most prestigious school in the United States, training Employee Benefits and Pension Specialists. This is a dynamic, growing career field in which advancement does not require an advanced degree. Our graduates are in demand by law firms, pension consulting firms, insurance companies, banks, and personnel and benefits departments of corporations. The Institute's Placement Service will place you too. If not, you will be eligible for a substantial tuition refund.

Furthermore, you will earn graduate credit towards a Master of Arts in Legal Studies through Antioch School of Law for all course work completed at The Institute.

If you're a senior of high academic standing and looking for a meaningful career, contact your Placement Office for our catalog and arrange to have an interview with our representative.

We will visit your campus on: Tuesday, October 21

The Institute for Employee Benefits Training
235 South 17th Street
Philadelphia, Pennsylvania 19103
(215) 732-6600
(Operated by Para-Legal, Inc.)
Approved by The American Bar Association
Programs Earn Full Credit Toward M.A. in Legal Studies through Antioch School of Law.

Collegian Classifieds

To place a Collegian Classified
•Come to Collegian Office CC 113
•8:45 to 3:45 Mon-Fri
•Classified deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day

Collegian Classified Rates
•15c per word
•Student rate 10c per word
•Cash in advance
•5 consecutive days 5 % discount
•Phone number FREE

AUTO FOR SALE

1972 Grand Ville Pontiac excellent condition $1300 or BO call 549-4780

1974 Mustang 2+2 stand. great running condition, good tires, clean, must sell 1500 or best offer 546-6108

72 Fiat 124 Sedan FM-AM good condition great mpg $1000 call 665-7530 eves

Ford Granada 1976 phone Sanjeen tel 549-1112

69 VW exc. cond. red. tires must see 600 or BO call Chris 256-0353

Must Sell Immediately 72 Ford Galaxie 500 needs some work Ric 549-0118 $250 BO

71 Volkswagon runs good $300 or best offer call Tim 549-6744

DISC JOCKEY

Professional Disc Jockey quality sound reasonable rates try callingRandy 546-7013

FOR RENT

PA system Echo mics Rhodes electric piano ideal for bands coffeehouses partys Jim 546-7517

FOR SALE

Large refrigerator for sale 546-6320

Doberman Puppies for sale with AKCpapers 546-6320

Sony direct drive Turntable Stanton EEE cart $100 665-7154

Classical Guitar $50 or BO 546-9097

15 chord autoharp Schmidt, in excellent condition $75 includes case Dave 665-3910

Timberland Boots lace up to knee womens size 7 In v good condition $85 or best offer 546-6134

Guitar—Yamaha G55, classical acoustic, mint condition, new strings, case. Call Stu 256-8616

One pair new KLH 2-way speakers great condition $200 or BO Chris 546-6399

Hockey Skates: CCM Tacks - size 8, CCm goal skates - size 10, Blue Bauer Supreme size 9½ $50 each call Brian at 253-5201

12 string Acoustic Epiphone Guitar w/hard shell case $200 or best offer Nat 546-5788

Onkyo TX2500 MK11 Receiver 40 watts $200 or best offer Nat 546-5788

Yamaha YP-211 Turntable Runs well new cartridge and stylus $100 or BO call Carl 584-3608

Woman's Leather Coat $40 sweater coat $20 call 546-7264

IN DASH AM-FM stereo cassette deck First $50 takes it Paul 665-3024

3-piece suits (sizes 38-39) in excellent condition call 256-0626

Typewriter Olivetti 83DL perfect $190 253-2234

Full size bed call 253-7986 evenings

Long Leather Coat (9) and boots (7) call Charlene 253-2004

Gift Idea: Portrait Drawings; call dennis Delap 665-2972

Turntable—BIC 940 good condition with Empire cartridge $50 or best offer call Jay or Dave at 584-4594

Save 75 Dollars on Graphite Tennis Racket Spaulding Centurian brand new sells for 160 unstrung will sell for 100 strung 545-2154

FOUND

Found near Main Library 10-14-80 University of Alaska admissions envelope Penny Simpson pick up at Collegian Office

Found Snoopy key chain w/room & car keys in Southwest call 546-7450

HELP WANTED

Overseas Jobs — Summer/year round Europe, S. America, Australia, Asia all fields $500-$1200 monthly expenses paid Sightseeing. Free info. write IJC Box 52-MA2 Cornona Del Mar CA 92625

Wanted part-time radiology technician, for multi-specialty group practice please call 256-8561 ext 248 M-F 8 am-4 pm

Publicity Coordinator (work study, 5-15 hours per week) for films and special events produced by Governors Program Council. Job descriptions at 817 Campus Center. Apply by 4 pm, Oct. 20

Off campus work study position in arts and crafts salesroom. 12-5 p.m. Mon. Wed. and Fri. $4.00/hr. Leverett Craftsmen and Artists 549-6871

Typesetter Job Available 10-15 hrs week at 3.10/hr Workstudy or non workstudy. Deadline for applications is Friday noon. Apply Rm 420 SUB typing skills necessary! Previous typesetting helpful

INSTRUCTION

Expert Mathematics-Statistics Teaching and Tutoring Help for math anxiety and for all courses. Individual or low small group rates. John 549-6230 or 253-2036

ESL Classes (English Second Language) space still available. Oct - Nov 14. Elementary 12:30-2:30. Intermediate 3-5 MTuThF. Next session: Nov 20-Dec 16. People's Institute, Northampton. Information and registration: 584-3956

JODI'S BIRTHDAY

Jo—May this be the beginning of a great Birthday weekend. Happy Birthday. We love you. . .your roommates PS. Channel 27 Worcester is filming

Jodi, I'd take you out to eat but somebody ruined my car. Have a Happy day. Love always Bob

Happy B-Day. Go absolutely wild and enjoy. Love always Joani

Happy Birthday you hot dump! Love Barbara

Jodi—Wishing you a happy 21st. Love always Jeri

Marc always love Birthday Happy Happy—Jodi

Jodi—Springsteen was great! Thanks. Happy Birthday. Love always Dan

Rizzo you can put my hair up in a ponytail anytime. Happy Birthday Love Eric

Jodi I bet everyone that my birthday comment would be the longest one written to you so I have to think of a lot to say but I can't. Oh well have a Happy Birthday. I love ya. Love Joe Jodi, How bout you and me getting together for ahhh. . .a couple of drinks, as friends of course. happy B-day Riz. Love you always Monty

LEGAL SERVICES

Attorney Jason Rosenthal reasonable rates Days 584-4285, Evenings 253-7617

LOST

Lost - Davis Tennis Racket, 10/9 Reward Bob 6-9268

Lost at Poor Dick's last Thurs Gold rope chain bracelet. Great sentimental value Reward offered! Call Emily 6-7354 (no questions asked)

Lost: Wallet Fri please return ID's to CC lost & found important! or call 253-9472

Keychain resembling safety pin reward offered sentimental value call Michelle 6-9282

To anyone who knows what happened to all the glass pieces taken from Munson Annex last Fri or Sat 10/10 10/11. That was my semester work no questions asked Please call Liz 256-0297 or 545-2750

Lost Gold Cross call 665-7923

10/12 single UMass key on string please return to CC Information Desk

Help!! Lost tan corduroy blazer with patches on sleeves. Please call 6-8287

Lost Radio Shack Calculator Wednesday PM SUB Joe 586-8564

MONTREAL EXPRESS

They're still seats available call 665-3024 for further information Paul DeLuca $69.00

PERSONALS

Undergrad Pol. Sci. Assoc. interested in becoming member? Sign-up Rm 422 Thompson

Must place AKC sable male Collie gd stud watchdog loveable call Nina 6-8890

Mornin' Handsom! P.S. you don't rule the top

Senator HOWARD GOLDMAN you are a legend to the women of Webster

Newman Club Pot Luck Supper Sunday Oct 19th at Newman 530 bring food or donation all welcome

Santi: Happy Birthday Johnny! You're out of your onions but we love you anyway R. and D.

Bear 10/19 will be one fantabulous year lets keep going if you want, love you millions, Knucklebrains

HHP—Happy Anniversary my love! Who ever would have believed? (me!) Forever Yours, DMF

The Queen has abdicated!!! Geek servants apply now to the new Crown Prince

Marcher Dadgum Headers, Esad lets get hammered congrats Ross & The General

Mary C—The boys from the sex palace miis you

Chris P. love those green eyes—Charlie Chaplin

Jay thanx, your the greatest and the first, be up to see you sometime Alex

Ricky—Do we get a group discount rate? We'll be up tonight! Love L&B&M&A&L

Happy Birthday BF 143 always and forever KHT love Sue B

Sick in N Amherst I'm afraid my plan might cut enrollment too drastically. maybe the cure lies in the exchange program

Oh no lucious don't tell us you have an infected toe! A banana a day will help reestablish your equilibrium. Banana! Banana! Banana!

UMMB—This weekend: "Don't Dream It, Be It!!" Godspell is there!!

Need a brother! Delta Chi's little sister program is the answer. For more information call Scott 549-4911 or Tammy 549-4135

RIDE WANTED

To Springfield Ohio on Thanksgiving Weekend Will share $$$ call 542-3011 Martina, keep trying

ROOM WANTED

Two males need two rooms for Spring semester. House or apartment near campus. 546-9613

ROOMMATE WANTED

Quiet, serious, mature person wanted to split two bedroom Southwood apt/cooking privleges bus route 256-6198

Female own room Puffton $130 549-1156

SERVICES

Experienced typist available Fast, neat work, reasonable rates. 546-6439

Typing; Words-Worth, 37 East Pleasant Street, Amherst, 549-1303. Double-spaced text from 95c a page. Justified resumes from $3.50 a page. Telephone dictation line. Overnight rush jobs. Your words are worth it.

Ed's Painting Service—Dorm specialist, high experience, low rates, call 6-5725

Randy's Moving and Hauling—local and long distance at low price 546-5728 546-5726

STICK IT IN YOUR EAR

Stick it in your ear at Silverscape Designs. Free sterilized ear piercing with purchase of studs. Artistic placement of multiples. Silverscape features gifts from glass to gold, and a full repair service, and citizen quartz and mechanical watches. 264 N Pleasant St. Amherst 253-3324

TEMPEST

Hot Rock by Tempest pro party band is now available for bookings. Call Ricky 6-7762

TRAVEL

Florida—The Great Getaway for Spring Break and January Term under $200 round trip jet 256-6704

WANTED

Top Dollars for class rings, gold, sterling, at Wendy's CC Concourse, twice a week*

Highest prices paid for class rings, gold, and silver jewelry. See me before you sell. Daniel Smith, 25 North Pleasant St between Fotomat and Logos, Amherst M-Sat10-6 call 256-0710

$ for S.S. lecture notes or your own if they're good. Any semester Drugs and Society with Park. Call Janet 549-4374

Wanted: Boiling kit for soft contacts, gas stove, sofa 253-7346 after 6 PM

GIG$ UMass Rock & Roll Band seeks dynamic talented male vocalist with high range to add the piece de resistance to this hot combination call now now Ricky 546-7762

Grateful dead Tix any or all nights Radio City Music Hall please call 367-2445

PoliSci Major for help on a paper generous payment 256-6620

Wanted: Springsteen Tickets!! Please call 253-9639

WANTED TO RENT

Will take over lease starting Jan 1 for local 3 bdrm apt call Judy nights 253-5673

2 serious, mature students seek quiet 2 bedroom apartment or house for Spring semester. Must be one bus route near campus. Call between 4 and 10 PM Dan at 546-5349 or Al at 546-6873

OVERSEAS AUTO PARTS

For the most complete line of foreign auto parts and accessories in the Pioneer Valley.

Get an extra 10% off our low prices with this ad.

offer expires Nov. 15, 1980

API®

Zayre Shopping Plaza
Rt 9 Hadley, MA 01305
Tel 253-3403

authorized API distributor ®

FLY

UMASS FLYING CLUB

For Information
Call 549-3800

ONE FOR THE ROAD — Cindy Downing

WELL, FIG'S LATEST LETTER SAYS SHE ARRIVED SAFE IN MASSACHUSETTS...
IT ADDS..."I FIND MYSELF IN A SOMEWHAT PECULIAR SITUATION." WONDER WHAT SHE'S UP TO NOW?
HEY! YOU AT THE URINAL! WOULD YOU MIND KEEPING YOUR BACK TURNED WHILE I GRAB MY TOWEL?
CINDY DOWNING

Under the Influence — by Mike Joyce

GOD I HATE WAITING IN LINES WITH HIM.
HEY! THERE GOES A DOG, ON MY TREE TO!
GRRR! GRRR!
BUT IF I SUDDENLY YANK ON THE LEASH HE COULD FALL DOWN THESE STAIRS!
OH, WHAT THE HELL!
M. Joyce 10/17

Abnormal Psychology — by J. Demskey

WHEN TALKING ABOUT THE TRI-LATERAL COMMISSION THEORY OF AMERICAN AND WESTERN EUROPEAN CAPITALISM, WE USUALLY REFER TO THE PYRAMID THEORY OF DISTRIBUTION OF WEALTH. HOWEVER, I'M GOING TO USE THE TANGENT ONE-OVER-X-SQUARED THEORY.
LOOKING AT THE CROWN COMPARISON WITH THE TAN 1/X² WE SEE THE TOP OF THE PYRAMID IS BECOMING VERY THIN, WHILE THE BOTTOM ON BOTH SIDES OBSCENELY PITS THE X-AXIS. IT IS AS THOUGH THE ORIGINAL PYRAMID HAS COLLAPSED.
THIS MEANS THAT WHILE THOSE PEOPLE REPRESENTED AT THE TOP ARE BECOMING FEWER AND INCREASINGLY RICHER, THOSE PEOPLE REPRESENTED BY THE LINES APPROACHING AND SPREADING ACROSS THE X-AXIS ARE INCREASING AND GETTING POORER ALL THE TIME.
AND MATHEMATICALLY SPEAKING, THE LINES AT THE BOTTOM KEEP SPREADING, AND THE LINES AT THE TOP NEVER MEET THE AXIS, SO NO ONE EVER BECOMES THE POOREST OR RICHEST AND THE WHOLE PATTERN ONLY CONTINUES
WHAT IF SOMEONE DID WIN?
WHAT? ARE YOU STUPID OR DO YOU PRACTICE?! govt
big business
Pyramid tan 1/x²
WEALTH DISTRIBUTION
UTOPIA
SMALL EXTRA MIDDL
Crusader
Hopec
Exxon
WEALTH DISTRIBUTION?

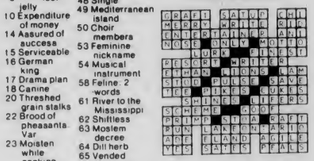
DOONESBURY — by Garry Trudeau

BOY, WHAT A SCARY MOVIE!
YEAH, IT'S PRETTY SCARY, ALL RIGHT..
UNFORTUNATELY, I DON'T THINK WE'VE GOT TIME TO STAY UNTIL THE END..
WHAT? ARE YOU NUTS? LEAVE BEFORE WE FIND OUT WHO KILLED HER?
I ALREADY KNOW. IT WAS THE PSYCHIATRIST.
MICHAEL!
I'M SORRY, J.J. IT'S JUST WE'VE ONLY GOT AN HOUR TO GET DRUNK BEFORE THE CONCERT.
10-17
G B Trudeau

TODAY'S CROSSWORD PUZZLE

UNITED Feature Syndicate

Thursday Puzzle Solved

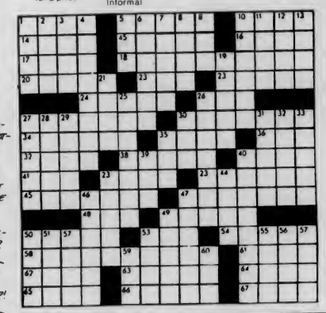


ACROSS

1 God of love
5 ------ -foot jelly
10 Expenditure of money
14 Assured of success
15 Serviceable
16 German king
17 Drama plan
18 Canine
20 Threshed grain stalks
22 Brood of pheasants
Var.
23 Moisten while cooking
24 Respond to stimuli
26 Dismiss slang
27 Local outing, 2 words
30 Hunting dogs
34 Be a fixed element
35 Combatant troops
36 Mike ---- '72 USC QB
37 Fastened with cord
38 Inclined, in Britain
40 Flow out slowly
41 It follows 'printemps'
42 Equips a ship
43 Redemption for a price
45 Dispatching
47 Furniture accessories
48 Single
49 Mediterranean island
50 Choir members
53 Feminine nickname
54 Musical instrument
58 Feline, 2 words
61 River to the Mississippi
62 Shiftless
63 Moslem decree
64 Dill herb
65 Vended
66 Go ---- Engage in combat
67 Headland

DOWN

1 Elect. units
2 Fountain drink
3 Repute
4 Stopped up roof leaks
5 Davis or Grey ---
6 Immediately, 2 words
7 Circumscribe
8 Rushed off
9 Weight of India
10 James B ------ Harvard president
11 Elevator man
12 Office copy informal
13 Actor Franchot ----
19 Reduce in intensity
21 Dam in a canal
25 "Sweet ---------"
26 Telephone operator of old
27 Breaks with the teeth
28 Combine
29 Glistening brightness
30 Do wrong
31 Uneven
32 Barber's tool
33 Appears
35 --- Vegas
39 Breakfast item
40 Toronto native
42 Remove soap suds
44 Concerning, 2 words
46 Ill-fated
47 U.S.A. is ally
49 Tropical American parrot
50 In status quo, 2 words
51 Island off Venice
52 Lotty
53 Ancient arsonist
55 Departed
56 Inspires admiration of, et al
57 Actor Pendleton, et al
59 Remain unused
60 Three Prefix



D.C. Menu

Lunch
Torpedo Grinder
Fried Cod/Tartar Sauce

Basics Lunch
Summer Salad/Syrian Bread
Fried Cod/Tartar Sauce

Dinner
Roast Beef/Au Jus
Seafood Crabmeat Roll
Cheese Strata

Basics Dinner
Seafood Crabmeat Roll
Cheese Strata

Academy of Music
Northampton, Mass.
Only Area Showing
Now, Ends Tues
At 7:00 and 9:00
An exceptional work. With her stubbornness and sincerity she reminded me of a young Katharine Hepburn
Rex Reed
★★★½
My Brilliant Career
G starring Judy Davis
AT THE GATES OF SMITH COLLEGE

Carter willing to meet Iranian Prime Minister; talks unlikely

By Donald M. Rothberg
Associated Press

WINDSOR LOCKS, Conn. — President Carter said yesterday he is willing to meet with Iranian Prime Minister Mohammed Ali Rajai to discuss the fate of the 52 American hostages "if he should be amenable." But Carter's spokesman said the president saw "no real possibility" of such a meeting.

Carter was quick to add that there is "no imminent" prospect of the hostages' release.

Rajai is traveling to New York to participate in the United Nations deliberations on the subject of Iran's war with Iraq. The president was to attend a charity banquet in the city yesterday evening.

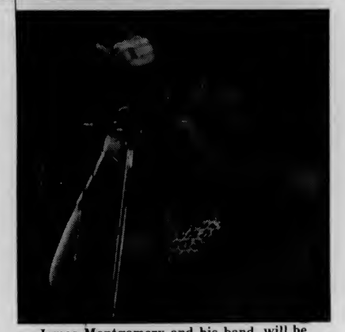
When reporters asked Carter about a meeting between he and Rajai, he said, "There's always a potential. We have not made any arrangements to meet with Mr. Rajai, but if he should be amenable to a meeting we would certainly continue to follow our practice of meeting with any Iranian official who had a possibility of speaking authoritatively for their government."

Carter said a meeting with Rajai might include "myself or Secretary of State Ed Muskie or Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher or whoever."

Asked whether Rajai had expressed any interest in such a meeting, the president said, "I don't know whether he has or not, nor do I have any information that he has."

Later, after the president boarded Air Force One following a campaign appearance, White House Press Secretary Jody Powell told reporters that Carter wanted to add that "I see no real possibility" of a meeting involving the Iranian leader.

Earlier Thursday, Muskie said "the door is open" to negotiations with Iran over the hostages. But he denied any discussion is under way or deal is in the works.



James Montgomery and his band will be performing tonight at the Hatch.

中國語言文化研究

Chinese Language and Cultural Studies
CLCS Offers:
Reasonable expenses * Travel
* Concentrated study in Taiwan
* Extensive course listing
* Full university credit

Accepting applications for all quarters
For Free Pamphet and Counseling:
Chinese Language and Cultural Studies
P.O. Box 15563, Long Beach, CA 90815
Telephone: (213) 597-3361

HOUSING EXEMPTIONS

Spring 1980 Housing Exemption Applications are now available in the Housing Assignment Office, 235 Whitmore. Applications are due no later than FRIDAY OCTOBER 31, 1980.
Applications will not be accepted after this date. Please submit all applications to the Housing Assignment Office, 235 Whitmore. Thank you.

TASTE THE BEER THAT OUTSELLS ALL THE OTHERS IN CANADA: LABATT'S.

Good news!
Labatt's, Canada's No. 1 selling beer, is now imported to the U.S. So, now it's easier to try our Labatt's—and understand the secret of its popularity.
We think you'll discover a taste that's crisp, clean and natural—truly, the beer that tastes as good as the country it comes from.

THINK OF CANADA
THINK OF LABATT'S

P.S. The green Labatt's bottle comes equipped with one of those twist-off tops—which can be rather handy, especially whilst one is otherwise engaged.

© Labatt Importers, Inc. Amherst, N.Y. 1980

To get those great, green, comfortable, cotton doctor's shirts or pants, you don't have to spend a fortune on medical school and your whole life as a doctor anymore. Now just $10 buys the shirt, $12 the pants. They may not bring you a doctor's life of comfort. But they're sure to bring you some comfortable living.

The original comfortable cotton doctor shirt
Shirt $10. Pants $12. S, M, L, XL.
$1.50 postage per order.
number of shirts_____size_____ number of pants_____size_____

Mail to: Surgical Wear
2120 Ocean Avenue
Brooklyn, New York 11229.

Name_____
Address_____
City_____
State_____ZIP_____

BLUE WALL
campus center at u mass

ALL AGES WELCOME
At The Hatch Bar
Friday, Oct. 17
JAMES MONTGOMERY

with Runner
$3.00 Cover Charge

Saturday, Oct. 18
Mission of Burma
$2.00 Cover Charge

Friday Happy Hour
Crazy George's
50's and 60's Rock & Roll
- FREE PRIZES -

Due to renovations, the Bluewall Beverage Service is temporarily located in the Hatch Cafeteria in the Student Union Building.
TOC sticker and valid ID required to purchase alcohol.

UMass splits tri-match

By Maureen Sullivan
Collegian Staff

The women's volleyball team split a tri-match at the University of New Haven Wednesday night, defeating Central Connecticut State College and falling to New Haven.

New Haven, who beat UMass weekend at Southern Connecticut, was much the same case, as New Haven came back from several deficits, including a 9-13 rift in the deciding game, to take the match 15-12, 9-15, 15-13.

"We should've beaten them," said Coach Elaine Marasco, "but we couldn't. We didn't seem to put them away when we needed to."

After losing this match, the Minutewomen rebounded to sweep Central for the second time in a week, 15-6, 15-13.

"We cannot afford to lose to any more teams like New Haven," said Marasco, "New Haven is the team likely to get into the Regionals. They have a good record, and if we don't play like we did against Central, New Haven will go and we'll watch."

UMass will enjoy a weekend off before facing Mount Holyoke Tuesday night.

"We need this weekend," she said, "we have a lot of injuries (including a sprained ankle for Peggy Barber in the New Haven match) and a lot of illness. I hope the time off will get us rolling again.

The JVs will host Harvard University tomorrow at 11:00 a.m. at NOPE gym.

UMass rowers in fall regatta

The UMass men's and women's crew teams will compete in the Head of the Charles Regatta, also called America's Fall Rowing Festival, Sunday in Boston on the Charles River.

The Head of the Charles is the world's biggest single-day regatta and includes 20 events, 800 boats and 3,000 rowers.

UMass will be sending five squads; Youth-8, Championship-8, Mixed-8, Varsity-8 and Varsity-4. The Youth-8 squad came in 6th last year, the best UMass has ever done in the regatta.

UMass booters to battle Campus-Select team

An exhibition soccer game, between the UMass soccer team and the Campus Selects will be played today at 3:30 on the upper soccer field behind Boyden. UMass soccer alumni Tasso Loutsoukos, a forward now with the Chicago Sting of the North American Soccer League, and former UMass goalie Mark Marilla will head the Campus Select Team.

The Minutemen bring some fine talent and skills into this contest, making this an action-packed game.

★ Social thing

continued from page 16

"Oh, Jesus, he said.

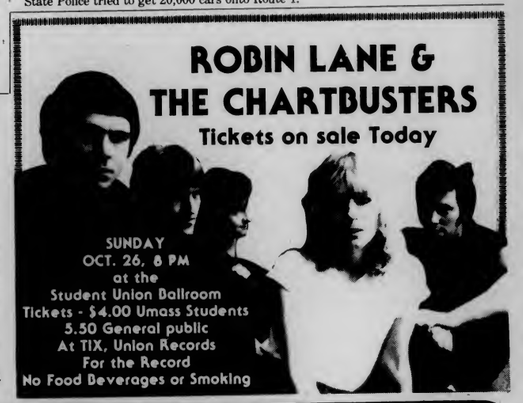
The van, doors ajar, was empty. No coolers. No food. No nothing.

"We looked all around," Freddie D. said, leaning up against a car with his arms folded across is chest. "It had to be kids. They must go through the parking lots during the games and rip off whatever they can. Jesus, I don't mind them stealing the beer, but two of those coolers weren't mine. I borrowed them from friends."

It was cold and smoke billowed around his face as he spoke.

"I guess this what you have to expect when you come to these things, huh?"

Freddie D. got into this van with his father and sat in traffic for two hours while the State Police tried to get 20,000 cars onto Route 1.



KEGS—
BEER—
WINE—LIQUORS

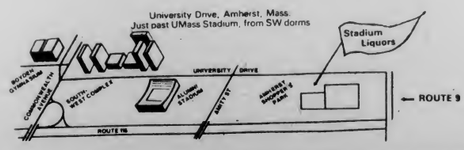
STADIUM
U. Mass.
Amherst
LIQUORS

Catch Our Weekly Specials

Save money—Save gas—Save time
10 a.m. — 253-5595 — til 11 p.m.

Miller	12 oz btl. or can 7.99	Cossack Gin	1.75 liter 8.39
Bud	12 oz b tl. or can 7.99	Algerian Wine	750 mliter 1.99
Miller Light	12 oz btl. or can 7.99	Cribari Chianti	1.5 liter 2.99
Molson	9.90 case 2.75 case	Rose Garden Liebfraumilch	750 ml $1.99
Moosehead	11.50 case 3.00 six	Keller Geister	750 ml $1.99
O'Keefe	11.50 case 3.00	Jim Beam Bourbon	1.75 L 10.99
Lowenbrau	9.50 case 2.50 six	Canadian Mist	1 liter 6.99
Cossack Vodka	1.75 litre 7.99

University Drive, Amherst, Mass.
Just past UMass Stadium, from SW dorms



500—Parking places
Soda—Ice—Munchies

Save money-
-Save gas-
-Save time

Collegian Sports

Minutemen face Maine tomorrow

By Kevin Cullen
Collegian Staff

The game plan, quite frankly, is simple: Contain Lorenzo.

That's exactly what the University of Massachusetts football team will attempt to do tomorrow afternoon in beautiful downtown Orono when they take on the Black Bears of Maine in their second Yankee Conference game this season.

Lorenzo, for those interested, is Lorenzo Bouier, perhaps the best running back in all New England. Bouier, a 6'1" 190-pound sophomore, averages 4.9 yards per carry and 141.8 yards per game. Add to that 851 total yards and five touchdowns in his first six games, and you've got at least one person in that Godforsaken cranberry bog of a state who doesn't stand around and watch the grass grow.

"They're a much improved football team," says UMass head coach Bob Pickett of Maine. "And Bouier is one of the main reasons."

The UMass-Maine rivalry is not exactly the most competitive of matchups. UMass has won 21 of the 26 games, including the last 14 straight. The last time the Black Bears beat UMass (10-8, in 1965) Lyndon Johnson was President and Lorenzo Bouier was five years old.

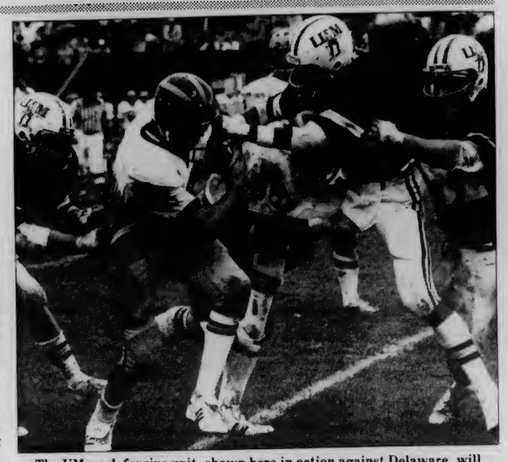
Word is, though, aside from Mr. Bouier, Maine isn't much. They start a freshman at quarterback, have a 3-3 record with all three wins over less-than-mediocre teams (Rhode Island, Lafayette, and the U.S. Merchant Marine Academy) and are averaging just a bit over 12 points per game.

UMass (3-1) is, of course, coming off last week's heartbreaking (I know, I know, cliche — you come up with a better word) loss to Delaware. While no one likes to run up the score — at least, no one on the UMass coaching staff — it will probably be very difficult to prevent the Minutemen from going for a sound thrumping tomorrow. It is clear that the pain of last week's defeat still lingers.

In that respect, tomorrow's game could serve as a catharsis for a football team which has had to live for a week with people second-guessing and I-told-you-soing them

As for Mr. Bouier, Pickett says, "If anyone is gong to contain him, we are."

The Minutemen, ranked 10th in Div. 1-AA this week, should move up in the polls after Saturday, That is, unless Lorenzo gets his way.



The UMass defensive unit, shown here in action against Delaware, will be looking to contain Lorenzo Bouier of the University of Maine in tomorrow's football game at Orono. (Collegian Staff photo by Paul Price)

The second ranked (nationally) UMass women's field hockey team brought their record to an astounding 12-0 with a 2-1 win over Connecticut yesterday. Judy Strong and Sue Caples scored in the second half for the minutewomen. They host Cortland State tomorrow at NOPE field at 11 a.m.

BU raps netwomen in finale

By Antony Kundert
Collegian Staff

The women's tennis team was shut out by Boston University 9-0 yesterday afternoon on the Boyden courts. This was their final match of the season and their record ends up a very respectable 8-4.

The match didn't look good from the start for the netwomen as showers threatened throughout the match. But it wasn't the showers that did the minutewomen in, it was a powerful squad from BU which consisted of only six players (the six single players also played the double matches). BU is ranked thrid in New England and has a record of 7-2.

The absence of Barbara Mills from the line-up (ankle injury) did not help things, as the netwomen couldn't manage a single victory in singles play. Moving up to Mills' spot was Elizabeth Sullivan who lost to Jo Sleeper 6-1, 6-2. Captain Joanne Vennochi playing at the number two spot was defeated by Leslie Sheehan 6-1, 6-0.

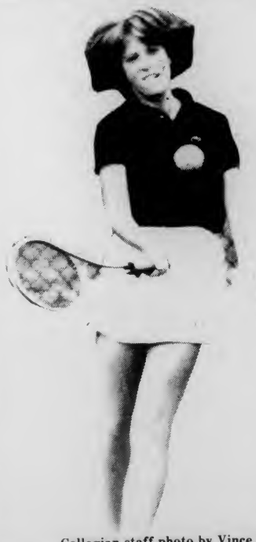
"She was too strong for me," said Vennochi. "She had a solid topspin on both front and back strokes."

Chris Carson went down to Deidie O'Halloran 6-2, 6-3. UMass' Sue Lochiatto was able to win the only set in singles play when she went three sets with Lisa Dailand 6-1, 2-6, 6-3. At number five Paula Natale lost to Dina Anderson 6-2, 6-4. The last player was Trish Sullivan who lost a very close second set to BU's Tara Dunne 6-1, 7-5.

In doubles play the best match of the day was turned in by number two Helen Najarian and Sally Fryberger. It looked as if UMass would have at least one victory as they took the first set by the score of 6-4. But in the second set BU's O'Halloran and Dunne came back to win 6-4 and with the momentum on their side they were able to take the final set easily 6-0.

BU coach Barbara Gummere said, "We played great! The team concentration was very evident. This is the culmination of a great year."

A visibly 'issapointed coach John Beal said, "It was not a good team performance. If we had won at UConn, we would have come in with a little more energy. Barbara's absence is definitely hurting us."



Collegian staff photo by Vince DeWitt.

UMass runners in Easterns

By Chris Wilson
Collegian Staff

The UMass men's cross country team will travel to Van Cortland Park at Manhattan College in the Bronx this weekend to compete in the IC4A Championships which will be held Monday.

The IC4A tourney is an eastern championship meet. Schools from Maine to the Georgia-Carolinas region will be competing.

UMass belongs to the Championship Division which is the highest in its Association. In the past six years UMass has placed in the top three in the IC4A's four times, winning the meet in 1974 and 1977.

Coach Ken O'Brien thinks the team will place somewhere in the top ten.

A social thing

FOXBOROUGH — Freddie D. set up the whole thing. He got a little help from his father, Mr. D., but actually he did most of the work himself.

"It takes a little time, a little hard work, but it's worth it," Freddie D. said on a Monday night a few weeks ago, two hours before the Patriots-Broncos kick-off. He leaned over his hibachi while he spoke. "We do it three or four times a year. I get some coolers, fill 'em with beer, get some chicken, burgers, hot dogs, the works."

Freddie D. is from Revere and he works for a car rental agency.

"Do I like my job? Hell, who likes their job?" he asks. "I like the guys I work with, that's who I like."

Kevin Cullen

Three or four times each year, Freddie D. and the guys he works with come down to this hidden suburb of the South Shore and watch a football game.

That Monday, they arrived at three in the afternoon.

"It's a social thing," Freddie D. was saying, an hour before kick-off. "You come here and cook out for a few hours, play a little touch football in the parking lot, eat a little more, drink a little more, then go watch the game. After the game, you come out, cook a little more, drink a little more, then go home."

Freddie D. had never gone to a Monday night game before.

"They're crazy," he says. "I mean, Sunday afternoons are bad enough. But I think all the looneys come out for the night games."

The hibachis and coolers were put way in the van, for the time beng, and the dozen or so buddies set off for the stadium.

A few of the boys stuffed bottles in their pants or in the sleeves of their down jackets.

"Hey, a buck fifty for a cup of warm foam?" Kush, a blonde kid from Boston said, referring to the beer sold at the stadium of the same name. "No way. I'll sneak a couple in."

The crowd, a sellout, is rather subdued, and Kush seems surprised.

"Ths crowd is pretty quiet," he says. "Jesus, I was here a couple of years ago, at the Jets game. That was a horror show. There were fights everywhere, some guy got stabbed. They even threw some poor bastard off the top of the stands. Almost killed him."

There were, of course, the obligatory scuffles. A cop hauled off some punk in a leather coat and a few people stood up and told the cop to let the punk go — even though these same people would probably belt the punk if they knew he had just pushed some old lady down the stairs.

The Patriots won, beat the spread, and everyone was happy.

"I'm really surprised," Freddie D. said, filing out of Shaefer Stadium. "I expected all hell to break loose tonight. But the crowd was pretty good. No trouble where we were."

Mr. D., an aging man with a big belly and an old baseball cap on his head, was the first to notice.

turn to page 15

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Volume CX, Issue 34 The newspaper of the University of Massachusetts at Amherst Monday, October 20, 1980

Kevin Mankin at the President's Coucil last night. (Staff photo by Chris Grewe)

Council debates Halloween weekend

By Nemat Shafik
Collegian Correspondent

The Student Government Association President's Council met last night to discuss the administration's proposed policies for Halloween weekend.

The proposals, presented to the Council by Dr. Dennis Madson, vice chancellor for student affairs, included the enforcement of a no guest policy in all residence halls for the Halloween weekend, closing of the Campus Center, and elimination of all events open to the public.

Madson justified the severity of this year's Halloween policy by saying, that "in order to break the tradition, we must be extra strong this year."

The Council's criticism of the administration's policy centered around the lack of alternative activities offered to UMass students during the weekend. Many expressed concern about the repercussions of the closing of the Campus Center as an area for students to congregate. One member said, "There is nothing offered. What are the alternatives? We need to plan something. When people see this there's going to be a lot of frustration." Suggestions included providing various activities such as performances and lectures throughout the campus to act as "pressure releases."

When asked if the administration would consider ideas for planning alternatie events, Dr. Madson replied, "No. We are ruling that out for this Haloween weekend."

Madson did say he would present two of the proposals offered by the Council — emphasis on the positive aspects of dormitory parties and coordination of residential area parties to the administration.

Many agreed that the issue of Halloween weekend should have been discussed at an earlier date in order to allow for more effective plans to be made. Other aspects of the issue discussed at the meeting were false fire alarms, rape, changes in bus schedules, losses in Campus Center revenues, security, clean-up, and the fact that parent's week coincides with Halloween weekend.

Richard Moran, co-president of the Student Government Association said, "Our first priority is student safety, second is a reduction in vandalism, and third is that we enjoy ourselves." A summation of the views of the Presidents Council will be prepared and submitted to the administration by Oct. 20.

SGA co-presidents veto election results

By Richard Nagle
Collegian Staff

Student Government Association Co-Presidents Richard LaVoice and Richard Moran Friday vetoed two Student Senate motions to accept the results of the recent commuter senator elections.

At its meeting last week, the senate rejected reports from both the governmental affairs and coordinating committees by a vote of 32 to 10. Those reports called for the invalidation of the commuter election because of problems with stickers that had candidates names with designations on them.

The veto, the first in two years, suspends the senate's actions and forces its members to reconsider the motions at the senate meeting this Wednesday.

"I believe there were many problems with the elections. There are constitutional questions that need to be addressed. The senate did not act in the correct fashion," Moran said yesterday.

Student Senate Speaker Linda Geary said, "I see that there is a definite justification for it (the veto)." "They had to make the veto to carry out the by-laws."

Geary said a contradiction in the senate by-laws was the basis for the senate votes.

She said although senate by-laws place the full senate as the supreme decision-making body, the senate also gave full power to its 13-member coordinating committee.

She said coordinating committee rulings are final unless appealed to the student judiciary.

"My feeling is what should have happened is that it (the committee's ruling) should have been appealed. The veto is justifiable in terms of my understanding of how the procedures and by-laws should be carried, out," Geary said.

"I think the senate should accept the report to invalidate the election. A lot of people and a lot of senators relayed to me they "were dissatisfied with the elections. I think we owe it to the students," Moran said.

In the Oct. 6 and 7 elections, 57 commuter students were running for 34 open seats. Controversy arose over the use of stickers with 31 candidates names, the Progressive Student Alliance designation next to the names of 26 candidates names and the misspelling of one candidate's name on the sticker.

Geary said that if the vetoes are not overridden by the senate this Wednesday, the appeals may be considered by the student judiciary beginning Oct. 25. The commuter seats in the senate may be filled by the week of Nov. 16, she said.

Moran said the commuter senators who held seats prior to the election will retain the positions until the appeals process if completed. The rest of the newly elected senate was sworn in last week.

Hammonton High wins battle of the bands

By Carla Lesh
Collegian Correspondent

"I told you! I told you!" was the reaction of Mrs. Anthony Guerere, wife of the Hammonton High School Blue Devils Band director after they were announced the overall winners of Music Bowl 1-Massachusetts held Saturday night at the University of Massachusetts Alumn Stadium.

The Music Bowl, a competition held for high school marching bands around the Northeast gives the winning band the opportunity to participate in the 1981 Orange Bowl parade.

The Hammonton Blue Devils band broke into wild cheering after their win was announced and carried their drum major off the field on their shoulders in triumph. "The kids won't get any sleep tonight." Guerere said. "After we get back to New Jersey the fund raising begins. The kids and the band parents will be washing cars and selling candy bars for the rest of the year to raise the money to send our band to Florida."

Just before the winner was announced, Karen Igemi, a 15-year-old tombone player in the Hammonton band said, "Mr. G. is the best director in the whole world. We didn't do very well in the competition we were in last week so we promised we would win this one for him."

The 11 high school marching bands were judged on musical and marching performance and overall effect. Preliminary awards were offered in each of the three classes. The classes were determined by the size of the band.

The Blackstone-Milville Marching Chargers band received both the award for the best drum major, the first place award for their class, and the second place in the overall competition.

"We did very well, much better than we expected. For such a small band to get second place over all is fantastic," said Tom Callahan, drum major for the Marching Chargers.

"It's terrific that we won second place. We kept our spirits up and did the best we could. I thought we could do it and I am very excited about it," said Sandy Dufresne, a flute player in the Marching Chargers band.

The Esprit de Corps and the third place overall awards went to the Harbour Creek Marching Huskies. The Marching Huskies came from Pennsylvania to be in the competition. "This was the best performance we've given all year. We probably came the farthest to get here of any of the bands and we weren't able to practice but I am pleased with the show that the band put on tonight," said Walter Baran, the band's director.

The Manfield Marching Band and the University of Massachusetts Minuteman Marching Band gave exhibition performances after the competition was over.

A member of one of the many highschool bands which competed this weekend in the Music Bowl gets behind his playing. (Staff photo by Dan Drollette)

Sunderland skydiver breaks ankle in fall

A Sunderland man was listed in satisfactory condition at Farren Memorial Hospital in Montague last night with a broken ankle he sustained in a parachuting accident yesterday afternoon.

Ronald Rennie, 33, was jumping from 2800 feet above Turners Falls Airport when his main parachute and reserve did not deploy properly, causing him to land on the airport runaway at an excessive speed, said University of Massachusetts Sport Parachute Club President Edward Sujewicz.

Rennie, a UMass alumnus, was a member of the club and was doing his fourth jump.

Sujewicz said Rennie experienced a "lineover," in which one of the parachute lines overlaps the parachute. The lineover caused Rennie to spin, making it difficult for his reserve chute to open, Sujewicz said.

"He did a very good landing considering the circumstances," Sujewicz said.

Sujewicz said the club will investigate the mishap to determine why the parachutes did not open properly.

On Sept. 11 UMass student Russ Pirkot suffered a fractured ankle when a gust of wind forced a hurried landing near the Whitmore Administration building at UMass.

—RICH NAGLE

DIGEST

Iraqi troops are shown here entrenched along the highway connecting Abadan with Khorramshar in Iran. (AP Laserphoto)

War rages on in Gulf

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Iraq and Iran battled along the Shatt-al-Arab waterway and launched air attacks against each other's cities yesterday their armies claimed, violating Islam's holiest feast. Fierce fighting was reported in Iran after the two nations rejected Moslem appeals for a holiday cease-fire.

"Strike hard because you are truly God's sword on earth," Iraqi President Saddam Hussein exhorted his soldiers in a broadcast from Baghdad. He referred to Iranian leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini as a "lunatic."

"You must be prepared for a continuation of this war," Iran's President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr said in a radio speech to his troops.

The pronouncement came despite peace efforts from Moslem quarters and indicated neither side in the four-week-old war is ready to quit.

Hostage fate must wait

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The Iranian Parliament's consideration of the fate of the 52 American hostages will have to wait until the Iran-Iraq war is over, a hardline Iranian lawmaker said yesterday.

Assadollah Bayat, a member of Parliament from Zanjan, 200 miles northwest of Tehran, said, "as long as there is the question of war the issue of hostages is not important."

Reached by telephone from Beirut, Lebanon, Bayat said the 270-member Majlis, or Parliament, was to meet Tuesday, but the hostage issue was still in the hands of a seven-member committee and there were no immediate plans for a full debate on the subject.

His statement appeared to conflict with Iranian Prime Minister Mohammad Ali Rajai's prediction at a news conference in New York on Saturday that the Majlis' decision on the hostages was "not far away."

Muskie reassures Iran

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie, responding to Iranian concern about U.S. deployment of AWACs reconnaissance planes in the Persian Gulf, said yesterday the aircraft are purely defensive and are not directed against Iran.

Muskie, appearing on ABC's "Issues and Answers," suggested that the United States would not heed a demand made Saturday by Iranian Prime Minister Mohammed Ali Rajai that the planes be withdrawn.

Muskie reaffirmed once again that the United States is impartial in the Iran-Iraq war and he denied Rajai's charge that the AWACs are supplying intelligence information to Iraq.

The AWACs are modified versions of the Boeing 707 and carry sophisticated radar that can see electronically about 250 jiles in all directions. They were stationed over Saudi Arabian territory about a week after the Iran-Iraq war erupted last month to detect any warplanes approaching the west side of the Persian Gulf.

Rajai told reporters in New York Saturday the AWACs deployment and what he described as U.S. "protection" of the pro-Iraqi government of Jordan were "obstacles to a solution" of the hostage problem. Muskie said he is treating Rajai's statement as an expression of concern not as a new condition for releasing the hostages.

Reagan vows peace, not war

WASHINGTON (AP)—Accusing President Carter of resorting to "a litany of fear" against him, Ronald Reagan declared last night the only way to assure peace is for the United States to rebuild the strength that has eroded under Carter.

"We must build peace upon strength. There is no other way." Reagan said in a paid, half-hour television address on CBS.

"Peace is lost when such strength disappears or—just as bad—is seen by an adversary as disappearing," he said.

The speech was intended to counter Carter's recent efforts to portray his Republican challenger as warlike. Reagan's aides are known to believe that Carter has succeeded in raising doubts in the minds of some voters, especially among women, on the war issue.

Genital mutilation evokes response

By Susan Page
Collegian Correspondent

"We have a different respect for women than you do," said an Amherst College junior from Kinshasa, Zaire, "and because something works in your culture doesn't mean you can apply it to ours."

This student's comment was one of many in the widespread reaction of the Five College area to the subject of genital mutilation. International journalist and health researcher Fran Hosken spoke at UMass October 1 about the practice which affects 74 million women in Africa alone.

Genital mutilation is a ritual practice of certain African and Middle Eastern ethnic groups where the female genitilia is removed to prevent sexual sensation and the vaginal opening is sewn up.

According to the Amherst student, "if female circumcision is medically, morally, or physically wrong, then the African women who have undergone it will change the custom." He believes that such cultural norms can not be be dictated and that outsiders could impede the stopping of the practice because many Africans resent foreign intervention.

"Change must come from the inside," he said. "If it is physically harmful and the African women don't want it, it should be stopped."

Leila Ahmed, a UMass Women's Studies professor from Cairo, Egypt, feels "the practice of genital mutilation can't be culturally justified."

"Hosken should point the practice out and step back from it," Ahmed said. She feels there is a possibility of backlash if the case is overstated and that it is false to think that the practice would stop just because it is harmful. Ahmed illustrates this point with an Egyptian custom of applying a type of paint containing lead to the navels of newborns. Although many of these children die, the practice continues.

"I saw a woman in labor for three days due to the scarring of her circumcision," said a western Nigerian midwife now living in Amherst.

Although she didn't see the practice oppressive or directed against women, she did say that "because of these cases, the practice should be stopped."

Subscription Rates

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 333 280) is published daily Monday through Friday, excluding vacations, exam periods, or holidays, for $85 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003

Wanted:

Researchers & Organizers
To Work on

- Academic Team
- Anti Racism
- Resource Center
- Rents & Fees
- Handicapped Affairs
- Support Team

apply 420 Student Union
Get Involved

Non Workstudy & Workstudy positions available

SCERA

Student Center for Educational Research & Advocacy
We are an equal opportunity employer

SOUTHSIDE JOHNNY and the ASBURY JUKES
with Beaver Brown

November
2nd 1980
8 PM at
the Fine Arts Center

Tickets on Sale Now
$6.50, 7.00, 7.50
Umass Students
$7.50, 8.00, 8.50 Public

Available at:
Union Records Unlimted,
TIX (UMass)
For the Record
(at Faces, Amherst)
Main Street records
Platterpus
(Northampton)
The Music Store
(Greenfield)

No cameras, taping, food, drink or smoke.

Five College Inc. opens new office

By Katie Von Flue
Collegian Correspondent

Five Colleges, Inc., held an open house last week to acquaint faculty, administration, students, bus drivers, and staff with their new office at 97 Spring St., Amherst.

The office staff of ten is responsible for coordinating the Five College Program between the schools of Amherst College, Smith College, Hampshire College, Holyoke College, and the University of Massachusetts.

According to Pat Murphy, Coordinator, the organization is expanding. Five thousand students are currently cross-registered through the program and attending classes at host schools. "This is the largest number of students enrolled for any consortium in the Nation," Murphy said.

Loran Petersen, Senior Staff Assistant and Amy Wehle, clerical assistant will work with the Long Range Planning Board. This board examines the upcoming year and is currently working to examine the possibilities for expanding the summer program to include all five campuses.

Staff members are available to students during office hours Monday through Friday, 9-5.

The program got its start as an interlibrary loan program at Hampshire College in 1950. The first cross-registration began during the 1957-58 school year.

A non-profit organization, the program is funded through the five colleges.

A"A large amount of the funds are used to run the bus system which supplies transportation between campuses," Murphy said.

Fifteen buses are in daily operation between the campuses.

The old Five-College office in the White Homestead Building at Amherst College is currently being used as an admissions office for the college.

Drinan attacks Carter's rivals

By Jane DeVirgilio
Collegian Staff

Describing John Anderson as "born again politically" and saying the "GOP stumbled on the nomination of Ronald Reagan," Massachusetts Congressman Robert F. Drinan appeared on campus Friday in support of the Carter-Mondale campaign.

Father Drinan repeatedly assailed the Independent candidate's record as profoundly "Republican and conservative" and said Anderson's liberal labeling "is an illusion maintained by his supporters" to a crowd of 100 in the Student Union Ballroom.

Drinan called this a "watershed" election and likened it to the 1968 race between Republican Barry Goldwater and Democrat Lyndon Johnson.

"While I admit Carter has done poorly in such areas as tax reform and that I have disagreed with him on certain subjects, he has been underestimated and undervalued in this election," Drinan said.

Drinan said Carter has done "magnificent things" in foreign policy and cited the Camp David accords and the Panama Canal Treaty as examples. He noted that Carter is in favor of Salt II and detente.

Drinan, who initially supported Senator Edward M. Kennedy as the Democratic presidential candidate, said he is supporting Carter now since "we weren't able to elect someone more progressive and liberal."

"John Anderson, however," Drinan said, "is neither liberal or progressive in his past voting on domestic or international affairs."

James Whitmore revives 3 famous Americans from past

By Tom Faison
Collegian Staff

Last Thursday, the University was visited by three distinguished figures from our past: Theodore Roosevelt, Will Rogers, and Harry Truman. These men didn't come as Halloween ghosts; rather, they chose to deliver their messages to us in the form of one James Whitmore.

Whitmore, who has been touring the country during the past decade presenting his one man shows of Roosevelt, Rogers, and Truman, decided to bring all three to UMass along with his own stage personality. He began the show by explaining to the audience that he was suffering from severe pain in his back and might not be able to go one with the show. He made his way off stage creating an atmosphere of anxiety and tension in the audience. People made their way to the exits, Mr. Whitmore dashed back on stage, sporting a huge grin and an old wooden trunk.

This "tawdry prank," as he later described the routine, was typical of the rest of the program, which included a series of theatrical tricks. Whitmore employed to bring his historical characters to life on stage. He continued by defining the word actor as "someone who does something" and elaborating from there to "someone who uses his various skills at hand to influence others, whether to their benefit or not, for own particular purposes."

In Whitmore's case, the purpose was to coerce the audience into believing for a short time at least, that he really is Teddy Roosevelt, Harry Truman, and Will Rogers. On Thursday, he realized his goal. With little more than a few props, an imitative stance, a few facial expressions, and some voice changes, he was able to create the proper presence, mood, and countenance of each man.

What Whitmore had planned for Thursday night was not to offer excerpts from his original stage performances, but rather to adapt his characters for the student audience. From Teddy Roosevelt we were offered a monologue on American Expansionast Foreign Policty, on the right of the strong, clever, and industrious to govern over the weak, dull and lazy. Will Rogers delivered a testament on the nature of corruption among politicians in general as well as a few specific jabs at Warren G. Harding and Herbert Hoover. And from Harry Truman, the audience at the Fine Arts Center was given a treatise on why it was justifiable for Americans in the 1950's to stand up against Communist aggression in Asian countries.

This program was a huge success. Whitmore received standing ovations for both the performance and the question and answer session which followed. The show proved that good theatre mixed with a little history is a welcome relief from the routine at UMass.

Whitmore as Whitmore

Whitmore as President Truman

Whitmore as Will Rogers

Whitmore as Teddy Roosevelt

The Guitar Workshop and Music House
233 N. Pleasant St. Amherst, Mass. 01002
Phone 549-1728
Save 40% off retail price on new Guild, Gibson, Ovation, Rickenbacker, and Yamaha guitars. Also discounted prices on Marshall and Polytone amps, MXR, and all strings and acc. Large selection of music for all instruments.

We've brought Malibu to Amherst!
Stay tan and beautiful or Get that way fast in our private booths.
• Easy
• Fast
• Safe
The Spot Tanning Salon
1 FREE VISIT WITH THIS AD.
Thru Oct. 31
The Carriage Shops • Amherst 549-1499

OVERSEAS AUTO PARTS
For the most complete line of foreign auto parts and accessories in the Pioneer Valley.
Get an extra 10% off our low prices with this ad.
offer expires Nov. 15, 1980
API
Zayre Shopping Plaza
Rt 9 Hadley, MA 01305
Tel 253-3403
authorized API distributor

amc THEATRES — TIMES SHOWN FOR TODAY ONLY
ADULTS $2.75 STUDENT & SR. CITIZEN WITH AMC CARD $2.25 SPECIAL ENGAGEMENT EXCLUDED TWI LITE SHOW $1.75 TWI LITE SHOW LIMITED TO SEATING
HAMPSHIRE 4 — 584-7550 HAMP MALL CAFE SQ — RT 9, HADLEY, MASS.
DONALD SUTHERLAND Ordinary People R (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15
GEORGE BURNS OH, GOD! BOOK II PG (6:15 @ $1.75) 8:30
HOPSCOTCH R (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30
Walt Disney's Song of the South G (6:15 @ $1.75) 8:15
Movie and Dinner only $5.50 Have a choice of 5 different meals at the Pewter Pot Rest. in the Hampshire Mall and see one of the 8 movies in this ad. (Sun-Thurs only)
Shopper's Show Movie FREE! Thursdays at 1:00 p.m. Oct. 23 Ice Castles Oct. 30 Lost and Found
MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 — 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9 HADLEY, MASS
GOLDIE HAWN in PRIVATE BENJAMIN PG (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:15
CHUCK NORRIS LEE VAN CLEEF KAREN CARLSON THE OCTAGON R (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30
TIMES SQUARE R (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30
ANTHONY HOPKINS THE ELEPHANT MAN PG (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15

Hampshire Ethical Hypnosis Center

Milton H. Askinoss A.A.E.H.

- Weight control
- Nail biting
- Improve concentration
- Insomnia
- Bed wetting
- Improve study habits
- Relaxation
- Fear of heights
- Memory improvement
- Stop smoking
- Self confidence
- Sexual problems
- Improve sports ability
- Fear of flying

Call or write for free brochure
• On-going classes for self-hypnosis
Special Fees • College Students & Senior Citizens
Lecture demonstrations
The Farrick Building Rte. 9 Hadley, Mass.
3/10 mile Hamp. Mall (Next to Rocky's Hardware)
584-1919 By Appt. Only

NOW AT

Time Out

2 TV's

37 N. Pleasant

256-0471

Beer, Free Popcorn, Something New

Lunch served daily 11-2

Sylvan Area Government Elections

Brown/Cashin/MacNamara will now accept nominations for officers—

President
Vice President
Treasurer

For further information and nomination papers contact your House Presidents

Nominations will close Monday, October 27th

Elections will be held Wednesday, October 29th

UMASS Ski Club

UMASS SKI CLUB

MEMBERSHIP DRIVE
ON THE C. C. CONCOURSE
all this week Oct 20-25
$10 Membership Fee gives you:

- Free transportation on all trips
- O.J. and donuts on the way up
- Cider, crackers and chee-e on the way back

DON'T FORGET
The Ski Snatch Nov. 19-22
Sugarbush trip Jan 20-25

WE'RE STILL CELEBRATIN' WITH A THIRD BIG WEEK OF

GRAND OPENING SPECIALS

Only at our New Hadley Store, at the Malls, Rte. 9, Hadley

Light n' Lively Ice Milk Half Gal. Ctn. 99¢

Sealtest Sour Cream Pint 79¢

Sealtest Cottage Cheese 16 oz. 69¢

1-Pound Package Gem Deli Franks 99¢

Gem Our Deli, Pound Pkg Sliced Bologna 99¢

Gem Our Deli Sliced Cooked Salami Pound Pkg 1.09

Lots-o-Chops

Fresh Pork Loin 3 Rib, 3 Loin & 3 Center Chops 1.29 lb

Fresh Pork Loin, Rib Center Chops 1.69 lb

Lucky Leaf Applesauce 50 oz Jar 89¢

Potato Chips Wise Lights 7 oz Bag 2 For $1

All Flavors, Half Gallon Hood Ice Cream 2 For $3

Tropicana Orange Juice 12 oz Can 69¢

Sweet Life Orange Juice Half Gal Carton 89¢

Marval Fresh Turkey

U.S. Government Inspected Grade A 10 to 14 lb. Avg. 79¢ lb

GREAT GRAPE SALE

Choose from Black, Red, or Seedless 69¢ lb

damours BIG

YOU'LL FIND ONE OF OUR STORES CONVENIENTLY LOCATED NEAR YOU.

Agawam	SUFFIELD ST	Northampton	NORTH KING ST	Springfield	ST. JAMES AVE
Chicopee	725 MEADOW ST	Palmer	510 N. MAIN ST	Springfield	1050 WILBRAHAM RD
Fairview	1916 MEMORIAL DR	Westfield	100 BROAD ST	Springfield	1961 WILBRAHAM RD
Longmeadow	BLISS RD	Ware	150 WEST ST	W. Springfield	2611 WESTFIELD ST
Ludlow	442 CENTER ST	E. Longmeadow	441 N. MAIN ST	Southampton	10 COLLEGE HWY. (RT. 10)
		Hadley	RUSSELL ST (Rte 9)

Not responsible for typographical errors. We reserve the right to limit quantities to 2 unless otherwise noted

Prices Good at Hadley Store Only, Mon., Oct. 20 thru Sat., Oct. 25, 1980

Editorial/Opinion

Shakespeare gets high

The bells atop the Old Chapel sound three times in the distance as I seat myself at the foot of an iridescent oak tree in front of my dorm. It is 70 degrees, dry, bright and clear; a Thank God it's Friday afternoon to end them all.

I turn to a blank notebook page and begin jotting down ideas for this week's column. A ripple of wind jolts a brilliant orange leaf from its roost, and I follow its gentle descent to my feet. I scribble "autumn foliage" on the page, ponder the words for a few moments, then cross them out. Too cliche. Been done a million times. Other topics ("Ronald Reagan's Secret Lobotomy," "Fraternities and Facism") are considering and discounted until I finally settle on something and begin writing.

I am down to the first sentence of the third paragraph when Jeff and Paul come bounding out the dorm's side door in gym shorts and no shoes with a shiny new 165 gram white and red frisbee in hand. Paul spots me at work and howls.

Bob Conte

"What the hell are you doing?"

"What's it look like I'm doing? I'm writing my column."

Jeff shakes his head. "A beautiful day like today and you're sitting there writing?!? Come on, let's play some frisbee."

"Listen, I'm sort of on a roll so I'd appreciate it if you guys would . . ."

"What's the matter with you man? This is probably the last warm day you'll see until April."

"I gotta have it in by tonight or . . ."

"Or what? Your loyal readers will be denied your own special wit and insight for a week?"

"I suppose I have a responsibility . . ."

"Oh, Christ!" He turns to Paul. "The kid finally gets published and he thinks he's Art freakin' Buchwald!"

I reach for a pebble and fling it toward Jeff. It strikes his right knee, a foot and a half below a much preferred and more painful target. Paul sniggers.

"Whoa, pretty violent stuff for a man of letters! Listen, Shakespeare, we'll be playing across the street when you change your mind."

"That's school. I should be done pretty soon."

"Uh-huh."

They depart and there is calm once again. Though distractions abound — die-hard sunbathers in various states of undress, a persistently horny squirrel and a reluctant mate who resists his every advance — I recapture my train of thought and resume. I'm a little past the halfway point when I hear an ominous rumbling in a window behind me. I turn and see that Bill has pointed his new $1,000-a-pair JBL speakers directly at me.

"Hey Bawb," he yells in a wrenching Jersey accent, "I gut da new Springsteen album today. Ya gutta check dis out, man."

"Thanks, but I'm trying to finish this column. My deadline is . . ."

"What's better dan listenin' to da Boss on a nice sunny day, ya know? Wait a sec, I'll be right out."

He has the volume way up and there is a minor explosion when the needle is lowered to the album.

"Hey Bill, can you turn it down a . . ."

"HEY LITTLE DOLLY WITH THE BLUE JEANS ON . . ."

"Can you turn it down just a . . ."

"I WANNA RAMROD WITH YOU HONEY TIL HALF PAST DAWWWWWWWWN . . ."

"Just a little bit . . ."

"LET YOUR HAIR DOWN HONEY AND PICK UP THIS BEAT . . ."

"You see I have this deadline . . ."

"COME AND MEET ME TONIGHT DOWN ON BLUEBIRD STREEEEEEEEET . . ."

Bill leaps out his first floor window and sits by my side.

"Aw, sorry Bawb. I didn't know you were workin'. Ya writin' yer column?"

"Yeh, but don't sweat it. I can probably use this incident. There's really not much of a theme this week."

"Dat's alright. I don't think too many people read it anyway."

Reassured, I manage to clock out da Boss and carry on while Bill bops at my side. I have now finished all but the conclusion as he reaches into his pocket and pulls out a joint.

"Boss sounds great, huh? Wanna get high?"

"I can't. I have to finish this. I really need a good, solid conclusion."

"Looks like you're just about finished to me. Why don't ya just end it? It's your column, ya shouldn't feel like ya have to bow to journalistic convention and write a snappy intelligent ending all the time."

"This is true. Light 'er up."

"HEY LITTLE DOLLY WON'T YOU SAY YOU WILL, MEET ME TONIGHT UP ON THE TOP OF THE HIIIIIIILLLLLLLL . . ."

Bawb (sic) Conte is a Collegian columnist.

The American one party system

If you think that student government elections can be bad, consider the 1980 presidential elections.

On one side is Jimmy Carter, the ex-governor, peanut farmer who over the past four years has managed to renege on a majority of the 216 campaign promises he made in 1976. Meanwhile he has been unable to keep inflation and unemployment from skyrocketing.

On the Republican side is an ex-governor, actor who equates the New Deal with Communism, and in fact rails against almost every social program — except when he's talking to to a particular audience. A man whose economic policies are so confused that his running mate has called them "voodoo economics"; which speaks not only to the candidate's economic policies, but to the racism of his running mate as well.

Joel Weissmann and Arvid Muller

Between the Republican and Democratic choices lies our third "major" candidate. This candidate has spent the last 20 years as a Republican in congress, voting for most every conservative measure that has come down the pike, including the Vietnam War, and bills to weaken the power of unions.

Many people say they're going to vote for Carter because they're more scared of Reagan. Yet a closer examination shows that in some of the major areas of policy decisions such as the military, tax programs, and energy, there is little difference between the Republican, Democratic party, and the three candidates they have coughed up.

All three candidates call for increased military spending — already the single largest item in our national budget.

All three candidates favor tax breaks for big business, as if giving more money to Mobil and U.S. Steel would help the working man and woman.

All three candidates advocate the continued long term use of nuclear power to some degree, and none have given more than lipservice to a comprehensive alternative energy program.

Clearly the "two party sytem" is a misnomer, for their policies show that there is little substantive difference between them. They differ merely in ways to implement the same old policies. Neither party has been adequately able to deal with some of the major problems facing this country.

Black people have had their hearts cut out in Buffalo; nine black schoolchildren have been murdered in Atlanta; the Klan has become increasingly vocal — yet none of the "major" candidates have taken any meaningful action or called for any concrete changes. Under the Carter administration we see the ERA still unratified, an increasing attacks, such as the Hyde amendment, being made on women's reproductive rights. We severly question whether things would be any better under either an Anderson or Reagan administration.

Nor have the major parties been able to deal with some of the ever present problems that include prices rising more in the past 10 years than in the 20 years previous, the wealthiest nation on earth, unable to provide jobs for millions of people who want to work; and minorities and the poor still waiting for the great promises of the 60's — equality, better housing, job training, national health care, and the rebuilding of our cities.

What is needed is a break from the politics of the past. We feel that at this point in time the Citizens Party is the only party that offers a viable alternative to the Republican and Democratic ones. The Citizens Party is being built for the long run. It is not a third party for it rejects the relevance of the two existing ones.

In contrast to the "major" party clones, the Citizens Party stands for (1) an immediate, sharp reversal in the rate of military spending. Protecting the U.S. from aggression is fine, but bulding and exporting unneeded new weapons systems has already escalated the arms race to the edge of disaster; (2) closing the corporate tax loopholes that allow corporations to pay an ever decreasing proportion of the total taxes, thus shifting the burden to the consumer; (3) an immediate phase-out of all nuclear power plants, public control of the major energy corporations such as Mobil and Exxon, and an intensive alternative energy program to get this country on the road toward safe, dependable energy; and (4) a government not of big business, by big business and for big business, but rather a government that will start to deal with the issues facing us today in a manner that will benefit the people of this country: The poor, the women, the minorities and all the others that are struggling to fight the economic and social cutbacks proposed by the three "major" candidates.

The Citizens Party candidate, Barry Commoner, and his running mate, LaDonna Harris, will not be our next president and vice-president. But a vote for the Citizens Party and Commoner/Harris is extremely important for it builds for the future. If the Citizens Party can get 5 percent of the national vote they are eligible for federal matching funds and a chance to do battle with the major parties on equal footing. If you are sick of voting for the lesser of two evils, as we are, then we urge you to consider and vote for the Citizens Party on November fourth.

Joel Weissman and Arvid Muller are members of The Radical Student Union.

Letters

RSU omits socialists from debate

To the Editor:

On October 21, the Radical Student Union is sponsoring what it has advertised as "The debate that the League of Women Voters couldn't bring you." Present at the debate will be representatives of the Independent, Republican, Democratic, and Citizen's Parties. The Socialist Workers Party, whose name will appear on the ballot in Massachusetts, was refused representation. Also excluded were the Libertarian and the Communist Parties, as well as all other political parties.

This will automatically give three-fourths of the debate time to the capitalist parties, one-fourth of the time to a progressive party, and zero time to any working class parties.

The ruling parties, through their media machine, make every effort to suppress exposure of radical ideas because they are afraid of the impact of these ideas. They include ending the war budget, ending nuclear power, shortening the work week to create jobs, organizing campaigns for rights of women and oppressed minorities in this nation and the world, and informing working people of their strength and right to deamocracy.

The decision by the Radical Student Union to exclude any other parties from a presidential debate serves to perpetuate the repression of parties representing these ideas.

Excuses for refusing the Socialist Workers Party representation are: (1) that any more than four people would make the debate cumbersome and impractical, (2) that if one opposition party is included, then they all have to be included and that would be too much work; and (3) that the Socialist Workers Party is not a viable alternative.

Is there justification for excluding any political party that chooses to participate in a debate, given that parties are an accepted means of organized political expression? What gives the Radical Student Union the right to decide which is the viable party of the future?

By setting up a debate in this way, the Citizen's Party is hoped to appear as the vanguard of fresh, people-before-profits ideas. The decision as to the character of this vanguard must not be made by the Radical Student Union, rather by the majority of students and workers in the country.

The democratic alternative to the League of Women Voters' debate would be a public debate (or two debates) which would include all candidates and all views. Students can then decide for themselves who best represents their interests and what is or is not viable.

Shirley Kempinski
Cindy Dowining
Amherst

Chuck Norris in Octagon: Real nitty gritty grade B

By Tom Faison
Collegian Staff

The Octagon is the latest entry in a series of films that have replaced westerns as a staple of the American B-movie industry—The Kung Fu Film.

This is a genre first popularized in this country by Raymond Chow's Golden Harvest Productions. These low-budget Chinese films were characterized by an all Chinese cast, very little in the way of plots, predictable but interesting fight sequences, and a star that was to become a legend by dying under mysterious circumstances at the very height of his career—the immortal Bruce Lee.

Few people remember that by the time his first big American-financed, English-speaking film came to this country (Enter the Dragon) he was already dead, with only 15 minutes of his last film (Game of Death) in the can. However, this did not stop Hollywood or even Hong Kong from capitalizing on his fame. For immediately afterwards hundreds of films cropped up with such illustrious stars as Bruce Li, Bruce Lo, Dragon Lee, Tiger Lee, Jackie Chan, and last but not least, our very own American Kung Fur hero—Chuck Norris.

Trivia buffs will remember Norris as the pock-marked villain that Bruce Lee strangles in the climatic finale of Return of the Dragon. Others will know him as a former U.S. Karate Champion who now makes his own films and appears a lot on "The Merv Griffing Show." Actually Norris was a close friend of Lee's and he seems to be as good a choice as any to take up the slack that Bruce created with his death.

FILM

The plot of The Octagon is similar to those of its predecessors in almost every way. In this case we have Chuck as a Karate Champion who slowly but surely realizes that his former Kung Fu blood-brother is the one responsible for training a new breed of ninja-style assasins who are pesently slaughtering people all over the globe (Shades of TV's Kung Fu). The character Chuck plays, who is now retired as a competitive fighter, tries to tell everyone that he just wants to be left alone, while at the same time he knows he is unable to prevent the inevitable final confrontation that is the natural conclusion to all these films.

Along for the ride is another heroic figure of grade B action films—Lee Van Cleef. Adventure buffs will remember him from those spaghetti westerns of the 1960's where he and Clint Eastwood showed the American people what heavy duty killing should really look like. In this film, Lee is around to offer advice, sum up recent plot developments, justify recent killings, and to blow the head off an odd bad guy here and there.

However, the rest of the cast does not appear as natural. Some seem barely able to say their lines, either out of irritation for being forced to appear in a kung fun film, or out of disbelief over the childlike simplicity of the dialogue. It seems that instead of the B-film professionals, we have a few legitimate actors who feel that a kung-fu film is beneath their standards. This never occurred in Raymond Chow's films.

The Octagon is now playing at Mountain Farms 4 cinemas.

This Fall We've Got It All!
Great Prices too!

POSTERS
OVER 300 DESIGNS

Bamboo BLINDS

BEDSPREADS
cover walls, furniture, windows

Framed PRINTS

Rugs & Mats
colorful, durable

CARDS
over 1000 unusual designs

SKIRTS & BLOUSES
lots of comfortable cotton

Baskets

Imported Soaps
a real treat for your skin

BOXES & TINS
plain & fancy

Sterling Chains, Pendants, Earrings
Kitchen Things Pins & Combs Mugs
Mobiles Lampshades Candles

Open 10 am - 6 pm
use the new BUS STOP out front
Great Gifts - Great Prices

THE MERCANTILE
AMHERST CARRIAGE SHOPS

Amity
GMAT
LSAT
MCAT
REVIEW PROGRAMS
Call for Amity's free brochure on the exam of interest to you.
800-243-4767
IN CT., 1-800-922-4635

PSYCHOTHERAPY:
Individuals, couples, families. Sliding fee scale.
Psychological Services Center
545-0041

Monday, October 20, 1980

HUNGER TASK FORCE meeting at 4:30 in Room 428, Student Union open to anyone interested in helping to solve the problems of World Hunger.

Stationary
& Greeting Cards
at
A.J. HASTINGS
Newsdealer and Stationer
45 S. Pleasant, Amherst

MR. BUILDER:
Come See What We Saw. . .

. . .and Save!

If you have a PASSION for PASSIVE solar

You may also have a PASSION for ACTION from your LUMBER DEALER

We are not Passive!

Your Headquarters for
— Pine, Oak, Hemlock —
Posts & Beams, Pine Sidings
Flooring & Paneling
Roofing, Hardware, Paint, Kitchens

One Mile North of U-Mass

COWLS BUILDING SUPPLY INC
125 Sunderland Road
North Amherst, Massachusetts 01059
413-549-0001

NUMMO

20 october 1980

M. Rodriquez

SANDERS ACQUITTED OF RAPE IN BOSTON

Willie Sanders having been framed for two years by racist Boston City officials was acquitted on October 2 of four rape charges. The trial lasted a week on the final rape charge against the black housepainter. It ended with cheers from his supporters as he exited the courtroom.

Sanders, who is 39 years old and a North Carolina native, told members of his defense committee, which organized to help raise thousands of dollars for his legal defense, that "the fight against racism keeps on." He says, "It's a struggle each and every day. There would be no point in my saying, 'Thank God it's all over' when it is not."

--The Sanders case became a focal point for feminist and anti-racist activities in Boston. "Take Back the Night" marches took place in 1979 and 1980 calling for his release, pointing out the police's inadequate investigation of the "Brighton rapes."

Prosecutors of the Suffolk County district attorney's office used the fact that Sanders was employed in the town of Brighton as major evidence in their case. Sanders was under employment of the apartment building's management firm which owned several buildings where the rapes took place.

Max Stern, Sanders' lawyer, failed at his attempt during the beginning of the last trial to have the charges thrown out of court.

TURN TO PAGE 2

GENOCIDE: IT'S STILL THE AMERICAN WAY

Gary Lee

"Watch those people in church prayin'.. Don't be fooled by dem hymn singin'; Them preaching' genocide, uh huh...[Eddy Grant-Musician from Ghana]

Make no mistake about it, genocide is alive and well in America. That may sound harsh and somewhat alarming but the facts will speak for themselves. I'll leave it up to the reader to analyze the data. This article is part of my analysis. A friend of mine asked me the other day why people in Atlanta could not (would not) accept the official, scientifically-proven explanation that the fatal gas explosion at a day care center was a freak accident. My analysis goes something like this.

1) In the past fifteen months eight children have been murdered in Atlanta and six others have disappeared. No one has been arrested.

2) In November 1979 five members of the Communist Party were gunned downed by Nazis and members of the KKK. There are excellent films of the Klan members getting their weapons out of their vehicles, taking positions, and blowing away much of that area's Communist Party leadership. Obviously, a well planned ambush that did not have to contend with any interference from law enforcement officials.

3) From December 1979 to February 1980 eleven black women were murdered in Boston, some had also been raped. A few arrests were made. So far no one has been brought to trial and when was the last time you heard about any ongoing investigation?!

4) April 1980: four black women gunned down by members of the KKK. No convictions.

5) May 1980: In Miami, Dade County police officers brutally beat Arthur MacDuffie to death.

6) July 1980: 14-year-old Levi Hart may have died from a severely depressed skull fracture before the bullet from a police officer's gun went through his head.

7) July 1980: 17-year-old William Greene beaten to death by Philadelphia policemen.

8) September 1980: Four black men killed for no apparent reason by some sick bastard who also cut out the hearts of two of the men.

9) The word from Salt Lake City, Utah is that Joseph Paul Franklin is being sought for the sniper slayings of two young black men who were jogging on August 20th in Liberty Park of that peaceful, religious city. The FBI (cough) also wants to question Franklin about the murders this summer of an interracial couple in Johnstown, PA. and one in Cincinnati. Mr. Franklin also resembles a man seen 'in a Fort Wayne, Indiana motel lobby the night Urban League President Vernon Jordan was shot.

10) And the murders of children in the backwoods of South Carolina; youths shot down in Brooklyn by police, and many others that I am not aware of.....

All of these incidents have occurred in less than a year! Individually, each reflects an atrocity of overwhelming dimensions. The taking of a life is a vile act which is sickening. And when we closely examine the dynamics of these incidents--that is, who the perpetrators are--the method of attack--who the victims are--the laxness of law enforcement officials--and the criminal justice system--then it becomes clear that racism, sexism, ignorance, and aggression are part of a truly evil and sinister streak that pervades our 'civilized' society.

Most of the victims were poor, non-white, female, young or dissident. Many of the cases involved the KKK or the police; two groups that are well known for their violations of human rights. The police are often acquitted because they are afforded special status which condones the use of excessive

TURN TO PAGE 3

Greg Tarpinian

PUBLIC HIGHER EDUCATION IN TROUBLE

Blacks, Hispanics and other minorities, have traditionally been excluded from institutions of higher education. This has to do with a multitude of reasons based on their status as oppressed nationalities. In particular, the fact that minority groups are by and large in the working class has had a major impact on the inaccessibility of higher education to them. This is also true of the white working class. One of the major influences on the inability of working class youth to get an education beyond high school is the heavy financial burden of higher education.

We are all concerned with the enormous problems our society faces: inflation, unemployment, racism, threat of war, and so on. These things cannot help but anger most people. But in the heat of the struggle against these evils we often lose sight of the problems that we face as college students who find it more and more difficult to afford a quality education. We often neglect the fact that UMass, once an institution of great reputation, is in drastic decline. We forget about the struggle to maintain a high quality, cheap and accessible public educational system.

I think that a major reason for this lack of attention to the problems we face as students at a crumbling university is the way we have been taught. We have been taught since we were children that higher education is a privilege bestowed on the "intelligent" onces. Furthermore, we have been taught that those of us who have made it to college are "lucky" to get what we have. We have got to start thinking differently if we are to make UMass what it should be, and if we are to open the doors to our brothers and sisters, and our friends. We have to begin to push the idea that quality education is a right and not a privilege. We also have to push the idea that open access to quality education is a right; open access for all people of all classes of all races and ethnic groups. No one should be deprived of the right to learn. Learning should not be a privilege of the financially advantaged or those of a particular color or ethnic background.

Its becoming more and more difficult as time goes on to stay in school let alone get there in the first place. We must begin to fight this trend. Our futures are at stake if we let the Governor, the legislature, big business and the federal government continue to chip away at the quality of education while they force us to bear the burden of increased costs.

If rents, board costs, tuitions and living expenses continue to go up while financial aid and our other meagre incomes go down UMass will be turned into a school for a certain elite segment of our society. Already the background of students at UMass has shifted from the lower to the higher income bracket. At the same time the percentage of Blacks, Hispanics and other minority groups attending UMass is next to nothing, and with the current trends will be on the verge of extinction! We must fight this now! How can a university maintain its status as a university when it is all white, or when it is all upper middle class? Cultural homogeneity is the very opposite of what an institution of higher learning is all about.

As we are forced to live on less and less we are also forced to receive a lower quality of education. We are crowded into huge lecture halls, forced to eat lousy food, made to live in deteriorating housing, told to watch our departments and programs operate on less and less, and so on. We are told to accept these trends and be realistic. To be honest, we do not need this kind of realism. We do not want to be told that education is a privilege. The realism we should adopt is one which starts from the premise of education being a right. We should organize to make this philosophy an actual reality.

The corporations and the government tell us that we should not complain. After all our parents and many of our friends were not so lucky. We are told to be happy with what we have. We are the ones who have made it, where do we get off demanding more?

Well, I am happy to say, we are going to have to tell the corporations and the legislature to stuff their logic; that they should learn to "live with less"; less profits, less military spending, less tax exemptions, and less power over our lives. The question is not of there not being enough money. There is plenty of money. The real question is who sets the priorities.

There has been no better time in history for the people of this nation to begin to set the priorities for government spending. We will find out once taking the reigns of government that there is plenty of money if we redirect it from socially useless projects such as war and profits to a useful project like education.

Public higher education is in trouble. But it does not have to be. We must begin to organize a movement starting from UMass and spreading out all over the state and country which links students, Black, White and Hispanic, with workers on and off the campuses to fight for high quality - low cost public higher education. It is in all of our interests to begin to think with the notion that education is a right so that we can begin to make it a reality.

One of our goals should be open admissions with affirmative action. This is the only way to go, especially if we think about our brothers and sisters, and our friends back whome who either could not or will not be able to go to college.

Timothee Fostor

BLACK COLLEGE SUPPORTERS FIGHT BACK

Across America the black colleges of today, have continued to decrease in popularity, which has lead to a substantial decline in black student enrollment. The big problem for black colleges is, as it has always been, a matter of simply not having enough money to make ends meet.

According to the Black Collegian Magazine (BCM) enrollment in black colleges grew from 63,000 in 1952 to 245,000 in 1970 and it continued to grow to 311,000 in 1976 but since then it has been on a decline. Some studies predict that as many as 300 colleges and universities around the country will close over the next fifteen years.

One of the main reasons for this hypothesis, says BCM, is the fact that funds from organizations like the Ford foundation, which were plentiful in the late 60s and early 70s, have begun to dry up as priorities change and the economic situation worsens.

Meanwhile the supporters of black colleges have been working furiously to strengthen the institutions on other fronts. The United Negro College Fund (UNCF) and the National Association for Equal Opportunity in Higher Education (NAFEO) have lobbied successfully against attempts in Congress to severely reduce the participation of black colleges in the Aid to Developing Institutions Program.

In another area, public black colleges are expected to benefit financially--at least for a short term--from the federal government's recent attempts at desegregating the higher education system run by states that have operated separate black and white colleges (the result of a ten-year-old suit filed by the NAACP Legal Defense and Education Fund). The verdict is out, however, on the desegregation effort and will affect the black institutions in the long run. Federal officials insist that the states will be required to maintain the black identity of the black colleges while enhancing them, but some believe it will be just a matter of time before the colleges will be forced to take on predominantly white student bodies, faculties and administrations.

As an added solution to aid the financial burden of black colleges, the UNCF has started a long-term program designed to build the endowments of private colleges to allow them to become less dependent on the vagaries of government. Currently, fourteen colleges are participating in the College Endowment Funding Plan, each college raises 350,000 dollars from private donations, and in turn receives a loan from participating insurance companies for 400,000 dollars. The money is pooled and invested in high grade long-term securities. After twenty-five years, when the principle and interest are paid off, the colleges should have sizable endowments from which they can draw on each year to help with their operating expenses.

When meetings started between the NAFEO board presidents and President Carter, held between 1978 and 1980, the NAFEO urged Carter to live up to his 1976 campaign promises to enhance the position of black colleges. The meetings led initially to Carter's issuance of a 1979 memoradum directing all departments to increase the participation of the colleges in federal programs. This past June, in a report on the implementation of the memorandum, the new Education Department said federal obligations to black colleges in fiscal 1979 amounted to 394 million dollars, a 15.5 million dollar increase over1978. The report implied, however, that a number of agencies were not cooperating and it recommended that a more forceful program be put in place.

The result was Carter's executive order, which has the force of law; and should there be a change in administrations--sets in motion a process that a new president could not easily or quietly back off from.

The order requires every government agency to give the colleges an opportunity to participate in government programs--and to--receive the concommittant dollars--from which they have been viturally excluded in the past.

The agencies, under the direction of the Department of Education must now establish annual goals for increasing black colleges involvement in their programs.

With such programs in place and with fund raising activity among black college alumni on the rise, there is reason to be optimistic about the financial future of most of the institutions.

Curtis Haynes

This week, President Carter was 'on the case' again. This time it was at a $500 a plate Democratic National Committee fundraiser. At the dinner, he 'chided Reagan for promising to appoint a woman to the Supreme Court and stressed his own record of appointing women and minorities to the federal judiciary.' (Boston Globe) Both Carter and Reagan however, seem to be missing the point. The point is that since Carter has hired these minorities, he also reserves the right to fire them. So what is the difference, if they are put into a position with no real voice?

Elsewhere, Carter has mentioned the seriousness of the election, implying that the risk of nuclear war is greater with Reagan. But, in seeming contradiction, he called for 'superiority in nuclear weapons, over the Soviet Union.' (Boston Globe) Take it as you see it.

It is sadly ironic that two former civil rights activists, Abernathy and Williams, support the presidential nominee of a party which seeks to undermine civil rights legislation. Although the bills have not been passed yet, watch out, as the conservative mood in America continues to pervade.

Oh, by the way, is Puerto Rico the 51st state? Ads in the Wall Street Journal and other business magazines call 'our' Puerto Rico, U.S.A. 'the ideal second home for American business.'

Meanwhile, at home, the National Minority Advisory Council on Criminal Justice has announced evidence that the criminal justice system has been used to control minorities and suppress their opposition to racism. Maybe, now that they know what we have always known, things will get better. Or worse???

The Federal Grand Jury has found no probable cause to indict Boston police officer Richard W. Borque for the murder of Levi Hart. His wife, Judy Borque, was quoted as saying,(Boston Globe)'It touched the very root of me, months of hell as the result of one minute, just one minute from the chase to the shooting,' and Levi Hart is dead. . . .

Mayor David Thebehali, of Soweto, South Africa, has appointed Minister of Black Affairs, Puit Koornohof, a white man, as an honorary citizen of Soweto. An honorary citizen of Soweto? Millions of Africans live in a hell called Soweto and he wants to be an Honorary Citizen? Thebehali also supports a rent increase for the residents of Soweto. As a result of these 'sell-outs' by their 'black leader' to the white government, citizens of Soweto organized in protest. Violence erupted as South African police suppressed the demonstration.

THIS IS YOUR WORLD!

NEWS COMMENTARY

Because of Carter's inconsistencies with regards to minority issues, two 'black leaders' have endorsed Ronald Reagan for president. Yes, the Reverend Ralph David Abernathy formerly the president of SCLC, and Hosea Williams, also of SCLC, have both endorsed Reagan. Meanwhile, Andrew Young (an example of a black man who 'got boned' for going beyond the extent of his 'powers') has stated that 'states rights' look like code words. He continued,'It's going to be alright to shoot niggers when he [Reagan] is president.' Maybe Reagan denies this accusation, but his 'boys' in the House of Representatives, Robert Walker (Rep. Pa.); James Collins (Rep. Tex.); Robert Doraran (Rep. Cal.); and John Ashbrook (Rep. Ohio), are putting before the House eight restrictive 'riders' attached to money bills which would 'virtually repeal the major federal civil rights laws of the 1960's - 1970's.

SANDERS

Sanders' indictment was based totally on deceptive testimony, during the 1979 grand jury trial, given by police officials and the district attorney. Sanders' defense also cited that police has mislead the grand jury into believing that all the rapes had taken place in the building where Sanders worked.

From the beginning, the district attorney's office tried to silence efforts and strategies of the Willie Sanders Defense Committee by tapping phones of the head of the committee. Efforts of Assistant District Attorney, Sandra Hamlin, to subpena financial records of contributors to the defense committee and requiring them to testify at a pretrial hearing were quashed.

--The case gained support from various progressive groups such as the Civil Liberties Union of Massachusetts as well as the daily*Boston Globe* which criticized the district attorney for the surveillance of the defense committee headed by Magnolia Sanders, sister of the accused. The Globe stated in support, "Secret police activities can not be justified".

--A member of the defense committee expressed that there was a lesson to be learned from the case and that was: "the police are no more concerned about the safety of women than they are about the safety of third-world people.."

However, the "Brighton rapes"of white women, gained more police and media attention than a series of 13 murders of black women in Boston during that same year.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

On October 21, at 7:30 p.m. in Hasbrouck 20 at the University of Massachusetts the Radical Student Union is sponsoring a Presidential Debate between the representatives of the Carter, Reagan, Anderson, and Commoner campaigns.

Representing the Carter campaign is Nancy Stevenson, Lt. Governor of South Carolina. Lou Crampton, from the New England headquarters, will represent the Reagan campaign. Lou Zemmel, Senatorial candidate in Connecticut, will represent the Commoner campaign (Citizen's Party), and an unnamed but confirmed member of the New England headquarters, will be representing the Anderson campaign.

The Radical Student Union hopes, by sponsoring this debate, to spark discussion around the theme of this debate: Election 1980 -- Is there a choice?

Students, community residents, and the media are invited to attend, "The Debate The League of Women Voters Couldn't Bring You."

For further information call Mimi Turchinetz 549-6405, Joel Weismann 549-4192, or the Radical Student Union 545-0677. Or days - Joel, 545-0341.

Economics Graduate Student Organization

SEMINAR

The Crisis in Turkey: Background and Prospects

by

Gunseli Berik & Chihan Bilginsoy
Department of Economics, UMass

Time: 4 PM
Place: Sixth Floor Lounge
Date: Tuesday, October 21, 1980

DRUM

You are invited to share in the interpretations of the Black experience. Contributions of poems, essays, fiction, artwork and photography are now being accepted for the fall 80-81 edition of Drum magazine. Address your submissions to:

DRUM
115 New Africa Hous
UMASS, Amherst, MA 01003

no later than November 21, 1980.

Come accept the invitation and SHARE YOUR MIND with the world. All contributions became the property of DRUM

BMCP MEETING

BMCP MEETING

TUESDAY 5 PM

1st FLOOR-NEW AFRICA HOUSE

1st FLOOR-NEW AFRICA HOUSE

general meeting

All Members Please Attend

BMCP MEETING

Tuesday 5 PM

1st Floor - New Africa House

general meeting

All Members Please Attend

DU BOIS CORNER

Morlene Duncan

DR. DU BOIS AND SOCIOLOGY

Numerous contributions have been made by Duois in the field of sociology although they have been ignored by the reseorchers. Dr. Edwin Driver of the department of Sociology at the University of Mass., in Amherst spoke on Dubois' contributions to the science and his lock of recognitian by his contemporories and American society.

Sociologists, during it's infancy, and until only recently, refused to acknowledge the scientific ond wholeistic approach Dubois' utilized ond perfected. It is evident through Dubois' sociological pieces ond novels that it is necessary to depict on accurate ond odequate historical analysis. Dubois procticed thot through reviewing the history and o multiplicity of sociologicol perspectives one would give a more occurote description of sociologicol factors. This approoch hos been re-emphosized and is now a discipline in the field of sociology. Dubois, as a pioneer at Atlanto University, developed theories more impressive than those of persons of influence in sociology. Driver, quoted a fitting excerpt from Dubois' speech in 1898 at the Americon Academy of Physicol and Social Scientists (of which Dubois was a member), which expresses his approach to sociological studies. "A scientific work must be subdivided but the conclusion which affects the whole subject must be based on the study of the whole." Dubois emphasized thot sociology must be scientific ond have "one simple oim-- and that is the discovering of Truth." Dubois consistently oppraached the science os a method of evoking sociol and human change for the betterment of mankind.

Dubois' concept af sociology was distinct and concrete. He established o set of admitted postulates necessary for defining the basis of analysis. He further developed the notions used for potterns, chance, ond regularity factors."Dubois wos on observer of the realities of social life." He opproached his studies of isoloted graups very corefully, extensively, and over all, humanistically. Essential factors to Dubois, the sacialogist, was how Blocks in those isoloted groups defined themselves ond how they expressed their sociologicol conditions. Dubois' conceptuolization of the ten year cycle, utilized in his conStruction of Atlonta Studies, hos been recently recognized by sociologists as an extraordinary method of tabulating the variaus areas of sacial stratification within the complexities of American society. Between 1916-1969 twenty-seven books and three journals on sociological overviews and thoughts hove been published an Dubais' specialty-- race, ethnic, and falk variotians. Dubois farmed the foundatians for sacialagical literature based on this subject. Between 1895-1908, Dubois was the only persan writing on that topic. One can observe the gross inequities invalved in Dubois' lack af recagnitian in this area. Of the 30 pieces of socialagical thaughts forementioned, only four af them sight Dubais.Between 1911-1952, eleven books were published in a review of sociolagical surveys- anly one book mentians Dubais and it primarily consisted of some wark dane by Dubois in Europe.

Dubois has been generally "overlooked and neglected" in the broad field of sociology. This is nat to imply that his writings have not been used or influential to other sociologists or writers. Some attempts have been made on the behalf of sociology to give delayed and insignificont tribute to the great Dubais. But Dubois' significonce, besides his sociological pieces, is his impact. He is a sociologist, humonist, playwright, and poet," who exhibited a model af excellence. His works as a Black man and a sociologist is "o demastration of intellectuol power and thought" that should be internalized by all of humonkind.

Dr. Ewart Guinier, professar of Afro-American Studies at Harvard University was an acquaintance of Dr. W.E.B. Dubios. His experiences with Dubois stem from the organization of nan-white worker in Panama, 1948-9, and Guinier nomimation of Dubois as the representative of the American Labor Porty far U.S. senator in New York, 1950. Guinier spake of Dubois' relations with William Tratter of Boston and the beginings of the NAACP. Dubois' invalvement with a mixture of peoples influenced his thaughts immensely. Exploring the conditions of colored peoples throughout the continents he developed o determined effort to attain peace throughout the warld. Guinier recalled that in May 1913 at the fourth annual meeting of the Peace Society, Dubois criticized the society on their use of finances and the attitude conveyed in their contributions. He said, "A little less dignity and dollars and a little more humanity would make the peace movement in America a great democratic philantropy instead of an aristocratic refuge." In March 1949 at a Conference for World Peace, Dubois remarked, "The Americon Press acted as a cancerted and directed movement against peace and in favor of war against the Soviet Union."-- We are able to read those circumstance to date. Dubois was a man of peace - war is not the method. Dubais observed that socialism is not the cause of the threat of war but the institution of colonialism is a chief factor.

Dr. Aptheker, a clase friend of Dubais and the anly person Dubois trusted to edit his papers, commented that it is both the racial aspect and palitical campanents of Dubois which inhibits his recagnitian as a great scholar. "Being Black and ' Red' placed Dubois in a mast unfartunate position- the latter being a special consequence." America tried to "bury" Dubais. His calar and his politics were the decisive factors. Dubois lived his life as a praphet-- confronting life and it's obstacles and farcingly conquering them with a light of understanding which expresses validity, truth and justice which is essential if all peaples are to inhabit this world together.

NUMMO NEWS STAFF
CURTIS HAYNES EDITOR IN CHIEF
CARLOS VALDEZ EDITOR ECO LATINO
RICHARD MEI EDITOR ASIAN AFFAIRS
CARL YATES GRAPHICS EDITOR
YVONNE CHIREAU NEWS EDITOR
BARRON ROLAND PHOTO EDITOR
LORRAINE COX TYPE SETTER
MONSI RODRIGUEZ TYPE SETTER
SEMAJ LYCURGUS
ZULMA NAZARIO
CARMEN TOLEDO
THEO MOORE
HECTOR BIAGGI
JOSE CHIQUI GARCIA
ED COHEN
RIA DURRAN
GERTRUDIS GARCIA

Asian Affairs

Asian-American Men's Workshop, October 25, 1980, Saturday, 1 - 4 PM
Center for Racial Studies, Moore Building, Southwest

Henry Jung, 6-1060 or 5-0472

Asian-American Women's Group Meeting Has Been Changed to 4 PM Tuesday.

Jean Kim 5-0334

SHŌGUN

A NOVEL OF JAPAN . . . OR IS IT?

by S. Ota

Reprinted from Unity

Shogun, the 12-hour mini-series which concluded recently, was avidly watched by 125 million U.S. viewers, capturing 55 percent of the entire viewing audience. As a major production on which NBC lavished 24 million dollars, it was a cut above the usual run-of-the-mill TV programming. The historical setting and the presentation of Japanese culture were detailed enough to be credible. But was it really that way?

A true picture of feudal Japan ?

The film does show some positive sides: Japanese people's habits of cleanliness, discipline and high degree of culture, see in the cloth ing, buildings, etc. They are depicted with some dignity as a strong people, not to be easily trifled with.

Many of my Japanese immigrant coworkers liked the film. It was a rare occasion to see something halfway decent about Japan on a major network. To my question about the film's fairness, one replied, "Well, there certainly was much brutality in those times. . . ."

Yes, there was. Bushido, the way of samurai, with its seppuku (ritual suicide), super oppression of women and peasants, caste system--all this did exist. But to begin with, it was only a part of Japan. Bushido was practiced by the samurai class, a mere million out of over 25 million Japanese, to reinforce their feudal rule over the peasants and townspeople. Among the common people (over 95 percent), much different values of ninjo (human feelings), nasake (compassion), Buddhist reverence for all living things, as well as mutual help and solidarity within the village were emphasized.

Nor was there a fatalistic passive acceptance of oppression. Peasants rose up repeatedly (at least 1,240 major rebellions are reported for the Tokugawa period alone). The common townspeople were building self-governing trading cities in Sakai, Hakata and elsewhere, to be free of samurai control. It was in good part to put these movements of the common people down, as well as to forestall foreign control, that the Tokugawas (Torangas) built 250 years of highly centralized feudal rule. Of this other Japan and Japanese, and their popular culture, we get no inkling in Clavell's "novel of Japan."

Even among the ruling samurai, the code of Bushido was not so simple or absolute, but often caused deep inner conflicts--how to balance or choose among different obligations to one's family, lord, the shogun--not to speak of how to integrate all these with one's own needs. Much of the feudal literature in kabuki deals with these conflicts concretely, thus making the samurai's behavior human, or at least understandable for us, even though we would still criticize these feudal values. Seppuku and beheading were relatively infrequent and extreme resolutions to these conflicts. In Shogun, these acts of violence occur practically daily, often for whimsical reasons. While Zen and Confucian jargon are thrown in to "explain," not one episode of violence is explained in depth, so people appear to die or kill easily for mere slogans. In the end, the idea that the Japanese do not value life comes through repeatedly.

And last, feudal Japan is seen and judged through the eyes of an idealized version of a Western man, Blackthorne. Blackthorne is a "humanist," always concerned with the weak, horrified at every act of injustice and inhumanity. What a contrast to the Japanese!

But largely belittled are some key facts. The civilized West at that time is in the height of plunder and genocide in Africa, the New World, as well as in Asia. The lives of 10 million Native Americans and 100 million Blacks are sacrificed, and millions in gold and silver are robbed. in order to feed the developing capitalism in Europe. Blackthorne himself is a pilot of a ship which plundered in the Americas. This is no humanism. The rulers in the West treated their own people no less oppressively. Millions died and suffered in the peasant wars and the massive enclosures of peasants' lands.

Drawing an ideal and unreal picture of the emerging Western capitalist culture at the expense of feudal Japan may be intended to make us feel glad we are in "America with human rights;" if so, it is a gross underestimation of the intelligence of common people in the U.S.

Why the tremendous interest in Shogun ?

Just like in the 16th and 17th centuries, the West and the U.S. in particular is coming into sharp conflict with the non-Western world. Japan is now one of the strongest economic competitors of U.S. capitalism, with its auto and steel exports cutting into the profits of U.S. big business. Events in Korea, Viet Nam, the rise of socialist China, the strength of OPEC, the Iranian revolution, all focus on the rise of non-Western, especially third world countries, and the relative decline of the West, especially the U.S. There are increasing efforts by many in the government and big business to blame non-Western countries and people for the U.S.'s troubles.

On the people's part, there is greater interest about other cultures. Shogun, A Novel of Japan, supposedly helps build a better understanding about Japan and its people. It actually ends up being a powerful reinforcement of the deepest stereotypes, not just about Japan, but to some extent all Asian peoples. Selectively building off of fragments of reality about feudal Japan, it dehumanizes the Japanese people as a mysterious and threatening people who belittle human life. In this, thy film is no better than Charlie Chan or Boulevard Nights or others that distort the reality of non-white people and their cultures.

Despite some real strength, the essence of the film was captured by a Nisei man (second generation Japanese American) who said, "It's no good, Baka-ni-shiteru-yo. (It treats us with contempt, makes fools of us.)"

Lest some readers may think that I may be reading too much into the film or being too one-sided about its impact, here's a quote from the "liberal" New York Times editorial criticizing the death sentence given to Kim Dae Jung in south Korea: "In Shogun . . .the loser's penalty in early 17th century Japan was predictable and brutal . . . a quick thwack of the sword. Feudal savagery is rooted in Asian history which viewers may assume is mercifully past. It is not. Samurai swords are still flashing in ostensibly civilized south Korea." (From "Samurai Justice in Korea," September 18, 1980.)

While we also protest the persecution of the democratic leader Kim Dae Jung by the fascist regime of Chon, what kind of logic is it that places the blame on "savagery rooted in Asian history" rather than mainly on the American government's military and economic support, without which the military regime could not survive! Racism such as this helped to justify the murder of several million Asian people in the 50s and 60s, as did the use of the Samurai code by the Japanese militarists in the 30s and 40s. Here in the U.S. the same stereotypes were used in the incarceration of 110,000 Japanese Americans in the concentration camps during World War II.

In both periods, masses of people in the U.S. and Asia acted in solidarity to defeat aggression, educating ourselves and each other through our own cultural outlook and media. The harm and obstacles created by Shogun too will be overcome by the efforts of the people and their movements here in the U.S. and in Japan, and by culture and media we struggle to 'create.

Henry Jung

CLASS STRUGGLE & THE MODERN SAMURAI SPIRIT

In the U.S., the sight of numerous black or hispanic brothers running around in samurai "drag" and swinging katanas (swords) is both amusing and saddening. Too many Toshiro Mifune movies.

Probably unknown to these men of color was the use of post-restoration (late 1800s) samurai mythology to advance the empire of Westernized Japan. This mythology advocated the blatant glorification of imperialism and militarism. This yellow empire finally succumbed in 1945 to its major imperial rival, the United States of America.

During the same period of time (1880s to 1945) this modernized samurai spirit was used on the homefront to break strikes, crush trade unions and destroy workers/peasants movements. For example, the infamous Black Dragon Society, composed of high-level military officers and conservative civilian leaders was formed during the post-World War I era to combat Soviet and Chinese "bolshevism" abroad and internal "subversives" at home. The movement finally led to the formation of the Axis alliance (Japan, Germany and Italy) and the signing of the Anti-Comintern Pact (to battle "international" communism).

Now in present-day Japan, this modern samurai spirit is experiencing a resurgence. Numerous neo-fascist and right-wing groups glorifying the samurai warrior spirit have been calling for the massive rearming of Japan by changing the current national constitutional restrictions which prevents massive military growth.

The late Yukio Mishima (called Japan's Ernest Hemingway) who fancied himself a latter-day samurai (karate, iaido and body-building) committed public hari-kiri in 1970 so as to protest these constitutional restrictions. He wanted a powerful, militarized Japan to emerge from the 1945 defeat and occupation era.

Progressive martial artists need to be aware of the insidious quality of the current pop samurai movement and its relationship to class struggle. Perhaps a new spirit or mythology is needed for today's martial artists; one that is more encompassing of the whole person, rather than stressing violence, conquest and pseudo-masculinity. A new paradigm is needed.

JEWS & THE PALESTINIAN MOVEMENT

By Edward Cohen

The Palestinian struggle for human rights and the existence of the Jews in Israel are two forces which do not have to exist in conflict, as is presently the case. To condemn the Palestinian struggle as being anti-semitic prevents any semblance of a Jewish-Palestinian coalition which is the only thing that will bring peace to the situation revolving around the Palestinian people and the state of Israel.

History has shown that people who wage liberation struggles consider their freedom above the hardships that are endured by the liberation process as in Algeria, Vietnam, Cuba, Nicaragua, Angola, and Mozambique among others. To maintain power and prevent dissent through oppression only results in armed struggle , which in the middle east is a very real possibility and only a matter of time.

There have been many cases of oppression of the Palestinians, especially in the West Bank. Strikes have been broken with police strength, manytimes brutally. Jewish settlements continue to be built and expanded in Palestinian territory. The death and destruction caused by the Palestinian Liberation Struggle must be condemned, but not before the death and repression of the Palestinian people by the Israeli government, the Palestinian existence in concentration camps and continued encroachment against their human rights and their lands.

Armed struggle will bring death and destruction to many people in the area. As in the Zimbabwean struggle, thousands were dead before the war ended, but the end resulted in a government that was to the benefit of all the people of Zimbabwe. If the war in Zimbabwe did not have to take place thousands of lives could have been saved.

As in Israel, the Palestinean people must have their human rights, and these will be obtained with or without the assistance of the Israeli government.

To say that the Palestinian struggle is anti-semitic clouds the meaning of the word anti-semitism. The struggle for human rights cannot be equated with the racist mentality of white supremist fascists. Amidst the confusion that these contentions cause, valuable alliances are lost. Jews, who have a history of oppession, must begin to work against the forces of racism and fascism present here in the U.S. and throughout the world. All individuals involved in political change for human rights and self-determnation must eliminate vestiges of racism from their organizations, in order to facilitate these alliances. All people must unite to struggle against the forces of oppression, and with the Middle East , Jews and Palestinians must forge alliances to work for real peace in the area.

GENOCIDE

force. The Klan is of course protected by the first amendment to the constitution which has allowed them to terrorize non-white people in this country for over one hundred years.

The*New York Times* recently published a study which showed that Americans fear physical violence first and foremost. It is my understanding that this study pertains to muggers, thieves and other much-maligned undesirables of our society. But consider this: if you are young, non-white, female,or non-conformist you are not only in danger of being a victim of violence by the 'usual' criminals but by reactionary, authoritarian forces as well.

Yes, the pattern of events of the past year indicate that the great American pastime of violence begun with the extermination of Native Americans is continuing right along. . . . . .Beware!!!!

Party Time At Sister Yvonne's

October 25, 1980

10:00 pm UNTIL

New Africa House

UMass Amherst

Come on down and dance the Belly dancing, Salsa, Calipso, Disco and Raggae with the Sisters Food to soothe your soul Home cooking of Curried Goat, Soul Fried Chicken, Potato Salad, Greens, Special Black Power Rice and Ganja Punch.

Come Check This Out!!

Donation at the door....1.00
Dinners....2.00

How far in time is the 51st state?

by Gertrudis Garcia

The relationship between the mass media system in the United States and the people is the same that exists between the crowd in a department store and the blue light and siren used there to announce the "five minutes specials". The media in the United States selectively pinpoints issues that it wants, as the crowd in the department store, run to accept what the system is offering them, no matter what the quality of the product.

There are things that a responsible mass media is supposed to do, and there are things that society is not educated by the media you get the situation as when the Americans' in the U.S. Embassy in Teheran, Iran were taken as hostages. U.S. society, lacking the necessary facts to make judgment over the Iranians fanatics. Cuba, the Sandinista Revolution in Nicaragua, the election of Salvador Allende in Chile, the Panama Canal treaty are examples that can be studied to see how the media presented them and how U.S. people reacted. It could be said that in a period of at least two years people in the U.S. are going to be surprised by their media system with one "special report". This would say: "The island of Puerto Rico has submitted a formal request asking to be accepted as the 51st state of the nation (U.S.)".

The Statehood Solution

At this moment the colonial administration in Puerto Rico is headed by a party which is in favor of statehood. Because of the possibilities that in the next elections (Nov. 4) a governor in favor of the statehood party will be elected, plans to annex their nation into the political system of other nations? If these plans continue to be pushed the way in they are being pushed, the people of the United States could not be expressed with words, but with violent actions. These actions will come from clandestine groups. Even though these groups are not going to confront the gigantic army of the U.S., they are going to use all the means at their reach to make the U.S. people understand that Puerto Rico is not for sale.

If Romero Barcelo and his administration are re-elected the first thing they are going to do is to hold a Puerto Ricans to help them "resolve" the political problem of Puerto Rico. In his mind Romero hopes that the assimilation campaign that he has pushed to the Puerto Ricans could bring the expected results. After the plebiscite but in the U.S. political campaign. Romero, helped by the military, economic and political interests in the U.S. would present Puerto Ricans as proud 'Americans', as hard workers, and as people who want to put aside their own language, and culture "American nation".

The media system in the U.S. will present this case according to the interests of the political and economic system of the U.S.: One thing which is important is that, this has nothing to do with the political and economic interests of the Third World. When the Puerto Rican problem comes to them for consideration, they have to say NO to the annexation of Puerto Rico to the political and economic systems of the U.S. One thing which is important is that, this has nothing to do with the political and economic interests of the right that the Puerto Rican people have to self-determination and independence.

What are Puerto Ricans going to do to stop the federal and local governments plans to annex their nation into the political system of other nations? If these plans continue to be pushed the way in they are being pushed, the people of the United States could not be expressed with words, but with violent actions. These actions will come from clandestine groups. Even though these groups are not going to confront the gigantic army of the U.S., they are going to use all the means at their reach to make the U.S. people understand that Puerto Rico is not for sale.

If Romero Barcelo and his administration are re-elected the first thing they are going to do is to hold a Puerto Ricans to help them "resolve" the political problem of Puerto Rico. In his mind Romero hopes that the assimilation campaign that he has pushed to the Puerto Ricans could bring the expected results. After the plebiscite but in the U.S. political campaign. Romero, helped by the military, economic and political interests in the U.S. would present Puerto Ricans as proud 'Americans', as hard workers, and as people who want to put aside their own language, and culture "American nation".

The media system in the U.S. will present this case according to the interests of the political and economic system of the U.S.: One thing which is important is that, this has nothing to do with the political and economic interests of the right that the Puerto Rican people have to self-determination and independence.

Resistance

What are Puerto Ricans going to do to stop the federal and local governments plans to annex their nation into the political system of other nations? If these plans continue to be pushed the way in they are being pushed, the people of the United States could not be expressed with words, but with violent actions. These actions will come from clandestine groups. Even though these groups are not going to confront the gigantic army of the U.S., they are going to use all the means at their reach to make the U.S. people understand that Puerto Rico is not for sale.

If Romero Barcelo and his administration are re-elected the first thing they are going to do is to hold a Puerto Ricans to help them "resolve" the political problem of Puerto Rico. In his mind Romero hopes that the assimilation campaign that he has pushed to the Puerto Ricans could bring the expected results. After the plebiscite but in the U.S. political campaign. Romero, helped by the military, economic and political interests in the U.S. would present Puerto Ricans as proud 'Americans', as hard workers, and as people who want to put aside their own language, and culture "American nation".

The media system in the U.S. will present this case according to the interests of the political and economic system of the U.S.: One thing which is important is that, this has nothing to do with the political and economic interests of the right that the Puerto Rican people have to self-

Racism in WFCR Denounced

The policies of public radio station WFCR-FM were looked at in a public hearing last Thursday, organized by a community advisory board concerned with the station's programming. There was a strong presence of supporters of Hispanic programming, and the restoration of adequate Hispanic programming.

Since last December, the local Hispanic community and its supporters have been engaged in a struggle with manipulations and cutbacks by Robert Goldfarb. (The Hispanic program Que Tal Amigos was eventually reduced and then eliminated.)

Goldfarb's contract expires in November and there is a possibility he may not renew his contract. Members of the Coalition for Public Involvement in Public Radio, detailed actions by Goldfarb which qualify him as a racist, and urged the community advisory board to make a recommendation to the station manager Robert Goldfarb, as well as the Board of Trustees, that Goldfarb not be rehired.

Members of the Coalition publicly stated that whatever happens with Goldfarb's contract, it has enough legal evidence to incriminate the WFCR governing boards in laws. This evidence is documented and could threaten the existence of the WFCR governing board (the Western Massachusetts Broadcasting Council.) These moments are critical for the future of Members of the Hispanic community present at last Thursday's hearing stated that the racist attacks on Hispanic programming would be resisted with organized and determined struggle on the part of Hispanics and their supporters.

The policies of public radio station WFCR-FM were looked at in a public hearing last Thursday, organized by a community advisory board concerned with the station's programming. There was a strong presence of supporters of Hispanic programming, and the restoration of adequate Hispanic programming.

Since last December, the local Hispanic community and its supporters have been engaged in a struggle with manipulations and cutbacks by Robert Goldfarb. (The Hispanic program Que Tal Amigos was eventually reduced and then eliminated.)

Goldfarb's contract expires in November and there is a possibility he may not renew his contract. Members of the Coalition for Public Involvement in Public Radio, detailed actions by Goldfarb which qualify him as a racist, and urged the community advisory board to make a recommendation to the station manager Robert Goldfarb, as well as the Board of Trustees, that Goldfarb not be rehired.

Members of the Coalition publicly stated that whatever happens with Goldfarb's contract, it has enough legal evidence to incriminate the WFCR governing boards in laws. This evidence is documented and could threaten the existence of the WFCR governing board (the Western Massachusetts Broadcasting Council.) These moments are critical for the future of needs and interests of the Hispanic communities in the WFCR listening area.

The community advisory board will meet Thursday, Oct. 30 in the Community Center in Amherst. It will be holding a meeting among its own member tonight to discuss the question of Goldfarb's contract and what kind of recommendation to make, at the same place. They informed the public last Thursday that they will be holding an open meeting tonight.

Puerto Rico and Cerro Maravilla

by Miriam Colon

The Puerto Rican people are suffering during these days one of their history. On July 25, 1978, Arnaldo Dario Rosado and Carlos Soto Arnivi, were massacred. Led by an undercover agent who was following a well-planned ambush and following orders from the government (should read Governor Romero Barcelo), assassinated.

A federal investigation was carried out but it was closed, as agreed to by President Carter and the governor of Puerto Rico. Governor Romero agreed to support the President's candidacy, and Carter at the Democratic Convention. Carter's share in the agreement was to close the investigation of Cerro Maravilla. Curious, the governor has always been a Republican, suddenly he turns into a Democrat!

Why does the governor fear the investigation?

Some of the witnesses were or are members of the Puerto Rico Department. They were threatened or in some cases their testimony was silenced with promises of promotions.

Now again, the case is being heard by the Federal Grand Jury. There has been a change in the prosecutor in the main case. Prosecutor Julio Casar Andrades, who took part in the ambush, now says that he is going to tell everything he knows about the court was giving him immunity for his declarations. This testimony and that Romero will be expressed by the witnesses.

A few weeks before the island's elections, the Governor and members of his party (New Progressive Party) are all hysterical trying to stop the investigation. Romero, trying to maneuver, has been saying he is "victim" of a henchman's intrigue and of dirty politics. As the most infamous, meanest, most vile and most degrading "Puerto Rico made in the Suddenly the assassin turns into the victim! That's enough. Those words are an insult to the Puerto Rican people. Our people know that all the facts point to Romero as the intellectual author of the crime. Morello and this is to make concern cannot be called "dirty politics" nor intrigue.

We should not expect much from the investigation. It will all depend upon the "agreements" made "under the table" but this time we all should know. The Latin persons that are really concerned about the future of Puerto Rico and who best serve our country.

We must recall that Puerto Rico has been a colony of the United States for more than 80 years. This way of thinking is hard to get over after that many years. But, fortunately, we should also remember that there are times when a hundred years are gathered into a moment. And it is in these moments that our people are beginning to say ENOUGH! and cut with all the political puppets and "vendepatrias" (traitors) who have been governing our country for years.

"Caribbean Cultural Events"

Nov. 1 - 22

from Puerto Rico

MOLIENDO VIDRIO

IN CONCERT

Nov. 8 8:30 p.m.
at Valentine Hall Annex
Amherst College

$2

Tickets on sale at:
AHORA office
(Room 420, Student Union)

NICARAGUAN FILM
"Patria Libre o Morir"
(Free Homeland or Death)
Merrill II Amherst College
TONIGHT

Louis Foods Is ...

We offer only the best USDA Choice Beef and lamb, government inspected pork, and Grade 'A' poultry! When you shop Louis Foods you know you're getting the very finest meats money can buy.

HELPING YOU KEEP MORE MEAT ON YOUR TABLE

LIBERTY BLUE Dinnerware Made in Staffordshire, England This week's feature SAUCER WITH A $5. PURCHASE only 49¢

Wexford WITH A $5. PURCHASE This Week's Special 59¢ Tooted Wine/Juice

Corned Beef MOSEY'S POINT CUT STRAIGHT CUT $1.83 LB — $1.33 LB

Sirloin Steak USDA CHOICE BONELESS $3.33 LB

Chicken Breast Perdue SPLIT-NO BACK BONE $1.29 LB

Top Butts WHOLE BONELESS (SIRLOIN STEAKS) 10-12 LB AVG WE WILL CUT & PACKAGE FOR YOUR FREEZER $2.89 LB

CARANDO HOT OR SWEET Italian Sausage	$1.59 LB
CARANDO Breakfast Sausage	$1.19 LB
SWIFTS PREMIUM Bacon	LB PKG $1.39
WINDSOR BRAND PLAIN Veal Patties	$1.09 LB
BREADED 4 TO A LB Veal Patties	LB PKG 99¢
OUR HOME MADE Lamb Patties	GREAT MENU IDEA $1.59 LB
LEAN AMHERST AREA FAVORITE Ground Beef	5 LB PKG $8.25 $1.69 LB
USDA CHOICE LEAN CHUCK Stew Beef	$1.99 LB
SHOULDER CLOD London Broil	$2.49 LB
BONELESS Blade Steak	$2.49 LB

NOT RESPONSIBLE FOR TYPOGRAPHICAL ERRORS

Specials Effective Oct. 20-25

WE RESERVE THE RIGHT TO LIMIT QUANTITIES

Another Way Louis Foods Makes The Difference!

WILCHADE Grape Drink 46 OZ CAN	59¢
THOMAS'S TWIN 6 PACK English Muffins 24 OZ PKG	$1.49
TROPICANA Fruit Drinks 5 10 OZ BTLS	$1
"PERFECT RICE" EVERYTIME Minute Rice 20¢ OFF 1 ABEL 28 OZ PKG	$1.69
RAGU'S ALL VARIETY Cooking Sauce 16 OZ JAR	99¢
WEST LIFE MEDIUM Shells or Elbows 2 16 OZ PKGS	79¢
HUNTS PRIMA SALSA ALL VAR. Spaghetti Sauce 32 OZ JAR	99¢
BISQUICK BUTTERMILK Baking Mix 40 OZ PKG	$1.29
ARM & HAMMER Baking Soda 16 OZ PKG	39¢
ARM & HAMMER Laundry Detergent 115 OZ PKG	$2.69
NABISCO Ritz Crackers 16 OZ PKG	99¢
OCEAN SPRAY Grapefruit Juice 64 OZ BTL	$1.29
NESTLE'S BONUS PACK Hot Cocoa Mix 28.8 OZ PKG	$2.39
SWEET LIFE DRY ROASTED OR SALT-FREE Peanuts 8 OZ JAR	89¢
SWEET LIFE CALIFORNIA Whole Tomatoes 3 16 OZ CANS	$1
LYSOL SPRAY Disinfectant 18 OZ CAN	$1.99
LOVE'S 18 CT MEDIUM SIZE Disposable Diapers	$2.59
OLD ENGLISH ECONOMY SIZE Furniture Polish 14 OZ BTL	89¢
SWEET LIFE Trash Bags 10 CT PKG	99¢
RALPH L. RATION SEMI MOIST DOG FOOD Tender Chunks 5 LB BAG	$1.89
CARNATION INSTANT NON FAT Dry Milk 25 OZ PKG	$5.59

Frozen Food

SEALTEST Ice Cream ALL FLAVORS 2 HALF GALS $3

MINUTE MAID Orange Juice 2 6 OZ CANS	89¢
CHEESE, APPLE, RAISIN Sarah Lee Danish	$1.19 7¾ OZ PKG
STOUFFER Main Dishes ESCALLOPED CHICKEN, TUNA, NOODLE, TURKEY & MUSHROOM, MACARONI & BEEF 11¼ OZ PKG	$1.29
MORTON Mini Donuts	79¢ 10 OZ PKG
JENOS Pizza Snacks	$1.29 7¼ OZ PKG
SWEET LIFE FRENCH Green Beans 3 8 OZ PKGS	$1

Produce

Tofu Demonstration

TOFU: ABUNDANCE OF NUTRITION. HIGH PROTEIN, LOW CALORY, NO CHOLESTEROL, LOW SODIUM, NO PRESERVATIVES. EASY TO USE AND ECONOMICAL.

New England Dairy Demo Thurs., Fri., Sat.

Featuring Soft & Firm Tofu

Soft Tofu 89¢ LB
Firm Tofu 99¢ LB

CHIQUITA OR DOLE Bananas 29¢ LB

FRESH PICKED, LOCALLY GROWN CORTLAND, DELICIOUS Mac Apples 3 LBS 89¢

FRESH Green Beans 59¢ LB

Louis' Custom Cut Cheese Special

IMPORTED FROM ENGLAND Gloucester Cheese REG. $3.85 LB — $2.89 LB

WOOD ALL NATURAL BIG, & COUNTRY STYLE Cottage Cheese 24 OZ CONT	$1.19
CHIFFON FAMILY SIZE Soft Margarine 1 LB BOWL	75¢
PILLSBURY REFRIDGERATED Choc. Chip Cookies 16 OZ PKG	$1.09

COUPON — LU 79 VALID OCT. 20-25 — CANADA DRY Ginger Ale 32 OZ BTL — BUY ONE GET ONE Free — WITH COUPON AFTER $7.50 PURCHASE LIMIT ONE EXCLUDING COUPON ITEMS & TOBACCO — Louis FINE FOODS

COUPON — LU 81 VALID OCT. 20-25 — MAXWELL HOUSE Coffee ALL GRINDS 1 LB CAN $1.89 — WITH COUPON AFTER $7.50 PURCHASE LIMIT ONE EXCLUDING COUPON ITEMS & TOBACCO — Louis FINE FOODS

COUPON — LU 80 VALID OCT 20-25 — CHARMIN Bath Tissue 4 ROLL PKG 69¢ — WITH COUPON AFTER $7.50 PURCHASE LIMIT ONE EXCLUDING COUPON ITEMS & TOBACCO — Louis FINE FOODS

Louis FINE FOODS

76 N. PLEASANT ST. AMHERST, MASS.

Collegian Classifieds

To place a Collegian Classified
•Come to Collegian Office CC 113
•8:45 to 3:45 Mon-Fri
•Classified deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day

Collegian Classified Rates
•15c per word
•Student rate 10c per word
•Cash in advance
•5 consecutive days 5 % discount
•Phone number FREE

AUTO FOR SALE

Ford Granada 1976 phone Sanjeen tel 549-1112

69 VW exc. cond. red. tires must see 600 or BO call Chris 256-0353

Must Sell Immediately 72 Ford Galaxie 500 needs some work Ric 549-0118 $250 BO

71 Volkswagon runs good $300 or best offer call Tim 549-6744

1973 Pinto Wagon good car, needs work $750/BO 549-4824

73 Dodge Cornonet Wagon inspected, reliable $300 253-9400

FOR RENT

PA system Echo mics Rhodes electric piano ideal for bands coffeehouses partys Jim 546-7517

FOR SALE

Timberland Boots lace up to knee womens size 7 ln v good condition $75 or best offer 546-6134

Guitar—Yamaha G55, classical acoustic, mint condition, new strings, case. Call Stu 256-8616

One pair new KLH 2-way speakers great condition $200 or BO Chris 546-6399

Hockey Skates: CCM Tacks - size 8, CCm goal skates - size 10, Blue Bauer Supreme size 9½ $50 each call Brian at 253-5201

12 string Acoustic Epiphone Guitar w/hard shell case $200 or best offer Nat 546-5788

Onkyo TX2500 MK11 Receiver 40 watts $200 or best offer Nat 546-5788

Yamaha YP-211 Turntable Runs well new cartridge and stylus $100 or BO call Carl 584-3608

Woman's Leather Coat $40 sweater coat $20 call 546-7264

3-piece suits (sizes 38-39) in excellent condition call 256-0626

Typewriter Olivetti 83DL perfect $190 253-2234

Full size bed call 253-7986 evenings

Long Leather Coat (9) and boots (7) call Charlene 253-2004

Gift Idea: Portrait Drawings; call dennis Delap 665-2972

Turntable—BIC 940 good condition with Empire cartridge $50 or best offer call Jay or Dave at 584-4594

Save 75 Dollars on Graphite Tennis Racket Spaulding Centurian brand new sells for 160 unstrung will sell for 100 strung 545-2154

Springsteen Tickets for 12/15 show at Boston Garden Call 546-7979

White Refrigerator 7.3 cu. ft. fridg with separate 2.25 cu. ft. freezer stands 2'x2'x5' exc. cond. $125 call 253-7307 after 5

2 typewriters 1 electric, 1 manual $70 each. 12 string guitar $70 Girls 26" bike $25 electric sweeper $20 old Life mags & baseball cards & records 1-527-0167

Sale: fine wool yarn Oct 20-25 The Sheep Shop 233 North Pleasant Street Amherst 549-6106

TRS-80 48K or 16K System must sell mint condition call for details 546-7050

FOUND

Found near Main Library 10-14-80 University of Alaska admissions envelope Penny Simpson pick up at Collegian Office

HELP WANTED

Overseas Jobs — Summer/year round Europe, S. America, Australia, Asia all fields $500-$1200 monthly expenses paid Sightseeing. Free info. write IJC Box 52-MA2 Cornona Del Mar CA 92625

Wanted part-time radiology technician for multi-specialty group practice please call 256-8561 ext 248 M-F 8 am-4 pm

Publicity Coordinator (work study, 5-15 hours per week) for films and special events produced by Governors Program Council. Job descriptions at 817 Campus Center. Apply by 4 pm, Oct. 20

Typesetter Job Available 10-15 hrs week at 3.10/hr Workstudy or non workstudy. Deadline for applications is Friday noon. Apply Rm 420 SUB typing skills necessary! Previous typesetting helpful

Help excellent, patient statistics 101 tutor will pay call after 5 665-3679

INSTRUCTION

Expert Mathematics-Statistics Teaching and Tutoring Help for math anxiety and for all courses. Individual or low small group rates. John 549-6230 or 253-2036

ESL Classes (English Second Language) space still available . Oct - Nov 14. Elementary 12:30-2:30. Intermediate 3-5 MTuThF. Next session: Nov 20-Dec 16. People's Institute, Northampton. Information and registration: 584-3956

LEGAL SERVICES

Attorney Jason Rosenthal reasonable rates Days 584-4285, Evenings 253-7617

LOST

Lost - Davis Tennis Racket, 10/9 Reward Bob 6-9268

10/12 single UMass key on string please return to CC Information Desk

Help!! Lost tan corduroy blazer with patches on sleeves. Please call 6-8287

Lost at Poor Dick's last Thurs Gold rope chain bracelet. Great sentimental value Reward offered! Call Emily 6-7354 (no questions asked)

Lost: Wallet Fri please return ID's to CC lost & found important! or call 253-9472

Keychain resembling safety pin reward offered sentimental value call Michelle 6-9282

Lost Gold Cross call 665-7923

MOTORCYCLES

Yamaha MXB 250 dirt bike excellent condition with helmet asking $575 call 586-1180

PERSONALS

Undergrad Pol. Sci. Assoc. interested in becoming member? Sign-up Rm 422 Thompson

Must place AKC sable male Collie gd stud watchdog loveable call Nina 6-8890

Senator HOWARD GOLDMAN you are a legend to the women of Webster

Need a brother! Delta Chi's little sister program is the answer. For more information call Scott 549-4911 or Tammy 549-4135

Business Career Day Luncheon Tickets: On sale Monday in SBA Price: $4.50 for UBC members, 5.00 for others. On sale all next week, but tickets are limited buy early!

Happy Birthday Tim Welch! Best wishes! Love, Chucklet and rosko

Rita—Dial 78736487 when in hardtimes!

Jeri with a J—here is to a great semester. Rainbow love—your Big Sis

Contact Lens Wearers. Save on brand hard or soft lens supplies. Send for free illustrated catalog. Contact Lens Supplies, Box 7453, Phoenix, Arizona

(K)Cathy from MIT—Where are you? There are Angels at UMass too. Call 546-5319

John Barack, will you be my houseboy?

Chris and Aerosmith Happy Birthday. What's this megawhimpage? Where are the fans? 19 leaves Steve and I the youngest. P.S. no more Mr. Nice Guy

RIDE WANTED

To Springfield Ohio on Thanksgiving Weekend Will share $$$ call 542-3011 Martina, keep trying

ROOM WANTED

Two males need two rooms for Spring semester. House or apartment near campus. 546-9613

ROOMMATE WANTED

Quiet, serious, mature person wanted to split two bedroom Southwood apt/cooking privleges bus route 256-6198

Female own room Puffton $130 549-1156

SERVICES

Experienced typist available Fast, neat work, reasonable rates. 546-6439

Typing; Words-Worth, 37 East Pleasant Street, Amherst, 549-1303. Double-spaced text from 95c a page. Justified resumes from $3.50 a page. Telephone dictation line. Overnight rush jobs. Your words are worth it.

Ed's Painting Service—Dorm specialist, high experience, low rates, call 6-5725

Randy's Moving and Hauling—local and long distance at low price 546-5728 546-5726

STICK IT IN YOUR EAR

Stick it in your ear at Silverscape Designs. Free sterilized ear piercing with purchase of studs. Artistic placement of multiples. Silverscape features gifts from glass to gold, and a full repair service, and citizen quartz and mechanical watches. 264 N Pleasant St. Amherst 253-3324

TEMPEST

We were "The Kidz" last year. We have grown up. We are "Tempest", a hot rock 'n roll act. For bookings, call Rick at 546-7762

TRAVEL

Florida—The Great Getaway for Spring Break and January Term under $200 round trip jet 256-6704

WANTED

Top Dollars for class rings, gold, sterling, at Wendy's CC Concourse, twice a week

Highest prices paid for class rings, gold, and silver jewelry. See me before you sell. Daniel Smith, 25 North Pleasant St between Fotomat and Logos, Amherst M-Sat10-6 call 256-0710

$ for S.S. lecture notes or your own if they're good. Any semester Drugs and Society with Park. Call Janet 549-4374

GIG$ UMass Rock & Roll Band seeks dynamic talented male vocalist with high range to add the piece de resistance to this hot combination call now now Ricky 546-7762

Grateful dead Tix any or all nights Radio City Music Hall please call 367-2445

PoliSci Major for help on a paper generous payment 256-6620

Wanted: Springsteen Tickets!! Please call 253-9639

Tutors in COINS, Chemistry, Economics needed for Orchard Hill Academic Center. Workstudy and non-workstudy positions available. Send resume to 620 Field

Used Book sale
20% off our regular prices on all books
Mon Oct 20 - Sat Oct 25
Valley Book Shop
Carriage Shops
Downtown Amherst
10-5:30 daily Fri til 8

Football on the BIG SCREEN
—SPECIALS—
at the Hatch Bar
Student Union
Starts at 9:00 PM
TOC Sticker and valid ID required to purchase alcohol

INTERSKATE 91
Interskate 91 Salutes WTCC
Roller Party with DJ's from WTCC making guest appearances
Your Host WMUA
Contests K-Rock Door Prizes
Friday Oct. 24 1-5 am
$3.50 * $1.00 Skate Rentals
Bus Service leaving UMass CC at 12:45 am returing 5 am
Hampshire Mall, Hadley
586-2737
Hampshire Mall
Rte 9 Hadley, MA
Between Amherst and Northampton just around the corner from UMass
SKATE RENTAL
$1.00
ALL SESSIONS

University Dancers perform eight original works.

Eugene Niles performing during the Five College Faculty-Student Dance Concert Friday night. (Staff photo by Chris Grewe)

By Jim Moran
Collegian Staff

The University Dancers opened their 1980-81 season of performances this weekend at Bowker Auditorium with a set of eight original works displaying great versatility and the incorporation of choreographic techniques ranging from ballet to modern.

"Family Portrait," the first work presented, focused on the storyline of three women representing three generations mourning the loss of a man central to their lives. Posed in a pyramidal stance, a device representing a painting of the three women, the dancers were assembled at the outset in the second family portrait. From there the movement evolved to an expression of memories held by the dancers concerning the presence of the man present in the first portrait – presumably the older woman's son.

Each dancer was attired in a plain but flowing gown; the colors and styles symbolized the contrast between the generations. The Grandmother was clad in a rust-hued costume; the Mother wore blue, being more closely identified with the Daughter, in turquoise, and each of the three soloed at different points to add an expression of "private" grief.

The second work was stark contemporary in contrast to its predecessor, abstract both in mood and delivery. Choreographed by Gary Schaaf of the UMass Dance Department faculty, "Impasse" seemed an exposition on an underwater metamorphosis, with the three performers – Nancy Arzberger, Paul Evans and Eugene Niles showing aptitude beyond mere dance skills, bordering on acrobatics.

The effect of the work's opening sequence, with the three dancers huddled on the stage floor, cloaked with a fishnet and waving arms and legs in unison, lended an eerie, creature-like feeling to the movement. Credit for absolutely subterranean costumes goes to Audrey Samara.

"Pas de Sept," "The Dance of Seven," used balletic technique more strictly and was led by company member Karen Scanlon, the obvious star of the troupe. Fast-tempoed plies and leaps were consistent throughout, with costumes designed by Mr. Jones.

Of the remaining works, "Twittering Machine" an "Turn On to Mangione" were the most innovative. The former, a spacey, modern piece reminiscent of the Twyla Tharp genre, featured the trio of Tamar Hurwitz, Rochelle Rice and Scanlon, with colorful, tight costuems by Alice Pohl, and heavily percussive, synthesized music by Vangelis. The latter, a dance tribute to jazzman Chuck Mangione, with dancers Nancy Billings, Joanne Casey, Hurwitz, Marshall, and Bonnie Novak backing up leads by a very foxy Donna Castelberry and the team of Scanlon and Jones (or Niles, depending on which night you saw it). Some nice reveles and swift, bouncy motions made this an uplifting conclusion to the evening's program

HYPERCURRICULA . . .

MON., OCT. 20

More notices will appear tomorrow

UMASS BICYCLE CLUB—there will be a SPECIAL MEETING in the C.E.Q. office. A slide presentation will be given on a cross country tour by a former member. All interested are welcome.

PRE-VET CLUB will meet at 7, 203 Paige Lab.

OUTING CLUB MEETING— 7 p.m., Thompson Rm. 102. Featuring: A Howcroft-Palmer journey to S. America, weekend trip announcements, new members welcome, plus a special surprise you won't want to miss.

THE HANDICAPPED STUDENT COLLECTIVE will hold a very important meeting at 7:15 in the Lobby of Brett Dormitory. All handicapped and non-handicapped students are welcome.

SPECTRUM—There will be an editorial meeting at 7:30 in the office, C.C. rm. 104 and an Art and Photography staff meeting at 4:30. Staff members are reminded to check the schedule in the office, since office hours begin next week.

You have something to share with the people of the rural South and Appalachia — yourself. Find out how you can help, as a Catholic Brother, Sister, or Priest. Your request will be treated confidentially.

☐ I'd like information about opportunities with the Glenmary Missioners and the free poster.

☐ I'd like a free copy of the poster only.

Glenmary Missioners
Room 12 Box 46404
Cincinnati, Ohio 45246
Name_____
Address_____
City_____ State_____
Zip_____ Age_____

FACULTY:

The Textbook Annex Needs Your HELP

Be Sure to give us your textbook requirements for the Spring semester!!

We would like to provide the most efficient service possible, but we need your help.

Please Send Us Your Orders By
October 22nd

1. Your early orders will enable us to check orders to eliminate some of the problems that might arise. We can order from the publishers sooner and reduce the risk of out of stock situations. This will also help us avoid the problem of having your books held up in the holiday mails.
2. We can buy books back from the students at the end of this semester and pay good prices for them, if we know what you plan to use for the Spring semester.
3. Department secretaries have textbook information forms or you may request them from the Textbook Annex.

We appreciate your coaperation and if the Annex staff can assist you, please do not hesitate to call. (5-0570-1-2)

Justina Kielec
Faculty Liaison

Russ Evans
Textbook Manager

Returns to publishers will begin November 10th
Please inform your students.

LIVE! ON STAGE!
BILL HANNEY
presents
THE ORIGINAL
LIVE ON STAGE!
BEATLEMANIA®
DIRECT FROM 3RD YEAR ON BROADWAY

8 PM Curtain
OCTOBER 29 - NOVEMBER 2
7 PERFORMANCES ONLY
AT THE
PARAMOUNT
MAIN ST.-AT THE ARCH - SPRINGFIELD, MASS.
TELEPHONE: 734-5706
ALL SEATS RESERVED
TICKETS: $12.50 $10.00 $8.50
AVAILABLE AT BOX OFFICE AND ALL TICKETRON OUTLETS

Genuine Diamond 14 Karat Gold Filled Jewelry

Choose from 12 exciting designs.

Accumulate $100 worth of gold tapes & get one piece for $9.99. Without tapes, just $19.98 each. Only tapes dated Sept. 21 - Dec. 20, 1980 will be honored.

9.99 each with $100 in our gold register tapes

FILM DEVELOPING

2 Prints for the price of 1

A second set of prints absolutely free of extra charge with every 110, 126 or 35mm color print film. That is what you get at Stop & Shop every time you bring in your color print film for us to develop. We always use Kodak paper to give you the best-looking prints and extra prints! With 2 sets of prints you can share our fun.

self service deli Specials!

1 pound package

Oscar Mayer Wieners 1.49

Save on baked beans, too!

Beef Franks	1.89
Bacon Sliced	2.19
Meat Bologna	1.59
Variety Pack	1.99
Cooked Ham	1.89

corner deli Sliced to order!

Available in stores with service deli

Best Brand Pastromi 2.29 lb

Pepperoni Grande	2.99
Cooked Salami	2.19
Baked Meat Loaf	1.99
Turkey Breast	4.29
Macaroni Salad	59¢
Chicken Salad	2.39
American Cheese	2.29

our kitchen Fresh foods!

Countryfine Chicken or Turkey Pie 1.09

12 oz package

Potato Salad 59¢

frozen entrees Best buys!

Steak Tonight 2.59

1 lb package

Veal Patties	2.69
Fish-Nics	1.09
Dressed Smelts	1.09
Blintzes	1.19

fresh seafood Save & savor!

Fresh Cod Steaks 1.79 lb

For baking or broiling

Fresh Cod Fillets	2.19 lb
Fresh Turbot Fillets	2.39 lb
Fresh Haddock	1.79 lb
Baltimore Oysters	1.89

STOP & SHOP DAIRY COUPON C-26

FREE! Firm 'n Fruity 5oz. cup Hood Yogurt

484

STOP & SHOP GROCERY COUPON C-19

FREE! Chicken Noodle 10¾oz. can Campbell's Soup

483

STOP & SHOP GROCERY COUPON C-18

FREE! Lincoln Half Gallon Natural Apple Juice

482

Stop & Shop

Values From Our Four Page Circular!

Extra copies and lots more savings in the store!

USDA Choice Quality! Enjoy it or your money back!

Beef Chuck Roast 1.69 lb

Stop-Shop GREAT BEEF

Boneless USDA Choice

Boneless Beef Chuck Steak	Great Beef USDA Choice 1.89 lb
Chuck Stewing Beef	Great Beef USDA Choice 1.99 lb

Assorted Pork Chops 1.19 lb

1st big eye pork

½ Center, ½ Blade, ½ Sirloin Chop

Country-style Pork Ribs	Lean and Meaty	1.29 lb
Center Cut Pork Chops	Thin Slice 1.79 lb.	1.69 lb
Pork Loin Roast Rib End	Portion	1.19 lb
Pork Loin Roast Sirloin	Portion	1.29 lb

Fresh Roasting Chickens 79¢ lb

Family Feast Roaster

Family Feast Large 5 to 6 pounds

Combination Pack	4 Split Breast, 4 Thighs, 4 Drumsticks "White Gem" Chicken 1.09 lb
"White Gem" Chicken Wings	5-6 lb pkg 69¢ lb

Lamb Sale Fresh American Grown

Shoulder Lamb Chops 2.39 lb

Rib Lamb Chops	Fresh American grown	3.59 lb
Loin Lamb Chops	Fresh American grown	3.79 lb
Lamb Legs Whole	Oven Ready	1.89 lb

produce

Pick and choose what's perfect for you

Grapefruit size 40 Florida Seedless "First of the Season" 5 for 1

Crisp Red Delicious Apples 3 lb bag 99¢

U.S. Fancy 2 - min

Fresh Fall Vegetable Sale!

Fresh Spinach	Pick your own 49¢ lb	California Broccoli	Extra large bunch 79¢
Fresh Cauliflower	large head 99¢	Crisp Pascal Celery	Extra large stalk 69¢

STOP & SHOP DAIRY COUPON C-25

Save 25¢ Stop & Shop Variety Cheese CHEDDAR, Mild, Mellow or Sharp, White or Yellow Bar 10lb or DOMESTIC CHUNK SWISS

Ocean Spray Juice Grapefruit 48 oz btl	99¢
B&M Baked Pea Beans 28 ounce can	79¢
Snow's Clam Chowder New England Style 15 ounce can	79¢
Cains Mayonnaise All Natural 32 ounce jar	1.29
Ken's Salad Dressing Assorted Varieties 8 ounce bottle	59¢
Prince Regular Pasta or Thin or Ziti with liners 2 1 lb pkgs	$1
Chef Boy-Ar-Dee Ravioli Beef or Cheese 15 ounce can	59¢
Vanity Fair Tissues Print Facial 3 ply 134 ct pkg	59¢
Table Talk Pies Asst'd. Varieties 20 ounce pkg.	1.09
Foamy Shave Cream Gillette 11 oz aero can	1.19
Nabisco Ritz Crackers 16 ounce package	99¢
Habitant Soup Yellow or Green Pea or Minestrone 2 14½ oz cans	89¢
Ocean Spray Cocktail Cranberry 48 oz btl	1.19
Coke, Sprite, Tab or Fresca 2 liter bottle (67.6 oz) Conn. Deposit	1.09
Teddie Creamy Peanut Butter or Chunky Old Fashioned 16 oz jar	99¢
Ivory Personal Size Soap 4 pack 3.5 oz bars	65¢
Coronet Print Towels 125 count 2 ply roll	59¢
Clorox Bleach Half Gallon Container	59¢
Big Buttertop White Bread 22 oz or Big Loaf Wheat Bread 20 oz loaf	69¢
Gillette Atra Blades Package of 5	1.19

dairy Special Stop & Shop prices on top brands!

Kraft Cream Cheese Philadelphia 8 ounce package	79¢	Kaukauna Cheese Port Wine Cheese Food or Sharp Cheddar 8 oz cup	1.09
Firm N' Fruity Yogurt Asst'd Flavors Hood 5 oz cup	4 for $1	Stop & Shop Orange Juice Gallon Container from concentrate	1.89
Hood Cottage Cheese Small or Large Curd or Nuform 16 oz cont	79¢	Nuform Low Fat Milk Hood Half Gallon Container	99¢
Hood Nuform Yogurt Plain Low Fat 32 oz container	89¢	Margarine 1 lb pkg Quarter lb sticks Sun Glory	2 for 89¢
Hood Sour Cream 16 ounce cup	89¢	Land O Lakes Cheese Stix Cheddar, Sharp or Extra Sharp White or Colored 10 oz bar	1.49 frozen foods Check your freezer. Stock up on these values!

Stop & Shop Twin Pizza 18 ounce package	1.59	Birds Eye Tastetmes 10 oz pkg 2 for	89¢
Goodhue Bread Dough 20 ounce loaf	59¢	Orange Juice Sun Glory 12 oz can	69¢
Green Giant Poly Bag Vegetables Sweet Pea or Green Beans 18 oz or Niblet Corn or Mixed Veg 20 oz	79¢	Ocean Spray Cocktail Cranberry 12 ounce can	69¢
Lenders Bagels Plain, Egg or Onion 12 ounce pkg	2 for $1	Louise's Cheese Ravioli Round Style 13 ounce package	1.09
Tuscan Frozen Yogurt Pops Asst'd Flavors 15 oz pkg of 6	1.39	Hendries Ice Cream Assorted Flavors Half Gallon Container	1.59

Copyright 1980 by Stop & Shop Supermarkets. All rights reserved.

HADLEY-AMHERST Route 9 at the Hadley-Amherst Line. 8a.m.-10p.m., Mon.-Sat. We redeem your Federal Food Stamps.

ONE FOR THE ROAD

Cindy Downing

PIG, THIS IS MY ROOMMATE COMMANDER PITTS
HI THERE! HOW YA'DOIN'?
HEY JIMBO, WHAT'S THE STORY WITH THE COMMANDER?
HE'S BEEN THAT WAY EVER SINCE THE BEATLES BROKE UP.
THE FINAL BLOW CAME WHEN DISCO ENTERED THE PICTURE.
POOR DEVIL!

Under the Influence

by Mike Joyce

WOW LUCILLE, I'VE NEVER HAD A NIGHT LIKE TONIGHT!
I'VE NEVER FELT MORE FULFILLED! I'VE NEVER FELT MORE LIKE A MAN!
IT'S TOO BAD I HAVE TO DEFLATE YOU NOW!

Abnormal Psychology

by J. Demskey

NEW! FROM ACME PRODUCTS!
I CAN'T BELIEVE IT! I JUST SIMPLY CANNOT BELIEVE IT!
"UNCLE MA'S PORTA WOMB"! FOR THE INSECURE PERSON ON THE GO.
3 EXAMS NEXT WEEK!! NOT ONE NOT TWO, THREE!! AND ALL WITHIN TWO DAYS! sigh
IT'S THE PORTA-WOMB FOR ALL TYPES OF INSECURE PEOPLE! FROM THE PROFESSIONAL TO THE HOUSEWIFE TO THE AVERAGE COLLEGE STUDENT!
I THINK I WANNA' GO INCK TO THE WOMB..... WHATS THIS?
NEW "UNCLE MA'S PORTA-WOMB"! NOW AT STORES EVERYWHERE!
BUT IT'S JUST NOT THE REAL THING!

DOONESBURY

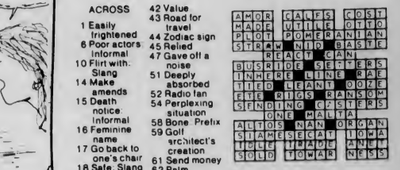
by Garry Trudeau

ZONKER, I'D LIKE YOU TO MEET MY FRIEND J.J.
HI, J.J., NICE TO... WOW!
WOW!
EXCUSE ME FOR STARING, BUT THAT'S SOME TAN YOU HAVE THERE! MAY I ASK WHERE YOU GOT IT?
MY TAN? UM.. I DUNNO.. I JUST GOT IT FROM..Y'KNOW, HANGING OUT.
SURE YOU DID. C'MON, WHO'D YOU TAN UNDER?
I BEG YOUR PARDON?
CHERYL TIEGS? TONY BENNETT? IT MUST HAVE BEEN ONE OF THE MASTERS.

TODAY'S CROSSWORD PUZZLE

UNITED Feature Syndicate

Friday Puzzle Solved



ACROSS

1 Easily frightened
6 Poor actors informal
10 Flirt with: Slang
14 Make amends
15 Death notice informal
16 Feminine name
17 Go back to one's chair
18 Safe: Slang
19 Go out on ---
20 Annual Christian festival
22 Make everlasting
24 Decorates a cake
26 Fell as rain or snow
27 Kind of settler
31 Comparative ending
32 Causes pain to
33 Walked in water
35 Social order
38 River to the Seine
39 Prohibit
40 Heavy tress
41 E. in Athens
42 Value
43 Road for travel
44 Zodiac sign
45 Relied
47 Gave off a noise
51 Deeply absorbed
52 Radio fan
54 Perplexing situation
58 Bone: Prefix
59 Golf architect's creation
61 Send money
62 Palm reader, e.g.
63 Arabian title
64 Furniture article
65 Muffs
66 Groove
67 Tears

DOWN

1 Carton weight
2 Virginia willow
3 Shade of green
4 Admit into membership
5 Finds
6 Short plan trip
7 As busy as --
8 Hand coverings
9 Harder
10 More stingy
11 Circuit
12 Unclear: atmosphere
13 Loathed
21 Soak flax
23 Wind instrument
25 Waste paper pipe
27 Human tool covering
28 Leave abruptly
29 Bear constellation
30 Raging
34 Stamping device
35 Express devotion to 36 Pay up
37 Mourning band
39 Mad
40 Quebec port
42 Shape
43 Relates 44 Appraisers
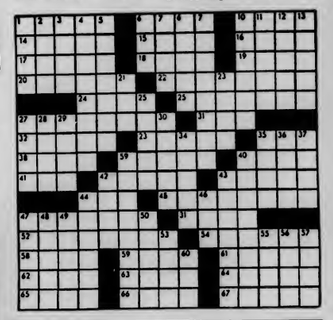
46 Ms. Mason, to pals
47 Nearly even
48 Vertical stair part
49 Ethyl lace-late
50 True skin
53 Surprise attack
55 Both: Comb form
56 Fine earth deposit
57 Holy persons: Abbr
60 Favor Prefix



D.C. Menu

LUNCH
Turkey Divan
Sloppy Joe

DINNER
Beef Pot Roast/ Jardinere Sauce
Baked Ham/Pineapple Sauce

KOSHER MENU
Chicken Chow Mein/ Dry Noodles
Tunafish Salad Plate

BASICS LUNCH
Tofu Sloppy Joe
Turkey Divan

BASICS DINNER
Baked Haddock with Lemon Slice
Squash Bake

EARTHFOODS
Curried rice with broccoli tofu/egg salad sandwiches
green salad
cream of celery soup grain
granola bars

Branagan's food&spirits

Monday Night Football
50c Draft 75c Hot Dogs
Popcorn & Pretzels 9-12

RT 9 At University Drive, Amherst

Bob Marley Refunds

For tickets bought at TIX and Union Records

Ticket Numbers: 00001-02000; 02701-02900; 02301-02700; 01901-02000 will be refunded today through Friday at Union Records During these hours: 10:30-11:30 and 3:30-4:30

Collegian Sports

UMass tallies soggy win, 21-14

By Donna Sullivan
Collegian Staff

ORONO, Maine — The game was not football here this past Saturday — it was a variation of the game — it could be called aqua football. The field was ankle-deep mud, there was a raging moat surrounding the field and not once did the rain let up. If any NAIADS were at the game they would have been busy recruiting linebacker Scott Crowell after his stunning acrobatics performance in the post-game mud.

"It was the worst I've ever played in," said Garry Pearson, the nation's leading scorer. Pearson went into the game with 44 points. Saturday, he rushed for three touchdowns, all in the first half before the torrential rains started. "There was no footing at all in the second half," he said. Pearson gained only 22 yards in the second half after rushing for 72 in the first.

UM punter Ray Larnard and special teams center John Hansen played major roles in the 21-14 win over Maine. Larnard averaged 36.4 yards with 11 punts. Eight of them came in the rainy second half when the Black Bears threatened to tie the score.

"Those last few punts, all I wanted to do was get them off," Larnard said. "I wasn't thinking about where they'd go, I just wanted to kick them somewhere," he said. Larnard kicked on of his longest punts, a 38 yarder from the Mass. 15 yard line to push the Bears back into their own territory late in the fourth quarter.

The Mass. defensive unit played their regular strong game shutting down New England's premier runner Lorenzo Bouier except for one 77 yard touchdown run. Bouier finished the game with 114 yards and broke the school record for total yardage in one season.

A holding penalty called back a 61-yard Maine touchdown pass in the third quarter that would have brought the Bears to within one point of Mass.

Late in the fourth quarter, junior linebacker Peter DiTommaso and junior defensive back Pete Spadafora put an end to a Maine drive that looked like it might tie up the game. DiTommaso made a game-saving tackle when he stopped Pete Ouellette after Ouellette returned a punt for 50 yards and almost went all the way.

"He (DiTommaso) made a great individual effort hustling down on the special teams to make the hit. I think that this play might have sparked us up for the rest of the game when we had to keep them (Maine) from scoring," Reid said.

Two plays later, Spadafora recovered a Bouier fumble on the Mass. 26 yard line to end the drive and keep the Minuteman victory intact.

The UMass gridders, shown here against Delaware, handed Maine a 21-14 loss in their (Mass.) second Yankee Conference game of the season. (Collegian staff photo by Paul Price)

Minuteman Notebook

Bouier must have thought the DiTommaso family was out to get him Saturday. If Peter D. wasn't whacking him down, big brother Frank was. "We were watching out for him (Bouier)," Frank said. "I think we did a good job containing him." . . . for all the talk about Bouier, many UMass players think Pearson is better . . . Pete DiTommaso, on his saving tackle: "I just took a dive at him (Maine's Peter Oullette). He caught me under the chin and my helmet came off, but I didn't get hurt." . . . The announced attendance of 2700 at Maine's version of Alumni Field must have been a figment of some publicity director's imagination. They're lucky if there were 1000 people present, and this number dropped drastically after halftime . . . Junior linebacker Scotty Crowell didn't let the inclement weather get him down. He celebrated the Minutemen victory with a couple of bellyflops into the huge mud puddles surrounding the UMass bench . . . As usual, Dan Petrie, John Allen, and Eric Cregan were outstanding on defense . . . There was some concern when Pearson didn't get up after scoring his third touchdown. "I just got the wind knocked out of me," Pearson said later. "I'm all right, though. No problems." . . . Maine wide receivers Ouellette and Pat Madden have apparently created a new version of the high-five handshake, during which they dance, jump up and slap high with identical motions. Their act was cut short in the third quarter, though, when a score was called back due to a holding penalty . . . UMass safety Pete Spadafora had a fine game coming up with a couple of good defensive plays, including a sack on a safely blitz and an important fumble recovery. "After the tackle, I looked down and the ball was at my feet. I just fell on it."

—compiled by Steve Freker and Kevin Cullen

Tight defense gives UM women 8th soccer win

By Maureen Sullivan
Collegian Staff

The one and only goal in the UMass-Springfield College women's soccer contest Saturday happened in near-chaos around the Springfield goal in driving rain on the hard and soaking Astroturf at Springfield.

At 30:09 of the first half, UMass' Nancy Feldman took a pass from Maryann Lombardi, who managed to control the ball from a corner kick from Maddie Mangini, and snuck it past several Springfield players scrambling around the front of the goal into the open goal.

Except for that goal and the several chances both teams had to score, the rain dominated play throughout most of the game. It began to pour from the opening kick, and continued to pour, making the Astroturf, a sponge and slowing down both the players and the ball.

Aside from the rain, it was a defensive effort by both squads that tempoed the game. Tight marking at midfield bottled up most offensive tries, while the rain made it difficult to pass. Mary Szetela, Debbie Pickett and Mangini were among the Minutewomen who helped stop the women Chiefs.

"We played well, considering the conditions," said UMass Coach Kalekeni Banda, "the rain slowed us down a lot, but Springfield was very good. I'm surprised they're not ranked."

The UMass men's soccer team dropped a tough decision to the University of Rhode Island 2-0 last Friday. The nation's seventh-ranked Rams, who had 33 shots on goal, handed the Minutemen their seventh defeat of the season against four victories. UMass gets a week off before facing Connecticut at home next Saturday.

Stockbridge hoop tryouts

Stockbridge basketball tryouts start tonight and will be held every night at 7 p.m. until Friday. All candidates report ready to play at Boyden gym.

Coffin, Strong score 2, women now 12-0-0

By Nancy Parks
Collegian Staff

On a slippery NOPE field Saturday the UMass women's field hockey team went on to stretch their undefeated streak to 12-0-0, as they shut out Cortland University, 2-0.

With the rain coming down every so often, both teams had a hard time keeping their balance and their grip on their soaking sticks.

But the stickers played a hard game and they were up against a tough defense in Cortland. Cortland played an aggressive game with a lot of physical contact.

A good effort was made by Tish Stevens early in the first half towards the first goal of the game. The ball was driven down field by Tina Coffin who passed to Judy Strong who brought it into the circle. Passed across the circle by Strong, Stevens caught ahold of the ball only to hit it wide of the net.

There were a number of corner shots in the first half by both teams with Cortland coming close to net a few times.

On a UMass corner shot late in the first half, Judy Strong connected to score the first goal of the game. Strong had a clear shot for a line drive to the center of the net.

Ro Tudryn and Patty Bossio played good defense for the Minutewomen. Both women had good stick work and anticipated their opponents moves and the direction of the ball.

All the women played better than they have in past games, by really attacking the ball and not waiting for anything or anybody. They didn't let Cortland's aggressiveness get in the way of their game.

The second tally of the game came withonly 5:10 posted on the scoreboard. It was scored by Tina Coffin with an assist by Patty Smith. Smith dribbled the ball down field and into the circle to pass it off to Coffin for the goal.

The first half ended with UMass up, 2-0. The stats showed UMass with 9 shots on the Cortland goal and Cortland with 3 shots on the UMass goal.

The second half started with Cortland coming close to scoring. With only three minutes having passed, Cortland players came down hard on the UMass goal for a score but their effort swung wide of the net.

After the late goal in the first half, UMass kept their net clear of any balls of their opponents in the second half.

The second half also saw some action for Sue Packard, Terri DiGiacome and Sue McCrea. These players took the field for Stevens, Bossio and Strong, respectively.

The game ended with the same score that the women came out of the first half with, 2-0.

The stickers next face Springfield at home, on Tuesday. Face-off will be at 3:00 p.m. on NOPE field.

NOTICE

There will be a Collegian sports staff meeting Wednesday at 6 p.m. at the sports desk. Current staff members must attend. Newcomers welcome.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Volume CX, Issue 35 The newspaper of the University of Massachusetts at Amherst Tuesday, October 21, 1980

WFCR advisory committee delays contract renewal recommendation

By Deborah Asbrand
Collegian Staff

Members of radio station WFCR's Community Advisory Board last night unanimously agreed to postpone their final recommendation on the contract renewal of WFCR's general manager Robert Goldfarb.

The six members present at the meeting cited the vast amount of information they received at last Thursday's public hearing as the cause of the delay.

"The bulk of the material we have is from one side, I would like very much to hear what Mr. Goldfarb has to say," said CAB member Robie Hubley. "I think the judgement should be on what WFCR should be doing and what we think public broadcasting should be doing," he said.

Goldfarb has been the center of controversy for the past ten months as a result of his decision last January to reduce the amount of programming hours on WFCR for the Hispanic community.

Last Thursday about 60 people attended a public hearing conducted by the station's Community Advisory Board on the subject of Goldfarb's contract renewal, at which many people recommended denying Goldfarb's contract renewal request.

Last March, members of the Coalition for Public Involvement in Public Radio occupied the office of Chancellor Henry Koffler for 53 hours to protest Goldfarb's decision to cut the program "Que Tal Amigos" from six hours each week to two hours. The Coalition ended the occupation when a compromise was reached and the program was given four hours of air time each week.

However, last June, Goldfarb issued a press release announcing that "Que Tal Amigos" has been cancelled completely, and a taped program, "La Hora Hispana," would be broadcast for two hours each week to replace it.

The Coalition this semester has continued to fight for more Hispanic programming, said Coalition spokesperson Tony Crayton.

"We want them to hire a full-time Hispanic producer, which the station no longer has, and we want a guarantee of six hours of prime time programming each week," said Crayton.

"This amounts to two percent of their total programming hours. We also state that any future reductions in programming hours must go through a process of consultation before any cutbacks are approved," he said.

At last night's meeting committee members stressed that a question of Goldfarb's intentions and character was involved.

"A lot of this falls on whether Goldfarb is legitimately interested in the community," said chairperson Wendy Gordon. "His character is part of the issue at hand."

Committee memebers unanimously voted to invite Goldfarb to next Monday night's meeting to make a short presentation and participate in a question and answer session. The committee also passed a motion to invited a members of the Coalition to attend the meeting and answer questions, but make no formal presentation.

"The only point of view we haven't heard yet is Goldfarb's," said Hubley.

WFCR Community Advisory Board members Richard Evans and Wendy Gordon discuss programming and personnel at last night's meeting in Bang's Communtiy Center. (Staff photo by Scott Burke)

Money allocated by Amherst for inspection of housing

By Francine Mintz
Collegian Correspondent

Rental units in Amherst will undergo mandatory inspection by the local Board of Health beginning next July, it was decided at last night's town meeting.

The inspection system, which was passed by a vote of 105 to 85, was based on a pilot program researched by four student interns. Stanley Eniedzielski, Board of Health member, said without a mandatory inspection, "residents are hesitant to make a complaint about living conditions because of some form of retaliation. There is a serious shortage of rental housing in Amherst," Eniedzielski told town meeting members.

Elima Varley, a town meeting member, voiced her opposition saying she "sees no reason why money need be appropriated for such minor complaints, as drafts and weathertightness, that can be taken care of by residents."

While The Pilot Inspection Program cited complaints of drafts and insulation as the most frequent complaints, they also uncovered the absence of sufficient emergency exits in converted units. The research found public notification and advertising are critical for community acceptance of any new program.

Health Director Betty Anderson Frederick said the public's help is needed to identify houses that have been renovated outside of legal procedures. She said she was pleased the warrant was passed due to the "life threatening violations that were found" in the study.

The $10,000 appropriated from the free cash in the surplus revenue account will allow 440 inspections each year, over a three-year period. However, the Finance Committee recommended that the inspections should be a regular duty of the Board of Health.

Town meeting members also passed a warrant which appropriated $8000 from the sewer reserve fund for modifications in the sewer system along Glendale Road, in the Orchard Valley Area. After heavy rainfall, flooded sewers result in reversal of sewage flow back into buildings. A second problem discussed is the discharge of sewage through manholes. Sewer system modification will alleviate the problems, sending 60 percent of the sewage flow out of Glendale.

Reports made to the 165 town meeting members present included a report on The Amherst Water Conservation Project. A. Louis Hayward, Town Manager, said "unfortunately the Conservation message doesn't get out clearly enough, and is not implemented enough." In September project members talked of a 25 percent conseration program.

Matthew Sweeney finds a unique use for the concrete pillars on the north side of the Campus Center. Unfortunately for Matt, a Center Administrator brought him back to earth. (Staff photo by Scott Burke)

Candidate reps debate: Do voters have choices?

By Ed Levine
Collegian Staff

"Election 1980—is there a choice?" will be the subject of a debate between representatives of four presidential candidates tonight at 7:30 p.m. in Hasbrouck Labs, room 20, at the University of Massachusetts.

Floss Frank from the Carter campaign, Lou Crampton from the Reagan campaign, Andy Canada from the Anderson campaign and Lou Zemmel from the Citizen's party, representing Barry Commoner, will meet in the debate sponsored by the UMass Radical Student Union.

RSU member Joel Weissman said Frank and Canada were recent additions to the debate. Previously, Nancy Stevenson, Lt. Governor of South Carolina was scheduled to represent Carter, but the campaign staff changed their plans this weekend. Canada was scheduled this weekend by the Anderson campaign, which had previously not announced the name of their representative.

Weissman said the RSU hopes the debate will help students think about the feasability of the two party system and the need for a viable third party. Because of his stands and organization, Commoner's Citizen's Party was chosen to represent third party interests.

"For the first time in many years, we see cracks developing in the (two party) system," Weissman said. "We want to give students the chance to decide. They're going to view the three major candidates and an alternative."

Weissman said each candidate will be given a several minute opening statement and equal time to address certain issues.

DIGEST

Associated Press

Investigators and press in crane look over wreckage of industrial helicopter which crashed yesterday on the roof of a City of Industry, Calif. furniture store. (AP Laserphoto)

Mental Health Dept. eyed

BOSTON—Mental health specialists are debating a proposal to curtail sharply the state Mental Health Department and give more responsibility for care to private agencies.

"The recommendation has heavy implications," said Herbert Olivierre, president of Local 93 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees.

"You can't expect employees in the public sector to endorse a proposal that can delete 11,000 people from the system in a minute. To totally embark on such a plan would be utterly reckless."

Olivierre is a member of a state commission investigating the future of mental health treatment.

Sex law affects child-custody

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court, over vigorous dissents, refused yesterday to help an Illinois woman who lost custody of her children because she has a live-in boyfriend.

By a 6-3 vote, the court left intact an Illinois Supreme Court ruling that gave custody of Jacqueline Jarrett's three daughters to her ex-husband.

Mrs. Jarrett's appeal fell one vote short of the four needed to grant full Supreme Court review of her case. Justices William J. Brennan Jr., Thurgood Marshall and Harry A. Blackmun voted to hear her arguments.

In a dissenting opinion for himself and Marshall, Brennan chastised the high court for allowing the use of Illinois' fornication law to create a presumption of harm to the children.

Suit filed against Rely

PROVIDENCE R.I. — The first suit in Rhode Island against the makers and sellers of the tampon linked to the deadly disease toxic shock syndrome has been filed by a Central Falls girl and her mother.

The suit filed Friday in Providence Superior Court claims Michelle Soucy suffered "severe and permenant injuries," after she and her mother, Theresa Soucy, bought a package of Rely tampons last June at the Ann & Hope store in Cumberland.

Procter & Gamble Co., manufacturers of Rely, ceased making the tampon following the recent disclosure by medical researchers that a large proportion of women who contracted toxic shock syndrome had used that brand of tampon.

Fate of hostages to be decided in days by Iranian Parliament

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The speaker of Iran's Parliament said yesterday it will decide in the "next two or three days" on conditions for release of the 52 U.S. hostages an' that he thinks it unlikely the Americans will be tried a spies.

Iranian revolutionary leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, meanwhile, agreed to allow a war mediation committee of Islamic heads of state to visit Iran, Tehran radio said.

Khomeini stipulated the group was to be confined to "investigating the criminal invasion" he said was ordered by Iraqi President Saddam Hussein, according to the radio. But acceptance of the delegation, even on a conditional basis, was seen as a small step toward solution of the fourweek-old Iran-Iraq war at the head of the Persian Gulf.

In a telephone interview from Tehran with The Associated Press here, speaker Hashemi Rafsanjani said the war was not affecting the hostages, who have been held since Nov. 4, and that he thought the conditions for their release would be the same as those stated earlier by Khomeini.

Last month Khomeini said the United States must return the late shah's wealth, cancel claims against Iran, release frozen Iranian funds and guarantee non-interference in Iran. He omitted an often-stated demand that the United States apologize for past ties with the late shah's regime.

The Majlis, empowered by Khomeini to decide the fate of the hostages, "will in the next few days announce its decision," Rafsanjani said.

Iranian oil cities besieged by Iraq

By Tom Baldwin
Associated Press

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Iraq claimed troops and tanks forged an "airtight siege" ring around the embattled Iranian oil cities of Abadan and Khorramshahr yesterday, but Iran said diehard defenders were throwing up an "epic resistance" against the Iraqi invaders.

The Iraqi command said 132 Iranian troops were killed in battles at Abadan, Iran's vital oil refining city on the Shatt alArab waterway, and at Khorramshahr, the oil port 10 miles to the north.

But Iran said defenders stopped Iraqi tanks from entering Abadan and reported houseto-house fighting raging in Khorramshahr, a city the Iranians renamed "city of blood."

Iran's military said Iranian warplanes hammered Iraqi tank columns in an effort to break the siege of Abadan and Khorramshahr and prevented the Soviet-built tanks from breaching Abadan's defenses.

Iran also announced it renamed Khorramshahr — which means fertile city in Farsi — to Khuninshar, which means "city of blood." The new name was a tribute to the diehard defenders of the city that has been a focus of the fighting, Tehran Radio said.

Iran said the Iraqis controlled all highways leading to Abadan and said the city came under "heavy weapons and artillery fire."

For a week Iraq has said Abadan and Khorramshahr were under siege and it appeared that Iraqi forces were content to remain on the outskirts of the cities and pound them with artillery.

Similar economic plans of Carter and Reagan don't affect forecast

By R. Gregory Nokes
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Polls show that the economy may be the paramount issue among voters next month, yet President Carter and Ronald Reagan have developed surprisingly similar economic prescriptions for voters to choose between.

Moreover, there is a wide consensus among economists and financial analysts that the economy, at least in the short term, will be the same under either Carter or Reagan as president. That means a sluggish recovery from the 1980 recession, with continued high unemployment and inflation through 1982 — and probably a lot longer.

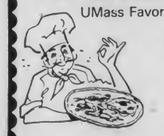
The stock market plunged sharply last week when a highly respected Wall Street analyst, Henry Kaufman, forecast higher interest rates on the ground that inflation will worsen no matter who wins the Nov. 4 election.

Most business leaders seem to believe Reagan, the Republican candidate, will do a better job of managing the economy, although they have a hard time saying why.

Walter B. Wriston, chairman of Citicorp., the New York based banking firm, thinks Reagan will be more will ing to veto congressional spending bills. Reginald Jones, chairman of General Electric Corp., believes Reagan is more likely to "emphasize the longer-term needs of the economy."

A man identified as Gregory Morrison, in his thirties, stands atop a fifth story fire escape railing in New York early yesterday as New York City police attempt to persuade the man to come down. Moments later, the man fell to the pavement below and was hospitalized in critical condition. (AP Laserphoto)

SUPERIOR PIZZERIA
UMass Favorite Pizza



10 & 16 INCH PIZZAS
ALL COMBINATIONS - LARGE & SMALL
DAILY 11 A.M. TILL 1
HOT OVEN GRINDERS
STEAK GRINDERS
SPAGHETTI · LASAGNA · RAVIOLI
MANICOTTI · STUFFED SHELLS
GREEK SALAD
NEXT TO THE NORTH AMHERST POST OFFICE
COMPLETE TAKE OUT SERVICE
FREE DELIVERY
FOR FAST SERVICE
Call 549-0626
17 B MONTAGUE RD AMHERST

WILLIAM E. DYKE JR., O.D.,P.C.
OPTOMETRY
★ Comprehensive Eye Exam $20
Includes Glaucoma Check
★ Contact Lens Fitting $40
Includes: Pre-Evaluation Eye Exam
Bausch & Lomb Soft Lens Fitting
Six Months of Follow-up Visits
Lenses not included
★ Medicaid Accepted
★ Appointments or Walk-ins Accepted
1465A Boston Rd. Springfield 593-3255
749A Memorial Dr. Chicopee 593-3255
Rt 9 Russell St Hadley 586-6830
All offices adjacent to Pearle Vision Center

Subscription Rates
The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 325-220) is published daily Monday through Friday excluding vacation, exam periods, or holidays for $85 at 1104 am pas Center, University of Massachusetts at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

DISCO ON DOWN TO...
Rt. 9 Amherst
Poor Richard's DISCOTHEQUE
TUESDAY BEER NIGHT
25c Drafts 75c Bottles
Wed. 25c drinks
Sun Happy Hour all night
Fri & Sat HAPPY HOUR 8-10 p.m.

Collegian
Today's paper was produced by:
Assistant Managing Editor — Catherine Clabby
Layout Technician — Suzette Courtmanche
Copy Editor — Sarah Schultz
Head Darkroom Technician — Scott Burke
Ad Layout — Jay Brightman
Composing Room — Dan Guidera, Bob Carr, Andra Armstrong, Pam Dissinger, Janet Milstein, Susi Segal

Used Book sale
20% off our regular prices on all books
Mon Oct 20 - Sat Oct 25
Valley Book Shop
CARRIAGE SHOPS
DOWNTOWN AMHERST
10-5:30 daily Fri til 8

Opposing views aired on the combination of politics and religion at Amherst forum

By Bill Sample
Collegian Staff

The good and evils of mixing politics and religion in the United States was discussed at a forum last night at Amherst College. Present were famed historian Henry Steele Commager, two other speakers, and 400 students and faculty from the five college area.

A fundamentalist group called the Moral Majority was represented at the forum by it's vice-president John Calvin Thomas. Labeled "the New Right" by many liberals, the Moral Majority would like to see more religious principles applied to modern politics.

Opposing views were presented by David Little, Professor of Religion at the University of Virginia, and Professor Commager, lecturer in residence at Amherst College.

Mr. Thomas complained of a moral decline in this country saying only a strong sense of religious principle can help the United States out of it's slump. Thomas berated sexual liberation as immoral and the younger members of the audience responded with laughter.

"...I want to share with you a time, particularly after the election when we're not so much hurling missiles at each other with labels on them such as 'fascist' and 'extreme right wing'..."
—John Calvin Thomas, Moral Majority vice-president

"Tonight I do not want to debate with you or my colleagues whether there is a God or not, although I feel there most definitely is, but I want to share with you a time, particularly after the election when we're not so much hurling missiles at each other with labels on them such as 'fascist' and 'extreme right wing' or 'extreme left wing' but realizing that we all have something to contribute to the good of the country," Thomas said.

He added, "We (the Moral Majority) are just encouraging people to get out and vote. We see nothing wrong with that."

Famed historian Henry Steele Commager, who received the warmest reception from the audience, disagreed with Thomas' point of view.

"Liberalism is a way of thinking that is fit for free men," remarked Commager.

Moral Majority vice-president John Calvin Thomas listens in foreground while historian Henry Steele Commager comments on religion and politics. (Staff photo by Bill Semple)

Supermarket cheaper than smaller stores

By Janice Leonard and Marie Mealey
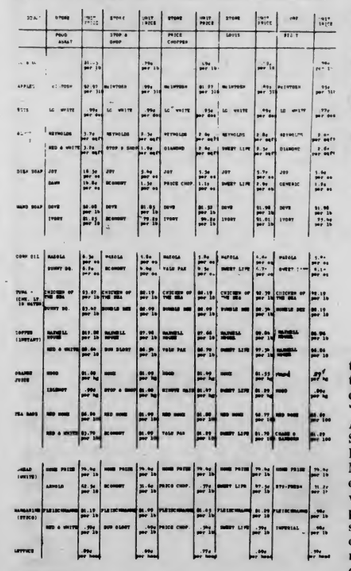
Collegian Correspondents

With the recent opening of the Big Y supermarket at Mountain Farms Mall, there are now four major supermarkets and various small convenience stores vying for the dollars of University students.

According to the University Commuter Collective, there are approximately 6,500 students who live off campus and the majority of those students purchase their own food and do not subscribe to the University's meal plan. In addition, many students on campus purchase food for the weekends and also for nightly "munchies."

A survey conducted by the Collegian, of prices of products commonly purchased by students shows little differentiation between Stop & Shop at the Hampshire Mall, Price Chopper on University Drive, and the newly opened Big Y:



The prices at Louis Foods in Amherst Center were surveyed at about 10 percent higher, and also about 30 percent higher at the smaller Food Basket convenience store on Triangle Street.

When available, both brand name and non-brand name products were compared for price. Non-brand name products on the average were less expensive.

Beginning with the Food Basket, the highest priced regional brand name items were selected. This provided an equal quality price comparison across all stores. The lowest priced item was then compared, not necessarily reflecting a fair quality comparison, however.

The non-brand name items such as tomatoes, apples, lettuce and eggs, did not have a comparable regional brand so only the lowest price was chosen.

All prices are listed as unit prices, such as pounds, ounces, and square feet. This method was used since equivalently sized products were not always available.

Search for dean of UMass college narrows; open meeting slated

By Larry Cox
Collegian Staff

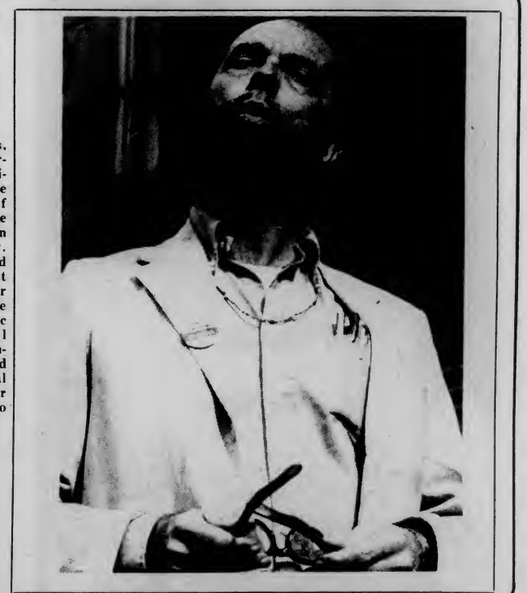
As the search for a new dean of the College of Food and Natural Resources draws to a close the last three candidates will appear spearately in open meetings during the next three weeks.

Six candidates were choses from 41 applications received by a search committee chosen last May. The 11-member committee comprised of faculty, graduate, and undergraduate students in the college, members of the Cooperative Extension Service, and the Commissioner of Agriculture of Massachusetts, narrowed the field over the summer. Each candidate will appear before the committee and interested students.

After the meetings, which will consist of question-and-answer periods, the committee will present a list of three to five names to President David Knapp, Provost Loren Baritz, and Chancellor Koffler for final consideration. However, according to Susan McCouch, a graduate student on the committee, if either the search committee or the Administration find the list ot be unsatistactory, the committee will review the field again and ask new candidates to appear.

The other finalists have already appeared at the University. they include Dr. Kirvin L. Know, head of the Department of Nutritional Sciences at the University of Connecticut; Dr. Richard H. Merritt, Dean of Instruction and professor of Horticulture at Cook College at Rutgers University; Dr. Stevenson Fletcher, head of the department of Hotel, Restaurant, and Travel Administration here at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst.

The final three candidates scheduled to speak are Dr. Richard S. Caldecott, Dean of the College of Biological Sciences and professor of Genetics at the University of Minnesota, on October 28; Dr. Daniel L. Padberg, head of the Department of Agriculture and Economics at the; University of Illinois at Urbane on October 29 and 30; and Dr. John N. Walker, chairman of the Department of Agricultural Engineering at the University of Kentucky on November 6 and 7.



David McReynolds, the 1980 Socialist Party Candidate for President, preaches the "humanization of America" outside the Student Union Building yesterday. McReynolds has led organizations against war, the draft, nuclear power and racism. He supports public ownership of all natural resources, including Exxon and Mobil, and Federal programs for Solor Energy. (Staff photo by Scott Burke)

Collegian survey results indicate reader misconceptions

Massachusetts Daily Collegian readers want to read more about campus events, generally think the Collegian is doing a fair to good job of presenting the news, and specify the editorial pages as the most popular section of the paper.

At least that is what the 192 readers who responded to a Collegian readership survey, (Sept. 23-26) said.

The results of the survey also indicated that readers have a few misconceptions about the Collegian.

53 respondents cited campus news as the category that would like to see more of in the Collegian and international and national news (provided through the Associated Press wire service) was a close second with 41.

Analysis

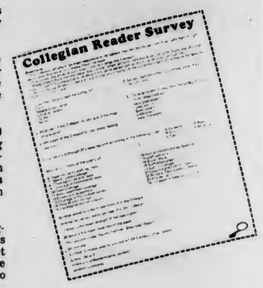
This response demonstrates one of two misconceptions many readers have about the paper. Readers say they want both more local and more non-local news while there is only a limited amount of space. In order to provide more local news, non-local news would have to be cut and visa versa.

In addition a majority of the respondents cited advertisements as the thing they would like to see less of in the paper.

Advertisements are a necessity in the paper because ads provide the revenue for the space that carries news stories. If the Collegian carried less advertisements there would also be less space for news.

The Collegian provides upwards of 80 percent of its $350,000 budget by selling ads with the Student Government providing the remaining 15 to 20 percent from student fees. In other words, The Collegian only costs each student about one cent an issue because it sells so many ads.

General comments about the paper ranged from the criticism of a faculty members who said the paper is "not good for toilet paper...in general it rots" to the response of a senior woman who said it is "hard to live without it at UMass."



Collegian Reader Survey

Most of the respondents (122) read the Collegian daily, 52 said they spend the most time reading the editorial pages and 41 said they enjoy those pages the most.

While 120 of those responded to the survey said they also read the Boston Globe daily, 36 respondents said they read no other papers beside the Collegian.

A large majority of the respondents (107) said the Collegian is fair in its news coverage to "some extent" and 35 said the major weakness of the paper is biased reporting.

The bulk of the 34-question survey consisted of questions that requested the respondent to grade specific portions of the paper, such as staff news stories and New England coverage, on a scale from A to F (Excellent to Atrocious).

Generally the respondents said the Collegian does a fair to good job in each instance. Staff photographs and sports coverage received the highest grades with 121 respondents saying sports coverage was good to excellent and 109 rating staff photographs the same.

Although staff cartoons received an overall grade of fair to good that category received the highest number of poor or atrocious grades.

107 juniors and seniors responded to the survey, 31 sophomores, 14 employees, 13 freshman, 11 graduate students and five faculty members.

A vast majority of the respondents live off campus (80) or in Southwest Residential Area (45).

88 of the respondents were male while 99 were female.

The Collegian will use the results of the survey to better tailor the paper to fit the needs and wishes of the readership.

Ambrosia Café

In The Spotlight This Week!
Tuesday, October 21
AMBROSIA BLUES ALL-STARS
Southside Chicago Blues
Richard 'Bozo' Burbine drums & vocals
Jerry Ellis (of the Elevators) bass & vocals
Al Fuller guitar & vocals
Ed Vadas harp & vocals
$1 cover
Special—shots of bourbon 75c
Wednesday, October 22
NEVARD & DR. JAZZ
Thursday, Ootober 23
ANDY MAY
$1 Cover
Coming Oct. 29 Vast Ed Vadas
Oct. 30 Roger Salloom
Happy Hour 4-6, Mon-Fri fresh pastries and deserts always available

The Graduate School of Business Administration at the University of Southern California will be on campus
October 22, 9:00-11:00
Graduate programs available include: MBA, MBT, MACC, MSOB, MSMSC, JD/MBA, JD/MBT for schedule information, please contact University Placement Service

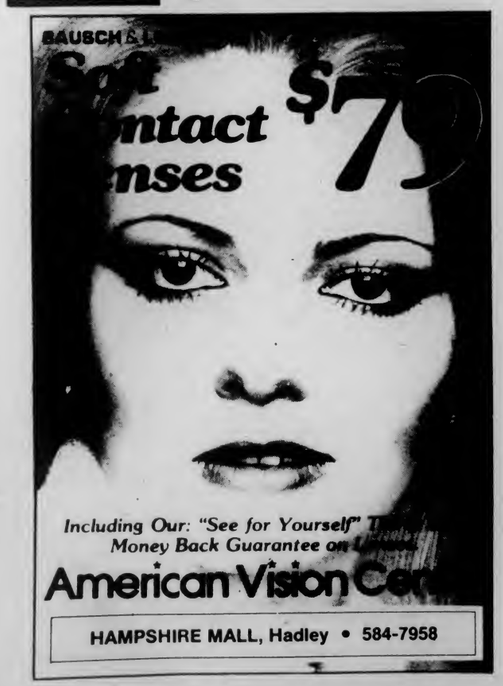
Tuesday
OLDIES
TWO FOR ONE
All Mixed Drinks • 9 til 11
NO COVER CHARGE
THE PUB
15 East Pleasant St.
AMHERST



HAMPSHIRE MALL, Hadley • 584-7958

Student Senate is meeting at 7 P.M. Wed. Oct. 22 in the Bluewall. Alcohol will NOT be served! Until adjourned to TOC.

PRECISION HAIRCUTS

ALL FOR $6.00
with this coupon only
Includes:
FIRST—a professional consultation
SECOND—a precision style cut selected individually just for you
THIRD—our stylists will show you how to take care of your hair
With personal style, cut, shampoo and blow dry $9.50, long hair slightly more. With this coupon only, limited to new customers only.
we also have facials and manicures
Styles by Deborah I & II
65 University Drive, Amherst, MA 549-5610
62 Main Street, Easthampton, MA 527-2411

Editorial/Opinion

As a relief of boredom

David Cole

Gail Sheehy thrilled this two-bit media world last week with first rate journalism. What she did was to expose the myth surrounding the resignation of Mary Cunningham from the Bendix Corporation in a five day serial published in newspapers around the country.

The problem for Cunningham, Sheehy pointed out, was that she rose to power too quickly. Cunningham, 27 years old, just out of Harvard Business School, was suddenly the number two authority in an industry that's one of the five-hundred largest in the world. The result of this unprecedented rise was a rumor that she slept her way to the top.

Unfortunately, that rumor made headlines. The Detroit Free Press ran stories and photos. The Associated Press, with nothing better to do, pushed it through their wires. Soon people in the remotest corners of America, who would have died without ever knowing that there was a corporation called Bendix, knew who Mary Cunningham was and were talking about her.

For many complicated reasons, including the one taking precedent in everyone's mind—that of saving face—Mary Cunningham resigned. It was then that Sheehy came to her defense with her story which claimed, among other things, that the rumors were false and produced out of jealousy and spite. The jealousy and spite were because Mary Cunningham had been able to break a traditional age code, that said appointments to positions of power came only after lengthy service to the business.

But Sheehy wasn't alone in her defense of Cunningham. Ellen Goodman, the syndicated columnist from Boston, raised a familiar (and certainly justifiable) call to arms by implying that sexism had again raised its ugly head:

"The Cunningham-Agee story is an updated version of the favorite male fantasy about women who sleep their way to the top...It is plain old hostility that assumes that a woman can only get to the top on her back instead of her merit. It is plain old fantasy to envision nubile young business school graduates cutting through the competition with a little pillow talk."

If women can sleep their way to the top, why aren't they there? The theory goes something like this: that Cunningham's singularly directed and clinical nature (necessary for her job) doesn't allow her the time or convenience to taste the forbidden fruit of that blessed sexual experiment.

A fact seems to be that there is rarely time for relationships of any sort (including sexual) in prominent, high-powered executive jobs, and only people with a peculiar character trait or determination can handle such sacrifice without emotionally cracking up. The problem that somehow gets solved concerns a double-standard attached to these executive jobs because of an unwritten corporate commandment that wants executives to be married, but with the stipulation that business comes first. Executives, then, are asked to maintain a relationship without excluding late business meetings; and this usually translates into neglected love and alienated kids, or a token spouse.

The fact that Cunningham was separated from her husband certainly added grease to the rumor's fire. However, the separation came about only because she had been honest with herself. She told herself that commitment to her career came first and would take up all her time. Sheehy's description of Cunningham's evenings at home help bear this out:

"At night she would take home the homely company briefcase (after 10 p.m.)...and crawl into bed to make notes toward a book on management styles. She also wrote out her life plans.

Her 20's would be for finding her weaknesses and developing her 'instrument'.

Thirties would be for developing credentials and maximizing her financial independence.

Forties would be the time to start jockying for real power."

Obviously, there is little room for love or love making.

The real tragedy behind Cunningham's resignation was the initial media focus on the rumor. It is a sad example when everybody gets on top of something that has no substance. Then, when it collapses, we are sucked in along with the rationality behind fairness and individual privacy.

And there is one other important element behind the spotlighting of Mary Cunningham: boredom. Its roots run deep throughout this society, pushing it up everywhere. When people are bored, tongues wag. This results in gross speculation, the ambiguous result of all bad gossip.

David Cole is a Collegian columnist

Writing a letter? READ THIS!
Letters to the editor should be kept as brief as possible, and must be typed at 67 characters per line, triple spaced.

WAR ON SALE
TOYS
AND IF YOU BUY THE BULLET HOLDER FOR $10.00 MORE, WE THROW IN DEAD KOREAN CHILDREN TO SCATTER ON YOUR CARPET, AT NO EXTRA CHARGE!
TOYS UNLIMITED
SHOP EARLY FOR CHRISTMAS! SHOW JR. YOU REALLY CARE— SPEND! SPEND! SPEND!
WE HAVE BAZOOKAS, GRENADES AND BLOOD IN A TUBE! Army toys on sale today!
The management
©1980

Letters

False alarms can be fatal

To the Editor:

An Amherst resident died this morning of a cardiac arrest. As unfortunate as this is, what makes it even sadder is the fact that the ambulance was delayed in responding to a situation where seconds can literally make the difference. The reason it was delayed is that the firemen were answering a false alarm in one of the UMass dormitories.

I want the student body to realise that when a false alarm is pulled, it not only causes inconvenience, costs the town and school money, and endangers the safety of many people, in this instance it may very well have caused the death of someone who need not have died.

Think about that the next time you pull a fire alarm.

Name withheld by request

New interpretation of Bible needed for '80s

To the Editor:

This letter is in response to Mark Moran's letter about contraception (Collegian 10/17/80). I wish to rebut the article to which he claims 71 percent of U.S. priests do not consider the use of birth control sinful.

Eighty percent of married Catholic women use birth control. The standard opinion of the Church regarding the purpose of marriage is for the begetting of children. Fr. Quigley feels a reappraisal of this policy is in order—he feels that birth control for health, economic or emotional reasons is not wrong. He does not advocate pre-marital sex but is aware of its existence.

In his letter, Mr. Moran interprets the non-denunciation of birth control (and of those using it) as advocating fornication (pre-marital sex). Please note that 80 percent of married Catholic women use birth controls—they are not fornicators. The equation of contraception with fornication is obviously not the absolute that Mr. Moran feels it is.

When Mr. Moran says it is better, "to preach true Christianity to the righteous few," I assume he considers himself one of the few. From the tone of his letter, it would seem that preaching to the select few would be redundant—if he's any example—because they already know it all. Perhaps the Church can better serve if it preaches to those who aren't perfect. Apparently, "the few" don't feel the Church should be responsive to the needs of all the parishioners, or to the children that might be born.

There was a time when "to go forth and multiply" wouldn't create many problems—in fact, it was necessary. Things don't stay the same, though. I'm sure Mr. Moran is aware of overpopulation, mass starvation, depletion of resources, unequal distribution of wealth, ever increasing threats of international war, etc. I think that it would be a sin to bring into the world a child I don't want, can't provide for or am not emotionally ready to handle. A child is something one should choose to have, it shouldn't be a by-product of sex.

If Mr. Moran has considered these factors and can still say righteously that birth control is sinful, I thank God he has not joined the priesthood. Anyone so intolerant of humanity and its problems has not, in my opinion, truly felt the teachings of Jesus Christ. Christ was the supreme advocate of love and tolerance and were He physically here, I feel He would oppose those who in the name of 'righteousness' and 'true Christianity' feel they must consign others to living with deprivation, emotional distress or poor quality of life.

When Christ was alive, his teachings had to be applied to the society and problems of that time. It's 1980, however, and we've got different problems that call for new interpretations and present-day applications of the Bible's messages. Perhaps if Mr. Moran would read the Bible with the present in mind, rather than memorizing it for purpose of debate, he might come to a truer appreciation of his religion and fellow human beings.

Anne Dutka
Southwest

P.T. Barnum knew about fee increases

To the Editor:

How can I complain? Don't UMass students enjoy the best of all possible worlds? Don't we have a champion of public higher education in the person of our "progressive," "wise," "compassionate" Governor? Won't his soon-to-be-imposed business dominated Board of Regents convincingly voice the needs and aspirations of those without economic clout? Aren't the proposed substantial annual fee increases (for room and board) to be considered by either the Board of Regents or Trustees emminently justified? Hasn't the quality of fee-based rendered services demonstratively improved? Hasn't the plight of those who've suffered financial aid cuts been alleviated? Didn't a Connecticut legislator named P.T. Barnum, who contrary to rumor, did not promote, "Make it in Massachusetts", once say, "There's a sucker born every minute."

If the question of fee increases affects you and you'd like to have an effect upon its outcome, please stop by the Student United for Public Education (SUPE) table in the C.C. Concouse.

Joe Connolly
Amherst

A day at the University Day School, located across from Southwest, is not all work. (Staff photo by Nancy Nutile)

ABSENTEE VOTING

VOTE ★ BE COUNTED!

Elections Division
Department of the State Secretary
Michael Joseph Connolly
Secretary of State

ABSENTEE BALLOTS FOR THE 1980 FEDERAL ELECTIONS WILL BE NOTARIZED IN THE MEMORIAL HALL LOBBY ON THE FOLLOWING DATES:

Wednesday	October 22, 1980	9 AM - 5 PM
Thursday	October 23, 1980	9 AM - 5 PM
Friday	October 24, 1980	9 AM - 4 PM
Monday	October 27, 1980	9 AM - 5 PM
Tuesday	October 28, 1980	9 AM - 5 PM
Wednesday	October 29, 1980	9 AM - 5 PM
Thursday	October 30, 1980	9 AM - 5 PM
Friday	October 31, 1980	9 AM - 4 PM
Monday	November 3, 1980	9 AM - 4 PM

Sponsored by: The Division of Student Services
The Office of Alumni Affairs
The Dean of Students Office

LEGAL ASSISTANT INTERNS WANTED:

The legal services Office has 8 positions available for full-time legal asistant interns for the Spring 1981 semester. Up to fifteen credits may be received through Office of Internships. Legal assistants assist attorneys of the Legal Services Office with client interviewing, investigations, legal research, negotiations, giving advice and referrals, preparation of court forms, and attendance at hearings in District and Superior Courts of Hampshire and Franklin counties, and participation in administrative hearings and federal litigation. Legal Assistants maintain continuing caseload under supervision of attorneys. Application availableat Office of Internships, Curry Hicks Building, and inquire further at Legal Services Office, 922 Campus Center. Applications due November 7, 1980 at Office of Internships. Writing sample required.

ALL THIRD WORLD AND
WOMEN STUDENTS ARE ENCOURAGED TO APPLY.

START YOUR DAY WITH TIPS

1532 THE WEATHER REPORT

1515 DAILY EVENTS

1509 CONCERT INFORMATION

545-1540
Request Tapes By Number

BACK ROOM
Record Shop
presents
"THE BOSS"
at $8.99

PC2 36854 "The River" is 20 Springsteen songs on four sides. It's the ultimate Bruce.

SALE ENDS SAT OCT 25th

Large Inventory of Hard-to-Find Records Our Specialty
Many In-Store Specials at all times
Hours 10AM - til 9 PM Daily
BACK ROOM RECORDS
CARRIAGE SHOPS
DOWNTOWN AMHERST

"Les Belles Soeurs" mourns depravity

By Jonathan Hamilton
Collegian Staff

"Les Belles Soeurs" is a captivating look at the lives of Canadian women who are mired in a proletarian existence. Canadian playwright Michael Tremblay created an atmosphere of bickering and jealousies throughout the play . The sensitive and well-written script lends itself greatly to the impressive direction given to the characters by Hampshire College guest Director Susan Einhorn.

Germain Lauzon (Kate Talbot) has just a wom a million trading stamps and has visions of buying a new living room with them from a catalogue. She invites her friends over for a green stamp party but makes it rather clear to them her prize is to be envied and she has no intention of sharing her wealth. Her friends, resentful of her gain, and wallowing in self-pity, climactically abscond with the stamps and leave her house in a mess.

The women share two things: an obsession for contests and a strong, pious attitude of Catholicism. Their dire need to enter contests, is to win anything, because they cannot afford luxuries like "Chinese dog doorstops " and "ashtray floor lamps." They all possess an undeniable urge to garner material goods despite their lack of money. This unquestionably alludes to a larger theme in that the characters want to attain a high position in life and forget their past and present depravity. This is, of course, a pipe dream similar to the theme in O'Neill's "The Iceman Cometh."

The women share two things: an obsession for contests and a strong, pious attitude of Catholicism.

There are some fine performances in the play. Most noteworthy is Martha Tormey who plays Rose Ouimet, a beleaguered, overtired, bitter housewife. She is confronted with a troubled marriage and another pregnancy. The only way she has to vent her frustrations is to fire back hostile quips and dirty stories at the other characters, shocking but entertaining her friends.

The costumes used in the production are quite effective and range from a polyester pant suit to a skimpy harlot dress. All outfits produce the desired effect: a lower-income microcosm.

The spotlighted soliloquies of the actresses add a great deal to the viewers perceptions of the characters. The women manifest inner yearnings and masked personalities such as Pierrette's (Susan Morehouse) speech condemning her ten years of living in bars. The soliliquies reveal jealousies, hidden lovers and resentment of physical enjoyment.

"Les Belles Soeurs" is an opportunity for a unique glance at a small, intimate view of middle-aged working-class life. The cast of 14 contributes beautifully to the overall success of the play. Tremblay is to be applauded for a fine effort at capturing a stunning look at life.

PSYCHOTHERAPY:
Individuals, couples, families. Sliding fee scale.
Psychological Services Center
545-0041

silverscape
Natural Cuisine
*fresh baked: quiche
*breads, honey desserts
*homemade soups
*pocket sandwiches
*cappuccino * espresso
Imported Beers
Coffee Beans
15 varieties
$3.99-4.99/lb.
*Wine, Beer, Liquored Coffee
264 n. pleasant st. amherst
Mon Sat 9 AM Midnight Sun 11 AM Midnight

OVERSEAS AUTO PARTS

For the most complete line of foreign auto parts and accessories in the Pioneer Valley.

Get an extra 10% off our low prices with this ad.

offer expires Nov. 15, 1980

API

Zayre Shopping Plaza
Rt 9 Hadley, MA 01305
Tel 253-3403

authorized API distributor

BAMBOO HUT downstairs at the Hotel Northampton

OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK.

NO. 1	$1.95	NO. 5	$3.25
Egg Roll Pork Chow Mein Pork Fried Rice		Egg Roll Scallops Chow Mein Pork Fried Rice
NO. 2	$1.95	NO. 6	$3.25
Egg Foo Yung Pork Chow Mein Pork Fried Rice		Goldfingers 007 Scallops Chow Mein Pork Fried Rice
NO. 3	$2.25	NO. 7	$3.25
Egg Roll Chicken Chow Mein Pork Fried Rice		Egg Roll Beef & Mushrooms Pork Fried Rice
NO. 4	$2.65	NO. 8	$3.45
Fried Shrimp Chicken Chow Mein Pork Fried Rice		Barbequed Spareribs Chicken Chow Mein Pork Fried Rice

A LA CARTE SPECIALS AVAILABLE
For Reservation or Take Out Orders
CALL 584-0182
36 King St., (HOTEL NORTHAMPTON)
NORTHAMPTON, MA. 01060

BLUE WALL
campus center at umass
at THE HATCH
EVERY TUESDAY
ROCK N' REGGAE
TOC Sticker & valid ID required to purchase alcohol

Casual • Comfortable
100% Cotton • Reversible
SCRUBS SURGICAL SUITS
Great for
Excercising • Lounging
Studying • Partying
and much - much more!!
2 pc. SUIT only $20.00
extra pants $12.99 shirts $9.99
small medium large
white blue green
Send check plus Number of Suits SIZE & COLOR to LAPHAM INDUSTRIES
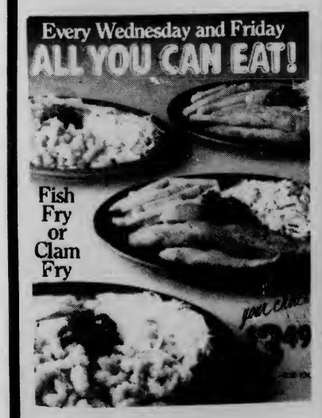
PO Box 120N, Easton MA 02356

Every Wednesday and Friday
ALL YOU CAN EAT!



Howard Johnsons
Rt. 9, Hadley

amc THEATRES
TIMES SHOWN FOR TODAY ONLY
ADULTS $2.75

HAMPSHIRE 4
584-7550 HAMP. MALL ON CAFE SQ., RT. 9, HADLEY, MASS.

DONALD SUTHERLAND Ordinary People R (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15	GEORGE BURNS OH, GOD! BOOK II PG (6:15 @ $1.75) 8:30
HOPSCOTCH R (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30	Walt Disney's Song of the South G (6:15 @ $1.75) 8:15
Movie and Dinner only $5.50 Have a choice of 5 different meals at the Pewter Pot Rest. in the Hampshire Mall and see one of the 8 movies in this ad (Sun-Thurs only)	Shopper's Show Movie FREE! Thursdays at 1:00 p.m. Oct. 23 Ice Castles Oct. 30 Lost and Found

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4
584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9 HADLEY, MASS.

GOLDIE HAWN PRIVATE BENJAMIN PG (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:15	CHUCK NORRIS LEE VAN CLEEF KAREN CARLSON THE OCTAGON R (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30
TIMES SQUARE (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30 R	ANTHONY HOPKINS THE ELEPHANT MAN PG (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15

Check Out LOW Prices
Everything for Halloween

Choose full head masks or create your own unique costume with these:

SPOOKTACULAR SELECTIONS
THEATRICAL MAKEUP COLORED HAIRSPRAY GREASE PAINTS TOOTH OUT BEARDS FEET HANDS HATS SPIRIT GUM STAGE BLOOD MUSTACHES NOSES FANGS TEETH WITCHES HATS AND BROOMS WIGS HEAD PIECES LIQUID LATEX STAGE WARTS SPOCK EARS STRANGE SPECS ARROW THRU HEAD DEVILS HORNS AND TAIL BUNNY EARS AND TAIL AND A VARIETY OF SPECIALTY ITEMS

MOROSE MASQUERADES

MR LURCH	BIGFOOT	WOLFMAN
UNCLE WAL	VAMPIRE	WEREWOLF
CHEWBACCA	WITCH	OLD TIMER
ALIAS MR HIDE	DEAMON	DRAGON FACE
DARTH VADER	SKULLHEAD	DEATH CYBORG

NEW ADDITIONS FULL MASKS
YODA UGNOUGHT SPOCK
VULCAN MASTER KLINGOH
NEW FOR KIDS
SESAME STREET FULL COSTUMES
FLAME RETARDANT
open daily and Saturday 8-5:15 Thurs nite until 9:00pm
H.L. CHILDS & SON
25 State St. Northampton

Collegian Classifieds

To place a Collegian Classified
•Come to Collegian Office CC 113
•8:45 to 3:45 Mon-Fri
•Classified deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day

Collegian Classified Rates
•15c per word
•Student rate 10c per word
•Cash in advance
•5 consecutive days 5 % discount
•Phone number FREE

ANNOUNCEMENT

Natalie Garber, M.A., Clinical Member of the International Transactional Analysis Association (I.T.A.A.), has returned from California to Amherst to resume her Amherst practice for the 1980-81 school year. There are several openings in groups and weekend marathons for former clients wishing to finish and for new clients. Using TA, Gestalt, hypnosis, Neurolinguistic Programming, Simonton cancer and pain reduction and cure methods, psychosynthesis. Couples, families, individuals and groups. Weekend marathons with Everett Delahanty, Ph.D., Teaching Member of I.T.A.A. 520 Amherst Road, 256-0549

AUTO FOR SALE

Ford Granada 1976 phone Sanjeen tel 549-1112

69 VW exc. cond. red. tires must see 600 or BO call Chris 256-0353

Must Sell Immediately 72 Ford Galaxie 500 needs some work Ric 549-0118 $250 BO

71 Volkswagon runs good $300 or best offer call Tim 549-6744

1973 Pinto Wagon good car, needs work $750/BO 549-4824

73 Dodge Cornonet Wagon inspected, reliable $300 253-9400

65 Ford Falcon needs some work best offer nites 253-7562

Convertible 1968 LeMans auto PS good condition $850 or BO 549-5127

CONFIDENCE TEDDY!!

Help guys! Sitting in dark corner of Drake, I'll never make it to the top. SOS CAP'N COOLA - there must be something you can do!

FOR RENT

PA system Echo mics Rhodes electric piano ideal for bands coffeehouses partys Jim 546-7517

2 single rooms in co-op house 2 kitchens 1½ baths 160 mo 665-4357 or 256-8632 non-smoking male

FOR SALE

Timberland Boots lace up to knee womens size 7 In v good condition $75 or best offer 546-6134

Guitar—Yamaha G55, classical acoustic, mint condition, new strings, case. Call Stu 256-861¢

Hockey Skates: CCM Tacks - size 8, CCm goal skates - size 10, Blue Bauer Supreme size 9 ½ $50 each call Brian at 253-5201

Yamaha YP-211 Turntable Runs well new cartridge and stylus $100 or BO call Carl 584-3608

3-piece suits (sizes 38-39) in excellent condition call 256-0626

Typewriter Olivetti 83DL perfect $190 253-2234

Full size bed call 253-7986 evenings

Gift Idea: Portrait Drawings; call dennis Delap 665-2972

Springsteen Tickets for 12/15 show at Boston Garden Call 546-7979

White Refrigerator 7.3 cu. ft. fridg with separate 2.25 cu. ft. freezer stands 2'x2'x5' exc. cond. $125 call 253-7307 after 5

TRS-80 48K or 16K System must sell mint condition call for details 546-7050

Rosignol Strato Skis, Molitor Boots size 10½ excellent condition $95.00 firm 549-2782

Manual Typewriter excellent condition $35 or best offer call 256-0769 after 5 pm Barbara

HELP WANTED

Overseas Jobs — Summer/year round Europe, S. America, Australia, Asia all fields $500-$1200 monthly expenses paid Sightseeing. Free info. write IJC Box 52-MA2 Cornona Del Mar CA 92625

Wanted part-time radiology technician for multi-specialty group practice please call 256-8561 ext 248 M-F 8 am-4 pm

Help excellent, patient statistics 101 tutor will pay call after 5 665-3679

INSTRUCTION

English Classes (ESL) Elementary, Intermediate. Two hours an afternoon, except Wednesday. Faculty/student spouses, visitors, immigrants. People's Institute, Northampton. 584-3956 NLI, P.O. Box 34, Northampton

INTERNSHIPS AVAILABLE

Legal Assistant Interns Wanted: The Legal Services Office has 8 positions available for full-time legal assistant interns for the Spring 1981 semester. Up to fifteen credits may be earned through Office of Internships. Legal assistants assist attorneys of the LSO with client interviewing, investigations, legal research, negotiations, giving advice and referrals, preparation of court forms, and attendance at hearings in District and Superior Courts, and participation in administrative hearings and federal litigation. Maintain continuing case load under supervision of attorneys. Applications available at Office of Internships, Curry Hicks Building, and inquire further at Legal Services Office, 922 Campus center. Applicationsdue November 7, 1980 at Office of Internships. Writing sample required. All third world and women students are encouraged to apply.

LEGAL SERVICES

Attorney Jason Rosenthal reasonable rates Days 584-4285, Evenings 253-7617

LOST

Lost at Poor Dick's last Thurs Gold rope chain bracelet. Great sentimental value Reward offered! Call Emily 6-7354 (no questions asked)

Keychain resembling safety pin reward offered sentimental value call Michelle 6-9282

Help!! Lost tan corduroy blazer with patches on sleeves. Please call 6-8287

Gold Ring with "E" initial sentimental value $ reward call Eileen 253-3316

Pet Cockatiel small gray bird w/orange cheeks lost Wed. reward any infor call Stephanie 546-7299

Nova Owners I hitched back to Boston on Friday Oct. 10 I left a brown and tan reversible jacket in your car call 6-7470

Lost gold ID bracelet of sentimental value. Andrea will give reward! Please call me 546-6212

MOTORCYCLES

Yamaha MXB 250 dirt bike excellent condition with helmet asking $575 call 586-1180

PERSONALS

Undergrad Pol. Sci. Assoc. interested in becoming member? Sign-up Rm 422 Thompson

Must place AKC sable male Collie gd stud watchdog loveable call Nina 6-8890

Need a brother! Delta Chi's little sister program is the answer. For more information call Scott 549-4911 or Tammy 549-4135

To my Maria, Happy ten month Anniversary. I love you, your Joey P.S. sorry if it's a day late

Mike—This is to make up for my "phrase slips" you're not sick! Luv, Andrea

You Mad-Dog!! Happy 25th Birthday! Love Wilddog

To the women in Price. . .Hope you made it home OK on 10/16. The man in the Yankee Hat

Coolidge 4th has the sexiest guys on Campus!

To Lewis's Mark, Tom and Mike Thanks for all the great love and support. Love KA

Steiger's Joe: Are you STILL trying to give out your address!? Some people never give up! (Don't be flattered. . . I just felt like putting an ad in the paper. . .) M.

Happy 21st Birthday Frannie Love Lainey

Max Happy Birthday to a great brother love your little sister

Max Happy 19th to someone very special Love always Linda

DAYNBIRD BIRTHDAY HAPPIES EBIRD

CAUSE is a statewide student association working on students' concerns throughout the state. There will be a meeting in the Suffolk Room in the Student Union, on Tuesday (10/21/80), at 6:30 PM. All interested students are urged to attend

Here's to Lake Umbagog. I want to go back

To the guys of 12L Brandywine we've heard about your meat now let's see it!

Dear FFFF, Happy Birthday! Love, your semi-roomies

RIDE WANTED

To Springfield Ohio on Thanksgiving Weekend Will share $$$ call 542-3011 Martina, keep trying

ROOM WANTED

Two males need two rooms for Spring semester. House or apartment near campus. 546-9613

ROOMMATE WANTED

Female own room Puffton $130 549-1156

Roommate to share a 2 bedroom apt with female student $200 per month

Female roomate to share apt ASAP downtown Northampton 584-6139 keep trying

SERVICES

Experienced typist available Fast, neat work, reasonable rates. 546-6439

Typing; Words-Worth, 37 East Pleasant Street, Amherst, 549-1303. Double-spaced text from 95c a page. Justified resumes from $3.50 a page. Telephone dictation line. Overnight rush jobs. Your words are worth it.

Ed's Painting Service—Dorm specialist, high experience, low rates, call 6-5725

Randy's Moving and Hauling—local and long distance at low price 546-5728 546-5726

STICK IT IN YOUR EAR

Stick it in your ear at Silverscape Designs. Free sterilized ear piercing with purchase of studs. Artistic placement of multiples. Silverscape features gifts from glass to gold, and a full repair service, and citizen quartz and mechanical watches. 264 N Pleasant St. Amherst 253-3324

TEMPEST

We were "The Kidz" last year. We have grown up. We are "Tempest", a hot rock 'n roll act. For bookings, call Rick at 546-7762

TRAVEL

Florida—The Great Getaway for Spring Break and January Term under $200 round trip jet 256-6704

WANTED

Top Dollars for class rings, gold, sterling, at Wendy's CC Concourse, twice a week

Highest prices paid for class rings, gold, and silver jewelry. See me before you sell. Daniel Smith, 25 North Pleasant St between Fotomat and Logos, Amherst M-Sat10-6 call 256-0710

GIG$ UMass Rock & Roll Band seeks dynamic talented male vocalist with high range to add the piece de resistance to this hot combination call now now Ricky 546-7762

Grateful Dead Tix any or all nights Radio City Music Hall please call 367-2445

Wanted: Springsteen Tickets!! Please call 253-9639

Tutors in COINS, Chemistry, Economics needed for Orchard Hill Academic Center. Workstudy and non-workstudy positions available. Send resume to 620 Field

Experienced Boxer to train two fighters for gloves 6-8629 6-8721

Fender Rhodes or Wurlitzer elec piano wanted under $700 Malcolm 6-9276

Cash for Gold, Silver, Class Rings 320 Dickinson OH, anytime call now 546-6607

STILL BUYING AT HIGHEST CA$H PRICE$

CLASS RINGS

Gold & Silver Jewelry

See me when you Sell

DANIEL SMITH

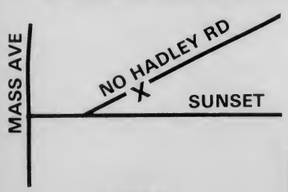
Permanently located between Fotomat and Logos at 25 North Pleasant St, Amherst 256-0710

MONDAY thru SATURDAY 10 AM to 6 PM

MEMBER AMHERST CHAMBER OF COMMERCE LICENSED BY TOWN OF AMHERST AND STATE OF MASS

• SALADS
• HOT MEALS
• LARGE GRINDERS
• HOMEMADE CAKES

• MUNCHIES
• CHIPS
• SODAS



OPEN MONDAY-FRIDAY 8-11 pm

— COUPON —
TWO-FOR-ONE SPECIAL
BUY ONE MEAL
GET THE SAME ONE FREE
WITH THIS COUPON
VALID ONLY ON TUESDAY 10/21
& WEDNESDAY 10/22

ONE FOR THE ROAD — Cindy Downing

AND LAURA GOT SHOT BY THE MOB. YEAH, RIGHT! BYE-BYE PF.
HEY FIG, WHAT WAS THAT ALL ABOUT?
SEE, MY FRIENDS IN OREGON PLACE BETS ON WHAT'S GOING TO HAPPEN ON THE SOAPS.
SO SINCE WE'RE 3 HOURS AHEAD I WATCH THEM HERE, THEN CALL MY BUDDIES TO TELL THEM WHAT HAPPENED!
UM, FIG... ISN'T THAT JUST A TAD ILLEGAL?
I GET 40% OFF THE TOP!

Under the Influence — by Mike Joyce

Abnormal Psychology — by J. Demskey

HI HONEY! I'm HOME!
HI HON! (SNIFF SNIFF) WHAT IS THAT SMELL ABOUT YOU?
OH! IT'S MY NEW 'PICKLE DEODORANT'! IT'S PROVEN TO BE MORE EFFECTIVE THAN THE OTHERS AGAINST PERSPIRATION AND BODY ODOR!
HEY MARCIA! DO YOU USE NEW PICKLE DEODORANT TO MAKE YOU SMELL GREAT EVERY DAY?
SURE DO MARY!
mmmm! SMELLS DELICIOUS! CAN I NIBBLE YOUR ARMPIT?
DO YOU REALLY?
OF COURSE NOT!
OH HONEY! I THOUGHT YOU'D NEVER ASK!!
CAN I STILL HAVE A NIBBLE?
WELL... OKAY. BUT JUST ONE.

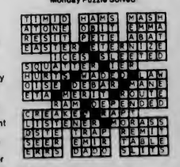
DOONESBURY — by Garry Trudeau

REALLY. I DIDN'T DO ANYTHING SPECIAL TO GET THIS TAN..
AND YOU SAY YOU DON'T HAVE ANY ITALIAN BLOOD?
NO, NOT THAT I'M AWARE OF
INCREDIBLE! THEN YOU MUST BE A NATURAL TANNIST! THAT'S EXTREMELY RARE, YOU KNOW
NO. I DIDN'T KNOW THAT..
LISTEN. I DON'T MEAN TO PRY OR ANYTHING, BUT HAVE YOU EVER TANNED COMPETITIVELY?
ONLY WITH FRIENDS, FOR FUN. WHY?
IF I WERE YOU, I'D GET A MANAGER. YOU'RE SITTING ON A GOLD MINE.

CROSSWORD

UNITED Feature Syndicate

Monday Puzzle Solved

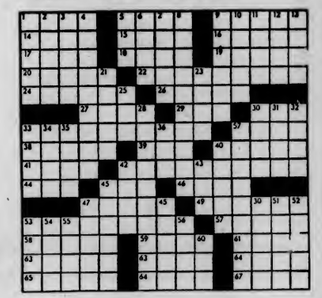


ACROSS

1 Further
5 Vanished
9 ----- apple
14 Of the U.S.A.: Abbr.
15 Utter frenziedly
16 Kind of speech sound
17 Its capital is Lome
18 Monkeys
19 Express
20 States: French
22 Kind of stock
24 Remove
26 Isolated rocks
27 Noblemen
29 Aircraft structural member
30 High mountain
33 100th anniversary
37 Pretext
38 Northern constellation
39 Can. prov.
40 Shows sadness
41 Confine
42 Loved one
44 Behold
45 New Zealand's extinct bird
46 Appear to exist
47 Breathes convulsively
49 Made erect
53 Vatican pretenders
57 Inner contentment
58 Righteous
59 ---- Ericson
61 Exercise control over
62 Ammonia compound
63 Brink
64 Netherlands export
65 Laira
66 "Auld lang -----"
67 Covers eggs for hatching

DOWN

1 Detested
2 Show feeling: Colloq.
3 Established by law
4 Objected
5 Brother
6 One of a Eur. nomadic tribe
7 Tinkers to ------ to Chance
8 Profanes
9 Speech part
10 Entrances
11 Arab chieftain: Var.
12 Ceremonial staff
13 Winter toy
21 Filthy places
23 Be unsuccessful
25 Adjective suffix
28 Early ripening fruit: 2 words
30 Queen of Jordan
31 Lecherous look
32 No longer current
33 Vehicles
34 Lake or canal
35 Mets, e.g.
36 Belonging to: Suffix
37 First appearances
40 Inelegant
42 Fair
43 Territory Abbr.
45 N. American trees
47 Packaging size
48 Somewhat disreputable
50 Arabian prefix
51 Conspicuous success
52 Considers
53 "---- For All Seasons"
54 Alaska city
55 Basebalier -----Speaker
56 Symbol
60 Fixed charge



D.C. Menu

Lunch
Shells in Cheese Sauce
Fish in Batter/Tartar Sauce

Basics Lunch
Shells in Cheese Sauce
Fish in Batter/Tartar Sauce

Dinner
Baked Chicken/Cranberry Sauce
Chopped Beefsteak Special

Basics Dinner
Chili Cheese Puff
Baked Chicken/Cranberry Sauce

Kosher Dinner
Apple Glazed Corned Beef
Hot Turkey Sandwich/Turkey Gravy

ALL PHASES OF HAIRCARE

expert haircutting

permanent waving

haircoloring and hennas

Regency Hairstylists

189 North Pleasant Street Amherst

253-9526

apprentice haircutters available

drop in! we will show how to french braid

WHAT ARE YOUR WORDS WORTH?

Your reports, manuscripts, letters and resumes; your thesis or dissertation—in whatever form, in almost any language—your words are worth the scrupulous, professional attention of Words-worth.

- Double spaced text from $.95 a page.
- Justified resumes from $3.50 a page.
- Telephone dictation line.
- Overnight rush jobs.

WORDS-WORTH

High quality computerized typing at an amazingly affordable price. Your words are worth it.

37 East Pleasant Street
Amherst, MA 01002
(413) 549-1303

McGEORGE SCHOOL OF LAW
UNIVERSITY OF THE PACIFIC

SACRAMENTO, CALIFORNIA

May 1, 1981 is application deadline for first-year students seeking Juris Doctor degree in 3-year Day or 4-year Evening program beginning in September 1981. Accredited: American Bar Association, Member, Association of American Law Schools.

PRE-LAW DISCUSSION FOR PROSPECTIVE LAW STUDENTS

DATE:	TIME:	PLACE:
Thursday 10/23/80	1:30-3:30 p.m.	University of Massachusetts

For further information Contact Avis Nicol, Placement Service, University of Massachusetts

charlie's
good food & drink

LONGEST HAPPY HOUR IN AMHERST
3-8 P.M. Daily (5 hours)!
All Bar Prices Reduced, Most Bar Drinks .95 Miller, Bud, Schlitz bottles .75
Specials after Happy Hour
SUN. Rolling Rock Night .75 bottles
MON. Canadian Night.99 bottles of Molson Golden Ale, Labatts Ale, Moosehead Beer, O'Keefe Ale .75 Molson Red Export Drafts
TUES. Erlanger Night .75 bottles
WED. Schnapps Night .75 shots of cinnamon, spearmint, peppermint Schnapps
THURS. Drink of the Night Special Different drinks, prices each week
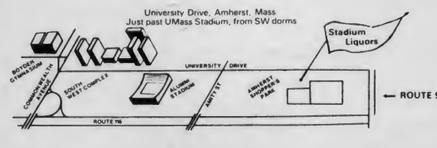
We are a nice place to drink, the place where friends meet
Come see our newly remodeled Lounge & Game Room
We have Asteroids, Galaxian, Space invaders, pool table, dart board
Our kitchen is always open, We also serve homemade pizza nightly
1 Pray St. Amherst, Ma 549-5403

STADIUM
KEGS— U. Mass. Amherst —WINE—
BEER— LIQUORS

Miller	12 oz btl. or can	7.99
Bud	12 oz b tl. or can	7.99
Miller Light	12 oz btl. or can	7.99
Molson		9.90 case
Tuborg		6.90
Michelob Light	12 oz cans.	8.59
Wiedemann		5.49



Save money—Save gas—Save time
10 a.m. — 253-5595 — til 11 p.m.

MR. BUILDER:
Come See What We Saw. . .
If you have a PASSION for PASSIVE solar
You may also have a PASSION for ACTION from your LUMBER DEALER
We are not Passive!
. . .and Save!
Your Headquarters for
— Pine, Oak, Hemlock —
Posts & Beams, Pine Sidings
Flooring & Paneling
Roofing, Hardware, Paint, Kitchens
One Mile North of U-Mass
COWLS BUILDING SUPPLY INC
125 Sunderland Road
North Amherst, Massachusetts 01059
413-549-0001

Hypercurricula . . .

Tues., Oct. 21

UMass Sport Parachute Club 6:30 p.m., 16-H Brandywine Apts. Discussion will include keeping the Cessna flying at Turners, movie promotion, and the club party.

Freiburg Abend—Come and learn about undergraduate study in the UMass Freiburg Program in Germany, 7:30 p.m., Third Floor Lounge, Herter.

Beaver College Semesters in Britain and Vienna—A representative will be available to talk with prospective students, 2-4 p.m., International Programs Office, 239 Whitmore.

Club for all interested foil, epee and sabre fencers meet 8-10 p.m., room 8, NOPE gym. For more info, call Ann or Peter, 549-0629.

Northeast/Sylvan Racial Awareness Program film offering, "The Palestinians"—this film speaks of the Palestinians' history and the resistance movement and also, discusses the role of the Palestinian National Movement inside the occupied territory and other Arab countries at 7 p.m. in the Johnson House lounge.

"Last Grave At Dimbaza"—a documentary which exposes the South Africa's government policy of Apartheid at 4 p.m. in the Dwight House lounge. For more information contact Sally Majewski, 106 Johnson House, 5-0290.

Election 1980: Is There A Choice? Find out tonight in Hasbrouck 20 at 7:30 p.m. Representatives of the Carter, Reagan, Anderson, and Commoner campaigns will be debating issues facing America in the Presidential election. For more information call Joel 549-4192, days, 545-0341. Sponsored by the Radical Student Union.

Spectrum: There will be a poetry staff meeting at 5 p.m., Rm. 104 in the Campus Center.

Film: "War Without Winners," a color documentary on the arms race will be shown in Machmer E-37 at 7:30 p.m.

Hunger Task Force information available from 2:30 until 3:30 in Room 428, Student Union for anyone who is interested in helping to solve the problems of World Hunger and was unable to attend Monday's meeting.

Wed., Oct. 22

Alpha Zeta Meeting 7 p.m., at Stockbridge Rm. 201. The film "The Nicest Dirt I Ever Saw" will be shown. Bring your T-shirt ideas!

UMass Bricycle Club meeting at 7 p.m. in the C.E.Q. office in the student union building.

Spectrum: There will be a Prose staff meeting at 5 p.m. in room 104 of the Campus Center.

Film: Generation of Resistance", Campus Center, room 174-176, 8 p.m.

The Fine Arts Center Broadway Theater Series presents "The Elephant Man", 8 p.m. FAC, call 5-2511 for more information.

Progressive Film Series, "The Palestinians", Room 917, Campus Center 8 p.m.

Biblical Prophecy and World Events—a talk given by Glenn Carter, sponsored by Campus Crusade for Christ. Join us in the Southside Room (next to Munchies) in the Hampden Center, Southwest, at 7:30 p.m. for refreshments, music and a biblical perspective on what the future holds.

Fencers Unite! Club for all interested foil, epee and sabre fencers meet 8-10 p.m., rm. 8, NOPE. For more info, call Ann or Peter, 549-0629.

Thurs., Oct. 23

Amnesty International, a human rights organization, will sponsor a lecture entitled "Human Rights in America" at 8 p.m. at the Newman Center. The talk will focus on the plight of the Native American in contemporary American society.

Recycling Project is going to have a general meeting at 5 p.m., Student Union Rm. 306. Topic discussed will be setting goals for the 1980-1981 school year. Info: 545-0618.

UMASSPIRG Bottle Bill Referendum Campaign meeting at 7 p.m. in Room 423B, Student Union. All are welcome to attend.

The Pioneer Valley L5 Society will hold its next meeting at 7 p.m. in the Future Resources Center, School of Education Building. All those interested in the Space Program are invited to attend.

Club for all interested foil, epee and sabre fencers meet 8-10 p.m., room 8, NOPE gym. For more info, call Ann or Peter, 549-0629.

The Christian Science Organization for UMass invites all students and faculty to attend testimony meeting at 7:30 p.m. in the Campus Center. Check Campus Center assistance desk for room number. All are warmly welcomed.

Film: "War Without Winners," a color documentary on the arms race, will be shown in Machmer E-37 at 7:30 p.m.

Sports notices

HANG GLIDING: club meeting tonight at 7 p.m. in Campus Center room 803. All club members and new members are urged to attend. A training film will be shown at precisely 7 p.m.

Meetings for INTRAMURAL VOLLEYBALL REFEREES will take place in room 249 Boyden at 7 p.m. tonight and tomorrow night. All students interested in refereeing IM volleyball should attend one of these meetings.

The intramural CROSS COUNTRY MEET is scheduled to take place tomorrow. Entries are due in the office tonight.

IM VOLLEYBALL for all divisions (men, women, co-rec, grad-fac) will begin Monday, October 27. Schedules should be ready for pick-up in the IM office by tomorrow afternoon.

The INTRAMURAL CROSS COUNTRY MEET for men and women undergraduates is scheduled to take place Wednesday, October 22 at 4 p.m. Entries will be accepted until Tuesday night if you are cleared by health services. Grad-fac entries will be accepted Tuesday night also.

IT PAYS TO MIDASIZE
Do you know the seven signs of a
BRAKEDOWN

Come to Midas for your free brake inspection and find out!
SUPER SAVER
Silver Knight* Muffler
$19.95 installed
* Silver Knight mufflers fit most U.S. cars and are unconditionally guaranteed for one year at this MIDAS shop.
MacPherson STRUTS
$99.95 per pair
* Except Datsun Z Cars FOR TODAY'S SMALLER CARS
MIDAS
586-4840 MIDAS 143 King St., Northampton
MON.-FRI. 8:00-5:30 SATURDAY 8:00-2:00

FRESHMAN REGISTER
is
IN
Stop by The Alpha Phi Omega office to pick up your copy.
We are located in the Student Union Building, Room 304, between 9 and 3 all this week.

FACULTY:
The Textbook Annex Needs Your HELP

Be Sure to give us your textbook requirements for the Spring semester!!
We would like to provide the most efficient service possible, but we need your help.
Please Send Us Your Orders By
October 22nd
1. Your early orders will enable us to check orders to eliminate some of the problems that might arise. We can order from the publishers sooner and reduce the risk of out of stock situations. This will also help us avoid the problem of having your books held up in the holiday mails.
2. We can buy books back from the students at the end of this semester and pay good prices for them, if we know what you plan to use for the Spring semester.
3. Department secretaries have textbook information forms or you may request them from the Textbook Annex.

We appreciate your cooperation and if the Annex staff can assist you, please do not hesitate to call. (5-0570-1-2)

Justino Kielec
Faculty Liaison

Russ Evans
Textbook Manager

Returns to publishers will begin November 10th
Please inform your students.

Sports

Lanard leads the way

By Kevin Cullen
Collegian Staff

Sometime during the second quarter of Saturday's 21-14 win over Maine, Ray Larnard decided he would do some serious punting.

"I had gotten off two pretty lousy kicks," said Larnard, punter for the University of Massachusetts football team. "A coach came up to me and really chewed me out."

Ray Larnard could have done one of two things: He could sit on the sidelines and mope, or he could go out there and kick the hell out of the football.

Ray Larnard went out and kicked the hell out of the football.

"I just made up my mind to go out there and punt the ball as best I could, considering the weather conditions," he said.

The conditions, at best, were atrocious. The field was an ankle-deep mud puddle. The conditions made Larnard's performance all that more exceptional. In the downpour of the second half, Larnard kicked eight of his 11 punts, averaging 36.4 yards for the day. In the fourth quarter, Larnard punted kicks of 38, 42, 43, 34 and 41 yards, the last one pinning Maine back on their own 15 before Scott Crowell's interception secured the win.

It was a bitter-sweet celebration for Larnard, a junior walk-on from Amesbury. Larnard was originally recruited by UMass and Maine. UMass lost interest, as did Larnard himself who battled a weight problem and questioned his desire to play.

Larnard and the rest of the UMass kicking game has taken some heat for their performances, particularly in the last-second loss to Delaware. But, on Saturday, credit was laid where credit was due. Credit laid at Ray Larnard's foot.

"It was just good to be able to help the team get this win," Larnard said. "With the weather, I had to shorten my step and just try to make contact."

Larnard was quick to praise freshman walk-on John Hansen, who handles the snaps on special teams.

"John was giving me the ball perfect all day," Larnard said. "Those snaps in this weather are as difficult as the kicks."

Several UMass players said Saturday's game was the worst conditions they had ever played in.

"I didn't have any footing whatsoever during the second half," said tailback Garry Pearson, whose three touchdowns pushed his national scoring lead to ten touchdowns and 62 points.

Offensive tackles Tony Pasquale and Chris O'Neil both said a dry field would have probably resulted in a UMass romp.

"The rain is a great equalizer," Pasquale said. "But I think if we played on a dry field we would have destroyed them."

Crowell actually enjoyed it all.

"I like playing in this weather," said the junior linebacker from Melrose. "It cuts down a lot of the crap and we can play some football."

The rain never did dampen Ray Larnard's kicking leg.

"You see this guy," UMass assistant coach Clarence Brooks was saying, his hand on Ray Larnard's shoulder. "He saved our ass. Can you print that? He just saved our ass."

Ray Larnard smiled a bit, and continued to get dressed.

staff writer Steve Frecker contributed to this report

The UMass women's field hockey team takes its perfect 12-0-0 record into today's contest against Springfield College at NOPE at 3:00 p.m. UMass' Tina Coffin, above, goes to intercept the ball from a Northeastern opponent earlier this season. (Staff photo by Jackie Savonarola)

Campus Sports Roundup

Women runners lose home meet

By Jim Graham
Collegian Staff

The UMass women's cross-country team lost to three of the best teams in New England last Saturday in its only home meet of the season held on Amherst College's rain soaked, three-mile course. Vermont combined its individual talents and depth to win, with New Hampshire and Rhode Island narrowly beating UMass in the team scoring.

"It's not the best I've seen them, but they ran some really good times. Tricia Moores and Judy McCrone ran excellent times for three miles," Coach Julie LaFreniere said.

Moores finished first for UMass the third overall in 16:55 with McCrone second for UMass and fourth overall in 17:03. Third for UMass was Cathy Petrick with Eileen Everett fourth and Dill Wilson fifth for the UMass runners. Both Moores and McCrone broke the course record.

"I've never thought I could run that fast. Vermont's two top runners were so good and I was nervous. It was like a pre-New Englands for me so I treated it like it was a big meet," said Moores, who ran her fastest ever two-mile during the race.

Vermont's Judy St. Hillaire was the overall winner in 16:05 and broke the course record by over a minute. Vermont also picked-up the second place spot to help give it more than a 30 point lead over the other teams.

"Vermont should be awesome at the New Englands next week," coach LaFreniere said.

The women's next meet will be this Saturday when they compete in the New Englands at Franklin Park in Boston. UMass won the New Englands last year and are expected to place well near the top on Saturday.

Rams win, 2-0

By Scott Solomon
Collegian Staff

Len Mercurio's goal at 37:16 of the first half paced the Rhode Island Rams to a 2-0 shutout over the UMass men's soccer team Friday in Rhode Island.

The goal came on an indirect kick from 20 yards out, with an assist going to Rhode Island's Rui Caetano. Caetano scored an unassisted goal at 74:23 of the game.

The loss is UMass' second straight, and sinks the Minuteman mark to 4-8. UMass will face number one ranked Connecticut on Saturday at 1:00 p.m. at Boyden.

2nd half surge lifts Minutemen

By Sharon Pannozzo
Collegian Staff

With a second half offensive explosion, the J.V. football team trounced Westfield State 27-0 Sunday at Westfield. A crowd of over 500 watched as Westfield, in its first year fielding a football team, was squelched by a superior UMass team.

This victory was the Minutemen's first of the season, evening their record at 1-1.

No scoring occurred during the first half of play. UMass was unable to execute ball control offense, killing scoring drives on penalty infractions.

On the opening kick-off of the second half, the Minutemen took possession and marched the length of the fiefl. Quarterback Barrett McGrath took the ball in from the one yard-line on a QB sneak. Later in the quarter, Steve Johnson scored on a 17-yard run. Place-kicker John Ferrigno hit two field goals of 29 and 38 yards to make the score 20-0. The final touchdown came on a 20 yard swing pass from Mark Tabor to Loney Bond. On the strength of a tremendous offensive line surge, UMass controlled the line of scrimmage throughout the game.

The Minutemen aerial attack was directed by Barrett McGrath, Mark Tabor and Tom Sweeney. All played well, but once again McGrath was impressive as a team leader

The Minutemen aerial attack was directed by Barrett McGrath, Mark Tabor and Tom Sweeney. All played well, but once again McGrath was impressive as a team leader and rifle-armed passer. Wide receivers Kevin Jackson and Gary Freker came up with receptions in crucial third and long yardage situations to keep scoring drives alive.

Westfield's offense was bottled by a scrappy UMass defense. Steve McDonald had two interceptions and Dean Frontiero also snatched an errant Westfield pass.

By game's end, Coach Clarence Brooks had accomplished the junior varsity objective once again; all his players had taken the field and were given the chance to play.

On October 27 at 2:30 p.m. the J.V. Minutemen will seek their second consecutive victory against American International College in Springfield.

Crew fares well at Charles River

The UMass Crew Club's youth eights rowed to a ninth place finish in the Head of the Charles Regatta in Boston this weekend. It was the highest finish of the four boats UMass entered in this, the largest single-day regatta event in the world.

In mixed eights competition, UMass placed eleventh out of forty teams (every race had forty squads in competition), while the women's four finished 22nd.

Against two West German Olympic crew teams, the United States Olympic team and eventual winner Navy, UMass placed 26th in the Championship eights.

The Regatta was the only race UMass had for this season. They will be in training until the regular season begins in the spring.

UMass faces Lyons tonight

By Maureen Sullivan
Collegian Staff

The women's volleyball teams will face Mount Holyoke College tonight at NOPE gym. the J.V. match, beginning at 6:00 p.m., will precede the varsity match, which will start at 7:30 p.m.

The UMass J.V.s were set back for the second time this season, falling to Harvard University 15-8, 7-15, 15-9, 14-16, 6-15 last Saturday at NOPE gym.

The Minutewomen started off well, blocking off Harvard at the middle to win the first game. In the second game, however, Harvard took advantage of several missed serves by UMass and an apparent lack of concentration to tie the match.

In game three, the momentum swung back to UMass, as its middle blocking and outside spiking paced the Minutewomen ahead. The Minutewomen were ahead in game four, 12-9, when the serving again fell flat and Harvard rallied to tie the match again. In that game, a scorekeeping error took away a UMass point, taking away a probable victory in both game and match. TheCrimson rally continued into the deciding game, as they dominated to win the match.

Netwomen finish strong in N.E.

By Antony Kundert
Collegian Staff

The women's tennis team competed against 47 other teams in the New Englands this past weekend at Amherst College. The event lasted from early Friday morning to late Sunday afternoon. All teams competed with their number one and two singles and doubles.

The final team points have not been computed yet but the semi-finals and finals were dominated by players from Harvard, Yale, and Dartmouth. Coach John Beal feels UMass will place in the top ten based on last year point totals.

UMass' number one singles Barbara Mills got by her first round in a three setter. In the second round her ankle injury began to affect her play by reducing mobility and the force of her shots. She lost the round and subsequently the consolation round which she played despite great pain from her ankle. Number two Elizabeth Sullivan lost her first round as well as the consolation round.

The UMass doubles teams faired a bit better as they were able to advance further in the consolation and main draw events. Kathy Burke and Carolyn Tarbell playing at number one lost the first round but were able to take four consolation rounds before they were eliminated.

Number two doubles Helen Najarian and Sally Fryberger went two rounds in the main draw and then lost their consolation round.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Volume CX, Issue #36 The newspaper of the University of Massachusetts at Amherst Wednesday, October 22, 1980

WOMEN IN SOLAR ENERGY
PASSIVE SOLAR 1980
WISE

Women combat discrimination in solar field

By Gayle Young
Special to the Collegian

During the opening remarks of a conference on women in solar energy, consumer activist Ermagard Hunt held up one of the newest do-it-yourself books on home solar projects—The Energy Savings for Homeowners Guide by Earl Ubell.

The book is full of illustrations of men hammering, men designing, and men installing solar units. There is only one illustration of a woman: A cavewoman, standing with baby in arms by a campfire.

"We need help to combat this sort of thing," said Hunt over gales of laughter from the more than 200 women in the audience.

Women, who have traditionally been excluded from technical fields, must build their own confidence network in the growing solar industry, said Hunt, summing up the theme of the two-day Women In Solar Energy (WISE) conference, which is part of the 5th "National Solar Energy" conference being held at UMass this week.

WISE blossomed, according to spokeswoman Susan Dolan,—from a series of workshops to be included in the national conference—to a full-fledged two-day, mini-conference attended by over 400 women from across the country.

"We have been planning it since January," said Dolan. "There was an almost spontaneous need for women to get

turn to page 11

The snack bar at the "Passive Solar '80" conference takes up space in the Campus Center. The Fire Marshal has called for removal of the large steel lockers blocking the entrances to the student offices. (Staff photo by Nancy Nutile)

Solar conference wreaks havoc with meeting and study space

By Ed Levine
Collegian Staff

The "Passive Solar 1980" conference being held this week on the University of Massachusetts campus has drawn criticism from many students who say they have been inconvenienced by conference activities.

The conference has caused a lack of study space in the basement of the Campus Center building, a change in the operations of the student-run Earthfoods restaurant, crowding in the Campus Center Coffee Shop and Hatch cafeteria and the loss of meeting room space available to students.

Mark Spangler, director of the UMass Conference Services Office, which booked the eight-day function, said the conference is expected to draw over 2,500 people and net the University at least $150,000 before it ends this Sunday. While Spangler acknowledged that some students have been inconvenienced by the conference , he said the problems will be short-lived and are unusual for conferences at the University.

"The Passive Solar program is a unique situation," Spangler said. "The bulk of our large programs are held during the summer months, but, the conference is co-sponsored by the University's Cooperative Extension Service and is related to issues affecting us all. The inconvenience to students will hopefully be temporary and minimized by the relative shortness of the conference."

Spangler said conferees have booked most of the Campus Center Hotel, the majority of the meeting rooms in the Campus Center and Student Union Building, much of the Fine Arts Center, Bowker Auditorium and classrooms during the evening.

turn to page 14

Campus debate sparks heated attacks

Lou Zemmel, representing Barry Commoner, spoke to students last night as (left to right) Lou Crampton for Reagan, Joseph Frank for Carter, and moderator Mimi Turchinetz look on. Not pictured is Andy Canada representing Anderson. (Staff photo by Nancy Nutile)

By Ed Levine
Collegian Staff

Representatives of four presidential candidates met in a head-on debate at the University of Massachusetts last night and attacked each other for their political and ideological views, their records, and their capabilities.

Representing their candidates at the debate sponsored by the UMass Radical Student Union were Anderson supporter Andy Canada, of Worcester, director of the pharmacy at the UMass-Worcester Medical Center; Lou Zemmel, Citizen's Party Senatorial candidate from Connecticut representing Barry Commoner; Former UMass English Professor Joseph Frank representing Carter; and Reagan representative Lou Crampton, former candidate for state Treasurer, from Boston.

While the representatives spoke about the issues in this year's election, they frequently attacked each other for various reasons.

"The alternatives to John Anderson are abhorrent to me as an individual," Canada said, citing the "Peter Principle" of "people rising to their level of incompetence" and casting Carter in that role.

Zemmel, who stressed more of a need for a third, alternative political party in the country, attacked Carter and Reagan, lumping them together as "republocrats."

"It's important to understand how the republocrats got this country into the mess it's in. We've contracted two cancers and we don't know what to do with them: Inflation and unemployment," Zemmel said.

"Do economics make human values, or can we have a country where human values make economics," Zemmel said. "Society should be served first and the corporations must be made to conform."

Calling Reagan a "chauvanist and a hypocrite," Frank said the Republican candidate has changed his views to appeal to the voters in the general election, hiding his conservative trend which won him his party's nomination.

"The Reagan campaigning now couldn't have won the nomination," Frank said.

"Carter is the most inconsistent, flip-flop, squishy-soft president this country has ever had," Crampton said. "Carter has let himself get kicked around by everybody."

On the issues, Canada said Anderson wanted to put woman in positions in the judicial branch, is opposed to the MX missile, is opposed to draft registration, and wants to improve the nation's conventional armed forces and rely more heavily on "collective security arrangements" with America's allies.

Zemmel said the Citizen's party's main interest is to make people aware of the need for a third party and to realize that the current politics won't work in this country.

"There is a beast running loose in our

turn to page 9

Fighting reported in Iranian cities

Associated Press

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Abadan's battered garrision beat back Iraqi tank assaults yesterday on the Iranian city's main gate at the Bahmanshir River bridge, Iran said. But Iraqi forces pressed the attack and hurled mortar barrages at the oil refining center.

Iraq said its tank forces were hammering at Abadan and Baghdad Radio claimed 38 Iranians were killed in Abadan and in house-to-house fighting in the oil port of Khorramshahr, 10 miles to the north.

In the 30th day of the Persian Gulf war, the heaviest fighting was reported at the two Iranian oil cities on the disputed Shatt al-Arab waterway. Iran claimed its entrenched defenders halted Iraqi tanks at Bahmanshir River bridge, considered the gateway to Abadan.

Iraqi invaders of the port city of Khorramshahr were met by snipers and bursts of machinegun fire in the streets, Iran said.

Iranian and Iraqi jets carried out raids on targets along the 300-mile battlefront and an envoy from the Islamic Conference waited in Tehran for official response to a proposal for negotiations by a team of mediators from Islamic countries.

"They'r still talking to me and that means there is still a glimmer of hope," said Habib Chatti, head of the 40-nation conference.

Iran rejects Carter's hostage negotiations

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Iran yesterday cold-shouldered President Carter's offer to free Iranian assets and resume normal trade if the 52 American hostages are released. Prime Minister Mohammad Ali Rajai was quoted as saying Iran would not negotiate on the hostages to get spare parts for its American military equipment.

Tehran Radio said "the government of Iran will not give Carter the slightest signal and will not allow him to show this signal off on American television and bring them the news of an imminent solution to the hostages issue."

Tehran Radio said "it is quite obvious to us that after all those evil plots to crush Iran, Carter could never tolerate a strong Iran under the banner of Islam. His deceitful words can only please pro-American groups in Iran."

DIGEST

Associated Press

California study calls risk from birth control "negligible"

PHILADELPHIA — The risks to women from birth control pills are "negligible," and diseases previously linked to them may actually be related to such things as smoking, drinking, the number of one's sexual partners and even sunbathing, according to a new study.

The 10-year study, conducted by the Kaiser-Permanente Medical Center in California under an $8 million grant from the National Institutes of Health, was released yesterday, the 20th anniversary of the date the pill was first put on the market in this country.

"The main conclusion from this study is that in a U.S. population of young, adult, healthy, white, middle-class women, the risks of OC (oral contraceptive) use are negligible," Savitri Ramcharan, the project's research director, said at a news conference.

Legality of finance law questioned by Anderson

BOSTON — A lawyer for independent presidential candidate John Anderson challenged the legality of a federal election finance law yesterday, saying it's choking off hefty cash contributions from the campaign.

The case, before a three-judge federal appeals court, challenged a section of the Federal Election Campaign Act that permits individuals to contribute up to $20,000 to the political committees of national parties and permits the parties to spend up to $4.7 million.

Subscription Rates

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 333 220) is published daily Monday through Friday excluding vacations, exam periods, or holidays, for $15 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

THE $74.95 DIPLOMA.

(Save up to $20 on Siladium® College Rings.)

Siladium rings are made from a fine jeweler's stainless alloy that produces a brilliant white lustre. It is unusually strong and is resistant to deterioration from corrosion or skin reactions.

In short, it's quality and durability at an affordable price.

Both men's and women's Siladium ring styles are on sale this week only through your ArtCarved representative. Trade in your 10K gold high school ring and save even more.

It's a great way of saying you've earned it.

ARTCARVED COLLEGE RINGS

Symbolizing your ability to achieve.

Oct. 22, 23, 24 10 AM-3 PM — Date

in the Campus Center — Location

$20.00 Deposit

the UNIVERSITY STORE

Deposit required. Master Charge or Visa accepted.

© 1980 ArtCarved College Rings

A Refreshing Change TACO VILLA
Quick Wholesome Inexpensive in the center of town (ask anyone)
Fri & Sat 11 - 1 am
Sun-Thurs 11 - 9
Also — in Downtown N.Ton

Read the Collegian

PSYCHOTHERAPY: Individuals, couples, families. Sliding fee scale.
Psychological Services Center
545-0041

How's Your Aim?
Enter the Cheshire "English Pub" Beer 1980 Dart Championships and find out! Your team may win $1,000 cash plus 5 10-speed Raleigh English Racers! See ad in this issue or call Mibsy Brooks at The Phoenix.
536-5390.

DOWNTOWN AMHERST / 256-6004 (across from the fire station)
SKATE SALES & RENTALS
Indoor & Outdoor Skating Specialists
Boots, Plates, Wheels & Bearings in all price ranges.
GROUP RATES & PARTIES OPEN SEVEN DAYS A WEEK...10-5

Commission discusses anti-social behavior

By Teresa Hoffman
Collegian Correspondent

The Chancellor's Commission on Civility in Human relations yesterday discussed encouraging more student-faculty interaction implementing educational programs that would curb racism, sexism and other forms of anti-social behavior, and complaints recieved last year about letters to the editor in the Collegian.

The Commission consisting of 12 student, faculty and staff representatives, was formed by chancellor Henry Koffler last November to address the problem of anti-social and racist behavior at UMass.

One of the ways the commission hopes student-faculty interaction will be improved is the Mentor Program.

Vincent Dethier, chairman of the Commission, praised the Mentor Program in its efforts to encourage faculty members to become more involved with students outside the classroom.

The Mentor Program is chaired by Sally Freeman, the director of the University's Office of Community Development.

The Commission also discussed organizing a Mini-College to educate the faculty and campus media. The two-day Mini-College would be held during intersession and would feature talks and seminars concerning human relation problems.

The Commission also planned to organize a campus wide event during the spring semester that would deal with topics similiar to those discussed at the Mini-College, Johnnetta Cole, member of the commission and of the Anthropology department said.

Cole also suggested creating an Office of Human Relations to deal with anti-social behavior on a day to day basis.

In response to complaints last year about Collegian letters to the editor, the Commission discussed the possibility of creating a committee to "establish relations with the Collegian in regard to issues of human relations," Irving Howards of the Political Science department said.

Ervin Staub, of the Psychology department stressed that the committee should "not advise directly" but should make an effort to establish an exchange of ideas between the committee and the Collegian editors about how to

turn to page 14

Winner of sticker campaign to oppose Collins

By Joseph Barrett
Collegian Staff

Deanna Flynn, who ran a successful sticker campaign in the state primary election, will oppose State Representative James Collins, D-Amherst, on November 4.

"Once elected, you represent everyone, not just a party-I'm an issue person," said Flynn, Republican candidate for the Third Hampshire District State Representative office. "If elected, whatever's good for Amherst, Pelham, Granby and Belchertown will get my vote."

Flynn said the major issue in this campaign is incumbent Collins. "I really don't think he represents this area," said Flynn. "He's voted for the gas tax, legislative pay raise, and other taxes; with issues like Proposition 2 1/2, we can see that the public is crying out for help." Flynn said she would give more control to local governments in setting tax ceilings, if elected.

Flynn questioned Collins' assertion that he was a full-time legislator. "He's unavailable. Who does he really represent anyway, Boston or Amherst?" Flynn said that if elected she would set up office hours in each town and on campus about once a week.

Flynn pointed out the fact that Massachusetts is ranked sixth in the country for state legislature spending. "Isn't that a little surprising, considering our size?" she asked. Flynn stressed that she would oppose the liberal spending mentality, and would fight to lower taxes and give more spending power back to the towns.

Flynn said that her politics favored home rule-type legislation rather than legislation that gives favor to state-wide organizations. "Collins voted to send all unspent state-allocated funds back to the state rather than redistributing it and leaving it to the town? I would not do something like that," she said.

Flynn produced a document provided by the Republican committee in Boston, and said "Over the last two years Colins has voted with the house leadership 146 times out of 203 significant roll calls. Can they really be right that many times?" she asked.

Flynn said she would try to be more of an independent voter.

Carter-Reagan debate set for next Tuesday

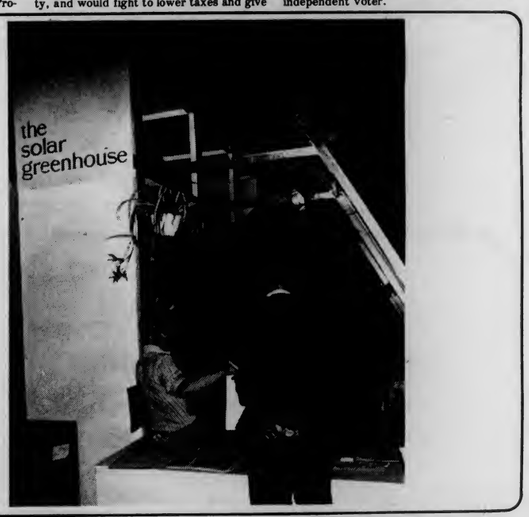
WASHINGTON (AP) — Negotiators for President Carter and Ronald Reagan agreed yesterday that the two presidential candidates will debate face to face in Cleveland next Tuesday, Oct. 28.

The debate, scheduled to start at 9:30 p.m. EDT, will be in two equal segments, the first permitting follow-up questions by the panelists and giving opportunity for rebuttal. The second will be just rebuttal and counter-rebuttal.

In the 90-minute debate, all subjects will be open for discussion, including domestic affairs, the economy, foreign policy and defense.

The debate will be run by a moderator and four panelists who will be chosen by the sponsoring League of Women Voters.

Agreement for the debate came after two days of discussions between Robert Strauss, chairman of Carter's campaign, and James Baker of Republican Reagan's campaign. The two had met for 4 1/2 hours Monday, then continued the discussions by telephone yesterday.



A representative of "Sunplace", a solar greenhouse company, talks to an observer at the "Passive Solar '80" conference exhibit in the Campus Center. (Staff photo by Nancy Nutile)

Edward Markey comments on presidential candidates

U.S. Rep. Ed Markey addresses the Passive Solar 1980 Conference. (Staff photo by Nancy Nutile)

By Chuck Kilfoye
Collegian Staff

Describing President Jimmy Carter's national energy policy as "grossly ineffective at best," U.S. Rep. Edward Markey, D-Massachusetts, addressed a crowd of solar conference attendees last night in the University of Massachusetts Student Union Ballroom.

"President Carter wanted a balanced budget, so he cut the federal funds allotted to the development of solar energy," said Markey. "Carter's logic was to have a balanced budget today, and risk the nations energy needs in the future," he added.

Representative Markey was responsible for a successful amendment that later reinstated $49 million to the 1981 fiscal budget relating to solar and other energy alternatives, according to a press release from Markey.

"The Administration was beaten because of the power of the people," said Markey.

"Carter is not perfect. However Ronald Reagan believes nuclear power is safe and that there is more oil in Alaska than the Persian Gulf," adding, "Ronald Reagan is the most dangerous man that could ever hold the oval office."

Markey then stated that a vote for John Anderson was a vote for nuclear power. "Anderson has one of the longest pro-nuclear power voting records in Congress," said Markey.

I represent an area that has the Seabrook Nuclear Power Plant to the north and the Pilgrim II Nuclear Power Plant to the south. It seems that people are more concerned with the toast popping up in the morning than the end result of a bankrupt national energy policy," Markey said.

According to Congressman Markey, the Harvard School of Business released statistics indicating that the United States could reduce energy consumption by 30 to 40 percent without affecting the present standard of living. "The solution to our energy problems is not in oil or gas but in solar," said Markey. "Solar is the future of America" he added.

"As each year goes by, a peaceful revolution is on the move to take the power away from the bureaucrats in Washington and return the power to the people," said Markey.

"This is Exxon's land right now. They have the resources. We have the numbers. We have the truth. We will be sucessful,"

Ellen Shipley's album wins "upset" victory

By Robert B. Cargill
Collegian Staff

Pat Benatar
Crimes of Passion (Chrysalis Records)

Ellen Shipley
Breaking Through The Ice Age (RCA Records)

This "decision" might surprise you.

In the on corner is Pat Benatar's "Crimes of Passion," already a Top-Ten contender on the charts containing such potent-pop tunes as "Treat Me Right," "You Better Run," and an emotionally intense "Hell Is For Children." Bearing a slight resemblance in the opposite corner stands Ellen Shipley's "Breaking Through The Ice Age," replete with its own brand of "fire," yet seemingly no match for the torrid display of passion the former delivers through her songs.

Both come out rocking in a steamy clash of sensuality, romance, and high-tension conviction, but the lesser-known Shipley emerges as a clear,"upset" victor.

Not that we should pass judgement on albums based solely on comparison, but due to the similarity of situation (both Benatar and Shipley are Brooklyn-born while each of their two albums to date have been released practically simultaneously), as well as their likeness in musical styles, age, and physical appearance, this second-album duel just couldn't be avoided.

Whereas Benatar's "Crimes Of Passion" is a thorough disappointment, Ellen Shipley's "Breaking Through The Ice Age" is an unexpected but welcome pleasure.

Granted, Pat Benatar is one of the most powerful forces in rock today, excluding the fact that she's got one "helluva" look, oozing out eroticism in buckets. But "Crimes" is a definite cop-out in that its content is superficial, allowing little room for growth or any kind of artistic development. There are two many mainstream efforts here, three-minute numbers weighed down by singalong cliches, an indication that Benatar and band are more after our dollars than our respect.

Benatar's vocals are coaxing in the least while exhilarating at best, though especially effective when she lets herself go, as in "Hell Is For Children" (about child abuse), in which she pours forth with some heavy-duty wailing, or "Out-A-Touch," held down by a scintillating cry of "I need you" while climbing several octives in a superbly chilling fashion.

Unfortunately, the pop sound of "Crimes" outweighs its merits. On a whole, this disc is unimpressive, particularly when one senses the potential that Benatar inheres.

As for Ellen Shipley, her Breaking Through The Ice Age indubitably represents a step forward, presenting us with songs that are at once wistful and dynamic. Her pleas for co imitment in every sense of the word maintain prominence throughout the album, from the opening-number appeal of "c'mon and give it to me heart to heart," to the closeout's "Living For The Tenderness," A statement such as "the democrats and the bureaucrats/are fighting for the spoils of war/you and me/we pay the price for one more" is obviously not a passing fancy of hers but a serious comment on the perils of modern-day society. No, there isn't any capriciousness here; basically, these songs depict Shipley's conditions for living and they rather effortlessly prove striking.

She asks "what are you gonna do?" in "Solo", an upbeat rocker leading off side B, and one's immediate reaction is to respond, saying, "hey, she's talking to me!" Her natural tendency is to evoke our sensibilities, to make us feel, and it works because we know she is experiencing such feelings too, whether they be anger, frustration, or just an overwhelming concern for life in general.

"Breaking Through The Ice Age's" tone is nothing but heartfelt and sensitive, chiefly due to the turbulent, often gutteral vocals of Shipley who sounds like she's about to break down and cry, begging, choking on her words, pleading for everything you've got with everything she's got. You can't help but want to give it to her.

She'll attack with "This Little Girl (has got the hots for you)" or "Talk Don't Shout"and then retreat, whimpering just like that"little girl" on "Lost Without Your Love."Shipley's album seems to embody all of the confusion and fear so prevalent in society today — she's bottled up her anxieties and then has smashed them on cue like a Molotov Cocktail.

Top cuts? There are none — all are standouts though side B is particularly emotion-packed, led by the commanding, tour-de-force, "Promise To Keep." Surely unmatched as far as energy is concerned, this anthem quivers and shakes in a rapid outpour of "get down on your knees" compassion. We immediately sense that it's all or-nothing as Shipley howls "you're all aloneand in so deep" in the searing and concentrated manner with which she has Pat Benatar and Ellen Shipley: two agressive females on the rock scene punching their way to the top. Through "Crimes of Passion," Benatar takes the rough and tough sensuality approach, the "I'm Gonna Follow You" stance, while Shipley in "Breaking Through The Ice Age" practically begs us to join her in the struggle. I'll join the camp of Ellen Shipley.

"Gang of Four" review page 8

BARSELOTTIS
WEDNESDAY
Whoop & Holler Night
Nine till Closing
16 oz. Nick shot $1.25
Downtown Amherst

Thinking of Applying to Honors?
Departmental and University Honors
General Information Meeting
Wednesday, November 17th,
1:30 PM, Campus Center 160A
Bring a Friend!

Honors Fall 1980 Admission
For Fall 1980 Admission to University Honors
Application and Interview Must be Completed by:
Monday, November 22nd
Prior to Spring 1981 Pre-Registration

SAVE-ON-TIRES
ROUTE 9 HADLEY, MA.
MICHELIN - CONTINENTAL - DAYTON - B.F. GOODRICH - ARMSTRONG - GOODYEAR - PLUS OTHER MAJOR BRANDS
SUPERSEDES ALL OTHER ADS
CASH & CARRY TIRE SALE CASH & CARRY
Wholesale to the Public.
We can arrange to have your tires mounted.
A full line of regular and snow tires: Bias Ply, Metric, and all season Radials with steel or fabric belts. All available at wholesale prices. Stop by and see the largest selection of tires in the area.
VISA OR MASTER CHARGE
OPEN - Mon.-Fri. 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Sat. 9:30 a.m.to 3 p.m.
586-2544

UMass Ski Club
UMASS SKI CLUB
$10 Membership Fee
YOU RECEIVE
- FREE TRANSPORTATION ON ALL SATURDAY TRIPS
- FREE JUICE AND DONUTS ON RIDE UP
- FREE CIDER, CHEESE AND CRACKERS ON THE RIDE HOME
MEETING TONIGHT
Public Health Aud. 8:00 p.m.
Killington Representative will show film and give away door prizes

Sylvan Area Government Elections
Brown/Cashin/MacNamara will now accept nominations for officers—
President
Vice President
Treasurer
For further information and nomination papers contact your House Presidents
Nominations will close Monday, October 27th
Elections will be held Wednesday, October 29th

Black Affairs

McRae sparkles like champagne

ABOVE: Ms. Carmen McCrae in an interview Sunday night after her excellent performance at the FAC. (Photo by Barron Roland)

By Karen Marie Thomas
Black Affairs Staff

Bringing the almost full Fine Arts Center audience to its feet for the second time, jazz singer Carmen McRae bowed happily as the curtain closed, Sunday night, October 19th.

McRae, strongly influenced by Sarah Vaughan, merited her two ovations by entertaining the audience for two hours with her sultry style. Dressed in jeans, pull-over and boots, she sang like a glass of chilled champagne; bubbly and warm, leaving a mellow after taste.

McRae sang such all-time favorites as "Them There Eyes," "New York State of Mind" and "Who's Got the last Laugh Now." Slowing down the pace, she also sang "You're Driving Me Crazy." McRae more than sings; she belts out experience carried by an intimate knowledge of pain and happiness.

It is the lyrics that attract her to a song.

"It's always the lyrics," she said. "You have to have something worthwhile to say. If I like the lyrics then I check out the melody.

Born and raised in New York City, McRae formally studied classical piano. Although in the late '40's she worked as a singer-pianist, McRae said "It was never in my mind to make it as an instrumentalist. I'm a much better singer than pianist. I just wanted to be a singer.

Disputing her own statement, McRae for an encore, sat at the piano and played a very soft and moving piece, accented by her melidous voice. The audience once again stood to its feet.

McRae has perfected her talent by performing with such jazz greats as Benny Carter, Count Basie, Mercer Ellington and Dizzy Gillespie.

McRae delightfully performed a piece written by composer Michael Franks. "Underneath the Apple Tree", a medium up-tempo tune, allowed the talented singer to explore different jazzy vocal combinations.

"This makes me feel like doing a soft shoe right here," she confides in the audience.

McRae claims that improvising allows her to get the true meaning out of a word.

"It's very hard not to improvise for me. There's certain words I want to say, but I find improvising on the melody helps me."

Carter urges Blacks to get out and vote

ATLANTA — President Carter urged black leaders to get-out-the-vote on November 4 during his speech at the Ebenezer Baptist Church on Tuesday, September 16. Speaking from the pulpit of the late Martin Luther King, Jr., the President said while blacks have a friend in the White House now, Carter warned they would have a hard time getting a telephone answered at the White House if Governor Reagan became president.

This year, it is more important than ever to vote because the choice is clear, the President said. "I do not believe the way to eliminate discrimination in this country is to turn its leadership over to someone who thought the Civil Rights Act of 1964 was a bad bill. We have not reached the Promised land, but we are making progress. if we are to continue down the road, people have to get-out-the-vote."

Atlanta Mayor maynard Jackson endorsed Carter for re-election saying, "President Carter's urban record is the best ever. his commitment to cities is consistent and surpassed all previous national administrations. He is the greatest friend blacks have had in the White House in modern times."

Besides the 600 people seated in the audience and the 1,000 or more standing outside the church listening over loudspeakers, Mrs. Coretta King, the Rev. M.L. King, Sr., Congressman parren Mitchell of Mayland, Atlanta insurance executive Jessie Hill, Jr.,; former ambassador Andrew Yound, and long-time friend and support, John Cox of Delta Airlines were also present.

The President visited "Sweet" Auburn Avenue where he met with Joseph Lowery, president of the Southern Christian leadership Conference (SCLC). "Sweet" Auburn is a popular nicknamed by Maynard Jackson's grandfather, Insurance Building for a personal tour fo the facility by the company's president, Jesse Hill.

The President spent nearly three hours visiting the historic business district which was recently placed on the National Register of Historic Sites. The crowd along the street was described as the largest since the funeral procession of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., 12 years ago.

Reprint from the Miami Times, Thursday, Oct. 16, 1980.

$100 million reserved for minority women

In FHA's attempt to bring monies where they are needed most and provide this assistance to those people most in need, the agency has set a goal of $100 million in loan guarantees this year to minority and owmen borrowers in the business and industrial loan division.

Farmers Home Administration, authorized by Congress to guarantee loans to businesses and industries, provided $1.2 billion of financial assistance in America's rural areas in 1979.

Business and Industrial (B&I) loans are made by private lending institutions with up to 90 percent of the total loan amount guaranteed by FHA. Interest rates on the loans are negotiated between the lender and the borrower. In the program's six year operation more than 5,000 loans have been guaranteed totalling more than 3.5 billion. This investment is being used to provide employment, to bring economic stability to the nation's often neglected rural areas, and to improve the quality of life of rural people.

For example, in October of 1979, FHA announced a loan of $3.7 million to the Renaissance Broadcasting Company to partially finance a minority-owned television station. WRBV-TV will eventually employ approximately 320 people, ten percent of whom are expected to be hired through the labor Department's Comprehensive Employmnet and Training Act (CETA) program.

This loan was a part of the Federal government's initiatives on rural development, community development and assistance to minority broadcasters.

Reprint from the Miami Times, Thursday, Oct. 16, 1980.

By Brumsic Brandon, Jr.

LUTHER

BUT THEY RAN AGAINST EACH OTHER IN THE ELECTION!
WHY DID THE MAYOR APPOINT HIM, LUTHER?
PEE WEE, IN POLITICS, ONE HAND WASHES THE OTHER!
NO WONDER POLITICS STINK! THEY DON'T USE SOAP?
BRANDON JR.

Announcements

Everywoman's Center

A meeting of the Working Women's Task Force at Everywoman's Center will be held on October 22, 1980 at 7:00 p.m. It will deal with issues affecting working women in the Amherst and UMass communities. All women are invited to attend and share their ideas on possible directions for the task force to take and to participate in planning activities for the fall.

A program of six weekly workshops is also being organized to focus on issues of concern to working women. These workshops will be held on Wednesday nights from 7:00 to 9:00 p.m. at Everywoman's Center. the first three are scheduled as follows:

October 29, 1980: Platform of Legislative Issues for Working Women

November 5, 1980: Organizing Working Women and the Amherst Nursing Home Strike; led by employees involved in the union organizing and strike efforts.

November 12, 1980: Sexual Harassment in the Workplace

Healing of Sugar

On Friday, Saturday, Sunday, October 24, 25, and 26; and Saturday, Sunday, November 1, and 2 the Third World Theater Series presents Carlos Anderson's "The Healing of Sugar" in Hampden Theater Southwest at the University of Massachusetts.

"Sugar" is the story of the complex relationships surrounding a Black contemporary family. Sugar himself is a 30 year old man who appears to be retarded, trapped in the mental state of a frightened child. The play illuminates his "healing" as we begin to understand the reasons for his condition, through the interactions of his brother — a Viet Nam War veteran, his mother — a religious fanatic, and other family members.

"Sugar" is Amherst resident and playwright Carlos Anderson's seventh script. Mr. Anderson was recognized for his playwriting with the receipt of the Actor's Peers Award from the Negro Ensemble Company in New York City. He has also worked extensively as an actor.

Event: "The Healing of Sugar"
Date: Friday, Saturday, Sunday (October 24, 25 & 26); Saturday, Sunday (November 1&2)
Time: 8:00 pm
Location: Hampden Theater, Southwest, UMass
Further Info: 545-3604
Ticket Prices: $2 for students; $3 for general public

Used Book sale
20% off our regular prices on all books
Mon Oct 20 - Sat Oct 25
Valley Book Shop
Carriage Shops
Downtown Amherst
10-5:30 daily Fri til 8

OVERSEAS AUTO PARTS
For the most complete line of foreign auto parts and accessories in the Pioneer Valley.
Get an extra 10% off our low prices with this ad.
offer expires Nov. 15, 1980
API
Zayre Shopping Plaza
Rt 9 Hadley, MA 01305
Tel 253-3403
authorized API distributor

Wanted Immediately

Students interested in becoming a Commuter Area Judge

work with the Student Judiciary,
hear student cases,
work in a trial atmosphere.
A good challenge.

Call or come by the Commuter Office 404 SUB 545-2145

Mike's mobile munchy machine, the Blue Goose, makes a public debut serving snacks and hot food to students at three accessible campus locations. (Staff photo by Kris Craig)

A CUT ABOVE.

(Presenting our Designer Diamond Collection.)*

This week only, ArtCarved presents its dramatic new college ring concept for women in 10K and 14K gold. On display only while the ArtCarved representative is on campus.

The new Designer Diamond Collection, reflecting the importance, value, and rare beauty of genuine diamonds, is an ArtCarved innovation.

This collection is also available with a new diamond substitute, Cubic Zirconia, which creates the same dazzling elegance for less.

ARTCARVED COLLEGE RINGS
Symbolizing your ability to achieve.

DESIGNER DIAMOND COLLECTION

Oct. 22, 23, 24 10 AM-3 PM — Date
in the Campus Center — Location

$20.00 Deposit

the UNIVERSITY STORE

*also available with Cubic Zirconia, a diamond substitute. Deposit required. Master Charge or Visa accepted.

©1980 ArtCarved College Rings

amc THEATRES TIMES SHOWN FOR TODAY ONLY

ADULTS $2.75 STUDENT & SR. CITIZEN WITH AMC CARD $2.25 SPECIAL ENGAGEMENTS EXCLUDED TWI-LITE SHOW $1.75 TWI-LITE SHOW LIMITED TO SEATING

HAMPSHIRE 4 584-7550 HAMP. MALL ON CAFE SQ.—RT. 9, HADLEY, MASS.

DONALD SUTHERLAND Ordinary People R (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15

GEORGE BURNS OH, GOD! BOOK II PG (6:15 @ $1.75) 8:30

HOPSCOTCH R (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30

Walt Disney's Song of the South G (6:15 @ $1.75) 8:15

Movie and Dinner only $5.50 Have a choice of 5 different meals at the Pewter Pot Rest. in the Hampshire Mall and see one of the 8 movies in this ad. (Sun-Thurs only)

Shopper's Show Movie FREE! Thursdays at 1:00 p.m. Oct. 23 Ice Castles Oct. 30 Lost and Found

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9-HADLEY, MASS.

GOLDIE HAWN in PRIVATE BENJAMIN PG (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:15

CHUCK NORRIS LEE VAN CLEEF KAREN CARLSON THE OCTAGON R (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30

TIMES SQUARE (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30 R

ANTHONY HOPKINS THE ELEPHANT MAN PG (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15

CLINT EASTWOOD IS "DIRTY HARRY" — TONITE — MAHAR AUD. 8, 10 PM $1.00 COME EARLY!!

Editorial/Opinion

They're swearing their asses off

A friend of mine, Mark, supported himself for a while in graduate school by cleaning animal cages in the city zoo. (It paid the rent). Of the daily routine, the part he hated most was cleaning the monkey cage.

Of all the animals, the monkeys took least kindly to having their home hosed down. They objected to this for a number of monkey reasons, which I do not pretend to understand, demonstrating their displeasure by defecating in their hands and hurling it at Mark. They would load and fire in unison, from different directions, so that many throws found their target.

Eric Janszen

Each day on his way to work, Mark, trudging over the crest of the high hill overlooking the monkey cage, could see the wiry little figures swinging and leaping into position for the assault. Finally, one day when he was not feeling strong, Mark turned around and trudged back amid much eeking and barking, as monkeys are not slow to recognize victory. He was fired.

In the past decade or so there has been a lot of theorizing about the manipulation of symbols by primates. Although some linguists, like Noam Chomsky, argue that this does not constitute language, others argue the opposite view, such as the group of Harvard graduate students who have taught a chimpanzee to "speak" by operating on symbols communicatively. The chimp was derisively named Nim Chimpsky, which is par for the course among the quarreling intellectuals in academia, where they refine derision to the level of quantum mechanics. But I suspect the believers in primate language think closer to the evidence, Mark's experience being a model case.

True, tossing toilet fish is a crude way to express yourself, but it is effective. You could draw an analogy between that and its counterpart in human language: cursing.

Cursing has drawn a lot of criticism lately from both young and old. Back in the 1960's, when people were upset, swearing seemed an appropriate way to communicate the anger, frustration and pain that had been pushed into the public consciousness. Swearing was "in." Now that no one gets upset anymore, even as the nation is about to be thrown away to an administration of dangerously stupid people, swearing is "out." "Don't swear," they say in a soothing, conservative tone. "Everything is all right. Everything is OK. Everything is just fine."

The condemnation of cursing is a condemnation of cursers, people who are very upset and can't stand to articulate their general distaste for the present in toned-down gibberish. Anyone with any sense of personal commitment to themselves (or of self preservation) does not say "That's too bad" when a conscription bill is passed. It is more articulate to say "That fucking blows!" since that is what is meant.

To express my personal commitment to my nation and its people, as well as to myself, I should swear my ass off, loudly, both in writing and speech. But to do that would turn a lot of really calmed people off which, since that group comprises a major part of the public audience, would be a bad move for a writer with a bias toward eating and paying the rent.

Some day, maybe after the war, I'll change my mind and throw curses at people who cause me great displeasure. And they will go away.

Eric Janszen is the* Collegian Executive *Editor

Prop 2½ divides business

Proposition 2½ has proven to be the sort of issue that Boston bankers, legal elites, and insurance and utility executives try to avoid whenever possible. A cadre of the select, of money and power—organized as the Massachusetts Taxpayers Foundation (MTF)—resents 2½ for at least two solid reasons and potentially a third.

The first is that Proposition 2½ (Question 2 on the November ballot) only cuts and caps local property taxes but does not mandate spending cuts at the local or state level. While drastic cuts would almost certainly slash school, fire, police, public and mental health, welfare, recreation, and elderly services were 2½ to pass, the law itself does not prevent increased state taxes to alleviate the damage. Secondly, when the darling of the Massachusetts business community, the Massachusetts High Technology Council (MHTC), decided to actively campaign in support of 2½, the politically successful unity and growing momentum of the Massachusetts business community was jeopardized. By breaking with the MTF and a third major business group (the Associated Industries of Massachusett—AIM) and throwing its extensive organization and potentially vast financial resources behind the crude libertarianism and adventuresome "let's try it" approach of the bill's main sponsors—the Citizens for Limited Taxation (CLT)—the High Tech Council risks its own carefully cultivated legitimacy with, not only the general public, but also the otherwise sympathetic state legislature and administration. (A future article will discuss the MHTC's campaign for 2½ in relation to its general attempts to change state policy in the last three years.)

James Parrott

Finally, and potentially the most decisive reason for MTF's opposition to the proposition, such a radical, threatening approach to tax reform generates an extensive opposition that may attempt to mount a campaign for the kind of tax reform that will be more permanent and more distasteful to the MTF members. The MTF would like nothing less than for a genuine tax reform movement—that would go after the historic regressivity in the state's tax system—to be born out of the already large and growing anti-2½ forces. CLT's machinations on behalf of 2½ have inadvertently mobilized in opposition to 2½ an unprecedented combination including the League of Women Voters, church and senior citizen's groups, the statewide Coalition for Basic Human Needs, the Massachusetts Municipal Association, university based groups, and public and private sector unions.

There are obvious reasons for this amalgam to continue functioning regardless of what happens on November 4. If 2½ passes the legislature will have to develop stop-gap measures in the avalanche of service cuts. If 2½ loses, tax reform will still be the major battleground in the next legislature (the business groups will ensure that). The major business groups—MTF, AIM, and MHTC—have tax and spending limitation proposals in hand now. From what we know of their proposals, and of the interests and past actions of these groups, the anti-2½ groups have considerable cause to be wary.

Basically, the business groups are in agreement in wanting to reduce state and local spending initially by eight to ten percent and thereafter impose a statutory limitation on spending (where precisely the limit is set varies among the sponsors). Needless to say, the stringency of the reductions and the limits hinders the ability of state and local government to provide quality educational and human services and relies more fully on the old trickle-down approach to serving (more accurately, not serving) human needs. In the future, when the trickle stops again (as it has before in Massachusetts in the 20's and 30's, late 40's, early 70's) the state will not have the fiscal capacity to respond to genuine human emergencies. The growing trend to cut national tax and government spending, coupled with the apparent short-lived bouyancy of the state's economy of late, strengthen the forces of reaction wishing to further erode the state services pared to the bone in the '74-'75 fiscal crisis.

The Massachusetts Taxpayers Foundation has repeatedly led the opposition to making the state's flat income tax progressive. Their tax reform plan would reduce property taxes by 20 percent and replace 3/5 of the lost local revenue with increased state aid generated by increases in the coverage of the state sales tax.

The MTF acknowledges that the sales tax is a regressive tax. They justify their support for using it to make up lost local revenue by claiming that it is "underutilized" relative to other states. (Property taxes are also regressive and clearly overutilized in Massachusetts yet when business writes a property tax reduction law they usually turn out to be the main beneficiaries.)

Their main argument against increased reliance on the state income tax is that it is already "overutilized" relative to other states. This is indeed a limp rationale, for it is widely recognized that state and local government dependence on regressive taxation is a national disgrace. Isn't is ironic that MTF literature treats "regressivity" in taxes as a drawback, yet does not propose making state and local taxes more progressive (which must be preferred to regressivity?)

MTF's proposal would lessen the regressivity of the sale tax by increasing sales tax credits in the low income ranges, yet it concentrates the increased sales tax burden in the $8000-$20,000 income ranges with the sales tax incidence declining above $20,000. Families in the $25,000 plus income tax bracket, for example, share less in the sales tax burden under MTF's proposal than families in the $8000-$10,000 range. This is hardly a substitute for progressive tax reform.

Like MTF and MHTC, the Associated Industries of Massachusetts (representing 2600 manufacturers) want to enact statutory and constitutional limits on the percent of personal income going to state and local taxes. Because of the relatively stagnant condition of the industries it represents, AIM's political clout has recently been eclipsed by the MHTC, whose firms are generally increasing employment. According to Warren Brooks of the Herald American, AIM was forced by legislative leaders to withhold their active support of Proposition 2½ or face the threat of having the door permanently closed on other AIM issues besides tax reform. Although the organization is apparently forewarned to stay neutral, individual AIM members may very well contribute financially to the pro-2½ media blitz in the days remaining before election day.

AIM regularly seeks reductions in unemployment benefits and workmen's compensation programs, they'd like to see the state impose more favorable limits on product liability, they want to continue and expand tax-exempt industrial bond financing, and they seek permission to contribute the cost of administrative expenditures of state level political action committees. (A similar federal provision has allowed the proliferation of corporate-sponsored political projects.) AIM recently claimed a major victory in reducing the capital gains tax in the state by 60 percent. It is obvious that when AIM turns its attention to the legislative arena, it ill behooves unions and other working people to ignore the goings-on.

James Parrott is a member of the Campus Coalition Against Proposition 2½

Letters

Anderson's military difference

To the Editor:

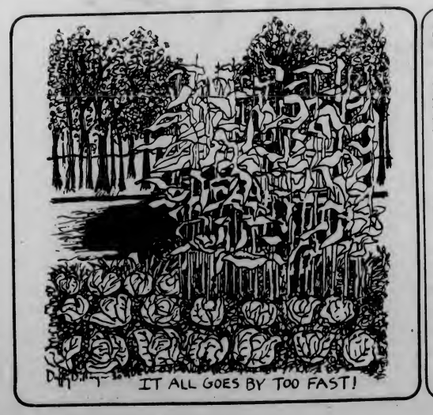
This year's presidential election is a repeat of 1964, with one major difference. in '64, people voted for Johnson, but got Goldwater's Vietnam policies. Now, fearing Reagan, many are considering Carter, but after the threat of re-election is over, Carter will make LBJ look like Little Boy Blue.

Jimmy Carter is already doing everything the military is telling him: initiating peacetime draft registration without an authorization vote from Congress; invading Iran without even consulting Congress (in violation of the War Powers Act); writing notes to Democratic delegates pushing the MX-missile plank; and increasing nuclear weapons production.

The difference is John Anderson. If he carries only 2 states, such as Massachusetts and New York — which is a real possibility — he could keep either Carter or Reagan from getting a majority of electoral votes. Then, Anderson could bargain his needed electors for a coalition government with Anderson as Vice President, and concessions, such as obtaining federal funds for abortions for the poor, and ending peacetime draft registration.

The Bush, Carter, and Reagan primary campaigns were financed largely by the military and its dependent industries. Anderson has 200,000 donors, much from the same base as George McGovern in 1972. A vote for John Anderson is the best chance to achieve a presidency independent of the military.

Paul Walter. Jr.
Graduate Student. English



Collegian

BOARD OF EDITORS

ROBERT E. STEIN, Editor-in-Chief. FRAN T. RASCHE, Managing Editor. JEFFREY P. BIANCHI, Graphics Manager. JONATHAN KLEIN, Business Manager. ERIC H. JANSZEN, Executive Editor. RICHARD NAGLE and JAMES MAHONEY, News Editors. JANE DAVIDFIELD, Women's Editor. JIM MORAN, Arts Editor. KAREN THOMAS, Black Affairs Editor. DONNA SULLIVAN and JONATHAN HAMILTON, Sports Editors. PAUL PRICE, Photo Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

ANDREA ATKINS, CATHERINE CLABBY, JIM KANE, EILEEN LEVINE, GAYLE YOUNG, Associate Managing Editors. BOB CARR, Associate Graphics Manager. JOE GANNON, Associate Executive Editor. NANCY ANDERSON, Associate News Editor. LILLIAN SINGER, Associate Women's Editor. MARY KINNEAVY, Associate Arts Editor. JOYCE McLAURIN, Associate Black Affairs Editor. NANCY NUTILE, Associate Photo Editor.

BUSINESS STAFF

KATHRYN KREBS, Advertising Manager. VICKI EGERT, Finance Manager. JOSEPH RADLEY, Circulation Manager. MICHELLE SILVERSTEIN and JAY N. LUSTIG, Assistant Advertising Managers.

The Collegian is the newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons and letters represent the personal views of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertisements lies with the individual advertisers.

USPS 333 220

"Entertainment" debut album for "Gang of Four"

Gang of Four

Entertainment! (Warner Brothers)

By Steven Winniman
Collegian Staff

"Entertainment!" the debut album from the British group Gang of Four, has been called everything from over-hyped by the trash Valley Advocate to "the year's most important debut" by Rolling Stone.

It is neither of these. Rather, it is a sometimes exhilarating, sometimes tedious, uneven but ultimately an enormously promising first album.

The twelve songs on "Entertainment!" are harsh and abrasive. There are no sweet pop melodies or light ballads. Gang of Four take themselves very seriously indeed, and this record is meant to be really listened to, not just danced to. The outlook of the songs is uniformly gloomy and pessimistic. On "Damaged Goods," one of the album's better songs, vocalist Jon King sings, "Your kiss so sweet/Your sweat so sour/Sometimes I'm thinking that I love you/But I know it's only lust."

This sort of attitude is fine when taken one song at a time, but eventually, over the length of the album, it gets tiresome. One gets to wish that they'd lighten up a bit, and inject a little humor into either the music or the lyrics. But the discordant, jangly, unhappy tunes pound on and on. This is "Entertainment!"'s only major shortcoming.

Gang of Four take their name from the term bestowed upon the four Maoists (including Mao Tse-tung's widow) who ruled China briefly after Mao's death before being overthrown by the current Chinese government. As such, Gang of Four can be expected to be highly political. They steadfastly refuse to accept or deny labels like communist, anarchist, or socialist (Jon King states flatly, "We're not Maoists").

Nevertheless, their songs are chock full of references to class conflict, exploitation, and "blood war on the bourgeois state". (5.45) It isn't too hard to see what their politics are. This raises a question, How can they justify rock and roll success and money making while claiming to be leftists? From Bob Dylan to Bob Marley, any artist who grows rich while claiming to be a leftist crusader for the downtrodden is open to charges of hypocrisy. Hopefully, Gang of Four will avoid this pitfall.

"Entertainment!" is certainly not without its good points, though. At their best, on songs like "Damaged Goods," "Anthrax," "Ether," and several others, Gang of Four are exciting, thoughtful, and even—dare I say it'—catchy. Bassist Dave Allen and drummer Hugo Burnham provide a solid, powerful backup while guitarist Andy Gill fills in the space with sharp, discordant chords and tense, clipped leads. The result is a sound unlike many other bands. Furthermore, Gang of Four convince the listener that they really mean what they say. The tremendous amount of conviction behind each son, due in part to Jon King's forceful singing, cannot be ignored. This feeling, that they truly mean what they say, places Gang of Four ahead of 90. of the bands around today.

Despite its flaws, "Entertainment!" certainly lives up to its name. Furthermore, it gets better after repeated listenings. The potential is there for Gang of Four to overcome their shortcomings and become a major musical force of the Eighties. My bet is that they'll make it.

Local woman psychologist offers new feminist therapy to area women

By Cindy Reget
Collegian Correspondent

Feminist psychologist Estelle Gorfine. (Staff photo by Vince DeWitt)

Estelle Gorfine describes herself as a woman who always had "differences." Rather than ignore them, Gorfine said she looked towards the women's movement to help her understand and accept those differences and begin a life for herself.

In deciding to pursue a career as a feminist psychologist, Gorfine is dedicated to helping other women challenge the conformity of society she says we are all subject to.

Gorfine recently moved to Amherst to establish a counseling service.

Gorfine describes feminist therapy as a relatively new phenomenon that challenges the restraints of traditional therapy. "Traditional forms of therapy often times set up strict definitions of 'normality' for women that make many women depressed when they can't fulfill them," she said.

"On the other hand," she continued, "feminist therapy encourages women to be different and to create a reality for themselves based on their own decisions."

Gorfine explained her difference as a feminist therapist a. a personal commitment to women and the issues which involve women.

"I am conscious of how women are told to fit into society. By examining how society has put her in the role she is in and how she put herself there, I can help them change their lives," said Gorfine.

Another assumption of traditional therapy, as Gorfine sees it, is that if a women suffers from depression it is her problem. "I believe that part of our problems as women are, in fact, not problems of our own making but a result of rules prescribed by society" said Gorfine.

She feels the characteristics that society views as the weaknesses of women are actually a woman's strengths. "The greatest of these is the woman's ability to feel and express these feelings."

Gorfine said she works best with younger women and women in transition, such as college women.

"Many college women have problems with separations from their families. Men seem to get more support from their families while women are seen as less capable of this independence," said Gorfine. "I also help these women examine how families sometimes keep us from being independent."

Gorfine, 27, earned her master of arts degree in counseling psychology from Antioch New England Graduate School in Keene, New Hampshire.

How's Your Aim?

Enter the Cheshire "English Pub" Beer 1980 Dart Championships and find out! Your team may win $1,000 cash plus 5 10-speed Raleigh English Racers! See ad in this issue or call Mibsy Brooks at The Phoenix.
536-5390.

Attention Faculty!

Stockbridge School of Agriculture's Third Annual Fall

"WORK WEEKEND"

Nov. 1st & 2nd
To Benefit Graduation Ceremonies

Have your YARD CLEANED of all leaves and debris by some of the best landscape, turf, and aborist students available in the greater New England Area!

For a reasonable charge of $3.50p/hr./man, $3p/dump run.

Call TODAY—
for a free estimate before our schedule fills up!
Contact: Stockbridge Student Senate Office
Tel. 545-0189

FREE advice on lawn care, trees, shrubs, house plants, etc!

ABSENTEE VOTING

VOTE ★ BE COUNTED!

Elections Division
Department of the State Secretary
Michael Joseph Connolly
Secretary of State

ABSENTEE BALLOTS FOR THE 1980 FEDERAL ELECTIONS WILL BE NOTARIZED IN THE MEMORIAL HALL LOBBY ON THE FOLLOWING DATES:

Wednesday	October 22, 1980	9 AM - 5 PM
Thursday	October 23, 1980	9 AM - 5 PM
Friday	October 24, 1980	9 AM - 4 PM
Monday	October 27, 1980	9 AM - 5 PM
Tuesday	October 28, 1980	9 AM - 5 PM
Wednesday	October 29, 1980	9 AM - 5 PM
Thursday	October 30, 1980	9 AM - 5 PM
Friday	October 31, 1980	9 AM - 4 PM
Monday	November 3, 1980	9 AM - 4 PM

Sponsored by: The Division of Student Services
The Office of Alumni Affairs
The Dean of Students Office

Casual • Comfortable
100% Cotton • Reversible
SCRUBS SURGICAL SUITS
Great for
Excercising • Lounging
Studying • Partying
and much - much more!!

2 pc. SUIT only $20.00
extra pants $12.99 shirts $9.99
small medium large
white blue green
Send check plus Number of Suits SIZE & COLOR to LAPHAM INDUSTRIES
PO Box 120N, Easton MA 02356

★ Debates

continued from page 1

society and it's name is money; and this green that makes the corporations run must be licked. Nobody is going to win this election. We're all going to lose. We're in for four terrible years," Zemmel said.

Frank defended Carter's record, saying the President has had trouble getting his legislation through congress, as have most recent presidents.

"Some of his accomplishments have not ranked very high," Frank said.

Following the debate, UMass senior education major Bobbi Perry said she decided to vote for Anderson based on what she had heard.

"I learned a lot and I didn't know very much before I came. I'm really impressed with Anderson's representative, except for his 50-cents-a-gallon tax on gasoline. I think he was the best representative," Perry said.

Freshman John Hauenstein said he was most impressed with Commoner's representative and may vote for him as a result of the debate.

"I feel good about Commoner. The Carter and Reagan representatives spent most of the time attacking each other," he said.

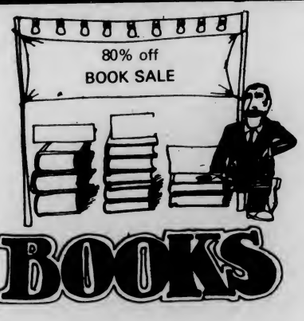
MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian

Today's paper produced by:

Assistant Managing Editor	Jim Kane
Copy Editor	Rhonda King
Layout Technician	Abbe Bjorklund
Head Photo Technician	Nancy Nutile
Ad Layout	Jay Brightman
Composing Room	Dan Guidera, Donna Levine, Jane Wolfson, Pam Dissinger, Michele Jones, Susi Segal

Local 1776 AFSCME General Membership Meeting

October 22, 1980 (tonite)
7:30 PM
Blue Room Worcester D.C.



BOOKS

Come join us at the extraordinary
Book Sale.

80% off The Lowest Marked Price

Books of many different categories On Special Sale Tables on the Concourse in Front of the University Store come in for some fun and some great book values at the "bookstore on the concourse"

M-F 9-5
the UNIVERSITY STORE
campus center/university of massachusetts

YOU GOT IT! TONIGHT!
9 - closing $1. Cover
WOULD YOU BELIEVE?? FREE BEER
MIKE'S WESTVIEW CAFE

Student Senate is meeting at 7 P.M. Wed. Oct. 22 in the Bluewall. Alcohol will NOT be served! Until adjourned to TOC.

MUSIC GALLERY
★ BASS PLAYERS ★
FRED SPENCE from FIRST RATE and GLENN JUBILEE from FX are now scheduling lessons!
CALL NOW for an appointment!
★THIS WEEK★
Featuring, 100 watt "Hot Spot" miniature monitor system, "NORTH" drums and "LEGEND" amps
also
USED - Gibson J-200, Les Paul Custom (rosewood tip, maple neck)
B.C. Rich "EAGLE," Fender "BRONCO"
all in EXCELLENT condition
Open Tue-Fri 10 a.m.-8:00 p.m.
RTE. 9 HADLEY
586-6228

PRECISION HAIRCUTS

ALL FOR $6.00 with this coupon only

Includes:
FIRST—a professional consultation
SECOND—a precision style cut selected individually just for you
THIRD—our stylists will show you how to take care of your hair

With personal style, cut, shampoo and blow dry $9.50, long hair slightly more. With this coupon only, limited to new customers only.

we also have facials and manicures

Styles by Deborah I & II
65 University Drive
Amherst, MA
549-5610
62 Main Street
Easthampton, MA
527-2411

Carmen McRae enchants audience at FAC

Carmen McRae
Fine Arts Center
October 19

By Jon Oltsik
Collegian Correspondent

A nearly full Fine Arts Center auditorium was enchanted Sunday night by the wailing voice and the charismatic charm of Carmen McRae and her trio of Mark Bolic on the drums, Jay Anderson playing bass, and Marshall Otwell on the piano.

After a warm-up number by the band, Carmen made her entrance to the applause of an enthusiastic crowd. She immediately gave them what they wanted with a fast paced arrangement of "Black Magic." Her next numbers were a slow version of "You're Driving Me Crazy," followed by a bosa-nova tune called "I Concentrate On You." She continued this pattern all night, varying from fast rhythms to slower ones which kept the audience at full attention.

Carmen really warmed up her voice in her next few songs while also featuring her talented accompanists. Marshall Otwell provided a haunting piano in "More Than You'll ever Know," while jay Anderson's walking bass licks in "The Masquerade is Over" had both Carmen and the audience cooking. Throughout the night the excellence of the trio's music was the backbone of Carmen's brilliant vocals.

McRae concluded her business-like first set with a superb version of Michael Frank's "Underneath the Apple Tree," a scat singing rendition of "No More Blues," and then a slow, traditional version of "My Secret Love" which, with the line "That's okay for Doris Day but here's how its done by Carmen McRae", she quickly changed into a fast be-bop.

Carmen's second set was highlighted by her friendly relationship with the audience, and her selection of popular songs. Her jazzy version of Billy Joel's "New York State of Mind" was followed by Stevie Wonder's "Superwoman" and George and Ira Gershwin's "Whose Got the last Laugh Now," a tune she recorded on her first album in 1953. Between songs Carmen charmed the audience with jokes and stories, virtually commanding the satisfied crowd.

McCrae finished her well rounded performance by displaying her talent as a pianist as well as a vocalist. In her last two songs "There's No Such Thing As Love" and "End of Our Friendship," Carmen's piano and vocals mystified the audience, and caught everyone up in the magic of Carmen's music.

McRae displayed her talented voice, her professional style and her piano playing to an overwhelmed audience in the FAC auditorium. Saturday Review Magazine said that Carmen "delves to the heart, touching the listener with her understanding, passion, craftsmanship; her ability to transmit a song into a personal happening." Those fortunate enough to see McRae this past weekend can also attest to this.

ANNOUNCING
THE CHESHIRE
"ENGLISH PUB" BEER
1980 DART CHAMPIONSHIPS

Imported by N.P Beverages Inc. Lawrence Mass.

$1,000 PLUS FIVE 10-SPEED RALEIGH ENGLISH RACERS TO WINNING TEAM!
(Sponsored by the Boston Phoenix and Cheshire "English Pub" Beer. All proceeds go to Muscular Dystrophy Association)

THE PRIZES
- Winning Team
- Semi-finalist Teams
- First 50 Teams Who Enter

$1,000 plus five 10-Speed Raleigh English Racers.
Engraved Silver Revere Bowl to each team.
Cheshire "English Pub" Beer Dart Championships T shirt to each member.

CONTEST LOCATIONS

Monday Meets
11/3, 10, 17
Molly's
161 Brighton Ave.
Allston, MA.

Wednesday Meets
11/5, 12, 19
OXFORD ALE HOUSE
Harvard Square
Cambridge, MA.
ONE McKINLEY SQUARE BOSTON
1 McKinley Square
Boston, MA.
Plumbley's
Main Street
Amherst, MA.

Thursday Meets
11/6, 13, 20
GLADSTONES
1239 Commonwealth Ave
Allston, MA.
PUBLICK HOUSE
Fenway-Boylston
1271 Boylston
Boston, MA.

Starting time is 7 PM at all locations

Bicycles Courtesy Of:
WHEEL WORKS
Bicycles and cross country ski sales, service, accessories and clothing
ACE WHEEL WORKS
2064 Massachusetts Avenue, Cambridge
MYSTIC VALLEY WHEEL WORKS
889 Main Street (Rte. 38), Winchester

HOW YOU ENTER
Fill out coupon below or call Mibsy Brooks, Boston Phoenix for details 536-5390

Mail To: 1980 Cheshire "English Pub" Beer
Dart Championships
c/o Boston Phoenix
100 Massachusetts Avenue
Boston, Mass. 02115

TEAM CAPTAIN/SPOKESMAN: _____
TELEPHONE: ( ) _____
TEAM MEMBERS (1) _____
(2) _____
(3) _____
(4) _____
Alternate (5) _____
CONTEST SITE: First Choice _____
Second Choice _____

To enter simply fill out this coupon. Employees of the Boston Phoenix or Cheshire Beer and its advertising agencies may not enter. All contestants must be of amateur status and be over 20 years old. All matches will be judged by a Boston Phoenix representative and all rulings are final. Please enclose a tax deductible entry fee of $5.00 per team and make check payable to the Muscular Dystrophy Association. All entries must be postmarked by October 28, 1980. No duplications or substitutions. Team Captain will be notified which contest site to report to with team.

String quartet gives creditable performance

By John Eisenberg
Collegian Correspondent

The Cleveland String Quartet, in its concert here Friday night, gave creditable renditions of the three works on its program, but the overall performance was not what one would expect of a quartet reputed to be among the world's best.

For the second time that I've heard this group in about a year (the first since Atar Arad replaced violist martha Strongin Katz), I came away with the impression that the quartet is not yet as artistically strong as the individuals who comprise it. Their ensemble playing is disappointingly inconsistent. Their unity prevailed over their individuality only during the final work on the program, Bartok's "Quartet No. 1". Not until this point in the concert did the artists collectively provide a single, cohesive, and eloquent voice for their subject and achieve an impressive result.

Mozart's "Dissonant Quartet", the first and most demanding work on the program, clearly revealed several ensemble problems that sometimes plague the Cleveland String Quartet. These included erratic intonation and imprecise coordination in the opening "Adagio" and "Allegro" (possibly because the players weren't sufficiently warmed up) and, more importatnly, an often disturbingly unbalanced group sound. First violinist Donald Weilerstein often produced a very broad and opaque sound (especially in his melodic forte passages) which did not blend well with the other quartet members. in particular, the generally lighter sounds of second violinist Peter Salaaf and cellist Paul Katz were at times completely obscured by Weilerstein. More than the differing sound qualities among these players, the problem was one of sheer volume. Weilerstein seemed to have a much wider dynamic range than the rest of the group, which he fully exploited to the quartet's detriment.

Aside from these obvious shortcomings, I was at times perplexed by what these musicians decided to do with the Mozart interpretively. Too often the intrinsic aesthetic value of a melodic line was diminished or lost by excessive, misdirected tinkering (rubato, portato bowing from Weilerstein, unmarked articulation, etc.)

The performance level of this group improved steadily throughout the concert. Even the Mozart had numerous bright spots, including some beautiful ensemble playing in the Adante Cantabile and Minuetto movements, and virtuosic negotiation of those fiendishly tricky sixteenth note passages in the last movement by Weilerstein. Throughout the concert Atar Arad proved himself a superb performer, althought he exquisite contributions of former violist Martha Strongin Katz will never be duplicated.

★ WISE

continued from page 1

together and exchange ideas and expertise. Women at the conference are gaining confidence meeting with each other—we're forming an old girl network in a newly expanding industry."

Active solar technology (active meaning solar units with moveable parts) has jumped from a $14 million to a $300 million-a-year industry in the last decade, according to statistics from the Solar Energy Industries Association in Washington, D.C. Solar experts attending the conference predict 57,000 homes with passive solar units (or unmovable parts) will be built by the end of next year.

Women energy experts say support systems such as the WISE conference will encourage women to pursue technological careers in the solar field.

PREPARE FOR
MCAT · LSAT · GMAT
SAT · DAT · GRE
Our 42nd Year

- Permanent Centers open days, evenings and weekends.
- Low hourly cost. Dedicated full-time staff.
- Complete TEST-n-TAPE™ facilities for review of class lessons and supplementary materials.
- Small classes taught by skilled instructors.
- Opportunity to make up missed lessons.
- Voluminous home-study materials constantly updated by researchers expert in their field.
- Opportunity to transfer to and continue study at any of our over 80 centers.

GRE PSYCH • GRE BIO • MAT • PCAT • OCAT • VAT • TOEFL • NMB • VQE • ECFMG • FLEX • NDB • NLE • CPA • MSKP

Stanley H. KAPLAN EDUCATIONAL CENTER
TEST PREPARATION SPECIALISTS SINCE 1938

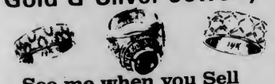
Call Days, Eves. & Weekends
in Amherst
253-5108
264 N. Pleasant St

For Information About Other Centers Outside NY State
CALL TOLL FREE: 800-223-1782

Wednesday
Jim Plunkett
PUB MUG NIGHT
25¢ Beers-Pub Mugs
•Oldies•Trivia Contests
9 till 1

THE PUB
15 East Pleasant St.
AMHERST

STILL BUYING AT HIGHEST CA$H PRICE$
CLASS RINGS
Gold & Silver Jewelry



See me when you Sell
DANIEL SMITH
Permanently located between Fotomat and Logos
25 North Pleasant St.
Amherst
256-0710
Monday thru Saturday
10 AM to 6 PM
MEMBER AMHERST CHAMBER OF COMMERCE LICENSED BY TOWN OF AMHERST AND STATE OF MASS.

DISCOUNT PHOTO FINISHING
Archer Kent
Prices effective Oct. 22 through Oct. 26
BEWITCHING SAVINGS

Get Your Archer Kent Halloween Bag FREE with any purchase

ASSORTED COSTUMES and NOVELTIES at assorted prices

Almond Joy or Mounds
$1.79 bite size bag

JERGENS' EXTRA DRY Lotion
98¢
10 oz.

L'OREAL FROSTING KIT
$3.77

DESENEX FOOT POWDER
98¢
1.5 oz.

BIDETTE TOWELETTES
$1.26
40 count

ONE-A-DAY VITAMINS plus minerals
$2.77
60 count

CALGON BOUQUET
BATH or BUBBLE BATH
88¢
15 oz

RIGHT GUARD
POWDER ANTI-PERSPIRANT
$1.28
4 oz.

PLAYTEX TAMPONS
all types
$1.39
28 count

STYLE II
Moisturizing shampoo
$1.15
16 oz.

GLADE SOLID
all types
69¢

CEPASTAT
18 sore throat lozenges
88¢

HALLOWEEN CANDY
MILKY WAY
SNICKERS
3 MUSKETEERS
M & M PLAIN fun size bag
HERSHEY'S MILK CHOCOLATE
REESE'S
KIT KAT
snack size bag
your choice
$1.88

191 No. Pleasant St.
Amherst, Ma 01002
Quantity Rights Reserved

File Cards and Typewriter Ribbons etc.
at
A.J. HASTINGS
Newsdealer and Stationer
45 S. Pleasant, Amherst

COLLEGE LIFE "What does the future hold? BIBLICAL PROPHECY & CURRENT WORLD EVENTS" Wed. Oct. 22 7:30pm southside room next to sw munchies store
Sponsored by Campus Crusade for Christ

Game to remember

PITTSBURGH (AP) — For football fans who savor offensive fireworks, the OaklandPittsburgh slugfest — the highest scoring game in the 10¼- year history of Monday night football — was a game to remember. For players who live from game to game, it's already history.

"We're going to enjoy this all the way home. We're going to enjoy it when we look at the film. Then we're going to forget about it and get back to work," said Oakland's Mark van Eeghen.

"We're going to enjoy this one on the way home. But it's a short week and we've got a tough game coming up (with Seattle)," said Raider Coach Tom Flores after a stunning 45-34 victory over the Steelers.

Collegian Classifieds

To place a Collegian Classified
•Come to Collegian Office CC 113
•8:45 to 3:45 Mon-Fri
•Classified deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day

Collegian Classified Rates
•15c per word
•Student rate 10c per word
•Cash in advance
•5 consecutive days 5 % discount
•Phone number FREE

AUDIO

Complete Panasonic Stereo System Receiver, Turntable, Tapedeck, Thruster 2-way speakers excellent condition $175 or BO must sell!! T.J. 253-9032

AUTO FOR SALE

Ford Granada 1976 phone Sanjeen tel 549-1112

69 VW exc. cond. red. tires must see 600 or BO call Chris 256-0353

Must Sell Immediately 72 Ford Gelaxie 500 needs some work Ric 549-0118 $250 BO

1973 Pinto Wagon good car, needs work $750/BO 549-4824

73 Dodge Cornonet Wagon inspected, reliable $300 253-9400

65 Ford Falcon needs some work best offer nites 253-7562

Convertible 1968 LeMans auto PS good condition $750 or BO 549-5127

74 Peugeot Wag 4 cyl stand AM/FM cassette BO call Jim 1-532-5030

Lancia—1975, brown, leather, air, AM/FM. 5-speed, 27mpg, 44,000 miles $4600 584-6563

DISC JOCKEY

Want a Great Party? Why not hire a Disc Jockey! Andy 546-1164 Denis 546-6249

Professional Disc Jockey Quality Sound Randy 546-7013

DO-RAG

MILAGOS, GET JO DO-RAG on and Get Down! WE Promise not to send you back to the state. We really love you, the girls in Sigma Delta Rho, room 14

ENTERTAINMENT

Dock Risco The Rock and Disco DJ Experienced, low rates. call Bill at 549-4025

Springsteen Tickets Available Providence show only 253-9848

FOR RENT

PA system Echo mics Rhodes electric piano ideal for bands coffeehouses partys Jim 546-7517

2 single rooms in co-op house 2 kitchens 1½ baths 160 mo 665-4357 or 256-8632 non-smoking male

FOR SALE

Timberland Boots lace up to knee womens size 7 In v good condition $75 or best offer 546-6134

Guitar—Yamaha G55, classical acoustic, mint condition, new strings, case. Call Stu 256-8616

3-piece suits (sizes 38-39) in excellent condition call 256-0626

Typewriter Olivetti 83DL perfect $190 253-2234

Full size bed call 253-7986 evenings

Gift Idea: Portrait Drawings; call dennis Delap 665-2972

White Refrigerator 7.3 cu. ft. fridg with separate 2.25 cu. ft. freezer stands 2'x2'x5' exc. cond. $125 call 253-7307 after 5

TRS-80 48K or 16K System must sell mint condition call for details 546-7050

Rosignol Strato Skis, Molitor Boots size 10½ excellent condition $95.00 firm 549-2782

Grateful Dead Tickets Radio City Monday night October 27 call Pedro 617-666-8747 after 10 pm

For Sale, One Student Senate: Much abused and in poor condition. Has run well in past but is now misaligned and quite rusty. No brakes. Will negotiate price. Call 5-0341

Women's San Marcos Ski Boots Size 8-8½ $30 call leslie 665-7972

71 VW Squareback standard inspected $650 or BO 549-0305 after 6

For Sale Technics SA700 receiver AIWA cassette deck Ego speakers 256-6645

FOUND

Found Black Male Dog in Stadium area Saturday call 6-8265 or 6-9922

HELP WANTED

Overseas Jobs — Summer/year round Europe, S. America, Australia, Asia all fields $500-$1200 monthly expenses paid Sightseeing. Free info. write IJC Box 52-MA2 Cornona Del Mar CA 92625

Wanted part-time radiology technician for multi-specialty group practice please call 256-8561 ext 248 M-F 8 am-4 pm

Help excellent, patient statistics 101 tutor will pay call after 5 665-3679

Make a dollar every raffle ticket sold on consignment supporting No Nukes call 549-6136

Lower Central Academic Center—looking for tutors in Chemistry 111 and 107, Physics 161, Economics 104, Psychology 150 and CE 240. Interested people call 5-3945 between 12-5 (Mon-Fri) Grad and Undergrad

INSTRUCTION

English Classes (ESL) Elementary, Intermediate. Two hours an afternoon, except Wednesday. Faculty/student spouses, visitors, immigrants. People's Institute, Northampton. 584-3956 NLI, P.O. Box 34, Northampton

INTERNSHIPS AVAILABLE

Legal Assistant Interns Wanted: The Legal Services Office has 8 positions available for full-time legal assistant interns for the Spring 1981 semester. Up to fifteen credits may be earned through Office of Internships. Legal assistants assist attorneys of the LSO with client interviewing, investigations, legal research, negotiations, giving advice and referrals, preparation of court forms, and attendance at hearings in District and Superior Courts, and participation in administrative hearings and federal litigation. Maintain continuing case load under supervision of attorneys. Applications available at Office of Internships, Curry Hicks Building, and inquire further at Legal Services Office, 922 Campus center. Applicationsdue November 7, 1980 at Office of Internships. Writing sample required. All third world and women students are encouraged to apply.

LEGAL SERVICES

Attorney Jason Rosenthal reasonable rates Days 584-4285, Evenings 253-7617

LOST

Help!! Lost tan corduroy blazer with patches on sleeves. Please call 6-8287

Gold Ring with "E" initial sentimental value $ reward call Eileen 253-3316

Pet Cockatiel small gray bird w/orange cheeks lost Wed. reward any infor call Stephanie 546-7299

Nova Owners I hitched back to Boston on Friday Oct. 10 I left a brown and tan reversible jacket in your car call 6-7470

Lost gold ID bracelet of sentimental value. Andrea will give reward! Please call me 546-6212

Bronze Horseshoe Key Ring with three keys on it Friday Oct 17 on a couch in the Student Union Lounge please call Diane at 546-5429 or return them at the Collegian window thanks

Keys, saturday in Southwest, ten keys on black sandal keychain with rainbow color insole—two UMass keys call Ilene 6-8605 please keep trying

Sterling Silver Bracelet with white stone.

Lost Oct, 17 in maze. call 6-6862

To the person that took the wallet from Boyden racquetball courts please return the ID's to the CC Lost & Found

Lost in Campus Center Gold Bulova watch eve of Oct 16 GREAT sentimental value Justine 6-4159 or 804A1 Cashin $25 reward

MONTREAL EXPRESS

They're still seats available call 665-3024 for further information Paul DeLuca 69.00

MUSICIANS

Experienced Drummer looking for a Band Into Kansas, ELP, Yes, Steely Dan. Vocals also. Call Ted at 549-6884

PERSONALS

Undergrad Pol. Sci. Assoc. interested in becoming member? Sign-up Rm 422 Thompson

Must place AKC sable male Collie gd stud watchdog loveable call Nina 6-8890

DAYNBIRD BIRTHDAY HAPPIES EBIRD

Here's to Lake Umbagog. I want to go back

To the guys of 12L Brandywine we've heard about your meat now let's see it!

OSCAR the Whitmore computer, stands for "Optional Section Choice With Assignment Regulation"

Trish. . .Ididn't forget about dinner tonite, pick you up at 7:30. Not only is the car muddy but it needs a new clutch now too! Go another 50 yds?

Death Row Prisoner caucasion male, age 34, desires correspondence with either male or female college students. Will answer all letters and exchange pictures. If interested write to: Jim Jeffers Box B-38604, Florence, Arizona 85232

Steve McKeown—you were fantastic Thurs night! Cheryl & Dawn

Chi-O hairdresser: Thanks for the braids! Love ya—T & C

Jim "Rez" It's time to cover your roots! The real you is showing through

Hey Dudes—no more Thursday nights! This weekend I', supplying the brew! Who's your friend! -M.W.-

Congradulations Shit Geeks! from the brothers of Pi Lambda Phi

Hey Sherry, you neurotic pee-on! Happy 19th, remember whoremongers are idiots too! Love Brenner

Janet, Happy 19th birthday--another Hatch night?! Love, Mary & Bonnie

SEX—Now that we've got your attention, Charlie's has the longest Happy Hour in Amherst. Daily 3-8. We have asteroids and other games too!

Comrade—Happy 22!!! The Gang of Four-Duck, Buzz, Dasha and your sweet, sweet. . .PUP-PY!

Halo Boris Darling! Te quiere Natasha

Lois—wanna go to New York? Yeal Mickey Mouse strikes again—Lisa's so glad to be here! Gould just loves Amherst Center—fun time girls, love Tori

RIDE WANTED

To Niagra Falls/Buffalo round trip any Fr-Mon and/or Thanksgiving week. Share expenses Tel 549-1542

Dead Head neds ride to Radio City on Thurs Oct 23 call Tom 549-5907

ROOM WANTED

Two males need two rooms for Spring semester. House or apartment near campus. 546-9613

Student needs space in apt for Spring semester call Carol 546-8067

ROOMMATE WANTED

Female own room Puffton $130 549-1156

Roommate to share a 2 bedroom apt with female student $200 per month

Female roomate to share apt ASAP downtown Northampton 584-6139 keep trying

Own room in Northwood Apartments on bus route $87/month 665-2671

Furnished Bedroom television & kitchen priviledges $140.00 ask for Paul call 584-3292

One or two women wanted to share two bedroom Brittany manor with two other women second semester call Gail or Barb 253-5370 after 6:00

SERVICES

Experienced typist available Fast, neat work, reasonable rates. 546-6439

Typing; Words-Worth, 37 East Pleasant Street, Amherst, 549-1303. Double-spaced text from 95c a page. Justified resumes from $3.50 a page. Telephone dictation line. Overnight rush jobs. Your words are worth it.

Randy's Moving and Hauling—local and long distance at low price 546-5728 546-5726

SONGWRITERS

Folk-Singer, song writer researching song writing at UMass. If you write original folk, or country music I would like to interview you and profile your work in my Research--call Joe at 665-2840 10 pn-11:30 pm or weekends anytime

STICK IT IN YOUR EAR

Stick it in your ear at Silverscape Designs. Free sterilized ear piercing with purchase of studs. Artistic placement of multiples. Silverscape features gifts from glass to gold, and a full repair service, and citizen quartz and mechanical watches. 264 N Pleasant St. Amherst 253-3324

THANKS

Thanks in Berkshire for returning my mealbook. How about returning my I.D. so that I may drink? H.C.

THE CONTINUING SAGA OF RAPUNZLE & BUSTER

Rapunzle, Happy one month from a guy who loves you more each day. Love Buster P.S. The weekend was great—J.B. was right

TRAVEL

Florida—The Great Getaway for Spring Break and January Term under $200 round trip jet 256-6704

WANTED

Top Dollars for class rings, gold, sterling, at Wendy's CC Concourse, twice a week

Highest prices paid for class rings, gold, and silver jewelry. See me before you sell. Daniel Smith, 25 North Pleasant St between Fotomat and Logos, Amherst M-Sat10-6 call 256-0710

GIG$ UMass Rock & Roll Band seeks dynamic talented male vocalist with high range to add the piece de resistance to this hot combination call now now Ricky 546-7762

Grateful Dead Tix any or all nights Radio City Music Hall please call 367-2445

Wanted: Springsteen Tickets!! Please call 253-9639

Tutors in COINS, Chemistry, Economics needed for Orchard Hill Academic Center. Workstudy and non-workstudy positions available. Send resume to 620 Field

Experienced Boxer to train two fighters for gloves 6-8629 6-8721

Fender Rhodes or Wurlitzer elec piano wanted under $700 Malcolm 6-9276

Cash for Gold, Silver, Class Rings 320 Dickinson OH, anytime call now 546-6607

Want Buy or Borrow mask fins for scubadiving phone number 546-9984

Volunteers Interns needed Cloverdale Nursery School, Florence Mon, Wed, Fri 8:45 AM - 11:45 AM one day or more weekly transportation provided from 5 College Bus Northampton call Debbie 527-5141

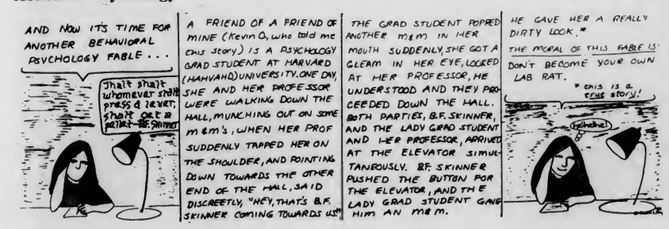
AND FOR THE ROAD — Cindy Downing

God, I'm 3,000 MILES FROM MY HOME! MY FRIENDS...
I HAVE NO JOB! I CAN'T FIND A PLACE TO LIVE...
AND I HAVEN'T EATEN A MEAL FOR WEEKS. HOW COULD THINGS POSSIBLY GET WORSE?
THE VOTE IS IN... STARTING IN 1981, WOMEN WILL BE REGISTERING FOR THE DRAFT.
2 INNER

Under the Influence — Mike Joyce

WOW, THESE COLORS ARE GREAT!
YEAH.
I MEAN, LIKE IVE NEVER REALLY SEEN COLORS LIKE THESE BEFORE!
YUP. NOTHINGS QUITE LIKE THE FALL FOLIAGE
WHAT FOLIAGE?

Abnormal Psychology — J. Demskey



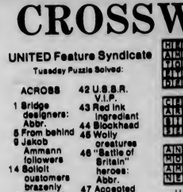
AND NOW IT'S TIME FOR ANOTHER BEHAVIORAL PSYCHOLOGY FABLE...
A FRIEND OF A FRIEND OF MINE (KevinO, who told me this story) IS A PSYCHOLOGY GRAD STUDENT AT HARVARD (HAHVAHD) UNIVERSITY. ONE DAY, SHE AND HER PROFESSOR WERE WALKING DOWN THE HALL, MUNCHING OUT ON SOME M&M's, WHEN HER PROF SUDDENLY TAPPED HER ON THE SHOULDER, AND POINTING DOWN TOWARDS THE OTHER END OF THE HALL, SAID DISCREETLY, "HEY, THAT'S B.F. SKINNER COMING TOWARDS US!!"
THE GRAD STUDENT POPPED ANOTHER M&M IN HER MOUTH SUDDENLY SHE GOT A GLEAM IN HER EYE, LOOKED AT HER PROFESSOR, HE UNDERSTOOD AND THEY PROCEEDED DOWN THE HALL. BOTH PARTIES, B.F. SKINNER, AND THE LADY GRAD STUDENT AND HER PROFESSOR, ARRIVED AT THE ELEVATOR SIMULTANEOUSLY. B.F. SKINNER PUSHED THE BUTTON FOR THE ELEVATOR, AND THE LADY GRAD STUDENT GAVE HIM AN M&M.
HE GAVE HER A REALLY DIRTY LOOK."
THE MORAL OF THIS FABLE IS: DON'T BECOME YOUR OWN LAB RAT.
* THIS IS A TRUE STORY!

DOONESBURY — by Garry Trudeau

WHAT IS IT NOW, HARRIS?
IT'S MIKE, B.D. HE'S WATCHING THE GAME WITH HIS NEW GIRL AND I FIGURED IT MIGHT BE NICE IF WE ALL SAID HI TO HIM!
WHAT A GREAT IDEA, ZONK! THAT'S SURE TO IMPRESS HER! ESPECIALLY SINCE WE'RE WINNING!
WELL, I THINK IT'D MEAN A LOT TO HIM. ON THREE, THEN, OKAY? ONE...TWO... THREE...
HI, MIKE!
WOW... HI, GUYS!
10-23

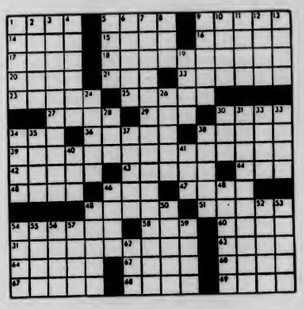
CROSSWORD

UNITED Feature Syndicate
Tuesday Puzzle Solved:



ACROSS
1 Bridge designers: Abbr.
5 From behind
9 Jakob Ammann followers
14 Bolloit customers brazenly
15 Taj Mahal site
16 E. Indian noblewoman
17 Cantata solo
18 Splitting image: 2 words
20 Teller's compartment
21 Ending with mod or clet
22 Jewish ascetic
23 West Coast shrub
25 Motion picture shot
27 Early Irish alphabet
29 Int. Trade org.
30 Cripple
34 Take steps
36 Garbage
38 Stela of confinement
39 Washington's neighbor: 2 words
42 U.S.S.R. V.I.P.
43 Red ink ingredient
44 Blockhead
45 Wolly creatures
46 "Battle of Britain" heroes: Abbr.
47 Accepted averages
49 Military chaplain
51 Reposes
54 Temporarily: 2 words
58 Thoroughfare: Abbr.
60 ----- mutuals: Betting ayatam
61 Draw an improved sketch
63 Ravine
64 Proof of who one is: Abbr.
65 Area unit
66 Not any
67 Grandma
----
68 Young males
69 Three: Spanish

DOWN
1 Les ----- Unis: The U.S.A.
2 Water wheel
3 Execution device
4 German POW camp
5 Commandad
6 Ripening agents
7 Eur. dictator: 2 words
8 TV playwright --- Mosel
9 Come into being
10 "A ----- a man..."
11 "Gloomy Dean"
12 Observed
13 In this place
19 Minnesota lake
24 ----- America
26 Charactar of a group
28 Latter address abbr
30 Copying mech.
31 Foreign officer
32 Wading bird
33 "Down-Under" trea
34 Competant
35 Racing team
37 In advance
38 Of the moon
40 Poetic contraction
41 Insolent talk: Slang
46 Branches
48 Ba contrite
49 Annoying things
50 No matter which
52 Threesome
53 Piote of land
54 Shrub used in hedges
55 Reslyre
56 Verses
57 Ribbon: Suffix
59 WW II resistance group
62 Prattle



D.C. Menu

Lunch
MAKE YOUR OWN PIZZA
Individual Cheese Pizza/
Sausage Topping
Hamburg Topping
Pepperoni Topping

Dinner
Breaded Veal Pattie/Onion
Paprika Sauce
Seafood Supreme
Fruit Plate/Date Nut Bread

Basics Dinner
Soy Spinach Loaf
Seafood Supreme
Fruit Plate/Date Nut Bread

VALUABLE COUPON
SPECIAL FREE OFFER! GET 1 FREE for 4 the price of 3

KODAK Color Prints from slides
Bring in your favorite color slides, and we'll have Kodak make four same-size Kodak color prints for the price of three. Offer ends November 12, 1980.
the University Store
Campus Center UMass/Amherst
M-F 9-5
Sat 11-4
COLOR PROCESSING Kodak
CLIP & SAVE

Move your imagination into the fast lane with a subscription to the 1980/81
University Ensemble Theater's Rand Theater Series

FASHION
By Anna Cora Mowatt
A great American comedy of the 19th Century Oct 23-25, 30, 31, Nov 1

THE LIBERTY DANCE OF HENRY SPARROW
By Edward Emanuel
The common man's experience of the American Revolution in story and song
Dec 4-6, 11-13

TRAVESTIES
By Tom Stoppard
A modern smash hit both witty and intellectually demanding
Mar 12-14, 18-21

LOVE'S LABOUR'S LOST
By William Shakespeare
One of Shakespeare's most delicate and light-hearted comedies Apr 16-18, 23-25

Subscribe now by calling the Rand Theater box office at 545-3511.
Subscriptions only $12.00
Students and Senior Citizens pay only $9.00.

★ Civility

continued from page 3

chose material to publish.

Dethier said he had recieved numerous verbal complaints from students about letters to the editor in the Collegian.

He said there have been instances where "instead of acting as a force for good, it (the Collegian) acts as a force for dissention."

Jules Chametzky, of the English Department, suggested the Journalism department should be more actively involved with the Collegian.

State senator John Olver will be speaking on the state's higher educational reorganization at this month's Professional Association of the University of Massachusetts, PAUMA. The meeting, to be held Thursday, Oct. 23 at noon, will be in room 227 of Herter Hall. Olver will hold a question and answer period after the speech and the meeting is open to the public.

come to

GAMES UNLIMITED 1980

October 23-26
at the
Hartford Civic Center

Games to play, games to learn, games to buy—board games, video games, electronic games, card games, miniature gaming, adventure games, and much more!!

FREE SEMINARS, DEMONSTRATIONS & CLINICS: Backgammon—meet and talk with the world's top players: Paul Magriel, Lewis Deyong, Roger Low and Lee Genud; Bridge—William August, author, teacher and former President of the N.E. Bridge Conference; Scrabble—James Sprague, President of Scrabble Club #64; Cribbage—Joseph Wergin, President of the American Cribbage Congress; Chess—Fillip Frenkle, chess master and instructor; Dungeons & Dragons—Connecticut Gaming Club; Miniatures Painting—Jay Hadley, nationally known figure painter; The Second Day of the Battle of Gettysburg—by the Pioneer Valley Military Strategy Club; Cards & sleight of hand—by Gary Dziatko, nationally famous close-up magician, Role playing by Rick Loomis of Tunnels and Trolls—and much more!!

TOURNAMENTS: Pinball (18 and older) $10,000 in cash prizes; Foosball—$2,500 cash and trophy prizes; Wildfire by Parker Brothers—$1,000 in cash prizes; Space Zap—$500 in cash prizes; other tournaments for cash and other awards include: Hearts, Bridge, Kwatro, Pool, Dungeons & Dragons, Diplomacy, Cosmic Encounter, Scrabble.

Tickets: $3.00 per day or $9.00 for 4 days—children under 12 FREE with an adult.

Hours: Thursday—2 PM to 9 PM, Friday & Saturday—Noon to 10 PM Sunday—11 AM to 6 PM.

For information & schedules call 203/651-8631 (9 AM to 7 PM)
Presented by
Arnett & Associates in conjunction with the Hartford Civic Center

★ Solar

continued from page 1

As a result, many student groups seeking meeting space have had trouble securing a room. Spangler said all groups looking for space have been accomodated although some have been forced to meet in unusual places. The Undergraduate Student Senate, for example, will be meeting in the Blue Wall tonight.

"The students are paying for the building and we can't get a room to meet in," said Student Government Association co-President Richard LaVoice. "With a large off-campus population and widespread dormitories, students need places to congregate and they're gone. This has got to stop. I think we should set up a policy that the Campus Center Board of Governors should approve of any conference that exceeds a certain size."

LaVoice said Earthfoods, the student-run restaurant in the Commonwealth Room of the Student Union Building, was forced to move from its location to make room for the conference registration area. Temporarily, Earthfoods is serving lunch in the smaller Cape Cod Lounge of the SUB, taking away space normally utilized by students for studying, he said.

In addition, an exhibition area for the conference was set up on the ground level of the Campus Center yesterday, removing couches which are normally used by students and restricting access to only a few parts of the floor. Barriers were set up at several locations permitting access by non-conferees to only the check cashing area, the television viewing area and the block of student offices which includes the Collegian.

Yesterday afternoon, UMass fire Marshall Keith Hoyle said fire inspectors found three violations of fire codes on the lower level and ordered conference organizers to correct the problems. Hoyle said a row of lockers set up in front of the Collegian office and exhibits at two entrances of the Campus Center Auditorium would present fire hazards if an evacuation of the building was needed. The problems were expected to be corrected by this morning, he said.

"I think the conference is an important one, but I think students had no input as far as what facilities were being used," said Michael Sussman, an economics major from Amherst. "Basically, it's caused a lot of trouble in the Student Union. You can't even eat lunch there any more if you eat in the cafeteria."

NOW AT

Time Out

37 N. Pleasant
256-0471

Beer, Free Popcorn,
Something New
Lunch served daily 11-2

SATCON I

A SPACE AGE RADIO FANTASY CONCERT.

THE BIGGEST MUSICAL NAMES IN THE GALAXY, TOGETHER FOR THE FIRST. . . AND POSSIBLY THE ONLY. . . TIME.

THIS WEEKEND

Exclusively on... WHMP FM99

This 48-hour musical weekend begins Oct. 24 at 6 p.m.

START YOUR DAY WITH

TIPS

1532 THE WEATHER REPORT

1515 DAILY EVENTS

1509 CONCERT INFORMATION

545-1540
Request Tapes By Number

Minutewomen overrun Mt. Holyoke Lyons

By Maureen Sullivan
Collegian Staff

Both the UMass varsity and JV women's volleyball teams posted wins over Mount Holyoke College last night at NOPE gym.

In the JV match, the Minutewomen dominated the Lyons, sweeping them 15-8, 15-5. The key in both wins was the UMass serve, which was missing in its loss to Harvard University last weekend. The serving, as well as good passing to the net, established UMass dominance over Holyoke. B.J. Gagnon, Ilene Kessler and Cheryl Dulcos helped UMass gain its ninth win of the season against two losses.

The varsity team continued the UMass dominance as they overran Mount Holyoke 15-4, 15-11, 15-4.

In the first game, it was a matter of the Lyons making more mistakes than trying to respond to the Minutewomen's offense. Net penalties and poor serving slowed down Mount Holyoke, while UMass, using both good digging from Katyrin Hecht and its outside attack with spikes from Ellen Braun and Paggy Barber, ran away with the game.

UMass was stalled in game two by playing flat volleyball; the Lyons took advantage to post an early 6-1 lead. However, UMass lumbered back to tie at six, kept pace with the score awhile until things were tied at eleven, then barrelled over to a 2-0 lead in the match, thanks to several Mount Holyoke mistakes.

It was serving and spiking that game UMass the victory in the third game. Around mid-game, UMass Coach Elaine Marasco put in freshmen Dawn Hines and Joanne Siler. While Siler and Hines helped out with defense, especially in passing, the blocking of Brenda Simmons and spiking from the outside paced UMass to victory.

"I think we played well," said Marasco, "but Mount Holyoke gave us some problems. They were slow, and made us go slower. That made us go flat in the second game, but we came back to blow them away in the third game."

Now 19-13, UMass will face Southern Connecticut State College Thursday afternoon, before heading out to the University of Maryland Invitational this weekend.

"Southern is a crucial game," said Marasco, "it has a big bearing on whether or not we go to the Regionals."

UMass met the Owls before this season at the UMass Invitational last month. The Minutewomen beat Southern in two games; the Owls later went on to win the Invitational.

After the Southern match, UMass will travel to the Invitational to face the following teams: Clemson University, Princeton University, Rutgers University and Temple University.The Invitational is based on a pool-bracket system; the top two teams in the pool after competition will advance to a single-elimination bracket, while the bottom two go on to a consolation bracket.

"We should do well," said Marasco, "these are top-rated teams we're facing, but I'm confident we'll do well."

After the Invitational, the Minutewomen will play against Rutgers and the University of Connecticut at UConn next Tuesday, then come home one more time to host Smith College and NOrtheastern University next Thursday evening at NOPE gym.

JVs defeat Holyoke Community College, 2-0

By Sue Bridgman
Collegian Staff

The UMass J.V. soccer team handed Holyoke Community College its' seventh consecutive loss yesterday, defeating the Cougars 2-0 on the Boyden fields.

The Minutemen played a much better game than is indicated by the score. The team displayed fine execution but just could not finish off its plays. UMass also had many corner kicks which could not be converted into goals.

Eric Zuckerman scored the first goal for the Minutemen at the 27 minute mark. Zuckerman dribbled the ball down the line, outplaying the defender, and shooting the ball across the goal. The ball hit the far goal post, causing it to bounce by the goalie for the score.

Coach Joel Mascolo felt this play was the one that started things rolling.

Holyoke managed to get the ball down the field a few times during the course of play, but UMass paced the majority of the first half.

UMass' next scoring play came in the second half. Will Kreisher tooka pass from fulback Louis Coconides and brought the ball down the midfield. He rifled off a bullet shot which soared over the goalies' head, just under the crossbar.

"It was just a beautiful shot. Kreisher came off the bench to do a hell of a job for us," said UMass coach Joel Mascolo.

The second half was almost a duplicate of the first, with numerous UMass shots, but they still couldn't put the ball in the goal consistently.

Holyoke played a very physical game, especially in the second half. It was the physical aspect of the game that enabled the Cougars to bear the UMass Minutemen to the ball.

Coach Mascolo was also pleased with the performances of defenders Scott Eliot and Mike Mahoney, who cleared the ball.

The Minutemen have nine days off and play next Friday at home. UMass hosts the University of Connecticut which will be "the biggest test of the season," according to Mascolo.

UM runners place ninth in IC4A Championships

By Chris Wilson
Collegian Staff

UMass harrier Chris Omeltchenko led the men's cross country team to ninth place in the IC4A Championships Monday at Manhattan College.

The meet was won by Bucknell with 55 points, followed by defending champs Villanova, and Boston University.

For UMass Omeltchenko placed 28th at 25:17, Mike Doiron 42nd (25:29), Paul Beaulieu 55th (25:45), Bob Martin 61st (25:49), and Kevin Corcoran 69th (25:58)

Coach Ken O'Brien said the meet was one of the best shows of team effort and performance this year, especially under the pressurized conditions.

He also said that the team's "most outstanding race for the day was Chris Omeltchenko's."

The team's next meet will be the Coaches Championship to be held November 1 at Penn State.

★ Internal Athlete

continued from page 16

athlete has been exposed and put into perspective. It is very important, and in more ways that we would have believed years ago.

The lonely athlete moves out from the crowd, clad in sweats and a tee-shirt, all set to go. Moving down the highway into deserted streets of residential areas, slipping into personal space. There isn't any room for distraction. Roll on.

Ken Lasker is a Collegian columnist

Engineering, Computer Science, Math and Physics Majors...

Take Your Degree Into A Real World Laboratory - With Vitro!

Not only are we working on complex Naval Weapons Systems that will revolutionize current state-of-the-art standards, we're offering opportunities for growth and professional recognition that put us way ahead of our competition. At Vitro, almost every project we take on represents a significant part of a major national issue. Depending on your interests, you could be involved in the systems engineering, integration, and analysis of the fleet shipboard combat system development, or the application of advanced computer technology in support of complex systems engineering programs. It's a career that has implications well beyond the academic.

As one of the nation's leading systems engineering firms, we can offer the new graduate a career package that includes tuition reimbursement, group insurance, paid vacations, retirement programs, a very good salary, and the opportunity to become involved immediately in significant long-term programs. You'll also enjoy being located "at the pulse," in suburban Maryland, near Washington, D.C., within easy reach of the many cultural advantages of the nation's capital.

Vitro positions require problem-solvers who have technical ability and engineering creativity. If you're about ready for a real world application of your classroom problem-solving skills, let's talk about tomorrow: yours and ours. We'll be on campus October 29; or contact Maureen Conrad, College Relations Coordinator, Toll Free at (800) 638-2901, ext. 4050. Check with your Placement Office for details.

AUTOMATION INDUSTRIES, INC.
Vitro Laboratories Division
Department CN
14000 Georgia Avenue Silver Spring, Maryland 20910
An Equal Opportunity Employer M/F/H
U.S. Citizenship Required

UNE Medical School

Four-year fully recognized and established Mexican Medical School, with several hundred American students enrolled. Use English textbooks, with First Semester exams in English. School combines quality education, small classes, experienced teachers, modern facilities.

Universidad Del Noreste
120 East 41 St. NY NY 10017
(212) 594-6566
or 232-3784

ACADEMY of MUSIC
Northampton, Mass.

On Screen Daily at 7:00 and 9:00

"★★★★". —Richard Freedman, Newhouse Newspapers

"This year's 'My Brilliant Career'. Sensitive, intelligent and gorgeously filmed." —CBS

Starring Susannah York

PG

Getting Wisdom

Atlantic Releasing Corporation 1980

AT THE GATES OF SMITH COLLEGE

Sports

There will be a mandatory sports staff meeting tonight at 6 p.m. at the sports desk. Winter beats will be discussed.

UMass chalks up number 18

By Nancy Parks
Collegian Staff

With alot of anxiety in the air and aggressiveness on the field, the UMass women's field hockey team exploded to defeat Springfield College on NOPE field yesterday, 3-0.

"It was a fantastic game; this is the best game we've played all season, coach Pam Hixon said. "I am really pleased."

UMass came on the field like a whirlwind; the women were marking their opponents well and working the right side of the field with an awesome fierceness. The forwards were pressuring the Springfield women well, pushing them all over the field.

With a number of UMass corners in the first half, there were many nice attempts on the Springfield goal. Sue Bopes connected at 8:15 in the first half to score the first goal for the stickers.

The Springfield women were good stick handlers and extremely tough on defense.

"Springfield is a tough team, it's one [illegible] in the league," said Hixon. "You always [illegible] play your best when you are up against [illegible]."

With 1:00 left on the clock, Springfield [illegible] corner shot on the UMass goal. It was brought [illegible] of the circle by one of the wings where one [illegible] the forward line took a nice drive on the UM[illegible] was hit wide by sweeper Carol Progouske and [illegible] Patty Shea.

Judy Strong started the second half [illegible] a drive down the field to the Springfield circle, where [illegible] passed to Tish Stevens. Stevens had a clear shot on goal but the ball hit her leg and Springfield received the ball on a call by one of the officials.

Starting with 22:40 left on the scoreboard, UMass went on to play 8 corner shots on the Chicopee net. Most of the attempts ended with UMass forwards hooking the top of the circle, but there were a few nice shots on net by Strong, but the Springfield defense was always there for the coverage.

"We play great under defense," Patti Bossio, Chris Caughlin and Judy Hudyn played a super game. They went to the goal and did everything that was needed," said Hixon.

Springfield came up with a corner [illegible] the clock. The ball was brought up to the top of the circle nicely for a line drive on goal. Succeeding [illegible] there for the save. Shea caught the ball in the air on a dive by one of the Springfield women.

Finally, with 1:50 left in the second half, UMass received a corner shot on the Springfield goal. Stevens took the ball on the wings and drove to Strong who was waiting at the circle [illegible]. Strong had a clear shot on the net and scored the only goal for the Minutewomen. Thought the Stickers to a 2-0 [illegible] Springfield.

Thursday the women [illegible] Salisbury [illegible] have been relatively successful [illegible] in the [illegible] said. "And we hope it will."

Right now the UMass team is ranked second in the nation behind Penn State and looking for the [illegible] Smith.

Intramural football: something's missing

By Stephen Freker
Collegian Staff

One might say that the intramural football season has been lacking something this year.

Certain items were absent from the usual agenda, but it's guaranteed that nobody's upset about the fact.

"The water shortage may have been bad for the town, but it's been great for us."
—Mike Waldron, head intramural official

The missing items were important ones. Rained out games, muddy fields, innumerable injuries and disgruntled players were all on this year's list.

Many people were pleased with this welcome turn of events. Mike Waldron, head official and designated workhorse of the intramurals staff was one.

"It's probably been the smoothest-run season since I've been associated with intramurals (seven semesters)," Waldron said. "We really had a break with the weather. The water shortage may have been bad for the town, but it's been great for us."

The switch from the rain-soaked nightmare of last season to the exceptionally good field and game conditions of this season is not the only change in intramural football. Some innovative scheduling adjustments have been made in an effort to create more interest and participation in the football program.

The old five-game schedule has been increased to seven and teams now play twice a week. In previous seasons, teams played only once a week. This change cuts down the length of the season somewhat, but apparently, it is a change for the better.

"When people play more often, they're happier," explained Waldron. "The main reason for these changes is to get more students down here on the field. Many teams have indicated that they like playing twice a week."

Participation is the key concept here. The main objective of the intramurals staff is to increase participation. The success of a program such as intramurals is directly related to its ability to cultivate and maintain the interest of the student population. This is obviously an economically sound premise since the budget for intramurals programs is allocated in proportion to the number of students involved in these programs. Lack of participation equals no money in this case.

"Everyone who came down here this season and participated deserves a good word simply because they made the effort," said Waldron. "Without the student body, we (the intramurals dept.) are nothing."

The formula for entry to the playoffs was also changed this season to allow more teams to qualify for post-season play. Any team with a winning percentage of .500 or better is now eligible. Last year only league winners made the cut. This year league winners still get into the playoffs, but receive a first-round "bye." According to Waldron, this alteration lessens some of the "must-win" attitude which previously geared playoff hopes of league members.

It might appear that the number of teams involved in the playoffs is weighed in favor of the men's division since there are 48 men's teams and only four women's and eight co-rec squads. It would be incorrect to assume this, however, because the actual number of playoff teams is in direct proportion to the number of entries received by the intramurals office and the .500 or better winning percentage formula is applied to each division equally.

Single-elimination playoff action was kicked off Monday night and is expected to continue into next week. The battle to unseat last year's champs (men's-Express, women's-Flakes, co-rec-Titans) should be a good one. Playoff games are played every night except Friday and begin at 4:30 p.m. on the Boyden playing fields. See you there.

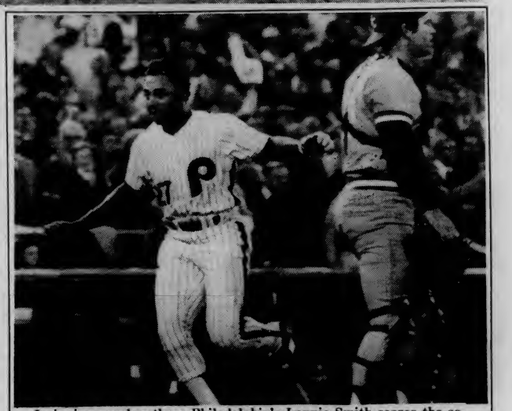
Monday night's results:

Lambda Chi	14	Chadburne Chimps	0
Butterfield	21	Co-Pilots	4
Lizards	20	Maulers	2
Moore Madmen	14	Chimpmen	6
Phi Mu Delta	3	Express	0
Lewy All Stars	21	The Crew	7
Hamlin Seconds	15	Armadillos	0
Beta Kappa Phi	22	James Gang	18
Mack. Lions	16	Space Cadets	9
Loadz	8	Delta Upsilon	5
Pi Kappa	16	Phi Sig "B"	0
Vandals	6	Macaques	3
Patterson	14	Bon Squad	3

Tuesday's Results

Pink Steel*	WBF	Lambda Chi
Mack. Lions	22	Iowa Tech*	0
Maroons*	31	D-Bags	8
BKP "A"	42	Kennedy Chiefs*	0
Sons of Sam*	15	Phi Mu Delta	0
Theta Chi*	33	Butterfield	0
I Phelta Thi*	21	Romp	9
T-Redwoods*	14	Lewy All-Stars	0
Niners*	18	Moore Madmen	0
Dwgt Demons*	14	Toadz	0
BMF*	17	Drunks	0
Fuckawees*	21	Patterson	0
Hamlin Seconds	7	Hogsters*	0
Pi Kappa Alpha	23	BKO 69ers*	2
Phi Sig "A"*	23	Vandals	9

* Indicates regular season league winners



In inning number three Philadelphia's Lonnie Smith scores the second run of the sixth game of the World Series. Despite two Kansas City rallies that loaded the bases in the eighth and ninth innings, the Phillies held on to a 4-1 win to take the 1980 World Series.

Internal athlete

Ken Lasker

The trees glide by at an ever-increasing pace and become blended together to form the perfect spectrum for thought. And as the ground rumbles beneath your sleak bicycle a monotone forms to help you escape, to get just a little bit deeper, deeper into a kind of personal space where you are very much alone. The interference of any stimulus on the outside vanishes completely. This feels nice, you think, as you cruise by the swaggering pedestrians who, through mild intoxication, haven't even noticed any movement on the street besides their own.

You push yourself out onto the road even though your body says "no." Pounding the pavement in a rhythmic fashion, the runner moves more and more slowly into a state of mind that is comfortable and relaxing. Attempting to ignore any physical pain, introspection begins and thoughts flow freely through new, broken passages in your mind. Back and forth, back and forth, you try to fight the fatigue as ideas begin getting clogged and thwarted by the pressure of pain. It's time to stop.

How many people on this campus are enhanced through physical exertion? This is indeed difficult to gauge. However, being alone is important to most people, and through athletic endeavors, many are able to achieve some peace of mind. Whether thinking about the routine of daily life, exams that have blown your mind, members of the opposite sex, or being just plain analytical about yourself, the physical does seem to form a base from which one's thoughts can stem. And the individual who goes off by him or herself to exercise can often find this out by accident until a certain dependence can form on it. It can also go quite unrecognized and become a time where your mind goes on a free-flight period, (with no commercial interruptions) floating from one thing to the next, always moving along, attempting to make order out of the chaos that is going on in there.

So, this writer is, once again, in the position of exposing known "goings-on" that aren't usually put in print. An awkward position to be in. Maybe just an attempt to make some order out of the chaos that is going on in here (!).

So, where does this leave us? With a picture of the secluded athlete, moving past the precious colors that are strictly Autumn's, gliding into a suitable frame of mind. Whether by bike, through jogging, or even just taking a stroll, one can bring together many facets that only have to do with good old number one.

In our ever-expanding culture, we seem to accept more and more, even if our own beliefs aren't in accordance. Now, more than ever with the jogging boom of a few years back, the internal side of the lonely

turn to page 15

Iran says hostage deal imminent

LONDON (AP) — Iranian leaders said yesterday the United States appears ready to meet their conditions for release of the 52 hostages, and the Americans could be freed as early as next Monday, reports from Tehran said.

The indications of progress from Tehran were not confirmed by U.S. officials in Washington, who reacted skeptically to some aspects of the reports.

Prime Minister Mohammad Ali Rajai reportedly told a news conference in Tehran the Carter administration seems prepared to comply with the Iranian demands.

A member of the Iranian parliamentary commission studying the hostage issue said in the Iranian capital that the terms for the Americans' release probably would be announced Sunday, and if the conditions are met by the United States "the hostages could even be released the following day," according to the reports reaching London.

Some of the reports named that official as commission chairman Moussavi Khoeini, the Moslem clergyman regarded as spiritual leader of the young militants holding the hostages.

Ali Akbar Parvaresh, another member of the commission, later said there was a "great probability" the issue would be discussed by the Parliament on Sunday. He was reached in Tehran by telephone from the Associated Press office in Beirut, Lebanon.

Still later, the secretary to Ahmad Khomeini, son of Iranian leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, said the United States had already accepted Iran's conditions and the hostages would be released "soon."

It was not known whether the secretary, who also spoke by telephone with the AP Beirut office, had any special access to information on the crisis.

The remarks left many questions unanswered, and U.S. officials in Washington emphasized the Iranian Parliament has not yet even announced what the conditions will be for the hostages' freedom.

But the reports added to a growing air of optimism about a possible resolution of the impasse in the days leading up to the U.S. presidential election Nov. 4.

Yesterday was the 354th day of captivity for the Americans in Iran.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Volume CX, Issue [illegible] The newspaper of the University of Massachusetts at Amherst Thursday, October 23, 1980

Larry Colby, member of the UMass chess team, does some careful thinking before making his next move. (Staff photo by Dan Drollette)

Finance changes suggested for student businesses, DVP

By Stephen Moran
Collegian Staff

Student supported plans for major alterations in the financial policies of the Distinguished Visitors Program and most student-run businesses passed a major hurdle yesterday at a meeting of the Board of Trustees Budget and Fianance committee. The committee has agreed to recommend the students' plans to the full board when it convenes this month.

Student Government Association TreasurerAl Wallace presented a plan that will allow student run coops and activities to conduct business on a credit basis. Until now, Wallace said, coop inventories have been bought on a cash basis using monies from the Student Activities Trust Fund.

"This has tended to cause great SATF deficits in the past," said Wallace.

Use of the new system "will allow us to expand and allow for accountability at the same time," he said.

Wallace's plan for "asset funded purchase orders" allows many student-run ventures to spend up to 50 percent of their projected incomes. The plan limits the use of credit only to revenue generating activities, including many of the student coops, he said.

As much as half of the dollar amount of a business' accounts receivable and saleable inventory may now be used for credit, he said.

Alterations in DVP financing include using $27,872 of the group's endowment fund interest to balance the fund at $100,000. The remaining $12,857 will be used to subsidize non-admission events.

The future yearly interest from the endowment fund, estimated at $5,000, will be used to underwrite programming of community events, including the Martin Luther King, Jr. Memorial Lecture Series and International Women's Week.

DVP chairperson Howard Goldman said "the monies from the fund gives DVP the opportunity to bring the kind of quality speakers an intellectually aware student body should have."

He said the added interest revenue will enable DVP to bring two or three additional speakers to campus next year.

In other business, the committee directed the administration to inform the committee members of any change in job funding. This action was taken in response to SGA co-President Richard LaVoice's concern that the administration had changed formerly state funded administration positions to campus trust fund financed positions.

Acting committee chairperson James Krumsciek said the minutes of the meeting would adequately serve to prevent unilateral decisions of funding changes in the future.

Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs Dennis L. Madson said his earlier proposal to change some campus state financed jobs to trust fund financed jobs had been rescinded for this year.

Referendum may be held to decide senate elections

By Ken Ross
Collegian Staff

The Undergraduate Student Senate last night voted to request that the Commuter Assembly take up the issue of deciding the validity of the Commuter Election results through a referendum to voters.

The Senate's vote was a compromise towards expediting a decision on the election results which have been stalled for the past three weeks.

The Commuter Assembly is the area government representing commuter voters.

"The referendum is a patchwork measure," said Senator Joel Weissman, who is a member of the commuter senate. "If we didn't do this, the question of the elections could have dragged on into late November or early December."

The Senate had passed the election results at last week's meeting but that decision was vetoed by Student Government Association co-Presidents Rich Moran and Rich LaVoice last Friday citing the Senate's decision did not conform to Senate by-laws.

Co-President Rich LaVoice said that he had "no problems" with the referendum, but also stated that he would rather see the election re-run.

"If there is a referendum and the voters decide the election was invalid, or if the election results are appealed to the Student Judiciary, and I've talked to a few people who plan to appeal it, and they decide the election is invalid, then the election will have to be re-run anyway. I think we might be wasting a few weeks time with the referendum," said LaVoice.

In other business, the senate passed a resolution opposing the controversial "Proposition 2½" tax cut measure and urged the senators to "go out and work against it."

"The passing of Proposition 2½ would mean a 40 percent cutback in taxes in local towns. It will prove disaterous," said Senator Arvid Muller who drafted the resolution.

"Proposition 2½ is a crucial issue," said Senator Ken Moore. "It has been estimated that the budget of the University of Mass. would be cut 30 percent if it passes."

The senate also voted to form an ad-hoc committee to inform students of proposed increases in student tuition and fees by the Board of Trustees.

This could be the most important thing the senate does this year," said Senator Ron Keefe. "The senate hasn't gotten past the first item on the agenda in the last three weeks. This is something concerned senators felt they had to get together to do."

Keefe said that proposed increases would amount to a little over $300 per student for the next academic year. The committee will meet this Monday at 7 p.m. to discuss strategies.

The student senate convened in the Blue Wall cafeteria last night due to a lack of other available space in the campus center. The wall in the foreground is part of the new decor that was formed when the Blue Wall was redecorated during the summer months.

World and national news

LONDON—William Rees Mogg, foreground, editor of the Times of London, tells his staff yesterday that the 195-year-old newspaper and its sister publication The Sunday Times, are up for sale. He reads statement from the owners saying that unless a buyer is found by March 1981, the paper will fold. (AP Laserphoto)

Iraqis tighten grip on Khorramshahr

By Tom Baldwin
Associated Press

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Fighting house to house against snipers and dug-in machinegunners, Iraqi troops tightened their grip yesterday on the Iranian port city of Khorramshahr. In nearby Abadan, Iraqi tanks pounded away at the main entrance to the city but were repulsed, the Iranians claimed.

"The Iranian forces are ready to defend their trenches with the last drop of their blood," Tehran Radio said.

As the Iran-Iraq conflict entered its second month, U.S.made Iranian Phantom fighterbombers raided the Iraqi capital of Baghdad, Iraq's air force struck back with counter-raids, and an Iraqi gunboat sank an Iranian supply ship in the northern reaches of the Persian Gulf, according to communiques from the two sides monitored here.

Diplomatic efforts to end the war appeared to take one step forward and one backward.

The secretary-general of the Islamic Conference of nations, Habib Chatti, said Iraq had agreed "in principle" to receive a peace mission of seven Islamic heads of state. But Chatti said that, contrary to previous reports from Tehran, Iranian leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini has not agreed to the plan.

He made the comments in Pakistan after flying there from Tehran.

Iran's prime minister, Mohammad Ali Rajai, declared Tuesday that Iran will not negotiate with any international group since the war and the Iranian Islamic revolution would not permit it, Tehran Radio reported in a broadcast monitored here.

The Iranians have said repeatedly they will not negotiate until the Iraqi invasion force withdraws from Iranian territory.

Profs say hostage release would aid Carter

By Lillian Singer
Collegian Staff

University of Massachusetts professors surveyed yesterday believe that the release of the American hostages within the next few crucial weeks of the election will benefit President Carter.

According to a British Broadcasting Corporation report yesterday, Iranian Prime Minister Mohammed Ali Rajai hinted at the possibility of the release of the 52 hostages by Monday of next week.

"I don't believe it," said World Politics professor, Ferenc Vali. "It doesn't seem to fit into the picture. The Iranian parliament layed down conditions to the release of the hostages and, as of now, these have not been met."

Although Vali feels that the president would have nothing to do with their release, he does believe that Carter will take the credit for it and that public reaction will be in Carter's favor.

"I have strong suspicion that Carter will benefit from it," said Edward Feit, professor of Mid-East Government and Politics.

Feit does feel that the final outcome, as far as its affect on the election, depends on whether the American people feel that Carter advocated their release or "if they feel that Jimmy Carter bungled the whole thing from the beginning."

> "I don't believe it. It doesn't seem to fit into the picture. The Iranian Parliament layed down conditions to the release of the hostages, and, as of now, these have not been met."
> —Prof. Ferenc Vali

Feit also said he feels that it may depend on whether or not the American people hold the hostage issue in as high a regard as held in the past.

Stephen Pelz, professor of Diplomatic History, is doubtful of the possibility of the hostage's release within the next week.

"I don't think it will happen," he said. "It's possible, but my first reaction would be skepticism."

The three professors seem to view the freeing of the 52 Americans doubtful, but also as a plus for the uncumbent candidate if followed through.

"I think that the situation will have a big affect on the election and in Carter's favor," said Pelz, "but I gave up predicting elections after Muskie in '68."

Carter, Reagan continue attacks

Ronald Reagan and President Carter, campaigning in neighboring states, traded unflattering assessments of each other's performance yesterday. Reagan called Carter incompetent and his tactics reprehensible, and Carter hooted at the Republican's "secret plan" for gaining release of the hostages in Iran.

And then there was a first-time Carter complaint that the GOP was spreading an equine-produced fertilizer.

"I grew up on a farm and I know you need boots for things beside stomping Republicans," Carter told an audience in Waco, Texas. "Republicans have a habit of spreading a lot of horse manure around right before an election, and lately, as you also know, it's been getting pretty deep all over this country."

In Shreveport, La., Reagan said he is not going to comment on the hostage situation any more "because it is so obvious how they the Democrats tried to make a political issue of this."

Independent candidate John B. Anderson, in Washington before setting out on a campaign swing, said he hopes the hostages are freed immediately no matter what political benefit that might bright Carter.

He complained bitterly about being excluded from next Tuesday's debate between Carter and Reagan.

Digest

Associated Press

Feds urged to pay dump tabs

BOSTON — A special state commission is urging Congress to pick up the tab for disposal of abandoned industrial waste, noting that one such cleanup job in Lowell already has cost Massachusetts taxpayers $2.3 million.

The Massachusetts Commission on Hazardous Waste issued an endorsement yesterday for a proposed federal "superfund" to cover chemical clean-up expenses. Legislation awaiting post-election action in the Senate Finance Committee would earmark nearly $1.7 billion to clean up chemical spills and dumpsites and pay the medical expenses of poisoned residents.

The state commission noted that a recent state study found that the water supplies in at least one-third of Massachusetts' communities have been affected to some degree by chemical contamination.

Israelis bomb targets

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Israeli warplanes hammered Palestinian targets south of the Lebanese capital in an hour-long sundown attack yesterday, drawing a barrage of anti-aircraft fire and bringing thousands of Beirut residents to their rooftops towatch the action.

Palestinians reported several civilian casualties and the rightist Voice of Lebanon said 31 persons were injured in the raids.

The Israeli military command said the attack was against a Palestinian guerrilla base that had served as a jumping off point for operations against Israel. It did not give the number of planes involved, but said all of them returned safely to Israel after scoring hits on the Ein Dorfeil guerrilla base about 10 miles south of Beirut.

The Palestine Liberation Organization, which is headquartered in Beirut, said 20 Israeli fighter-bombers made two late afternoon raids. A PLO communique said the jets attacked Bourj el Barajneh, a shantytown on Beirut's southern fringe, and three Lebanese towns 12 to 15 miles south of the capital along Lebanon's Mediterranean highway.

Bourj el Barajneh is the site of a large Palestinian refugee camp and the headquarters of several radical guerrilla groups. The PLO said the other targets were Damour, Naameh and Saadiyat.

Today's paper was produced by Assistant Managing Editor Ed Levine, Copy Editor Maureen McManus, Layout Technician Bret Willden, Head Darkroom Tech Kris Craig and composing room specialists Donna Levine, Pam Dissinger, Michele Jones, Rob Carr and Mary Kinneavey, who are all tired of having to walk all the way around the solar conference to get to the office.

Subscription Rates

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 325 220) is published daily Monday through Friday excluding vacations, exam periods, or holidays, for $45 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

Friday & Saturday
DISCO
With K.C.
NO COVER CHARGE
Late Night Menu Served til Midnight
THE PUB
15 East Pleasant St.
AMHERST

Branagan's
food&spirits
Now appearing
Tom McClung
at the piano
RT 9 At University Drive, Amherst

the Hungry U
Restaurant
the ideal spot for a relaxing meal
Thursday Night Pizza Specia
Half Price Pitcher of Beer
with purchase of any large pizza
55 University Drive
Amherst
549-5713

Conferences forfeit student space for funds

By Samuel Chalfen
Collegian Staff

Due to the budget cuts affecting the University the Campus Center needs conferences such as "Passive Solar 1980" despite the inconveniences to students, the Campus Center/Student Union Board of Governors said Yesterday.

Board Chairman Curtiss Wohlers said the conference is part of an overall plan to keep down the cost of the Student Campus Center fee. The $150,000 the conference is expected to generate will be used by the Campus Center Food Services, the Conference Service department and the Campus Center.

The conference, expected to draw as many as 2,500 people, has disrupted student meetings, moved the student-run Earthfoods restaraunt to a temporary location in the Cape Cod Lounge, and caused a lack of study space.

"We do need the funds," Wohlers said, citing budget cuts, "but there is a trade-off involved" inconveniencing students while the conference takes up more than 50 percent of the available Campus Center space.

BOG Treasurer Michael Jingozian said the Board was aware of the conference during the summer, but not until the Conference Services office committed the space to the conference. Jingozian and Legal Services Office Attorney Michael Pill wrote a letter to Chancellor Henry Koffler last summer protesting the conference and the lack of student input in the planning of the event. Citing Massachusetts General Laws, a draft of the letter stated "the conference to be held this October is effectively denying students the use of the Campus Center for which they pay their fees."

Negotiations were conducted between the BOG and Conference Services during the summer which resulted in the offer of Conference Services to re-pay Earth Foods for any money lost due to the shift in location, and possibilities for students to participate in the conference.

There was a four hour long open-house for the general public to view exhibits last night. Interested students also had the option to work as a volunteer for the conference in return for the ability to participate.

The BOG chairman and treasurer also expressed concern that future conferences, which may not have educational aspects like the present one, may not be well received by the students.

The Board is working for greater input in the decision making process, Wohlers said. Director of Auxiliary Services Arthur Warren has met with the board since the summer to determine how to integrate the BOG into the process. The board represents the student interests in the functions of the Campus Center and should be informed ahead of time of such conferences, Wohlers said.

LET'S BE FRIENDS. Sara Freihaut offered her balloon to the inflatable robot yesterday at the Passive Solar Energy Fair. (Staff photo by Cheryl Senter)

Police officers identified in suit of protective custody violations

By Carol Censullo
Collegian Correspondent

Five additional members of the University of Massachusetts Department of Public Safety have been named as defendants in a $300,000 class action suit filed by two UMass students on Feb. 28.

Police officers Steven Draghetti, Paul Ominsky, Marcus Fifield, Richard s. Grader and Peter Sienkiewicz have been charged with illegal and unconstitutional abuse of the protective custody provisions of Massachusetts General Laws.

Previously named in the suit were Amherst Police Chief Donald Maia, Chief of the UMass Department of Public Safety Robert G. Joyce, and UMass police officers William F. Murphy and Cheryl A. Sponburgh.

The suit was filed by David Leger, 21, of Lincoln and David Regan, 20, of Natick who claim that on the night of Nov. 10, 1979, they were "viciously and brutally" searched and handcuffed in the lobby of Coolidge dormitory. Leger and Regen were then taken to the UMass police station where they were booked, fingerprinted, and photographed. Neither was advised of the reason for their detention, or of their right to a phone call, the suit states. They were not given a breathalizer test, the suit also states.

In the suit Leger and Regan claim they were later taken to the Amherst police station where they were placed in a "cold, filthy cell" and denied a blanket, toilet paper, water or food, even after both had requested them. Again, both were denied a phone call and the services of a lawyer, the suit states.

Leger and Regan claim in the suit that the Amherst police officers also yelled obscenities at them.

Both Leger and Regan are charging that the actions of the officers caused them "severe emotional distress," "mental anguish" and "damaged their reputation." Each is seeking close to $150,000 in damages from the defendants.

Representing Leger and Regan is attorney Charles DiMare of UMass Student Legal Services.

A similar suit was filed on April 8 by three former UMass students against Maia, Joyce and six members of both the Amherst and UMass police forces.

Mark Egener of Westfield, New Jersey holds his prize pumpkin in his room at Pierpont Dormitory.

Presidential assistant defends Carter's decisions

By Carla Lesh
Collegian Staff

President Carter has been "brutally honest" in his decision making even though some of his policies have been unpopular, said Anne Wexler, Assistant to the President for Public Liason, in a telephone interview with the Collegian yesterday.

Wexler said two of those decisions have been budget cuts because of high oil prices and reinstatement of draft registration.

The 150 percent increase in the price of crude oil has required some tough cut backs be recommended by Carter, Wexler said. This type of legislation has not been popular but it has been necessary. Wexler added that 99 percent of the legislation proposed by Carter has been passed by Congress. Wexler said she thinks Carter has kept the majority of his campaign promises and maintained the honesty that symbolized his 1976 campaign.

She said Carter hopes that there will be no need for the draft and added that even if Carter decides it is necessary to reinstate the draft it is not his decision alone and it must be approved by Congress. The recent increases in military pay are part of an effort to increase the size of the volunteer army and make the draft unnecessary, she said.

Wexler also said that she acts as Carter's liason for special interest groups including women and youth. She defended Carter's record in handling such groups.

"It's not the President's job to represent special interest groups. He must represent the national interests rather than any one particular group. However I think that there have been issues of particular concern that have been given attention by this White House," Wexler said.

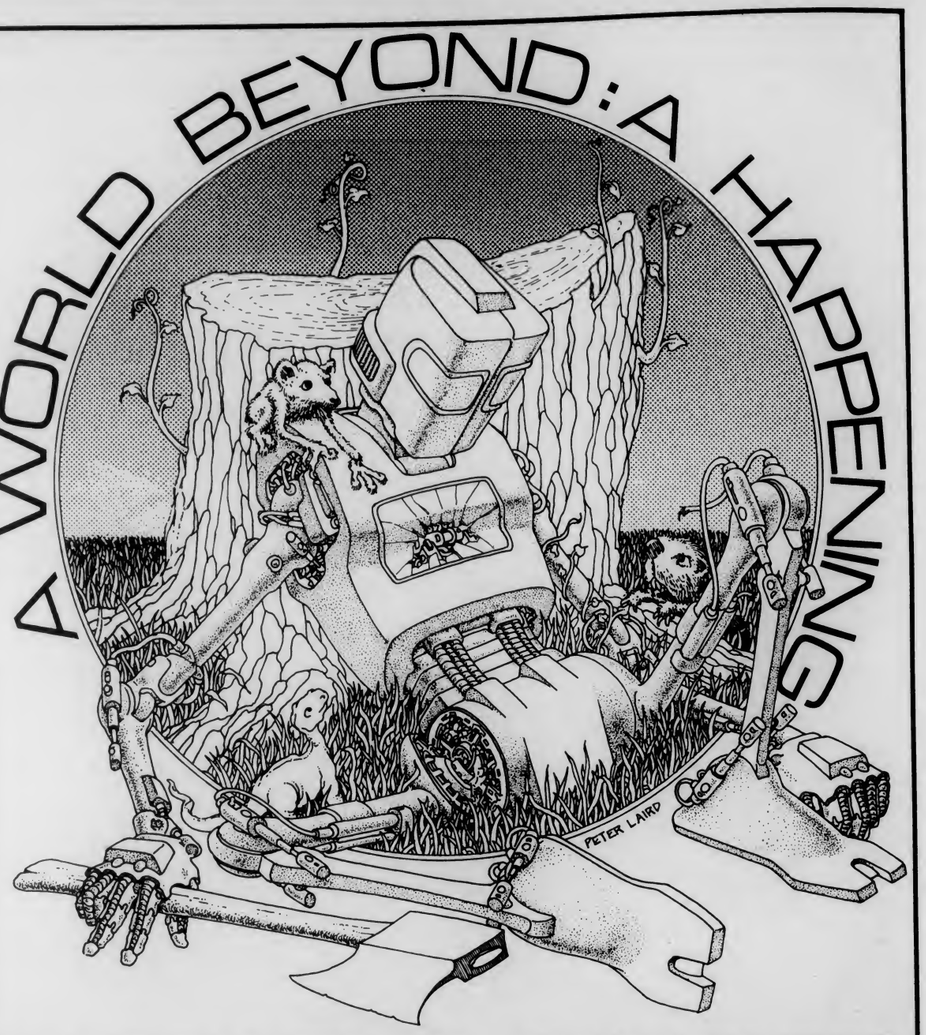
One of these is the women's special interest group, Wexler said. Of the six women who have served in the president's cabinet, three have been appointed by Carter. He is the first president to have a senior advisor on women's issues and 22 percent of the presidential appointees are women. These appointees will be in office for a long time, Wexler said, even if Carter is not re-elected.

She said Carter wants women to be able to make a choice between having a career and being a housewife.

"The aspect of having a choice is very important," Wexler said.

Wexler also said she is concerned about young people and their attitudes.

The age group with the worst voting record is the college age 18-23 year-olds, Wexler said, adding she is very disturbed about the poor voter turnout common among this age group. She attributes this to the displaced feeling common among students who have just moved to a new college. Because they have not been in the area very long, many students are not acquainted with the local issues.



ENVIRONMENTAL CHALLENGES
AS VIEWED BY SCIENCE FICTION / PHANTASY

poster by Peter Laird

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1980
9 a.m. - 5 p.m.
Student Union Ballroom, University of Massachusetts/Amherst
NO ADMISSION CHARGE

FILMS
10:00 a.m.
"Journey to the Far Side of the Sun" (1969)

3:30 p.m.
"This Island Earth" (1955)

PANEL DISCUSSION
12 Noon
"Environmental Challenges As Viewed by Science Fiction/Phantasy Writers"
Authors: Jeffrey A. Carver, Robin McKinley, Frederick Pohl, Jane Yollen
Professors: Ernest Gallo, Charlotte Spivak, Maria Tymoczko and Ernie Black

Sponsored by
THE UNIVERSITY STORE
University of Massachusetts
and
THE HOLYOKE NEWS COMPANY

BOOK EXHIBIT
Thousands of Science Fiction and Phantasy Books Available to Purchase

Authors will be availa for discussion and autographs

Energy Department awards funds to UMass

By James F. Mahoney
Collegian Staff

A $206,000 grant has been awarded by the U.S. Department of Energy to the University of Massachusetts to aid it in making the dormitories and buildings on campus cost and energy efficient.

A matching grant has also been awarded by the Massachusetts Office of Energy Resource, bringing the total amount of funding to $413,000, said campus energy coordinator Barry Simon.

The money is slated to be used for energy conservation improvements including six dormitories, an academic building and an administration building. Also included in the plans for use of the funding is a campus-wide steam trap replacement program, Simon said.

The steam traps are an integral part of the heating system said George Norton, director of the Physical Plant. The traps collect condensed water which is pumped back into the boilers and then recirculated through the system, saving energy.

Norton said that one of the tasks submitted with the grant proposal was for funding for the replacement of the traps.

Similar heating systems controls will be added to the six dormitories, said Simon. Electronic devices will be installed to control the steam flow through the dorms.

Larry Kocot, a member of the Student Center for Educational Research and Advocacy Rents and Fees team and a member of the energy review board said that $30,000 of the grant has been earmarked for student employment in testing the steam traps.

He said that there are "hundreds of them spread throughout the campus."

Simon said the Fine Arts building will have its 21 fan system connected to a computer-controlled venting system in an effort to conserve energy and make heating in the building more efficient. The Whitmore Administration building will also have its fan system redesigned.

Kocot pointed out the possible savings of energy and money by just shutting off the main fan in the Whitmore building. The university would save close to $60,000 a year. He said that the building would pay for the new system in little over one year.

An extensive amount of the engineering work was done by State trained students and University staff. Simon said that this saved the University a considerable sum of money on the engineering analysis and audit. The Physical Plant utilities division was responsible for the organization of the engineering work.

The energy board applied for the grant at the end of May, Kocot said.

University unions voice grievances with administration

By Deborah Asbrand
Collegian Staff

The University of Massachusetts faculty union president yesterday criticized the university administration for demonstrating a lack of interest in academic quality in recent contract negotiations.

"We're running into the same problems as the unions—the administration is more intent on managerial rights than on the quality of the institution as a whole," said Peter D'Errico, president of the Massachusetts Society of Professors, at yesterday's meeting of the Resource Network.

Representatives from three other campus unions also discussed their recent problems in union negotiations with the University of Massachusetts administration.

At the last meeting of the resource network, attending members voted for further discussion of UMass unions. Grant Ingle, interim director of the network, invited the representatives to attend yesterday's meeting to make short presentations and to answer questions.

"My sense is it will be a while before we get a settlement," said D'Errico, representing the faculty union. The MSP is in the midst of negotiating its second contract, he said.

> "We're running into the same problems as other unions—the administration is more intent on managerial rights than on the quality of the institution as a whole."
> —Peter D'Errico, MSP president

"Our biggest issues are salaries, parking fees, uniform working hours, and vacancies and promotion language," said Lynn Washburn of the University Staff Association (USA), which has 1,200 members in its bargaining unit.

Washburn said problems have risen over the University's classification of confidential employees. Managerial people and dean's secretaries are termed confidential because of their access to the collective bargaining process and their employer's files, she said.

"Up to 300 employees have been excluded from the collective bargaining unit," Washburn said. "Basically, all of personnel is excluded."

Jonathan Tuttle, president of the American Federation of State and County Municipal Employees local 1776, said the biggest issues with his union were health and safety and parking fees.

"The present situation within the unit is one of tension, anger, and frustration," he said.

Tonight

JEREMIAH WEED

100 PROOF

The High Spirited Maverick.

BOURBON LIQUEUR

• 75¢ Drinks •

• Special Drinks • • T-Shirts • • Promotions •

OLDIES

with GREG ADAMS

NO COVER CHARGE

THE PUB
15 East Pleasant St.
AMHERST

THE GREAT-ES-SKATE

DOWNTOWN AMHERST / 256-6004 (across from the fire station)

SKATE SALES & RENTALS

Indoor & Outdoor Skating Specialists
Boots, Plates, Wheels & Bearings in all price ranges.

GROUP RATES & PARTIES OPEN SEVEN DAYS A WEEK...10-5

DISCO ON DOWN TO...

Rt. 9
Amherst

Poor Richards
DISCOTHEQUE
Thursday Special
Beat The Clock

8-9 50c
9-10 75c
All Drinks
10-closing $1.00
All Drinks

Fri. & Sat.
HAPPY HOUR 8-10 p.m.

College paper resumes but Voice terminates

The Amherst Student

By Catherine Clabby
Collegian Staff

After suspending publication last Monday due to a lack of funds, the Amherst Student, Amherst College's newspaper will resume publication Monday.

A front page article in Monday's student-run newspaper said the college's Student Allocation Committee refused to allocate $7,000 the paper needed to meet production costs. The paper has roughly a $35,000 operating budget, half of which comes from student fees and half from advertising revenue.

Monday's article said the paper would publish only one more issue, for homecoming.

But Tuesday night the Student staff negotiated with the allocation committee which agreed to give the paper $6,000. The allocation leaves the staff with enough money to continue publication of the bi-weekly Student, but not enough to continue publication of View, the paper's literary magazine.

George Witwer, chairman of the Amherst Student, said the committee was trying to encourage the newspaper to spend less money, not cease publication.

"They were operating under the conception that we could operate with less money than we asked for," he said. "It became apparent when we stopped publication that we needed the money," he added.

He said students at Amherst greeted the news that the 112 year old Student would no longer publish with an "uproar".

"Committee members had a lot of feed

TURN TO PAGE 12

NORTHAMPTON DAYS

MIDNIGHT MADNESS SALE

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 31st, 1980
9:30 a.m. - 8:00 p.m. 25% off
8:00 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. 30% off
9:00 p.m. - 10:00 p.m. 35% off
10:00 p.m. - 11:00 p.m. 10% off
11:00 p.m. - Midnight 45% off
At Midnight
At Logos book store
50% off!
* Special BONUS for costume-wearers!
33 Main St. Northampton
586-4112

ROBIN LANE & THE CHARTBUSTERS
Tickets on sale Today
SUNDAY
OCT. 26, 8 PM
at the
Student Union Ballroom
Tickets - $4.00 Umass Students
5.50 General public
At TIX, Union Records
For the Record
No Food Beverages or Smoking
MDC PRODUCTIONS

THE UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AT AMHERST
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
presents
DUETS
an evening with
CHICK COREA
&
GARY BURTON
THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 1980 8 PM
Tickets go on sale Wednesday, October 29 at the Fine Arts Center Box Office (M-F, noon-4 p.m.) Phone reservations accepted through Tuesday, Nov. 4 (413-545-2511)
$10, 9, 8 General Public
$9, 8, 7 Senior Citizens
$5, 4.50, 4 UMass Students

Check Our LOW Prices
Everything for Halloween
Choose full head masks or create your own unique costume with these:
SPOOKTACULAR SELECTIONS
THEATRICAL MAKEUP, COLORED HAIRSPRAY GREASE PAINTS, TOOTH OUT, BEARDS FEET, HANDS, HATS, SPIRIT GUM STAGE BLOOD, MUSTACHES, NOSES, FANGS, TEETH, WITCHES' HATS AND BROOMS, WIGS, HEAD PIECES LIQUID LATEX, STAGE WARTS, SPOCK EARS, STRANGE SPECS, ARROW THRU HEAD, DEVILS HORNS AND TAIL, BUNNY EARS AND TAIL AND A VARIETY OF SPECIALTY ITEMS
MOROSE MASQUERADES
MR. LURCH, UNCLE VAL, CHEWBACCA, ALIAS MR. HIDE, DARTH VADER, BIGFOOT, VAMPIRE, WITCH, DEAMON, SKULLHEAD, WOLFMAN, WEREWOLF, OLD TIMER, DRAGON FACE, DEATH CYBORG
NEW ADDITIONS FULL MASKS
YODA-UGNOUGHT-SPOCK-
VULCAN MASTER-KLINGOH
NEW FOR KIDS
SESAME STREET FULL COSTUMES
FLAME RETARDANT
open daily and Saturday 8-5:15 Thurs. nite until 9:00pm
H.L. CHILDS & SON
25 State St. Northampton

ROOTIE KAZOOTIE'S
Bar/Restaurant
is underway
Thornes Market/Northampton
open daily 586-8878
(next to Steve Herrell's Ice Cream)

NECKWEAR
in imported wools, silks, leathers, and more
SIENNA FINE CLOTHING
243 Main Street, Northampton 586-6457

Amherst town members vote on measure for gun safety

By Deborah Coughlin
Collegian Staff

After heated debate, Amherst Town Meeting members last night voted to place a proposed by-law before Monday's Town Meeting which would prohibit the discharge of firearms, other than shotguns and BB-guns, within the town.

The motion, Article 16, excludes the Norwottuck Gun Club and police on active duty.

In addition, Article 16 would direct the conservation commission to implement additional measures to improve gun safety on the land controlled by the commission., and recommend to the town manager similar measures for other town-owned land.

Article 16 would also direct the conservation commission and the town manager to report to the next Town Meeting on measures they have taken to improve gun safety on town land. And, the conservation commission would be required to publicize specified uses of each conservation area.

In other business, Article 13, which proposed that the Town amend the zoning by-law by incorporating the wetlands maps as part of the official zoning maps, was also passed. As part of this amendment, prospective builders may have to clarify their intentions with the conservation commissioner and anyone intending to alter land within the Wetlands District must obtain a permit from the building Commissioner.

Article 14, petitioned by Allen Cohn, proposed that the town approve the construction of a commercial raquet sports facility and health club. The article was defeated, because there was speculation by meeting members on the changes which would occur in the zoning by-law in general.

A motion that the town apply to the Massachusetts Department of Public Works for commercial vehicle exclusion permits in order to close Snell, Orchard, Hitchcock, Woodside, and Walnut Streets to through truck traffic, was also passed.

HARLOW LUGGAGE
40% off name brand
Leather Wallets
free gold monogramming
"the Little Leather Store with a whole lot more"
157 Main St. Northampton, MA

ACADEMY of MUSIC
Northampton, Mass.
Western Mass Premiere Engagement Now
On Screen Daily at 7:00 and 9:00
"A JOY TO BEHOLD!
SUSANNAH FOWLE IS PURE DYNAMITE"
★★★★ First there was 'Picnic at Hanging Rock' then 'My Brilliant Career' and now, best of all 'The Getting of Wisdom.' It is incomparably moving and powerful."
The Getting of Wisdom
AT THE GATES OF SMITH COLLEGE

upstairs... the BEST for women
SIENNA FINE CLOTHING
243 Main Street, Northampton 586-6457

DAYS NORTHAMPTON DAYS
The IRON HORSE
584-9735
20 Center St. Northampton
Coffeehouse
Live Music Every Night
Folk-Jazz-Blues-Classical
Breakfast-Lunch-Dinner
Specialties-Coffees-Beer-Wine
Open 7 days a week
8 am - Midnight
"Come and Warm up with our Soup, Stew or Chili."

$10 off
the handbag of your choice
THRU OCT. 31
with the purchase of ANY pair of boots
STRUT
197 MAIN ST.
NORTHAMPTON

BARSELOTTIS

Downtown Amherst

THURSDAY SPECIAL

$1.00 Off on any name Pitcher of Beer

with this coupon

Don't forget our Friday Happy Hour with Free Whole Wheat Pizza

"Six months out of school and I'm working on a circuit that will help heart patients live longer."
Pat Naughton, Product Engineer

"Name another company where you can be promoted to test engineering supervisor after only one year on the job."
Robert Mauro, Test Engineering Supervisor

"My first job after college and I helped develop a new CMOS technology for AMI's advanced PCM codec."
Megan Hooper, Process Engineer

American Microsystems is an exciting place to work. If you're an Electronics Engineer, Solid State Physicist, Chemical Engineer or Computer Scientist with a BS/MS/PhD, we have a variety of positions in design, testing, process and product applications, and computer-aided design available right now. Your future is here.

We were the first company to manufacture MOS/LSI, and we're the leader in state-of-the-art custom design. We're also deeply involved in communications, microprocessor and related semi-conductor technology.

But we're not one of those vast and impersonal companies where you can easily get lost in the shuffle. At AMI, your contribution will be recognized and well rewarded.

So why wait for the future when you can help build it at AMI.

If an interview on campus is not convenient, please send your resume to:

SANTA CLARA, CA
3800 Homestead Road
Santa Clara, CA 95051
(408) 246-0330

POCATELLO, ID
2300 Buckskin Road
Pocatello, ID 83201
(208) 233-4690

AMI
AMERICAN MICROSYSTEMS, INC.
The future is here.

We are an equal opportunity employer, m/f/h/v

Campus Interviews: Thursday 10/30 & Friday 10/31

Contact your placement office for an appointment.

Letters

Commoner wins over Republocrats

To the Editor:

I applaude the efforts of the Radical Student Union to stage a debate between representatives from the three main candidates and an alternative Citizen Party Candidate, Barry Commoner, represented by Lou Zemmel.

But at the end of the debate, a straw vote was taken to determine audience preferance. Barry Commoner's representative easily won. It is too bad that that the deck was already stacked against the other three candidates by the low attendance of the University as a whole. Many in the audience were already members of The Radical Student Union. We know where their partisanship lies. By not addressing this subtle fact, moderator Mimi Turchinetz was misleading the audience into believing that the debate was won by Lou Zemmel on the night of October 21. This is the stuff republocrats have been doing for years. IS THERE REALLY AN ALTERNATIVE?

Dave McCarthy
Southwest

Rents and Fees—going up!

To the Editor:

The Undergraduate Student Senate Rents and Fees Committee and the SCERA Rents and Fees Team have finished their review of the proposed fees for fiscal year 1982 (FY 82). Their report on the fees was passed by the student Senate on October 1, 1980. The report now goes to the Chancellor's Office, where the recommendations in the report will be considered in the budgeting process. Highlights of the report were:

1) The Committee voted to reject the proposed $162 increase in Residence Hall fees. The increase was considered to large, and there were many unanswered questions regarding the reasons for the increase.

2) The Committee voted to reject the proposed $101 increase in Boarding Hall fees. Questions regarding why the cost of renovating parts of the Campus Center were almost 100 percent more than budgeted last year were not addressed at the review. Such differences in expenditures (about $400,00) should be explained. The Committee also recommended that money used to renovate Dining Commons should come from the Cash and Permanent Reserves and not from the students through increased fees.

3) The Committee voted to reject increases in the Athletic Fee, the New Students' Counseling Fee, and the Consolidated Family Housing Fee. Questions on the different appropriations of these fees were the reason for their rejections.

4) The Committee did accept the proposed increases in International Programs, Commencement Fee, and the Student Health Service Fee. The Commencement Fee was accepted with the stipulation that the fee would not increase for another three years and that all commencement materials (caps, gowns, etc.) be purchased from Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity employers. The Health Services fee increase was rationalized by the soaring costs of medical supplies and the need to retain a qualified staff.

An alarming aspect of the proposed fee increases is the shifting of costs from the state to the student. Many services that were previously paid by the state will now be reflected in student fees. If this shift were to occur in the Room and Board fees, students would see their costs rise an additional $150 next year. With financial aid decreasing and all these fees increasing, the question is: Can the public afford public higher education?

Finally, because the deadlines for preliminary budgets require most of the decisions regarding fees to be made over the summer, student input was very limited. With the new Board of Regents coming into power in the spring, the forecast is that preliminary budgeting will always take place during the summer, thus eliminating student input for good. The budgeting process needs to be rescheduled to when the students are here, so that the student voice can be heard. If you have any questions or would like to help out, please call SCERA at 454-0341 and leave your name and number. Or stop by the office at 420 Student Union and see what you can do. We need your help.

Bob Zimmerman
SCERA Rents & Fees Team

Legalistic view of Christianity shortsighted

To the Editor:

This letter is a response to the article written by Mark Moran (Collegian 10/17). The question of birth control is a complex issue which has its roots in the nature of human sexuality, a very special God-given gift. Theology of sexuality as well as theology as a whole is an ever changing entity as God continues to reveal Himself to man. I question the statement that these "liberals" are promoting "watered down Christianity." To state a once-and-for-all legalistic view of Christianity is, to me, to be shortsighted and dangerously self-righteous in one's ability to interpret Scripture and to define what is God's will for man.

Jesus is a great teacher. Consider what he had to say about the legalistic view of religion held by the Scribes and Pharisees.

Barry Lindhan
Pelham

There once was a President named Carter,
Whose principle he felt free
to barter,
So his country confided
In a Reagan misguided
For to make up his mind was much harder

—E.J.

French craft, American style.

Now appearing at your local st...

Join the Collegian today!

Editorial/Opinion

Halloween discipline

Last year the University suffered minimal damages to its facilities at the hands of rowdy students and their visiting friends as they celebrated Halloween. There was an unusually high number of arrests, (most were to put students in protective custody) and violent crimes. Although the physical damage to the campus was no greater than for other weekends, the extent and level of disruptive behavior by persons in large groups was extreme.

More importantly, from the administration's standpoint, was the damage suffered to the University's reputation as a result of the notoriety the rollicking crowds enjoyed in the national media. News stories describing hellishly wild, uncontrolled crowds of adolescents marauding through campus reached newspapers as far away as Texas.

Anticipating similar behavior on the part of students and their friends this Halloween, the administration has chosen to close down the Campus Center complex and all buildings, other than dormitories, and put them under maximum security protection. Also, students will not be allowed to have their friends come to contribute to the festivities.

The potential for success of these measures in reducing rowdiness, and thus material for sensational news stories, is low because they do not discourage the formation of large congregations of students—they simply remove their traditional gathering areas. These steps do not speak to the widespread discipline problem with which the University is plagued; they constitute a piecemeal approach that attempts to compensate for the lack of a workable, year-round policy regarding student behavior.

Apparently, the administration is only interested in enforcing disciplinary measures when the failure to do so will result in spectacular visual evidence of disciplinary problems. The rest of the year, when the remaining 95 percent of student arrests and violence, and 99 percent of physical damage to University facilities occur, the University follows its act-like-there's-nothing-wrong policy of student discipline.

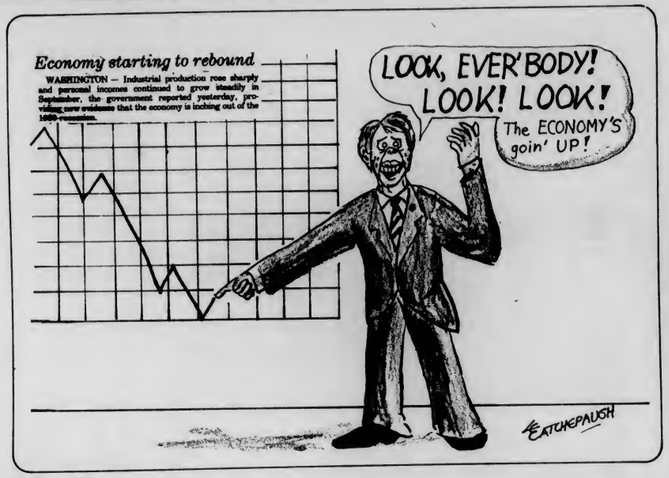
We would urge the administration, in cooperation with student leaders, to use the results of extensive investigations into the problem, which have already been made, to create an effective, comprehensive policy which will make the University a place where responsible behavior is the rule. A good reputation will follow.

All unsigned editorials represent the viewpoint of a majority of the Board of Editors.

Writing a letter? READ THIS!

Letters to the editor should be kept as brief as possible, and must be typed at 67 characters per line, triple spaced.

All letters must contain the writer's name, address and phone number. Only names will be printed. All letters are subject to editing for space and clarity.



Economy starting to rebound
WASHINGTON — Industrial production rose sharply and personal incomes continued to grow steadily in September, the government reported yesterday, providing new evidence that the economy is inching out of the 1980 recession.
LOOK, EVER'BODY! LOOK! LOOK!
The ECONOMY'S goin' UP!
KATZENBAUGH

Letters

Shallow analysis of play

To the Editor:

This letter is in response to Jonathan Hamilton's review of "Les Belles Soeurs," Michael Tremblay's play (of Canadian working-class women's lives) performed at Hampshire college. In my opinion, Mr. Hamilton begins in the first two paragraphs of the review with an adequate synopsis of the play but, continues thereafter and concludes with a rather shallow analysis.

I do not feel the play's larger theme is that, "the characters want to attain a high position in life and forget their past and present depravity." Rather, I am certain the playwright and director had a more profound intention. The play wants us to laugh, to feel the jealousy, pettiness, and bickering characteristic of working-class life, but more centrally, the play attempts to evoke our empathy, and understanding for the lives of these particular women (not in a patronizing sense, but in the sense of understanding these women as people.) We view the women not as depraved, but, as unique working-class female personalities struggling in their personal and very political lives.

The spotlighted soliloquies are the playwright/director's vehicle used to illuminate the complexity of each individual, female personality. Each spotlighted woman shares herself, her feelings, and her experience with the audience. The soliliquies do more than, "reveal jealousies, hidden lovers and resentment of physical enjoyment," in fact, I believe Hamilton's interpretation of what the soliliquies reveal is inaccurate. Instead, the spotlighted characters allow us to enter their world in all its beauty, pain and comedy. Trembley hasn't captured a stunning look at life as suggested in Hamilton's review rather he has artfully presented us with a slice of life, Canadian working-class women's lives in all its richness.

Yes, superficially the women portrayed in the play share two things in common: "an obsession for contests and a strong pious attitude of Catholicism," but, come now, this is merely background information—a cultural backdrop.

I don't feel Mr. Hamilton understood fully what the playwright and director intended for the audience to experience.

Primarily, I believe the play was written to dramatize the lives of working class women. Life in all its beauty, pain, and comedy. "Les Belles Soeurs" does not mourn depravity as Hamilton's entitled article suggests, rather the play attempts to portay the complexity of the lives, feelings and attitudes shared by the working-class women in the play.

Roberta Fineberg
Amherst

Alone in this city of bricks

To the Editor:

I am alone in this city,
a place defined by cold cement
by awesome dwellings

I live in a tower of fierce unyielding brick that creeps up around like wild thicket
suffocating ideas that yearn to grow mood, light, color, elements to atmosphere needed to produce for demants are forgotten

replaced by stack walls
stripped of life, stripped standing bare colorless

out from the tower reaps a soild cry, full of powerful emotion falling down from the sky
searching for the gravel that it is born up from one discouraged breath

one motion to feel sanction, failed and expelled out of the window,
only to be further trappled by the sounds of others

Let me be freed, might this cry be commanding like that of a frozen body, half sculpted from cold marble, then left, abandoned by its artist.

collective sound settles thick in the sky, chaotic dissonance, piercing and grumbl-

a hysteria like that worn helplessly after discovering death has claimed a friend in the night
the screaming smashes my attention, a thousand times over,

together,
we are alone in this city.

Diane Ar[illegible]
North[illegible]

French cooking, American style.

Now appearing at your local store.

Got something on your mind? Let people know in a letter to the Editor

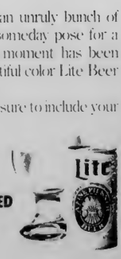
PSYCHOTHERAPY: Individuals, couples, families. Sliding fee scale.
Psychological Services Center
545-0041

HEAR TEMPEST LIVE ON
WZZZ 91.7 fm
Saturday Oct 25th
9:30
sound by mf sound

HOW WOULD YOU LIKE A FREE POSTER OF THESE GUYS HANGING AROUND YOUR ROOM?

Who would ever guess that an unruly bunch of famous Lite Beer drinkers would someday pose for a classic photograph? This precious moment has been captured in a big (18" by 24") beautiful color Lite Beer Alumni Poster that's yours for free.

Just cut out the coupon, being sure to include your name and address, and send it to: Lite Beer Alumni Poster, Box 11973, Milwaukee, WI 53211.



LITE BEER FROM MILLER. EVERYTHING YOU ALWAYS WANTED IN A BEER. AND LESS.

Name
Address
City State

Calvin brings it home!
Our Amherst Store Now offers HOME DELIVERY
6 days-a-week
5 pm - 10 pm
Call 549-6938
CALVIN ICE CREAM
Carriage Shops

"Western for Women"

the SHOE BIN
187 n. pleasant st., amherst

Prospective clown Deanna Ulivarri of Boston puts on make-up before her audition for the Ringling Bros. Barnum and Bailey Clown College in Boston yesterday. The circus holds one-day auditions in each city it visits while on tour. Those chosen will be admitted to the clown college located in Venice, Florida. (AP Laserphoto)

Taylor reverses plea

SPRINGFIELD — A former University of Massachusetts student pleaded guilty Tuesday in U.S. District Court to one count of conspiracy to commit mail fraud and five counts of mail fraud in connection with an alledged false transcript scheme last spring.

Stephen B. Taylor, 28, of Amherst, changed his plea from innocent Tuesday, six days before he was scheduled to go on trial.

Taylor's sentencing is scheduled on Nov. 12 before Judge Frank H. Freedman.

Micheline DiMichele, 22, of Amherst, faces trial Monday on conspiracy and mail fraud charges. She has pleaed innocent to the charges.

She faces five counts of mail fraud in connection with an alledged attempt to gain in-state status at UMass.

The two were indicted last May by a federal grand jury after a three-month investigation by postal inspectors and the U.S. Attorney's office.

Who voters believe may determine 'Prop 2½'

By Steven A. Cohen
Associated Press

BOSTON — The "facts" presented by both sides conflict. So for most people, a decision on the tax-cutting question on the Nov. 4 ballot may be a matter of which side to believe.

Those opposed to the question, dubbed Proposition 2¼, have been warning of bankrupt cities, massive public employee layoffs and chaos.

Cambridge City Manager James Sullivan, at a news conference last week, claimed his city would be left without a dime to pay its 4,000 public employees. He said such "irreducible costs" as the city debt, public pensions and street lighting would eat up all the available funds.

Proposition 2¼, Question 2 on the ballot, would limit the real estate levy to 2¼ percent of a property's fair market value and cut the auto excise tax, another major source of local revenue, from $66 per $1,000 of value to $25.

It also would:

—Allow renters to deduct 50 percent of their rent from their taxable income for state income taxes.

—Allow city councils and town meetings to cut school budgets which now, except in Boston, are controlled exclusively by school committees.

—Abolish compulsory binding arbitration, used now to settle labor disputes involving police and fire departments.

—Require the state to finance new programs it imposes on cities and towns.

—Ensure that fees charged for community services not exceed the actual cost.

The debate, intensifying as the election draws nearer, has focused on the property tax, the principal revenue source for the 351 communities and the only tax they are allowed to impose.

The opponents, principally those who receive or spend public funds, have been holding a news conference a day to press their point. The theme has been that property taxes are too high in Massachusetts — Sullivan called them "unconscionable" — but 2¼ is destructive.

Citizens for Limited Taxation, the group behind the proposed statute, thinks otherwise.

Why should someone vote for it?

"Because property taxes (in Massachusetts) are excessively high, 70 percent above the national average," Michael Korbey, field director for CLT, said in a telephone interview.

"The tax is regressive," he said. "It's not related to the ability to pay; it's a punishing tax.

"Today, people are literally being forced out of their homes because of property taxes. The reason we're going this route is because no one has done anything about it, not the vested interests who say they are for tax reform nor the Legislature."

Tape find perplexes Nixon

WASHINGTON AP — Richard Nixon's lawyer asked the Justice Department yesterday to find out how political prankster Dick Tuck obtained copies of White House Watergate tapes that were supposed to be under lock and key in the National Archives.

The archives, which has been playing the tapes for the public since early summer, began investigating whether its security precautions are inadequate.

Tuck is national political editor of the National Lampoon, a humor magazine. His avocation is plaguing Nixon.

He says he has 12 hours of Watergate tapes and played a half hour of excerpts from them for reporters Tuesday. He wouldn't say how he got them.

"I would love an investigation," he said yesterday. His reason:

JOBS AVAILABLE

The Collegian has openings for Assistant Night Production Managers. Applications will be available Monday, October 27 in the Collegian offices.

The Collegian is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer.

Do You Want A Single?

V.I.R.U.S.

Come to the Housing Assignment Office Rm. 235 Whitmore and fill out a V.I.R.U.S. request form.

V.I.R.U.S. is the new Variable Rate Structure which permits students to gain double singles, design singles, or triple-doubles and to guarantee their privacy and extra living space for a semester by paying a $25, $50, or $75 surcharge.

Does V.I.R.U.S. sound like it's for you? Then come to the Housing Assignment Office and fill out a V.I.R.U.S. request form.

DO IT TODAY!

SALE!
ONE DAY ONLY... SATURDAY, OCT. 25
20% OFF ALL STOCK
TIGHTS
LEGWARMERS
LEOTARDS
BODYSUITS
SKIRTS
DANSKIN
Fall Fashion Colors
SAT. ONLY... FACES
A Store-full of Ideas
Downtown Amherst /Open 10-6, Mon.-Sat.

live wire...
by Jim Moran

CONCERTed EFFORTS—There's some big name acts coming to our vicinity in case you haven't heard. This Saturday at Hartford's Stage West, the Joe Perry Project will do their stuff. For some old-fashioned heavy metal, it might be worth the $ to check out the ex-Aerosmith guitarist's band...November 13th at Rahar'r in Northampton, local favs, the Scientific Americans will play with the all-female Slits, whose album CUT has been the subject of some talk for its lady mud wrestling gimmick...On November 6th at the Rusty Nail in Sunderland, George Thorogood & the Destroyers will perform...November 13th at Stage West, Dire Straits will do a gig. Let's hope they don't do "Sultans of Swing"...

•••••

FEAR OF MUSIC?—Well, not exactly. But Talking Heads won't be coming to Stage West as the club had announced about a month ago. According to my source, their tour dates just didn't jive with the club's requested dates. The closest places to see Byrne and his nine-piece funk band are at the Waterbury Palace in Connecticut on November 6, or at the Orpheum in Boston for two shows, also in November...

•••••

...I LOVE THE SOUND OF BREAKING RECORDS—Joni Mitchell, riding high on the charts with the hit single "Why Do Fools Fall in Love" from her double LP Shadows and Light, has just passed the million-unit mark for her 1974 LP Court and Spark, a first for her. Though it won't be a certified Platinum (since the Record Industry Association of America didn't begin Platinum certifications until January '76) it is certainly worth noting. Nine of her previous 11 albums are certified Gold...Mitchell has also just completed a 90-minute Shadows and Light video which highlights last year's Mingus tour, plus some new footage. That will be shown on the "Showtime" TV network in 150 markets in November, as well as on the Canadian Broadcasting Company and the BBC.

•••••

...INDUSTRY NOTES—Island Records has just signed The Plastics, an all-Japanese New Wave band. You might recall they opened for The B-52's in Hartford last month...Max's Kansas City just released a single by the New Wave-reggae act The Terrorists; "Justice" b/w "Riis Park"...Also on the Max's label, just released, is a new live album from The Troggs (they did "Wild Thing" before Jimi Hendrix). Some cuts on the LP: "Satisfaction" (Oh, not again), "Walking the Dog" and "Strange Movie."

•••••

IF IT AIN'T STIFF...—Remember the "Be-Stiff Tour" that featured such luminaries as Rockpile, Elvis Costello, Dave Edmunds and Lene Lovich? Well Stiff Records is doing it again. "Son of Stiff" will be held at Stage West in Hartford December 12 with the following lineup: Joe "King" Carasco, Dirty Looks, Any Trouble, Ten Pole Tudor, and The

TURN TO PAGE 15

Club Listings

Ambrosia Cafe, Boltwood Walk, Amherst—Happy Hour 4-6 p.m. Mon.-Fri.; Oct. 23, Andy May; Oct. 29, Vast Ed Vadas.

Barselotti's, North Pleasant St., AMherst—Drinks served daily.

Carbur's, Elmwood Shops, Rte. 9, Hadley—Happy Hour Mon.-Fri. 4-6 p.m., 9-11. Double drinks and cheese and crackers during all Happy Hours and chicken wings daily 4-6.

Flat Street Club, Bratleboro, Vt.—Oct. 23, Duke Robillard Band, $1; Oct. 24 & 25, Shane Champagne, $2; Oct. 26, John Coster, $2.

The Hatch, Student Union, UMass—Happy Hour Mon.-Sat. 3-6 p.m.; Rock 'n' Reggae disco every Tues. with Jim McDee of WMUA; Crazy George's Happy Hour with 50's and 60's rock and trivia every Fri.; Oct. 23, Barney's Beanery; Oct. 24, John Lincoln Wright and the Sourmash w/ Willow Creek, $2; Oct. 25, The Nervous Eaters w/ The Trademarks, $2.

Hungry-U, 55 University Dr., Amherst—Thurs. nights 5- midnight, pitchers of beer half price with purchase of large pizza.

Iron Horse Coffeehouse, 20 Center St., Northampton—Oct. 23, Julie Dobrow & Friends; Oct. 24, The Lynne Meryl Trio; Oct. 25, Andy May; Oct. 26, Dave Mallet, $3.50; Oct. 27 Julia Burrough.

Mike's Westview Cafe, Sunderland Rd., Amherst—Thurs. is Penny Nite, every third drink; Fri., smorgasbord; Happy Hour every day 4-6 p.m.

Plumbley's, 30 Boltwood Walk, Amherst.

The Pub,15 East Pleasant St., Amherst—Tues., 2 for 1 nite; Wed. Pub Mug Nite w/Jim Plunkett; Fri & Sat., disco; Sun., oldies.

Poor Richard's, 10 Belchertown Rd., Amherst—Disco, drinks nightly.

QR, Rte. 9, Hadley—Oct. 24, Battle of the Bands, with Prophet and Back to Back; Oct. 25, N.Y. style disco; cover charge.

Rusty Nail, Rte. 47, Sunderland—Oct. 23, Fat, $2, women, dree; Oct. 24, Signal; Oct. 25, The Cardiac Kids and Martian Highway, $2; Oct. 26, Justin, no cover, 2 for 1 nite from 8-11.

★ Amherst Student

CONT. FROM PAGE 6

Witwer said. "But it costs $500 more a back from the students," he said. "And when one of the committee members was interviewed by the New York Times this week they realized the seriousness of the situation."

The paper's monthly literary magazine, The Voice, will no longer be published. The magazine, which appeared once a semester, began publication in the mid-sixties, Witwer said.

"The View filled a gap between articles that would go into a newspaper and those that belonged in a literary magazine," semester to print than we have."

ROCK NEW WAVE

Disc Jockeys for All Occasions
DENNIS 546-6249
ANDY 546-1164
Reasonable Prices Quality Sound
Reliable Service
OLDIES

Now comes Miller time.

Join us for our Quick Lunch Specials
the Hungry U Restaurant
the ideal spot for a relaxing meal
from $1.99 to $2.99
Monday thru Friday

DEBATE on THE DRAFT

NEIL SHEEHAN
* reporter who broke the story of the Pentagon Papers
* former contributing editor of the N.Y. Times

vs.

REID BUCKLEY
* former contributing editor of National Review
* author of Eye of the Hurricane

Sunday October 26, 1980
McConnell Hall Smith College
7:30 p.m.

Woolrich
Limited Special Sale

THE FAMOUS LIGHTWEIGHT NYLON LINED MOUNTAIN PARKA OF WINDPROOF, WATER REPELLENT 60/40 RAMAR CLOTH. FULLY CUT FOR WEAR OVER DOWN PARKA OR VEST.
NOW FOR A LIMITED TIME WE HAVE A SELECT GROUP OF THESE EXCEPTIONAL PARKAS AVAILABLE IN SIZES EXTRA SMALL THROUGH LARGE. HURRY, COLORS AND QUANTITIES LIMITED.

Regularly $57.50 NOW $45.00

House of Walsh, Inc.
32 Main Street
Amherst, Massachusetts
Daily 9:00 to 5:30 2 Stores!

BLUE WALL
campus center at u mass
ALL AGES WELCOME
At The Hatch Bar

Thursday Oct. 23rd
BARNEY'S BEANERY
Dancing Rock & Roll FREE

Friday, Oct. 24
John Lincoln Wright
and the Sour mashboys
$2.00 cover charge

Saturday, Oct. 25
The Nervous Eaters
and the Trademarks
$2.00 cover charge

Friday—Crazy George's
50's and 60's Rock & Roll

Due to renovations, the Bluewall Beverage Service is temporarily located in the Hatch Cafeteria in the Student Union Building.
TOC sticker and valid ID required to purchase alcohol.

Overseas program expands

By Elise Greenbaum
Special to the Collegian

The Chemistry department and the Overseas Studies office of the University of Massachusetts have developed a new foreign exchange program with the University of East Anglia in the United Kingdom.

The program will begin in the fall of 1981.

UMass students will encounter many differences between the American and English educational systems during the junior year abroad program, said Professor Ronald Archer, chairman of the UMass Chemistry department. Archer said the curriculum at the East Anglian University is more intensive than at UMass.

Students enroll in approximately 30 credit hours per week at East Anglian University, compared with the 16 to 20 hour average in American colleges and universities, he said.

The calendar year begins in October and ends with final examinations in June. No midterms or homework assignments are given during the year there, Archer said. The student's final grade depends solely on the one final examination, he said.

The University of East Anglia, located in the city of Norwich with a population of over 100,000, is approximately 110 miles northeast of London and offers many varied cultural advantages, Archer said.

A dormitory space is guaranteed and tuition costs are slightly higher than for in-state UMass students, he said. Some scholarships are also available.

To be eligible for the program, UMass students must successfully complete Chemistry 290 (Chemical Thermodynamics). All those interested are encouraged to contact the Chemistry department, Archer said.

Hypercurricula . . .

Fri., Oct. 24

"Female/Male Sexual Anatomy and Physiology" 12:30-3:00 in Campus Center room 168. Exploration of facts and fallacies. Questions? Call: Phyllis Labanowski 584-7641.

Movie: Clint Eastwood—"Play Misty For Me"1—an invitation to terror. Mahar Aud. 7, 9, 11. Sponsored by the Student Nutrition Assoc. $1.25.

The Fine Arts Center at Smith College will open up their first day of exhibitions featuring Rodin Bronzes on loan from the Cantor Collection and 20th Century American Drawings at 11 a.m.

Film: "Picnic at Hanging Rock" Gamble Auditorium, Mount Holyoke, 7:30 p.m.

Film: "Psycho", 7:30 and 9 p.m. Wright Hall, Smith College, Admission $1.

Masquers Production: "A Flea in Her Ear" Kirby Theater, Amherst, 8 p.m.

"The Threepenny Opera" will be presented at 8 p.m. at Theatre 14, Smith. Admission for students $2.

Third World Theater Series: "The Healing of Sugar", Hampden Theater, 8 p.m.

Music at Amherst Concert Series featuring the LaSalle Quartet, Buckley Recital Hall, Music Center, Amherst, 8:15 p.m.

Sat., Oct. 25

A free Couples' Enrichment Workshop, 9:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m., using CoSEE (Couples' Self-awareness Exploration and Evaluation), led by Pete Sabey, Protestant Chaplain at UMass and Ginny Sabey, R.N., a family health Nurse Practitioner at Hampshire College. Enrollment is very limited—deadline to apply is Thursday, October 23, at 5 p.m. For further information and enrollment, call UCF, 545-2661 or 545-2789.

Film: "Portrait of Teresa", Gamble Auditorium, Mount Holyoke, 7:30 and 10 p.m.

Third World Theater Series: "The Healing of Sugar", Hampden Theater, 8 p.m.

Amherst-Mount Holyoke Orchestra, Buckley Recital Hall, Music Center, Amherst, 8:15 p.m.

Sun., Oct. 26

House Church at UCF—7-9 p.m. at 428 Student Union—a gathering for Biblical Exploration, personal encounter, and fellowship and a simple closing communion—facilitated by Chaplain Pete Sabey. For further info stop by UCF or call 545-2661.

WMUA 91 fm presents Undercurrents, a weekly news and public affairs show, from noon to two. This week's feature: The Presidential Elections, a Look and Commentary.

Masquers Production: A Flea in her Ear. Kirby Theater, Amherst, 8 p.m.

Chamber Music for Woodwinds by faculty and guests, Sage Hall, Smith, 8 p.m.

The Three Penny Opera, Theatre 14, Smith, 8 p.m.

Third World Series: The Healing of Sugar, Hampden Theater, 8 p.m.

Anytime

The Writing Center, in 102 Pierpont Southwest, is a drop-in service staffed by undergraduate peer-tutors. An alternative to the classroom for students with writing problems or questions, the center will be open on Tuesday and Sunday evenings from 7 to 9. Students should take advantage of this opportunity to get individual counseling for any writing problem. The Writing Center is a collaborative project of the English Department, Southwest Academic Affairs, and the Rhetoric Program.

Spectrum, the five-college literary and arts magazine, is currently accepting submissions for the next issue. Poetry and prose should be typed double-space with the author's name attached and/or a self-addressed stamped envelope. Art and photography should also be accompanied by a name and address for return. All submissions may be mailed to S.U. mailbox #293, or delivered to the Spectrum office, C.C. rm. 104. For more information, feel free to call 545-2240, or stop down the office.

Lesbian and Gay Men's Counseling Collective peer counseling hours Tues., Wed. 3-5 p.m., Thurs., Fri. 5-9 p.m. Call 545-2645 or drop in 406F Student Union with any questions or concerns about gay/lesbian issues.

OVERSEAS AUTO PARTS

For the most complete line of foreign auto parts and accessories in the Pioneer Valley.

Get an extra 10% off our low prices with this ad.
offer expires Nov. 15, 1980

API
Zayre Shopping Plaza
Rt 9 Hadley, MA 01305
Tel 253-3403
authorized API distributor ®

SATCON I
A SPACE AGE RADIO FANTASY CONCERT
THE BIGGEST MUSICAL NAMES IN THE GALAXY, TOGETHER FOR THE FIRST. . . AND POSSIBLY THE ONLY. . . TIME.
THIS WEEKEND
Exclusively on... WHMP FM99
This 48-hour musical weekend begins Oct. 24 at 6 p.m.

Talk with the Collegian

The Collegian would like to invite all interested members of the campus community to attend the semester's first News Council.

The 7:30 p.m. meeting in Campus Center room 917 will be held on Wednesday, Oct. 29 and offers an opportunity to meet the Collegian Board of Editors to discuss the paper's coverage of the campus. Contact Rob Stein, Editor in Chief, at 545-3500 if you have any questions.

Uprooted and moving

Physical plant employees move one of the trees bordering Mettawampee lawn to its new home near Herter Hall. (Staff photo by Kris Craig)

TASTE THE BEER THAT OUTSELLS MOLSON GOLDEN IN CANADA: LABATT'S.

Good news!
Labatt's, Canada's No. 1 selling beer, is now imported to the U.S.
So, now it's easier to compare the taste of our Labatt's with the brew of our friendly competitor
See what you think
We, like most other Canadians, prefer a bottle of Labatt's Beer over a Golden
If we didn't, we'd likely be drinking Molson® instead—and we certainly wouldn't be running this ad.

THINK OF CANADA
THINK OF LABATT'S

P.S. The new Labatt's bottle comes equipped with one of those twist-off tops—which can be rather handy, especially whilst one is otherwise engaged.

Chinese Language and Cultural Studies
CLCS Offers:
Reasonable expenses * Travel
* Concentrated study in Taiwan
* Extensive course listing
* Full university credit

Accepting applications for all quarters
For Free Pamphlet and Counseling
Chinese Language and Cultural Studies
P.O. Box 15563, Long Beach, CA 90815
Telephone: (213) 597-3361

CANDIDATE™

Already the 1980 presidential election is underway. Now with "CANDIDATE" any two or more persons can blaze their own campaign trails: gathering contributions, traveling through the states Campaigning and Fund Raising, spending large sums of money on advertising, taking polls, battling for key states, and if players wish to stoop so low, using DIRTY TRICKS cards.

Finally, once the maneuvering, adapting, and bluffing are finished, the players, like the real candidates, can only "sweat it out" until the election at the game's end. Throughout the game no one knows who is winning.

Available at local department and toy stores or order from:

Shaw Games
Box 751
Manhattan, KS 66502

SHAW GAMES

Send me _____ "CANDIDATE" at $12.95 each.

Name _____
Street _____
City _____
State / Zip _____

Postage and handling are included

Copyright SHAW GAMES, INC. 1979

HOUSING EXEMPTIONS

Spring 1980 Housing Exemption Applications are now available in the Housing Assignment Office, 235 Whitmore. Applications are due no later than FRIDAY OCTOBER 31, 1980.
Applications will not be accepted after this date. Please submit all applications to the Housing Assignment Office, 235 Whitmore. Thank you.

Marijuana bust includes fourth

A fourth person was arrested on Monday in connection with what is termed to be one of the largest drug raids in Franklin County.

James F. Horton, 29, pleaded innocent in Greenfield District Court to charges stemming from his alleged involvement in the Sept. 28 2.5 ton haul and confiscation of marijuana.

Horton, who also maintains an Amherst address, was taken into custody in Providence, R.I., on Monday on a warrant from Greenfield District Court. He appeared in court Tuesday, was charged with conspiracy to violate narcotic drug laws and was released on personal recognizance.

Horton apparently was working with Robert E., 33, and Royal Hadfield, 36, and the latter's wife Helen, on a South Deerfield farm when state and local police raided the site last month.

The bust is the largest since 1978 when authorities siezed nearly eight tons of marijuana in Leyden.

Atlanta Major Maynard Jackson (center), flanked by security guards, displays $100,000 collected as a reward for information about the missing and murdered children in the city recently. Ten children have been killed and four are missing in the past 15 months. (AP Laserphoto)

Wanted Immediately

Students interested in becoming a Commuter Area Judge

work with the Student Judiciary,
hear student cases,
work in a trial atmosphere.
A good challenge.

Call or come by the Commuter Office
404 SUD
545-2145

★ Live Wire CONTINUED FROM PAGE 12

AROUND TOWN—At the Hatch this weekend don't miss The Nervous Eaters, hot off their tour with The Pretenders in New York. This Boston-based band has added a new keyboardist, Larry Milton, who is a friend of lead singer/guitarist Steve Cataldo...At Rahar's this weekend—don't ya dare miss The Spectres, featuring ex-Sex Pistols & Iggy Pop guitarist Glen Matlock, and ex-Tom Robinson Band member Danny Kustow. That'll be tomorrow night. Then on Saturday, go and see if Joey Ramone's brother Mitch Leigh is proof that ugliness runs in the family, with his band The Rattlers...Finally, at the Student Union Ballroom on Sunday are Warner Brothers recording artists Robin Lane & the Chartbusters...

SOUTHSIDE JOHNNY and the ASBURY JUKES
with Beaver Brown

November
2nd 1980
8 PM at
the Fine Arts Center

Tickets on Sale Now
$6.50, 7.00, 7.50
Umass Students
$7.50, 8.00, 8.50 Public

Available at:
Union Records Unlimted,
TIX (UMass)
For the Record
(at Faces, Amherst)
Main Street records
Platterpus
(Northampton)
The Music Store
(Greenfield)

CCC PRODUCTIONS

No cameras, taping, food, drink or smoke.

Spirit Haus

The full-line liquor store
that's close and has convenient parking.

CHECK OUR WEEKLY SPECIALS
ON BEERS, LIQUORS AND WINE.

Largest selection of wines in Amherst;
friendly, knowledgeable staff.

KEGS - ICE - CUPS - SNACKS

338 College Street. Open till 11 p.m.
Telephone 253-5384

the Hungry U Restaurant
the ideal spot for a relaxing meal

55 University Drive
Amherst
549-5713

Sunday Special
Spaghetti and Meatballs

includes salad and hot garlic bread

$2.99
with this coupon

Collegian Classifieds

To place a Collegian Classified
•Come to Collegian Office CC 113
•8:45 to 3:45 Mon-Fri
•Classified deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day

Collegian Classified Rates
•15c per word
•Student rate 10c per word
•Cash in advance
•5 consecutive days 5 % discount
•Phone number FREE

AUDIO

Complete Panasonic Stereo System Receiver, Turntable, Tapedeck, Thruster 2-way speakers excellent condition $175 or BO must sell! T.J. 253-9032

AUTO FOR SALE

65 Ford Falcon needs some work best offer nites 253-7562

Convertible 1968 LeMans auto PS good condition $750 or BO 549-5127

74 Peugeot Wag 4 cyl stand AM/FM cassette BO call Jim 1-532-5030

Lancia—1975, brown, leather, air, AM/FM. 5-speed, 27mpg, 44,000 miles $4600 584-6563

1976 Pinto mpg, well maintained, new tires, automatic, $1700 or BO 665-3672

'66 Volks RUNS great for parts call Walter 546-9072

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES

Address and stuff envelopes at home $800 per month possible Offer send $1 (refundable) to: Triple "S", 16243-Y78, Hesperia, CA 92345

DISC JOCKEY

Want a Great Party? Why not hire a Disc Jockey! Andy 546-1164 Denis 546-6249

Professional Disc Jockey Quality Sound Randy 546-7013

ENTERTAINMENT

Dock Risco The Rock and Disco DJ Experienced, low rates. call Bill at 549-4025

Springsteen Tickets Available Providence show only 253-9848

FOR RENT

PA system Echo mics Rhodes electric piano ideal for bands coffeehouses partys Jim 546-7517

FOR SALE

Typewriter Olivetti 83DL perfect $190 253-2234

Full size bed call 253-7986 evenings

Gift Idea: Portrait Drawings; call dennis Delap 665-2972

White Refrigerator 7.3 cu. ft. fridg with separate 2.25 cu. ft. freezer stands 2'x2'x5' exc. cond. $125 call 253-7307 after 5

TRS-80 48K or 16K System must sell mint condition call for details 546-7050

Rosignol Strato Skis, Molitor Boots size 10½ excellent condition $95.00 firm 549-2782

Grateful Dead Tickets Radio City Monday night October 27 call Pedro 617-666-8747 after 10 pm

Women's San Marcos Ski Boots Size 8-8½ $30 call leslie 665-7972

71 VW Squareback standard inspected $650 or BO 549-0305 after 6

Don't let them steal your tunes—take it with you! Craig underdash cassette w/slip out quick release safety feature, off/rwnd, reverse, fader, & 4 spkrs all for $100. cassette alone new 190 call Sam 256-8843 eves

Springsteen Tix for Providence! Dec 11th call after 8 pm 549-1833

Hitachi HT324 Turntable exc cond 80 or BO call Leigh 6-3277

1978 Suzuki A100 - great for around town and short trips; fantastic mileage. Price increase in Spring. $450 or BO ($50 helmet incl) call 549-3833

Free 1 male 3 month old cat, had shots, good home wanted call 253-5116

Advent FM radio separate reciever speaker type white $95

Olds student trumpet w/case $75.00 584-8933

Ovation custom Balladeer 6-string acoustic w/case $200 584-8933

FOUND

Found Black Male Dog in Stadium area Saturday call 6-8265 or 6-9922

HELP WANTED

Overseas Jobs — Summer/year round Europe, S. America, Australia, Asia all fields $500-$1200 monthly expenses paid Sightseeing. Free info. write IJC Box 52-MA2 Cornona Del Mar CA 92625

Wanted part-time radiology technician for multi-specialty group practice please call 256-8561 ext 248 M-F 8 am-4 pm

Make a dollar every raffle ticket sold on consignment supporting No Nukes call 549-6136

Lower Central Academic Center—looking for tutors in Chemistry 111 and 107, Physics 161, Economics 104, Psychology 150 and CE 240. Interested people call 5-3945 between 12-5 (Mon-Fri) Grad and Undergrad

Address and stuff envelopes at home $800 per month, possible. Any age or location. See ad under businss opportunities Triple "S".

INSTRUCTION

English Classes (ESL) Elementary, Intermediate. Two hours an afternoon, except Wednesday. Faculty/student spouses, visitors, immigrants. People's Institute, Northampton. 584-3956 NLI, P.O. Box 34, Northampton

INTERNSHIPS AVAILABLE

Legal Assistant Interns Wanted: The Legal Services Office has 8 positions available for full-time legal assistant interns for the Spring 1981 semester. Up to fifteen credits may be earned through Office of Internships. Legal assistants assist attorneys of the LSO with client interviewing, investigations, legal research, negotiations, giving advice and referrals, preparation of court forms, and attendance at hearings in District and Superior Courts, and participation in administrative hearings and federal litigation. Maintain continuing case load under supervision of attorneys. Applications available at Office of Internships, Curry Hicks Building, and inquire further at Legal Services Office, 922 Campus center. Applicationsdue November 7, 1980 at Office of Internships. Writing sample required. All third world and women students are encouraged to apply.

JANET FOX'S BIRTHDAY

Today Janet Fox became legal. Anyone wishing to wish her Happy Birthday can reach her at 6-7943

KARA

Kara, you'll always have my love and support. Together we can both make it. I can't think of anyone better to get arrested with (or almost even). Your study partner from the 23rd floor of the big one. Love ya lots, Tom P.S. I'm alright, don't nobody worry about me

LEGAL SERVICES

Attorney Jason Rosenthal reasonable rates Davs 584-4285. Evenings 253-7617

LOST

Help!! Lost tan corduroy blazer with patches on sleeves. Please call 6-8287

Gold Ring with "E" initial sentimental value $ reward call Eileen 253-3316

Nova Owners I hitched back to Boston on Friday Oct. 10 I left a brown and tan reversible jacket in your car call 6-7470

Lost gold ID bracelet of sentimental value. Andrea will give reward! Please call me 546-6212

Bronze Horseshoe Key Ring with three keys on it Friday Oct 17 on a couch in the Student Union Lounge please call Diane at 546-5429 or return them at the Collegian window thanks

Keys, saturday in Southwest, ten keys on black sandal keychain with rainbow color insole—two UMass keys call Ilene 6-8605 please keep trying

Sterling Silver Bracelet with white stone. Lost Oct, 17 in maze. call 6-6862

To the person that took the wallet from Boyden racquetball courts please return the ID's to the CC Lost & Found

Lost keys—Sat nite wall across from Thoreau Reward 6-7251

Help lost very important ste of keys Saturday night at Brittany manor reward call 6-8115

Gold Chain two medallions reward contact 546-7930

MARY

Mary, Happy Birthday, kid. Here's to too many month-long vacations in the stratosphere. Love, Heath

MONTREAL EXPRESS

They're still seats available call 665-3024 for further information Paul DeLuca 69.00

MUSICIANS

Experienced Drummer looking for a Band into Kansas, ELP, Yes, Steely Dan. Vocals also. Call Ted at 549-6884

PERSONALS

Undergrad Pol. Sci. Assoc. interested in becoming member? Sign-up Rm 422 Thompson

Must place AKC sable male Collie gd stud watchdog loveable call Nina 6-8890

Steve McKeown—you were fantastic Thurs night! Cheryl & Dawn

SEX—Now that we've got your attention, Charlie's has the longest Happy Hour in Amherst. Daily 3-8. We have asteroids and other games too!

Happy Birthday Gail see you soon. Love Lewie

A stress management workshop will be given Sunday Oct 26 at 7:30 pm in the classroom of Moore House

To the guy in 1310 or is it 1704? You are special! For you I give a smile. Love ya Kim 4th floor Coolidge—6th floor Coolidge has the best floor on campus!

Amy, Happy 21st Birthday Have a great day. Love from your roommate and friends

Ralf, I love you. Let's fall together Ralfetta

Marion and Louise K., Have you tightened up your backstroke? Deeply, Kontra Septive

MARTIN, Happy Birthday I love you, always Nancy

A toast to a fine woman. . .and to our age difference

The war is on! The score this far: Round one - Marion & Louise one, Lori & Karen zip. You two are both short four

Butchis and C. Roy—Happy Birthday to the best two friends in the world! Pinsky-Pinsky-Pinsky "Be quiet will ya!" Love ya! Oris

PETER thank you for doing what we thought was impossible. Love, Patti and Erin

South Hadley Jumbo: I think you're cute Do you fool around? "J"

RICH, Only the good die YOUNG! Go for it! Happy Birthday Love, K and C

JOHN Happy 21st Birthday! Love ya more each day. terri

Max—Happy Birthday! Who is Linda?

From one French cavewoman to another, comment?

Misplaced! Green Eastpack knapsack from CC Iniv Store Tue Oct 21 keep the money keep the calculators. PLEASE return my books, notebooks & eyeglasses to the place you got them. I understand that accidents can happen no questions asked reward please call Leyla 5-0320

BO: Good timing in Campus Center have a real HappyBorthday Love Bruce and Kath me 546-6212

Hey Bro: This is a mission from God say Happy Birthday Joe

BO Let me tie you down and feed you week old minced clams for your B-day Love Francine

Party—Mount Holyoke Ham Hall-Band-The-Hit Squad Oct 25 9:30 1 college ID 538-2469

Happy Birthday Micki "call me funky" Callahan

Cheryl Bunny! Who loves ya? R, D, B!!!! Hags Forever! ooh, sawry!

Dearest Chucklet, wishing you a beautiful 22nd birthday and happiness always! Love you, Rosko

Hi Lu 15 min seem to last forever I miss you Ogar

Bo—Happy Birthday Kamakazi away make sure you remember it Bingo

RIDE WANTED

To Niagra Falls/Buffalo round trip any Fr-Mon and/or Thanksgiving week. Share expenses Tel 549-1542

Ride wanted to UVM this weekend, will share expenses Call Louie 545-2172

Ride wanted to Orono or anywhere north of Portland Call Peter after 7 pm 6-6243

Ride wanted to N.Y.C. Oct. 24 will share $$ Please call Joanna 6-8148

ROOM WANTED

Two males need two rooms for Spring semester. House or apartment near campus. 546-9613

Student needs space in apt for Spring semester call Carol 546-8067

ROOMMATE WANTED

Female own room Puffton $130 549-1156

Roommate to share a 2 bedroom apt with female student $200 per month

Female roomate to share apt ASAP downtown Northampton 584-6139 keep trying

Furnished Bedroom television & kitchen privledges $140.00 ask for Paul call 584-3292

One or two women wanted to share two bedroom Brittany manor with two other women second semester call Gail or Barb 253-5370 after 6:00

SERVICES

Experienced typist available Fast, neat work, reasonable rates. 546-6439

Typing; Words-Worth, 37 East Pleasant Street, Amherst, 549-1303. Double-spaced text from 95c a page. Justified resumes from $3.50 a page. Telephone dictation line. Overnight rush jobs. Your words are worth it.

Randy's Moving and Hauling—local and long distance at low price 546-5728 546-5726

SONGWRITERS

Folk-Singer, song writer researching song writing at UMass. If you write original folk, or country music I would like to interview you and profile your work in my Research--call Joe at 665-2840 10 pn-11:30 pm or weekends anytime

STICK IT IN YOUR EAR

Stick it in your ear at Silverscape Designs. Free sterilized ear piercing with purchase of studs. Artistic placement of multiples. Silverscape features gifts from glass to gold, and a full repair service, and citizen quartz and mechanical watches. 264 N Pleasant St. Amherst 253-3324

TRAVEL

Florida—The Great Getaway for Spring Break and January Term under $200 round trip jet 256-6704

WANTED

Top Dollars for class rings, gold, sterling, at Wendy's CC Concourse, twice a week

Highest prices paid for class rings, gold, and silver jewelry. See me before you sell. Daniel Smith, 25 North Pleasant St between Fotomat and Logos, Amherst M-Sat10-6 call 256-0710

Fender Rhodes or Wurlitzer elec piano wanted under $700 Malcolm 6-9276

Cash for Gold, Silver, Class Rings 320 Dickinson OH, anytime call now 546-6607

Volunteers Interns needed Cloverdale Nursery School, Florence Mon, Wed, Fri 8:45 AM - 11:45 AM one day or more weekly transportation provided from 5 College Bus Northampton call Debbie 527-5141

Accounting Tutor needed immediately call after 6 pm 1-467-3465

Stethescope reasonable price please call 549-3862 or 367-2817 early morning or late PM

Does Drama appeal to you? Wanted theatre reviewers for the Collegian arts staff. If you have a strong interest in plays and musicals and some writing experience (not necessarily journalistic) please apply call Debbie 545-3500

WANTED TO RENT

Two responsible males looking for 2 bdrm apartment starting January pref: 250$, in Colonial Village call Bill 256-8233

DOONESBURY by Garry Trudeau

ISN'T ZONKER GOING TO THE GAME WITH US?
NO, HE DOESN'T HAVE A DATE. HE SAYS HE'D FEEL ODD MAN OUT.
DOESN'T HE HAVE A GIRL-FRIEND?
NOPE. HE DOESN'T BELIEVE IN THEM. ZONKER THINKS THEY'RE MORE TROUBLE THAN THEY'RE WORTH.
HAS HE ALWAYS THOUGHT THAT?
YUP. AS FAR AS I KNOW, HE'S NEVER EVEN GOTTEN HIS FEET WET.
AS OPPOSED TO HIS FRIEND MICHAEL...
RIGHT. MASTER OF THE EMOTIONAL BELLY FLOP.

ONE FOR THE ROAD — Cindy Downing

(we're goin' to the Packy.
"Packy"?
Liquor store. Fig. We can have the Free bus.
Free bus? what do you do, just jump on?
Yeah, here comes one
PETA
GO! RED DUCH!
HEY! MY BOOKS!
WATCH OUT!
YOU CALL THAT FREE? IT ALMOST COST ME MY LIFE!

Under the Influence

GOD DAMN IT! WOMEN NEVER NOTICE ME!
DORIS AND MAGGIE THINK I'M A GREASEY TOAD!
THERE MUST BE SOMETHING I CAN DO TO CHANGE MY IMAGE!
I'VE GOT IT! I'LL FORM A PUNK BAND!

Abnormal Psychology J. Demskey

JOAN! ARE YOU COMING? WE'RE GOING TO START "SPACE CADET" WITHOUT YOU!
HEY JOAN! WHAT GIVES? ARE YOU COMING OR WHAT I THINK SHE ALREADY STARTED!
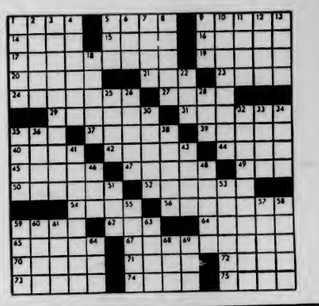
NO FAIR! SHE'S DISQUALIFIED!
BUT I'M THE BEST ONE!

CROSSWORD

UNITED Feature Syndicate

Wednesday Puzzle Solved

B	I	N	G	S		B	A	F	T		A	M	U	S	H
T	O	U	T			A	G	R	A		S	A	N	F	E
A	B	I	A			P	A	R	T	I	N	G	F	E	R
T	A	N	K			T	R	A	D	E		D	O	N	E
S	T	A	N	L	E	Y		K	E	E	N
		O	G	A	M		B	I	T	S		M	A	T	H
A	R	E	A		A	R	O	S	E		B	O	I	L	E	D
B	O	I	L		S	O	D	A		S	I	A
L	E	N	I	N		P	O	S	I	N		A	S	S
E	W	E	S			P	A	I	R
					P	A	R	T	I	C	L	E	S
P	R	O	P	E	R		A	M	Y			P	A	P
F	O	G		S	O	N	E	R				P	O	E
T	E	D	D	Y		S	T	E	E	L		O	N	E
M	O	S	E	S		S	O	Y	S			T	R	S



D.C. Menu

Lunch
Hamburg on Roll
Quiche Lorraine

Basics Lunch
Oatburgers
Quiche Lorraine

Dinner
Roast Turkey/Gravy, Dressing, Cranberry Sauce
Franks with Rolls/Baked Beans with Pork

Basics Dinner
Garbanzo Cheese Loaf
Roast Turkey/Gravy, Dressing, Cranberry Sauce

Kosher Dinner
Beef Stew
Salmon Salad Roll

Buy one WHOPPER JUNIOR® sandwich, get another WHOPPER JUNIOR free.
Please present this coupon before ordering. Limit one coupon per customer. Void where prohibited by law. This offer expires October 31, 1980. Good only at Mt. Farms Mall. STORE ADDRESS(ES)
Make it Special™
BURGER KING

The Whately Inn
Quality Food Prepared To Order
The new "Inn" Place
Located in the heart of Historic Whately Enjoy fine dining and spectacular fall scenery
Quality food and drink at reasonable prices
Featuring chef Steve Kloc's famous broiled live lobster
Our varied cuisine includes:
seafood, steaks, lamb and chicken
Hours: open Tues.-Sat. 5 p.m. Sunday at 1:00 p.m.
Take Rt. 116 to South Deerfield. Then take Rt. 5 south for 1½ miles. At Christian Lane take a right to the center of town.

Theta Chi rolls, Maroons upset Beta Phi

By Stephen Freker
Collegian Staff

The game was scheduled to begin at 5:30. By 5:00, both teams had arrived in their entirety to begin loosening up. At 5:15, there were about 150 spectators lined up on Theta Chi's side of the field. There was going to be a showdown on this field at 5:30, and they all wanted to be part of it. They got their money's worth, there is no doubt about that.

This was the battle of the unbeatens, Theta Chi versus Son of Sam. It took one and a half overtime periods to decide it, and it's a shame that someone had to lose, but the guys from Theta Chi pulled out another victory, edging Son of Sam 5-2.

"This was definitely our toughest game," said Ron Annond, captain of the winning team. "These guys were tough but our guys were tough when we needed it, too."

The winning points came in a dramatic finish, midway through the second overtime period on a 35-yard field goal by Steve Aulenbach with Annond holding.

Son of Sam made it close. Right before time expired in the first overtime period (all overtime periods are sudden-death), a couple of John Santaniello to Paul Kennedy short passes set up a field goal attempt on the Theta Chi 5-yard line. It was missed.

"I'm not making any excuses. They beat us," Santaniello said. "It's tough when you don't have your best players. We didn't have our kicker and Paul (Kennedy) gave it a shot. It was a tough play."

The showdown was over, the victor decided, and the crowd of 300 which ringed the field, ate it up.

In other games, the Maroons, led by the Mike Bennett-to Dean Bennett pass combination, upset a heavily favored Beta Phi squad 22-15...The Fuckawees blew out the Hamlin Seconds 30-0...Pink Steel got by the Mack. Lions on a Steve Portrast third quarter TD...the Thatcher Redwoods beat the Niners 13-0...Rich Pepi scored all the points for Phi Sig as they beat the Pikes 10-3...An A.J. Vartabedian interception with time running out sealed a 13-7 victory for I Phelta Thi which had taken the lead on a desperation Mike Carroll to Mike Goolston heave for a TD...in Co-Rec action, Fian Nooijen scored twice to lead JD Straight Up over the Caligulans, 28-14...John Heinz scored three touchdowns giving the Maroons a 19-8 win over the Dignitaries...KAS beat PTA 14-6 with Andy Daigle tallying the winning points...the Titans continued their quest to repeat as champs as they beat Beyond Repair 16-0.

MEN'S DIVISION PLAYOFF RESULTS

Fuckawees	30	Hamlin Seconds	0
Pink Steel	6	Mackimmie Lions	3
Thatcher Rdwd	13	Niners	0
BMF	9	Dwight Demons	0
Phi Sig "A"	10	Pi Kappa Alpha	3
I Phelta Thi	13	Phalangers	7
Maroons	22	Beta Phi "A"	15
Theta Chi	5	Son of Sam	2

CO-REC DIVISION RESULTS

LAS	14	PTA	6
JD Straight Up	28	Caligulans	14
Maroons	19	Dignitaries	8
Titans	16	Beyond Repair	0

★ Batters

CONT. FROM PAGE 20

Infielders: First-base, Warren McReddie*, and Finnegan, second-base, sophomore Dean Bennett* and freshman Tim Foster, shortshop, Vin Bonanno*, and JV product Bruce Emerson and third-base, Barry Bennett* and Kelly McDonald*.

Outfielders: Steve Hennessey*, Joe Larkin*, Mark Litano* and freshman Keith Leyllette.

"I'm optimistic about the team," Bergquist said. "The main area of concern is pitching, defensively we'll be fine and offensively we are an average-to-good team," Bergquist assessed.

The Minutemen will be fortunate in having their starting infield returning from last year with McReddie at first, D. Bennett at second, Bonanno at short and B. Bennett at third.

The tri-captains for 1981 squad will be Bonanno, Kraham and Thompson.

It has become customary before their season opens, for UMass to travel to some warmer climate during spring break in order to get in some real baseball; not just psuedo-baseball in the Cage. This spring for the first time since 1973, the Minutemen will travel to San Diego to participate in the Sun-Lite Classic sponsored by San Diego State College.

UMass will be one of ten teams competing in the classic and the only school participating each of El Paso, Texas. The other schools are San Diego State, the University of Washington, Portland State, the University of Texas, Lewis and Clark University (Oregon), US International University at San Diego, Cal-State at Dominquez Hills, Point Loma College (San Diego), Oregon College of Education, and Williamette University in Oregon. Although the rest ofthe itinerary is not definite yet, the Minutemen will open their trip against the University of California at San Diego. The dates of the trip are March 19-30.

In order to help cut the cost of the trip the baseball team has been busy sponsoring and planning different fund-raisers. They began last month by running a Three Stooges movie extravaganaza and more recently, last weekend, completed a 100-inning marathon intersquad-game, They raised money by individuals sponsoring the members of the World Series participants, began at 7:30 a.m. and finished up by 4:00 that afternoon. Despite a 22-21 lead after 78 innings by the Phillies, the Royals made a srong comeback to win 39-27. Despite a 22-21 lead after 78 innings by the Phillies, the Royals made a strong comeback to win 39-27.

There were 165 hits in the game with the Royals collecting 91 of them. Hennessy lead both squads with 15 hits for 37 at bats.

Sports notices

ATTENTION INTRAMURAL BADMINTON PLAYERS: Please make up your matches on/or before Saturday, October 25. Remember—please report scores to the IM office.

STOCKBRIDGE BASKETBALL TRYOUTS: Monday, October 20 through Friday, October 25. All candidates report ready to play at Boyden gym, 7 p.m.

Current INTRAMURAL SPORT PHOTOGRAPHS available, including past two semesters, in the IM office every Friday 2:30 to 5 p.m.

ATTENTION ALL INTRAMURAL ICE HOCKEY PLAYERS: Face masks are now required equipment. We have arranged for Fenton's Sporting Goods to provide and install these masks for $10.00 each. Fenton's is located just below Whole Wheat Pizza on Main St. in Amherst. Also, open stick practice every Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 1-3 p.m. at Williston Academy for $1.00 per head. Any questions call Dusty Burke at 253-3059.

SUPERIOR PIZZERIA
UMass Favorite Pizza
10 & 16 INCH PIZZAS
ALL COMBINATIONS - LARGE & SMALL
DAILY 11 A.M. TILL ?
HOT OVEN GRINDERS
STEAK GRINDERS
SPAGHETTI · LASAGNA · RAVIOLI
MANICOTTI · STUFFED SHELLS
GREEK SALAD
NEXT TO THE NORTH AMHERST POST OFFICE
COMPLETE TAKE OUT SERVICE
FREE DELIVERY
FOR FAST SERVICE
Call 549-0626
1" E. MONTAGUE RD., AMHERST

BE COUNTED!
VOTE
TIPS ON VOTING
2005 ABSENTEE VOTING
2006 VOTING IN AMHERST
545-1540
REQUEST TAPE BY NUMBER

CAMPUS TRAVEL CENTER
$AVE
30 - 50%
By Booking Early
Seats Limited.
Campus Travel Center
Campus Center Univ. of Mass
Amherst, Mass 545-0500

THE UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AT AMHERST
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
and the University Arts Council present the Minnesota Orchestra
Neville Marriner, Music Director
WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 1980 8 PM
Tickets now on sale at the Fine Arts Center Box Office (M-F, non-4 pm) Phone reservations accepted through Monday, Nov. 3. (413-545-2511)
$9, 8, 7 General Public
$8, 7, 6 Senior Citizens
$4.50, 4, 3.50 UMass Students

STILL BUYING AT HIGHEST CA$H PRICE$
CLASS RINGS
Gold & Silver Jewelry
See me when you Sell
DANIEL SMITH
Permanently located between Fotomat and Logos
25 North Pleasant St.
Amherst
256-0710
Monday thru Saturday
10 AM to 6 PM
MEMBER AMHERST CHAMBER OF COMMERCE LICENSED BY TOWN OF AMHERST AND STATE OF MASS

amc THEATRES
TIMES SHOWN FOR TODAY ONLY
ADULTS $2.75 STUDENT & SR. CITIZEN WITH AMC CARD $2.25 SPECIAL ENGAGEMENTS EXCLUDED TWI-LITE SHOW $1.75 TWI-LITE SHOW LIMITED TO SEATING
HAMPSHIRE 4
584-7550 HAMP. MALL ON CAFE SQ.—RT. 9, HADLEY, MASS.
DONALD SUTHERLAND in Ordinary People R (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15
GEORGE BURNS in OH, GOD! BOOK II PG (6:15 @ $1.75) 8:30
HOPSCOTCH R (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30
Walt Disney's Song of the South G (6:15 @ $1.75) 8:15
Movie and Dinner only $5.50 Have a choice of 5 different meals at the Pewter Pot Rest. in the Hampshire Mall and see one of the 8 movies in this ad. (Sun-Thurs only)
Shopper's Show Movie FREE! Thursdays at 1:00 p.m. Oct. 23 Ice Castles Oct. 30 Lost and Found
MOUNTAIN FARMS 4
584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9 HADLEY, MASS.
GOLDIE HAWN in PRIVATE BENJAMIN PG (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:15
CHUCK NORRIS, LEE VAN CLEEF, KAREN CARLSON in THE OCTAGON R (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30
TIMES SQUARE R (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30
ANTHONY HOPKINS in THE ELEPHANT MAN PG (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15

How do you practice space shuttle landings without the space shuttle?

Simulation, an advanced...and advancing... technology is the answer.

And Link is where it all began.

Back in World War II, thousands of American pilots got their first "flying" lessons in the famous Link Trainer...the world's first flight simulator. When the pilot operated its controls, the "Blue Box" rotated about its pivots to provide a realistic simulation of the physical sensations of flight.

Forty years later, our newest flight simulators make experienced jet aircraft pilots sweat as they practice foul-weather landings and other difficult and dangerous tasks under the watchful eye...and instruments...of the instructor.

But today's official and public concern for Reliability, Safety, and Efficiency in power generating plants...both conventional and nuclear...has shifted the entire emphasis and is creating a whole new dimension in simulation systems.

New power-generating facilities cannot be brought on line without hands-on training for operators...And the training must be done in control rooms precisely duplicating those of the new plants. In addition, utilities and regulating agencies now demand specialized training (and retraining) for personnel who operate existing plants.

This unprecedented demand for power plant control room simulation systems has created one of the biggest backlogs of engineering/analytical/manufacturing programs in our long history and has opened up scores of opportunities for graduates in virtually every field of technology.

Link, as the pioneer in this existing field, is its leading exponent of new ideas. New ideas rank first among our many resources ...and we actively seek them from our people. At Link, your assignments will give you opportunities to contribute meaningfully and creatively, as well as opportunities to learn from the leaders in the field.

To help ease the transition from the academic world to the practical world of engineering science, Link provides each new technical employee with a PROFESSIONALLY PREPARED ORIENTATION PROGRAM. Link technical staff members who have been through the program are unanimous in their praise of this program.

If you are interested in a career in any area of technology: Electrical/Mechanical/Chemical Engineering • Physics • Nuclear Science • Health Physics • Mathematics • Computer Science • Thermodynamics • Heat Transfer • Fluid Mechanics.

Think Link. There's no better place to start a rewarding and meaningful career than with the leader.

For more information, contact your college placement office or write directly to Link, c/o Rob Stout, 11800 Tech Road, Silver Spring, Maryland 20904.

MEET SINGER LINK REPRESENTATIVES ON YOUR CAMPUS— OCTOBER 29TH

Link
A DIVISION OF THE SINGER COMPANY

For more information contact your placement office.

Singer Link is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer actively seeking talent without regard to race, sex, age, religion, or national origin

Sports

UMass dumps Big Green, 3-0

By Jeffrey Billard
Collegian Staff

Sophomore Natalie Prosser scored two goals in the first period as the UMass women's soccer team shutout Dartmouth 3-0 at NOPE field yesterday. The win, which raises their record to 7-2, was the fourth shutout in a row for senior goalie Kelly Tuller.

The Minutewomen came out in the first half and penetrated the Dartmouth zone well with a good passing attack.

UMass opened the scoring at 9:55 when Junior Maddie Mangini let go a corner kick that beat Dartmouth goalie Lita Remsen to her left.

The Minutewomen continued their aggressive play and it paid off when Tuller's clearing kick got by the Dartmouth defense and Prosser hustled to it and jammed it by Remsen at 27:50. Tuller was credited with the assist, her first of the season.

Then at 29:55 Prosser scored her second of the day and third of the year when she deflected in a corner kick by Mangini.

There was no scoring in the second half as UMass played a ball control offense and tough defense.

UMass outshot the young Dartmouth squad 31-0 on the afternoon.

"Dartmouth is a very young, inexperienced team," UMass coach Kalekeni Banda said, "But they will be a team to be reckoned with in future years."

WOMEN'S SOCCER NOTEBOOK.....UMass rose from seventh to fifth place in this week's poll, behind Harvard, UConn, Brown and Vermont. UMass defeated UConn, 2-1, earlier this season, while losing to Brown and Vermont...All four teams from second to fith place, have two losses in their records, while Harvard lost once—to UConn...when UMass faces Harvard next Tuesday, the Minutewomen will have met their third consecutive Ivy League school (Dartmouth, Yale on Saturday, and the Crimin-son)...BLINDMAN'S BLUFF DEPT...when UMass goalie Kelly Tuller began the second half in the Springfield game last Saturday, she noticed something...it was pitch black on her end. "When we switched sides, I found out the lights were toward the field and not at my goal," she said, "and I said to someone "Hey, don't you think it's dark over here?" Despite the dark, she managed to dig out eleven saves in that game, which UMass won, 1-0...Nancy Feldman(8 goals, no assists) and Maddie Mangini (6 goals, 3 assists) are leading in the scoring ledger (for UMass.) Feldman, and not Nina Holstrom, scored in the 3-0 win over Mount Holyoke...speaking of Holstrom, she was hurt in the Springfield game. Her kicking foot was injured, so Holstrom did not play for most of yesterday's game.

Angie Caouette goes after the ball in yesterday's soccer win over Dartmouth College. UMass defeated the Big Green 3-0. (Staff photo by Hilary Park)

Batters play to prepare

By Jane Wolfson
Collegian Staff

Although it may come as a surprise to a lot of people on campus, fall is a very busy season for the UMass baseball team. An extensive six week program included an 18 game season, a 12-6 record, as well as tryouts and final selections for the spring varsity team.

"My objectives were to pick a team for the spring and then put them together on the field," Coach Dick Bergquist said. "This has been one of the most useful falls we've had. Not having to combat the usual bad weather was very important."

Fall baseball serves two separate roles for the individuals vying for the 21 spots on the varsity roster. For the returning veterans, fall is time for developing a new pitch, sharpening fielding skills, or working on making more contact behind the plate. But for the newcomers, the walk-ons, the recruited and members of last year's JV team, the emphasis lies on proving yourself, showing the coaching staff what you can do for the team.

For them the atmosphere is not always a relaxed one.

"There are two different attitudes, you can sense it out on the field," returning varsity catcher Jim Aulenback said.

"It all boils down to what the team needs, you have to realize what's happening around you."

Following the end of their 18 game season, the final cuts were made and the varsity roster is as follows: (returning varsity have an asterisk by their name.)

Pitchers: lefthanders Steve Cramer*, and freshman Tony Presmal, Righthanders Chuck Thompson* (5-4 last year with an ERA of 3.36), reliever Vin Todd* (last year 1-0 in eight games with an ERA of 2.12), Steve Cramer*, Steve Drelick*, Dan Cook and Adam Grossman, both members of last year's JV.

Catchers: Aulenback*, Brian Finnegan, and John Kraham*.

TURN TO PAGE 18

Alternative athletics

I am the co-captain of one of UMass' most winning athletic teams. I'm five feet, five inches tall, and weigh considerably more than I should. It seems as though I'm wound like a spring, perpetually tight, and chronically tired. I'm as close to being the pictu e-perfect intercollegiate competitor, as the UMass library is to being the finest architectural achievement of the twentieth century.

Nevertheless my team, Zoo Disc, is a winner, our record thus far this season standing at 16 and 9. In Northeast ultimate circles, we are highly regarded—a sure bet for the sectionals, a strong bet for the regionals, a good bet for the Easterns, and a chance to go to the Nationals. Not a bad showing, considering our organization gets the same amount of help from the University as does "The Southwest Duck Hunters Guild", or "The Coalition of Young Existentialists for Reagan". In other words, none.

For all of my physical faults, I can probably throw and catch a frisbee better than the majority of those reading this column. So can my constituents, hence, our rather esteemed position in disedom.

This is by no means a plea for University athletic team funding. God knows, if we were allocated one twentieth of what the football or soccer teams get, we'd fall apart, and probably waste away to nothing. (Our second favorite sport is recreational consumption).

Rather, this is a plea to you, the UMass public, to support us, your ultimate team. Zoo Disc doesn't need your money, (although if you want to give it to us...) we need you to come down to the fields across from Southwest, and watch us, cheer us on, as we set down foe after foe. (Next home meet is a 16-team tourney next weekend.) Our morale isn't lacking, but yours is. Support Zoo Disc—the epitome of alternative athletics.

—Joel Zuckerman
Zoo Disc co-captain

The frat mystique

Stephen Freker

A dark cloud looms over the Boyden playing fields this evening.

There is not as much laughter, joking and good-natured pushing and shoving tonight, as the dorm team slowly makes its way down to its designated field.

Their abject solemnity can be traced to one important and unavoidable fact. The cruel and uncaring intramural football schedule has dictated that tonight, this collection of friends and quasi-athletes must play...A Frat.

The team eventually makes it to the field with their cut off dungarees, novelty t-shirts and beat-up-but-cool converse All-Stars. They stand on the opposite sideline and survey their heralded opponents. A proverbial shudder emanates from the middle of the line and slowly makes its way down to the largest player on their team, a 5'8" ex high school trackman.

A group of heavily-muscled behemoths stands on the other side of the field with their sharp, well-fitting uniforms (all identical, of course) and casually discusses game plans for their next dinne...umm...contest.

The dorm team knows what to expect. The frats are mean. They're tough. Why, just last week, didn't that guy Pete from Mackimnie get his arm busted when he was blocked by some monster from that football frat? These frat teams don't want to play football. They want to destroy the other team. They're crazy. They're out for blee—STO!"

Before we begin to cast aspersions on fraternity football teams in the intramural league, and worse than that, lump all fraternity teams into one frame of reference, let's consider a few things.

Anyone has the right to develop themselves physically. Many players on these "frat teams" are big, very big for that matter. Whenever you have a larger player competing against a smaller one, it will appear that the larger of the two might be using excessive force even if this is not the case.

Also, there are no pads or any other protection in intramural touch football, but there is definitely contact. All blocking at the line and also all downfield blocking is live. Of course there will be hard hits and of course the referees won't catch all instances where excessive force is used or where out-and-out cheap shots occur, but unfortunately, this is part of the game.

"Certainly teams in this league have a negative reputation and people come down to watch their games just hoping for something to go wrong so they can point the finger," said Andy Meffen, a UMass grad student and veteran football official. "Whenever you have contact without protection, you'll have injuries and complaints about officiating," he said.

This is probably where most of the concern of participants in intramural football lies. They seem to think that there is a higher prevalence of injuries when the fraternity teams are involved. Not so.

"The majority of injuries in a league like this are due to a lack of sufficient conditioning," Meffen said. "These guys aren't in shape. The wide majority of injuries here this year were a direct result of this fact."

Another aspect of the "frat mystique" which is often overlooked is the fact that fraternities are, for the most part, highly spirited in all of their endeavors. Sports are an integral facet of each house on this campus. Rivalrous spirit among various fraternities often spills over to games in which they compete against residence and independent teams.

"Frats are very competitive among themselves," said Mike Waldron, a spokesman for the intramural staff. "There are some very good, intense rivalries among them. Sometimes these teams seem to have a dominant edge over the residence teams, but this is all a matter of perception. If these teams go into a game thinking that the frat has some sort of edge over them, then of course it's going to show up in the game."

Last night, Pi Kappa Alpha played Beta Phi's "B" team in a relatively one-sided affair which the Pikes won. It was a good, clean, hard-hitting football game enjoyed by all especially the crowd of 200 on the sidelines.

the other voice

Volume 1, Issue 1 The Arts Magazine of the University of Massachusetts October 23, 1980

Professor teaches with 'heart of glass'

By Gary Eynatian

Glass. At one time it was actually rarer than gold and considered as precious as the finest jewels. But since machines are now used in the manufacturing process, many glass objects are common and inexpensive. However, some remain as beautiful and aesthetic as gold and jewels.

Probably the most revolutionary event in the 4,000-year history of glassworking was the invention of the blowpipe shortly before the birth of Christ. After this point glassworkers began making the beautiful shapes characteristic of hand-blown glass.

Here at the University, students can learn the fine art of glassblowing under the direction of Prof. Lyle Perkins. Since 1969, Perkins has run the "Glass Shop" in Munson Hall Annex, which he constructed with students, often on his own time — and at his own financial expense.

"Glassblowing is probably one of the fasting growing art forms," said Perkins, who last year was a recipient of the University's Distinguished Teaching Award. "One becomes fascinated with the heat and color of the glass and it's moving. Your will moves the glass and the result is immediate."

Despite the appeal and success of the "Glass Shop" it will be closed down in January when Perkins retires because it doesn't conform to some of the University and state building codes.

Among the necessary repairs are a new roof, fire doors and new electrical wiring. The Physical Plant Engineering Department estimates the required work could cost $45,000.

Perkins, his students and Art Department Chairman George Wardlaw hope the shop can be upgraded for less than that estimate. But first, the shop must be recognized as part of the Munson Hall Annex — which, technically, it isn't.

The art department is applying for funds to save the glassblowing program. The matter must first be considered by the Office of the Provost, which is concerned with the "general academic development of the university and for the standards of excellence of its instructional and scholarly programs," according to the Faculty Handbook.

Three years ago, the "Glass Shop" was recognized as an outstanding program in the art department by a graduate review committee. Wardlaw said.

The recent revival of interest in studio glassblowing happened because many artisans involved with ceramics, who believed the medium of glass had great potential as an expressive art form, solved some of the technical problems involved in setting up small-scale glassblowing studios. There are now about 60 universities, art schools and colleges across the country with such studios where art students can create.

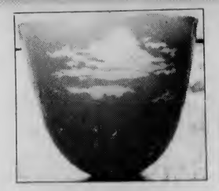
As an art material, glass is quite unique. Watching Perkins moving through the glass shop, guiding each student along, one can sense the uniqueness of glassblowing. Apparently, there are very few solid substances which pass from a molten to a rigid state without structural changes.

While working on glass pieces the students seem constantly challenged. Once they gather a clump of molten glass onto the end of a blow pipe, they quickly even it out on a lead slab, raise it into the air and blow gently as they turn the pipe to prevent the glass from moving off center.

When the initial "bubble" is formed it is then dipped into a pool of molten glass again. The process is repeated until the desired size and shape are reached through these additions of glass and constant shapings with tools. During the whole process the glass must be kept hot so it doesn't harden, and it has to be turned continually so it stays on center. It's not easy. Like many artistic projects, glassblowing requires much practice.

Some of the students who have been in Perkins' classes have gone on to become professional artists. Fred Widmer, a 1975 graduate, recently founded the Penrose Glassworks in Waltham. His works are featured in numerous galleries including the Glassmasters' Guild in New York City and the Don Muller Gallery in Northampton.

The artist working in glass is always searching for new forms and colors. New techniques arise, outside of the industrial technology of glassmaking, as a new generation of artist-craftsmen explore—bringing glass into the mainstream of contemporary art.



At top left, "Large Cloud Bowl," a glasswork by Perkins' student Fred Widmer. Below, and at right, Professor Lyle Perkins at work in his studio. (Staff photos by Vince DeWitt)

Hall and Oates on music and themselves

By Stephen Beaupre

"The realities of the music business make themselves known in strange ways...if you don't take care of business you eventually find yourself in a position where art is compensated. The idea vs. the reality..."Daryl Hall

(The following is a combined interview-review from the Daryl Hall and John Oates concert at the Rusty Nail in Sunderland, Mass. on July 18, 1980.)

If it's Saturday this must be Sunderland. This was to be one of the last nights in a series of warm-up shows in preparation for a large scale tour of the West Coast. A tour that would eventually lead them to Japan, England and Australia. Although the previous week had been a hectic one with the band fitting in as many dates as humanly possible, any preconceived notions of a tired, restless band were dispelled moments after the lights came up. This was clearly a revitalized Hall and Oates. The feeling was that for the first time in a few tours they would not be defending new material, instead exploring it with renewed self-confidence.

Daryl Hall

Last year's "Small Club Tour" had a certain sense of fatalism about it. The then current X-static album was struggling to break and the band seemed unsure of exactly what their intent had been. X-static was experimental in that it attempted to unite two then polarized camps, a disco record with new wave sensibilities. I must admit the record was fun to listen to, however it did little to solidify an image that had long been losing clarity and momentum. Just when it looked like the band was destined to live out their days in the cut-out section they went back into the studio to self-produce their first album. The album Voices is a satisfying return to a sound the band had all-but-abandoned since the release of the Silver Album in the mid-seventies. They haven't forgone their new wave stance as much as they've refined it to the point where it doesn't sound self-conscious and calculating. It looks like they won't have to buy that condo in Florida just yet.

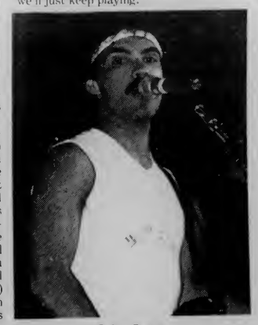
The single "How Does It Feel (To Be Back)" opened the set allowing John one of his few lead vocals. The song is clearly the strongest single they have had to work with in years. The audience reaction was remarkable considering the song had only broken days before the show. When I spoke with them upstairs after the show John could only concur, "It's the first time in a while that audiences who have not heard the songs before are not afraid to sing along...it's that instant recognition we're so excited about." Another new selection "Big Kids" followed. For this number, Hall moved from guitar to keyboards where he would spend the majority of the evening. Your basic Hall screamer, the song explains away world difficulties as just the result of decisions made by big kids. I'd give it an "8" for twisted philosophy.

To be honest, the set varied only slightly from last year's incarnation with Voices material being substituted for X-static. The only exceptions being "Wait for Me (from X-static) and "Sacred Songs", the title track from Hall's hard-fought and widely ignored solo excursion with Robert Fripp. Hall confessed he was still in contact with the Fripp. However, artistic differences became apparent upon the mention of "League of Gentlemen" Fripp's latest group effort. "Yea I saw them in New York (long pause)...embarassingly bad...that's my reluctant opinion. You see, it's also a personal thing, the original concept was that we were to form a band called "League of Gentlemen" — it didn't happen and what you're left with is this amateurish idiocy. — One great guitar player with a bunch of people who can't play. I don't know. — The truth of the matter is Fripp just can't afford better musicians and he just works himself into the corners. But it'll be alright...I mean I know the potential."

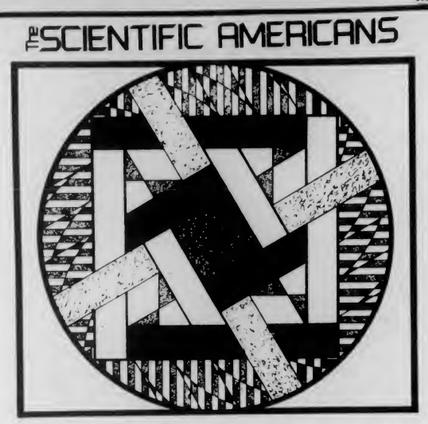
After "Sacred Songs" the set focused on mid to late seventies material, primarily the Silver Album and "Back Together Again".

As no one was familiar with the new album at this point the next selection proved to be a real surprise. A faithful reproduction of the Righteous Brothers' hit "You've Lost That Loving Feeling", the band's style embraces and embodies the essence of this song so completely that many in the audience reacted as if it was one of their biggest hits. I asked them how they hit upon that particular track. Hall (laughing): "You know how. — I was in the Mudd Club one night and they were playing 'You've Lost that Loving Feeling' and I thought to myself I think the time is right for that song." Oates added "Yea, it sounds like we wrote it, — the audience reacts like it's our song." The evening concluded with more new material most notably being the celebratory "You Make My Dreams" and the closer "United States" ("I Can't Live in the UnitedStates")

At a time when disenchantment with record companies is the norm and bands seek greener pastures and larger cocaine allowances, Hall and Oates' long ten year marriage with RCA seems peculiar if not suspicious. "We're not exactly estatic but things could be worse" Hall offered in diplomatic tones. "You hear about somebody doing something exciting at another label, but chances are by the time you were to sign with them the staff could have completely changed. It's just not worth the effort. I mean sometimes I think the pro-no push just isn't there but then again we could be on Sire, one record here's your allowance see you later. Of course they're not so reluctant to fuel something they consider to have hit potential and I think that's the position we find ourselves in." Indeed, at this point the band's future seems particularly bright. Two days later they were to travel to Hollywood to do some video for the single and then back on the road to resume a tour they acknowledged as being very open-ended. As Oates put it "We're excited this time ont. As long as the enthusiasm's there we'll just keep playing."



John Oates



Tekno Tours gets 'em first

By Steven Winniman

"How does a little town like Northampton get a club as cool as Rahar's?" asked Hugo, the drummer for the Suburbs, when that band played Rahar's several weeks ago. It's a good question. Despite Rahar's having a small (about 300 people) capacity, and despite it being located in a small town like Northampton, the club has recently hosted such bands as Pere Ubu, Eight-eyed Spy, the Bush Tetras, and most recently, the Stranglers, as well as most major Boston bands. How does this happen? The answer is Tekno Tours.

Tekno Tours is the product of four people who also happen to be the Scientific Americans. Bassist Crank explains, "We always want to see these bands playing in New York and Boston, but we can't afford it, so we decided to bring them here." The bands which play Rahar's also happen to be favorites of Tekno Tours. Unlike most booking agencies, Tekno Tours does not bother with bands they don't like, even if the band is a known moneymaker. "We've sat in the office of record officials and laughed when they suggested certain bands. They respect us for that."

How does Rahar's actually get these bands? What do they have to offer? Obviously, with a 300 person capacity, they cannot offer the kind of money that clubs with 1500 and 2000 persons capacities can pay. "It's simple," explains Crank. "We realize we can't get a really big band on a Saturday, when they can play to 3000 people. But they usually have free days during the week, between New York and Boston. So we tell them, 'You can sit in the Holiday Inn all day and eat hamburgers or you can come play here and pick up some money.' We'll feed them, we'll put them up, and they can play to some people who really want to see them. That's important to most of these bands." This idealistic strain, like bands willing to sacrifice some money so they can reach more fans, remains basic to Tekno Tours.

Money—or the lack of it—is a central problem. "If a band wants one thousand dollars to play and we know we'll get 250 people, then we have to charge four dollars per ticket just to pay the band." Obviously, since ticket prices have rarely gone over four dollars, Tekno Tours is not raking in the bucks. "We're not doing it for the money" says Sci-Ams synthesizer player Luthor. "We don't make much on a show, but we don't lose much either. Once money is removed as an object, we have that much more freedom. We don't have to book a band we don't like just because they're known moneymakers. That's not even a factor." So far, most of the bands booked into Rahar's by Tekno Tours have gotten along well with the group and enjoyed playing there, showing that many of these bands also have more on their minds than money.

Tekno Tours remains fiercely independent and uncompromising. They handle the promotion themselves, running around on their lunch breaks to put up posters. Not all bands playing Rahar's are booked by Tekno Tours, but all bands booked by Tekno Tours play at Rahar's. So far, the group is completely satisfied with Rahar's and has no intention of booking bands for other clubs. The group also operates Tekno Tunes, a record label which has released singles by the Sci-Ams, Paper Dolls, and other local bands. Presumably, Tekno Tunes operates along the same lines as Tekno Tours.

Tekno Tours represents the purest aspects of music itself. They work within the music industry, but without playing by the industry rules. Needless to say, they command a lot of respect among bands and agents. As a booking agency, they remain as concerned with their customers as with their bands, and as concerned with the music as with the money. This makes any member of Tekno Tours worth ten Don Laws. "What started as a joke became a career," concludes Crank. "We've got nothing to lose—all we're using is time and we've got plenty of that."

Pablo Picasso's works were on exhibit from May 22 to Sept. 16 at New York's Museum of Modern Art. (See story below)

the other voice
113 Campus Center
Amherst, MA 01003
Telephone: 413-545-3500

Editor: Jim Moran
Associate Editor: Mary Kinneavy
Books Editor: Susan Ring
Dance Editor: Lisa Waterman
Film Editor: Robert B. Cargill
Galleries Editor: Gary Eynatian
Music Editor: Rob Huffman
Theater Editor: Debbie Wallace

Contributing writers: Susan Baron, Stephen Beaupre, Mark Wharton
Staff writers: Robert B. Cargill, Steven Winniman
Staff photos by Vince DeWitt
Other photos contributed by Robyn Barnes, Charisma Records, Orion Pictures and Tekno Tunes Records
Production: Pam Dissinger and Suzette Courtmanche
Advertising: Kathryn Kress, Michelle Silverstein, Jay N. Lustig, Karen Grybko, Lori Martone, Brandie Morris, Jeff Taylor and Todd Zigelbaum
Circulation: Joseph Radley

the other voice is the monthly arts magazine of the University of Massachusetts, produced by the Massachusetts Daily Collegian. The staff of students is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Extended Plays in the African phase

Peter Gabriel
Biko EP (Charisma)

The Scientific Americans
The Scientific Americans EP (Tekno Tunes)

By Mark Wharton

From Bill Haley's "Rock Around the Clock," to Devo's "Jocko Homo", social and political statements by rock bands have progressed young people from the Saturday night submarine races, to today's No Nukers. Unlike books or magazines, the audible vinyl is recorded so the lyrics not only intrude through your head, but your neighbor's as well.

Pink Floyd's single "Another Brick in the Wall" became a protest theme song for young blacks in South Africa during riots of last summer. The song was subsequently banned from airplay on South African radio stations, though Pink Floyd has never been regarded as a politically motivated band. It is therefore unusual that former art-rocker Peter Gabriel (ex-Genesis frontman) would take this step.

Gabriel recorded the song entitled "Biko" on his latest album, then he re-recorded it in German. He liked the mix on the German version better and updated his English cover to release it as a single.

Bantu Steven Biko was a young black South African leader who died in 1977 as a result of injuries received during interrogations by the South African Security Police. The song sounds much like a funeral march in three chords, with layers of symphonic bagpipes in the background. It was originally arranged to the beat of a rhythm box. Gabriel wrote his third album around this technique. Its African sound was inspired by the B-side song "Shosholoza" (Go in Peace) from the film Dingaka. Also on the B-side is a very melodic version of "Here Comes the Flood," recorded in German.

The impact of "Biko" will never reach commercial heights because it will not be given that corporate push that, unfortunately, is choking the record industry.

Critic's Cum...4.0

The local band, the Scientific Americans have progressed towards an African beat with the release of their second EP. The first cut "Taking Time" is a funky dance tune, that musically is much improved from their first EP. The second song "Call Home" moves a little farther out in left field and doesn't capture the power of the first song. The last tune is a nice jam recorded live at Rahar's in Northampton. The disc was recorded on a sound sheet, with surprising good quality.

Critic's Cum...3.0

The masses see the master: Picasso's art

By Susan Baron

After four months and 1.5 million visitors, the Museum of Modern Art in New York recently ended its exclusive tribute to Picasso's art.

The Picasso exhibit was the talk of the town all summer long. The attention that the mass media gave to the event compelled most New Yorkers to witness the exhibition. The city was affected commercially, educationally and artistically.

On the sidewalks of 54th St. and 5th Ave., scalpers and tee-shirt vendors hollered their prices. Swarms of students and artists lined up outside the museum most every morning. Even people who had not stepped inside a museum in years found it impossible to ignore Picasso's "presence." The exhibition was remarkably popularized. Inside the museum, however, there persisted a more meditative and respectful atmosphere.

Three hundred of the nine hundred works displayed were on loan from the Musee Picasso of Paris and 100 works were from Picasso's heirs. Arranged chronologically, the three-floor exhibition encompassed 78 years (1894-1972) of printing, painting, drawing, sculpture, collage and ceramics.

Pablo Picasso (1881-1973) has been attributed to having revolutionized the major styles of 20th century art. Famous for his invention of Cubism, Picasso's art has summarized man's changed awareness of himself and his environment. The Picasso exhibit reproduced the evolution of the Spaniard's style, attitude and genius.

The first floor of the Picasso exhibit displayed the art of the Blue Period and the transition to rose and pastel tonalitites. It included many realistic portraits. Most of the second floor was devoted to the more contemporary style of Cubism and to experimentation with Surrealism.

The diversity and complexity of Picasso's work defies the possibility of accurate evaluation. As Hilton Kramer of the New York Times noted, "it is the mind of the painter," not the more traceable life of the man, "that compelled our undivided attention." Thus, viewing Picasso's art became a personal interpretation and endeavor.

My initial image of Picasso was formed by the game called "Masterpiece." My knowledge of the subject was still limited when I went to the exhibit in June. Nevertheless, no one can overlook the inventiveness and brilliance of Picasso's work — not even the untrained eye.

Everyone halted with awe in front of "Guernica," its studies and postscripts. Through wretched abstraction and skillful Cubism, Picasso, in this mural, conveyed vivid emotion and the despairs of war.

Images of bullfights, clowns, women, and war dominated the exhibit.

Highlights of the show included "Self Portrait," "Crucifixion," "The Dance," "Guernica," and "Still Life on a Pedestal Table."

Collectively, the works of Picasso mesmerized and frustrated people viewing them. Perhaps the most important aspect of the Picasso event was its availability. The intellectual work of an artist like Picasso was brought to a level that could be enjoyed by anyone having a few dollars. Because of tee-shirts, posters, buttons, and memorable impressions, the Picasso exhibit will not be soon forgotten.

NORTHEAST AMERICAN BALLET
ESTABLISHED 1973
ANTONY DE VECCHI, Artistic Director
1980 - 1981 SEASON
September 15 - June 6
BALLET • JAZZ • MODERN
518 PLEASANT STREET • NORTHAMPTON, MASSACHUSETTS 01060
TELEPHONE (413) 584-8521 • 623-5176
Call between the hours of 1 9:00 p.m. Mon. Thurs. and 9 3:00 p.m. Sat.

Amherst Gulf
(formerly D & M Sunoco)
Skilled Auto Mechanics
Foreign & Domestic Auto Repair
Honda
Volvo
Datsun
Toyota
Subaru
Saab
VW
Capri

Trouble Shooting
Disc Brakes
Tune-Ups
Fuel-Injection
Exhaust Systems
Electrical
Suspension
catering to the Campus Area
Open 7 Days a Week
call
256-8936
48 N. Pleasant St., Amherst
Center of Amherst

"Liberty means responsibility. That's why most men dread it." — George Bernard Shaw
Fidelity Union Life
Next year it's all up to you. Only you can decide to start an insurance program now. The longer you wait, the more it costs. Find out how easy it is to begin our college plan, chosen by more seniors than any other.
Call the Fidelity Union Life Field Associate in your area:
Ronald J. Nathan Agency
20 Gatehouse Rd., Amherst, Ma. 01002
Tel. 256-8351

PRATT GALLERY
Photographic Posters
Classics by the great Photographers of the nineteenth & twentieth centuries
10% off all Drymounting with this ad
37 SOUTH PLEASANT ST.
AMHERST, MASS., 01002
Upstairs from Matthews Shoes
Open Tuesday --Saturday 10 - 5:30
offer expires Nov. 1, 1980

RUNNER'SHOP
HALLOWEEN SALE
10% Class Five Down Vests, Parkas & Outerwear — Get an additional 10% off just by wearing a Halloween costume at the time of purchase — also:
Jelenk Thermal Underwear 20% off good selection of Nike, Frank Shorter, New balance, & Bill Rodgers all weather running suits
Sale only at Amherst Store
Behind Faces

WILLIAM E. DYKE JR., O.D.,P.C.
OPTOMETRY
★ Comprehensive Eye Exam $20
Includes Glaucoma Check
★ Contact Lens Fitting $40
Includes: Pre-Evaluation Eye Exam
Bausch & Lomb Soft Lens Fitting
Six Months of Follow-up Visits
Lenses not included
★ Medicaid Accepted
★ Appointments or Walk-ins Accepted
1465A Boston Rd. Springfield 593-3255
749A Memorial Dr. Chicopee 593-3255
Rt 9 Russell St Hadley 586-6830
All offices adjacent to Pearle Vision Center

SUN SPOT
We offer fast, safe, easy tanning in our special tanning booths
• Keep the tan you have
• Start one for your vacation trip
Amherst Carriage Shops
233 N. Pleasant St., Amherst
549-1499

Plumbley's off the common
Dinner for Two $10.95
Choice of
• Veal Weinershnitzle with egg noodles
• Shrimp Creol with rice pilaf
• Roast Boneless Pork Loin with applesauce & baked potato
• Baked Fresh Lemon Sole with baked potato
Free Glass of Wine with each Dinner
Your choice of Chablis, Rose, Burgundy
Plumbley's off the common
30 Boltwood Walk
Amherst Center
253-9586
Sunday thru Thursday 5 p.m. 'til...
Offer Good Sunday, Nov. 2 Wed. Nov. 26, 1980

THE UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AT AMHERST

FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL

Presents

DUETS
an evening with
CHICK COREA
&
GARY BURTON

". . . the two men displayed that close musical rapport that is the well spring of superior jazz."
—Don Nelson
The New York Daily News

"the ideas flow easily from their heads and are smoothly translated to their hands in an awe-inspiring manner."
—Downbeat

"This pair has a special chemistry that invariably results in improvisational communication of the highest order."
—The San Francisco Chronicle

Thursday November 6
8 PM

Tickets go on sale
October 29
at the
Box Office (Open M-F, Noon-4 PM)
Phone 545-2511
Phone Reservations will be available until
Nov. 14

'Santini' shakes emotions

By Robert B. Cargill

Robert Duvall (right) as Bill Meechum and Michael O'Keefe as his son in The Great Santini

Amidst a period of relentless cinematic extravangance and commerical overkill, can a film immersed in emotional grandeur, based solely on human sensibilities and a preoccupation with realistic setting, survive financially and maybe, succeed?

This is precisely the question The Great Santini answers positively, accompanied by an unmitigated, resounding chorus of "it's about time."

For The Great Santini (previously leased to cable television and various airline companies) has arrived on the mass-distribution scene at a most appropriate time. In the wake of such failures as Used Cars and Smokey and the Bandit 2, as well as half a dozen other summertime "slops," Santini's overriding concern for real people in heartening situations is in the least, indisputably welcomed.

Robert Duvall is Bull Meechum (aka The Great Santini) and plays the role with a sincerity and fierceness that few actors could match. He's an aging Marine who runs his life, wife, and family in the same "dominance and submission" manner in which he's been impeccably trained and who exceedingly takes pride in himself as a tough "sonofabitch," an uncontrollable sentiment of his, that knows no bounds.

Bull's family shares the brunt of his zeal for discipline in a somewhat comical, yet tragic display of interactive communication, though son Ben (Michael O'Keefe) seems to feel the hardest impact of his father's rigor. Bull demands the impossible of his son and punishes him in the coldest of ways. The price Ben pays for beating his father in a basketball game of one-on-one is a challenge to his mental stature as well as in the obvious physical contact of the game. Here, Bull takes out his frustration by repeatedly bouncing a basketball off his son's head, calling him "girl" and "momma's boy," 'till Ben lashes back, "well this girl just whipped your ass good."

Our emotions are shaken at many points, though one special moment of paradoxical sensation occurs when Ben is playing in his first high school varsity basketball game under the watchful, military guise of Bull Meechum. An opposing player practically takes Ben out of the game, intentionally knocking him down, and "steaming" The Great Santini Meechum vehemently demands of his son to "take that bastard to the deck or you're not coming home" while courtside, he stalks back and forth along with the action. This display is at once riotously hilarious as well as disasterous in the actual consequences of Bull's furor.

Essentially, The Great Santini is all Robert Duvall, though excellent acting is also turned in by O'Keefe, Blythe Danner (Mrs. Meechum), Stan Shaw (Toomer Small), and Lisa Jane Persky (Mary Anne Meechum). This Lewis John Carlino-directed film is an intimate study of human sensibility, exploring a gamut of emotions while proving both funny and sad and ultimately, tragic.

With a powerful string of supporting performances, its moralistic character, embodiment of pure feeling and the power-packed, tour-de-force job done by Mr. Duvall, The Great Santini cannot lose.

Bolles Shoes
— FALL SPECIAL —
All Rockports for men and women
Rockport
20% off
Oct. 23 - Nov. 1
Bolles Shoes
8 Main St. Amherst 253-5598 Open daily Mon-Sat 9:00-5:30

Why Frye?

FRYE

No one has been able to duplicate our unique Frye look. Whether it's our exclusive Classic, Western, or Casual boots, Frye has a style to fit your lifestyle. It's part of what makes Frye boots impossible to duplicate. And quality is another reason they cannot be duplicated. Frye boots are benchcrafted by skilled hands, not rolled off on assembly line. So while our styles may change, our quality and craftsmanship will always remain the same. The best.

Heartfelt Leather
103 N. Pleasant St.
Downtown amherst
Open 10-6 Mon - sat
Open Fridays til 8
253-5135

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian

Volume CX, Issue 38 The newspaper of the University of Massachusetts at Amherst Friday, October 24, 1980

Tuition hike is being considered

By Richard Nagle
and Fran Basche
Collegian Staff

University of Massachusetts President David C. Knapp is considering a $75 a year tuition hike above and beyond the round of hikes instituted last year.

In a memo dated Oct. 16, Knapp requested the Chancellor of the three UMass campuses to make recommendations on the proposed increase which would raise undergraduate in-state tuition to $825 a year.

"My personal reaction is that the increase is not unreasonable," Amherst Chancellor Henry Koffler said yesterday.

The memo states that the proposed increase request is based on a 13.3 percent increase in disposable income for state residents, an 8.5 percent rise in educational costs, increase availability of financial aid, and a cost comparison with other regional public colleges which indicated that UMass has lower tuition levels.

Under the proposal, graduate tuition would rise $100 to $975 a year, and tuition at the UMass medical school in Worcester would increae $200 to $1600 a year.

The memo states that Knapp wanted responses from Koffler, UMass Boston Chancellor Robert Corrigan, and UMass Worcester Chancellor Robert Tranquada, by Oct. 30 so he could present the proposal to the Board of Trustees at its Nov. 19 meeting.

The memo also stated, "We should not anticipate offsetting tuition increases across the board in financial aid."

Although financial aid eligibility has increased, Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs Dennis L. Madson said yesterday there is a 13 percent gap between the number of aid recipients and available federal funds.

Koffler said he believed Knapp meant that federal financial aid money was not expected to increase along with the tuition. "What he meant was that we're not going to get that much more in financial aid. It wasn't a philosophical statement. It was more a pragmatic one," Koffler said.

Koffler said the increase is due to pressure from the state legislature. "The pressure was very great. The state's position is simple, they want more revenue," he said.

On May 2, 1979, the trustees approved a three-year tuition hike which called for a $50 a semester rise for the first year and a 62.50 increase over the next year.

Koffler said he believed the increase combined with smaller financial aid awards may present an extra hardship to lower-income students. He said, "It can't be documented but it is my sentiment that yes it would."

Koffler said if the hikes were not made, the state legislature might "arbitrarily" cut the school's budget.

Koffler hopes to keep University as flagship

By Richard Nagle
Collegian Staff

Chancellor Henry Koffler, facing the uncertainties of the recent reorganization of higher education in Massachusetts, said one of his priorities will be to keep the University of Massachusetts at Amherst the state's "flagship" campus.

Koffler also repeated his hopes of amending the reorganization legislation parts of which he categorized as "at best ambiguous."

Koffler said these ambiguities included exactly whether the Board of Regents or the Board of Trustees is legally responsible for the University and which of these groups actually handled the University's hiring.

The Chancellor made his statements at an informal gathering with area medica at his on-campus home yesterday.

Koffler told about 30 reporters that "we are learning how to adjust and effectively cope with the reorganization of higher education in the state."

He said the administration might send a letter to Gov. Edward King suggesting expanding the future UMass Board of Trustees from the presently mandated nine member to 15.

Reinforcing his statement that the UMass/Amherst Campus is the state's flagship campus Koffler said, "UMass is not only the most important instituition in the Commonwealth, but it is the most important institution in the Northeast."

Vice Chancellor for Administration and Finance, George Beatty, who also attended the gathering, said many of the issues facing the University were common with institutions across the Northeast, including the water shortage, the cost of energy, and the inability to obtain enough financial support for the University.

Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs Dennis L. Madson said financial aid funds have not kept pace with the rising costs of education.

"In the effort to balance the federal budget it seems there will be less available monies," Madson said.

Madson also briefly discussed the beginning of a Mentor program. The Mentor program is designed to encourage faculty and students to meet on a more individual basis outside of the classroom.

Diedre Ling, dean of admissions, said the number of freshmen, transfer and out-of-state students has risen steadily the last few years.

She also said that this year's freshman class of 4213 was the largest in the University's history.

She said a recent survey of in-coming students indicated that most students chose UMass because of its academic reputation and the quality of courses.

Beatty also announced that the engineers who had designed the University's oil-burning power plant the Tilson farm plant, which only operated for eight months when it was built in 1974 had settled out of court.

He said the engineering firm, Jackson and Moreland a division of United Engineers and Constructors Inc. agreed to pay the state $975,000 in damages but that no one has ever determined how much it would actually cost to repair it.

Halloween policies to ensure positive atmosphere

By Joe Barrett
Collegian Staff

Halloween at the University of Massachusetts has recently been termed a "bizarre celebration" where thousands of students and friends roamed the campus, many heading towards the Campus Center, leaving violence and vandalism in their wake.

Bryan Harvey, assistant to the Vice Chancellor of Student Affairs, said, "this type of reaction to Halloween is one that has been going on for some time, but for the last two years it has reached too destructive a nature, and something had to be done."

Something was done. Beginning in August, people representing the Administration, the residence halls, the Campus Center, the Dean of Students, and others affected by the situation began planning ahead, Harvey said.

The UMass Police Department also began trying to form some kind of policy to prepare for this year. "Last year, there just wasn't much planning," said Director of Public Safety Gerald O'Neil. "this year we have much better planning."

O'Neil said this planning included preventative patrols to protect women, increased patrols on campus, along the major walkways and in the dorm lobbies.

"Our major concern is not the parties, it's just that we want to give the students the safety they deserve," said O'Neil. He cited statistics that show how much of the actual arrests made during the last two years actually involved people who weren't students here.

"It's a good place; we want to keep a positive atmosphere on campus that weekend. We want to keep those who don't care out."

The costs of the vandalism last year were something we can't afford, said O'Neil. He also said the UMass/Boston and UMass/Worcester police departments will aid them this year. "We figure that they are used to dealing with students, and that bringing in help from other sources would be counter productive."

Last year, the Administrative statistics from the Halloween weekend were grim:

•Although the three-day period represents only 1.3 percent of the academic year, and .8 percent of the calendar year, the University police made 4.1 of their arrests for the year and 10.7 percent of their protective custodies during the Halloween weekend. There were 14 arrests and 28 protective custodies, and more might have been made had the circumstances allowed.

•Many of the problems included non-students: 23 of the 28 protective custody cases were non-students; 9 of 14 arrests were non-students; and 15 of the 51 persons treated for trauma injury at UMass Health Services were non-students. Many of these people had no connection at all with UMass students.

•Alcohol abuse seemed to be unusually severe during the weekend: the campus was badly littered with broken beer bottles; the number of protective custodies for alcohol abuse was unusually high, also 14 of the 51 persons treated for trauma injury at Health Services in the emergency room had alcohol-related complaints.

The number of people trying to get in, as well as those already in, the Campus Center presented a serious health and safety hazard last year, Harvey said. A non-alcoholic party in the Hampden Center in Southwest residential area ended when an unruly crowd tried to get in. Police ended the party as violence broke out and windows were smashed. Rape and a large number of assaults also characterized the weekend. One head of residence was attacked trying to prevent a rape, O'Neil said.

"To make this Halloween a positive weekend, it's going to have to be up to the individual student." O'Neil said, adding that they were not going to be out trying to make arrests this year, just tryng to maintain safety and order, like any weekend.

turn to page 11

World and national news

But no immediate fulfillment required

New conditions probable for hostages' release

By Nicolas B. Tatro
Associated Press Writer

BEIRUT, Lebanon — The Iranian Parliament this weekend probably will add new conditions for the release of the 52 American hostages, and if the United States does not meet the demands the captives may go on trial, Iranian leaders said yesterday.

At the same time, however, one of the officials, Parliament Speaker Hashemi Rafsanjani, appeared to open the door a little further to a quick resolution of the crisis.

Rafsanjani, in an interview with the Paris newspaper Le Monde, was quoted as saying the Carter administration would not have to immediately fulfill all the conditions before the hostages are freed.

Some kind of "guarantees" of future compliance with the more difficult demands would be enough, he reportedly said.

The latest statements from Iran added to expectations of a break in the hostage crisis before Nov. 4, the date of the U.S. presidential election and first anniversary of the seizure of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran.

The first strong signs of possible movement in the impasse came Wednesday.

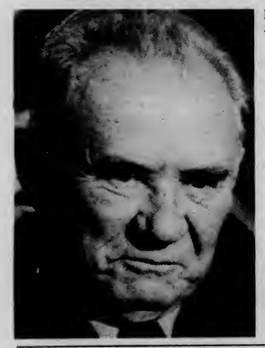
The chairman of a seven-man parliamentary commission studying the hostage issue, Moussavi Khoeini, said the Parliament probably would announce the conditions Sunday, and if the United States meets the demands the hostages could be freed as early as Monday. The Iranian prime minister, Mohammad Ali Rajai, said it appeared that the United States was ready to accept the conditions.

Iranian officials have said the commission is likely to recommend the four conditions previously set down by supreme leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini: return of the late shah's wealth to Iran, "unfreezing" of Iranian assets in U.S. banks, dropping of American court claims against the Iranian government, and a U.S. promise not to interfere in Iran's internal affairs.

Carter administration officials said the known conditions would be difficult but not impossible to meet.

But Ali Akbar Nateq Noori, a member of the commission reached by telephone in Tehran by The Associated Press in Beirut, said yesterday "some more conditions may be added" to the four basic demands. Rafsanjani was quoted as saying it was "probable" that "supplementary conditions" will be announced.

Soviet Premier Kosygin resigns post 'due to health'



By Marc Rosenwasser
Associated Press Writer

MOSCOW — Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, a fixture of the top Soviet leadership for 16 years, resigned his post yesterday because of illness. He was succeeded by his first deputy, 75-year-old Nikolai Tikhonov.

Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev announced that Kosygin, 76, had decided to step down from the second most powerful position in the country during a meeting of the Supreme Soviet, the national parliament.

Tikhonov has long been associated with Brezhnev, and his takeover of the premiership further underlines the president's supremacy in the Kremlin hierarchy.

Kosygin came to power in 1964 in a leadership "troika" with Communist Party chief Brezhnev and then-President Nikolai Podgorny following the ouster of Nikita Khrushchev.

As premier, Kosygin was boss of the Soviet economy and of the day-to-day running of the government, and served as a much-traveled diplomatic troubleshooter.

Western analysts said they believe his departure will have little immediate impact on the direction of Soviet policy.

Brezhnev and Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko are widely believed to run foreign affairs. Kosygin's grip on economic policy has loosened as his health has deteriorated, although the resignation could be seen as a symbol of change for the deeply troubled economy.

Kosygin, who reportedly suffered at least two heart attacks in recent years, has not been seen in public since Aug. 3, closing day of the 1980 Summer Olympics in Moscow. He was absent when Brezhnev announced his decision to step down.

"He has been trying to resign for some time," a Soviet source who knows Kosygin's family said. "He just wanted to rest, to fish. But other Soviet leaders have been reluctant. Perhaps they've been wondering how to replace him."

Tikhonov, a deputy premier since 1966, was named Kosygin's top deputy four years ago and stood in for him frequently during the premier's illnesses.

The new premier and Brezhnev trained as metallurgical engineers at the same Ukrainian institute in the early 1930s, and later worked together in the Dnepropetrovsk region of the Ukraine.

He traveled to West Germany earlier this year for trade talks, visited the United States with Khrushchev in 1959 and has made several other foreign journeys.

Tikhonov's appointment highlights the advanced age of the Soviet leadership.

Brezhnev is 73, Tikhonov 75, Gromyko 71, party ideologist Mikhail Suslov 77, and Andrei Kirilenko, a top Brezhnev aide and party secretary, 74. The average age of the nation's ruling Politburo is now 69 years.

Tikhonov, whose wife's death was reported earlier this month, is believed to be in relatively good health. But because of his age, he is likely to be only a short-term replacement as premier.

Death penalty upheld

SAN FRANCISCO — The California Supreme Court on yesterday upheld the death penalty conviction of Earl Lloyd Jackson, in a ruling that could signal the resumption of executions in California for the first time in 13 years.

In a 4-3 decision written by Justice Frank Richardson, the court also reaffirmed the "presumed" constitutionality of the state's 1977 death penalty law and rejected various claims Jackson made concerning his attorneys and the jury.

Jackson, 22, was convicted of murdering two elderly women in Long Beach. One of the convictions was with special circumstances and led to a jury verdict of death.

The last man to be executed by the state was Aaron Mitchell, who died in San Quentin's gas chamber in 1967. He was convicted of the slaying of a Sacramento policeman.

Cold threatens elderly

NEWTON, Mass. — Up to 10 percent of all elderly people in the United States suffer below-normal body temperatures daily and risk death from the cold, a federal energy seminar was told yesterday.

Dr. John Stitt, a Yale University medical researcher, said hypothermia — the inability to maintain a body temperature of at least 96 degrees — is now recognized as a significant problem among the elderly.

He cited an estimate by the National Institute on Aging that up to 2.3 million people over 65, roughly one out of every 10, experience subnormal temperatures daily.

Several hundred people a year, most of them elderly, die from the cold, he added.

Stitt emphasized that "we must be careful not to throw the elderly into a panic." He said the elderly can withstand cool temperatures safely.

Yet Stitt and several other workshop participants questioned whether the federal government's thermostat rules, which require winter settings of 65 in most public buildings, recognize the special vulnerability of the elderly.

They said even "mildly cool" temperatures — those in the 60-65 range — can trigger accidental hypothermia.

A related problem, they added, is hyperthermia, the inability of a person to keep cool enough when exposed to high temperatures.

Some experts believe that more than 1,000 Americans, most of them elderly, died from this ailment during last summer's heat wave.

Olaf J. Kaasa, president of the American Association of Retired Persons, said both dangers deserve more publicity.

Digest

Associated Press

Woman sues in TSS case

STAMFORD, Conn. — A 20-year-old Norwalk woman who claims she suffered Toxic Shock Syndrome after using Rely tampons filed a class action suit yesterday against Proctor & Gamble, the manufacturer of Rely tampons.

In the Superior Court suit, Lisa Monroe contends she used Rely tampons in August and subsequently suffered the symptoms of TSS, a disease that recently was linked to the deaths of several women who used of tampons, particularly the Rely brand.

The suit says Ms. Monroe was admitted to a hospital for treatment of TSS. Attorney Edward Kweskin of Stamford, who filed the suit, declined to discuss the case. The suit did not identify the hospital.

The suit contends Proctor & Gamble failed to adequately test the tampon and did not provide consumers with warnings or adequate instructions about its use.

The suit, filed on behalf of all Connecticut women who have been injured or may be injured by using Rely tampons, asks for financial damages but does not list an amount.

Subscription Rates

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 331 220) is published daily Monday through Friday excluding vacations, exam periods, or holidays, for $15 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

RUSSELL'S
LIQUORS
18 Main St. Downtown Amherst 253-5441

CHECK THESE PRICES
Busch..... 12 oz N/R's/7.99
Miller..... 12 oz N/R's/7.99
Molson's..... 2.99 six/10.99 case
WINE
Le Domaine Rose, Chablis, Rhine..... 2.99/1.5 liter
Liebfraumilch..... 1.99/23 oz.
Tosca Soave, Valpolicella..... 3.59/68 oz
ALL BEER AND WINE SPECIALS ARE COLD

Attention
All R.S.O. Groups:

Please check your mailboxes in the Student Union immediately—important Affirmative Action information within.

With a surrounding carpet of leaves a reminder that colder weather is on the way, senior engineering student Charlie Grinell enjoyus the late October sunshine while he can. (Staff photo by Bill Harrold)

Support sought to allow Halloween programming

By John DiPalazzo
Collegian Staff

Student Government Association co-President Rich Moran spoke to the Southwest Assembly last night, urging the assembly to support a proposal to the Univesity of Massachusetts Administration to allow on-campus events during the Halloween weekend.

"I think it would be good if this body could make recommendations," said Moran. "Right now there's no programming scheduled." Moran said since the Campus Center will be closed for the weekend and since no events have been planned, students are likly to congregate in some area and make trouble. "In my own opinion, without programming, things will be worse (than last year)," Moran said.

SWA co-President Kevin Mangan said, "If there is no programming, Southwest is where they (students) will come. It's going to look bad for Southwest." Mangan suggested organizing a concert on Halloween night, to be held at the athletic fields, saying he felt that some type of event was necessary.

SWA co-president Ruth Mazzola said she "definitely supports the students' rights to have something done in Southwest." Mazzola also said that the SWA's issue committee dealing with the university's Halloween policy would work with the SGA to make recommendations to the university administration.

The SWA invalidated their appointments to the SGA Judiciary, after being informed by the SGA Attorney General that the assembly could no appoint co-judges to the judiciary. At last week's meeting, Steve Moylan and Andrew Prescott were appointed co-judges by the assembly. New elections for the position will be held at the next SWA meeting.

Monica Santiago requested the assembly allocate $400 to sponsor half of the advertising costs for a concert on campus by Ray Barretto. The concert is being produced by Ahora, a Latin American organization on campus, who are also requesting funds from other area governments for the concert. The proposal was referred to the SWA finance committee.

Also at the meeting, assembly representatives outlined upcoming activities being organized by their dormitories.

Students to be involved in conference decisions

By Samuel Chalfen
Collegian Staff

To insure against future disruptions to student study areas and meeting places there will be in creased student involvement in decision making concerning conferences held on campus, the Campus Center Board of Governors announced last night.

The movement for additional student in put came as a result of reported lack of study space, shifts in meeting areas and general inconveniences caused by the massive Passive Solar 1980 conference being held this week. The conference brought an estimated 4,000 peo ple to the cam pus, according to board Chairman Curtiss Wohlers.

The board, responsible for representing student needs in the Campus Center and Student Union, was notified of the conference last summer, but only after Conference Services Department of the Campus Center had designated the important areas to the con ference, ac cording to Board Treasurer Michael Jingo zian. In the future the board will meet with Conference Services to determine the amount of space the con ferences shall recieve.

Wohlers said Passive Solar 1980 was the largest ever in the Campus Center and would be the last one of this magnitude this year. It is expected to bring in $150,000for the Campus Center, he said, and will help to pay for runn ing the building. "In this age of budget cuts we are forced to look to other possibilities" to keep the Students Campus Center fee down.

Member Peter Taggart asked why the conference funds were needed if the food costs were balanced by food prices and the repayment of bonds sold to raise funds for the com plex were constant.

Director of Campus Center William Har ris said, "If the fees were to remain stable, you'd probably have to raise the building costs (prices)." He added that conferences had accounted for about 60 percent of hotel ac comodations in the past and that the conferences increased the University Store's and Earthfood's revenues.

The Board announced a grievance com mittee forum to take place on Wed. Oct. 29 at 6 p.m. in the BOG office on the eighth floor of the Campus Center. Students interested in making their grievances known and hav ing input in conference-related decisions should attend.

Also at the meeting the Handicapped Student Coalition listed nine areas in the Campus Center which hinder handicapped person's accesibility.

The Student Union elevator and the elevators in the Campus Center were among two of the grievences. The Camhus Center elevator buttons are built too high for handicapped people to reach, they are not in braille and the doors timing is dangerous to those in wheelchairs and to the blind, student representative Jim Beaudreux said.

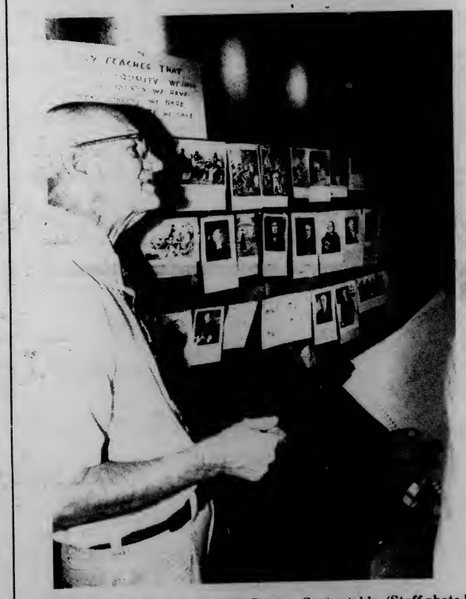
Speaking of the "dirty as hell" Student Union elevator he said, "It's a disgrace to have people use that." The board acknowledged the students and in formed them that Dudley Bridges of Building Operations had discussed the construction of a ramp rail for the Student Union.

Independent Presidential candidate John B. Anderson will pay a visit to the Pioneer Valley tomorrow when he appears briefly in Springfield.

According to Anderson press liaison Brett Doney, the Congressman from Illinois is scheduled to arrive at Bradley Airport about 10:30 a.m. and address a press conference in Bay State West an hour later. The candidate will then tour the complex from noon to 12:30.

Rep. Anderson is scheduled to leave the Springfield area at 2:30 p.m.

John B. Anderson



Henry Bubar talks history at his Campus Center table. (Staff photo by Kris Craig)

Local man advocates scientific study of history

By Carol Censullo
Collegian Staff

A 75 year-old former high school teacher makes his way from his Northampton home to the University of Massachusetts campus twice a week to bring to campus a unique form of history.

Standing next to his display of old photographs, Henry Bubar hopes to attract passing students and faculty to explain what he calls a scientific manner of studying history.

"It's a matter of cause and effect," Bubar said. "History has shown us that every time someone has tried to get liberty someone has lost freedom."

Bubar tied this in to his personal motto, which sounds like a contradiction: "history teaches us that the more equality we have, the less liberty we have. The more liberty we have, the less equality we have."

Bubar supports his theory using an example of a current trend in China to reduce the birth rate.

"The law that limits a family to only one child is a law that takes away individual rights," he said. China's current problem of overpopulation apparently lead to the limiting law.

Bubar, who is on campus Mondays and Wednesdays, is concerned that people simply go through the motions of attending history classes and don't take the time to examine what history says.

"You must study American history — no one does anymore," Bubar said while pointing to the sequence of pictures hanging next to him. "History shows a pattern of the under-privileged fighting the rich and powerful who don't want to lose power."

The former Hadley history teacher stresses that people must attempt to work together, to form a fraternal type of existence before humanity can consider itself equal.

"The Civil Rights movement is trying to correct the inequalities we've always had, but we lack the spirit of fraternity," he said.

"Jesus tried to free people from the old customs that they had built up in their religions," Bubar, a Protestant who calls himself a free thinker said. "People need to manifest that same spirit that Jesus professed to solidify themselves into a fraternity," he said.

Bubar described the current situation in Iran and the Mid-East as foliish, adding that "it was not a Christian act to support the Vietnam War or to support the shah, because we supported the rich, powerful and greedy. We are trying to do the same thing that England tried to do in the colonies," Bubar said.

He was explaining the way England tried to control the early American colonies through the use of money and pro-English rulers.

Bubar, who wears a John Anderson for President button, said he supported the Independent candidate because "he has come out against anti-labor."

He said he supports the Equal Rights Amendment, but remains skeptical of what it will take away from women while attempting to provide equal rights for them.

Bubar graduated from Colby College in 1931 with a Bachelors degree in history. He returned to his home town of Montcello, Maine, and taught there before joining a farm cooperative.

Black Affairs

Bond Papers An Experience

By Joyce M. McLaurin
(Black Affairs Staff)

The Horace Mann Bond Center for Equal Education and the Acquisition of the Bond papers have been at the University for the past two years, although they weren't officially dedicated until Oct. 24, 1979.

Bond, a distinguished black scholar and educator, committed most of his life working for equal education for every disadvantaged child.

Bond is the father of Georgia State Senator, Julian Bond. Although some of his work is more extensive and deals in the aspects of empirical documentation including court decisions, administrative rulings, school district studies and civil rights reports, the most important factor is still equal education in the United States.

The Bond papers are works of research and information on racial and other social factors that affect minority children in their performance as acheivers for equal education. While the main emphasis is geared toward the black child, it is also devoted to Mexican American, Puerto Rican, and American Indian children.

Horace Mann Bond was well known for his broad scholarship and understanding of the role of black education in America's social structure. He was able to combine his understanding of Black American education to a world context. He understood the total world context in which Black education stood.

Bond was inaugurated as president of Lincoln University in 1945. George Johnson, who was a friend of Bond's said at the inaugueration "Lincoln University was founded to give young colored men a 'higher education'; higher, not above the secondary school level, nor because it embraced non-vocation subjects, but because it was directly related to God, the highest being and a redemption, the highest God."

The Bond papers, comparable in size with the DuBois papers, are housed at the UMass Library Tower. They measure 150 linear feet and include a half century of research on Black education, family papers, family geneology, letters to DuBois and correspondences from Lincoln University. Lincoln University correspondence include expense accounts, Bond's membership in various groups, and relations of the university with African students, Kwame Nkrumah of African Council of Arts and research, American Council on African Education, news clipping on racial issues and there are so many more.

UMass Professor of Education, Myer Weinberg is the director of the Horace Mann Bond Center and editor of a magazine entitled "Intergrateducation" a bimonthly journal on black education.

Professor Weinberg, already acquainted with Mrs. Julia Bond, obtained the papers by simply asking for her permission to have them at the University. Weinberg received a Government Grant to ship the papers from Atlanta to Amherst. There are more than 30 boxes filled with his works that were collected thoughout the years. The works date from the 1930's to the 1970's.

The Horace Mann Bond Center has 104 steel files of information that includes 4,000 volumes of commercially unpublished works, 500 dissertations from all over the world, 42,000 ongoing bibliographical entries on minority children

turn to page 11

Oil: Arabia's edge

By Norman P. Morgan
(Black Affairs Staff)

Sky rocketing cost of energy is causing world wide inflation and is definately threatening the present way of life in the U.S. The U.S. economy and military depends largely on oil in Saudi Arabia. Presently the Arabians produce 8 percent of U.S. oil, 3 percent of France's oil, 35 percent of Italy's oil and 25 percent of Japan's oil. Although Saudi Arabia is in a very influential position, they are in need of some basic necessities: military technology and equipment.

Unlike the $1.80 barrel twelve years ago, today's price is $30 a barrel. An executive on the Saudi government said, "One reason for changing prices from time to time is due to the difference between our selling price and the price of other producers, (allowing the profit to go into the pockets on on-Saudis). We take that profit away through prices."

With the Gulf of Arabia located in the Eastern province, it is hard to adequately protect the oil fields, which are mostly spread throughout the desert. Strategically the Persian Gulf is the weak point of the Arabia oil flow to the world. The oil fields are defenseless. Three well equipped men could wipe out oil lines. Saudi Arabia is in constant fear of sabotage, that could come from anywhere in the middle east. The U.S. is also in fear because anything that takes place in Arabia directly effects our economy.

To relieve some of the pressure concentrated on the Gulf, Saudi Arabia is planning a most ambitious project: a 48" underground pipe line across the entire width of Saudi Arabia (from oil fields in the east to the Red sea in the west). By 1981, the pipe line will carry more than 2 million barrels a day. Saudi Arabia now requires companies that will want their oil, to take some financial risk, in order to have a commitment to their stability.

The Arabians have felt an urgent need to build up their armed forces. There are presently two armies, each under direction of a seperate prince. The National Guard protects the king and oil fields. The army stands against any outside threat. Both have received alot of criticism for their ineffectiveness in Mecca.

There are 75,000 men in both Arabian armed forces. It is not clear how either army would fare with an internal revolt nor how either would fare against a small middle eastern nation. What is clear is that the Arabians are in need of help.

The help the Saudi Arabians need is being supplied by U.S. advisers, enlisted men and defense specialists from private companies under contract with the Pentagon. U.S. military presence is kept to a minimum. Service men supervise contractors hired to do the trainin, the idea being to prepare the Arabian armed forces to hold off outside attacks until the U.S. could get there. The old equation: their oil for our support. According to an U.S. military leader, it would take three weeks before major U.S. strike forces could land in Saudi Arabia.

Never has any country had so much to protect and so little to protect it with. The U.S. is still their best hope. After Vietnam and the fall of the Shah, the Arabians wonder about U.S. will and ability to defend them. The U.S. and Saudi Arabia are each trying to lessen their dependency on each other for now they are tied together in a special relationship that will be tested in the months and years to come.

Interracial couples : 1980

By Pat Cassell
(Black Affairs Staff)

According to Louis Harris's survey, in 1971, one out of every five Americans had dated someone in a race other than their own. Interracial marriages were forbidden in 16 states until 1967 when the Supreme Court finally ruled the the laws were unconstitutional. In addition, Thomas P. Monahan, in a study of the 1960 Census, recorded that there was a higher percentage of black female-white male marriages than black male-white female marriages. Twenty years later, 1980, this percentage has reversed, and there are over one-million black-white marriages.

Enerst Portefield, conducted a survey interviewing 20 interracial couples (16 of them being black male-white female, and 4 being white male-black female) and randomly recorded their responses to specific motives for their marriages.

Aside from love and compatibility there are several reasons why black men are attracted to white women and vice versa. First it is a black man's way of rebelling against his white society, rebelling by marrying a white female which defied on of America's taboos. This idea was defined clearly by the late U.S. Senator Theodore G. Bilbo who had proceeded to terrorize his voters about interracial marriages.

"If the blood of our white race should become corrupted and mingled with the blood of Africa, then the present greatness of the United States of American would be destroyed and all hope for the future would be forever gone.", he said.

The issue at hand here, known to most black people, is "not sex but social legitimacy and status", said Elizabeth Hall in her essay "A Raw Power Question".

Secondly, some of these black males had a feeling of revenge and hatred against the white man and in turn desired a white woman because they believe she is the man's ideal. Yet other black males felt powerful knowing that a white woman finds him more interesting and desirable than a white man. Even more interestingly, some of the black males believed that white females are more affectionate, passive, understanding, and concerned about fulfilling the needs of their husbands than a black woman. A black woman (in her dominance) "symbolizes a history that many black men would really rather forget" stated one of the black males in the survey.

On the other hand, one of the white husbands surveyed was attracted to his wife particularly because of her qualities of dominance, independance, and self-sufficiency. A white woman he thought "were raised to be servants to their husbands to please them, sit at home and be pretty. They lack the independance forced on black women...I wanted a wife that is strong-able to run things if necessary, and make decisions on her own."

The list of motives and intents and reasons for interracial marriages continue on and on. But still the number on perogative in marriage should be love and compatibility regardless of race or color.

Survival of the Black Culture

By Kimberley Green
(Black Affairs Staff)

What's that language often referred to as foreign by some educators and scholars, but conversely cultural to those whose ancestors manifested it as well as used it as a primary source of communication hundreds of years ago?

I'm talking about Black English. It's been around since the days of slavery. As a matter of fact, the circumstances under which those slaves were encumbered gave way to this unique language.

The term Black English which was attested by Cohen in 1734 is a compilation of West Indian Pidgin English, a form of broken English, and its literary successor, Creole. To clarify my previous assertion I have included a statement by Robert A. Hall, a creolist. He said that, "most Negro dialects are the result of decreolization, a merger of creole with other more nearly standard dialects."

Unfortunately Black English has been referred to as Negro – non standard English and has even more so been equated with being spoken by poor disadvantaged blacks.

This may be true to some extent. Most Blacks who are economically and educationally more fortunate than others don't always speak the informal "lingo." However when these same Blacks who speak "perfect standard English" are in situations which demand this "coming down to earth" or when the topic is inextensibly related to Black culture, they too tend to use the Black dialect.

One aspect of Black English that proves that it is a true English form and not just a lazy connotation of the standard English, is its highly structured dialect with its matchless grammar and rules. One example of this distinct grammatical style is the double negative. According to a statement revealed in Haskins and Butts, The Psychology of Black Language, "for a negative sentence to be grammatical according to Black English, all indefinite pronouns, indefinite articles, all indefinite adverbials and verbal auxilliary must be made negative. Therefore a sentence would be constructed as follows: Nobody ain't never seen no ghost nowhere.

Since the language spoken in most classrooms is White American Standard, Black children are repeatedly condemned for their speech. Children should not be ostracized for talking and acting according to their social norms. After all, if a white student speaking White Standard English was in a classroom with a black majority, the Blacks would probably think he or she were talking funny too.

White children should be taught that Blacks are not dumb just because they do not always speak the same grammar as they do. Not everyone is culturally the same so naturally the language is going to be different.

Whites probably cannot always understand, let alone speak like Blacks. Just as Blacks sometimes find it difficult to relate to White American Standard English as exemplified by their efforts on various "intelligence" and achievement tests.

It is good that educators are becoming more aware of this difference in language which is not necessarily parallel with intelligence. However I do not agree with the notion of teaching Black English to students in schools. To enlighten someone about it is good, but to stress it for everyday use in a white oriented society is not. The children can learn the language outside the classroom. Meanwhile, they will learn to disginguish where this "homey" language is to be used appropriately.

So don't completely abandon a language full of words and phrases through which affection and compassion for your brothers and sisters may be conveyed.

I just ertand everyone should speak properly and to the best of their ability. Especially those of us who are trying to elevate our intelligence through various disciplines. I hear ya!

Afro-Am Professor Eugene Terry views an art exhibit with a "future" student. Photo by Haaron Roland.

Black Affairs

ATLANTA'S MURDERED CHILDREN — These are six of the Atlanta children that have been found dead and their murder remains unsolved. (AP LASERPHOTO)

Announcements

'Welcome' brunch

The Third World Women's Center is sponsoring a "Welcome to UMass" Brunch. The Brunch is mainly for the incoming Sisters and for support by sisters in the community. It will take place on Sunday, October 26 at 11:00 p.m. in the Butterfield Lounge located in Butterfield Dorm. All Sisters are welcome.

BMCP General meeting

BMCP is having a general meeting Tuesday October 28th at 5:00 p.m. The meeting will be held at the New Africa House on the first floor.

BMCP will also have an Audio-Visual Committee meeting Tuesday October 28th at 4:00 p.m. This meeting will take place in Rm 402 in the Student Union Building.

Healing of Sugar

On Friday, Saturday, Sunday, October 24, 25, and 26, and Saturday, Sunday, November 1, and 2 the Third World Theater Series presents Carlos Anderson's "The Healing of Sugar" in Hampden Theater Southwest at the University of Massachusetts.

"Sugar" is the story of the complex relationships surrounding a Black contemporary family. Sugar himself is a 30 year old man who appears to be retarded, trapped in the mental state of a frightened child. The play illuminates his "healing" as we begin to understand the reasons for his condition, through the interactions of his brother — a Viet Nam War veteran, his mother — a religious fanatic, and other family members.

"Sugar" is Amherst resident and playwright Carlos Anderson's seventh script. Mr. Anderson was recognized for his playwriting with the receipt of the Actor's Peers Award from the Negro Ensemble Company in New York City. He has also worked extensively as an artor

Event: "The Healing of Sugar"
Date: Friday, Saturday, Sunday, October 24, 25 & 26; Saturday, Sunday (November 1&2)
Time: 8:00 pm
Location: Hampden Theater, Southwest, UMass
Further Info: 545-3604
Ticket Prices: $2 for students; $3 for general ...

Martin Luther King III

The son of Martin Luther King Jr. will be appearing in front of the Student Union Building today at 2:00. He also will be endorsing President Carter for the 1980 presidential elections.

Letter to the Editor

To Black Affairs Staff:

After reading the articles that you put out on Friday Oct. 17 I had to take time out to type a note to you commending you on a great job. "Realities of UMass" was well written and reveals a lot of things that Third World people must recognize. The other articles were also very informative. Please continue to put out good articles like the ones in Friday's edition. It is greatly appreciated by your readers.

A Satisfied Reader of Black Affairs

THE AMHERST DELICATESSEN
The Amherst Delicatessen
Mon-Sat 9 AM-8 PM
Sun 9 AM-6 PM
Serving Sandwiches, Bagels & Lox, Quality Cold Cuts, & NY Cheesecake
The Carriage Shops, Amherst 549-6314

SELL IT SELL IT

POSTERS Fall Clothing
Rugs Jewelry Gifts Bamboo Blinds
Great Gifts - Great Prices Daily 10 am - 6 pm
THE MERCANTILE
AMHERST CARRIAGE SHOPS

BROTHERS WITNESSING THE LOVE OF JESUS CHRIST AS PARISH PRIESTS, EDUCATORS, MISSIONARIES IN... A RELIGIOUS COMMUNITY OF PRIESTS AND
Have you ever wondered what it's like to be a Priest or Brother?
Society of St. Edmund
VENEZUELA, ENGLAND, FRANCE, CANADA, AND UNITED STATES.

Spirit Haus
The full-line liquor store that's close and has convenient parking.
CHECK OUR WEEKLY SPECIALS ON BEERS, LIQUORS AND WINE.
Largest selection of wines in Amherst; friendly, knowledgeable staff.
KEGS - ICE - CUPS - SNACKS
338 College Street. Open till 11 p.m.
Telephone 253-5384

The rusty nail Inn
Fri. Oct. 24th
The Elevators & Signal
Sat. oct. 25
The Cardiac Kids & Martian Highway
Coming Nov. 6 George Thorogood and the Destroyers
Rt. 47 Sunderland, MA 665-4937

"Fun in the Woods" is the name of a course offered here at UMass that stresses group awareness and teamwork. The motto of the course is, you are only as strong as your weakest link.

Attention Faculty!
Stockbridge School of Agriculture's
Third Annual Fall
"WORK WEEKEND"
Nov. 1st & 2nd
To Benefit Graduation Ceremonies

Have your YARD CLEANED of all leaves and debris by some of the best landscape, turf, and aborist students available in the greater New England Area!
For a reasonable charge of $3.50p/hr./man, $3p/dump run.

Call TODAY—
for a free estimate
before our schedule fills up!
Contact: Stockbridge Student Senate Office
Tel. 545-0189

FREE advice on lawn care, trees, shrubs, house plants, etc!

243 Main Street, Northampton 586-6457

BLUE WALL
campus center
at u mass
ALL AGES WELCOME
At The Hatch Bar

Friday, Oct. 24
John Lincoln Wright
and the Sour mashboys
$2.00 cover charge

Saturday, Oct. 25
The Nervous Eaters
and the Trademarks
$2.00 cover charge

Friday—Crazy George's
50's and 60's Rock & Roll
Due to renovations, the Bluewall Beverage Service is located in the Hatch Cafeteria in the Student Union Building.
TOC sticker and valid ID required to purchase alcohol.

Fran Jasinski, a junior, takes advantage of yesterday's sunny weather to work on a wood-cut project outside the Student Union building. (Staff photo by Bill Harrold)

Five College area women to join Pentagon protest

Katie Von Flue
Collegian Correspondent

Women's Pentagon Action, a coalition protesting military, sexual, and economic violence in the lives of women, is organizing a gathering at the Pentagaon in Washington D.C. November 16 and 17.

A unity statement read at an organizational meeting in Campus Center room 904 last night, urges women to gather at the Pentagon to protest "because it is the work place of the power which threatens everyone."

According to Elizabeth Dworna, member of the local Planning Committee, the Action group grew out of the Women and Life on Earth Conference held at the University last spring. Women and Life on Earth is an Amherst based coalition involving feminism and ecology.

The two-day gathering will include workshops on women's issues , cultural events and actual demonstration. Feminist and social groups from throughout the Northeast will attend, Dworna said.

During the demonstration, the women will attempt to completely surround the Pentagon with people. It will be the first women's group protesting there since 1967. Representatives from all of the five colleges

turn to page 8.

Independent. Ambitious. Unconventional. Curious. Uncertain.

Five words that don't scare us at Digital.

In fact, if these five words describe you, we'd like to meet you.
We are the world's largest producer of minicomputers. And we've always been the ideal place for independent-minded people who want to grow fast. People who want to investigate and apply new approaches to problem solving. People who want the time and opportunity to find the right career path.
Consider us when you're ready to begin your career.
We are an equal opportunity employer, m/f.

digital
We change the way the world thinks.

See us on campus.
A Digital representative from Engineering, Customer Services Headquarters & Product Marketing Maynard, Acton, Westfield, Springfield & LSI Manufacturing, Central will be on campus on October 28, 1980 to meet Electrical, Mechanical, Industrial and Computer Engineers and Computer Science Majors
For additional information, contact:

HALLOWEEN

Blood
Clown Kits
False Nails & Lashes
Hair Coloring Spray
Eye Liners
Body Make-Up
Clown White
Bald Pates

75c to $8.00

COLLEGE DRUG
4 Main St. Amherst 253-2523

$10 off
the handbag of your choice
THRU OCT. 31
with the purchase of ANY pair of boots
STRUT
197 MAIN ST.
NORTHAMPTON

SALE!
ONE DAY ONLY...
SATURDAY, OCT. 25
20% OFF ALL STOCK
TIGHTS
LEGWARMERS
LEOTARDS
BODYSUITS
SKIRTS
DANSKIN.
Fall Fashion Colors
SAT. ONLY... FACES
A Store-full of Ideas
Downtown Amherst /Open 10-6, Mon.-Sat.

This award winning house on Wildwood Lane in Amherst is owned by Hugh and Shirley Kirley.The National Passived Solar Conference gave the design award to 20 other houses in the country.

Amherst home wins Passive Solar award

By Greg Volpe
Collegian Correspondent

A single-family home located in Amherst, along with 20 other residential and commercial buildings throughout the United States, will be honored today by the National Passive Solar Conference in its first national Passive Solar Design Award Competition.

Dr. Hal Mansfield, Deputy Director of the American sector of the International Solar Energy Society, said the awards competition attracted 400 builders, engineers, architects, and "fly-by-night" builders who submitted designs to the competition's panel of judges. Of the 20 winners, the Amherst home will be honored in the "Built, Single-Family Resident" category.

Titled "Solar Woodbox," the house located at 5 Wildwood Lane was designed by Hugh and Shirley Kirley, said Mansfield. The Kirley's, along with all other award recipients, will receive their awards and present information about their designs today in the Campus Center, said Mansfield.

Kirley, who lives in his award-winning home, said it took him and his wife eight to nine months to complete the house.

"We're pretty excited about the whole thing," Kirley said.

The categories under which the contestants submitted their designs were: commercial buildings, multi-family (apartments and condominiums), and single-family residential structures. These designs were either built, buildable, or retrofit, Mansfield said.

Retrofit construction, said Mansfield, was the addition of a Passive Solar system, one which uses no fossil fuel, to an existing building.

The seven judges of the competition, who were from engineering firms and solar magazines, analyzed the submitted designs on aestetic factors, thermal performance and economic feasibility, said Manfield.

"The purpose of the national design competition is to stimulate interest and activity in the design of Solar structures. We want to stimulate architects to begin building in the area, (solar construction) and bring the solar industry to greater national attention," said Mansfield.

Conferees seek attention

By Greg Volpe
Collegian Correspondent

The solar industry's lack of national public attention particularly in the Passive Solar industry was the concern of those who attended and participated in the 5th National Passive Solar Conference held at the University of Massachusetts this week.

The purpose of the conference, which attracted architects, engineers, government officials, educators, and solar enthusiasts, was to address moderate levels of technology in the solar industry, different from the "traditional" active technology employed in the industry.

Dr. Hal mansfield, deputy director of the American Sector of the International Solar Energy Society, contrasted "passive" with "active" solar energy by saying, "Passive Solar Energy integrates architecture and engineering techniques without the use of fossil fuel used in traditional (or "active") solar technology."

Mansfield, who called the UMass conference one of the "biggest" events in the world presently for the solar industry, said "Solar must be accepted as fast as possible by the public."

"Right now we have a problem of educating people about solar energy, and showing them that passive solar energy is not only the energy source of tomorrow, but also of today," said Mansfield.

Debora Napior, general manager of Solar Age Magazine, said "The biggest problem right now for the solar industry is that people don't believe we have the technology today to build solar products."

Karl Hahn, manager of a solar company in Nevada, said, "As a whole, the Passive Solar Industry is maturing. It is coming out with significant commercial products, which are helping the industry move forward."

★ Pentagon

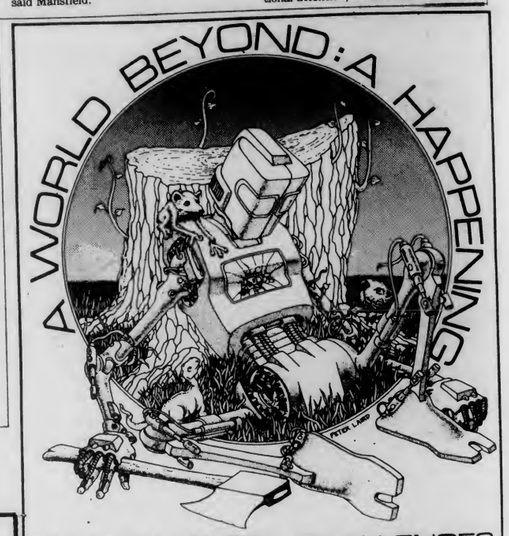
continued from page 7

will be among participants.

Buses for Washington D.C. will leave from Northampton and possibly the Campus Center Circle. Housing will also be provided.

A training workshop will be held in Amherst, Nov. 10 and 1 for those who will actually be blocking the Pentagon doors.

Interested persons should contact Emma Missouri, Women and Life on Earth Amherst Office Manager at 549-6136 or Kris Destefano, member of the Planning Committee at 545-0871.



ENVIRONMENTAL CHALLENGES AS VIEWED BY SCIENCE FICTION / PHANTASY

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1980
9 a.m. - 5 p.m.
Student Union Ballroom, University of Massachusetts/Amherst
NO ADMISSION CHARGE

FILMS
10:00 a.m.
Journey to the Far Side of the Sun (1969)
1:30 p.m.
This Island Earth (1955)

PANEL DISCUSSION
12 Noon
"Environmental Challenges As Viewed by Science Fiction/Phantasy Writers"
Authors: Jeffrey A. Carver, Robin McKinley, Frederick Pohl, Jane Yolen
Professors: Ernest Callo, Charlotte Spivak, Maria Tymoczko and Irene Black
Sponsored by THE UNIVERSITY STORE, University of Massachusetts, and THE HOLYOKE NEWS COMPANY

BOOK EXHIBIT
Thousands of Science Fiction and Phantasy Books Available to Purchase
Authors will be available for discussion and autographs

JOIN THE COLLEGIAN

Deerfield Drive-In
Route 5 & 10
South Deerfield, MA
Oct. 24 - 26
Fri Sat Sun
SENSUAL FIRE
X
also
FLY ME, the FRENCH WAY
X
Showtime 7:30
under 18 not admitted
Police to check ID's

STEEPLE JACKS
Home Cooked Food at its Finest
Breakfast-Lunch 6-2 pm
Located in the Belly of Sunderland

OVERSEAS AUTO PARTS
For the most complete line of foreign auto parts and accessories in the Pioneer Valley.
Get an extra 10% off our low prices with this ad.
offer expires Nov. 15, 1980
API
Zayre Shopping Plaza
Rt 9 Hadley, MA 01035
Tel 253-3403
authorized API distributor ®

家酒園南湖
Hunan Garden Restaurant
MANDARIN SZECHUEN CUISINE
"The Best Chinese Food"
Luncheon Specials Dinner Specials
Take-Out Service Full Cocktail Menu
Sun.-Thurs. 11:30 a.m.-10:00 p.m.
Fri. & Sat. 11:30 a.m.-11:00 p.m.
10 Belchertown Rd., at Route 9, Amherst
256-0251 256-0252

Editorial/Opinion

Solar lunacy

For the past week the University has been invaded by the Fifth Passive Solar Energy Conference. The effects of the conference on the students have been in daily evidence as the Campus Center strains to contain the 2,800 conferees, their displays and workshops.

The grumbling of inconvenienced students could be heard above the exceptionally crowded corridors as they found hallways blocked, furniture rearranged, even less study space than usual, and virtually no meeting room space available for student groups.

As has been stated by many of those involved in Conference Services, the Campus Center, due to budget cuts, can certainly use the $150,000 it will net from this conference, not to mention the prestige the University will receive for hosting New England's largest passive solar energy conference. A strong case can also be made for the necessity of such a conference to the burgeoning solar industry.

What is most objectionable, however, is that in typical University fashion, a conference of this size was booked in the middle of the semester without a single concern for student input. The Campus Center Board of Governors — the elected representative of the students who pay a $39.50 Campus Center fee each semester for the use of the building — was not notified of the conference until after it had been booked by Conference Services.

This is yet another decision that severely affects the lives of students but from which they were excluded by the administration. Chancellor Koffler and the administration have yet to grasp the necessity to include students in the decision making process for those decisions which affect our lives at the University.

Students would surely have appreciated having an event of this magnitude at hand if they had been given a part in its planning.

BOARD OF EDITORS

ROBERT E. STEIN, Editor-in-Chief, FRANZ. BASCHE, Managing Editor; JEFFREY P. BIANCHI, Graphics Manager; JONATHAN KLEIN, Business Manager; ERIC H. JANSZEN, Executive Editor; RICHARD ANGLE and JAMES MAHONEY, News Editors; JANE DeVIRGILIO, Women's Editor; JIM MORAN, Arts Editor; KAREN THOMAS, Black Affairs Editor; DONNA SULLIVAN and JONATHAN HAMILTON, Sports Editors; PAUL PRICE, Photo Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

ANDREA ATKINS, CATHERINE CLABBY, JIM KANE, ED LEVINE, GAYLE YOUNG, Associate Managing Editors; BOB CARR, Associate Graphics Manager; JOE GANNON, Associate Executive Editor; NANCY ANDERSON, Associate News Editor; LILLIAN SINGER, Associate Women's Editor; MARY KINNEAVY, Associate Arts Editor; JOYCE McLAURIN, Associate Black Affairs Editor; NANCY SUTILE, Associate Photo Editor.

BUSINESS STAFF

KATHRYN KRESS, Advertising Manager; VICKI EGGERT, Finance Manager; JOSEPH RADLEY, Circulation Manager; MICHELLE SILVERSTEIN and JAY N. LUSTIG, Assistant Advertising Managers.

The Collegian is the newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons and letters represent the personal views of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertisements lies with the individual advertisers.

USPS 333-220

Letters

For an anti-racist University

To the Editor:

The Anti-Racism team of the Student Center for Educational Research and Advocacy (SCERA) has been in existence since January, 1980 when it was mandated by the Student Senate to combat racism on campus at all levels. We have often been asked, "why do you exist, what do you do?" We would like to take this opportunity to respond to these questions, and to invite concerned and interested students, staff and faculty to join us in our efforts.

We are here because we see racism not as a few single acts or as only a perverted prejudice but as a constant feature of life in the United States. The University, as part of the United States' educational system, is no exception. Found within it are many of the problems we see on a larger scale, away from the University, in the "outside world." These problems affect us all. A eurocentric bias which espouses the superiority of Western European history, ideas and cultures while denigrating and denying the existence and contributions of "Third World" peoples and cultures, is one which too many of us have been exposed to all too often in the classrooms.

Crowded living conditions and racial tensions promote unhealthy and uneasy living situations which often erupt into violent confrontations. Here competition is the rule and cooperation the exception. What a perfect setup for when we leave the University to face a job market totally incapable of providing us all with what should be a right; that of gainful employment.

How ironic that a student can leave this University without a working understanding of the role racism plays in dividing people on the question of jobs into groups of people who have to see each other as enemies rather than people who share a common fight. With all this in mind though, we see our central task being to effectively challenge as a University community in an organized way an atmosphere which promotes and prevents us from proceeding in a progressive manner. In other words, to create, encourage and perpetuate an anti-racist University.

Given this goal, the Anti-Racism Team will be working in some specific areas this year. These include: working iwth individual contacts and racial awareness programs in the dormitory areas, acting as a resource for students who are experiencing problems related to racism, mobilizing support for different projects and struggles that take an anti-racist stand and organizing programs that develop wide participation and provide analysis that will help us understand the forces we are up against.

If these ideas interest you or if you think there are other areas we can be dealing with, your input and support would be most helpful.

Doug McCrae
Anti-Racism Team
SCERA

Anderson always a conservative

To the Editor:

As a student who has done some research into the voting record of Independent presidential candidate John Anderson, I feel compelled to share the following views with the University Community.

In the May 20 edition of the Washington Post Anderson was quoted as saying, "My heart is on the left but my pocketbook is on the right." John Anderson is, by his own admission, a lip-service liberal. Allow me to elaborate using references from the congressional voting records.

Anderson's stands on equal rights for women and blacks are cost-free liberalism. He may be for the ERA, but he voted against programs such as day care for children of working mothers and programs to assist battered wives. He may have voted for the Open Housing Act in 1968, but thereafter voted three times against housing projects and low-interest loans to provide equal opportunity in housing (in '70, '73 and '74). He has said he is for the "concept" of minimum wage, but he has consistently voted against all proposed increases in minimum wage. If it were up to Anderson, the minimum wage would be under $2 and youth and certain other employees would work for less than the minimum.

On education Anderson's record is consistentiy clear, showing little commitment to public schools and higher education. He has voted against student loans and work study programs, against vocational education programs, against federal aid to education, against construction of public schools, colleges, and laboratories, and against aid to disadvantaged and handicapped students as mandated by the Supreme Court.

John Anderson has complained about the religious impact on this election, perhaps rightfully so. This protest is questionable, however, considering Anderson's history as the author of the so-called "Jesus Amendment" to the Constitution of the United States. The amendment, which Anderson proposed in 1961, 1963 and 1965 reads as follows: "This nation devoutly recognizes the authority of the law of Jesus Christ, Savior and Ruler of nations, through whome we are bestowed the blessings of Almighty God." Does this sound like the work of a man comitted to the separation of church and state?

Anderson's campaign promises more of the same: tax breaks for corporations, a regressive 50 cent per gallon tax on gasoline, a balanced budget, and severe cuts in badly needed social and defense programs. Where is his liberalism?

I contend that John Anderson is now, and always has been, a conservative Republican. He is an intelligent, articulate Republican capitalizing on the frustrations of a nation in turmoil. Anderson is drawing the support of students and others concerned with progressive reform from their natural and long-standing ally, the Democratic Party, and diverting that support to, in effect, to promote the presidential aspirations of arch-conservative Ronald Reagan. It is clearly an application of the oldest and most effective tactic in the history of conflict; divide and conquer. For those of you who disagree with my analysis, I can only suggest that posterity will be the judge, so in ten years pick up a history book and turn to the chapter titled, "The Anderson Difference."

Hon. Timothy M. O'Leary
Northampton

Doyle: Clear cut choice

To the Editor:

While the choice presented in the presidential election does not provide a great deal of motivation to vote, we believe there is another important reason to go to the polls on November 4th. Democrat Helen "Poppy" Doyle, who is running for the First District Congressional seat is a candidate whom we can endorse and support enthusiastically. We have a unique opportunity to vote for a candidate who is committed to the issues relevant to us as students.

Poppy Doyle is an advocate for women. A staunch supporter of the Equal Rights Amendment, Poppy does not believe the ERA is a dead issue. She feels that the responsibility of all public officials is to push for ERA ratification. The ERA is a measure which must not fall victim to a right-wing political backlash. The ERA has never been a priority for her opponent, incumbent Silvio Conte. While he voted for its ratification and deadline extension, he has done little, if anything, to assure its ratification and his own party platform, which he fully endorses, has deemed the ERA superflous.

Poppy Doyle also fully supports a woman's right to determine if and when she will have children. Believing that access to abortion should be non-discriminatory, Poppy favors medicaid funding for abortion and is opposed to a Constitutional amendment prohibiting abortion. Silvio Conte opposes a woman's right to choose and does not support Medicaid funding for poor women — women who could otherwise not afford safe medical attention.

Poppy Doyle favors a moratorium on the production and proliferation of nuclear weapons and opposses both military registration and the draft. In his twenty-two years in Congress, Silvio Conte has rarely voted against a defense appropriation, including appropriations to fund the Vietnam War. He also voted against an amendment to make the recent peacetime registration voluntary.

Poppy Doyle supports a moratorium on nuclear plant construction and favors the decommissioning of nuclear plants unable to comply with comprehensive safety regulations. She feels that Congress should encourage the development and expansion of programs for safe, renewable, job-creating alternatives and mass transportation. Mr. Conte does not support a full nuclear moratorium and has consistently voted for inflationary, centralized and capital intensive energy sources, such as a synthetic fuel corporation.

On issues affecting Valley students, Poppy Doyle believes that one; the prepaid Northampton train stop at two a.m. is not sufficient rail service for this Congressional District. Poppy is also angered by recent cutbacks in BEOG student loans and believes that Congress should make a commitment to providing financial assistance to students in need.

While it is sad that we have to vote defensively in the presidential election, we find it refreshing to have such a clearcut choice in the First District Congressional race.

Jennifer Jackman
Julie Dobrow
Northampton

Loon Lake: Flashy style and fantastic reading

Loon Lake (Random House) $11.95
By. E.L. Doctorow

By Scott McGrath
Collegian Correspondent

Loon Lake, E.L. Doctorow's fourth novel (his first since Ragtime in 1975), accomplishes more of what it set out to do than his past three books. The new novel attempts to parody sentimental rags-to-riches stories by telling one, complete with a working-class hero from Paterson, New Jersey; a wealthy automobile-industry giant; an absurd Zen-influenced Poet; and a mysterious, moody woman lifted from middle-class boredom by laying down for millionaires.

Books

The characters are viciously stereotypical and the plot is fantastic; the scene is 1936-7 Depressed America. Doctorow battles all the sentimentality by pushing it to the extreme: he tells the story from at least four points-of-view, shifting them constantly and unleashing the plot in trickles. In doing so he manages to bring the story to life.

The different points-of-view lend an objectivity and humanity to the stupidity of the plot. Portions of the novel are first-person narrative by Joe of Paterson, the hero; third-person objective about the poet or the millionaire; poetry by the Poet, and poetry by Joe. The story unwinds into comprehension, with detailed and exciting metaphors which create a special music.

At the same time, the music itself, with its inherent artificiality, and showy forefront, manages to compose the parody. Themes echo and re-echo, thoughts compare and contrast fugue-like, similar ideas sound in different heads with different notes. We see the story of different aspects gathering together: it takes a composer with the skill of Doctorow to create an artiface strong enough to support the weaknesses of such rags-to-riches plots. Acknowledging this, we acknowledge the humor necessary in composing so.

Doctorow meets that gargantuan modern problem of how to tell a story with an almost tragic reliance on pure technique. In other words, flashy metaphor and dynamic structure are the things to work with, and Doctorow manages these with unrelenting beauty.

Perhaps for the first time, a hero en-route from rags to riches questions capitalism and its piggishness conscien-

turn to page 12

BE COUNTED!
VOTE
TIPS ON VOTING
2005 ABSENTEE VOTING
2006 VOTING IN AMHERST
545-1540
REQUEST TAPE BY NUMBER

UNE
Medical School
Four-year fully recognized and established Mexican Medical School, with several hundred American students enrolled. Use English textbooks, with First Semester exams in English. School combines quality education, small classes, experienced teachers, modern facilities.
Universidad Del Noreste
120 East 41 St., NY, NY 10017
(212) 594-6680
or 232-3784

Cut Class

Traditional Colorado
Seahawk
Classic
Starlight
Bouquet
Petite
Unique

Today's Your Last Chance

Pick your favorite ArtCarved class ring. Cut it out. Keep it with you for a while. Get an idea what it's like to own the ring that says, "I did it!"

Then have the genuine article fitted by the ArtCarved representative visiting campus today. You'll have our newest selection of ring styles to choose from — and a specialist who will make sure the fit is perfect. Plus, there are some incredible ArtCarved offers to cut the cost of your class ring . . .

CUT your ties with the past during our "Great Ring Exchange!" Trading your old 10K gold high school ring for a new ArtCarved college ring could save you as much as $90.

CUT the cost of a traditional or contemporary Siladium ring to just $74.95 — a special ArtCarved "Ring Week" discount up to $20.

CUT a smashing figure with a women's class ring from our exciting new "Designer Diamond Collection."

Any way you cut it, today is the best day to select your ArtCarved class ring!

ARTCARVED COLLEGE RINGS
SYMBOLIZING YOUR ABILITY TO ACHIEVE.

$20 Deposit Oct. 22, 23, 24 in the Campus Center the UNIVERSITY STORE

Deposit required. MasterCharge or VISA accepted.
© ArtCarved College Rings

ACADEMY of MUSIC
Northampton, Mass.
Western Mass Premiere Engagement Now
On Screen Daily at 7:00 and 9:00

"A JOY TO BEHOLD!
SUSANNAH FOWLE IS PURE DYNAMITE"
★★★★ First there was 'Picnic at Hanging Rock;' then 'My Brilliant Career' and now, best of all 'The Getting of Wisdom.' It is incomparably moving and powerful."
The Getting of Wisdom
AT THE GATES OF SMITH COLLEGE

START YOUR DAY WITH TIPS
1532 THE WEATHER REPORT
1515 DAILY EVENTS
1509 CONCERT INFORMATION
545-1540
Request Tapes By Number

The Nervous Eaters (who will be appearing at the Hatch on Saturday are, from left: Jeff Wilkinson, Jonathan Paley, Steve Cataldo, and Rob Skeen. (Photo courtesy of Elektra/Asylum Records)

Country rock at the Hatch tonight

By Julie Geanakakis
Collegian Staff

Grass-roots rock and roll is the feature item on the menu at the Hatch this weekend, where, on Friday night, UPC will present the coutrified music of John Lincoln Wright and the Sourmash Boys, and on Saturday night, the driving rock of The Nervous Eaters.

A Boston band, best know for their tune "Loretta," The Nervous Eaters received the title "Best Boston Band of 1979" from Jeff Roland of the Real Paper. Opening for the band will be The Trademarks, a New Wave styled band who played previously at UMass with Pastiche. They will perform at the Hatch on Saturday Oct. 25 at 8:00. General Admission is $2.00.

John Lincoln Wright and the Sourmash Boys, a country rock band of local notoriety (Mellow Bert of the Munchy Brothers cites them as a major influence), will mosey into the Hatch on Friday, Oct. 24. The opening act will be The Willow Creek Band who play goodtime, footstomping music by people like Jerry Jeff Walker, Billie Holliday, and the Outlaws.

the Hungry U Restaurant
the ideal spot for a relaxing meal
55 University Drive
Amherst
Sunday Special
Spaghetti and Meatballs
includes salad and hot garlic bread
$2.99
with this coupon

★ Halloween

continued from page 1

Harvey said a meeting Sept. 22, headed by Marjorie Lenn, director of the Office of Residential Life, determined the actual concrete proposals for this year. When Chancellor Henry Koffler approved them on Oct. 3, they became policy.

"The closing of the Campus Center, as well as the no-guest policy were instituted to keep those people from surrounding colleges and high schools who come here and trash the campus out. When students see these policies, I think they can see the rationale behind them," said Harvey.

Vice Chancellor George Beatty said, "Clearly something has to be done; what has developed in the last few years in unacceptable. Any steps taken to change those behavior pattens are justified."

"The major disagreement among students seems to be the fact that there are no activities," said Harvey. "Well, we could have activities at the last moment, but what would that accomplish?" Harvey said, "The current proposals of movies or other events would just create new problems. We just don't have the facilities for the thousands of students that would want to get in. And what would we do about those who get turned away?"

Harvey said Halloweens like the last few here are unprecedented.

"You don't see Halloween creating these problems at other campuses, and if we calm this place down for a year or two, we won't here . . ." Having events after saying there wouldn't be any would be lying to the students, said Harvey, and the students wouldn't believe them in the future.

"Thousands of crazy, anonymously masked people roaming the campus in groups make it unsafe on Halloween," said Harvey. "A message that we're trying to put out I guess would be — it's not going to be much fun this year, especially if your idea of fun is destructive fun."

★ Bond Papers

continued from page 4

The Horace Mann Bond Center has 104 steel files of in formation that includes 4,000 volumes of commercially un published works, 500 dissertations from all over the world, 42,000 ongoing bibliographical entries on minority children and state by state material on racial and other factors of unequal education. The Center is open Monday thru Fri day from 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

Professor Meyer Weinberg urges many students to read these important papers for research or pleasure when they are available for the public use. "The papers will not be ready until December, we need the staff to place the papers in a corresponding order and that takes time," he said.

I visited the Bond papers at the Tower library with Mrs. Emerson whom works with both the DuBois papers and the Bond papers, and looked at a few of the works. Just go ing through them gave me a sense of pride, knowing that a black leader had really done something for blacks to get equal education. As we looked through the box we found letters from different Black Colleges congratulating Bond on his new position as President of Lincoln University.

I was the first student to actually see these papers and that gave me a feeling of great enjoyment.

Students should take advantage of the Horace Mann Center and familiarize themselves with its resources. There is a lot of important and useful material that can be used for dissertations and personal knowledge.

JOBS AVAILABLE

The Collegian has openings for Assistant Night Production Managers. Applications will be available Monday, October 27 in the Collegian offices.

The Collegian is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer

SOUTHSIDE JOHNNY and the ASBURY JUKES
with Beaver Brown

November 2nd 1980
8 PM at the Fine Arts Center
Tickets on Sale Now
$6.50, 7.00, 7.50
Umass Students
$7.50, 8.00, 8.50 Public
Available at:
Union Records Unlimted,
TIX (UMass)
Main Street records
Platterpus
(Northampton)
No cameras, taping, food, drink or smoke.

MUSIC GALLERY
★ BASS PLAYERS ★
FRED SPENCE from FIRST RATE and GLENN JUBILEE from FX are now scheduling lessons!
CALL NOW for an appontment!
★THIS WEEK★
Featuring, 100 watt "Hot Spot" miniature monitor system, "NORTH" drums and "LEGEND" amps
also
USED - Gibson J-200, Les Paul Custom (rosewood tip, maple neck)
B.C. Rich "EAGLE," Fender "BRONCO"
all in EXCELLENT condition
Open Tue-Fri 10 a.m.-8:00 p.m.
RTE. 9 HADLEY
586-6228

★ Split Enz

continued from page 14

in their own words they've admittedly "stripped down." Are they restricting themselves or filtering out the excesses? Depends on whether you like the earlier material or their present True Colours better.

On stage two weeks ago they only used minor touches of make-up, the basic garish prime colours in their Flash Gordon meets Koko-the-Klown outfits and instrumentally stuck to the basic rock set-up of bass, guitar, drums, synthesizers, vocals and slide whistle. (O.K. so a slide whistle is a little rare) Though their arrangements aren't as "busy" as they once were, they're far more eccentric than most any electro-pop rock band this side of "down under."

To an audience of 200 or so at Stage West in "secondary market" Hartford, they ran off a 13-song set that varied in quality from the lukewarm to almost boiling. The response from the audience was in direct proportion with the highs and lows. Just as they were about to get as hot as their laser-etched record they brought the show to a sudden halt, leaving the unfulfilled crowd shouting for more.

At the beginning of the show they were a bit frayed and loose at the Enz as they worked off their nervous tension to the tune of "Frenzy," the title of an LP only released in Australia. They lived up to their strange reputation by playing six songs never released here, without so much as informing us of their titles. Also noticeably absent were tracks from their two previous U.S. releases.

Lead singer Tim Finn presented the slick patter of a veteran showman as he played the role of Master of Ceremonies. "Poorboy" and "Nobody Takes Me Seriously" were the high points from the 7 cuts they performed from True Colours.

The pinnacle of their performance came, I thought, curiously enough on the "cocktail lounge" ballad "I Hope I Never" that was hauntingly real and anything but cliche, as Tim Finn showcased his voice control and range.

Though you knew they could really wail when they want to, they treated the sparse crowd in a less than major market to a contract fulfilling perfunctory manner. Forty-seven minutes, NO ENCORE, and only once did they take any chances. "What's The Matter With You" went into a bit of an R&B bridge and short jam that differed from the record. This song is about those who needlessly moan, groan and criticize without reason and it's the best lyric to use as a basis for evaluating this one particular performance. They offer us the advice "In the heat of the moment you reap what you sow." If they are going to achieve their ambition of success in this foreign frontier, they better follow their philosophy and play their hearts out in the here and now, even if it was Sunday night in West Hartford.

★ Loon Lake

continued from page 10

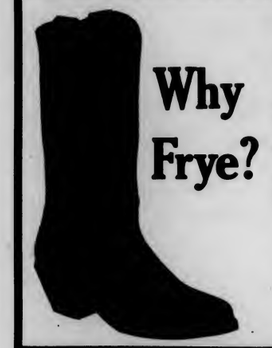
tiously and critically. Joe becomes the surrogate son and heir to the millionaire. Instead of the usual glorious rise to fame and fortune, Joe recognizes the piggish squalor of wealth. He is, after all, a former union member coming from a life of seedy poverty and thus his consciousness of the laborer's abuse by wealthy capitalists is the ironic reversal of the story. At this point, the novel leaps into the sentiment it is trying to exploit, and submits to a pool of moralizing and cheapened meaning. The seriousness of this "message" goes beyond the boundaries the author himself imposed on the novel. He seems to laugh judiciously enough at his subject, but he finally refuses to laugh at himself enough to convince the reader that he is correct.

Despite Doctorow's desire to preach to us at the end, the book is lyrically fabulous and makes for fascinating reading. It has the quality of operating on several levels of meaning; a reader could easily ignore the parody and just enjoy "the story," which should satisfy as such. The ability to write a novel that can do this is a feat in itself nowadays, and Doctorow should have another bestseller on his hands. It's a fine novel.

FOUR SEASONS

Molson Golden btl.----------9.99
Miller btl----------7.99
Bud btl----------7.99
Lite btl.----------7.99
Falstaff cans----------5.99
Johnnie Walker Red Scotch 1 litre -11.99
Mr. Boston Vodka 1.75----------8.99
S.S. Pierce #6 Blended Whiskey 1.75 ----------10.99
Kahlua 750 ml.----------9.99

Wines/Liquors
Open 9-11 PM
rte.9, hadley,ma./584-8174
in front of the malls



Why Frye?

FRYE

No one has been able to duplicate our unique Frye look. Whether it's our exclusive Classic, Western, or Casual boots, Frye has a style to fit your lifestyle. It's part of what makes Frye boots impossible to duplicate. And quality is another reason they cannot be duplicated. Frye boots are benchcrafted by skilled hands, not rolled off an assembly line. So while our styles may change, our quality and craftsmanship will always remain the same. The best.

Heartfelt Leather
103 N. Pleasant St.
Downtown Amherst
Open 10-6 Mon - Sat
Open Fridays til 8
253-5135

amc THEATRES TIMES SHOWN FOR TODAY ONLY
ADULTS $2.75 STUDENT & SR. CITIZEN WITH AMC CARD $2.25 SPECIAL ENGAGEMENTS EXCLUDED TWI-LITE SHOW $1.75 TWI-LITE SHOW LIMITED TO SEATING

HAMPSHIRE 4 584-7550 HAMPSHIRE MALL, ON CAFE SQ. RT. 9 - HADLEY, MASS

WALTER MATTHAU GLENDA JACKSON
HOPSCOTCH
Fri-Sat (4:45 @ $1.75) 7:15-9:45
Sun-Thur (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:15
Matinee (Sat, Sun) 2:00
R

MARY TYLER MOORE
DONALD SUTHERLAND
Ordinary People
Fri-Sat (4:30 @ $1.75) 7:15-9:45
Sun-Thur (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15
Matinee (Sat-Sun) 2:00
R

JAMES BROLIN
THE AMITYVILLE HORROR also: WOODSTOCK
see one on Fri or sat
all shows begin at 12:15
all seats $2.50

LOVING COUPLES
Shirley MacLaine
James Coburn
Fri-Sat (5:00 @ $1.75) 7:30-9:55
Sun-Thur (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30
Matinee (Sat, Sun) 2:15
PG

THE ROCKY HORROR PICTURE SHOW
R

The First Deadly Sin
Frank Sinatra & Faye Dunaway
Fri-Sat (5:00 @ $1.75) 7:30-9:55
Sun-Thur (6:15 @ $1.75) 8:30
Matinee (Sat, Sun) 2:15
R

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9 - HADLEY, MASS

GOLDIE HAWN
as
PRIVATE BENJAMIN
Fri-Sat (4:45 @ $1.75) 7:30-10:15
Sun-Thur (6:00 @$1.75) 8:30
Matinee (Sat, Sun) 2:00
R

It's My Turn
A funny love story.
JILL CLAYBURGH
MICHAEL DOUGLAS
Fri-Sat (5:00 @ $1.75) 7:45-10:15
Sun-Thur (6:15 @ $1.75) 8:30
Matinee (Sat, Sun) 2:15
R

TIMES SQUARE
Fri-Sat (4:45 @ $1.75) 7:30-10:00
Sun-Thur (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:15
Matinee (Sat, Sun) 2:00
R

ANTHONY HOPKINS
THE ELEPHANT MAN
Fri-Sat (4:30 @ $1.75) 7:15-10:00
Sun-Thur (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15
Matinee (Sat, Sun) 2:00
PG

Wanted:

Researchers & Organizers
To Work on
• Academic Team
• Anti Racism
• Resource Center
• Handicapped Affairs
• Support Team

Deadline Mon. Oct. 27 5 PM
apply 420 Student Union
Get Involved

Non Workstudy & Workstudy positions available

SCERA
Student Center for Educational Research & Advocacy
We are an equal opportunity employer

Explosion rips school: 64 people dead, 100 hurt

BILBAO, Spain (AP) — A powerful gas explosion ripped through a grammar school in a poverty-stricken mining town in northern Spain Thursday, killing 64 or more persons and injuring more than 100 others, officials said. All but a few of the victims were children.

The blast caused the collapse of a four-story building, one of three units of the "Marcelino Ugalde" school in Ortuella, an iron-mining region of Vizcaya province. One eyewitness said it looked as if the building "had been swallowed by an earthquake."

Rescue workers said more than 50 bodies had been recovered five hours after the blast. But sources at two hospitals in Bilbao said 64 bodies had been brought there last night.

About 30 children remained hospitalized, and doctors said six of them were in critical condition.

Rescue workers, who estimated about 250 students were in the building at the time, said they feared more bodies would be found in the debris. At least one teacher was feared dead.

Officials said a propane tank outside the shcool building exploded while it was being repaired, triggering the explosion.

★ Skafish

continued from page 14

Game" and a song about the Catholic church, wherein Jim lit incense and sprinkled the crowd with holy water.

Hopefully, by the time Skafish left the stage, Jim had received enough appreciation from the crowd to make him feel a little bit better.

After having been driven wild by Skafish, it was hard to get excited by XTC. This British band, which mixes pop sensibilities with avant-garde experimentalism, received an incredibly warm response from the audience and was clearly the mass favorite of the evening. They performed their hits, "Making Plans for Nigel," "Betery Brides," "Mekanik Dancing" and "Life Begins at the Hop" as well as many others, and according to others present, put on as fine a show as they've been known to. But for me, the highlight of the show had already passed and it was hard to regard XTC as anything more than secondary.

The venue where all this took place, 15 Lansdowne Street, deserves mention as being as fine a club as this reporter has ever been in. Like many other rock clubs, 15 Lansdowne Street is a reconverted disco. But unlike other lousy clubs, such as The Channel, 15 Lansdowne used to be an especially classy disco and this is reflected in the great setup and decor. The sound is good, the people are friendly, even the bouncers are polite. 15 Lansdowne Street is highly recommended.

Overall, this was one of the finest concerts in memory. Hopefully, Skafish will be around these parts soon. Until then, we can hope that he remains obsessed, and keeps dealing with it by making great music.

Join us for our Quick Lunch Specials
the Hungry U Restaurant
the ideal spot for a relaxing meal
from $1.99 to $2.99
Monday thru Friday

PSYCHOTHERAPY:
Individuals, couples, families. Sliding fee scale.
Psychological Services Center
545-0041

COMING ATTRACTIONS
THE UMASS ARTS COUNCIL

Is your Department interested in bringing a film series to Campus? If so, contact the UMass Arts Council, where funding is available for such projects.

Application forms (and film catalogues) are available at the Arts Council Office, 125 Herter Hall. The Council staff will be happy to assist you with information pertaining to the production aspects of your film series. Application deadline date for events planned during February or March, is Wednesday, december 10, 4 P.M.

For further info call the UMass Arts Council, 545-0202.

GRADUATING SENIORS
Get A Headstart
In The Southwest

MBA
MPA

UNIVERSITY OF ARIZONA
TUCSON
Representative on Campus
MONDAY, OCTOBER 27
In Hampshire House. Come any time between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. – including lunchtime.

NO ADVANCE APPOINTMENT NECESSARY

Other Graduate Degree Programs:
M.S. in Accounting
M.S. in Management Information Systems
M.S. in Urban Planning
Ph.D. in Economics
Ph.D. in Business Administration

Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer

ABSENTEE VOTING
BE COUNTED!
VOTE
Elections Division
Department of the State Secretary
Michael Joseph Connolly
Secretary of State

ABSENTEE BALLOTS FOR THE 1980 FEDERAL ELECTIONS WILL BE NOTARIZED IN THE MEMORIAL HALL LOBBY, ON THE FOLLOWING DATES:

Wednesday	October 22, 1980	9 AM - 5 PM
Thursday	October 23, 1980	9 AM - 5 PM
Friday	October 24, 1980	9 AM - 4 PM
Monday	October 27, 1980	9 AM - 5 PM
Tuesday	October 28, 1980	9 AM - 5 PM
Wednesday	October 29, 1980	9 AM - 5 PM
Thursday	October 30, 1980	9 AM - 4 PM
Friday	October 31, 1980	9 AM - 4 PM
Monday	November 3, 1980	9 AM - 4 PM

Sponsored by: The Division of Student Services
The Office of Alumni Affairs
The Dean of Students Office

Jimmy Skafish: obsessed star

XTC and Skafish
15 Landsdowne St., Boston
Oct. 16

By Steve Winniman
Collegian Staff

Records

So you think you have problems? Jimmy Skafish has more. Are you ugly? He's uglier. Are you lonely? He's lonlier. Are you neurotic? He's more neurotic. Are you a hermaphrodite? Got you there. Rather than go into therapy, take lots of drugs, or go to UMass, though, Jim did something more positive about his troubles. He formed Skafish, the most intriguing band around today.

A week ago at 15 Lansdowne Street, Skafish proved that they're twice as compelling live as on record. The band, sans Jimmy, came out and started the intro to "Joan Fan Club." A moment before the vocals began, Jim Skafish hit the stage and, for the rest of the show, completely dominated it.

In the flesh, Jim's appearance is far more freakish than his photographs indicate. He's over six feet tall, with gangly arms and legs. His thinning hair is clipped into a weird cross between a crewcut and a pageboy — much shorter than on his album cover. His awesome nose dwarfs that of Jimmy Durante. And yes, he really does appear to have actual breasts beneath his loose sweatshirt. Not your usual pretty pop star, by a longshot.

Skafish's songs deal mainly with his horror at being so unattractive, and with the loneliness, rejection, and lack of love that he has experienced. It's a theme that we can all relate to, for who has never felt like a freak, or experienced anguish at his or her multitide of troubles? Next to Jim Skafish, though, our own problems seem trivial.

The man is actually living out the trauma of an intelligent, affectionate, passionate individual trapped inside the body of a monster. There are parallels between Skafish and John Merrick (the Elephant Man) — another case where a grotesque exterior concealed a sweet guy underneath. But by appearing on stage and singing about them, Jim Skafish has found a unique way to exorcise his personal demons.

With themes like these (with the exception of "Work Song," a ditty about blue-collar drudgery in Skafish's hometown Chicago) one might expect the music to be dreary and depressing. Not at all. The band plays melodic, keyboard-based pop music that's a joy to listen and dance to. The music may not be original, but it's certainly exciting. One problem: in concert, Skafish perform mostly fast numbers, which generally deal with revenge and hate.

There is another side to Skafish though; on the band's debut album, Skafish, there are some slow ballads showing that Jim is really not bitter with the world, just confused and a bit impatient, but trying to accept things in his own way. The band itself is competent and extremely energetic, but throughout the show it was Jim himself who kept things rolling.

He's as energetic a performer as can be found anywhere, and his bizarre contortions and crazed dancing represent a physical expression of the feelings in his songs.

Unfortunately, Skafish was only the opener this evening, which meant that their set was limited as to time. Also, most of the audience was too keyed up for the more avant-garde sound of XTC to give Skafish's pop sound more than lukewarm appreciation.

Nevertheless, the group got to play most of their best songs, including "Disgracing the Family Name," "We'll See a Psychiatrist" "You Beautiful You," "Obsessions of

turn to page 13

Split Enz live are disappointing

Split Enz
Stage West, Hartford
Oct. 12

By Eric Myers
Collegian Correspondent

In 1976 Split Enz released Mental Notes for the American record consumer to ponder. The mass market hardly gave it a thought since their record label, then Chrysalis, provided little promotion and commercial radio gave it little airplay. Its Dali-Warholish packaging and progressive multi-genre fusions did grab the eyes and ears of a few critics and fans of the avant garde who scoured the fringes of the musical world.

Bedecked in outfits for escapees from the intergalactic vaudeville clown asylum, they hoped to overcome the obscurity handicap of hailing from the Enz of the earth — New Zealand. Having Phil Manzenera, guitar virtuoso of Roxy Music, pitch in a superb production job certainly caused a larger number of people to take a listen.

Back then, the musical arrangements were as complex and "busy" as they were visually. Cellos, saxophones and mandolins were implemented as much then as pianos, guitars and synthesizers to achieve the proper mood that accented their "Stranger Than Fiction" lyrics.

Five albums later they have achieved platinum status in Australia, a Top Fifteen record in England and recently dented America's charts at -55 with "I Got You." Whether a band becomes more successful because they become more commercial or vice versa is hard to say, but

turn to page 12

sound economy

LIMITED QUANTITIES

"The Boss Is Back"
BRUCE SPRINGSTEEN
"The River"
2 record set

$9.49

The Doors Greatest Hits"
$5.49

Talking Heads
"Remain in Light"
$4.99

Spyro Gyra
"Carnaval"
$5.49

SAVE NOW

Mon-Fri 9-5
Sat 11-4

at
THE RECORD STORE within a store

Campus Center
University of Mass

the University Store

DIRECT FROM
RADIO CITY MUSIC HALL
IN NEW YORK CITY

LIVE IN COLOR...CLOSED CIRCUIT
BIG SCREEN TV...STEREO SOUND

THE GRATEFUL DEAD

HALLOWEEN NIGHT
FRIDAY OCTOBER 31 AT 7:30

HOSTED BY
FRANKEN and DAVIS

A MONARCH/NOTEWORTHY PRODUCTION

Springfield Civic Center

5 hour concert, 15 year anniversary, backstage interviews
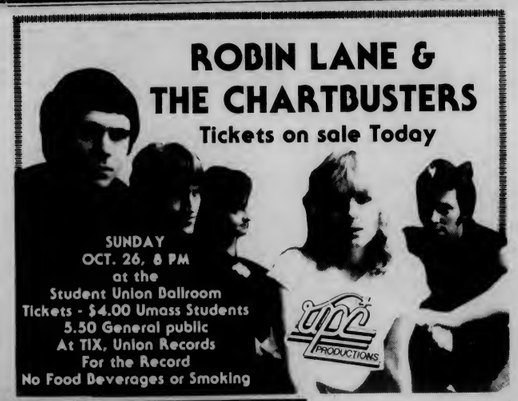
& acoustic set. . .

the SHOE BIN
187 n. pleasant st., amherst

ROBIN LANE & THE CHARTBUSTERS
Tickets on sale Today



SUNDAY
OCT. 26, 8 PM
at the
Student Union Ballroom
Tickets - $4.00 Umass Students
5.50 General public
At TIX, Union Records
For the Record
No Food Beverages or Smoking

UPC PRODUCTIONS

"AFTER A NICE, CIVILIZED GAME OF TENNIS, THERE'S NOTHING LIKE A COUPLE OF LITE BEERS."

Mr. Bubba Smith and Mr. Dick Butkus
Famous Lite Beer Drinkers

c 1980 Miller Brewing Co Milwaukee Wis

LITE BEER FROM MILLER.
EVERYTHING YOU ALWAYS WANTED IN A BEER.
AND LESS.

HEAR
TEMPEST
LIVE ON
WZZZ 91.7 fm
Saturday Oct 25th
9:30
sound by mf sound

A Refreshing Change
TACO VILLA
Quick
Wholesome
Inexpensive
in the Center of Town
(Ask Anyone)
Fri + Sat 11-1am
Sun-Thurs 11-9
Also-
in DownTown N. Ton

Calvin brings it home!
Our Amherst Store Now offers HOME DELIVERY
6 days-a-week
5 pm - 10 pm
Call 549-6838
CALVIN ICE CREAM
Carriage Shops

IF YOU LIKE GAMES, YOU'RE GONNA LOVE CREEDO's coffeehouse pleasant st northampton one block left on Rt. 5 from Rt 9 (main st)

Collegian Classifieds

To place a Collegian Classified
•Come to Collegian Office CC 113
•8:45 to 3:45 Mon-Fri
•Classified deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day

Collegian Classified Rates
•15c per word
•Student rate 10c per word
•Cash in advance
•5 consecutive days 5 % discount
•Phone number FREE

AUDIO

Complete Panasonic Stereo System Receiver, Turntable, Tapedeck, Thruster 2-way speakers excellent condition $175 or BO must sell! T.J. 253-9032

AUTO FOR SALE

Convertible 1968 LeMans auto PS good condition $750 or BO 549-5127

74 Peugeot Wag 4 cyl stand AM/FM cassette BO call Jim 1-532-5030

Lancia—1975, brown, leather, air, AM/FM. 5-speed, 27mpg, 44,000 miles $4600 584-6563

1976 Pinto mpg, well maintained, new tires, automatic, $1700 or BO 665-3672

'66 Volks RUNS great for parts call Walter 546-9072

67 mercury 60,000 mi one owner prof excellent cond best offer 549-4930 ext 296 office 549-1896 home

Plymouth Fury great condition best offer over $150 call 549-4063

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES

Address and stuff envelopes at home $800 per month possible Offer send $1 (refundable) to: Triple "S", 16243-Y78, Hesperia, CA 92345

BUZZ-BUZZARD!!!

Cheep! Cheep! Father Goose - return TEDDY or COOLA will hang me! HURRY TEX!!!! I miss New Bedford Love BUZZ

DISC JOCKEY

Want a Great Party? Why not hire a Disc Jockey! Andy 546-1164 Denis 546-6249

Professional Disc Jockey Quality Sound Randy 546-7013

ENTERTAINMENT

Dock-Risco The Rock and Disco DJ Experienced, low rates. call Bill at 549-4025

Springsteen Tickets Available Providence show only 253-9848

Springsteen Tickets available for Boston December 16 323-5757

FOUND

Found Black Male Dog in Stadium area Saturday call 6-8265 or 6-9922

Found: pair of women's (?) brown eyeglasses outside Student Union 10/22 John 586-1803

Found Three keys on brass ring in front of cottage C green across street from Hasbrouck on Oct 22 claim at the Collegian office

FREE MEAL

A free traditional vegetarian meal will be served by local Sikh Dharma members. Saturday, October 25, 12-3PM at the Amherst Bangs Community Center, call 549-6449

HELP WANTED

Overseas Jobs — Summer/year round Europe, S. America, Australia, Asia all fields $500-$1200 monthly expenses paid Sightseeing. Free info. write IJC Box 52-MA2 Corona Del Mar CA 92625

Wanted part-time radiology technician for multi-specialty group practice please call 256-8561 ext 248 M-F 8 am-4 pm

Make a dollar every raffle ticket sold on consignment supporting No Nukes call 549-6136

Lower Central Academic Center—looking for tutors in Chemistry 111 and 107, Physics 161, Economics 104, Psychology 150 and CE 240. Interested people call 5-3945 between 12-5 (Mon-Fri) Grad and Undergrad

Address and stuff envelopes at home $800 per month, possible. Any age or location. See ad under businss opportunities Triple "S".

Help wanted behind counter and also driver with own car needed. Apply in person after 5 pm at Superior Pizzeria (near North Amherst Post Office)

FOR SALE

Typewriter Olivetti 83DL perfect $190 253-2234

Gift Idea Portrait Drawings; call dennis Delap 665-2972

White Refrigerator 7.3 cu. ft. fridg with sepa ate 2.25 cu. ft. freezer stands 2'-2'x5' exc. cond $125 call 253-7367 after 5

TRS 80 48K or 16K System must sell mint condition call for details 546-7050

71 VW Squareback standard inspected $650 or BO 549-0305 after 6

Don't let them steal your tunes—take it with you! Craig underdash cassette w/slip out quick release safety feature, off/rwnd, reverse, fader, & 4 spkrs all for $100. cassette alone new 190 call Sam 256-8843 eves

Springsteen Tix for Providencel Dec 11th call after 8 pm 549-1833

Hitachi HT324 Turntable exc cond 80 or BO call Leigh 6-3277

1978 Suzuki A100 - great for around town and short trips; fantastic mileage. Price increase in Spring. $450 or BO ($50 helmet incl) call 549-3833

Free 1 male 3 month old cat, had shots, good home wanted call 253-5116

Advent FM radio separate reciever speaker type white $95

Olds student trumpet w/case $75.00 584-8933

Ovation custom Balladeer 6-string acoustic w/case $200 584-8933

Skis Hart King 185 cm wth Salomon 444 $95 Andy 549-0052

1977 Ford Granada 36,000 mi stereo, excellent condition $3,5000 after 5 PM call 549-0626

FOREIGN AUTO PARTS

Former Store Inventory Liquidation huge stock, all imported cars two days only Sat & Sun 9-5 70 Hillcrest Pl Amherst off S. Pleasant

INSTRUCTION

English Classes (ESL) Elementary, Intermediate. Two hours an afternoon, except Wednesday. Faculty/student spouses, visitors, immigrants. People's Institute, Northampton. 584-3956 NLI, P.O. Box 34, Northampton

INTERNSHIPS AVAILABLE

Legal Assistant Interns Wanted: The Legal Services Office has 8 positions available for full-time legal assistant interns for the Spring 1981 semester. Up to fifteen credits may be earned through Office of Internships. Legal assistants assist attorneys of the LSO with client interviewing, investigations, legal research, negotiations, giving advice and referrals, preparation of court forms, and attendance at hearings in District and Superior Courts, and participation in administrative hearings and federal litigation. Maintain continuing case load under supervision of attorneys. Applications available at Office of Internships, Curry Hicks Building, and inquire further at Legal Services Office, 922 Campus center. Applicationsdue November 7, 1980 at Office of Internships. Writing sample required. All third world and women students are encouraged to apply.

LEGAL SERVICES

Attorney Jason Rosenthal reasonable rates Days 584-4285, Evenings 253-7617

LOST

Gold Ring with "E" initial sentimental value $ reward call Eileen 253-3316

Nova Owners I hitched back to Boston on Friday Oct. 10 I left a brown and tan reversible jacket in your car call 6-7470

Lost gold ID bracelet of sentimental value. Andrea will give reward! Please call me 546-6212

Bronze Horseshoe Key Ring with three keys on it Friday Oct 17 on a couch in the Student Union Lounge please call Diane at 546-5429 or return them at the Collegian window thanks

Sterling Silver Bracelet with white stone. Lost Oct, 17 in maze. call 6-6862

To the person that took the wallet from Boyden racquetball courts please return the ID's to the CC Lost & Found

Lost keys—Sat nite wall across from Thoreau Reward 6-7251

Help lost very important ste of keys Saturday night at Brittany manor reward call 6-8115

Gold Chain two medallions reward contact 546-7930

Lost Gold Timex Watch in Boyden Gym sentimental value $5 reward call John 549-3589

Gold Bulova Watch on Fri Oct 17 in vicinity of Student Union substantial reward offered call 6-9602

Medium sized charcoal grey shaggy mixed breed female dog. Answers to Fenarro Lost near Amherst/Belchertown line. Please call 546-8587 or 256-6319

Lost Blue Checkbook in Northeast Dorm Area Please call 665-2592

Lost Calculator Sharp in zipper case call Korky Lois 549-0760 info carved on the back

Attention all RSO Groups: Please check your mailboxes in the Student Union for an important affirmative action survey. This form must be returned to the affirmative action officer/student senate no later than Friday October 24. Please cooperate for the benefit of all.

Help! Lg red Physics and manila Finance notebooks lost at Newman Center or SBA on Sun Oct 19 Reward call Carrie 546-4189 or 546-9382

MONTREAL EXPRESS

They're still seats available call 665-3024 for further information Paul DeLuca 69.00

PERSONALS

Undergrad Pol. Sci. Assoc. interested in becoming member? Sign-up Rm 422 Thompson

A stress management workshop will be given Sunday Oct 26 at 7:30 pm in the classroom of Moore House

Misplaced! Green Eastpack knapsack from CC Iniv Store Tue Oct 21 keep the money keep the calculators. PLEASE return my books, notebooks & eyeglasses to the place you got them. I understand that accidents can happen no questions asked reward please call Leyla 5-0320

Party—Mount Holyoke Ham Hall-Band-The-Hit Squad Oct 25 9:30 1 college ID 538-2469

Happy Birthday Micki "call me funky" Callahan

Business Career Day Luncheon Tickets on sale Monday in SBA price $4.50 for UBC members 5.00 for others on sale all next week, but tickets are limited buy early!

Micki is 20! My God—her dimples have wrinkles! Eltona

Happy 19th Birthday Candi Love best always Suite 204

Coolidge 4th Wenches do it best! The Boys

Meryl, This one's for you. Have a Happy Nineteenth, from Daybreak to somewhere in the Night.—Gordon

Happy Birthday Lisa Have a good one!

"AMAJ" I'll love you always! Sorry for no "NN" on 10/22/80 RRB

Amy Happy 22nd we miss you! Love, 608 originals

Hey Bookbinders! ready for the 80's? That means you too Wayne

For Robin (because you're you) Another year bites the dust. You're 20 now. What a women - what a wench! Happy B-day Rob. We love you so much! How do you feel about that? Hunks and kisses—B, D & C

Sheila! you sluck you! Happy 21st an another one's gone. . .watch out for those deadly smudges! Love ya, K & W

Rubin check the rack on that broad gak Happy B-day

Monster Mash—Halloween Party Poor Dick's Tue Oct 28 25c drafts 75c drinks $1 cover costumes optional sponsored by Delta Chi

SEJ—Sorry I never noticed those muscles. It goes to show that the attraction is emotional, romantic and intellectual, not physical. Lj

Stay tuned for more episodes of the continuing saga of Rapunzle and Buster

KAF Happy Birthday to the all time sweetie. Make it a good one, I'm sure you can try! Watch out for Mikes. Love ya, Me

Happy early birthday for Sunday Nancy Santaguida! Chucklet and Rosko wish you the best!

Surprise Chucklet!! Enjoy!

Monica W. How's your love life? Do you remember the weekend? your Admirer!

Chi Omega welcomes all University Women to informal rush October 27 and 29 For more information call 545-0162

Happy Birthday Janice Love Kim Lauren Janette Marge Margo Joanne Monica Kathy Marie Rebbeca

Mark Happy 22nd Birthday Love, Nancy

Oh Thomas—Dis one is fer you!! Happy B-day! R, M, M ha ha John!

Sherrie, Happy B-day on the best day ever! XO Rob! ye-ah!

KICK BACK: Lake Umbagogers invited to loon out at sleeping beauties TONITE

Jill—When you miss me during the week, just remember this—I love you—KK

Happy Birthday Glenn I'm glad to have a good friend like you that I can share good-times with love Sue

Dad! CL. S. DJ, Just because you think you're God doesn't mean you can be late, steal toothbrushes, or steal cookies. It is just because you are getting old, right? Happy Birthday. Love you! Custano & Libiaaaaa

Happy Birthday Tim-Frye! All my love, Phi Phi

Terry—your mother was right' they're all alike C. & D.

To the five delinquents in Melville, especially LM and Babushka: Better luck next time, from the Hill

Fred "Time In a Bottle" with love Teri

MLP Glad you're here DAR

Happy Birthday Dave! My roomie—I think I'll keep him. Carl

C'mon you Coolidge fourthers guess which seven you are!

To Suzanne, Geraldine, Robyn, Bruce, and Mark, I just wanted to thank-you all for helping me during a difficult time in my life. Love, K (Julie)

Lorima—the hell with Carcihomas today! Do it up on your 20th. Love, Pamela

Loramus—Happy, Happy 20th Birthday! Love, Karamus-T and Mary-Loumus-T

Porquita—Mi amiga mejor. Te quiero mucho. Feliz Cumpleanos—Juanita

Lorus—Happy 20th Birthday! Love, Rickus and Mary-Loumus

Jonathan Kohrman remember E.I.E. and yotvata in '76 call Glenn 6-5127

RIDE WANTED

To Niagra Falls/Buffalo round trip any Fr-Mon and/or Thanksgiving week. Share expenses Tel 549-1542

Ride wanted to UVM this weekend, will share expenses Call Louie 545-2172

Ride wanted to Orono or anywhere north of Portland Call Peter after 7 pm 6-6243

ROCK N' ROLL

Tempest appears tonight Oct. 24 at Pi Lambda Phil Come check it out some hot music and good partying. For info call 256-6837

ROOM WANTED

Student needs space in apt for Spring semester call Carol 546-8067

2 women seek 2 rooms House or apartment NEAR CAMPUS for Spring semester 546-9124/546-6342

Help us! We're one junior a 2 seniors who have outgrown dorm life. Looking for housing on bus route for Spring semester Call 546-7433 or 546-7427

ROOMMATE WANTED

Female own room Puffton $130 549-1156

Roommate to share a 2 bedroom apt with female student $200 per month 253-2047

Female roomate to share apt ASAP downtown Northampton 584-6139 keep trying

One or two women wanted to share two bedroom Brittany manor with two other women second semester call Gail or Barb 253-5370 after 6:00

Female looking for roommates to share apt for Spring semester call 256-6045 anytime

SERVICES

Experienced typist available Fast, neat work, reasonable rates. 546-6439

Typing; Words-Worth, 37 East Pleasant Street, Amherst, 549-1303. Double-spaced text from 95c a page. Justified resumes from $3.50 a page. Telephone dictation line. Overnight rush jobs. Your words are worth it.

Randy's Moving and Hauling—local and long distance at low price 546-5728 546-5726

Statistics Tutor Prepare for midterm, 4.50/hr. experienced graduate student 253-5764

SONGWRITERS

Folk-Singer, song writer researching song writing at UMass. If you write original folk, or country music I would like to interview you and profile your work in my Research--call Joe at 665-2840 10 pn-11:30 pm or weekends anytime

TRAVEL

Florida—The Great Getaway for Spring Break and January Term under $200 round trip jet 256-6704

WANTED

Top Dollars for class rings, gold, sterling, at Wendy's CC Concourse, twice a week

Highest prices paid for class rings, gold, and silver jewelry. See me before you sell. Daniel Smith, 25 North Pleasant St between Fotomat and Logos, Amherst M-Sat10-6 call 256-0710

Abnormal Psychology — J. Demskey

SUE, WHY'S YOUR FOOT SHAKING LIKE THAT?
I DON'T KNOW, JOAN.
SOMETIMES IT BECOMES SEPARATE FROM MY BODY, BUT WHEN I TELL IT TO STOP, THAT USUALLY WORKS. WATCH.
CUT THE SHIT, OK?!
SEE WHAT I MEAN?
OH, FOR SURE!

Under the Influence — M. Joyce

ONE FOR THE ROAD — Cindy Downing

HEY THERE JACK! DO YOU HAVE SHORTS?
MADAME, I ALWAYS WEAR UNDERWEAR PASSION
WELL HOW WAS I TO KNOW THAT THE EAST DOESN'T CALL TWO SIX-PACKS 'SHORTS'!

DOONESBURY — by Garry Trudeau

BOY, THIS IS GREAT! I'VE NEVER BEEN TO A FRATERNITY PARTY BEFORE. I'LL BET YOU DO THIS EVERY NIGHT, RIGHT?
PRETTY MUCH. SAY, J.J., I'VE BEEN WONDERING, DO YOU WEAR YOUR OVERALLS EVERYWHERE?
SURE. THEY'RE COMFORTABLE. WHAT YOU DON'T LIKE THEM?
NO, NO. I LIKE THEM FINE. IT'S JUST...
YOU'RE AFRAID I WON'T SHOW WELL FOR YOUR FRIENDS, RIGHT? WELL, DON'T WORRY. I'M PRETTY CUTE EVEN IN OVERALLS.
HEY, MIKE! CUTE DATE!
THERE YOU GO.

CROSSWORD

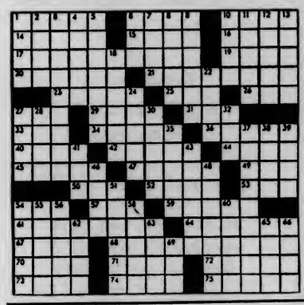
UNITED Feature Syndicate
Thursday Puzzle Solved:

ACROSS

1 Bradley and Khayyam
6 Horse-drawn vehicles
10 Decree
14 Western U.S. city
15 Breezy
16 Advantage
17 Ancient Greek jar
19 Drege
20 Man's name
21 Producing a hissing sound
23 Constellation
25 Negative word
26 Deposit
27 Enclose
29 Harmful
31 Rent
33 Besides: Comb. form
34 Denver college
36 Gardener's machine
40 Turn pages rapidly
42 Ravi's forte
44 "Rio ----"
45 Of punishment
47 One who fools another
49 Dutch name prefix
50 Parent Abbr.
52 Axis' extremity
53 N. American deer
54 100 square meters
57 Resentment
59 Puts through a sieve
61 Dances
64 Synagogue singer
67 Tardy
68 Minnesota, for one: 2 words
70 43,560 sq. ft.
71 Brings in a profit
72 Animal's claw
73 Comparative word
74 Blow of the hand
75 Rain-hail mixture

DOWN

1 Glacial formations
2 Hawaiian loincloth
3 Southerner
4 Resist control
5 More on the ball
6 Domestic carnivore
7 Affected manner
8 UCLA football
9 Conventional sign
10 Slipped
11 Utopian
12 U.S. satellite
13 Touchy
18 Barrel parts
22 Bit of information
24 Undeviating
27 Promote
28 Olympic Games event
30 ---- like a Christmas tree
32 High rock
35 Flavor
37 An old ----: Silly belief
38 Writ words
39 Indecent
41 Temporary craze
43 A widow: Rare
46 Animal's den
48 Hires different actors
51 Dies, in a way
54 Key
55 Insect
56 Newspaper edition
58 Feminine name
60 Inner Anat
62 An adolescent year
63 Stiff hair
65 Siouan language
66 Breach in relations
69 Cleo's snake



D.C. Menu

Lunch
Tuna Grinder
Broccoli Royale

Dinner
Steak/French Fried Onion Rings
Ried Cod/Tartar Sauce

COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY
SCHOOL OF INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS

For careers in Foreign Affairs, Federal, State and Local Government, International Banking and Business, The United Nations, Private Voluntary Organizations, and the Media.

For information or an application write to:
School of International Affairs
Office of Admissions
1420U International Affairs Bldg.
Columbia University
New York, New York 10027

DOWNTOWN AMHERST / 256-6004 (across from the fire station)
SKATE SALES & RENTALS
Indoor & Outdoor Skating Specialists
Boots, Plates, Wheels & Bearings in all price ranges.
GROUP RATES & PARTIES OPEN SEVEN DAYS A WEEK...10-5

To place a Collegian Classified
•Come to Collegian Office CC 113
•8:45 to 3:45 Mon-Fri
•Classified deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day

Collegian Classifieds

Collegian Classified Rates
•15c per word
•Student rate 10c per word
•Cash in advance
•5 consecutive days 5 % discount
•Phone number FREE

Fender Rhodes or Wurlitzer elec piano wanted under $700 Malcolm 6-9276

Volunteers Interns needed Cloverdale Nursery School, Florence Mon, Wed, Fri 8:45 AM - 11:45 AM or any day or more week transportation provided from 5 College Bus Northampton c[illegible] Debbie 527-5141

Accounting Tutor needed immediately call after 6 pm [illegible]

Stethescope reasonable price please call 549-3862 or 367-2817 early morning or late PM

Does Drama appeal to you? Wanted theatre reviewers for the Collegian arts staff. If you have a strong interest in plays and musicals and some writing experience (not necessarily journalistic) please apply call Debbie 549-3500

Need Costume for Masquerade Party Entire character from movies one night will pay 8.00 call 546-9730

Wanted pictures of Gary Numan Concert 10/17 at Orpheum call Emily 253-9987

WANTED TO RENT

Two responsible males looking for 2 bdrm apartment starting January pref: 2508, in Colonial Village call Bill 256-8233

Will take over lease starting Jan 1 for local 3 bdrm apt call Judy nights 253-5673

WANT TO SUBLET

Would like to sublet a 2-3 bedroom apt beginning in January call Mindy 546-4825 or Carole 546-4848 anytime

No. 3 UConn coming to Boyden

By Scott Solomon
Collegian Staff

Without question, Joe Morrone is a success story.

The University of Connecticut soccer coach has led Huskie teams to the NCAA tournament six times in the past seven years, finishing first on five occasions. Already this year, Connecticut has compiled a 15-1 record, leading the league in Division One soccer in New England, while sitting pretty at the number three spot nationally.

But the Morrone soccer history is not even near completion. On the field, Connecticut is sparked by Joe Jr., a senior co-captain who goes into tomorrow afternoon's contest with the University of Massachusetts (1 p.m. at Boyden) sporting 11 goals and nine assists, for a team leading total of 20 points. In addition, Morrone was chosen as a member of the US Olympic team.

"Each year I set three objectives for myself and for the team," Coach Morrone was saying Thursday in a phone interview from his office. "The first is to have a winning season, the second is to amongst the top two or three teams in Division One, and the third is to be selected to participate in the NCAA tournament. That third one looks pretty good right now," he said, "But BU and Rhode Island are right behind us in the polls." "We have shown consistency in our performance," Morrone said, "allowing us to be one of the top teams in New England."

Massachusetts is trying to rebound from a 2-0 loss at the hands of Rhode Island last Saturday. The Minutemen's biggest problem this year has been inconsistency. UMass has failed to put together a really effective offense, having scraped together only 13 goals in 12 games.

Still, Coach Morrone refuses to look past the struggling Minutemen.

"We can't afford to sit back and figure that we're in the tournament," he said, "We don't want to look by anyone or take them for granted. I don't see any glaring weakness, in the team (UMass), only that they have to make a commitment to soccer."

★ Football

continued from page 20

tion in Division 1-AA in running back Garry Pearson. Pearson, who has amassed 62 points on ten touchdowns and a two-point conversion, is the leading rusher on the team with 4.0 yards per carry. Quarterback Tim Fontaine has been most effective with the short outlet passes to Pearson and Brian Heyworth, his fullback. Tight end Mike Barbiasz and split end Jim Ryan have each caught two TD passes this season.

"UMass has opened up their offense somewhat from last year. They have so many weapons they can use, you have to cover the whole field defensively against them," Taylor said.

MINUTEMAN NOTEBOOK:

The Minutemen practiced at Westfield St. yesterday in preparation for their first game on artificial turf this year...BU hasn't beaten the Minutemen since 1971...Ray Larnard, whose punting saved UMass up in the rain last Saturday, was named Yankee Conference Rookie-of-the-Week...Nice Guy, But a Mad Dog on the Field Dept.: Watch junior Victor Pizzotti (No. 51) on special teams this week. He's been punishing opponents every game while playing on the kick coverage team. Last year BU had to put two men on him because he was destroying their return wedge. Could see the "Pizzotti Screen' again tomorrow...if the rain holds off tomorrow, which is expected, it will be the first time in four years that a BU-UMass game has been played in dry conditions...Last week against Maine, UMass gained 104 yards in total offense on one series of downs and still faced a fourth-and-45 situation. How, you ask? Three 15-yard penalties, that's how. Just 45 of 141 yards in penalties last week. Penalties have been a problem all year for UMass, and there will have to be a minimun of them tomorrow-- or next week's UConn game will be like kissing your Aunt Mabel...the bookies have UMass, by four, tomorrow.

—compiled by Steve Freker and Kevin Cullen

Sylvan Area Government Elections

Brown/Cashin/MacNamara will now accept nominations for officers—

President
Vice President
Treasurer

For further information and nomination papers contact your House Presidents
Nominations will close Monday, October 27th
Elections will be held Wednesday, October 29th

silverscope
Natural Cuisine
*fresh baked quiche
*breads, honey desserts
*homemade soups
*pocket sandwiches
*cappuccino * espresso
COFFEE EQUIPMENT
Coffee Beans
15 varieties
$3.99 & 89/lb.
*Wine Imported Beer Liquored Coffee
adjacent to UMass Campus
264 n. pleasant st., amherst
Mon-Sat 9 AM-Midnight Sun 11 AM-Midnight

TASTE THE BEER THAT OUTSELLS ALL THE OTHERS IN CANADA: LABATT'S.

Good news!
Labatt's, Canada's No. 1 selling beer, is now imported to the U.S.
So, now it's easier to try our Labatt's—and understand the secret of its popularity.
We think you'll discover a taste that's crisp, clean and natural—truly, the beer that tastes as good as the country it comes from.

THINK OF CANADA
THINK OF LABATT'S

© Labatt Importers, Inc., Amherst, N.Y. 1980

PS The green Labatt's bottle comes equipped with one of those twist-off tops—which can be rather handy, especially whilst one is otherwise engaged

NECKWEAR
in imported wools, silks, leathers, and more

SIENNA
FINE CLOTHING
243 Main Street, Northampton 586-6457

UMass ruggers host BU in rematch

By Frank Papsadore
Collegian Staff

The UMass Rugby Football Club hosts Boston University this Saturday in what should be a thrilling rematch between the two clubs that battled to a triple overtime BU victory last spring in the UMass Rugby Tournament.

The grudge match is slated to take place on the rugby pitch which is located by the J.V. baseball field and the track and field facilities. Three games will be played, the first starting at about 12:30.

Dave Packard, the captain of the UMass Rugby Club says that the match should be full of excitement.

"There's a lot at stake here." said Packard, "More than just a victory to improve our record, there's a lot of pride involved."

The UMass "A" team is coming off of a disheartening loss to Harvard Business School last week and hopes to improve its play this weekend.

The UMass "Bees" kept their winning streak going, improving their record to 5-1 by beating Harvard 18-3. Joe Kennedy led the scoring for the second week in a row with a sterling performance scoring two tries and kicking three conversions.

The UMass "C" team won again with a comeback victory in a sopping downpour, 11-9. The winning try was scored with just a few minutes remaining in the game off of a Harvard penalty.

★ I've had it

continued from page 20

two years before deciding not to play his senior year. "I mean, people would look at us and say, "This team is good?" But we won. No one can ever take that away from us. We won."

The sin of the whole thing is that of that team, of that best junior varsity soccer team UMass ever had there is one product (Scott Cooper) starting on the varsity this year.

One.

"I don't know," Miskin says, shaking his head. "Something's wrong. Guys had trouble with the coach, with the program in general, with school, with different things. All I know is that something's wrong when only one player from that team is starting on the varsity now. You figure it out."

They had a good time last Friday. In the end, no one from the 1977 team scored a goal in the 3-1 win over Joel Mascolo's JV's. Koutsoukos scored one, and one of the JV's put the ball in his own net.

They had fun.

The conjecture lies there, staring you in the face: In the fall of 1977, the UMass varsity soccer team went down to Storrs and beat the University of Connecticut 2-1. Two weeks later, the UMass jv's went down to UConn and returned with an identical 2-1 win. At this writing, UConn is ranked third in the nation, while UMass remains unranked in New England.

You figure it out.

•••••

Kenn Marks shut out the JV's for the first half. And then Mark Marilla, who decided not to play for the varsity this year, came in and put on a show, throwing the ball out to nearly mid-field.

"You know," Bobby Jacobs, a halfback from the 1977 team was saying. "I look at Marilla and say 'Jesus, that guy's the best goalie in New England, and he's not even playing.'" I can't figure it out. And, look, there's Mains."

To the side, stands Dave Mains, who came out of Needham in 1977 as one of the most highly-touted schoolboys in New England. Because of an injury to his heels, Mains declined the offer of his former team mates to suit up and play in the exhibition gme.

"I'll probably play in the spring," Dave Mains says.

"What?" someone asks. "Are you going back out for varsity?"

"Oh,no," Dave Mains says, waving his hands. "I'm just gonna play in the intramural league. I've had it with the real organized stuff. That's all over."

Dave Mains said good-bye to his friends and went home.

DEBATE on THE DRAFT

NEIL SHEEHAN
* reporter who broke the story of the Pentagon Papers
* former contributing editor of the N.Y. Times

vs.

REID BUCKLEY
* former contributing editor of National Review
* author of Eye of the Hurricane

Sunday October 26, 1980
Smith College McConnell Hall 7:30 p.m.

Branagan's food&spirits
Now appearing
Jimmy Kimball
Guitar and Vocals
Fridays and Saturdays
RT 9 At University Drive, Amherst

STADIUM
U. Mass. Amherst
Catch Our Weekly Specials

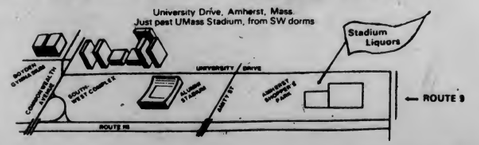
LIQUORS
Save money—Save gas—Save time
10 a.m. — 253-5595 — til 11 p.m.

KEGS—
BEER—
WINE—
LIQUORS

Miller ..... 12 oz btl. or can 7.99
Bud ..... 12 oz b tl. or can 7.99
Miller Light ..... 12 oz btl. or can 7.99
Molson ..... 9.90 case 2.75 six
Moosehead ..... 11.50 case 3.00 six
O'Keefe ..... 9.90 case 2.75 six
Lowenbrau ..... 9.50 case 2.50 six
Michelob Light
..... 7 oz. 1.45 six 8.50 case (six packs)

Cossack Vodka ..... 1.75 litre 7.99
Cossack Gin ..... 1.75 liter 8.39
Algerian Wine ..... 750 mliter 1.99
Cribari Chianti ..... 1.5 liter 2.99
Rose Garden Liebfraumilch
..... 750 ml $1.99
Keller Geister ..... 750 ml $1.99
Jim Beam Bourbon ..... 1.75 L 10.99
Canadian Mist ..... 1 liter 6.99

-Save gas-
-Save money-



500—Parking places
Soda—Ice—Munchies
-Save time

Sports

The UMass men's lacrosse team will host West Point Sunday at 1 p.m. on the lower Boyden field.

Minutewomen trounce Smith, 4-0

By Nancy Parks
Collegian Staff

NORTHAMPTON—Judy Strong, Tish Stevens, and Patty Smith all scored for the UMass women's field hockey team in their 4-0 win over Smith College here last night. The Stickers are now 14-0-0.

UMass played strong defense, allowing the Smithies just one shot on goal in the entire first half.

"We pressured Smith well. They were far better this year than they have been in past years. We worked the ball around them well," UMass coach Pam Hixon said.

Last night, Hixon got a look at freshman members of her squad in the second half.

"I'm happy that everyone got in. It was a good chance for game experience for the younger people. They gave up a few corners because of the inexperience but everyone played well," she said.

"Caroline Kavanagh has played exceptionally in the past three games. We moved her position in this game and she still played well." (Kavanagh moved from center halfback to the left halfback position.)

UMass' Judy Strong advances the ball in action earlier this season. The 14-0-0 Minutewomen take on New Hampshire this Saturday at home. (Staff photo by John Bunting)

Judy Strong started the second half with a shot on goal that went wide, and throughout the period had a number of corner shots. After the last goal in the second half Strong had a shot on goal from the top of the circle which cleared the net on a strong flick.

The scoring started late in the first period. Strong dribbled the ball downfield, passed to Stevens in the circle and Stevens hit it past the goalie.

Two more were scored before the end of the half.

Sue Caples passed to Strong who dribbled the ball into the circle and hit it into the net for her first tally of the evening.

About a minute before halftime UMass' Smith scored after a struggle in front of the net.

Early in the second half Strong scored again after Bossio brought the ball into the circle and passed to STrong.

The Minutewomen host the University of New Hampshire tomorrow at 1 p.m. at NOPE field.

Stage is set: UMass vs. BU

By Jonathan Hamilton
Collegian Staff

The stage is set for a Yankee Conference showdown. The University of Massachusetts football team travel to Nickerson Field to face Boston University this Saturday at 3:50 and an ABC regional telecast will carry the game live. Both teams, undefeated in Yankee Conference play (BU 3-0, UM 2-0), will battle to stay atop the conference and remain in the race with UConn.

"The game will probably come down to the team that makes the fewest mistakes." said Terrier head coach Rick Taylor. "We can't afford to make them against a team like UMass."

Channel 40 (ABC-TV) will carry the UMass-BU football game. Coverage starts at 3:45 p.m. on Saturday.

Also at stake is the recently released Division 1-AA poll that has the Terriers (5-1(in eighth place and the Minutemen (4-1) in ninth. Both teams are only seperated by three points in the standings and Saturday's outcome will undoubtedly eliminate one team from a post-season berth.

BU will rely heavily on their running attack. Sophomore tail back Greg Drew is the big gun in the Terrier arsenal. Drew has rushed for 629 yards in 116 attempts for an impressive 5.4 yards per carry.

If the UMass defense shuts down Drew, BU will likely go to the air with the arm of senior quarterback Jim Jensen whose favorite target is tight end Scott Phinney. Jensen has completed 54 percent of his passes including five touchdown tosses.

Defensively, BU is led by a strong linebacking corps. Among them Rick Continelli (questionable for the game with an ankle sprain) leads the team with 64 tackles. The other two linebackers, Neil McGrath and co-captain Mike Kelleher, each have 51 and 28 stops, respectively.

The Minutemen boast the number one scorer in the na-

turn to page 18

Sports Co-op: good stuff cheap

By Gerry Fahey
Special to the Collegian

What school store is selling most of its stock at last year's prices'?

The Sports Co-op. Although the Sports Co-op is presently very low on supplies, most of their gounds are on sale at 1979 prices, according to volunteer worker Paul Desjourdy.

The Sports Co-op is a Registered Student Organization that is in its fourth year of operation. The Co-op's staff consists of President Kim Beichele, Vice President John Gould, and ten to fifteen other volunteers, according to volunteer worker Jeff Schwartz.

Funded by a 10 percent mark-up on all items, the Co-op's profits from sales go directly into increasing its inventory.

This organization obtains its stock from a couple of sources. Some of their inventory is bought directly from retailers. The Co-op also receives goods by consignment. Consignment is sending items to an agent for future sales. When the Co-op sells the materials, they send the money to the consignor, which is usually the Penalty Box store in Amherst, according to Desjourdy.

Business at the Sports Co-op is rather slow because of the low stock, but should increase as soon as their supplies come in. When this happens, the assets of the Sports Co-op will total around $4,000 in cash and supplies, according to Desjourdy.

The biggest selling item at the Co-op is sneakers. However, they also offer frisbees, basketballs, soccer balls, tennis and racquetball racquets, sporting clothes and other items.

The Sports Co-op is located in the Student Union next to the Post Office. Their hours are 8:00 to 3:30, Monday through Friday.

The UMass Rugby-Football Club battles for a "side-out" in rugby action earlier this season. The UM ruggers host Boston University tomorrow afternoon at 12:30. See related story on page 19. (Photo courtesy of UM Rugby-Football Club)

"I've had it with the real organized stuff"

Kirk Simon came up with the whole idea.

"I was just thinking one day," Simon said. "Why not get the old team together and play this year's JV team?"

And, so, they did.

Kevin Cullen

Last Friday, members from the University of Massachusetts junior varsity soccer team of 1977 got together and played the 1980 jv's.

"Does anybody have cleats?" Andy Hettinger, a fullback from the 1977 team, was saying. "I don't have any cleats. I threw those things away years ago."

Someone hands Andy Hettinger a pair of cleats, a size and-a-half too small. Hettinger squeezes into them.

It is not actually the 1977 JV team. There are about seven from 1977, a few younger kids, and Tasso Koutsoukos, who played for the varsity in 1977 and now draws a paycheck from the Chicago Sting of the North American Soccer League.

For those from '77, it was a reunion. Like old times.

"We had some characters," Simon was saying. "Like Willie McEnroe. Willie was insane. He got busted one night before a game for ripping off some couches from a dorm in Southwest. The cops said he could have one phone call, so Willie called up Whole Wheat Pizza and asked them to deliver two pizzas to him in jail."

Willie McEnroe is gone. Most of them are gone.

"Jesus, I'm dying," said Russ Lyon, a midfielder from the '77 team, coming off the field. "I'm so out of shape."

Someone asks if he was in shape in 1977.

"Are you kidding?" Russ Lyon says. "We ran every day. Hard. Our coach (Joel Dryer) was a sonuvabitch. We all hated him. Sometimes we'd fight among ourselves because we were pissed of at him. But he worked us hard, and we could run anybody off the field. It was all worth it in the end, I guess."

•••••

It is said, in some respects, to think of what happened to the UMass JV soccer team of 1977. They were an unusual lot. A rag-tag mix of Bay State Leaguers, kids from the Springfield area, and one kid who could barely speak English.

They played soccer a bit differently than most teams. They weren't stylish, not nearly as skilled. They also did something that no other JV soccer team at UMass ever did.

They won. Always.

"The only thing that bothers me is that Springfield game," Simon recalled. "We tied them 3-3 on the Astroturf down in Springfield. That was the only blemish."

The only blemish on a 7-0-1 record. No one has ever done that in a UMass JV soccer season. Never.

"Hey, we were a good team," said Mark Miskin, who remained with the varsity for

turn to page 19

Iraqi missiles attack Iran base

By Tom Baldwin
Associated Press

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Five Soviet-made missiles smashed into Iran's main army garrison at Dezful in southern Iran yesterday, killing as many as 100 people, Iran said. It was the second reported Iraqi missile attack in the 35- day Persian Gulf war.

Iran's official news agency Pars said Iraq fired five surface-to-surface Frog-7 missiles into residential areas of Dezful shortly after midnight. The Frog-7 has a range of about 37 miles, just short of the distance from Iraq's eastern border to the center of the city, which houses the largest air base in the Middle East.

Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's regime said 180 Iranians were killed and 300 injured in the previous attack on Dezful three weeks ago.

Iran's President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr, who was named chairman of the nation's Supreme Defense Council on Saturday, went to Dezful yesterd ay with Hojatoleslam Khameni, a religious leader who represents Khomeini on the defense council, Tehran radio reported.

Dezful is located on a key juncture of highway, railway and pipeline networks that connect Iran's southwestern oilproducing regions with Tehran, the capital.

Hostages' fate undecided. Page 2.

In Tehran, members of the Iranian Parliament, the Majlis, recessed until today a closeddoor debate on the fate of the 52 Americans held hostage in Iran.

Tehran radio said Majlis speaker Hashemi Rafsanjani condemned the attack on Dezful and linked it to debate on the hostages.

"You should pay attention to these important events happening in the region with the incitement of the same superpower whose hostages will be discussed in the session today," it quoted the speaker as saying.

Iraq said Iranian fighterbombers raided four towns in northern Iraq and that Iraqi jets shot down an Iranian Phantom jet in a dogfight over the oil refining city of Abadan in southwestern Iran.

Iran claimed its forces recaptured key positions in the vital Iranian port city of Khorramshahr from the Iraqis, who claimed Friday to have taken complete control of it. Iraq claimed yesterday its soldiers beat back an Iranian counterattack.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
VOLUME CX, ISSUE [illegible] 39 The newspaper of the University of Massachusetts at Amherst Monday, October 27, 1980

Enveloped by smoke, two firemen extinguish a fire in a laundry room in John Adams tower early yesterday morning. Officials say two bundles of newspapers on the 21 and 22 floor caught fire at 6:30 a.m. They are calling both cases suspicious. (Staff photo by Chris Grewe)

Tuition increase likely next year

By Catherine Clabby
Collegian Staff

University students are likely to face a tuition increase next year due to the pay-your-way philosophy of Massachusetts Governor Edward King and an increasingly frugal state legislature, a Board of Trustees members said yesterday.

In an Oct. 16 memo, UMass President David C. Knapp requested that the chancellors of the three UMass campuses make recommendations on a proposed increase of $75 in undergraduate tuition, $100 in graduate tuition, and $200 for students at the UMass medical school in Worcester.

"The present administration favors a 'users's tax', UMass trustee James Krumsiek said during a telephone interview. "The governor feels people who use services should pay for them, not taxpayers."

Krumsiek said the trustees will probably turn to the Massachusetts legislature for more financial aid monies if a tuition hike is passed.

Krumsiek said in the past year the board has been advised by state legislature and the governor's office to look to students, not the state treasury, for increased funds. He said it is too early to know exactly if and how much tuition will rise next year, but does expect an icrease. Tuition money goes into a general state fund, not specifically to the University.

Krumsiek said after considering the rate of inflation and the recorded increase in disposable income in Massachusetts, "I'm comfortable with what (the increase) he (Knapp) is suggesting, it seems to me to be appropriate."

According to Carol Cohen, director of University Relations in Knapp's office, the president's proposal comes in anticipation of annual tuition review by the Board of Trustees to be held in December.

Last year the board passed a tuition policy which requires a review of tuition based on four factors: the disposable income index, the cost of higher education, a study of tuitions of public universities and colleges in New England, and the availability of financial aid funds.

"Essentially what happened was that by taking those criteria, staff here worked with various numbers and came up with a possible increase," she said.

Financial aid funds are the only criteria which has not increased Cohen said.

Cohen said Knapp will make a recommendation to the Board of Trustees Student Affairs and Budget and Finances committees after confering with the chancellors of the three UMass campuses.

"Those committees will review the facts and figures and then decide what is appropriate. They will forward their recommendations to the full Board of Trustees, which will meet Dec. 8," Cohen said.

UMass/Amherst Chacellor Henry Koffler said Thursday that the proposed hike is reasonable.

Security could handle activities

By John DiPalazzo
Collegian Staff

The UMass director of public safety said last night his department would be able to indle security arrangements if student programm g was scheduled for Halloween weekend on campus.

Gerald O'Neil spoke on Halloween safety at the Student Government Association President's Council meeting last night.

Student government leaders are currently trying to persuade university administrators to allow on-campus events to be held during the Halloween weekend.

O'Neil said increased security patrols for the weekend will cost an extra $6,000, and that, increased dormitory security will cost another $5,500.

When asked by SGA co-president Richard Moran if security forces would be able to disperse large crowds, O'Neil replied, "I'm asking for the support of the community to prevent these things."

Moran said he will be meeting with UMass Vice Chancellor of Student Affairs Dennis L. Madson today in an effort to have the ban on Halloween weekend events lifted. Madson said last week there would be no student programming planned for next weekend.

The council also briefly discussed the increases in rents and fees being proposed by the university administration.

Amherst water level still low despite weekend rainfall

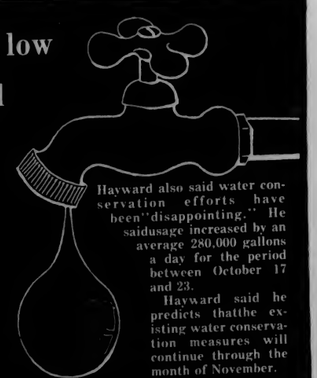
By Nemat Shafik
Collegian Correspondent

The one inch of rain that fell over the weekend will have a minimal effect on the town of Amherst's depleted water supply, according to Town Manager A. Louis Hayward.

"It will help, but it is now here near adequate," he said yesterday. "It's good, we'll take it, but it's deceptive. We need about four to five more inches."

Atkins Reservoir, which supplies most of the town's water, is down eight feet and seven inches compared to a drop of six feet and three inches Oct. 23, 1978, when the town suffered its last water crisis.

Weather forecasts predict a 10 percent change of rain for today and a 20 percent chance for Tuesday.



Hayward also said water conservation efforts have been "disappointing." He saidusage increased by an average 280,000 gallons a day for the period between October 17 and 23.

Hayward said he predicts thatthe existing water conservation measures will continue through the month of November.

World and national news

Iran continues to debate fate of hostages

By The Associated Press

Iran's Parliament debated the fate of the 52 American hostages in secret session yesterday, but put off a final decision on conditions for their release for at least one more day.

One Iranian aide linked the delay to alleged U.S. help for Iraq in its war with Iran. The United States has denied it is helping either side.

In a statement made before the session moved behind closed doors, Speaker Hashemi Rafsanjani condemned the Iraqi rocketing of the Iranian city of Dezful, where Tehran said at least 64 civilians were killed early yesterday by Sovietmade surface-to-surface missiles.

Directing his words to the foreign press, Rafsanjani said "You should pay attention to these important events happening in the region with the incitement of the same superpower whose hostages will be discussed in the session today."

The 181 deputies on hand for the session then privately debated the hostage issue for about two hours and 15 minutes before adjourning. They reportedly heard a report from a seven-member committee that drew up recommendations on the conditions that Iran should set for the release of the hostages.

At the end of the meeting, members of Parliament contacted by telephone from The Associated Press office in Beirut, Lebanon, said a second secret session would be held on today.

One deputy, Moosavi Tabrizi, said it might take a "week or 10 days" to decide the hostages issue, apparently dashing hopes the captives would be released very soon. Tabrizi said the hostage debate, scheduled to have been public, was done privately for "security reasons."

U.S. hang gliding champion Tom Haddon wins the world title in Georgia over the weekend. (AP Laserphoto)

Blacks have less chance of surviving cancer than whites

BOSTON (AP) — Blacks have less than half the chance of whites to survive certain types of cancer, according to statistics due to be released next month by the National Cancer Institute.

The latest official cancer survival figures show a marked disparity between the percentages of black and white Americans who are living five years after the disease is detected, the Boston Globe reported in its Sunday editions. The report said this could be due partly to apparent delays by blacks in seeking medical treatment for cancer.

Among all Americans, 41 percent of cancer patients are now surviving the five-year period after diagnosis, according to the report slated for release Nov. 6.

Black Americans, however, experience only a 30 percent survival rate.

The differences are even greater for particular types of cancer. For example, 42 percent of white men survive rectal cancer five years, while only 19 percent of black men do.

Sixty-eight percent of white women survive breast cancer, compared to only 49 percent of black women.

Certain other statistics also raise the possibility that blacks' cancer cases are becoming more frequent. One set of figures shows an 8 percent rise in cancer cases among blacks since the 1950s and a 25 percent increase in black cancer mortality.

Lawrence Garfinkle, chief statistician for the American Cancer Society, said there were "problems" with the incidence figures but he thought they showed an accurate trend.

"We just can't dismiss it," he told the Globe.

The figures are prompting some medical officials to call for better ways of informing blacks about cancer symptoms and the necessity of early treatment.

"The biggest problem is that there are many people who believe that cancer can't be cured — period," said Lasalle D. Leffall Jr., a Howard University surgeon and former president of the cancer society.

"The patient has to be motivated to seek care because he thinks there's something that can be done."

Coast Guard saves boat crew

BOSTON—A Coast Guard helicopter rescued a crew of 10 from a fishing vessel early yesterday after the 110-foot boat began taking on water and caught fire in stormy seas off Nantucket Island, a Coast Guard spokesman reported.

The "Terry T." of New Bedford called for help at about 3:30 a.m. when its engine room filled with about four feet of water, spokesman Mario Toscaro of the Coast Gurad's Boston Rescue Center said. When a helicopter reached it two hours later, a fire had developed and was out of control.

Skipper Ron Fowling of New Bedford and nine other crew members were safely hoisted from the vessel in a basket and flown to Otis Air Force Base at Bourne. One crew member suffered a minor hand injury but the others were unhurt, Toscano said.

Carter, Reagan cram for debate

While police and Secret Service agents converged on Cleveland for this week's climactic debate between President Carter and Republican Ronald Reagan, the two candidates spent yesterday cramming for what one pollster described as the "high-risk, high-payoff" event on nationwide television.

Reagan's top campaign staff took briefing books to Wexford, the rented country estate at Middleburg, Va., to help the GOP nominee prepare for his showdown with Carter.

The president spent the day at Camp David, Md., doing the same thing. He leaves today for Cleveland with campaign stops along the way in West Virginia and Kentucky. Reagan will confer with former President Gerald R. Ford today and head for the debate site in midafternoon tomorrow.

Digest

Associated Press

Feminists endorse Carter

WASHINGTON — President Carter is winning late-hour endorsements in critical electoral states from feminists who are only lukewarm about his policies but are turned off by the thought of Republican Ronald Reagan's election.

In recent days, feminists in Florida, Massachusetts, New York, Pennsylvania and California have announced their support for Carter in a bid to influence voters who are undecided or who plan to support independent candidate John B. Anderson.

Feminists in Michigan, Ohio and Wisconsin were expected to do the same in the next few days.

"We felt we had to do this because there are a lot of people out there waiting for signals on how women, especially, should vote in November," Lillian Clarrochi of Philadelphia said about the loosely organized endorsement campaign.

Subscription Rates

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 323 220) is published daily Monday through Friday excluding vacations, exam periods, or holidays, for $15 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

FLYING FEET OF AMHERST

Watch for our HUGE Inventory Clearance SALE coming soon!

Store Hours: Mon. 10-6 Tues. Thurs. Fri. 10-8 Wed. 12-8 Sat. 10-6
175 University Drive Amherst 253-3354

OVERSEAS AUTO PARTS

For the most complete line of foreign auto parts and accessories in the Pioneer Valley.

Get an extra 10% off our low prices with this ad.

offer expires Nov. 15, 1980

API

Zayre Shopping Plaza
Rt 9 Hadley, MA 01305
Tel 253-3403

authorized API distributor ®

Congratulations!

The 1981 INDEX would like to introduce our new Board of Editors:
Managing Editor - Lauren Pollard
Photo Editor - Leonard Pagano
Business Manager - Nancy Cramer
Fine Arts Editor - Elizabeth Wojnar
Academics Editor - Maureen McNamara
Sports Editor - Lisa Fusco
Living Editor - Carol Pfeiffer
News Editor - Stephanie Porter
Senior Editor - Cheri DiCenzo

General Meeting for all interested - come down and meet our new editors

Tuesday, October 28, 7 PM
All are invited

The INDEX
103 Campus Center
545-8848

Catch That Spirit

Esther Wilder, left, takes part in the annual shop-window painting contest in downtown Amherst Saturday while independent ad promoter William Ferrarini, right, hands out flyers. (Staff photos by Dan Drollette)

Quiet Halloween planned

By Larry Cox
Collegian Staff

Campus Center Hotel guests and authorized personnel will only be able to enter the Campus Center complex from the second level garage entrance during the upcoming Halloween weekend. All other entrances will be locked and guarded.

A Campus Center security force of 20 to 30 guards will be patrolling the complex, which will be closed from 6 p.m. to 6 a.m. on Friday and Saturday nights, while additional guards will be posted at the garage entrance, said Campus Center director William Harris. Hotel guests will be required to present their room keys to gain entrance to the building, while University personnel will have to present valid identification.

University officials said past destructive and dangerous behavior by students and visitors prompted them to adopt a no-guest policy for the residence halls and to close the Campus Center. Dorm parties will be slowed but will be open only to dorm residents and invited UMass students.

The University policies have influenced Halloween weekend plans of other residential areas in the Amherst area. Puffton Village residents received a memo from complex manager Stephen P. Puffer last week stating party regulations for the upcoming weekend.

The memo explained to the student dominated apartment dwellers that they were to submit a guest list of no more than 25 people to the manager at least three days in advance.

The memo stated the management of the complex would be employing its own security force to patrol the area. Puffer said in the memo that management set policy after hearing about the no-guest policy at the University.

He said he hoped residents would monitor their own parties and heed the 25-guest-per-apartment regulation.

Springfield looks at Anderson

By Jane DeVirgilio
and Ed Levine
Collegian Staff

SPRINGFIELD — It was an enthusiastic but largely undecided crowd who came to see Independent candidate John B. Anderson continue his uphill struggle for the presidency in the closing weeks of the campaign at the Bay State West Mall in Springfield on Friday.

Over 1,000 people lined a trail throughout the mall to shake hands with Anderson and his wife, Keke, and to laugh at the national network cameramen in pursuit who improvised "Hail to the Chief" on kazoos.

Most people questioned said that while they still were not confident about their candidate, they had come to the mall just to see Anderson.

"It's too expensive for me to shop here," said one woman "but I haven't seen any of the other candidates and I want to give him the chance to sway me."

"No, I haven't decided who I'll vote for because I don't believe in doing so until I am in the voting booth and feel my gut reaction to their names on the paper," said one elderly man. "I learned that from Thomas Dewey when he was here over 20 years ago and I still believe it," he said.

"Oh, if he's handsome in person I'll vote for him,' said his wife. After Anderson had passed and she shook his hand, she said "I don't know, I think he has on different glasses."

"He's the only candidate who doesn't speak out of the corner of his mouth," said one man, a resident of Springfield for 27 years. "I don't completely agree with him on all issues, but I think he's the most sincere."

Anderson later arrived at the podium amidst loud cheers of "go John" and "dump Carter," which swelled when he told the crowd, "I know not all the votes in Massachusetts are centered around Route 128. I believe here in Springfield you can give me the margin of victory."

At a press conference earlier, Anderson criticised the Springfield newspapers — The Morning Union, The Daily News, and The Sunday Republican, all owned by the Newhouse Chain — for endorsing Republican candidate Ronald Reagan.

"I take issue with statements in that editorial," Anderson said. "They call themselves moderate Republicans. But I do not think Reagan represents a truly moderate philosophy."

Anderson also attacked President Jimmy Carter for not campaigning until the last few weeks and hiding behind the issue of the 52 American hostages in Iran.

"Once he (Carter) dispatched Sen. Edward Kennedy as a rival, he changed course," Anderson said. "He found it convenient to assume the role of a campaigner when he sought fit to do so."

After the candidate had been whisked away by Secret Service agents and the crowd was left with a decision to be made in two short weeks, an unaffected janitor swept up around the podium and said, "I'm a Carter man myself. I'd rather be picking up after him than after John B."

Independent presidential candidate John B. Anderson addresses a news conference during a campaign appearance in Springfield Friday. (Staff photo by Kris Craig)

Life on the campaign trail: mad passion and boredom

By Ed Levine
Collegian Staff

SPRINGFIELD—Life for a reporter on the campaign trail is a lot like Tim Crouse described it in his book on the press who covered the 1972 presidential campaign, Boys on the Bus, at least according to a veteran Washington Post reporter who's currently following Independent presidential hopeful John B. Anderson.

"You live in a funny, different world from anybody else," said Post reporter Bill Peterson. "You live in a kind of fuesiage or cocoon, hopping from city to city or state to state. That impression (in the book) is pretty accurate.

In his book, Crouse described the antics of the press corps during the 1972 elections, from their wild parties and drinking to the rush to call in their stories and beat the competition. Crouse also described the loneliness of the work and long hours involved. Peterson echoed those sentiments.

"It isn't as fun as it seems. That glamour wears out after four days and it gets to be a grind," Peterson said. "You stay in hotels every night. You give up your personal life for a year. I've been home five weekends in the past year."

Peterson said he saw his wife and two children last weekend, the first time in several weeks. He also said his job involves some very difficult working conditions and forces him to work in some strange circumstances.

"You write on buses and planes. You learn to write fast and you can't say what you really want to. It's sort of like being a prostitute. There are long periods of inactivity, dispersed with moments of mad passion when you're busy," Peterson said.

Among the travelling press, those moments of inactivity are usually taken up by some of the wild antics described by Crouse. When Anderson appeared before a press conference in the Bay State West complex on Friday, for example, television crew members welcomed him with a round of "Hail to the Chief" played on kazoos. The reporters also carry whistles, which they blow when the press plane is taking off or landing.

"It's a defense mechanism. It's sort of a release from tensions of the long days, short sleep and the boredom. You sort of need it to survive," he said.

Peterson, who has been with the Post for five years, previously covered Republican contenders John Conolley, Howard Baker, George Bush and Robert Dole. Covering the Anderson campaign, he said, is different from covering the "major" candidates.

"It's a dramatic human story of a man working against the odds," he said of Anderson's campaign. "It's kind of a funny atmosphere. Most of us have been with losers before. With Anderson, there's always something going wrong. There's kind of an air of sustained whimsy."

As for the candidate, Peterson said he does not think Anderson has a chance of getting elected but he described the campaign as a "fascinating experiment."

"Anderson is the most cerebral candidate since Adlai Stevenson. He enjoys verbal combat. It's more like following a travelling seminar," Peterson said.

Peterson said he is one of about 60 members of the press corps following Anderson, including newspaper reporters and the network television crews. In addition to the Post, the New York Times, the Los Angeles Times, Knight-Ridder News Service, United Press Internation, The Associated Press, Time, Newsweek, and the Detroit News regularly follow Anderson in addition to the television networks and several other newspapers who follow him periodically.

Two journalists debate draft

By Carla Lesh
Collegian Staff

They disagreed about whether or not to reinstate the draft, but they agreed that women should not be drafted even if men are.

In a debate at Smith College last night Neil Sheehan, contributing reporter for the New York Times, argued against the draft and Reid Buckley, writer and editor, argued for the draft.

Sheehan, the reporter who was responsible for the Pentagon Papers story, and Buckley, contributing editor to National Review and Triumph magazines, agreed that women should not be drafted.

Buckley, arguing for the draft, opened the debate by stating that he was against the draft.

"No one with a libertarian streak in his soul should like it. However, the volunteer army experiment has failed to provide enough men to serve in the Armed Forces," he said.

Buckley said the Soviet Union is determined to take over the world and that the United States must be armed and ready to face them.

"The United States is in clear and present danger from the U.S.S.R. We have an enemy that is determined to bury us," Buckley said.

He said skilled manpower is needed to fill the deficiencies that have formed since the draft was ended in 1973. Buckley said that the standards of the armed forces have lowered and that by reinstating the draft there will be more men to work with and the standards will go up.

Sheehan argued it is not the lack of manpower that is the trouble in today's armed forces but the generals who are to blame.

Lights out

The center of Amherst and parts of campus were plunged into darkness around 10 p.m. last night when the electrical power failed. A spokeswoman from the Western Massachusetts Electric Co. said the company was unsure why the power failed since there was no storm and there were no reported car accidents in the area.

Officials were still trying to determine the cause of the failure at press time and could not say how long it would take to resore power. Dormitories in Central and Orchard Hill residential area, The Newman Center, Fine Arts Center and Cottage B were reportedly affected by the black-out. In town, areas along East Pleasant Street, North Pleasant Street and North Prospect Street lost power.

A sure sign that the cold weather is here, is William and Douglas loading their truck with wood at a farm in Whately. (Staff photo by Paul Price)

King III says Carter OK

By Timothy Tonner
Collegian Staff

Dr. Martin Luther King III said President Carter can provide the leadership the country needs, during an endorsement speech Friday on the steps of the Student Union Building.

The speech by the 23-year-old son of the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was sponsored by the Carter-Mondale re-election committee on campus.

"If this country is to be the greatest, it must show positive leadership," said King to an audience of 220 people.

"Carter has not been a rose in the garden but he's a lot better than we had in other administrations," he said.

King stressed the importance of the United States having a working relationship with Africa because it has an abundance of resources. He said the Carter administration has done well in maintaining African relations, pointing to U.S. support of majority rule in Rhodesia.

King, reminded his audience that it was students who made the civil rights political movements so successful and urged UMass students to vote on Nov. 4.

He told students that Republican candidate Ronald Reagan is not the candidate to bring about future progress. He said he does not understand how people can support someone who is so old.

King said he was surprised at Dr. Ralph Abernathy's endorsement of Reagan.

"I think Dr. Abernathy is off key on this. It's frightening to me that he would do such a thing," King said.

Today's paper was brought to you by:

Gayle Young, slot editor; Linda Reyer, lay-out technician; Dale Thompson, copy editor; Chris Grewe, darkroom technician; Anne Cronin, illustrator; Carol Rosenberg, special effects.

Composing Room: Marsha, Michael, Grace, Ria, and Dammit Janet

Be Involved

The Undergraduate Student Senate needs people to apply for Committee Positions. Immediate positions in Nominating Subcommittee are available. There are also positions available in Finance, Budgets, Coordinating Committee, Governmental Affairs, Academic Affairs, Rents & Fees & Public Policy. Please come up to the Senate Office to apply.

Deadline for Nominating Sub-Committee is Wednesday at 12 noon.

IT PAYS TO MIDASIZE

Do you know the seven signs of a

BRAKE DOWN

Come to Midas for your free brake inspection and find out!

SUPER SAVER
Silver Knight* Muffler
$19.95 installed

* Silver Knight mufflers fit most U.S. cars and are unconditionally guaranteed for one year at this MIDAS shop.

SHOCK VALUE

MIDAS sells dependable, durable Bodyguard shocks. They fit most domestic cars and we'll install them in 30 min. or less

$9.95 EACH INSTALLED

586-4840 MIDAS 143 King St., Northampton

MON.-FRI. 8:00-5:30 SATURDAY 8:00-2:00

the Hungry U Restaurant

DINNER SPECIALS

the ideal spot for a relaxing meal

MANICOTTI DINNER FOR TWO MONDAY $7.95
Includes entree, garlic bread & tossed salad.

LASAGNA DINNER FOR TWO TUESDAY $7.95
Includes entree, garlic bread & tossed salad

VEAL STEAK PARMESIAN DINNER FOR TWO $7.95 WEDNESDAY
Includes entree, garlic bread & tossed salad

55 University Drive Amherst 549-5713

Elephant Man: Two interpretations

The play — a lonely futility

By Debbie Wallace
Collegian Staff

Helpessness in the past, desertion in the present and an empty future characterize the life of a grossly different human being: the Elephant Man.

The play, "The Elephant Man", was presented by the American Theater Productions Inc., a New York based touring company, Wednesday Oct. 22 at the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall.

It is the true story of a John Merrick who lived in a London hospital from 1886 to his death in 1890. Merrick was born with an oversized head with a sponge cauliflower-like growth on one side, a useless right arm longer than normal, and a hip disfunction. His distorted face had a lump for a nose and one eye almost covered by the growth. Physically, he could never smile, but only weep.

In the play, Merrick's early life is spent as a circus freak where he is exploited by a selfish carnival fat man.

A famous doctor of anatomy, Frederick Treves, discovers Merrick and rescues him from his humiliating life, bringing him to the London Hospital. Treves makes life comfortable for him, but has great difficulty finding nurses for Merrick since they leave in horror, even when prepared with photographs and a detailed description.

However, Mrs. Kendal, a noteworthy actress is called upon to visit Merrick and is not the least bit upset by his looks. Joan Grant, as Mrs. Kendal, showed a great strenght in her voice and action. Her performance exhibited a great range--from giddy, and fun-loving, to compassionate and moving.

Courtney Burr, as the Elephant Man, does not wear excessive make-up or costumes to depict his gruesome appearance. Early in the play, he waers only a pair of briefs and distorts parts of his body as his appearance is described by the doctor during a slide presentation. Treves shows actual photographs of Merrick taken at the London Hospital.

Burr is consistent with these gestures and body contortions throughout the play, walking with a cane, bending to the pain in his right hip, and using only his good hand. His voice, shrill and whiny with a childlike, high-pitched edge, is the perfect touch to a complete characterization.

Mrs. Kendal decides Merrick should be introduced to her friends and acquaintances and invites lords, important businessmen and even a prince to meet Merrick. They too see his good qualities, his intelligence and wit, and decide, individually, he has something to be desired.

The play raises many questions about what the norm is, what it means to lose individuality as you begin to fit into society, and what humiliation one must suffer in order to survive.

As a live visual and emotional medium, the theater is an excellent forum to reveal this story. Bernard Pomerance, the author of the play, chose to leave much of the physical description to our imagination so that we can better empathize with Merrick.

We go away with a different sense of suffering, and of what is terrifying. The highly emotional and evocative performances of each of the cast members, especially Garner and Burr, result in a moving presentation, one that not only allows us to look at ourselves, but forces us to see ourselves mirrored in a grossly different, yet feeling and thinking human being.

Having escaped from a sadistic circus owner who has exhibited him as a sideshow freak, John Hurt (as the title character) arrives at London's Liverpool Street Station in the motion picture The Elephant Man, a Brooksfilm Production released by Paramount Pictures.

The film — monster and man

By Stephen Murphy
Collegian Staff

"People fear what they do not understand."

The words of John Merrick, the horribly twisted and deformed Elephant Man, express one of this film's main thematic concerns. It is a truth which can be carried a step further; not only do we fear what we misunderstand, we loathe and ridicule it as well. Ask the Elephant Man, he knew.

John Merrick, a real person, suffered from a physical disorder that caused his head and body to develop grotesquely. His head was unbelievably huge, with protrusions of flesh and bone. One eye was almost hidden; the mouth, an unclosable gap. His body was covered with cauliflower-like clumps on skin and his bones were painfully curved. His right arm was a bloated useless object. But his mind was perfectly normal.

Director David Lynch (who wrote and directed the midnight flick Eraserhead) has crafted his film around Merrick's plight. Unlike the stage production, which infuses levity into the story of the The Elephant Man, which Lynch's work remains somber. Merrick is viewed in all his sad bizarreness—the make-up is convincing as hell. Yet we overcome our initial feelings of repulsion and learn to see him for the man he truly is, the beauty within the beast.

Or do we? John Hurt's performance as Merrick is as convincing as it is bizarre. Yet a serious ambiguity arises. Can we, as an audience, truly feel for such a strange in-

turn to page 14

LIVE! ON STAGE!

BILL HANNEY presents THE ORIGINAL BEATLEMANIA®

DIRECT FROM 3RD YEAR ON BROADWAY

LIVE ON STAGE!

OCTOBER 29 - NOVEMBER 2
7 PERFORMANCES ONLY
WED., THURS., FRI.—8 PM; SAT.: 6:30 & 9:30; SUN. 3 & 7 PM
TICKETS $12.50-$10.00-$8.50
ALL SEATS RESERVED
TICKETS AT BOX OFFICE — NOON TO 9 PM
AND AT ALL TICKETRON OUTLETS
PARAMOUNT
MAIN ST. — AT THE ARCH — SPRINGFIELD, MASS.
TELEPHONE 734-5706

THE WOK

Chinese Home Style Cooking

COMPLETE TAKE-OUT MENU

AMPLE PARKING

LUNCHEON & DINNER SPECIALS

COCKTAIL LOUNGE

MON. - THURS. 11:30 AM - 10 PM • FRI. & SAT. 11:30 AM TO 12:00 PM
SUN. & HOLIDAYS 1 PM TO 10 PM • LUNCHEONS 11:30 AM - 3 PM
EXCEPT HOLIDAYS

48 RUSSELL ST. HADLEY Call 586-1202

Second Anniversary Dinner Specials

Available on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday
3:00 p.m. - 10:00 p.m.

SPECIAL

All Dinners come with a beer, wine or bar drink

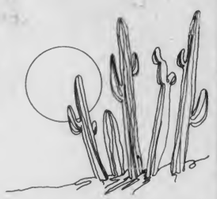
$4.75

1. Beef w/Mixed veg. & (2) Fried Shrimp & Roast Pork Fried Rice
2. Chicken w/Mixed Veg & (2) Terriyaki Beef & Roast Pork Fried Rice
3. Shrimp w/Mixed Veg. & (1) Egg Roll & Roast Pork Fried Rice
4. Scallop w/Mixed Veg & (4) Chicken Fingers & Roast Pork Fried Rice
5. Sweet & Sour Chicken & Roast pork Fried Rice
6. Sweet & Sour Pork & Roast Pork Fried Rice
7. Sweet & Sour Shrimp & Roast Pork Fried Rice

Moo Shi Dishes (Szechuan Hot)

8. Moo Shi Chicken & Roast Pork Fried Rice
9. Moo Shi Pork & Roast Pork Fried Rice
10. Moo Shi Shrimp & Roast Pork Fried Rice

BE COUNTED!
VOTE
TIPS ON VOTING
2005 ABSENTEE VOTING
2006 VOTING IN AMHERST
545-1540
REQUEST TAPE BY NUMBER

GRADUATING SENIORS
Get A Headstart
In The Southwest
MBA
MPA


UNIVERSITY OF ARIZONA
TUCSON
Representative on Campus
MONDAY, OCTOBER 27
In Hampshire House. Come any time between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. – including lunchtime.
NO ADVANCE APPOINTMENT NECESSARY
Other Graduate Degree Programs:
M.S. in Accounting
M.S. in Management Information Systems
M.S. in Urban Planning
Ph.D. in Economics
Ph.D. in Business Administration
Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer

Hampshire Ethical Hypnosis Center
Milton H. Askinoss A.A.E.H.
• Weight control • Nail biting • Improve concentration • Insomnia • Bed wetting
• Improve study habits • Relaxation • Fear of heights • Memory improvement
• Stop smoking • Self confidence • Sexual problems • Improve sports ability • Fear of flying
Call or write for free brochure
• On-going classes for self-hypnosis
Special Fees • College Students & Senior Citizens
Lecture demonstrations
The Farrick Building, Rte. 9, Hadley, Mass.
3/10 mile Hamp. Mall (Next to Rocky's Hardware)
584-1919 By Appt. Only

NOW AT
Time Out

2 TV's
37 N. Pleasant
256-0471
Beer, Free Popcorn,
Something New
Lunch served daily 11-2

Talk with the Collegian
The Collegian would like to invite all interested members of the campus community to attend the semester's first News Council.
The 7:30 p.m. meeting in Campus Center room 917 will be held on Wednesday, Oct. 29 and offers an opportunity to meet the Collegian Board of Editors to discuss the paper's coverage of the campus. Contact Rob Stein, Editor-in-Chief, at 545-3500 if you have any questions.

"BARDWELL HAS THE EXPERIENCE IN COUNTY GOVERNMENT!"

VOTE-NOV 4th
AND HELP
ELECT
CORY
BARDWELL
WE NEED THIS MAN
HAMPSHIRE COUNTY COMMISSIONER
PAID FOR BY COMMITTEE TO ELECT A. CORY BARDWELL

Everything for Halloween

Check Our LOW Prices
Choose full head masks or create your own unique costume with these:
SPOOKTACULAR SELECTIONS
THEATRICAL MAKEUP, COLORED HAIRSPRAY, GREASE PAINTS, TOOTH OUT, BEARDS, FEET, HANDS, HATS, SPIRIT GUM, STAGE BLOOD, MUSTACHES, NOSES, FANGS, TEETH, WIGS, HATS AND BROOMS, WIGS, HEAD PIECES, LIQUID LATEX, STAGE WARTS, SPOCK EARS, STRANGE SPECS, ARROW THRU HEAD, DEVILS HORNS AND TAIL, BUNNY EARS, AND A VARIETY OF SPECIALTY ITEMS.
MOROSE MASQUERADES
MR LURCH / UNCLE VAL / CHEWBACCA / ALIAS MR HIDE / DARTH VADER
BIGFOOT / VAMPIRE / WITCH / DEAMON / SKULLHEAD
WOLFMAN / WEREWOLF / OLD TIMER / DRAGON FACE / DEATH CYBORG
NEW ADDITIONS FULL MASKS
YODA · UGNOUGHT · SPOCK · VULCAN MASTER · KLINGON
NEW FOR KIDS
SESAME STREET FULL COSTUMES
FLAME RETARDANT
open daily and Saturday 8-5:15 Thurs. nite until 9:00pm
H.L. CHILDS & SON
25 State St. Northampton

STILL BUYING
AT HIGHEST
CA$H PRICE$
CLASS RINGS
Gold & Silver Jewelry

See me when you Sell
DANIEL SMITH
Permanently located between Fotomat and Logos
25 North Pleasant St.
Amherst
256-0710
Monday thru Saturday
10 AM to 6 PM
MEMBER AMHERST CHAMBER OF COMMERCE LICENSED BY TOWN OF AMHERST AND STATE OF MASS

UMASS Ski Club
BUSH BLITZ WEEK
Sugarbush Ski Week
Hotel $159 Cond $144
Jan 25 - 30
Deposits taken at table on CC Concourse Oct 27-31
Sign-Up for FREE RAFFLE
Prize: Free Sugarbush Week
Drop coupon off at table
COUPON
Name _____
Address _____
Phone _____

MIDNIGHT MADNESS SALE
FRIDAY, OCTOBER 31st, 1980
9:30 a.m. - 8:00 p.m. 25% off
8:00 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. 30% off
9:00 p.m. - 10:00 p.m. 35% off
10:00 p.m. - 11:00 p.m. 40% off
11:00 p.m. - Midnight 45% off
At Midnight 50% off!
BOOKS, BIBLES and MUSIC
* Special BONUS for costume-wearers!
logos book store
33 Main St. Northampton
586-4112

amc THEATRES
TIMES SHOWN FOR TODAY ONLY
ADULTS $2.75 STUDENT & SR. CITIZEN WITH AMC CARD $2.25 SPECIAL ENGAGEMENTS EXCLUDED TWILITE SHOW $1.75 TWILITE SHOW LIMITED TO SEATING
HAMPSHIRE 4
584-7550 HAMP. MALL ON CAFE SQ.—RT. 9, HADLEY, MASS.
DONALD SUTHERLAND
Ordinary People
R (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15
LOVING COUPLES
PG (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30
HOPSCOTCH
R (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:15
THE FIRST DEADLY SIN
R (6:15 @ $1.75) 8:30
Movie and Dinner only $5.50
Have your choice of 5 different meals at the Pewter Pot Rest. in the Hampshire Mall and see one of the eight movies in this ad (Sun-THur only)
SHOPPER'S SHOW FREE!
Thursdays at 1:00 P.M. Oct. 30 Lost & Found with George Segal and Glenda Jackson
MOUNTAIN FARMS 4
584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9 HADLEY, MASS.
GOLDIE HAWN as PRIVATE BENJAMIN
R (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30
It's My Turn
R (6:15 @ $1 75) 8:30
TIMES SQUARE
R (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:15
ANTHONY HOPKINS
THE ELEPHANT MAN
PG (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15

Editorial/Opinion

Last chance

"Jeez, Halloween's only four days away. Figure out what you're gonna be yet?"

"I don't know, I'm not too psyched this year. I was thinking about blowing it off."

"How come?"

"Haven't you heard? The University's going fascist for the weekend."

"What do you mean?"

"I mean they're importing storm troopers from the Boston and Worcester campuses to keep the peace, we're not allowed to have guests in our rooms, all social events are closed to so-called outsiders, and they're closing the campus center. Come on, man, that's a police state if I ever heard of one."

Bob Conte

"Well, it has been pretty crazy the last couple of years."

"I realize that, but there is such a thing as justifiable vandalism, you know."

"What?!?"

"Well, remember when you came up here last September and saw that feeble little red picket fence around the library?"

"Yeh."

"And those insipid hand-made signs that said your library will be closed indefinitely?"

"Uh-huh."

"Remember how angry you were because nobody told you about it until you got up here, how you screamed about the sheer insanity of this place?"

"Sure."

"Now, remember how gratified you felt when you finally got inside that fence last Halloween night and merrily stomped all over that black plastic sheet and rolled those junkyard tires all the way to Whitmore and danced around the loose hay bales with girls you never met before and laughed like hell at everybody's costume? Didn't that almost make up for a semester's worth of Goodell?"

"Yeh, that was a pretty good time. I picked up a nun."

"See what I mean?"

"But it's just too crazy! There's too much damage and too many people getting hurt."

"I know, I know. It might not be so bad if everybody stayed straight. I swear, the University should require that every incoming freshman take a seminar on responsible drug abuse."

"Plus you know that the press is just waiting for something to go wrong so they can have enough rumors to twist and exaggerate for their annual UMass disaster story."

"Oh, that doesn't bother me."

"It doesn't bother you that the only thing that some people ever hear about this place is how much violence and destruction we cause every Halloween?"

"What do you think, that every farmer in Iowa picks up his newspaper every Nov. first and says, 'Oh, shit honey, those rapscallions in Amherst are at it again?' "

"I mean people who live around here."

"People who live around here should know better than that. If they're stupid enough to believe that garbage, then that's their problem."

"But some of it's true and you know it . . ."

"Do the newspapers every say that 9,900 UMass students dress in funny clothes, put a little buzz on and had a terrific time while some messed around a little with a white elephant library? That's nothing, man! A hundred assholes get twisted out of their minds and decide to destroy the campus and all of a sudden it's UMass Horrors time again!"

"But the administration has to do something or else it'll happen all over again."

"I know but, dammit, they're screwing up the best party of the year."

"Sucks, huh?"

"And I'm a senior, too! This Halloween was gonna be my last stab at complete childish idiocy. I had this excellent cockroach costume all figured out . . ."

Bob Conte is a Collegian columnist.

Carter: Record speaks for itself

During the past year, President Carter has been the target of attacks from both the left and the right. The left stating that he has ignored social programs; the right stating that he is responsible for "too much government." These attacks are shallow and unfounded on fact.

My purpose, then, is to present to you, as rational decision makers, President Carter's record so that you may judge hs performance — not on mere accusations but on fact.

James Garrity

To begin with, those who claim Carter can't get along with Congress are misinformed. This Democratic President has successfully passed 80 percent of his legislation through Congress.

Among the legislation he has passed:

*This country's first comprehensive Energy Policy, promoting conservation, promoting alternative energy resources and phasing out nuclear power.

*A 73 percent increase of benefits to education over the past four years. In addition, he created an independent, cabinet-level Department of Education.

*This country's first comprehensive urban policy, the Urban Development Action Grant program. Through this program, older cities and towns like Springfield, Lynn and Lowell have become revitalized.

*A constant increase in the minimum wage.

*Revitalization of the Social Security system along with continued increases in benefits.

Of the 44 women serving on the Federal Judiciary, President Carter has appointed 39 of them. He has appointed more minorities to the Federal Judiciary than all other Presidents combined.

He was responsible for the historic Mideast Peace Accords, and was instrumental in the negotiation for majority rule in Rhodesia. His commitment to human rights has been unceasing and has made America a new home for Cambodian and Cuban refugees and for Jews persecuted in the Soviet Union.

President Carter is still working to heal the wounds of Vietnam. In 1977 he pardoned all draft evaders. Since 1976, he has consistently increased medical, educational and employment aid to Vietnam Veterans.

His goals for the future include a National Health Insurance program together with hospital cost controls, to stop the skyrocketing cost of health care.. His recent reindustrialization program will reverse the decade along side of the auto and steel industries.

Carter's record is progressive, consistent and realistic. This progress can only continue with his re-election.

Let's look for a moment at Carter's opponents.

Based on his record, Republican Ronald Reagan stands against National Health Insurance, against recognition of China, against Social Security increases; he is for nuclear power, for a new weapons buildup. He would scrap SALT II, scrap the Department of Education and scrap the Equal Rights Amendment. In short, all of the progressive achievements of the Carter Administration would be swept away in the Cold War nostalgia of a Reagan presidency.

Reagan's conservatism is no surprise to us, but John Anderson's conservatism might be.

On college campuses, Anderson has been seen as the "liberal alternative," but based on his 20 year record in Congress, Anderson is in fact just another Republican. During his career he has voted against loans and grants for needy college students, against educational educational aid for the disadvantaged and handicapped, against National Health Insurance, against labor law reform; he is for drastic tax cuts, for the Neutron Bomb, for nuclear power, and for a sub minimum wage for teenagers. During the Vietnam War, he praised the bombing of Haifong Harbor and Nixon's invasion of Cambodia. Can six months of progressive rhetoric nullify 20 years of Republican conservatism? If Anderson can change so quickly, what would prevent him from changing again, back to conservatism? The Dr. Jekyll — Mr. Anderson act is much too mysterious to waste a vote on.

So, the battle lines are drawn; two Republicans, one Democrat. The choice has never been clearer. Yours is a choice between inequality or ERA, between nuclear power or safe alternative sources, between big business or the working man, between Republican or Democrat.

The fateful day is drawng near. On Nov. fourth, the future will be in your hands. The ultimate decision will be yours. Which party, which future will you pick: the party of Richard Nixon, John Anderson and Ronald Reagan, or the party of Hubert Humphrey, Ted Kennedy and Jimmy Carter?

Think about it.

James Garrity is UMass Campus Coordinator for the Carter/Mondale Re-election Committee.

Letters

Conservation is needed but solar is the answer

To the Editor:

Throughout the evolution of humans and our awareness of the environment around us, our persistence in the advancement of technologies for the improvement of lifestyles have often exceeded our true limitations. In our closed net society of individualistic opinions, we are often forced to a decision which may later impair our vision of the true sense of reality.

Today, as we strive towards self sufficiency, we must become aware that conservation will not solve our current or future economic and energy needs. Humans throughout time, have always advanced quickly, and now we have forced ourselves into a corner from which there is only one way out — up.

Having participated in discussions and work-shops in the 1980 National Passive Solar Convention I am proud to say that solar energy is our only renewable resource that provides safety, and cost efficiency without changing our lifestyles.

The 1980 National Passive Solar Convention at UMass has been beneficial to the University, the community, and to all those who want to learn about our future in solar power: the only way out.

David Thompson
Applachian State University
Boone, N.C.

Solar Conference advances energy goal

To the Editor:

The New England Solar Energy Association, the host organization for the Passive Solar 1980 Week, is grateful to the students and the administration of the University of Massachusetts for the use of the Amherst facilities for the entire week of October 19 through 25.

We regret the inevitable problems caused by our presence in such large numbers. We are pleased, though, that a large number of students are participating in the conference, and we especially thank those who volunteered their help in return for free admission.

We feel that the administration and the students, in providing these facilities, have participated in advancing the national goal of energy self sufficiency. We as individuals and as an organization remain available to the University to provide speakers and information about solar energy upon request.

John Hayes,
Co-Chairman, Passive Solar 1980

Granite State/cpf

Wharton

University of Pennsylvania

The Graduate Division of The Wharton School will be sending Mr. John Flowers, a representative from the Admissions Office, on October 28, 1980 to meet with those students who are interested in learning more about Wharton's MBA and MS in Accounting programs.

All students, regardless of their undergraduate major, are invited to attend informal group sessions during which admission, financial aid, curriculum, and placement will be discussed. To obtain further information, please contact your placement center.

★Private Benjamin

continued from page 12

Judy for the first time.Private Benjamin tries to be more than "just a comedy."

There is a reference in the beginning of the movie to the film An Unmarried Woman, which is interesting because it shows a similarity between the two films. After Yale dies, Judy tells a friend that if she were the Jill Clayburgh character in Unmarried Woman, she would have married the artist (played by Alan Bates) in a minute. Judy, along with many people who saw the film, couldn't understand why in the world Clayburgh's character wouldn't want to get married. This shows us how Judy changes in the film. The Judy we see as the film opens wanted to get married because she sought security and thought she was "supposed to."

Like Unmarried Woman, Private Benjamin deals with a woman who gains her own identity after having been taken care of or belonging to men all her life. The absence of sympathetic male characters in the film makes a sharp contrast with the majority of comedies last summer that either exploited or ignored women.

Judy Benjamin leaves the film with the now familiar theme of being alone but wiser.

Hawn makes a debut in this as executive producer, sharing production chores with the film's three writers--Nancy Meyers, Charles Shyer and Harvey Miller.

Private Benjamin is now playing at the Mountain Farms 4 Theatres.

DAVE MASON in concert
special guest star - Kate Taylor
Thurs Oct. 30 8:00
@ Mt Holyoke College Chapin Aud
Tickets $7.00 @ Faces of Earth, Country Comforts, Record Town (Holyoke Mall) Campus Shop, Monitor's Office at Mt. Holyoke

Engineering, Computer Science, Math and Physics Majors...

Take Your Degree Into A Real World Laboratory - With Vitro!

Not only are we working on complex Naval Weapons Systems that will revolutionize current state-of-the-art standards, we're offering opportunities for growth and professional recognition that put us way ahead of our competition. At Vitro, almost every project we take on represents a significant part of a major national issue. Depending on your interests, you could be involved in the systems engineering, integration, and analysis of the fleet shipboard combat system development, or the application of advanced computer technology in support of complex systems engineering programs. It's a career that has implications well beyond the academic.

As one of the nation's leading systems engineering firms, we can offer the new graduate a career package that includes tuition reimbursement, group insurance, paid vacations, retirement programs, a very good salary, and the opportunity to become involved immediately in significant long-term programs. You'll also enjoy being located "at the pulse," in suburban Maryland, near Washington, D.C., within easy reach of the many cultural advantages of the nation's capital.

Vitro positions require problem-solvers who have technical ability and engineering creativity. If you're about ready for a real world application of your classroom problem-solving skills, let's talk about tomorrow: yours and ours. We'll be on campus October 29; or contact Maureen Conrad, College Relations Coordinator, Toll Free at (800) 638-2901, ext. 4050. Check with your Placement Office for details.

AUTOMATION INDUSTRIES, INC.
Vitro Laboratories Division
Department CN
14000 Georgia Avenue Silver Spring, Maryland 20910
An Equal Opportunity Employer M/F/H
U.S. Citizenship Required

OXFORD NIGHT
Tuesday, Oct. 28
7:30-9:00
South College
Dean's Office
(opp. library)
Hear all about 1981 summer seminar plans

Amity
GMAT
LSAT
MCAT
REVIEW PROGRAMS
Call for Amity's free brochure on the exam of interest to you:
800-243-4767
IN CT., 1-800-922-4635

Calvin brings it home!
Our Amherst Store Now offers HOME DELIVERY
6 days-a-week
5 pm - 10 pm
Call 549-6938
CALVIN ICE CREAM
Carriage Shops

The rusty nail Inn
Fri. Oct. 31
Widespread Depression
& The Cardiac Kids
cover $3.00/college ID
Sat. Nov. 1
The Shades
cover $2
(New Wave)
George Thorogood & the Destroyers
Nov. 6
Rt 47 Sunderland MA 665-4937

Louis Food Makes The Difference....

Produce
Halloween Special
Fresh Cider
SAVE 20¢ ON 1 GAL.
$1.99

Dairy
Margarine 2 LB PKGS 89¢
Cream Cheese 8 OZ CTN 69¢
Orange Juice 12 OZ CAN 99¢
Puddings ASSTD FLAVORS 4 OZ CUPS 59¢

Nuform Week!
Nuform Yogurt 8 OZ CUP 79¢
Cottage Cheese 16 OZ CTN 85¢
Sour Half & Half 8 OZ CONT 79¢

National Brands
Mac & Cheese PRINCE SPAGHETTI, CHEDDAR OR ELBOW 4 7¼ OZ PKGS $1
Brownie Mix PILLSBURY FUDGE 22½ OZ PKG 99¢
Applesauce MOTTS 25 OZ JAR 59¢
Jelly Or Jam WELCH'S CONCORD OR WELCH'S GRAPE 30 OZ JAR 79¢
Italian Dressing HIDDEN VALLEY RANCH 16 OZ BTL 99¢
Stuffing Mix STOVE TOP ALL VAR. 6 OZ PKG 79¢
Flour PILLSBURY ALL PURPOSE 5 LB BAG 89¢
Facial Tissue ALLEVE 2 PLY 200 CT PKG 69¢
Concentrated All 17 OZ LARGE 69¢
Concentrated All 49 OZ BOX $1.59

Health & Beauty Aids
Baby Shampoo SWEETLIFE NO MORE TEARS 16 OZ BTL 89¢
Cold Capsules SWEETLIFE NIGHTTIME 24 CT BOX 59¢
Baby Powder SWEETLIFE TALCUM 16 OZ CAN 89¢
Aspirin SWEETLIFE 100 CT BTL 79¢

Frozen Foods
Orange Juice SWEETLIFE 6 OZ CAN 79¢
Waffles SWEETLIFE 8 CT BOX 69¢
Coffee Lightener SWEETLIFE 16 OZ CAN 4 $1
Macaroni & Cheese HOWARD JOHNSON 7½ OZ PKG 69¢
Green Peas SWEETLIFE 10 OZ PKGS 3 $1
Egg Rolls 12 OZ PKGS 2 89¢

Specials Effective Oct. 27-Nov. 1

LIBERTY BLUE Dinnerware Made in Staffordshire, England Traditional Pattern DESSERT DISH 49¢ WITH EA. $5 PURCHASE

Wexford 10 OZ GLASSWARE 59¢ WITH EA. $5 PURCHASE

Louis FINE FOODS
76 N. PLEASANT ST. AMHERST, MASS.

ARMOUR VERI BEST Pork Chops CENTER CUT $1.79 LB
USDA CHOICE Blade Steak BONELESS $2.29 LB
LEAN CHUCK Stew Beef $1.99 LB
ARMOUR Sliced Bacon $1.59 LB PKG
ARMOUR Beef Franks $1.59 LB PKG

USDA CHOICE Top Round Roast $2.19 LB
USDA CHOICE Top Round Steak $2.59 LB
USDA CHOICE London Broil $2.19 LB
SHOULDER CLOD

BLUE SEAL Kielbasa $1.69 LB
This Week's Freezer Special USDA CHOICE BONELESS Rib Eyes 10 LB AVG. CUT & PACKAGED $3.69 LB

WE RESERVE THE RIGHT TO LIMIT QUANTITIES
NOT RESPONSIBLE FOR TYPOGRAPHICAL ERRORS

Sweet Life Truckload Sale

Sweet Life Vegetables 4 $1
Coffee $1.99
Bathroom Tissue 79¢

Applesauce 99¢
Fruit Cocktail 2 $1
Sliced Peaches 2 $1
Apple Juice 99¢
Strawberry Preserve 99¢
Raisins 79¢
All Purpose Flour 5 LB BAG 79¢
Laundry Detergent $1.39
Softener Sheets $1.49
Dishwasher Deter. $1.39
Trash Bags 99¢
Lawn & Leaf Bags 99¢
Tall Kitchen Bags $1.79
Popping Corn 99¢
Whole Tomatoes 3 $1
Real Mayonnaise 99¢
Tomato Juice 59¢
Light Tuna 79¢
Salad Oil 89¢
Tomato Catsup 3 $1
Whole Kernel or Cream Corn 5 $1

COUPON Potato Chips SWEET LIFE REG. & RIPPLE 8 OZ BAG Buy One Get One Free
COUPON Panty Hose NO NONSENCE ANY PKG. 50¢ OFF
COUPON Large White Eggs FARM FRESH DOZEN Buy One Get One Free

A Refreshing Change
TACO VILLA
Quick
Wholesome
Inexpensive
in the Center of Town
(Ask Anyone)
Fri - SAT 11 - 1am
Sun - THURS 11 - 9
Also -
in DownTown N. Tom

Halloween Masks and Decorations
at
A.J. HASTINGS
Newsdealer and Stationer
45 S. Pleasant, Amherst

The Guitar Workshop and Music House
233 N. Pleasant St. Amherst, Mass. 01002
Phone 549-1728
Save 40% off retail price on new Guild, Gibson, Ovation, Rickenbacker, and Yamaha guitars. Also discounted prices on Marshall and Polytone amps, MXR, and all strings and acc. Large selection of music for all instruments.

The smash hit on television, this season!
ALEX MCNEIL
TOTAL TELEVISION
A COMPREHENSIVE GUIDE TO PROGRAMMING FROM 1948 TO 1980
From All in the Family to Zorro, Bonanza to Masterpiece Theater, TOTAL TELEVISION has it all: dates, formats, casts and characters, directors in more than 30 years of network, syndicated, prime-time, daytime, NET/PBS programming. Don't miss the fun and facts, on
- Over 3,400 series on the three major networks plus NET/PBS, Dumont, and syndicated shows
- Prime-time, daytime, and weekend
- More than 570 specials
- Emmy and Peabody award-winners
- Nielsen's Top Twenty season by season
- Index of over 10,000 TV personalities
The only TV guide for everyone from avid viewer to trivia buff to professionals in the field
$9.95 at your bookstore
A Penguin Paperback

opening event of
"The Ways a Jewish Woman Can Be"
LYNN GOTTLIEB
Storyteller • dance • rabbi • mime
8 pm CC 101
Performing
Sara, A New Oracle
Storytelling through
★ dance and mime ★
Sponsored by Hillel,
Jewish Feminists Org & Resources Judaica

HYPERCURRICULA . . .

MON., OCT. 27

OUTING CLUB MEETING, 7 p.m. in RM 101 CC. Weekend trips announced, new members welcome, presentation to be announced. P.S. T-Shirts sold!

UNDERGRADUATE ECONOMICS COUNCIL is meeting at 6 p.m. in the 8th floor lounge, Thompson.

THE COALITION FOR ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY will sponsor a free film "The Tragedy of the Commons" at 7:30 p.m. in the Campus Center room 904. Everyone is welcome to attend. There will be discussion afterwards of environmental issues. For further information stop in at the C.E.Q. office in room 306 of the Student Union, or call 545-0618.

JAZZ WORKSHOP, The Use of Indian Ritual in Theater, Hampden Theater, 3 p.m., Bowker Auditorium, 8 p.m.

HUNGER TASK FORCE meets at 4:30 on Room 428, Student Union. Open to anyone intersted in helping to solve the problems of World Hunger—if you can't attend, stop by tomorrow between 2:30 and 3:30.

HEALTHWAYS, a series of perspectives on healing and healthcare by outstanding Pioneer Valley practitioners presents: Carlotta J. Willis, M.S., Reg. Dance/Movement Therapist and Dale Schwarz, M.Ed., Reg. Art Therapist. Lecture Title: The Place of the Expressive Arts in the Healing Process, 7:30 p.m., the educational facilities of Amherst Acupuncture Associates, 17 Kellogg Ave., Amherst, Ma. (above the Yellow Sun). Admission is $3.00, $2.00 for elders. For more information call 253-2500.

THE DIVISION OF PUBLIC HEALTH is initiating a seminar on Problems and Issues of International Health Care featuring DRA. Gloria E. Torres, academic dean of the Biological and Health Sciences, Universidad Autonoma Metropolitana in Mexico. Topic: Family Planning and Population Policies in Mexico, 1:30-3 p.m., Arnold House, room 120.

GAY/LESBIAN/BI Rap Group forming, first weekly meetin 7 p.m. in the Duke's Room, main floor Student Union, UMass.

LEISURE STUDIES AND RESOURCES SOCIETY, 5 p.m., Hills Central Building, Room 103. Discussion on the Happy Hour and Retreat.

SPECTRUM—There will be an editorial meeting at 4 p.m. in the office, rm. 104 CC.

WOMEN'S STUDIES COLLOQUIM Sexual Affairs and Sexual Harassment: Research on Lesbian and Heterosexual Women Workers, at 4 p.m. in the sixth floor lounge of Thompson Hall. Open to the public at no cost.

GENERAL MEETING FOR CUSP (Undergraduate Psychology Club) at 7:30 p.m. in Tobin 423. New members welcome. Refreshments served.

UMASS AMATEUR RADIO ASSOCIATION, 7 p.m., room 109 Elab. Anyone who already holds an Amateur license or wishes to earn one is welcome.

PSYCHOTHERAPY:
Individuals, couples, families. Sliding fee scale.
Psychological Services Center
545-0041

Got some-thing on your mind? Let people know in a letter to the Editor

Join us for our Quick Lunch Specials
the Hungry U Restaurant
the ideal spot for a relaxing meal
from $1.99 to $2.99
Monday thru Friday

Coming November 2
DARK STAR!!
Outer Space was never like this DARK STAR; their not lost in space, their loose
50¢ Admission

Oxy 5
1 oz.
SALE
$1.43
Trac II
5 cartridges
SALE
$1.09
Aqua-Fresh
6.4 oz.
SALE $1.09
Revlon Flex Shampoo or Conditioner
16 oz size
SALE $1.43
Tylenol
extra strength
50 capsules
SALE $1.93
Quantities Limited
Sale Ends 11/7/80
Mon-Fri 9-5
Sat 11-4
the University Store

THE UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AT AMHERST
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
and the University Arts Council present the Minnesota Orchestra
Neville Marriner,
Music Director
WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 1980 8 PM
Tickets now on sale at the Fine Arts Center Box Office (M-F, non-4 pm) Phone reservations accepted through Monday, Nov. 3. (413-545-2511)
$9, 8, 7 General Public
$8, 7, 6 Senior Citizens
$4.50, 4, 3.50 UMass Students

Genuine Diamond 14 Karat Gold Filled Jewelry
Choose from 12 exciting designs
Accumulate $100 worth of gold tapes & get one piece for $9.99. Without tapes, add 19.99 each. Only tapes dated Sept. 21-Dec. 20, 1980 will be honored 9.99 each with $100 in our gold register tapes.

Stop & Shop Grocery Coupon C
Pillsbury Flour All Purpose 5lb bag FREE
423 Stop & Shop

Stop & Shop Grocery Coupon C
DESIGNER, ASSORTED OR WHITE DECORATOR
Bounty Towels 100 Sheet 2 Ply Roll FREE
424 Stop & Shop

Hood or Stop & Shop
Orange Juice
Half Gallon Carton From Concentrate
99¢

Stop & Shop
Four Pages of Savings in Our Store!
Get our value-filled weekly circular when you come in!

"October is Seafood Month"
9 oz pkg. Sole or Frozen Flounder
Taste O' Sea Dinners 79¢
TASTE O' SEA FISH STICKS 1.49
TASTE O' SEA PORTIONS 99¢
RAW Flounder or Sole PORTIONS 1.69
TASTE O' SEA HADDOCK FILLETS 2.19
TASTE O' SEA POLLOCK FILLETS 1.19
TASTE O' SEA ONION RINGS 79¢
TASTE O' SEA FISH CAKES 99¢
self service deli Specials!
Rath Meat Wieners 1 pound package 1.39
Rath Bacon 1.59
Sausage Meat 89¢
Rath Cooked Ham 2.59
Extra Mild Franks 1.29
Meat Bologna 1.29
Buddig Meats 49¢
Best Beef Franks 1.89
corner deli Sliced to order!
Available in stores with service deli
Deutschmacher Liverwurst German Style 1.49 lb
Bologna 1.99
Cooked Ham 3.49
Franks 1.99
Cheddar Cheese 2.39
Potato Salad 49¢
Potato & Egg Salad 69¢
seafood Ocean-fresh fish!
Fresh Scrod Haddock Fillets 2.29 lb
You'll find a basic recipe right on the package label. Try:
FRESH Pacific Red SNAPPER FILLETS 2.39
FRESH POLLOCK FILLETS 1.69
FRESH CUSK FILLETS 1.79
FRESH STEAMING CLAMS 1.49
STOP & SHOP DAIRY COUPON C
Save 25¢ Cheddar Cheese
Stop & Shop Sharp Vermont Cheddar or Imported Jarlsberg Handom Weight Pkg
With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase. Good Sun. Oct. 26, Sat. Nov. 1. Limit one per customer. 31R Stop & Shop

Naturally tender USDA Choice
Stop & Shop GREAT BEEF
Beef Bottom Round Roast 1.89 lb
Very lean, makes a great pot roast!
Beef Bottom Round Steak For Swiss Steak 2.29
Rump Roast Beef Round "Great Beef" USDA Choice 2.09
Beef Eye Round Roast Seamed USDA Choice 2.59
Cube Steak Beef Round "Great Beef" USDA Choice 2.69
1st White Gem
Chicken Wings "White Gem" 5-6 lb package 69¢ lb
Use some now, freeze the rest.
Chicken Legs with Thighs "White Gem" 5-6 lb pkg 79¢
Chicken Breast with Ribs "White Gem" 5-6 lb pkg 1.29
Chicken Thighs "White Gem" 5-6 lb pkg 89¢
Chicken Drumsticks "White Gem" 5-6 lb pkg 99¢
Smoked Pork Shoulder Butt 1.29 lb
Get fresh vegetables for a boiled dinner.
Smoked Pork Butt Boneless water added 1.79
Swift's Corned Beef Brisket For oven Roasting 1.99
Smoked Pork Neck Bones 59¢
Colonial Cooked Ham Semi Boneless water added 1.79
produce
Pick and choose what's perfect for you
Idaho Potatoes 5 pound bag 99¢
U.S. No. size "A"
Genuine Idahoes at a money-saving Stop & Shop price!
Iceberg Lettuce New Jersey 2 heads $1
Large Slicing
Tomatoes 59¢ lb
Farmer Brown's Spinach 10 oz bag 79¢
Marie's Dressing Italian or Garlic 12 oz jar 1.19

Lay's Potato Chips 7 ounce bag 79¢
Del Monte Peas Sweet 17 oz can 5 for $2
Crisco Oil 38 ounce bottle 1.79
Krispy Crackers Sunshine 16 oz pkg 69¢
Apple & Eve Apple Juice 100% Pure Apple 64 ounce bottle 1.09
Royal Crown Diet Rite Cola ½ Gal. bottle Conn. Deposit 99¢
Star-Kist Tuna Chunk Light in Oil or Water 6½ ounce can 89¢
Oreo Sandwich Cookies Choc., Creme 15 ounce package 1.09
Del Monte Cut Green Beans or French Style 16 oz can 2 for 75¢
Del Monte Whole Kernel Corn or Cream Style 17 ounce can 2 for 75¢
Nestle's Coffee Decaffeinated 8 ounce jar 4.39
Royal Regular Pudding Assorted Varieties 3 oz package 3 for 89¢
Rice-a-Roni Beef or Chicken Golden Grain 7 oz pkgs 2 for 89¢
Tabby Cat Food Assorted Varieties 6½ oz can 4 for $1
Vanity Fair Tissue Print Bathroom 2 ply, 375 ct. 4 pack roll 89¢
Delta Facial Tissue 150 count 1 ply pkg 2 for 89¢
Hollywood Bread Light or Dark 16 ounce loaf 69¢
Newfangled Corn Muffins or Bran, pkg of 6 "Our Own" 15 oz pkg 99¢
Silkience Shampoo or Conditioner 7 ounce bottle 99¢
Aqua-fresh Toothpaste with Fluoride 6.2 ounce tube 99¢ frozen foods Special time-saving, work-saving foods!
Mrs. Smith's Apple Pie 26 ounce package 1.19
Minute Maid Orange Juice 12 ounce can 79¢
Shoestring Potatoes McCains 20 oz package 65¢
Vegetables 10 oz. pkg. Peas, Corn or Mixed Stop & Shop 3 for 89¢
Half Gallon Ice Cream Assorted Flavors Stop & Shop 1.49 ctn.
Morton King Size Entrees Turkey, Chicken, Salisbury 10½ ounce package 99¢
Buitoni Ravioli Meat or Cheese 15 ounce pkg 1.15
Mrs. Smith's Pumpkin Pie Pumpkin Custard Style 26 ounce package 1.29
Sara Lee Apple Danish Cheese, Pecan or Cinnamon Raisin 7½ oz pkg 1.29
Mrs. Good Cookie Cookies Choc. Chip or Oatmeal Raisin 16 ounce package 1.19 dairy 8 more ways to save at your Stop & Shop!
Colombo Yogurt Plain Style 16 ounce cup 65¢
Sundae Style Yogurt Assorted Flavors Stop & Shop 8 oz cup 3 for $1
Low Fat Milk Gallon Jug Gallon container Sun Glory 1.49
Sunny Delight Punch Florida Citrus Punch 64 oz container 89¢
Breakstone's Sour Cream 16 ounce cup 89¢
Kraft Soft Cream Cheese NEW! Philadelphia 8 ounce cup 89¢
Mrs. Filbert's Margarine Golden quarters One pound package 69¢
Breakstone Cottage Cheese Low Fat, fancy, small or large curd 16 oz cup 89¢

HADLEY-AMHERST Route 9 at the Hadley-Amherst Line. 8a.m.-10p.m., Mon.-Sat.
We redeem your Federal Food Stamps.

Pvt. Benjamin: refreshing comedy

By Adrienne Beck
Collegian Correspondent

Private Benjamin is a refreshing oasis in the barren desert of recent comedy.

Goldie Hawn is Judy Benjamin, a 28 year-old pampered princess who has lived a life of luxury and leisure in the care of her wealthy, over-protective parents. In the opening scene we see Judy ecstatically exchanging marriage vows with Yale, a successful young lawyer. Their wedded bliss comes to an abrupt end when Yale dies of a heart attack six hours later.

FILM

Refusing to return to her parents, Judy runs away. Confused and alone for the first time, she is discovered in her anguish by a sneaky Army recruiter who sees her as easy prey.

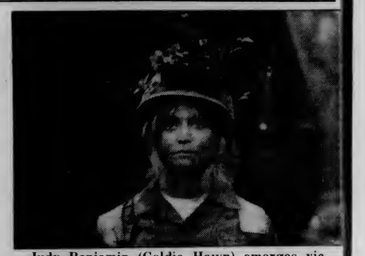
"Each soldier gets their own room", he informs her, "and you can quit whenever you wish". Judy is in for a rough time in basic training, but the audience is in for a treat.

No matter who you are or what your backround you have, you can identify with Judy. Bootcamp can be scary to anyone, and Private Benjamin's reactions are amusing.

Hawn creates a very charming, funny character in Benjamin and plays her in a situation totally alien to anything she has previously experienced.

Eileen Brennan is terrific as Captain Lewis, Judy's tough and unsympathetic commanding officer, who provides an interesting contrast to Hawn, and displays some especially entertaining expressions when she meets

turn to page 8



Judy Benjamin (Goldie Hawn) emerges victorious from a simulated combat game in the film Private Benjamin.

Collegian Classifieds

To place a Collegian Classified
•Come to Collegian Office CC 113
•8:45 to 3:45 Mon-Fri
•Classified deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day

Collegian Classified Rates
•15c per word
•Student rate 10c per word
•Cash in advance
•5 consecutive days 5 % discount
•Phone number FREE

ALIZA LANGENAUER

Happy Birthday, you guy. Sorry they don't publish on Saturday.

ALWAYS

Natasha te quiero siempre!

AUDIO

Complete Panasonic Stereo System Receiver, Turntable, Tapedeck, Thruster 2-way speakers excellent condition $175 or BO must sell! T.J. 253-9032

AUTO FOR SALE

74 Peugeot Wag 4 cyl stand AM/FM cassette BO call Jim 1-532-5030

Lancia—1975, brown, leather, air, AM/FM. 5-speed, 27mpg, 44,000 miles $4600 584-6563

'66 Volks RUNS great for parts call Walter 546-9072

Plymouth Fury great condition best offer over $150 call 549-4063

1974 Triumph Spitfire needs work asking $550.00 call 549-5791 between 6-7

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES

Address and stuff envelopes at home $800 per month possible Offer send $1 (refundable) to: Triple "S", 16243-Y78, Hesperia, CA 92345

DISC JOCKEY

Professional Disc Jockey Quality Sound Randy 546-7013

Why not have a succesful party? Hire quality Disc Jockeys!! Denis 546-6249 Andy 546-1164

ENTERTAINMENT

Springsteen Tickets available for Boston December 16 323-5757

Glo, Patsy, and Barbarella, do ludes!

FOR SALE

Gift Idea: Portrait Drawings; call dennis Delap 665-2972

TRS-80 48K or 16K System must sell mint condition call for details 546-7050

71 VW Squareback standard inspected $650 or BO 549-0305 after 6

Springsteen Tix for Providence! Dec 11th call after 8 pm 549-1833

Free 1 male 3 month old cat, had shots, good home wanted call 253-5116

Southside Johnny Ticket no extra charge 8.50 call 6-8220

Fuji Royale new black 27" frame $240 call Michael after 7 PM 253-2531

New never used 170 Rossignol Skis Look bindings poles size 7 Dolomite boots $175 complete will consider selling separately 665-4213

Hexcel Sundance Skis 180's w/Soloman 555 bindings $130 Head 240 std skis 180's best offer. Boots: Munari Flow men's 8½-9½ last season's like new $70 665-7757

Backpack new cost $150, sell for $100 will bring to Campus 1-684-3121, 1-442-6023

Moving, must sell 1970 Valiant runs well, $1200.00 Yamaha 12-string guitar, $200 or BO furniture 253-3101

Single bed $40 Carol 549-5440 after 5

FOUND

Found: pair of women's (?) brown eyeglasses outside Student Union 10/22 John 586-1803

Calculator found in Campus Center Thurs Oct 23 claim it in the Building Operation Office

HELP WANTED

Overseas Jobs — Summer/year round Europe, S. America, Australia, Asia all fields $500-$1200 monthly expenses paid Sightseeing. Free info. write IJC Box 52-MA2 Cornona Del Mar CA 92625

Wanted part-time radiology technician for multi-specialty group practice please call 256-8561 ext 248 M-F 8 am-4 pm

Make a dollar every raffle ticket sold on consignment supporting No Nukes call 549-6136

Lower Central Academic Center—looking for tutors in Chemistry 111 and 107, Physics 161, Economics 104, Psychology 150 and CE 240. Interested people call 5-3945 between 12-5 (Mon-Fri) Grad and Undergrad.

Address and stuff envelopes at home $800 per month, possible. Any age or location. See ad under businss opportunities Triple "S".

Nationally known Travel Company looking for local sales representative to help promote Spring Break trips to Ft. Lauderdale, Florida Earn commissions and/or free vacation. Send resume with references to: Student Suntrips Inc. 1666 N. High St., Suite 20 Columbus, Ohio 43201

Summer Work Box 213, Amherst MA 01004

Hockey Referees, experienced or teachable, AHAUS situations in Amherst call Bud at 5-2208 or 549-0382 nites

INSTRUCTION

English Classes (ESL) Elementary, Intermediate. Two hours an afternoon, except Wednesday. Faculty/student spouses, visitors, immigrants. People's Institute, Northampton. 584-3956 NLI, P.O. Box 34, Northampton

INTERNSHIPS AVAILABLE

Legal Assistant Interns Wanted: The Legal Services Office has 8 positions available for full-time legal assistant interns for the Spring 1981 semester. Up to fifteen credits may be earned through Office of Internships. Legal assistants assist attorneys of the LSO with client interviewing, investigations, legal research, negotiations, giving advice and referrals, preparation of court forms, and attendance at hearings in District and Superior Courts, and participation in administrative hearings and federal litigation. Maintain continuing case load under supervision of attorneys. Applications available at Office of Internships, Curry Hicks Building, and inquire further at Legal Services Office, 922 Campus center. Applicationsdue November 7, 1980 at Office of Internships. Writing sample required. All third world and women students are encouraged to apply.

LEGAL SERVICES

Attorney Jason Rosenthal reasonable rates Days 584-4285, Evenings 253-7617

LOST

Gold Ring with "E" initial sentimental value $ reward call Eileen 253-3316

Nova Owners I hitched back to Boston on Friday Oct. 10 I left a brown and tan reversible jacket in your car call 6-7470

Lost gold ID bracelet of sentimental value. Andrea will give reward! Please call me 546-6212

Sterling Silver Bracelet with white stone. Lost Oct, 17 in maze. call 6-6862

Lost keys—Sat nite wall across from Thoreau Reward 6-7251

Gold Chain two medallions reward contact 546-7930

Lost Gold Timex Watch in Boyden Gym sentimental value $5 reward call John 549-3589

Gold Bulova Watch on Fri Oct 17 in vicinity of Student Union substantial reward offered call 6-9602

Medium sized charcoal grey shaggy mixed breed female dog. Answers to Fenario Lost near Amherst/Belchertown line. Please call 546-8587 or 256-6319

Lost Blue Checkbook in Northeast Dorm Area Please call 665-2592

Lost Calculator Sharp in zipper case call Korky Lois 549-0760 info carved on the back

Help! Lg red Physics and manila Finance notebooks lost at Newman Center or SBA on Sun Oct 19 Reward call Carrie 546-4189 or 546-9382

Lost watch electric Timex with silver mesh band please call 546-8512 sentimental value REWARD!

PERSONALS

Undergrad Pol. Sci. Assoc. interested in becoming member? Sign-up Rm 422 Thompson

Misplaced! Green Eastpack knapsack from CC Iniv Store Tue Oct 21 keep the money keep the calculators. PLEASE return my books, notebooks & eyeglasses to the place you got them. I understand that accidents can happen no questions asked reward please call Leyla 5-0320

Business Career Day Luncheon Tickets on sale Monday in SBA price $4.50 for UBC members 5.00 for others on sale all next week, but tickets are limited buy early!

Monster Mash—Halloween Party Poor Dick's Tue Oct 28 25c drafts 75c drinks $1 cover costumes optional sponsored by Delta Chi

Chi Omega welcomes all University Women to informal rush October 27 and 29 For more information call 545-0162

Hey Liz Happy 18th! Love ya muchly! Your "Big Sis" and the gang from 21 and 22

SRL do you know what I mean? OXX Ryn

Liz a very Happy 18th Birthday! Love and luck from the M & M Peddler

A natural way to fulfill the language requirement and still do what you like —Scandiavian Seminar. Info. Oct. 28 Herter 601 1:30-4:00

Eng. CO 3—Sex 'n' Drugs 'n' Rock 'n' Roll—and Woodstock—Forever!

Johnny, One red hen, a couple of ducks Now that you're 20 is there still any adventure? Happy Birthday Love Toni and Margee

Happy Birthday Eileen Carroll to a wild and more than crazy person love J.I.M.

We're tightening it! Remember to wear scuba gear so if you dive in for a few laps you won't drown. The score—Louise & Mario 3, Lori & Karen 1

Happy Birthday Scotty Mc I love ya—Lenny

Gail Murphy—Happy 21st! (Better late than never) Liz

Risa: Ah! Ah! Ah! (cheer up) Ah! Ah! Ah! Love, the beast in 212

Tuma! Happy 19th Birthday! Have a great day! Love, Cindy

Make a child smile. Buy a balloon for charity from Tri Sigma. We'll be around tonight!

Full Gospel Bible Study CC 905-909 Tues Oct 28th 8-10 PM

RIDE WANTED

To Niagra Falls/Buffalo round trip any Fr-Mon and/or Thanksgiving week. Share expenses Tel 549-1542

Help student teacher seeks ride to Easthampton starting 10/28 call 253-5097

Ride needed 11/6 or 11/7 to RPI or Albany. Will share gas, tolls. 546-4126 after 7

ROOM WANTED

Student needs space in apt for Spring semester call Carol 546-8067

2 women seek 2 rooms House or apartment NEAR CAMPUS for Spring semester 546-9124/546-6342

Help us! We're one junior a 2 seniors who have outgrown dorm life. Looking for housing on bus route for Spring semester Call 546-7433 or 546-7427

ROOMMATE WANTED

Female own room Puffton $130 549-1156

Roommate to share a 2 bedroom apt with female student $200 per month 253-2047

One or two women wanted to share two bedroom Brittany manor with two other women second semester call Gail or Barb 253-5370 after 6:00

Female looking for roommates to share apt for Spring semester call 256-6045 anytime

Puffton Village one bdrm in two bdrm apt $157 + lights Mike 549-3616 545-0731

SERVICES

Experienced typist available Fast, neat work, reasonable rates. 546-6439

Typing; Words-Worth, 37 East Pleasant Street, Amherst, 549-1303. Double-spaced text from 95c a page. Justified resumes from $3.50 a page. Telephone dictation line. Overnight rush jobs. Your words are worth it.

Statistics Tutor Prepare for midterm, 4.50/hr. experienced graduate student 253-5764

Expert Typing, Editing reasonable rates 665-4815 evenings and weekends

SONGWRITERS

Folk-Singer, song writer researching song writing at UMass. If you write original folk, or country music I would like to interview you and profile your work in my Research--call Joe at 665-2840 10 pm-11:30 pm or weekends anytime

TRAVEL

Florida—The Great Getaway for Spring Break and January Term under $200 round trip jet 256-6704

WANTED

Top Dollars for class rings, gold, sterling, at Wendy's CC Concourse, twice a week

Highest prices paid for class rings, gold, and silver jewelry. See me before you sell. Daniel Smith, 25 North Pleasant St between Fotomat and Logos, Amherst M-Sat10-6 call 256-0710

Fender Rhodes or Wurlitzer elec piano wanted under $700 Malcolm 6-9276

Accounting Tutor needed immediately call after 6 pm 1-467-3-65

Stethescope reasonable price please call 549-3862 or 367-2817 early morning or late PM

Wanted pictures of Gary Numan Concert 10/17 at Orpheum call Emily 253-9987

WANTED TO RENT

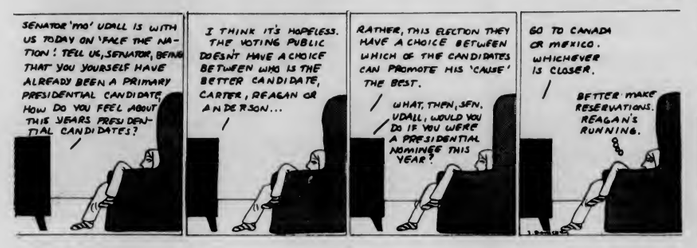
Two responsible males looking for 2 bdrm apartment starting January pref: 250$, in Colonial Village call Bill 256-8233

Will take over lease starting Jan 1 for local 3 bdrm apt call Judy nights 253-5673

WANT TO SUBLET

Would like to sublet a 2-3 bedroom apt beginning in January call Mindy 546-4825 or Carole 546-4848 anytime

ONE FOR THE ROAD
Cindy Downing
FIG, WHAT'S IT LIKE TO TRAVEL ACROSS THE COUNTRY?
OH, MEETING WORLD FAMOUS PEOPLE, CRASHING MADCAP PARTIES... LOTS OF DESIGNER CLOTHES... YOU KNOW.
BUT FIG, DIDN'T YOU TRAVEL BY GREYHOUND BUS?
WELL, YEAH. BUT...



J. Demskey
SENATOR 'MO' UDALL IS WITH US TODAY ON 'HALF THE NATION'! TELL US, SENATOR, BEING THAT YOU YOURSELF HAVE ALREADY BEEN A PRIMARY PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATE, HOW DO YOU FEEL ABOUT THIS YEARS PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES?
I THINK IT'S HOPELESS. THE VOTING PUBLIC DOESN'T HAVE A CHOICE BETWEEN WHO IS THE BETTER CANDIDATE, CARTER, REAGAN OR ANDERSON...
RATHER, THIS ELECTION THEY HAVE A CHOICE BETWEEN WHICH OF THE CANDIDATES CAN PROMOTE HIS 'CAUSE' THE BEST.
WHAT, THEN, SEN. UDALL, WOULD YOU DO IF YOU WERE A PRESIDENTIAL NOMINEE THIS YEAR?
GO TO CANADA OR MEXICO. WHICHEVER IS CLOSER.
BETTER MAKE RESERVATIONS. REAGAN'S RUNNING.

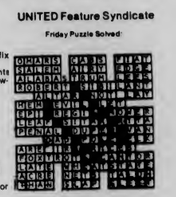
Under the Influence
M. Joyce
MURPHY, I'M AFRAID YOUR EXAM SCORE IS BELOW PASSING.
GREAT!
WHAT?
REALLY! THIS WILL BE MY SIXTH LATIN FLUNK IN A ROW!
ONE MORE AND I CAN BE ON 'THATS INCREDIBLE!'
M. Joyce

DOONESBURY
by Garry Trudeau
THE HUMAN BRAIN. ONE OF LIFE'S GREATEST MIRACLES. STAGGERING AREA FOR THE 1,000,000 CHEMICAL REACTIONS A MINUTE THAT SHAPE HUMAN RESPONSES, RESPONSES WHICH IN SOME CASES AFFECT THE OUTCOME OF HISTORY ITSELF.
GOOD EVENING. FOR FOUR YEARS NOW, WE HAVE HAD THE CHANCE TO WATCH JIMMY CARTER'S MIND AT WORK. BUT WHAT OF RONALD REAGAN'S MIND? WHAT DO WE KNOW ABOUT IT? DOES SCIENCE REALLY KNOW WHAT MAKES HIM TICK?
I'M ROLAND HEDLEY. JOIN ME TONIGHT AS ABC UP-CLOSE NEWS TAKES A JOURNEY INTO THE UNKNOWN—A FANTASTIC VOYAGE THROUGH...THE BRAIN OF RONALD REAGAN!
"REAGAN'S BRAIN," BROUGHT TO YOU BY ANACIN...
REAGAN'S BRAIN
an in-depth look

CROSSWORD

UNITED Feature Syndicate

Friday Puzzle Solved:

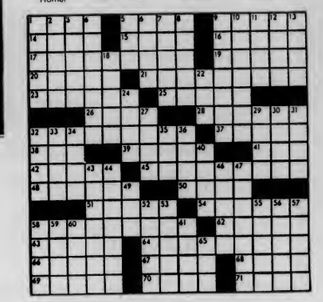


ACROSS

1 Mrs. Chaplin #1
5 Make a recording
9 ——— personality
14 Chopping tools
15 Symbol
16 Track
17 Facial adornments
19 Parts
20 Church Structure
21 Imitators
23 Flight of steps
25 Fishing net
26 Sudden police invasion
28 Reporter's boss
32 Heavenly
37 Scaly legless reptile
38 Cuprite
39 Silk: Prefix
41 Jranelix
42 Within: Prefix
45 Broadcast
48 Narrate again
50 Neat
51 Farm implements
54 Hit lightly
58 Privacy
62 Artless
63 Poem attributed to Homer
64 Four-run homer: 2 words
66 Cut into
67 Blood: Prefix
68 Passable
69 Animal joints
70 Waste allowance
71 French seasons

DOWN

1 Buddhist monks
2 Be jubilant
3 Outer seed coat
4 Dancer-actor Fred ———
5 A twitching
6 Suffer a dull pain
7 Compositions in verse
8 Result
9 Runs a ship aground
10 Life process necessity
11 Edouard ———
Fr. composer
12 Cake decorator
13 Hardy heroine
18 Rich tapestry
22 Recline
24 Hemaina inactive
27 Deliberative assembly
29 Plumbing items
30 Texican's neighbor
31 Sever
32 Coconut fiber
33 River to Donnai Bay
34 Riga native
35 "——— you ready?"
36 Happy tune
40 Sura thing: Slang
43 Supplant
44 Makas reference
46 Food item
47 Dead end
49 Spanish article
52 Isle of ———
53 More painful
55 One who guides
56 Enlarging gradually
57 The common people
58 Fine lustrous fabric
59 Style
60 Motion pictures: Prefix
61 Cognomen
65 Negative word



D.C. Menu

LUNCH

Hot Beef Sandwich
Sausage Links/Corn Fritters, Maple Syrup

DINNER

Meatloaf Italiano
Baked Ham/Fruit Sauce
Fruit Plate with Saltines

BASICS LUNCH

Vegetabel Hot Pot
Corn Fritters/Maple Syrup

BASICS DINNER

Carrot Loaf
Baked Haddock with Lemon Slice

KOSHER MENU

Meatloaf/Mushroom Sauce
Corned Beef Sandwich on Rye

ROOTIE KAZOOTIE'S
GRAND OPENING
Wednesday, October 29
HAPPY HOUR 4-6
Beer & Dog $1.00
All Bar Drinks $1.00 6-8 Beer 2/$1.00
Michelob Lite Night 8-11 Prizes and Raffles
Watch for our Rootie Kazootie Look-Alike-Contest on Halloween Night, Friday October 31
6-8 Ladies Eat & Drink for ½ price!
8-10 Men Eat & Drink for ½ price!
Reversed Margueritas & Rum Smoothies $1.00
Rootie Kazooties
Thornes Market, Northampton 586-3878
(next to Steve Herrell's Ice Cream)

Branagan's
food&spirits
Monday Night Football
50c Draft 75c Hot Dogs
Popcorn & Pretzels 9-12
RT 9 At University Drive, Amherst

Do You Want A Single?

V.I.R.U.S.

Come to the Housing Assignment Office Rm. 235 Whitmore and fill out a V.I.R.U.S. request form.

V.I.R.U.S. is the new Variable Rate Structure which permits students to gain double singles, design singles, or triple-doubles and to guarantee their privacy and extra living space for a semester by paying a $25, $50, or $75 surcharge.

Does V.I.R.U.S. sound like it's for you? Then come to the Housing Assignment Office and fill out a V.I.R.U.S. request form.

DO IT TODAY!

John Lincoln Wright played at the Hatch Friday night. Hailing from Nashville, he and his band played in the country-rock vein which had the crowd up and dancing. (Staff photo by Vince DeWitt)

★ Film

continued from page 5

dividual? Hurt's authentic make-up is bothersome. It makes The Elephant Man too similar to the old Hollywood monster movie in which we stare at—and care for—the monster simply because it is a monster.

This could be Lynch's whole point and, if so, it is an important one. As characters within the film encounter Merrick, they either jeer or stare. They gape at him as we gape at screen monsters. Are we any different or better than the fools within the film? Like them, we can hardly keep our eyes off Merrick's heinous form.

By filming his work entirely in black and white, Lynch successfully transforms us into the late nineteenth century world which is Merrick's: England entering the industrial Age. It is an age in which man encounters automated machinery, another kind of monster, for the first time, as he leaves the woods and enters the thundering factories. The film is dark and moody, conveying feelings of fear and anger. Just as people encounter the Elephant Man, they encounter the modern age—headlong and without knowledge or care.

The Elephant Man is The Phantom of the Opera carried one step further. It involves the "monster" within society as he meets people who care for him and is drawn out to its ineveitable conclusion.

The Elephant Man is a tragedy of sorts, made all the more tragic because it is based on actuality. It is a film which raises important questions in the viewer's mind, as any work of art should.

JOBS AVAILABLE

The Collegian has openings for Assistant Night Production Managers. Applications will be available Monday, October 27 in the Collegian offices.

The Collegian is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer.

TRICK or TREAT yourself to one of these fine LP's!

For Only 4.19 5.98 List

Available Only At

FOR THE RECORD

(located in Faces Amherst Center)

PLUS MANY OTHER UNADVERTISED SPECIALS INCLUDING:

Come and Check Us Out!
Open Mon. - Sat. 10-6
Fridays 'til 9
256-6134

LITTLE FEAT
Sailin' Shoes
Dixie Chicken
Feats Don't Fail Me Now
The Last Record Album

BONNIE RAITT
Give It Up
Takin My Time
Streetlights
Home Plate

Available For The Same Incredible Price of 4.19

UM finishes season with tri-meet victory

By Mark P. Buckley
Collegian Staff

The Minutewomen finished their fall season last Friday afternoon on a winning note as they easily beat Mount Holyoke College and Springfield College in the cold weather at Hickory Ridge Country Club in Amherst.

"I think we've had a very fine season," UMass women's golf coach Jack Leaman said. "We'll be very strong in the spring and ready to challenge Amherst College for the New England Championship."

UMass was led by junior Karen LaVerdiere who topped all finishers with a score of 85.

"I had a couple birdies, but I was scrambling and I missed a few close putts," said LaVerdiere.

Twelve shots behind LaVerdiere's 85 was the second best score of the day, a 97 which both Robin Hayes of UMass and Katie Kiel of Mt. Holyoke finished the eighteen holes with.

"I wasn't consistent today," said Hayes. "My drives were good, but my short game, chipping and putting, did me in."

UMass senior Judy Simonds, who was playing in the last match of her college career had a score of 98.

"I finished on top of my game and I think our whole team did," said Simonds. "I think this team will be stiff competition and they'll be really exciting to watch next spring."

"Judy was our unsung captain and our spiritual leader," Leaman said.

The fourth score for UMass was a 110 which belonged to sophomore Jane Egan. Egan was playing in her first tournament of the year.

"I'm happy with today's score," said Egan. "I would like to get down to the nineties in the spring."

The total score for the Minutewomen was 390. Mount Holyoke College finished with a score of 408, and Springfield had a 433.

The UMass men's lacrosse team defeated Army yesterday 10-9 in a fall lacrosse exhibition game held on a windy lower Boyden field.

Booters dump Yale, 4-0

By Maureen Sullivan
Collegian Staff

The UMass women's soccer team posted its fifth consecutive shutout Saturday, with a 4-0 win over Yale University in New Haven.

Torrential rains and heavy winds set the pace for both teams, as they kept the ball mostly on the ground.

Natalie Prosser got the Minutewomen on the scoreboard, with an assist from Deborah Pickett. A 25-yard kick from Maddie Mangini gave UMass a 2-0 lead going into halftime.

In the second half, UMass kept the ball on the ground, while the defense kept Yale away from the UMass goal. Deanna Denault scored UMass' third goal, while junior Angie Cauoette finished the tallying for the Minutewomen. Both were assisted by Pickett.

"The defense did a good job, and Kelly (Tuller, the UMass goalie) was great," said UMass coach Ken Banda, "considering the conditions, we played a good game. Yale wasn't a bad team, but they weren't as fast as us."

UMass heads to Cambridge Tuesday afternoon for a contest against top-ranked Harvard University.

★ Men's soccer

continued from page 16

challenge.

UMass had some scoring opportunities, especially in the second half, when they could not take advantage of ten corner kicks. As Coach Russ Kidd put it, "we played well in spots."

UMass came up with a big save at 14:50, after a UConn shot bounded by Olsher, who had come out of the goal. Fullback Dave Harrington made a sliding run and kicked the ball away from the net.

UConn did not let up on the offensive pressure and scored two more goals to finish off the scoring. At 8:25 Graziano Cornolo taking a pass from Erhardt Kapp made a drive to the right corner and let off a shot which bounded over Olsher.

The last goal was another Harrington play. Unfortunately this time the UMass fullback could not reach the ball in time. Domingo Carlos was awarded the goal.

Coach Kidd was disappointed with the number of UMass shots on goal. The team had only 12 compared to UConn's 41. But as Kidd put it, UConn has an "awesome offensive" and "played with a lot more confidence" than the Minutemen.

UMass keeper Olsher had 11 saves, while Jim Davidson faced one shot while replacing the injured Olsher for eight minutes of the first half.

The Stables

Mon. 11 AM Soup & Sandwich $1.35
4 Pm American Chop Suey $2.25
Tues. all day Roast Chicken $2.75
Wed. all day Kielbasa & Sauerkraut $2.50
Thur. all day Pot Roast $2.99
Fri. all day Macaroni & Cheese $2.05

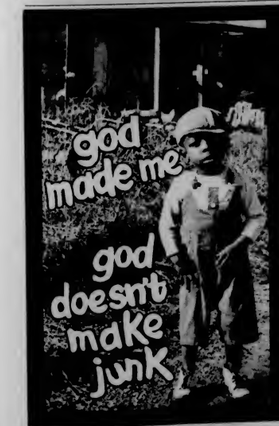
Rt. 9 Hadley Opposite Mt. Farms Mall

Another SUPER 5 o'Clock Special
5:00 p.m. till Closing
Monday, Oct. 27th

FREE CIDER AND DONUT HOLES WITH THE PURCHASE OF A HAMBURGER OR CHEESEBURGER!

at
Worcester Snack Bar 7:00 a.m. - 9:00 p.m.
Hampden Snack Bar 7:30 a.m. - 1:00 a.m.

Don't Miss It. . .One Day Only!

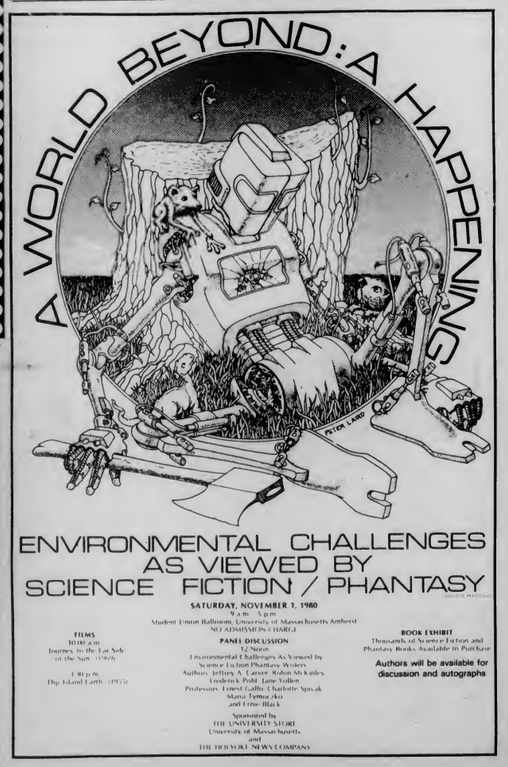


You have something to share with the people of the rural South and Appalachia — yourself. Find out how you can help, as a Catholic Brother, Sister, or Priest. Your request will be treated confidentially.

- ☐ I'd like information about opportunities with the Glenmary Missioners and the free poster.
- ☐ I'd like a free copy of the poster only.

Glenmary Missioners
Room 12 Box 46404
Cincinnati, Ohio 45246

Name_____
Address_____
City_____ State_____
Zip_____ Age_____



ENVIRONMENTAL CHALLENGES AS VIEWED BY SCIENCE FICTION / PHANTASY

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1980
9 a.m. - 5 p.m.
Student Union Ballroom, University of Massachusetts Amherst
NO ADMISSION CHARGE

FILMS
10:00 a.m.
Journey to the Far Side of the Sun (1969)
1:30 p.m.
The Island Earth (1955)

PANEL DISCUSSION
12 Noon
Environmental Challenges As Viewed by Science Fiction Phantasy Writers
Authors Jeffrey A. Carver, Robin Mckinley, Frederick Pohl, Jane Yolen
Professors Forest Gaffin, Charlotte Spivack, Mama Tymoszko and Lynne Black

Sponsored by
THE UNIVERSITY STORE
University of Massachusetts
and
THE HERVERT NEWS COMPANY

BOOK EXHIBIT
Thousands of Science Fiction and Phantasy Books Available At Purchase
Authors will be available for discussion and autographs

Sports

BU beats UMass, 3-0

A field goal makes the difference

By Jonathan Hamilton
Collegian Staff

BOSTON—A rain-drenched afternoon with gale-force winds whipping across Nickerson Field made it virtually impossible for the University of Massachusetts football team to move the ball with any consistency Saturday. The Minutemen and Terriers were thwarted time and time again in their drives up the field while playing in the cruelest weather conditions as Boston University eeked out a 3-0 victory.

"We didn't play BU today. We played the weather, and BU played the weather better than we did," UMass coach Bob Pickett said.

The only scoring of the day came late in the first half with only :22 seconds remaining. After UMass' Garry Pearson (18 carries, 57 yards) coughed up the ball to BU's Howard Hawkins on the UMass 44, the Terrier's quarterback Jim Jensen, (8-16, 80 yards, one interception) directed his team with the aid of a personal foul penalty against UMass and a big, ten-yard keeper down to the Minuteman 17 yard line. In came BU place kicker Jeff Pelin, who, kicking into the driving rain and wind, connected on a 32-yard field goal to put his team up for good, 3-0.

Both running backs, Greg Drew of BU and Pearson of UMass, were held pretty much in check throughout the game because of the weather and the defenses. Pearson though, did not play the second half because of a thigh injury. Because of that and the fact the passing attack was practically non-existent for UMass on this day, the injury to Pearson dimmed any hopes for a UMass comeback.

UMass quarterback Tim Fontaine completed seven of 16 passes for only 30 yards and two interceptions. He hit his tight end Mike Barbiasz three times over the middle. But on one of those completions in the second period the play was called back because of a holding penalty.

It was particularly evident in the first half that UMass was content to stay on the ground, whereas Jensen opened up the BU offense early in the game with short passes to his backs.

BU did have three scoring opportunities all coming off the foot of Pelin. Only one those chances though were successful but it proved to be the margin of victory.

The UMass loss to BU drops the Minutemen's record to 2-1 in the Yankee conference while BU's remains unblemished at 4-0.

In the second half of Saturday's game, no team could mount a sustained drive except for one by BU early in the fourth quarter which resulted in a field goal attempt that was blocked by Scott Crowell.

For the most part bad field position in the second half plagued the Minutemen as Terrier punter Sean Weeks consistently booted the ball into UMass territory pinning them deep.

Despite the slippery conditions that prevailed on the field the UMass defense put on a stalwart performance. Peter DiTommaso and Eric Cregan shared the most tackles of the day with seven. George Lewis had a quarterback sack good for an eleven-yard loss and six tackles. Defensive Dwayne Lopes had an interception in the fourth period off Jensen.

It just isn't fair

By Kevin Cullen
Collegian Staff

BOSTON—They filed into the locker room, solemnly. There was no need for words. They looked not unlike a group of young athletes attending a wake.

It was their own.

When the University of Massachusetts football team's post-season playoff chances all but died in the monsoon conditions of Boston University's Nickerson Field on Saturday, one was left with a shaking head and four little words: it just isn't fair.

"I don't want to make excuses; that's the easy way out," UMass head coach Bob Pickett was saying, rain still dripping off his soaked face 15 minutes after the game's end. "We played against the weather today, and they (BU) beat the weather."

It is simply a sin that a game of such importance was reduced to a synthetic quagmire with neither team able to play the game of football.

"Hey, the conditions were the same for both teams," said BU head coach Rick Taylor. "UMass is a very emotional team. Last year we didn't play with that kind of emotion, but this year we did. And you saw what happended."

What happened was that BU kicked a field goal and UMass didn't.

"When you allow three points, you expect to win the ball game," Pickett said, dismissing the suggestion that UMass played a very conservative game. "We tried to throw, but what are you going to do in that kind of weather?"

There is no blame to be laid, no fault to be found. This was simply a game where second-guessing is unfounded. The conditions controlled the game.

The injury to Garry Pearson. The injury to Mike Stone. The fumble on the first possession. Reasons can be cited, but all came down to the weather.

And Jeff Pelin.

"I missed one earlier in the half," said Pelin, the BU place-kicker whose 32-yard field goal made the difference. "So that was on my mind. I just wanted to get the kick off. I didn't look up until I heard everybody yell. I just saw it go through. I'll tell you, this is the first time I was ever happy to go one-for-three (in attempts)."

The Yankee Conference title is still there. UMass must beat the University of Connecticut next week, then hope for the Huskies to beat BU the following week for a share of the tile. But such thoughts were far away from the quiet pain of the UMass locker room in the Walter Brown sports complex.

They showered and dressed quietly, those words pounding and resounding in their ears:

It just isn't fair.

MINUTEMAN NOTEBOOK:

What made the loss harder to take was the way BU handled it all. With such exceptions as Pelin and quarterback Jim Jensen, who handled the big win with class, some BU players acted like total jack-asses in the post-game celebration. With shouts of "UMass sucks" in the locker room, one wonders whether the people down on Commonwealth Ave. understand why this sport is played in the first place...UMass punter Ray Larnard was outstanding in the rain for the second week in a row. Larnard averaged 38.8 yards on five kicks...The UMass defense, led by left tackle Eric Cregan, was, again, exceptional holding BU tailback Gregg Drew to just 41 yards on 11 rushes. BU gained just 60 yards on the ground and 80 in the air. Cregan, who had three unassisted and four assisted tackles, was named co-MVP with Jensen and an ABC scholarship will be donated to UMass in his name.

Dill Wilson of the UMass women's cross country team was the fourth UM runner to finish Saturday's race in Boston's Franklin Park. Mass. placed seventh overall. (Staff photo by Jim Graham)

Runners place seventh

By Jim Graham
Collegian Staff

BOSTON — Gale force winds and threatening torrential rains failed to dampen the spirits of the UMass women's cross-country team as they placed seventh in the New Englands last Saturday held on Franklin Park's 3.1 mile course in Boston.

Putting together their best team effort of the season, the UMass squad placed three runners among the top ten finishers in the championship field. Juniors Judy McCrone, third overall in 17:23, and Tricia Moores, fourth in 17:26 together to lead the UMass team in the scoring. Running her best race of the season, Cathy Petrick took tenth overall in 17:50. Dill Wilson was fourth for UMass with Eileen Everett and Caroline Gardner fifth and sixth respectively for the harriers.

"I've been training well lately and I felt really strong and confident. I knew Tricia would be up there with me. She puts eveything she has into each race she runs. Cathy ran a great race. As a team we ran our best," said McCrone, who finished sixth in the New Englands last year.

Vermont's Julie St. Hilaire won the indivual competition and led her team to the overall victory. Rhode Island finished second and Middlebury took third in the team scoring.

"I was impressed with the way everyone pulled together and ran as a team. Judy and Cathy ran the strongest she has all season. Everyone ran to their potential. It was an exciting race," UMass coach Julie LaFreniere said.

After the first mile McCrone and Moores were running in the fourth and fifth positions ahead of the main pack. At the two-mile mark they had moved-up to the third and fourth spots with Petrick running behind the lead pack in the 17th position. Over the last mile Petrick passed seven runners to put UMass up in the team placings.

"During the last mile everyone else seemed to run at the same pace so I tried to pick up my pace. I felt so strong and I just tried to pass as many people as I could. I was really pleased with my race," Petrick said.

"My legs felt great, but my upper body felt really bad near the end. When we ran up the hills I noticed Judy slow down a little, so I ran up next to her to help push her. We ran well together," Moores said.

The women's next and final meet will be the Easterns held next Saturday at the Indiana University of Pennsylvania. The top teams in the East will compete for a chance to run the Nationals. Vermont's St. Hilaire is expected to be the leading contender for the indivual title.

Third ranked Connecticut too much for Minutemen

By Sue Bridgman
Collegian Staff

A powerful University of Conneticut team (ranked third in the nation,) proved to be just a bit to much, as the UMass men's soccer team (now 4-9) fell 6-1 to UConn Saturday at Boyden Field.

Driving rain, and gusty wind produced unfavorable field conditions, making it hard to keep sure footing, and especially difficult for the goalies to handle the ball. But the rain did not seem to bother either team as they played with an intense drive.

UConn opened the scoring when Mike Howard made a drive on the goal and shot 10 yards out. The goal came at 15:48 of the first half.

UConn's Charlie McSpritt caught a rebound off the post and banged a shot from 20 yards out, putting the ball in the right corner for UConn's second goal of the game.

UMass could only get off two shots on goal during the first half, both coming off the foot of forward Tony G. Dias.

As the rain and wind slackened off during the second half, UConn picked up momentum and scored four more goals to put the game away.

UMass got a big break at 35:05, when they received a penalty kick in the goal area on a holding penalty by UConn. Tony M. Dias booted the ball into the right corner to put the Minutemen on the scoreboard. The goal gives Tony M. seven on the season.

UConn came right back at 33:40 when after a scramble in front of the UMass goal, Billy Marrone picked up the ball from Comrie, and put it by Olsher coming out to meet the

turn to page 15

NUMMO

VOLUME 9 ISSUE 9 — 27 OCTOBER 1980

COUNT IS 30 AND TEMPERATURES RISING

by Kharmie DeLemos

Across the nation, random, brutal slayings of Black men and children continue STOP Total murder count has risen to 30 STOP ATLANTA: 10 Black children, eight to fifteen years old, found strangled, stabbed and shot; Six still missing STOP Bodies of five children and one adult found in a wooded area in a dense center. Mayor Maynard Jackson terms explosion "accident" STOP BUFFALO: Hearts crudely cut out of corpses of two Black cabdrivers. Red paint spewn over funeral hearse of cabdriver's mutilated cadaver STOP Black escort service owner, Lorell Burney King, approached by an unidentified white man and shot in the head STOP Three Black men and one Black teenager shot down in 36 hours with a .22 caliber semi-automatic; authorities attribute the incidents to one individual serial killer STOP CINCINNATI: Bodies of Darnell Lane, 14, and his cousin Dante Brown, 13, riddled with sniper's bullets as they walked to a neighborhood store to buy soda pop STOP INDIANAPOLIS, OKLAHOMA CITY, SALT LAKE CITY, JOHNSTOWN (PA.): Two Black women and a 42 year old man packing groceries into his car, a mildly retarded Black man exterminating a grocery store, and a 22 year old Black athlete walking with his fiance--all murdered in cold blood, suddenly, and without provocation by white males STOP FLORENCE, KY.: Joseph Paul Franklin, a 30 year old white man with at least twenty aliases, arrested, but escapes STOP Official testimony by people who have encountered Franklin reveals his own boasts of his membership in the Ku Klux Klan, as well as his hatred of Blacks and Jews STOP AMHERST: Bodies of over one hundred Black students found at the Charles Drew House at Amherst College last Saturday, dancing rhythmically to sounds of "More Bounce to the Ounce" STOP Big Thanksgiving turkey dinners, to College Black students from home, to ATLANTA, BUFFALO, CINCINNATI, et al. STOP Think STOP Murders STOP...

Eric Middlebrook

Angel Lanier

Edward Hope Smith

Charles Stephens Jr.,

Alfred J. Evans

Latonya Wilson

ALANTA'S MURDERED CHILDREN

PLEASE FOLD HERE

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Dear Brothers and Sisters,
As you may know Blakc Homecoming is coming soon, the week of November 2nd thru November 9th is the time we have chosen. We feel very much that our people need this event as well. Later this week you will recieve a Schedule of Events. It would be greatly appreciated if you would post this where it will be viable.
One activity that we would really like you to participate in is the Black Homecoming Parade. We are urging all of our Third World Organizations to make banners, representing your particular organization, and march with us on the parade route on November 2nd at 12:00 noon. The march will start from Amherst Center and will end at the New Africa House. After the march, we will have a rededication of the New Africa House and a reception will follow. We are hoping for total participation from the Five-College area.
We cannot emphasize enough the importance of your presence at the "Homecoming Parade" and other events.
We love you and we thank you,
African-American Student Organization

NUMMO NEWS STAFF MEETING
MONDAY 7:30pm
NEW AFRICA HOUSE
ROOM 103
STAFF AND INTERESTED MEMBERS OF THE COMMUNITY PLEASE ATTEND.

PAST ISSUES OF NUMMO NEWS WILL BE AVAILBLE IN THE NEW AFRICA HOUSE FOYER MONDAY OCTOBER 27, 1980

FREE!
Drop-In Childcare
at
EVERYWOMEN'S CENTER
Saturday 9am to 1pm
Beginning
OCTOBER 18, 1980
For More Information Call: 546-0883

WANTED: Search Committee Members to select Coordinator for Third World Cultural Center in the Orchard Hill-Central area. Committee interested in serving on the committee contact Lois Lord at 545-7187 after 7:00 P.M. by Friday Nov. 2, 1980.

Fiesta de Solidaridad con el Pueblo Cubano. Habra musica: reggae, salsa, nueva trova y merengue con Ray y sus Cubanos. El Sabado Noviembre con Ray y sus Cubanos. El Sabado Noviembre 1, 1980 8:00pm - 5:00am. Donacion 1:50. Celebrada por la Union Latina. La Solidaridad Latino-Americana, Patria Libre, Frente Unido, El Comite de Asuntos Raciales, La Oficina de Asuntos Raciales Mundiales, NUMMO NEWS

"The Mental Health System in Cuba". Eduardo Bermudez Perez, Ministry of Health, Cuba. Thursday, October 30th 7:00 to 9:00pm New Africa House
sponsored by: Afrik-Am Society, Ahora, Third World Affairs, Center for Racial Studies, SCERA
NUMMO NEWS, La Familia

November 20, 1980
Carter (except for the fact that he was the leader of two evils) he challenged the crowd to run on their record and then vote on November 4.

DRUM
You are invited to share in the interpretations of the Black experience. Contributions of poems, essays, fiction, artwork and photography are now being accepted for the fall 80-81 edition of Drum magazine. Address your submissions to:
DRUM
115 New Africa House
UMASS, Amherst, MA 01003
no later than November 20, 1980

Come accept the invitation and SHARE YOUR MIND with the world. All contributions become the property of DRUM.

Third World Party
472 Southwest St. Amherst:
November 1, 1980.
At 11:00 P.M.

News information collected from:
Guardian
New York Times
Washington Post
Unity
County Voice-Noticiero Latino

CORRECTION

Last week's NUMMO carried an article by Gary Lee on the rise of fascist groups in Greensboro, N.C. were members of the Communist Party. They were not. They were members of the Communist Workers Party.

RACIST VIOLENCE AND THE ELECTIONS

If you think seriously about claims of each of the three major candidates for the office of President about their opposition to racism you can not help but be a little disillusioned about the political process in this country.

The fact of the matter is that to Carter, Reagan and Anderson talk of the elimination of racism is just part of their plan to win the black vote. They are not serious fighters in the struggle against racism. None of their programs calls for the outlawing of racism. One must ask how it is that candidates who claim to be against racism and chauvinism do not feel obliged to call for the punishment of perpetrators of racist crimes and the outlawing of organizations which deny Afro-Americans, Jewish people and Catholics basic human rights. This is sheer hypocrisy.

While children are murdered in Atlanta, blacks are killed in Buffalo, and the Nazi's stage demonstrations which call for the elimination of the Jewish people, Carter is busy charging that Reagan is a racist and Reagan is busy doing the same to Carter. Neither of them is coming up with solutions to halt the rapid rise in racially motivated crimes.

Meanwhile, Reagan has won the endorsement of the Ku Klux Klan and Carter's own party, the Democrats, have a Klansman running on their ticket in San Diego. It took Reagan a month to refuse the endorsement, and Carter has yet to denounce the nomination of Tom Metzger, the head of the California Klan, for the office of Congress. Anderson has claimed that both Reagan and Carter are racists; but the same holds true for him. He has not come up with a plan to halt the precipitous rise in anti-human actions against blacks and other minority groups.

This is a sad state of affairs. Its even sadder to think that 50-60 percent of the eligible voters won't vote. They know there is not big difference between the "three stooges". And they know that the "three stooges" are pro-business to the core, and do not give a damn if the Klan becomes a major force in this country. Because they know that the lips of Carter, Reagan and Anderson are sealed when it comes to the real hard-core fight against the spread of racism.

It was recently reported that the Klan has been operating a training center for KKK terrorists in northern Alabama. This is illegal. But the police, the FBI and Presidential candidates Carter, Reagan and Anderson haven't done a thing to stop it. The Grand Dragon of the Invisible Empire in Alabama,Roger Handley, boasts that it is part of their plan to foment a "race war". To make matters worse, the Klan calls their terrorist training camp My Lai, after the village in which U.S. armed forces massacred Vietnamese civilians in cold blood.

The October issue of Black Enterprise has an article about a new white supremacist group named "The Emancipation of Our White Seed". They are under investigation by the FBI for the attempted assassination of Vernon Jordan, President of the Urban Leage. "White Seed" ' advocates the re-enslavement of Afro-Americans and the complete extermination of Jewish people. They claim to have organizations in 34 states. They are suspected of plotting to kill serveral national black leaders in order to start a "race war" which they see as inevitable.

A people's presidential candidate would call for the outlawing of groups like the Nazi's, the Klan and the "Whitee Seed". Not only would a people's candidate push for laws but they would also push for the enforcement of those laws.

We should no longer tolerate the excuse put up by the "three stooges" that all groups have the "Right" to exist. Groups like the Klan, Nazis and others exist for the expressed purpose of attacking people's basic human rights. They sould therefore not be allowed to exist.

Voting for the "lesser of two evils" is not going to help eradiacte the problem of racist violence. If you are going to vote you should vote for one of the progressive Third Party candidaces. We must send a message to Washington that the politics of the two old parties and Anderson do not represent the interests of the people to five free from the threat of racism.

reprinted from the GUARDIAN

THE KLAN PREPARES FOR A RACE WAR

KKK demonstration in California earlier this year.

By Kenny Thomas

Memphis, Tenn.-The Invisible Empire faction of the Ku Klux Klan has set up paramilitary training camps in at least four southern and two northern states. Nashville Tennessean reporter Robert Dunnavant recently visited one of them near Cullman, Ala.

According to statements made to Dunnavant, the camps are to prepare for a race war. Terry Tucker, commander of the Alabama camp and advisor to units in Georgia, Mississippi and Tennessee, told the Tennessean: "The communists and the Jews are dominating everything and giving more and more to the Negro population, and I just think all the rest of the Klan's people are fed up with it like me."

What the Klan's plans are when it gets "fed up" are reflected in the name of the Alabama camp, "My Lai." "We named it in honor of Lt. William Calley and the good deed he done in Vietnam," said Tucker.

The Klan's preparations for a coming race war or revolution are meticulous, to say the least. The hand-picked "Special Forces," 15 man and one woman, had target practice with semi-automatic AR-15 rifles (similar to the Army's M-16 and probably convertible to it) and ran through an obstacle course while Dunnavant was there. The camp is moved every week to evade detection by police, even though Tucker says, "everything is legal right down to the wire." Finally, the group has secret caches of arms and ammunition.

According to the Tennessean, the Invisible Empire Klan, headed by Bill Wilkinson of Louisiana, is the fastest-growing Klan group in the country. One of the most dangerous aspects of its growth, and that of similar paramilitary right-wing groups, is its connections with official police forces.

Tucker says that Klan sympathizers in the police do background checks on Special Forces applicants. In Nashville, Tex Moore, grand dragon of the Tennessee Invisible Empire, said a Nashville policeman instructed Klan children in marksmanship. Nashville police officials say that in the past such claims had proven groundless, but they plan to investigate Moore's statement.

In addition, a high proportion of the would-be guerrillas has had prior military training. Tucker puts the figure at close to 90 per cent. One member, who identified himself to Dunnavant only as "Toney," says he was a sergeant in the Green Berets. Other members claim experience in Army ranger units. "I don't think there is any tactical squad in the state we couldn't stand against," Tucker boasts.

Besides training for guerrilla warfare in rural areas, the Klan also claims to have set up urban groups patterned after police SWAT teams, including one in Nashville. Moore said several of the urban guerrilla groups have had training from police SWAT teams. He would not say how many teams there are or where they are located.

The "race war" theme runs through Moore's statements. "We are training not for a race war," he said, "but like the old Boy Scout motto, we want to be prepared."

ANTI-BUSING FORCES SPEAK OUT

By: Monai Rodriguez

White supremacy mentality and anti-"busing" coercion are once more instigating racial trouble at South Boston High School. Rights of this city's Black population to a quality education are being endangered.

Racist followers organized by the South Boston Information Center (SBIC) have provoked violent acts at South High, proceeding this up with a white boycott of the school.

Also at the save time, allies of SBIC on the Boston School Committee are purging liberals and progressives from administrative positions within the 67,000 student system. This offensive strategy commenced in August with the firing of liberal school superintendent Robert Wood by the school board.

Meanwhile Boston's school administration, is in Chaos. After Wood was fired, Boston School Committe appointed Paul Kennedy as acting superintendent. On Ontober 8, Kennedy announced his plans to "reorganize" the school department by "letting go " of 60 administrators and terminating interscholastic sport programs. Out of the intended 60 most were hired during Wood's 1978-80 term.

The pretentious reason for the cutbacks is financial. Yet on-lookers have pointed out that the school budget has been arbitrarily used as a political weapon by mayor White and the school committee. Leaders from the Black community have proclaimed that Kennedy as a temporary superintendent has no authority to carry out plans of reorganization.

Meanwhile, Mayor Kevin White, recently forcefully admitted that "Boston is a racist city." White, for the first time in his 12-year tenure acknowledged that "minorities are not granted equal access to the city's institutions". Yet the mayor has failed to fulfill antiracist promises he made last year during his reelection campaign.

Last week, John O' Bryan, the sole Black member of the Boston school committe filed a legal complaint regarding the firing of ex-superintendent Wood. O'Bryan stated that his calling for an investigation into the firing was based partly on the ARA vote.

At a press conference O'Bryan suggested that the 3-vote reactionary majority of the committee agreed in advance on Wood's expulsion. O'Bryan nor moderate Jean Sullivan McKeigue were informed of the meeting in which the group discussed the firing of the superintendent or the appointment of Kennedy as acting superintendent.

Despite significance of developments, Blacks standing on the issue is to caution viewing the situation as total reemergence of the mass-based, virulent racism that came about in mid-1970's over court-ordered desegragation. Unfortunately Black fight back strategy to the recent events is still somewhat individualized and without and overall plan.

In relating to this development is the wildcat strike by bus drivers over safety and security issues. The strike, at its nineth day now was a result of long-standing grievances by the drivers, many of whom are Third World People.

Eventhough right-wing forces has shown considerable strength in South Boston and on the school committe, many people believe that the situation is politically different that the response to busing in the mid-1970's.

In the works of Black State Rep. Mel King; "We've been in a laid-back position, letting the counter movements get up a head of steam inconsistent with their members and the general will of the people".

Head of the multinational Boston Peoples Organization and a long time city Black leader, King expressed sentiments of other observers who feel that the recent turmoil has at this point been isolated in the back pockets of anti-"bussing" powers: South Boston and the school committee. Violence has yet to erupt in other white concentrated areas like East Boston, Charlestown and Hyde Park. All of these neighborhoods had experienced mass racial conflict in the on-set of bussing.

FBI VS BLACK PANTHERS

Richard (Dhoruba) Moore former head of the New York Chapter of the Black Panther Party, recently filed suit against the Federal Bureau of Investigation charging the F.B.I. and local New York Agencies framed him for his political activities.

Moore is currently serving time at the metropolitian Correctional Center in Manhattan. Moore was convicted on charges of attempting to murder two polic officers in 1971.

In Documents gathered from the F.B.I. to support his case, details were uncovered as to how the F.B.I. attempted to destroy the New York Black Panther Party.

The documents, which are part of cointelpro, the F.B.I.'s counter intelligence program designed to eliminate progressive and radical groups, show a campaign of anonymous phone calls, forged letters, hate mail, threats to destroy not only the New York Black Panther Party but the entire Black Liberation movement of the late 1960's and early 1970's.

Anti-Nazi demonstrators in Evanston, Ill., Oct. 19 battle policemen who are protecting 11 Nazis.

Asian Affairs

Yat Man
Richard Mei, Jr.

Racism in Comics: Political and Economic Significance

With the increased economic competition from Japan, the recent emergence of China as a major superpower, and the latest U.S. military defeats in Vietnam, the American media can be expected to use vicious stereotypes against Asians. The media has often developed and re-enforced stereotypes that perpetuates racism towards Asians. One of the most influential media is comic books and comic books have contributed greatly in presenting distorted images of Asians. These racist images are whipped up for economic and political reasons and they instigate antagonism and hatred, especially during wartime.

Though much has been said about racism in the established media, racism in comic books remains largely uncharted territory. Since the average comic may sell "200,000 copies per month, and since there are around 100 titles, the circulation of comics books in the U.S. exceeds several million copies per month, a circulation which clearly surpasses the circulation of most popular magazines."[1] As a result unfortunately, many American views of Asia are largely influenced by the images of Asians depicted in comics.

Comics are a convenient channel by which the grossest stereotypes are expressed in the name of fantasy. For example, the image of Fu Manchu, born during the early days of the pulps and cheap thrill magazines, is of the sadistic and cunning "Chinaman" always drooling over white women and plotting to take over the world. Flash Gordon, in movies and comics, saves the earth from the hordes of the insidious Ming the Merciless of the planet Mongo. Of course, comics are more than stories of the imagination; comics are a very big business and, like all big businesses, subject to the demands of the economic market. Therefore, during times of economic and political crises, comics can be expected to present racist stereotypes to meet the demand.

During World War II and subsequent conflicts in Asia, comics provided a clear example of big business and government efforts to create blind patriotism. The image of the cruel, deformed and squinty-eyed Japanese soldier was embedded in the minds of many Americans. "Behind the tinsel and brightly colored cover lie the cold economic and political pressures that use racism for propaganda and profit."[2]

While Asians in comics are portrayed as sly, buck-toothed or sadistic, Asia was presented as a "land of cruelty and dimly lit opium dens, where lives are cheap and expendable."[3] In one comic titled "Dragon Lady," two Americans were pictured having a zoo filled with Asians which the Americans referred to as the lowest form of life. Cold war comics served a definite function: to produce an ill-feeling towards Asia, thus promoting an atmosphere favorable for military intervention. For example, the atrocity committed at My Lai during the Vietnam War was tolerated because of the stereotype images that Asian life is cheap and expendable. As a consequnce, bombings, napalm and defoilation have been tolerated.

In conclusion, the media has embarked upon a more blatant and sophisticated version of racism which is directly influenced politically and economically to present stereotyped, racist images. In one not too old issue of National Lampoon for exasmple, the Chinese people are represented as a pack of rats bent on conquering the U.S. by flooding it with millions of other rats. This National Lampooon story indicates a new trend of racist humor that makes our trip to the concentration camps, once again, that much closer.

Notes:1-Michio Kaku "Racism in the Comics", Bridge,The Basement Workshop, 22 Catherine St., New York, N.Y.,p.25

2-Thomas M. Martinez, "How Advrtising Promotes Racism," Civil Rights Digest,Fall 1969 p.10 3-ibid.,p.29

illustration by Jeff Nishinaka

My Name Is Hawaii

My name is Hawaii
My race, Hawaiian,
Pilipino, Chinese,
Japanese, Portugese, Etc.

I have been colonized
My land no longer
Belongs to me.
My name is, Hawaii.
My culture, is submerged.

My mother and father
Have been killed.
My brothers and sisters are slaves.

I will not give my
People up to the colonizers.
My name is, Hawaii.
I am tired.
But, I am strong.
And, I will FIGHT
To free my people!
My name is, Hawaii.
My name is, Hawaii.

For some people... "the Pacific islands project an image of an idyllic paradise with sandy beaches, balmy air, carefree natives and romantic nights. It comes as something of a surprise, then, to learn that there are now more than twice as many Samoans in the United States as in American Samoa itself. We do not hear of the periodic imposition and dismantling of United States military installations and industries which pulls the island into our economic sphere and prevents the development of Samoan self-sufficiency. These conditions, created after World War II, propelled whole families to Hawaii and communities which now dot the West Coast from Seattle in the north to San Diego in the South.

from IN MOVEMENT - Visual Communications

courtesy of the Asian-Pacific Student Union Art Collective reprinted from Huli newspaper, 1972.

Asian News : In Brief

FIGHT FOR LANGUAGE RIGHTS

KUALA LUMPUR -A government decision to use Malay in the nation's schools has aroused resentment among Malaysia's Chinese minority and posed a new challenge to the nation's delicate political balance.

The Chinese, who make up about 35 percent of Malaysia's population and who dominate its economy, found English an acceptable "neutral" language for instruction.

But the Malay-dominated government's decision to make Malay the main language of instruction in the nation's schools by 1983 has led to a Chinese scheme to set up a Mandarin-language school called Merdeka (Independence)University.

The government has rejected the Chinese proposal on the grounds it violates the new Malay-language policy. The Chinese, in return, are charging that the rejection is "unconstitutional" and are making plans to challenge the decision in court.

"The suit seeks not only to solve the problem of mother-tongue education and the opportunity for tertiary education but also to set the pace through constitutional means to realize the fundamental rights on non-Malays in the field of politics, economy and culture," Lin Fong Seng, chairman of the Merdeka University Committee, said.

Race relations in Malaysia, a former British colony, have never been good and could take a new beating as a result of the educational dispute.

Bloody race war between the Chinese and Malays erupted briefly following the end of the Japanese occupation during World War II and again in 1969.

In recent years, the government has launched a determined drive to uplift the status of the native Malays, or "Bumiputras," who have lagged far behind the business-minded Chinese.

The Chinese community has grown increasingly concerned about the erosion of its cultural and economic rights.

In recent years, increasing numbers of non-Malay students, particularly the Chinese, have gone overseas for their higher education. Of the 20,000 Malaysian students in Britain, the United States, Canada, Australia and New Zealand, more than 90 percent of them are Chinese.

With several of these countries tightening up on the admission of third world students to their universities, thousands of Chinese students have been unable to win admission to overseas institutions. The Malay-language decision has worsened their plight.

CHINA POLICY: ONE CHILD PER COUPLE

BEIJING -China will launch a "crash program" to stabilize its growing population by limiting every married couple to one child, Communist Party Chairman Hua Guofent said Sept. 7.

For the past year, most Chinese cities have been awarding monthly bonuses and other financial subsidies to couples who stop after one baby, but Hua said the State Council now "deems it necessary" to enforce the policy nationwide "so that the rate of population growth may be brought under control as soon as possible."

Hua's announcement of the "crash program," the most ambitious population-control policy every adopted by a major power, came in a speech to the National People's Congress that attacked overpopulation, an overcentralized economy, and an overweight bureaucracy as the chief obstacles to China's modernization.

In an apparent reference to the Soviet Union, Hua said China's present tightly controlled, centrally planned economic system had been "copied from abroad when we had little experience" and needed to be restructured to conform with "the specific conditions of China's socialist construction."

Announcements

The Asian American Students Association now meets every Tuesday at 6:30 P.M. in Mary Lyon lounge.

Jean Klm, counsellor in student development, will be conducting workshops at three meetings of the AASA. These are: Nov. 4, on group dynamics, Nov. 18, on leadership and on Dec. 2, on study skills.

Eco Latino

Puerto Rican or American

by Gertrudis Garcia

Everybody accepts that an individual is not the same at all times. As individuals affected by the surroundings and inheritance our perceptions and behavior toward different stimuli determine our personalities.

In the case of the Puerto Rican people not only the surroundings determine their personalities. But also the political system in which they live, could be pointed out as as another major determinant of their personalities. As a result of the colonial imperialism Puerto Ricans today are confronted with: two languages, two religions, two flags, two citizenships, and two "nations." Puerto Ricans could be viewed as living in adventageous conditions; the reality is that these dualities affect some aspects of their society, at times alienating their social values.

When the U.S. invaded Puerto Rico in 1898, the country was in the process of obtaining a more autonomist government from Spain. With the U.S. invasion this process was stopped and P.R. was ceded by Spain to the U.S., as a war booty.

As soon as the new administrator of the colony was in power, the offical language was changed from Spanish to English. In the public schools the teaching methods were drastically changed, classes started to be conducted in English.This experince was confusing and sad for teachers, students, and parents. Later the U.S. system was faced with the resistance of the Puerto Rican people to keep their language.This resistance resulted in the discontinuance of English as theofficial language.

All invaders use two types of persons to explore the new territories; these two types of persons are soldiers and missionaries. The U.S. was no exception to this rule. They sent Protestent missionaries that at the same time that they inspected the conditions on the island, were imposing their religion. In such a subtle way the U.S. tried to change the religion in Puerto Rico. Even tough the Protestant religion was introduced in P.R. more than 60 years ago, Catholism is still the religion of the Puerto Rican people.

The imposition of the flag of the victorious nation is another " symbolism" that is used when a nation defeats another in war. Although the Puerto Rican flag was officially recognized in 1952, when the colonial status was given the name of "Free Associated State", it had been designed by revolutionaries as far as 1895. Today Puerto Ricans have in front of them two flags, each one representing different nations, people , and values. It is ironic to note that in P.R. those who were forced to fight in World War I, World War II, Korean and Vietnamese Wars and died, their coffins were covered with the American flag. Mothers, wives, and sons of Puerto Rican soldiers who died in action were given pieces of metal (called medals). In addition they received the flag of the nation responsible for their death.

If the flag with fifty (50) stars and white and red stripes represents liberty and security in other parts of the world, in Puerto Rico it represents political repression, cultural assimilation and death to the country's youth.

Now what is the Puerto Rican citizenship• Is the feeling of belonging to the nation of Puerto Rico and not to any other land. In Puerto Rico, those born of Spaniards, as time progressed established their roots in their native country. They no longer believed themselves to be Spanish,natives(indians) or Africans. They identified themselves as a nation with distinctive traits from those of the mother land. For this reason, they fought against Spain in order to obtain their independence. By 1898, when the U.S. invaded P.R., Spain had already recognized the Puerto Rican citizenship. However the U.S. has failed to recognize it. Instead of recognizing the Puerto Rican citizenship the U.S. imposed theirs on Puerto Ricans in 1917. Those who considered themselves Puerto Ricans and not Americans suffered repression and lost their political rights. Repression or no repression the resistance and struggle to defend the Puerto Rican citizenship is very strong.

All these dualites that exist in P.R. represent problems to the annexionist forces in the island and in the U.S. The last six years of the political history of P.R. are proof that while the culture and values there were attacked by the "uncontrolled americanism" of many, these culture and values were reinforced by the masses. Puerto Rican fought against Spain to defend their identity, and they are going to fight against the U.S. also and to protect it once again.

After 82 years of imperialism that tried to destroy the Puerto Rican nation, there are individuals that believe themselves to be Americans and not PUERTO RICANS.These are a minority. It is this minority that no matter where they are, try to hide those traits that identify them as Puerto Ricans.

This people are not mentally assimilated,but instead spiritually assimilated. In the near future when the chains that impede the independence of Puerto Rico break, those that feel themselves Americans and not Puerto Ricans will suffer in the "limbo" of the undefined. This will happen because even though they could feel Americans they are going to be seen (by other Americans) as Puerto Ricans. They will be unable to live in Puerto Rico because they would feel that their language is English, their flag that with the fifty stars, their netional enthem The Star Spangled Banner, and their nation The United States of America.

Contrary to this assimilated minority, Puerto Ricans are people proud of their identity. They love their nation, their flag, their language and their religion. They know that no culture is superior to another. They do not have to struggle in their minds to understand if they are Puerto Ricans or Americans. No matter the dualities that the system imposes on them, they know that they are unique.

They are PUERTO RICANS!

Nature is everything created by itself... as something supreme did within time and space.

Seasons bring the environment for fruits to grow for gaining maturity...and dying.

Old fashioned human kind has gave us a radioctive world to deal with, and I say: "this maturity is full of power... but to bury everything around".

What the hell can we do? SOMETHING..I isn't this o democracy.

by Roberto Colon

REUNION DE HISPANOS

Con relacion a actividades a llevarse a cabo durante el mes de noviembre. Necesitamos colaboracion y participacion de hispanos en nuestras actividades culturales. Debemos compartir.

Organizacion hispana estudiantil AHORA

Octubre 27 a las 8 pm en el Campus Center, salon 168.

Educacion bilingue en peligro

Bilingual Education under attack

Reprinted from The County Voice Noticiero Latino

The future of bilingual education in the United States is being seriously threatened.

On August 5 this year the Department of Education of the federal government came out with a list of proposed regulations guiding the implementation of bilingual education programs throughout the nation. The regulations set a five year limit on pupuil participation in bilingual education and mandate the reevaluation of students after two years in the program.

According to Education Secretary Shirley M. Hofstedler, the proposed regulations emphasize that students must be taught English as quicly as possible.'' School systems will not be required to provide bilingual programs at the high school level and parental participation will be virtually nonexistent.

Hearings were held in New YOrk last week and 30 Massachusetts citizens turned out to requiest a strengthening of the regulations. Similar hearings will be held in other major cities accross the country.

On August 27, the House of Representati es approved an amendment limiting the enforcement of bilingual education. If approved by the Senate, the Ashbrooke Amendment (introduced by Rep. John M. Ashbrooke, R-Ohio) will prohibit the Department of Education and the Office fo Civil Rights from requiring any form bilingual instruction for limited Engl s speaking students. Bilingual teacf rs would no longer be needed and only English as a Second Language teachers and programs would remain; all existing Law Compliance Plans would be destroyed.

It is imperativethat indi iduals contact their Congressional Representati es (Silvio Conte in Western Mass.) to lobby agaisnt the Ashbrooke Amendment in the House Senate Conference Committee. The passing of this amendment will violate the civil rights and educational opportunity of limited English speaking students in school districts throughout the country.

Reproducido de The County Voice Noticiero Latino

El futuro de la education bilingüe en los Estados Unidos está siendo seriamente amenezado.

El 5 de agosto de 1980, el Departamento de Educación del gobierno federal did e conocer una lista propuestas reglamentarias para llevar e cabo la implementación de los program de educeción bilingüe por toda la nación. Los reglamentos fijan un límite de participación de 5 años por cada estudiante en educación bilingüe y exigen la reevaluación de los estudiantes después de 2 años de partcipación en el programa.

Segun Shirley M. Hofstedler, Secretaria de Educación, estos reglamentos enfatizan que "a los estudiantes se les debe enseñar ingles lo mas pronto posible."

A los sistemas escolares no se les exigirá proveer programas bilingues al nivel secundario y participación de los padres será casi nula. La semana pasada se llevaron a cabo audiencias en Nueva York y 30 ciudadanos de Massachusetts pidieron el refuerzo de los reglamentos. Audiencias similares se llevarán a cabo en otras ciudades principales del país.

El 27 de agosto la Cámara de Diputados aprobó una enmienda limitando le implementación de la educación bilingüe. Si es aprobada por el Senado, la enmienda Ashbrooke (introducide por el Rep. John M. Ashbrooke, R-Ohio) prohibirá al Departamento de Educación y al Departamento de Derechos Civiles el exigir cualquier tipo de instruccion bilingüe a estudiantes cuyo conocimiento del inglés es limitado. No habrá necesidad de emplear a maestros bilingües y solamente maestros y programas de Inglés como Segundo Idioma (ESL) permanecerán, todos los existentes "Planes de Cumplimiento Lau" serán eliminados.

Es urgente que individuos se pongan en contacto con su Congresista (Silvio Conte del oeste de Massachusetts) para que organize oposición contra la enmienda Ashbrooke en el Comité de Conferencia de la Cámara de Senadores. Le aprobración de esta enmienda violará los derechos civiles y la oportunidad de educación de estudiantes cuyo conocimiento del inglés es limitado en distritos escolares por todo el país.

Goldfarb estara en vista publica

Esta noche se llevará a cabo otra vista pública con la "Junta Consejera de la Comunidad" (C.A.B.—Community Advisory Board) de WFCR. Se espera que Robert Goldferb, cuyo contreto como Gerente General de WFCR puede ser o no renovado este 1ro. de noviembre, dependiendo de las recomendaciones de la Junta y del "Western Mass Broadcasting Council" a Daniel Melley, Director de Asuntos Públicos de UMass, esté presente para contestar las preguntas de la Junta. "The Coalition for Public Involvement in Public Redio" también tendrá un portavoz en la viste para responder a las preguntas de esta Junta. La posición de esta Coalición es que, debido a la actitud racista e insensible de Goldfarb con respecto a la programación hispana y a su falta de respeto no sólo por la totalidad de la comunidad, sino también por las diversas juntas consejeras de WFCR, su contrato con la universided no debe ser renovado. Se exhorta e la comunidad a que demuestre su apoyo con su presencie.

Goldfarb to appear at public hearing

Tonight there will be another public hearing with the Community Advisory Board of WFCR. Robert Goldfarb, whose contract as General Manager of WFCR may or may not be renewed this Nov. 1 dependant upon the recommendations of the C.A.B. and the Western Mass Broadcasting Council to UMass Public Affairs Director Daniel Melley, is expected to be present to answer questions of the C.A.B. with regards to this issue. The Coalition's position is that, because of Goldfarb's racist and (at very best) insensitive handling of the issue of Spanish—language progremming and his lack of respect for not only the community-at-large but also the various WFCR advisory boards, his contract with the University must be terminated. The community is strongly encouraged to show its support by its presence.

BANGS COMMUNITY CENTER
MONDAY 7:00 pm

"Caribbean Cultural Events"

Three Excellent Concerts

Monday November 3: "Moliendo Vidrio" Concert
Valentine Hall Annex
9:00 P.M.
Amherst College

Friday November 7: Pianist Jorge Dalto and his group "Chevere"
Latin and Brazilian Jazz Music
Buckley Recital Hall Amherst College 8:15 P.M.

Friday November 14: "Ray Barretto" and his Orquestra
Also The Jimenez Brothers Band
Student Union Ballroom. U.Mass. Amherst 9:00 P.M.

U.S. SUPPORT FOR GRENADA

By: L. Furey and A. Nazarrio

Ignorance is a convenient method of oppression: a nation whose oppressive roots are buried deep, and unrealized by the people, is easily controlled for long periods of time in foreign interests.

Education has been recognized by revolutionary governments as absolutely necessary to increase the country's productive capacity and as the strongest counter force of dependency. In order to accomplish the needs of a developing society, a method of education which stresses conscientiousness and political awareness, in addition to basic skills has been instituted. This is why education has been adopted as the initial phase of the revolutionary process in nations that have struggled for their independence.

The literacy campaign that is initiated immediately following an abrupt change in the country's leadership, determines the direction of the new revolutionary government.

Currently in progress in yet another Carribean island of revolutionary struggle is a campaign to combat illiteracy and its oppressive consequences for the people. The People's Socialist Government of Grenada, with revolutionary leader Maurice Bishop, has adapted methods of education to promote and integrate political awareness as well as to increase the productive capacity of the country.

Working to enforce awareness of the Grenedian struggle, is a newly formed chapter of the US--Grenada Friendship Society. Our chapter was officially formed on Friday, September 19, 1980. Though scheduled amidst the W.E.B. DuBois dedication ceremonies at the University, the founding meeting proved both productive and informative.

Karen Wanza, a graduate student in law at the New York University opened the meeting with a brief but informative history of Grenadian struggle. Following was a slide show presentation by Professor Dovi Afesi of the Afro-American Studies Department. Professor Johnetta Cole of the Anthropology Department concluded the meeting by stressing the advantages of solidarity with an English-speaking revolutionary people in the Caribbean for the prospect of world peace.

Since our founding meeting our membership has grown from twenty four to thirty members. We are dedicated to meeting some of the immediate needs of the people in Grenada, as well as providing an educational outreach program in the Amherst community. This program will hopefully fulfill the need of counter-influencing all those subject to US propaganda against the revolutionary struggle in Grenada and throughout the Carribean.

November 19th or 20th there will a be a public educational forum on Grenada including a slideshow, and speakers, please stay tuned to the media for specific details.

THIRD WORLD EVENTS

Thur. Oct.30 Bertha Claude 7p.m.-9p.m. New Africa House
Topic: "Mental Health in Cuba"Discussion will follow presentation

Sat. Nov.1 The Healing of Sugar 8p.m. Bowker Auditorium

Sat. Nov.1 PARTY/FUNDRAISER 9p.m.-5a.m. 47 S.Prospect Amh.
$1.50 Donation at the door Food/Drink/Dance
Proceeds to go to Bertha Claude's travel costs

Mon. Nov.3 Eugenio Balarl 4.p.m.
Topic:"Cuban Economic Policy and Planning For the Cuban Consumer"
Campus Center rm. 174 Discussion will follow presentation.

Mon. Nov.3 Moliendo Vidrio 8.p.m.
Valentine Annex Amherst College $2.00

Wed. Nov.5 "Courage of The People"7.p.m.
Campus Center rm.917 Discussion on Bolivia to follow film.

Sun. Nov.9 PARADE/Rededication of New Africa House
Amherst Center 12 noon

Tue. Nov.11 Ujiima and Company 7.p.m.
Black Poetry and Music,Hampden Theater Southwest

Wed. Nov.12 Manuel Lee of I.C.A.P.[Cuban Institute ForFriendship With ThePeoples]
Topic: "Cuba and the World in the 1980's"a discussion on Cuba's Foreign Policy
Mahar Auditorium 7:30 p.m.

Wed. Nov.12 "No Vietnamese Ever Called Me Nigger"
Malcolm X Center 8:30 p.m.

Thus. Nov.13 Actores Unido/Cibales Dance Group
Hampden Theater Southwest U.Mass. 8.p.m.

Fri. Nov.14 RAY BARRETTO in concert! 9p.m.
Student Union Ballroom U.Mass.

Sat. Nov.22 Gimme 5 8 p.m. Bowker Auditorium

Mon. Nov.24 "Women in Arms" 4 p.m. Smith College
Place to be announced Free of charge.

Mon. Nov.24 "Women in Arms" 8 p.m. U.Mass
Place to be announced $2.00 donation requested

Victoria Shultz, producer of this film on the liberation struggle in Nicaragua will be speaking following each showing of the film.

More activities will be announced soon.Please watch the paper for upcoming details.

For more information on the events listed,please feel free to contact Ahora 545-2479,or Afrik.Am 545-1990

CONT. FROM PAGE 8

THE IRAQ-IRAN WAR

The U.S., however, developed its doubts after confronting stiffer than expected Iranian resistance, and is now trying to find a solution to this crisis. Any serious serious continuation of the way spread the conflict to the other nations of the region, on whose oil the whole Western world depends. The pressures of the war may also increase the people's consciousness in the two countries and stiff resistance to government policies may result when they realize the futility of the conflict.

Iraq whose ultimate objective was the overthrow of the regime in Iran soon realized the futility of this cause, and since for justifying the war it relied on Arab nationalism which alone cannot justify this destructive conflict, now desires a ceasefire and an end to the war.

The problem, however, is that the two countries under no conditions can afford a defeat. The Iraquis who started the aggression from a superior position cannot endure such humiliation while the Islamic Republic, already facing a miscontended and disillusioned angry nation cannot withstand any territorial loss.

This war,however, has helped the Liberals, who have for long, insisted on the reconstruction of what's left of the Shah's army (Banisadr's interview with Newsweek, Sept. 30).

As the conflict unfolds, it becomes more clear that the two sides do not wish to enter into a full scale war. Iran for example has 20,000 crack troopers in Kurdestan (to crash peoples' struggle in Kurdistan) and many unused ground to ground American missiles which it is not using in the conflict (Time Oct.6 & 13). Iraq in its turn has withheld from using its full military might.

The conclusion is that the two regimes , inevitably continue this war, both from a reactionary, counter revolutionary stand. Yet the people of Iran are fighting a heroic battle against the Iraqui invaders. Such heroic resistence is bound to affect the people of Iraq who may end up facing their own repressive regime as the main enemy. This unjustified war between two poor nations cannot but help imperialism in the short run. However the growing mass consciousness of the peoples of Iraq and Iran and their subsequent upheaval will deliver the final blow to this paper tiger and its lackeys.

Meanwhile the duty of all radical and progressive groups inside or outside the two countries is to join in unity against the Iraqui invaders, under a revolutionary banner. The present antagonism between the people of Iran and the regime is overshadowed by the greater threat of the Iraqui invasion. However, the revolutionaries must struggle for a revolutionary front to the Struggle and also render all attempts of compromise and betrayal by the Islamic Republican government impossible. Thus, any acceptance of the leadership of this regime in the war is equivalent to following the steps of the ex-Shah's generals and the counter revolutionary regime they work for.

NUMMO NEWS STAFF

CURTIS HAYNES Editor in Chief
CARLOS VALDEZ Editor Eco Latino
GERTRUDIS GARCIA Editor Eco Latino
RICHARD MAI Editor Asian Affairs
CARL YATES Graphics Editor
BARRON ROLAND Photo Editor

Type Setters

LORRAINE COX
MONSI RODRIGUEZ
THENA COOPER

Other Dedicated Staff and Contributers

YVONNE CHIREAU
GREG TARPINIAN
ZULMA NAZARIO
KHARMIA DE LEMOS
GARY LEE
BARINJIRISEMAJ LYCURGUS
THEO MOORE
TIM FOSTOR
HECTOR BIAGGI
JOSE CHIQUI GARCIA
CHAKA ZULU
TONY CRAYTON
RIA DURRAN
CARMEN TOLEDO
ED COHEN
ROBERT DAVIS
MAREA WEXLER
MAURICIO HERNANDEZ
MARLEAN DUNCAN
BARBARA COVINGTON

MARTIN LUTHER KING III ENDORSES CARTER

photo by Barron Roland

Friday, Martin Luther III came to the University of Massachusatts Campus. King was here on a mission for the Carter Mondale Re-election committee. Speaking to a crowd of approximently 100 people King took the stanca that "If you don't vote for Carter, you will get Reagan." He also stated, that a vote for Anderson will be a wasted vote. In talking about Reagan, King called him (Reagan) a senile old man, and asked the crowd if they would want a senile old man as President. " Be realistic" he said, and vote for who we really think can win and do the most for "us". Although King really did not have a good defanse for voting for Carter (except for the fact that Carter is tha lesser of two avils) he challenged the crowd to look at the record and then vota, on November 4.

King also spoke on student power, saying that with organization, and writing letters to Capital Hill, our demands will be heard.

Martin Luther King III ended his speech with a quote from his father "Nobody told me tha road would be easy, but I don't think he has brought us this far..."

Martin Luther King III shown speaking to interested listeners on the responsibility of the student vote..

NATIONAL NEWSBRIEFS

NATIVE AMERICANS
Black Hills:
Lawsuit dismissed

A U.S. district judge has dismissed a lawsuit by the Oglala Sioux aimed at restoring the Black Hills to the Sioux nation.

"The Oglala Sioux knew it was going to be a hard battle and we plan to exhaust every legal right available to protect our sacred Black Hills," said attorney Mario Gonzalez. "Our position remains the same," ha continued. "The Black Hills are not for sale."

Gonzalez filed the lawsuit in July, petitioning for $11 billion in damages and the restoration of the Black Hills to the Oglala people. Ninety-six defendants were named in the class action suits, including the state of South Dakota; the U.S. government; nine cities, and dozens of large landowners, industries and businesses. The suit asked for $1 billion in damages for "hunger, malnutrition, disease and death" suffered by the Oglala peopla because of the loss of the seven million acres of land.

In addition, the suit sought $10 billion for the loss to the Oglala nation in nonrenewable resources.

According to the Native American monthly Akwesasne Notes, the Oglalas filed the suit to prevent the U.S. Court of Claims from distributing $117 million that the U.S. Supreme Court recently awarded the Sioux Nation in compensation for the 7 million acres of the Black Hills taken illegally in 1877.

"In essenca," Gonzalez said, "the initial taking of the land was unconstitutional and therefore we have been the rightful owners from 1877 until the present time."

Pine Ridge:
Water Contamination

The Indian Health Services (IHS) has confirmed that at least two water wells on the Pine Ridge Reservation in South Dakota are contaminated with radiation exceeding federal "safe" levels.

The confirmation comes six months after the women's group Women of All Red Nations (WARN) noted that water systems on the reservation were contaminated not only with radiation but also toxic chemicals, according to Akwesasne Notes . The miscarriage rate on the Pine Ridge Reservation is more than six times the national average and more than twica that of the average for Indian reservations; WARN suspects the wells are a partial cause.

No action has been taken against the contaminated wells, and Lorelei Means of WARN has charged that the federal officials "are going to make us prove the water is causing the illnesses before we can get our water replaced and that will take years. Meanwhile, we are all going to be drinking contaminated water."

Jim Lawler of the IHS stated the general attitude of the government officials toward tha contaminated wells. "Radiation is natural," said Lawler. "You can get it every day. These federal standards are very conservative. I'd rather put out a warning to tell people to stop smoking."

GUARDIAN

Karen Northcott

Black education:
Suit against biased tests

A decision on a class action suit against racially discriminatory competency tests is expected soon from a district court judge in Tattnall County, Ga.

The suit against the Tattnall County School Board was filed on behalf of 34 Black high school students who were denied diplomas because they did not reach a cut-off score of 9.0 in reading and math tests on the California Achievement Test (CAT). A 2-week trial on the suit ended in late August in Savannah. The students are seeking a permanent injunction against the use of CAT as a diploma requirement.

In addition the suit also charges that: a disproportionate number of Black students are placed in classes for the educable mentally retarded (EMR), thus being denied the opportunity to earn high school diplomas; the school board has tracked Blacks into lower leval ability classes at a disproportionate rate; the segregated school systam has never been fully dismantled, and Black students are subject to harsher discipline that white students.

Attorneys for the students argued that the denial of diplomas has resulted in "emotional harm, diminished employment opportunites, loss of income and restricted access to higher education." Referring to the impact of the tests, the progressive Georgia education newsletter, The Measuring Cup, said: "Living in Tattnall County is difficult enough for its Black citizens, and even more difficult if one does not have a high school diploma or any hope of avery owning one."

Patricial West, a staff member of The Measuring Cup, told the Guardian that Black students have low scores on the CAT at a rate disproportionate to the number of white students. The reason, she said, is because CAT and other standardized tests "were designed by nonBlacks for impoverished Black youngsters who live in a totally different environment, have a different history, set of values, and have a set of facts in their minds that are different from, but as important as the questions on the CAT. You can't expect Black kids to relate to biased tests like that."

FRANK ELAM
October 22, 1980-GUARDIAN

BIRMINGHAM SCHOOL DESEGREGATION PLAN ACCEPTED BY JUDGE

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. -A compromise desegregation plan between the Birmingham School Board and the Justice Department has been accepted by a federal judge, ending the board's 20-year battle over integration.

U.S. District Court Judge J. Foy Guin Jr. said he "gladly" signed a consent dacree in the case, which stems from a 1960 federal lawsuit.

"Had the case gone to trial, Birmingham could have easily gone the way of Louisville or Boston," where forced busing was imposed by the courts, the judge said.

The 24-page compromise desegregation plan was agreed on just days before the two sides were to argue the case in Guin's court.

The plan calls for "magnet" programs and middle schools, with what Guin called "a minimum of voluntary busing." Some all-black and all-white schools will be closed under the plan, and students from those schools are to be sent to middle schools to satisfy integration requirements.

The plan is to go into effect next fall.

'BLACK ENGLISH' PROGRAM IS FOUND 'INCONCLUSIVE'

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct.23 (AP)-A court-ordered program in which Ann Arbor teachers were taught the dialect known as black English has been successful but inconclusive, a judicial raport says.

"We can conclude that the plaintiff students are making progress," said the report ordered by Federal District Judge Charles Joiner, adding, "We can conclude little more than that."

The program stemmed from a suit filed in July 1977 on behalf of 11 children 6 to 13 years old at the Martin Luther King Elementary School in Ann Arbor. In 1979, Judge Joiner ordered the school district to "take steps to help its teachers to recognize the home language of the student and to use that knowledge in their attempts to teach reading skills in standard English."

Education
Discrimination Verified

According to stipulations filed by the Texas Attorney General's Offica, discrimination against Chicano students by the Texas Education Agency is a "historical fact."

Assistant Attorney General Susan Dashar outlined the discrimination in documents filed in U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice's court. Justice ruled that a San Palacio County school district violated the constitutional rights of Chicanos based on 1408 stipulations entered during a November 1979 hearing on a 1971 education case.

The documents revealed that segregation of Chicanos is "a historical fact" in the Texas Public schools; that Texas sanctioned creation of separate school systems through approval of construction bonds which were explicitly designed for the construction or repair of Chicano schools; that Chicano children historically hava been provided inferior school buildings and equipment and that "official publications of the Texas State Deparment of Education reflect a policy of Anglo racial domination over Chicano people."

"Thes admissions make it clear that segregation of Chicano students existed and continues to exist in Texas," Justice wrote, "and that this segregation is entirely traceable to the intentional actions of state education officials."

GUARDIAN CARLOS CALDERON

CHICANO STUDENTS:
San Francisco class boycott

Over 200 Chicano high school students are boycotting classes in Pittsburg, Calif., (A San Francisco area community), protesting racism among several teachers who have told the Spanish-speaking students to "go back to Mexico if you don't understand English."

The students are presently organizing a mass boycott of all 11 schools in the Pittsburg Unified School District. Citing years of frustration over this type of overt racism, Edna Huerta of the Mexican-American Political Association said that the "parents [of students] are tired of people playing with them."

"Martial Arts Brotherhood"

This October, I had tha interesting axperience of observing the festivities of the Chinese National "Tan-Tan" Day (national holiday for the Kuomingtang government on Taiwan) being celebrated in Boston's Chinatown ghatto on Sunday aftarnoon (Oct. 12). In addition to the use of firecrackers and the presences of a gaily-colored performance stage, thera was a mini-parade. This little parade was led by a group of Nationalist flag-waving, pro-Taiwan, anti-communist Chinese college students singing along...while followed by a motley crew of kung-fu and tai chi chuan "camp followers" who were largely black, hispanic or white. These martial artists were in full regalia, complata with kwoon (school) banners, weapons and the famous "dancing lion" head and tail set.

This multi-national, inter-ethnic scene may hava been quite aye-pleasing to serious proponents of racial integration, but lika the integration of the U.S. armed forces, thera are a few underlying problams:

1. The historical use of kung-fu studants by the anti-communist Kuomingtang Party in America's Chinatowns to crush radical, labor or progressive citizens movaments, a.g., the massiva street assault against peaceful pro-China demonstrators by tha Bing Kuan tong (secret society) in May 1978 in San Francisco.

2. The covert racism within the kung-fu kwoon. How many Chinese kung-fu masters would tolarate a black son-in-law?--even if he was the "baddest" student in the school! One noted kung-fu master in Boston was known to discourage black-yellow dating patterns developing in his kwoon.

3. The facade of martial arts "brotherhood" breaks down pretty fast in tournaments, especially large open tournaments in major cities. Racial slurs and ethnic epithets are not uncommon.

One needs to go beyond the Bruce Lee fantasies and look at the political realities of the martial arts world and develop a martial arts philosophy that is not obligated to a repressive, hierarchical tradition.

Henry Jung

THE IRAQ-IRAN WAR

UNION OF IRANIAN STUDENTS in Amherst (U.I.S.A.)

In late September of 1980, Iraq launched a full scale military invasion of its neighbor, Iran. This war between tha two strongest Parsian Gulf states is a complicated event to analyze for those following its course.

The fact is that this conflict cannot be studied in isolation and outside its historical context. The Iran-Iraq war involves tha whole region of the Middle East and draws the superpowers into the conflict. In this light, the war is linked to the long struggle between Imperialism and tha people of the Middle-East.

Prior to World War I, the Middle-East and India was a hot battleground between the Franch, Russian and British Empires while they attempted to maintain their colonial rula and compete further to rob the newly emerging nations of this region. After WWI and the triumph of socialism in Soviet Union, the focus of antagonism was shifted towards this new uncompromising enemy of imparialism. Asia was pushed to the background and semiforgotten as the old anemies united against their will to subdue this latest danger. World War II and the subsequent formation of many new states (ex-colonies) testifies to this fact. But the attention was soon directed towards Asia and the Middle East where vast natural resources were discovered in the area. In the meantime, the Middle East and Asia became the hotbed of rebellion after two hundred years of ruthless exploitation. The nationalization of oil in Iran, people's struggle in India, nationalization of Suez canal in Egypt, wars of independence in Indochina, the Chinese and Korean revolutions ... are all signs of this new era of revolution and growing consciousness.

Asia was still imperialism's gold mine but the latter was loosening its grip. Its main watchdog, Israel, was increasingly isolated vis-a-vis the rising Palestinian struggle. These events resulted in the realization of two facts: 1) Israel as a brute force is not capable of ultimata regional control; 2) Increasing dependanca on oil shifted the focus of contention from aastarn Mediterranian and southeast Asia to the gulf and tha Indian Ocean.

So after tha two World Wars and the subsequant victories of many social and anticolonial struggles (dua to decline in Great Britain's military and political influence and tha rising consciousness and tha rebellion of the peopla) Great Britain realized the need for unity among the western powars against these struggles backed by the socialist countries, headed its allies into the alliance of NATO (with Turkey inculded) to expand their influence to westarn Asia. This was tha first piaca of a defensive belt (facing north) against the Soviet Union and China and it needed to include Iran, Arab countries, North Africa, tha Indian Ocean region, Indonesia, Malaysia, Japan and Indochina.

In 1955 Great Britain and tha U.S. backed the Bagdad pact peace treaty between Turkey and Iraq. The coup d'etat regime (CIA engineered in 1953 against the government of premier Mosadegh) of Iran and Pakistan readily joined in. In 1957, a radical coup in Bagdad, headed by Col. Qassim overthrew the British imposed Faisal monarchy. This coup was one of the first waves of radical petty bourgeois Arab nationalist movements. These movements tended to be deeply reformist and anti-imperialist (Egypt's Nasar, Syria, Iraq and anticolonialism in Algeria and North Africa). The reactionary Arab states had to retreat and act cautiously, while secretly relying on Israel for repressiva stability.

The vacuum in the Bagdad pact was attampted to be filled by new NATO, CENTO (Iran, Pakistan, Turkay), SITO (The Philipines, Australia, Thailand and Pakistan) pacts. This new belt was comparatively wweaker than the previous one (due to the vacuum of Iraq) since the Soviet Union gained infuence in Syria, India, and Bangaladash, South Yemen, occasionally Egypt and recently invaded Afghanistan.

Meanwhile, the Arab Baath nationalization tanded for the first time, to mix extreme nationalism with some socialist principles to make of religion an anti-imperialist and anticolonialist weapon. The petty bourgeois and unscientific nature of Baath soon degenarated and created splits following various class tendencies, antagonistic in many cases.

Imperialism's attitudes on the other hand towards Iraq or other similar states has continuously been one of provocation and politicomilitary (and economic) subjugation on tha one hand, and on the other, a persistent intimidation of these states to rejoin the imperialist camp. This seemingly contradictory attitude is explained by 1) the petty bourgeois (vascillatory) nature of these regimes and their true noncommunism (or anticommunism in the case of Iran's Islamic Republic). Overall, the attitude of imperialism towards all recurring political changes throughout the world has been a judgment based on whether the new regime is commnist or not. History has shown that the non-Marxist changes have constantly proven to be vulnerable to imperialisms' methodical provocations. Their indecisive attitude and in many cases belief of being aided but keeping their Independence proves fallible when they land flat in a new form of dependency and reaction. Egypt, Syria, Iran, Iraq Indonesia,...are all such examples.

The attitude of the U.S. towards socialist revolutions, however, is fundamentally different. U.S. knows that this theory and ideology makes no compromise with any branches of capitalism, even the best camouflaged "social-democracy". Such a compromise in one form or another, is possible with non-proletarian revolutions whose interests, unlike the workers shares common interests with the bourgeoisia. Thus, however hot and radical the rhetoric of a caste may be, as long as the rulers gather in a noncommunist orbit, imperialism recognizes the hope of compromise (such attitude, although somawhat differant, is also trua of Soviet social imperialism). The truth of this statement can be seen when on considars the axamples of Chile and Libya: U.S. could not tolerate the rule of a regime based on the most mild mannered, liberal marxist ideology while it endures the hot headed Arab petty bourgeoisie of Libya with its harsh anti-American rhetoric, and even whan sitting on vital oil reserves. U.S. is, of course, not happy with the latter case, but it tolerates it because intervention contains a risk of revolutionary upheaval of people. So it prafars to cope with what it can hold at the present time. 2) Thus, as we saw, there is a necessity for this attitude of "pressure and friendliness"; a necessity arising from the alienation and widening cleavage between these states and the needs of their people.

IRAN-IRAQ RELATIONS (1968-1975)

Based on what we saw, western powers started conspiring against Iraq, through Iran. This continuous pressure lasted for seventeen years through 1968, when Hassan-Al-Bakr and the present leader Saddam Hossein made a coup; representing the left wing of Iraqui Baath party. In the next seven years (1968-1975) the two countries came many times to the brink of a full scale war (mostly Iran being the hostile side).

Immediately after the 1968 coup, Iran, through Savak, Mossad of Israel and the CIA agents under Iranian citizenship, attempted a counter coup. This conspiracy was discovered and bloodily suppressed. Many thousands of innocent Iranian residents of Iraq, among whom the agents hid themselves were expelled by Iraq. In 1969 Iran dissolved a 1937 treaty of peace with Iraq and started amassing a huge military front on

TURN TO PAGE 8

INTERNATIONAL NEWS BRIEFS

PALESTINE CONGRESS MEETS

In May, 1942, Zionist leader David Ben-Gurion chaired a crucial meeting at New York City's Biltmore Hotel. The "Biltmore Program" drawn up at that conference signalled a significant new stage in Zionist strategy.

Last month, the hotel was again the scene of a conference on the Mideast. Instead of devising Zionist strategies, however, the meeting resulted in a "Blueprint for Political Action in the 1980s" for Palestinian communities in North America.

The 1942 gathering marked the first time since the days of Theodore Herzl, political Zionism's founding father, that Zionists openly declared that their goal was a Jewish state in Palestine. They also recognized the urgency of winning U.S. support for this goal and began an intensive organizing campaign that reached all levels of U.S. society--from farm organizatins to the Presidency.

Since 1942, the U.S. public's perceptions of the Middle East have been seen through a Zionist filter that blocks out not only the suffering and struggle of the Palestinians, but very often even their existence.

The Palestine Congress of North America was organized to counter Zionism's hegemony within U.S. Mideast policy. The Sept. 26-28 second annual convention of the congress brought together over 500 people, including delegates from 55 Palestinian organizatins in the U.S. and Canada, to discuss a program to mobilize Palestinian communities and to reach out to the U.S. peopla on the question of Palestinian rights.

Tha 100,000 Palestinians living in the U.S. support tha Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) as their sole, legitimate representative. Many PLO representatives, including PLO Political Department head Farouk Kaddoumi (Abu Lutf), addressed the congress. In addition, West Bank mayors Fahd Kawasmeh of Hebrom and Mohammed Millhelm of Halhoul, described tha harsh repression on the occupied West Bank and urged Palistinians in the U.S. to intensify thair efforts to pressure the U.S. government to end aid to Israal because of the illegal occupation. The two mayors were expelled from the West Bank by the Israeli military government in May 1980.

Nazareth Mayor Toufiq Zayyad, one of the few Arab members of the Israeli Knesset (Parliament), also spoke to the congress, and movingly evoked the solidarity Palestinians living inside the 1948 borders of Israel feel with their people under occupation in the West Bank and Gaza or in exile.

Polly Swift
October 22, 1980-GUARDIAN

CUBA

UNITED NATIONS, Oct.20(AP)-Cuba withdrew today from the contest for a U.N. Security Council seat, sparing the General Assembly a long ballotting siege like the one in the last session.

The assembly elected Ireland, Spain, Japan and Uganda to the Security Council but failed to fill the Latin American vacancy on the council even though withdrawal of Cuba's candidacy left Costa Rica the only aspirant.

The Security Council, whose purpose is maintenance of international peace and security and which has the power to deploy U.N. forces, has five permanent members-Britain, China, France, the Soviet Union and United States, all with veto power.

The 10 nonpermanent members are chosen from the General Assembly for two-year terms. Those not up for replacement Monday-Mexico, East Germany, the Philippines, Niger and Tunisia--are to be replaced next year.

In the last session, the assembly took 154 ballots between Oct. 27, 1979, and Jan. 4, 1980, without giving either Cuba or Colombia the two-thirds majority needed for election to the 15-nation council. Then both withdrew their candidacies and Mexico was elected.

UGANDA
Invasion in the north

Approximately 1,000 Ugandan soldiers loyal to ousted dictator Idi Amin captured four towns in Northarn Uganda last week in an invasion that could plunge the nation into full-scale tribal warfara.

Tha soldiars are part of an estimated 5000 troops loyal to Amin who fled with their arms when Amin was ousted 16 months ago. Their ranks wara swalled by friendly Muslim tribesmen in the West Nile district. Tha force reportedly captured Koboko, Amin's hometown; Arua, the district capital; Ladongo on the Zaire frontier and Moyo near the Sudanese border. The attack was launched Oct. 6, tha day Ugandans were scheduled to begin registering for the country's first elections since 1962.

A counteroffensive by Ugandan and Tanzanian troops began Oct. 11.

U.S. COVERT ARMS SALES TO SOUTH AFRICA PART II

South Africa's nuclear capability

That the white South African state has developed a war mentality, based upon its own threatened existence, cannot be denied. Clearly the gradual buildup of its military strength has demonstrated that the apartheid government is not playing any games with anyone. However, even South Africa's impressive military network has been challenged, as during the 1976 military expedition into Angola, where Cuban and Angolan (MPLA) forces demonstrated their own toughness. Thus the consideration of nuclear weapons for South Africa no longer was simpla advertency--but a real alternative.

A nuclear threat to aggressiva guerilla camps or towns in states aiding revolutionary forces would be a feasible stap for apartheid South Africa. Indeed, any offensiva measures from Angola, Mozambiqua or Tanzania would be quita inviable in light of a South African deterrant strategy. And on a larger scale, South Africa's international allies (France, Britain, U.S., Germany) would be mora likaly to act pragmatically in order to accommodate a new nuclaar power. The political advantages of a nuclear capability for South Africa are obviously favorable.

The Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty (NPT), which was initially drawn up by the U.S. and Russia, has shown itself to be an insufficient stabilizing factor of South Africa's nuclear expansion in light of newer transnational collaboration in nuclear development operations. This collaboration with the West has proved to be South Africa's greatest gain, as far as the acquisition of a nuclear research and development capability. Those countries who have played a decisive role include:

1. Britain, whose scientists founded a uranium mining and processing industry in S. Africa;
2. France, for delivery systems for nuclear weapons;
3. Iran in a tripartite deal with France and S. Africa for oil;
4. Israel, for with their previous experience in Western Europe in covert operations, there is much to be offered in undercover projects by scientists and researchers;
5. The U.S., for uranium mining establishment and export of fuel elements for use in S. Africa's major reactor station.

These major Western forces cannot be expected to altar their unjustifiable policies on nuclear collaboration with South Africa, given the limited and censured information which is received on this by the opposing international community.

On August 6, 1977, the USSR sparked governmantal alarm whan thair cosmos satellite spotted a nuclear test site in tha Kalahari Desert in southern South Africa, in which, presumably, praparations were being mada to datonate a nuclear device. Although American "BigBird" satellites had surely made similar observations, no confirmation was mada by U.S. intelligence analysts until after tha U.S.S.R. report was filed. Latar, President Cartar made a statement that he had tha South African government's word that they had not and would not test nuclear weapons at any point. Cartar's statement was then denied by South African Prime Minister John Vorster. Future surveillance of the nuclear structure in the Kalahari confirmed that South Africa does possess nuclear weapons for testing. However, while this nuclear capability may be advanced, it is still in a stage of development for a practical weapons program. Unquestionably, Pretoria will seek additional foreign cooperation as long as it is available.

by Yvonne Chireau

THE IRAQ-IRAN WAR

its western border. In 1970 Iraq expelled the Iranian ambassador and in 1971 Iran occupied three strategically located islands in the Strait of Hormuz. After the objections of Iraq. the two countries suspended their diplomatic relations. Throughout these years, Iran continued border harrassments of Iraq.

The Iraqui Kurds (tribal, a martial society in itself) oppressed for years, were ready to defend their national rights and struggle against the economic as well as the national injustices, they were subjected to. Iran by misusing mercenary, corrupt Kurdish leaders, Khans and chieftains, succeeded to misuse the Kurd nation against Baghdad; even though Iraq in 1970 gave the Kurds democratic autonomy.

The democratic attitude of Iraq towards the Kurdshad scared the Shah, who not only dreaded the resolution of a long time problem of Iraq, and its new capability to use its northern fronts, but also the new possible inspirations of autonomy for the Iranian Kurds. So the Shah in 1973 backed the Kurds in an unwanted war. This full scale supply of the Kurds lasted until 1975 and the Algerian peace treaty between Iran and Iraq when, abruptly, all help to the Kurds were suspended and the betraying Kurdish leaders accepted unconditional defeat.

This hostility can be explained by the following two factors:

1)Middle East has an ever increasing vital politico-economic importance for Imperialism.
2)Imperialism confronts an inevitable contradiction: the more it needs Middle East (excellent investment opportunities, vital natural resources) the stronger grows the anti-imperialist struggle of the people and the competitive presence of the Soviet Union.

THE ROLE OF IRAN AS THE REGIONAL POLICEMAN UNDER THE SHAH

Western powers, after WW I, realized the need for strong dependent and ultra reactionary states in the ex-colonies, to present and safeguard their interests. This became necessary since the strong, rebellious, anti-western feelings of the people did not allow (also the increasing cost of maintaining military bases abroad)direct imperialist presence.

For the West India could have been the best defender of their interests, the greatest menace to China and a watchdog over the whole region. But the internal volatile situation, the well-balanced influence of the superpowers resulting in a relatively independent bourgeoisie and a strong Soviet influence destroyed these dreams. The U.S. is happy as long as India does not turn into a "communist catastrophe". The coup d' etat in South Yemen were like nightmares of the first steps towards losing 23 billion barrels of oil per day from the Gulf. Meanwhile in the period of 70-71, U.S. replaced Britain for good as the main superpower in the region by using Iran as a lever.

These were the years of deep economic transformation of Iran. The Kennedy administration imposed "White Revolution" extracted the peasantry from their land by force and migrated them into an economic exile to the larger cities as a source of cheap labor for foreign investing multinationals and domestic companies. These were also the years of great increses in oil revenues and discovery of vast natural resources in Iran. This period of relative comprador (benefiting the upper casts only) prosperity was concurrent with the western economies' period of staglation. The enormous concentration and control of capital by the Iranian oligarchical state, supported the Nixon doctrine of "regional policeman" to build Iran as the gendarm of mideast, second in power only tolsrael.

Iran due to relatively high level of skilled labor, huge economic possibilities, vital geopolitical location, vast population (cheap labor and investment possibilities for industrial development other than oil) and a well equipped army of 400,000 men was beside and ahead of Iraq, the best suited applicant for the job. As its greatest competitor and potentially its most dangerous enemy (especially in case of an alliance with South Yemen and the Dhoffar rebels in Oman with Soviet Union as the ultimate supporter), Iraq represented a real threat. Iran, thus, declared its intentions of keeping"the peace and stability" of the region. It established huge naval bases and military outposts, controlled the Strait of Hormuz through the three newly occupied islands and, finally, in return for military protection of Sultan Quabus, established military bases in Oman, thus controlling the Strait from two opposite banks making the U.S. presence unnecessary.

IRAQ, UNDER BAATH REGIME (1968-75)

Iraqs' new Baath rulers represented a real threat to U.S. and its regional allies, due to their close ties with the Soviet Union. After the 1968 coup, the new regime executed many Israeli, CIA and Savak agents disguised under Iranian citizenship. It also gave official recognition to DGDR, nationalized new oil installations and expelled the British, gave Ramallah oil excavation permits to the Soviet Union, approached the revisionist wing of the ICP (Iraqui communitst party) and South Yemen and supported the Dhoffar rebellion in Oman.

This all resulted in increasing contradictions between Iran's high aiming goals (as the power of the region) and Iraq's non-compro..nising attitude. Hence, Iran's provocations in all fronts against Iraq, and the latter's mainly defensive attitude due to its internal economic reforms under way and its relative military inferiority. A new worriesome sign was the 1973 military pact between Iraq and the Soviet Union for arm supplies.

Yet imperialism's ultimate desire was to pull Iraq back into its own sphere of influence. The Shah's willingness to compromise after seeing the first signs of Iraq's shift to the right, can thus be explained. Such a compromise became even more attractive since by Iraq's alliance with Iran and the U.S. the chances of succesful revolutionary movement in the region would immensely be reduced. It was clear that such a compromise would not bring Iran any closer to the Soviet Union (influencewise), but on the contrary increase U.S.'s domination of Iraq. This, in the 1970-75 period , Iraq was subjected to a pinch pressure: Soviet Union was shown other profitable coeconomic prospects (steel mill construction in Iran in return for natural gas) in return for the reduction of its ties with Iraq to a meer military hardware sales. The Soviet Union became more interested in these safe, profitable prospects than a gamble on typing its whole interests in an unstable, vascilatting regime. Iraq in its turn was constantly subjected to Iranian border harrassements which bore a heavy burden on its already stretched economy (the Kurdish war alone cost Iraq $2B. per year). Furthermore, Iraq was growing mistrustful of the Soviet Union's cunning attitude of betrayal towards Arab and other national movements. The "attractive" sight of total U.S. support for the reactionary regime of Iran and a similar possibility for the Iraqui rulers and all these factors added to the cessation of border harassments by Iran after a treaty further invited Iraq towards a compromise.

Under these pressures Iraq was faced with two contradictory prospects:
I)Undergoing a total anti-imperialist revolution by adapting scientific socialism and struggling against all imperialism alike by relying on its masses; 2)compromising with U.S. acceptance ot iran's superiority and joining the camp of reaction.

The leading class structure of the Baath Party, its petty bourgeoisie's nature and lack of proletarian ideology added to the new economic conditions made it follow the latter path. These new ceconomic conditions were as follows:

In 1973 oil prices quadrupled. Baath Party of Iraq used the new revenues not to establish mother (heavy) industries, diminishing its dependency on foreign goods, but turned towards importing commodities which further alienated it from a socialist path (Iraq like Algeria, and to an extent Iran, has a concentrated state capitalism). After 1975 adaptation of peaceful relations with Iran, Saudi Arabia and other reactionary regimes of the region established a one billion dollar contract with Japan, six-folded its imports in the span of two years (mostly from West Eurpe and Japan).

THE ALGERIAN PEACE TREATY OF 1975

The peace "contract" between Iran and Iraq in 1975 outlines the conditions of Iraqs shift to the right.
The treaty included the following:
I)According to the 1913 Constantinople treaty, Iraq maintained full control over Shat al Arab waterway, separating the two countries southern 80 mile border. The Algerian treaty of 1975 recognized the deepest point in the river as the new border thus giving Iran effective control over the waterway (the control it previously had, although illegally).
2)Both sides stopped all help, and eventually suppressed revolutionary movements of either country by strictly controlling their borders.

Iraq accepted Iranian supremacy by allowing the Shah to freely suppress the Dhofar uprising and to isolate South Yemen.

Iraq accepted Iranian supremacy by anowing the Shah to freely suppress the Dhofar uprising and to isolate South Yemen. The Algerian treaty was a major step for imperialism to further exploit enormous raw materials of the region, otherwise impossible without a total agreement between all states of the Gulf (for example the underwater unexcavated oil reserves).

Yet, politically, the most significant principle of the treaty was the mutual control of the borders which meant the suppression of the revolutionary forces seeking sanctuary on the other side of the frontier. This principle has of course had been rejected after the 1978 Iranian revolution.

U.S. hegemony over the Gulf region was thus guaranteed and the Soviet Union, for its ever passive and vascillatory role was offered some economic rewards in Iran while maintaining its military ties with Iraq. But the dreams of imperialism (the "island of stability" cliche) came to a sudden halt, by the people's uprising against the Shah.

IRAN-IRAQ RELATIONS AT THE PRESENT

Iraq's social structure: national and religious oppession of the minorities (Kurds and Shiites), and an increasing lack of confidence of the toilers in the regime is reflected in the extremely oppressive secret police of Iraq. The ruling cast is a mingle of bureaucracy, army officers and technocrats. This state capitalism due to its repression and instability lacks the bourgeois democratic facade (for example, a parliament) that even the Shah allowed. Thus the present Baath party is no longer a representative of the petty bourgeoisie but a comprador state bourgeoisie. Since Iraq unlike Iran, is not exclusively dependent upon one imperialist power, it enjoys a certain degree of maneuverability within the framework of these international imperialist powers.

Iran in its turn, is the hotbed of struggle between the upper castes of the traditional, wealthy petty bourgeoisie (clergy and bazaar) and their allies the liberal bourgeoisie of Iran against the masses who fought and expelled the Shah. This struggle arises from the fact that the rulers strive to save all the components of the previous regime and reestablish the comparador capitalism while what the people revolted against was exactly that repressive and exploiting machinery.

Iraq and lately Iran, have always dealt with their serious internal problems through diverting their people's attention away from the real sources of the social problems that is the structure of the state and society. In case of Iran, the takeover of the American embassy, the suppression of the uprising of the minorities and revolutionary democratic organizations and the present war with Iraq can be viewed in this light. Iraq, meanwhile, has constantly in the past stirred problems and disputes with Nasser's Egypt, Syria, Sadat, the Shah, the Palestinian resistance movement, the communist party, the Kurdish Shiite minorities and now with the Islamic republic of Iran.

It is important to note that Iraq, since the beginning of the anti-Shah movement was a rmed by its religious (shiite) undertones and feared the possible influence it might have in Iraq. This was the cause of Khomeini's expulsion from Iraq (of course Iraq was also interested in maintaining peace with the Shah). The Iraqi shiites, a large minority comprising 40 49 per cent of the population are ruthlessly oppressed and the Iranian revolution might still spark a serious upheaval among them.

Unfortunately, the leadership of the Iraqi Shiites is with a reactionary sector of clergy. For example, a shiite party "Al Daavah" party led by Seyed Bagher Sadr seeks an "Islamic revolution" that if victorious would rely on the U.S. since the other superpower, the Soviet Union is atheist and therefore is "the "greater evil" of thetwo. Similar groups like this are "Ekhvan Al Moslemin", the Moslem Brotherhood in Egypt.Al Tahrir and Djemaat al Ulema in Pakestan and reactionary feudal groups in Afghanatan, rely on Saudi and U.S. help and are generously supplied by the Islamic Republic an Party of Iran; the extremist clerics have dreamed of exporting their Islamic revolution beyond the borders of Iran. Iraq, has been one of their targets where there exists a majority of Shiit muslims. In its turn, Iraq has helped the left-over of the Shah's intimates and other exgovernment exiles to base themselves in Iraq and launch their ultra reactionary attacks on Iran. These elements wish to attract the increasingly unhappy upper petty-bourgeoisie and bourgeoisie among whom are the army commanders to their own side to overthrown the regime. These hated individuals such as General Oveissi who acquired the title of the "butcher of Tehran" in the 1978 uprisings, or the ex-premier Bakhtiar cannot possibly hope to obtain power in Iran, although, the increasing number of people who even listen to their counter-revolutionary propaganda is a dangerous sign of a consequence the betrayal of the Iranian revolution may invite.

Reasons of the Iraqi Agression

I)Filling the existing vacuum of power after the absence of the Shah is a main target of the reac tionary regimes of the region. In this light we can observe the increaising militarism of Saudi Arabia and Iraq's "bullying Iran" and its "concern" for the hostage issue. U.S.'s diplomatic backing of Iraq in the early days of the war and Iraq's surprising knowledge of the top secret Iranian air bases in Dizful are all clear signs of U.S. role and support for Iraq and its intentions.

2)Iraq's fear of spreading Islamic fundamentalism within its borders and the subsequent problems.

TURN TO PAGE 5

The premier of "The Healing of Sugar" performed in the Hampden Commons Southwest. "The Heeling of Sugar" will be shown again Nov 1, 2.
photo by Tim Fostor

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Volume CX, Issue 40 The newspaper of the University of Massachusetts at Amherst Tuesday, October 28, 1980

WFCR votes to keep GM

Goldfarb is OKed

By Deborah Asbrand
Collegian Staff

After more than three hours of heated debate, radio station, WFCR's Community Advisory Board last night voted 5-4 in favor of recommending the contract renewal of station manager Robert Goldfarb.

Committee members stressed that while Goldfarb had made poor decisions in his dealings with the Hispanic community over the cancellation of Que Tal Amigos?, his overall decisions as station manager had been in the best interest of the station.

Goldfarb has been the center of controversy for the past ten months as a result of his decision last January to reduce the amount of programming hours on WFCR for the Hispanic community.

"He (Goldfarb) clearly has antagonized the identifiable minority in the listening area," said committee member Richard Evans. "I don't think however we should let the fact of extensive indignation let us fire him."

"I agree the situation wasn't handled well, but I don't feel we should be fired because of it," said board member Sophia Billides.

At last week's meeting of the advisory board, members unanimously voted to invite Goldfarb to last night's meeting and make a short presentation and answer questions. However, Goldfarb is attending a broadcaster's convention in Las Vegas, and instead stated his views in a letter to the board.

In the letter Goldfarb stated that at the time he cancelled "Que Tal Amigos?" he felt it was the right decision, but now feels the abrupt cancellation was a poor decision. He also stated he made a mistake in making public his own opinions about the quality of the show.

Goldfarb also stated he regrets the loss of community confidence caused by the controbersy, and that in the future he hopes to work with the coalition for more accommodation.

"I ask you to recall the three victims of Goldfarb's managerial style," said committee member Luis Fuentes, referring to the Hispanic staff members who resigned as a result of Goldfarb's decisions. "We have a polarized community due to Goldfarb, and the letters we've received from the public reek of racism. It goes beyond the Hispanic community, it goes to a multi-racial community. I've broken promises in the past year. That letter is full of lies, and there's no question in my mind as to what our decision should be."

"I have a vision of a station with challenging and exciting broadcasting and community input," said board member Frances Crowe. "I feel our minority supporters will rally around when they are given exciting programming. I think we need to move on and get more community representation in the programs."

Spokesman for the Coalition for Public Involvement in Public Radio Tony Crayton said Goldfarb's letter was full of inaccuracies.

"There are numerous items in the document that can be proved false," said Crayton. "We received not one memo or communication from him until he caught holy hell at a meeting where they damn near fired him."

After the board made their final recommendation, Crayton said he could not understand their decision.

"On two occasions Goldfarb has failed to attend CAB meetings and present documentation on his behalf," said Crayton. "It seems hard to imagine with all the documentations submitted by the Coalition how they could make such a decision."

WFCR Board members Frances Crowe and Robie Hubley (Staff photo by Scott Burke)

Students question Administration

SGA seeks weekend program for students

By Jim Mahoney
and Ed Levine
Collegian Staff

University of Massachusetts Student Government Association leaders yesterday lashed out at the Administration for not allowing student input into decision making for alternative plans for the up-coming Halloween weekend.

Angered by what he called a lack of effort to solicit student opinion by administrators, Ronald Keefe, assistant to the SGA presidents, said all plans relating to the Halloween weekend were made by University officials with little or no student inter-action.

Two weeks ago, the administration announced plans to close the Campus Center,Student Union complex and all academic buildings for the weekend, while allowing only students on campus for the weekend. Extra security will be added to supplement the campus police force and student security personel.

Keefe said he and several others had met with Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs Dennis L. Madson for nearly two hours yesterday in an attempt to schedule some type of alternative programming. Keefe said all the students' suggestions, including films, a bonfire, fireworks or a broadcast of a Grateful Dead concert in New York, were rejected by Madson.

Madson said he felt that small dormitory parties would be the most effective, less troublesome way of containing students during the weekend. He also said the policies are designed to end the "tradition" of a Halloween weekend at UMass.

"I think it is important that we break this tradition. In terms of the options open, we feel it's the best thing to do. It's possible that it might not be enough," Madson said.

SGA co-President Richard Moran, said that the students were in a " Catch-22" position: if the weekend becomes excessivly violent, the administration can point the finger at the students and make an issue out of it. Or, if the weekend proceeds with no major problems the administration will still continue to tone down Hallowen celebrations in the future, he said.

turn to page 11

Tuition increase may be $540

By Ken Ross
Collegian Staff

A Student Senate Ad-Hoc Committee met last night in the Student Union to discuss proposed student fee increases that could amount to an additional $540 for each undergraduate student for the coming fiscal year.

The figures were compiled by the Senate Rents and Fees committee and were proposed by UMass Trust Fund Administrators.

The proposed increases will be presented for approval to Chancellor Henry Koffler and will then be brought before the Budget and Finance Committee of the UMass Board of Trustees on Nov. 19.

The largest of the proposed increases will be directed toward board fees and residence halls fees, with board fees targeted for a $211 increase and residence halls a $214 jump.

Approximately $247 of the proposed $540 increase would be due to the inclusion of "fringe benefits" on student bills. "Fringe benefits" constitute a cost paid to full-

turn to page 11

Montgomery Warman and Cathy Odems prove once again that the days of the horsedrawn carriage are far from over as they drive along Rt. 9 in Northampton. (Staff photo by Kris Craig)

World and national news

Paul Kantner, 39 year-old leader of the Jefferson Starship suffered a serious stroke over the weekend and has been hospitalized in Los Angeles, according to a spokesman for his San Francisco based record company.

Panel set for tonight's debate

CLEVELAND (AP) — The president of the League of Women Voters said yesterday four journalists were selected from a field of 100 to ask questions in tonight's debate between President Carter and Ronald Reagan.

The panelists are:

—Harry Ellis, Washington staff correspondent for the Christian Science Monitor, who specializes in economics and energy reporting.

—William Hilliard, assistant managing editor of the Oregonian in Portland, a former trustee of the national board of the Urban League.

—Marvin Stone, editor-inchief of U.S. News & World Report, highly regarded for his work as a foreign correspondent.

—And Barbara Walters, correspondent for ABC News.

League President Ruth Hinerfeld told reporters that journalistic organizations, editors and broadcasters across the country were consulted by a league advisory committee, which chose 24 finalists from 100 prospective interviewers and then picked the four based on their fields of expertise.

The panelists will confer with each other so their questions will not be redundant and will cover what the journalists believe are the major issues, she said.

The debate format will allow each candidate to answer a question posed by a panelist, and each candidate will be permitted to make rebuttals. Follow-up questions will also be permitted from the panelists.

Met Symphony will play again

NEW YORK (AP) — The orchestra of the Metropolitan Opera voted overwhelmingly yesterday to accept a new four-year contract, and the nation's top labor mediator worked to reconcile the Met and its other employees in efforts to salvage the canceled 1980-81 season.

The orchestra's vote was 78- 11 for acceptance, with one abstention and six members absent, said Max L. Arons, president of Local 802, American Federation of Musicians.

Arons said he hoped the remaining unions would quickly approve their contracts to allow the Met's golden curtain to rise for a belated start of the opera's 97th season.

IRA guerillas launch hunger strike to protest status

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Seven convicted Irish Republican Army guerrillas yesterday launched a hunger strike "to the death" in Northern Ireland's Maze Prison in a bid to force the British government to recognize jailed IRA members as political prisoners.

The British have declared they will not "surrender to blackmail" and are prepared to let the hunger strikers die.

Officials of Sinn Fein, political front of the IRA's Provisional wing, said about 30 IRA women activists in prison in Armagh might join the hunger strike by the seven men.

Authorities fear such action would heighten the emotional impact of the hunger strike and might touch off renewed bloodshed in Northern Ireland, torn for 11 years by sectarian feuding and IRA insurrection.

The almost exclusively Roman Catholic Provisionals are fighting to end British rule in this Protestant-dominated province and reunite it with the overwhelmingly Catholic Irish Republic.

Humphrey Atkins, Britain's Northern Ireland Secretary, said during the weekend: "If prisoners choose to starve themselves, they may well die. If they do, so be it."

The strikers refuse all food but do take liquids. Prison sources reported the strike by the gaunt, bearded men in their cells likely would not to reach a critical stage for at least 30 days.

Prison authorities said 150 other IRA men in the heavily guarded facility tore off prison uniforms Monday to join 350 of their comrades on the so-called "dirty campaign" demanding political prisoner status.

The protesters are known as "the men on the blanket" because for 4¼ years they have refused to wear prison clothes or do prison work and only have blankets to wear.

The "dirty campaign" began two years ago when the protesters refused to wash or use toilets and smear their cell walls with their own excrement. All the hunger strikers are "blanket men."

The British originally allowed jailed guerrillas "special category" status in 1972 after prisoners threatened a mass hunger strike. But it abolished that category in 1976 in a bid to strip the IRA and other extremist factions in Northern Ireland of political respectability.

The prisoners claim they should have special status because they were sentenced to prison for politically motivated crimes by anti-terrorist, nonjury courts under emergency powers.

Security authorities ordered a province-wide alert two days ago, but so far there has been no noticeable increase in IRA violence.

The hunger strike is led by Brendan "Darky" Hughes, 32, a top Provisional commander in Belfast before being captured in 1974, seven months after he escaped from the Maze. He is serving a 14-year term for arms offenses, assaulting a warden and escaping.

Three of the hunger strikers are convicted killers. One of them, Tommy McKearney, 28, is serving 20 years for assassinating a Protestant militiaman.

Digest

Associated Press

Castro releases US prisoners

MIAMI — Thirty American prisoners pardoned by Fidel Castro on charges that included hijacking and drugsmuggling left Cuba yesterday and were flown to the United States, where they were greeted by tearful and jubilant friends and relatives.

About 200 people waved U.S. flags and cheered as the chartered Air Florida Boeing 737 arrived from Havana at Tamiami Airport in Miami. The Americans had been jailed for terms ranging from months up to 11 years.

"He looks so great to us. He's home! He's home!" shouted Earl Dacus of Jonesboro, Ark., as he and his wife hugged their son, John. He was arrested April 28, 1978, on drug and immigration charges.

The Cuban government announced Oct. 13 that all U.S. prisoners would be released in response to appeals from congressmen, social organizations and relatives of the prisoners. Diplomatic sources speculated the move was another in a series of conciliatory gestures by Cuba.

NE tourist industry flourishes

WATERVILLE VALLEY, N.H. — Tourism in New England is up 25 percent over last year and is expected to get better, travel, tourist and government officials were told yesterday.

Red and white buttons boasting "I'll Take New England Any Day" were worn by the 300 participants at the two-day New England Conference on Tourism. The meeting, sponsored by the New England Regional Commission, was dedicated to getting people to follow that slogan.

Christine Knowles, director of economic development for the commission, said tourism remains one of the biggest businesses in the region.

Carter leads in Massachusetts

BOSTON — President Jimmy Carter has a narrow lead for the 14 electoral votes in Massachusetts, according to a poll by the Public Affairs Research Center at Clark University in Worcester.

The survey released yesterday gave Democratic presidential nominee Carter 29 percent to 27 percent for Republican Ronald Reagan, and less than 18 percent for independent Rep. John Anderson. PARC listed 26 percent as undecided in its Oct. 10-21 telephone survey of 1,005 potential voters.

Sea-sponges pose problems

IOWA CITY, Iowa — Sales of natural sea sponges as an alternative to tampons were suspended yesterday after state researchers said they contain sand, bacteria and other potentially harmful substances, a spokeswoman for a women's clinic said.

Dr. Adel Franks, of the Emma Goldman Clinic for Women in Iowa City, said sales will be discontinued until more information is gathered about potential health hazards.

That decision came after Dr. William Hausler, director of the State Hygenic Laboratory, said the sponges pose a potential health risk to menstruating women.

Firm charged with conspiracy

BOSTON — Bolt, Beranek and Newman, a prominent acoustics research firm that analyzed the 17¼-minute gap in one of the Watergate tapes, was charged with conspiracy yesterday for allegedly overcharging the Defense Department and other government agencies.

The company immediately said it would plead guilty and was willing to pay a $500,000 fine.

Criminal charges filed in federal court covered dozens of federal projects conducted over six years.

Subscription Rates

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 333 220) is published daily Monday through Friday excluding vacations, exam periods, or holidays, for $15 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

Collegian

Today's Collegian was produced by:

Andrea Atkins, Assistant Managing Editor; Suzette Courtmanche, Layout Tech; Sarah Schultz, Copy Editor; Scott Burke, Head Darkroom Tech; Jay Brightman, Ad Layout.

In the composing room:

Pam Dissinger, Edie Eppich, Michele Jones, Danny Guidera, Michael Krumpe, and Bob Carr.

Tuesday
OLDIES
TWO FOR ONE
All Mixed Drinks • 9 til 11
NO COVER CHARGE
THE PUB
15 East Pleasant St.
AMHERST

"BARDWELL HAS THE EXPERIENCE IN COUNTY GOVERNMENT!"
VOTE-NOV 4th AND HELP ELECT
CORY BARDWELL
HAMPSHIRE COUNTY COMMISSIONER
PAID FOR BY COMMITTEE TO ELECT A. CORY BARDWELL

WE NEED THIS MAN

silverscape
Natural Cuisine
•fresh baked quiche
•breads, honey desserts
•homemade soups
•pocket sandwiches
•cappuccino • espresso
COFFEE EQUIPMENT
Coffee Beans
15 varieties
$3.99 4.89/lb

M-X missile issue dropped from Amherst warrant

By Deborah Coughlin
Collegian Staff

The Amherst Town Meeting members voted yesterday to dismiss an article which called for the area's representatives to Congress to vote against the production and further research and development of the controversial M-X missile system.

The article, which was filed by Jeb Brugmann of the Amherst Disarmament Group, was dismissed from the town's warrant by a vote of 80 to 55.

At the meeting, which was attended by 135 of the town's 240 meeting members, Chairman of the Board of Selectmen William C. Atkins said, "I think the argument for dismissal was well taken. Those are not articles to be brought before Town Meeting. The Board of Selectmen, myself included, feel they should take care of matters that concern the town."

Town Meeting member Joseph M. O'Byrne said, "There are so many particular national issues, that we cannot restrict it to one. The town of Amherst cannot affect the Presidential National Defense Policy."

Brugmann's proposal also called for instructing the area's representatives to vote for provisions of economic security for workers who would lose their jobs as a result of the termination of the program. The proposal also urged that the money saved be set aside "for programs designed to meet the pressing needs of this society—industrial replenishment, adequate housing, mass transit and health care accessible to all who need it."

Brugmann said the program will be the largest public project in the history of the United States. He said that $50-70 million would go into the military sector of our economy, and he speculated that it would raise inflation by 2.3 percent.

Brugmann said "the development of the M-X missile means casting aside our traditional defense policy by deterring nuclear attack. We don't need more missiles to obtain a deterrent."

In other business, article 6, a motion to see if the Town would appropriate a sum of money to reconstruct a portion of Pine St. and State St. in the vicinity of the Mill River, was passed by a unanimous decision.

A Town Meeting member said the bank of the river has been falling into the river and washing away. He said the environmental hurdle of moving a channel of one of our three major streams over 600 feet would not be environmentally sound.

The estimated cost of the project is $250,000. Of that, the Town will be borrowing $235,000.

Also discussed was Article 20, proposed by the School Committee, and asking that the Town allow monies received by the committee in connection with adult education, continuing education and the use of school property to be deposited with the treasurer of the Town in a separate account.

Chris Sousa (above) appears ankle-deep in his studies outside the Grad Towers, although he is not majoring in botany. An unidentified person (left) sits with pipe in hand and head in lap while awaiting his daily mail and newspaper on a lonely road in Huntington. (Staff photos by Scott Burke and Paul Price)

Jewish women examine society and themselves

By Lillian Singer
Collegian Staff

In an attempt to address the diversity of Jewish women in the five college community, the second annual series on the subject, entitled "The Ways a Jewish Woman Can Be," will begin today, and run through Saturday, Nov. 9.

The series will attempt to portray the identities and struggles of Jewish women through dance, drama, music and mime as well as through workshops and discussions. Tonight's program of storytelling through dance and mime, performed by Rabbi Lynn Gottlieb, will be one of the first of such scheduled events to be held in the Campus Center 101 at 8:00 p.m.

"We're trying to move away from the stereotypical Jewish woman as perceived by others, namely, those of the Jewish American Princess or the doting Jewish mother," said Emily Loeb, Hillel member and one of the organizers of the series.

In this respect, the unique characteristics, as well as the similarities of Jewish women will be covered by this year's program.

According to Loeb, Jewish women have experienced an identity problem when they, like most women, try to conform to the All-American beauty image of someone like Cheryl Tiegs. "The dark skin, hair and eyes do not seem to meet this type of standardization," she said.

Preceeding her evening presentation, the Rabbi will lead a workshop "How to make your own ritual" in Thompson 6th Floor Lounge at 4:00.

On Wednesday, Paula Gottlieb and Brooke Stone from the Northampton Jewish Lesbian Group will lead a discussion for women on "Being Jewish and Lesbian" in the Campus Center 102 at 7:30 p.m.

Sabbath services planned and led by women to be held at 6:30 in Thompson 6th Floor Lounge will be the last of this first week of events. A listing of next week's programs will be posted on campus.

Lynn Gottlieb, Rabbi, Feminist, Dancer, and Mime, will perform a program of her own creation, "Sara, a new oracle," of storytelling through dance and mime at 8:00 p.m. in the Campus Center 101 tonight. (photo courtesy of Hillel)

SCANN's debate plan flawed

By Abbe Bjorklund
Collegian Staff

Northeast Utilities has cancelled their commitment to debate the question, "Is nuclear power a viable energy alternative?" at the University of Massachusetts tomorrow night, according to event organizers.

The debate, which will be held at 7 p.m. in Mahar Auditorium, is sponsored jointly by the Distinguished Visitors Program, the Student Coalition Against Nukes Nationwide (SCANN), and MASSPIRG.

The posters around campus advertise the debaters as Dr. Mishiu Kaku, first anti-nuclear, nuclear physicist to enter Three Mile Island after the accident, and a representative of Northeast Ulitities, partial owner of nuclear power plants in the northeast area.

Todd Clarke, media coordinator for MASSPIRG's Campaign for Safe Energy said Northeast Utilities backed out from their commitment and organizers have had difficulty finding a pro-nuclear replacement for the debate.

Clarke was negotiating with Mike Kafee of Northeast Utilities, their public relations representative for the Amherst area, concerning their participation in the debate. Early last week Kafee cancelled Northeast Utilities' commitment after speaking with his superiors. Clarke claims Kafee cancelled because of Northeast Utilities' track record with debates.

Last year Northeast Utilities sent William Semanie from Vermont Yankee Nuclear Power Plant to a debate at UMass with Mark Anderson, a graduate economics student from SCANN. Clark said, "There were times in the debate when Bill Semanie didn't look secure in his claims of the virtues of nuclear power."

After Northeast Utilities cancelled, Clarke negotiated for a pro-nuclear replacement from Massachusetts Municipal Wholesale Electric Company (MMWEC).

Clarke said MMWEC was "very enthusiastic" until he called to confirm on Friday. Mary Anne Gamabaro of their public relations division expressed dissatisfaction with the moderator for the debate, Marvin Kaulkastin, who was picked by SCANN.

Clarke said he found a neutral moderation from Hampshire College, professor Richard Mueller, but Gamabara allegedly stated that MMWEC would not participate in the debate unless they could participate in the press conference organized by MASSPIRG to precede the debate.

Hypercurricula...

Tues., Oct. 28

General meeting for Union Video Center at 7:00 p.m. in Commuter Lounge in the Student Union. Drop by if you are interested in joining a student run video cooperative and learning how to operate video equipment.

Lynn Gottlieb, storyteller, dancer, rabbi; Campus Center, Room 101, 8 p.m., Sponsored by Hillel.

Dr. Strangelove, Gamble Auditorium, Mount Holyoke, 9 p.m.

Lecture: Life, Death, and Modern Medicine given by Professor Renee Fox, Wright Hall, Smith College, 7:30 p.m.

UPC Production, General Meeting, 163 Complex Campus Center, 6:30-8:00 p.m.

A public presentation entitled Toxic Shock Syndrome and Tampon Use will be held 7 p.m. at Threshold, 9½ Market St., Northampton. Ellen LaFleche, a local women's health activist, will review recent findings on Toxic Shock Syndrome and will discuss recommendations on tampon use and its alternatives. The presentation is sponsored by ISIS—a reproductive rights group. For more information, call 545-0883.

Pre-Dental Meeting at 7 p.m. in room 172 at the Campus Center. A guest speaker will be present.

Spectrum—There will be a meeting of the poetry staff at 5 in the office, rm. 104, C.C. New Members welcome!

Coping with Personal Pressures: The Student Development and Counseling Center is offering a Coping with Personal Pressures: Learning Stress, Self-Awareness and Relaxation workshop from 7 to 10 p.m. room 322 Berkshire House. The Workshop deals with identifying sources of pressure and stress, exposure to a variety of relaxation techniques and examining barriers to becoming a more effective person. For more information, call the Student Development and Counseling Center (5-0333).

College Year in Athens—10 a.m. to 12 noon, in the Classics Department Library, 544 Herter Hall. The director will speak and show slides.

Scandinavian Seminar—1:30-3:30 p.m., in the 6th floor lounge of Herter Hall (rm.601). A representative will be available to talk with interested students; presentation and slides.

Wed., Oct. 29

The Recycling Project will have a meeting 5:30, in room 306, Student Union; all are welcome. Main topic will be job descriptions for the newly formed positions in the organization.

The Question of Women's Liberation—a biblical perspective given by Glenn Carter, 7:30 p.m., Campus Center. Check the CC listing for Rm. number. Sponsored by Campus Crusade for Christ.

Slide Show & Talk: Current Situation of Political Prisoners in Northern Ireland. Music and refreshments. 8 p.m., Hampshire College, Franklin Patterson, Room 105. For more info call 253-3360.

Life Sciences: The Student Development and Counseling Center is offering a Life Science workshop for Biochemistry, Botany, Micro-biology, Science and Zoology majors, 7-10 p.m. The workshop will cover career opportunities, trends, help in career planning and using career resources. For location and more information, call the Student Development and Counseling Center (5-0333).

Invasion of the Body Snatchers: Forbes Little Theater, Northampton, 7 p.m., free.

Israel Dancing for beginners, Commonwealth Rm., Student Union, 7:30 p.m. (8:30 for advanced).

Bringing Up Baby starring Katherine Hepburn and Cary Grant, Wright Hall, Smith College, 7:30 and 9:30, admission $1.

Smith-UMass Orchestra, Concert Hall, 8 p.m.

There will be a free showing of the film The Games of the Ego, at 8 p.m. It will be held in room 165 of the Campus Center. This film showing is sponsored by the T'ai Chi Club. For information call 549-6362.

The Student Development and Counseling Center is offering a Career Planning workshop for majors in Physical Education from 7 tp 10 p.m. in room 153 NOPE. The focus of the workshop will be identifying career objectives, assessing personal strengths, decision making strategies for entering a career field and becoming knowledgeable of related resources. For more information, contact the Student Development and Counseling Center (5-0333).

The Student Development nd Counseling Center is offering a Career/Life Planning workshop for majors in Foreign Language from 7 to 10 p.m. in room 301, Herter Hall (3rd floor lounge). The focus will be on choice of major, use of language as primary or supplemental skills, trends and places for employment. There will also be help in career planning and use of career resources. For more information, contact the Student Development and Counseling Center (5-0333).

Thurs. Oct. 30

Debate of Proposition 2½ 8 p.m., Thompson 102. For: Tracy Mehr, Amherst Taxpayers Associaiton and Citizens for Limited Taxation; Against: Nancy Eddy, Former President Massachusetts Municipal Association, Former Amherst Selectperson. Sponsored by: Campus Coalition Against 2½, Graduate Student Senate, Commuter Collective, and the Undergraduate Student Senate.

The Orgasmic Response Cycle and Sexual Behaviors from 7 to 10 p.m. at SBA room 10. For students...by a student. FREE. Please come and bring a friend. Questions??? Call: Phyllis Labanowski 584-7641.

All people interested in a five college solar energy collective: There will be a meeting with one representative from the New England Solar Energy Associaiton at 5:30 p.m. in the back of the Hatch. Contact: Barry 256-8981.

The Christian Science Organization for UMass invites all students and faculty to attend our evening testimony meeting at 7:30 p.m. in the Campus Center. Check Campus Center assistance desk weekly for room number. All are warmly welcomed.

There will be a five-college informational meeting about the Women's Pentagon Action at 7 p.m. in the Campus Center 909, UMass. All women interested in finding mroe bout the November 16-17 action are welcome.

Leisure Studies and Resources Society, 7-9 p.m., Campus Center, Room 911. Come as your favorite faculty member and discuss the upcoming retreat.

Spectrum—There will be a joint meetng of the Art and Photography Staffs at 5:15 in the office, C.C. rm. 104. New Members are welcome!!!

A lecture n meditation and spiritual practice will be held in the Amherst room of Jones Library in downtown Amherst at 7:30 p.m. The lecturer, Acarya Anakula Crc. will lso be available for individual consultation and instruction in the practice of meditation. Free. All welcome. A free service of Ananda Marga. For information call 549-6059.

Hillel Foundation Film: The Diary of Anne Frank, Merrill 11, Amherst, 7:30 p.m.

The Threepenny Opera, Theatre 14, Smith, 8 p.m.

Friday Night Services, Hillel, Dukes Rm., Student Union 310, 7 p.m.

Film: Brian's Song, Wright Hall, Smith, 7 and 9:30 p.m., admission: $1.

Film: Whatever Happened to Baby Jane? Gamble Auditorium, Mount Holyoke, 7:30 p.m.

Film: Halloween, Gamble Auditorium, Mount Holyoke.

Smith College-Univelrsity of Massachusetts Orchestra, Greene Hall, Smith College, 8:15 p.m.

The Threepenny Opera, Theatre 14, Smith, 8 p.m.

Sabbath Services planned and led by women. 6:30 p.m. in Thompson Lounge, 6th floor. (Note time and place change!)

Sat., Nov. 1

Play: The Healing of Sugar, Hampden Theatre, Southwest, 8 p.m., Students $2, non-students $3.

Sun., Nov. 2

Undercurrents, a weekly news and public affairs program on WMUA 91.1 fm from noon to two p.m. Today's feature is the first of a four part series on undercurrents about the Palestinian-Israeli conflict, The Perpetual War; a historical look at the region and the two peoples interested in the same piece of land.

House Church at UCF—7-9 p.m. at 428 Student Union—a gathering for Biblical Exploration, personal encounter, and fellowship and a simple closing communion—facilitated by Chaplain Pete Sabey. For more info stop by UCF or call 545-2661.

Play: The Healing of Sugar, Hampden Theatre, Southwest, 8 p.m. Students $2, non-Students $3.

Brunch: The Ways of Being Jewish Women with Myra Hindus from the Everywoman's Center; Nisa Zalta, Syrian Jew and political activist; and Jewish Educator Deborah Morse. In the Commonwealth Room, the brunch will be at 11:00 with a small and the program, at 11:45 a.m., will be free.

12 noon, How students on other campuses give aid to Israel, talk, with Yale Univ. Students. Dukes Room, 310 SU.

Anytime

The Amherst League of Women Voters announced today that free Voter Guides for the election on November 4 have been distributed to several areas for students and faculty to pick up. The Voter Guide is a service provided by the League to give voters a non-partisan look at the Candidates for National, State and County offices. Voter Guides are available at the following locations: Campus Center Bookstore, Student Union Lobby, Morrill Science Library, Graduate Research Center Lobby, and Hills South Lobby.

Graduate Fellowships for the study of theology are available from the Fund for Theological Education. Different Fellowship programs include work toward the Master of Divinity and also doctoral fellowships. There are special programs set aside for black North Americans and Hispanics. Stipends range from $500 to $5,000. For information, see the ECUM bulletin board in the Student Union or stop by UCF, 428 Student Union

Next week

A three-day conference entitled "The Next Millennium: Unlearning the Twentieth Century" is scheduled for November 6, 7, and 8, 1980, at the UMass Campus Center. It will be cosponsored by the World Future Society—Education Section, and the School of Education's Future Studies Program.

Collegian

PRESS PASSES for Collegian Staff. Come down to the office and get your picture taken for an official press pass. Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday between 6 and 8 p.m. this week.

NEWSWRITING AND REPORTING WORKSHOPS, every Thursday at 5:30 with our professional news advisor. Get criticism from someone who works in the world of print journalism every day.

NEWS COUNCIL—Public not only welcome, but invited. Please come at 7:30 Wednesday night Campus Center room 917 and tell the Collegian Board of Editors what you like and dislike about the paper.

PSYCHOTHERAPY: Individuals, couples, families. Sliding fee scale.
Psychological Services Center
545-0082

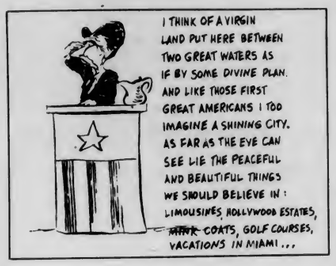
OXFORD NIGHT
Tuesday, Oct. 28
7:30-9:00
South College
Dean's Office
(opp. library)
Hear all about 1981 summer seminar plans

WILLIAM E. DYKE JR., O.D., P.C.
OPTOMETRY
★ Comprehensive Eye Exam $20
Includes Glaucoma Check
★ Contact Lens Fitting $40
Includes: Pre-Evaluation Eye Exam
Bausch & Lomb Soft Lens Fitting
Six Months of Follow-up Visits
Lenses not included
★ Medicaid Accepted
★ Appointments or Walk-ins Accepted
1465A Boston Rd. Springfield 783-3255
749A Memorial Dr. Chicopee 593-3255
Rt 9 Russell St Hadley 586-8830
All offices adjacent to Pearle Vision Center

MIDNIGHT MADNESS
SALE
FRIDAY, OCTOBER 31st, 1980
9:30 a.m. - 8:00 p.m. 25% off
8:00 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. 30% off
9:00 p.m. - 10:00 p.m. 35% off
10:00 p.m. - 11:00 p.m. 40% off
11:00 p.m. - Midnight 45% off
At Midnight 50% off
BOOKS, BIBLES and MUSIC
* Special BONUS for costume-wearers!
logos book store
33 Main St. Northampton
586-4112

Editorial/Opinion

GOLLY GEE FOLKS... WHEN I HEAR ALL THIS TALK ABOUT LACK OF PATRIOTISM AND AMERICANS HAVING NOTHING TO BE PROUD OF, WHY I JUST RECALL THIS WONDERFUL COUNTRY'S HERITAGE.



I THINK OF A VIRGIN LAND PUT HERE BETWEEN TWO GREAT WATERS AS IF BY SOME DIVINE PLAN. AND LIKE THOSE FIRST GREAT AMERICANS I TOO IMAGINE A SHINING CITY. AS FAR AS THE EYE CAN SEE LIE THE PEACEFUL AND BEAUTIFUL THINGS WE SHOULD BELIEVE IN: LIMOUSINES, HOLLYWOOD ESTATES, COATS, GOLF COURSES, VACATIONS IN MIAMI...

C.P.: People before profits

Even if you haven't heard about the campaign of Gus Hall and Angela Davis for president and vice-president on the Communist Party, USA ticket, you've probably heard the theme of the campaign: "Put people before profits."

Gus, who helped to organize the United Steelworkers of America, and Angela, world renowned for her fight against racist repression, are running a people's campaign for peace, jobs, education and democratic rights for all Americans. For those of us who are dissatisfied with the big business controlled and financed candidated. Carter, Anderson and Reagan, the Hall/Davis campaign provides an opportunity to express our demand for pro-people, anti-monopoly policies.

John Howley

So what are some of the real issues? Let's start with the most important: peace. Gus and Angela call for the ratification of SALT II and immediate progress towards mutual arms reduction. All Americans, especially us young folk with our lives ahead of us, should have the right to live free from the threat of nuclear war. Gus and Angela also believe the military budget should be cut and the funds transferred to meet social needs.

The Communist Party platform states that the right to a job at a decent wage is the most fundamental human right. They also call for an end to plant closings and enactment of the six hour day with no cut in pay.

They call for immediate enforcement of civil rights laws and affirmative action programs as well as the outlawing of racist acts and organization such as the KKK and Nazis. Gus and Angela support passage of the ERA and prosecution of employers who engage in discrimination or harassment of women on the job. Comprehensive child care, safe family planning, and abortion must be made available to all.

Gus and Angela call for the nationalization of the oil monopolies and federal support for alternative energy sources. All nuclear power plants should be immediately shut down.

These are some of the main points of a strategy to curb the power of the monopolies--whose insatiable drive for maximum profit is at the root of our problems--and for meeting the pressing needs of our people. This is not the strategy of the "three stooges." Gus puts it like this: "The solution of our problems requires that we law hands on the monopolies and the military budget, and that's exactly what these candidates can't do. That's why the campaign we've been getting from them doesn't discuss the real issues, but consists of TV posturing and public relation gimmicks."

The most effective way to put pressure on whoever gets elected is to vote for an independent party. Supporters of Hall and Davis believe the most effective independent vote is a vote for the Communist Party candidates. Hall and Davis are on the ballot in 24 states plus the District of Columbia, but here in Massachusetts we'll have to write in their names. But even if you don't vote Communist, we urge you to vote against the monopoly controlled candidates and for the people.

Letters

Night cries

To the Editor

Gentle touch, soothe my mind,
Lie here by my side.
When the torrid flow of pain
Swells in my eyes,
Only you can calm the raging sea.
Think not that my body's weak;
Merely ravaged,
Clinging desperately to a fading dream
That man has scattered.
In his animalistic drive for flesh
He sulked aimlessly through the night
Seeking out his victim.
There are those who are helpless
And victimized mercilessly...

I remember once seeing a fawn
Standing majestically in a forest.
I watched from afar as she Stopped to drink from a crystal clear
Mountain stream,
Gazing at her reflection
She looked, one last time,
Into eyes that would no longer see
For within a split second
She fell, shattering the glass-like image.
Tears burned as they ran down my face
And came to rest on her broken spirit.
Waking from my dream, I watched
As my tears trickled down your chest.

Gentle touch, soothe my mind
Hold me close and help me forget
My broken spirit...

A UMass rape victim
Name witheld by request

Proposition 2½ not the answer

Letter to the Editor:

When you vote on Nov. 4 be sure to consider ballot question No. 2 as carefully as you do a presidential choice. The outcome of this "Proposition 2½" could affect educational services for public higher education.

We are all aware that Massachusetts rates low in support of public higher education. If Proposition 2½ passes and local governments lose large amounts of revenues from property taxes, they will turn to the State for additional funds to maintain services. The state does not have a surplus of funds to use for this purpose so it will have to raise taxes or reduce expenditures, or both. Funds to support public education and other services may well be reduced even further in an effort to "bail out" localities.

Major tax reform must be undertaken in Massachusetts immediately to relieve the overdependence on property tax, but Proposition 2½ :Question 2 on the ballot) is not the answer. It will cause chaos for local governments and will not force the tax reform so desperately needed.

We urge you to vote NO on Question 2.

Joan Golowich
Committee to Oppose Prop. 2½
Dona D. Motts
President, Amherst League of Women Voters

Reconcile teaching methods

To the Editor:

There are many problems freshman must face when enetering their first year of college. They vary from getting used to a new environment to dealing with a freedom never before experienced. I feel that the greatest of these problems is one that is not given enough consideration. This problem deals with the conflicting methods or views of how one might obtain a worthwhile education. I will refer to these views as the "old" and "new."

The "old" method of teaching is geared toward structure and the basic fundamentals of learning. The ideas impressed upon us are reading, writing, and arithmetic. My parents, and my grandparents, were taught the "old" way. In those days education was a luxury, teachers were strict and the student was expected to do what he or she was told.

The "new" method of teaching I think came out of the sixties movements. The Anti-government, Civil Rights, and Womens Rights movements played major roles in these years of chaos. The sixties saw a renaissance in education as well as other areas. Out of this generation of people came new ideas and motives in and about the educational system. The mood shifted from fundamentals and basics to fine arts and the humanities. Art, dance, theatre, and music are just a few areas in which great emphasis was put. The "new" method was one that consisted more of individual thoughts and creative ideas as opposed to the universally accepted ideals of days gone by.

The "new" method was not accepted with open arms by the "old" way believers, however. The University of Massachusetts is a fine example of the turmoil and civil disobedience that was prompted by "new" idea believers. The "new" idea movement planted itself on this campus in time. A symbol of it's presence is the massive Fine Arts Center located in the middle of campus, as well as the institution of new courses and programs not before present in the schools curricula.

Now the faculty of the University consists of three factions. The "old" method believers who were dedicated to previous views of teaching, the "new" method believers who now accept the revolutionary views of teaching, and the few remaining who have done their best to combine the efforts of both. These factions are still evident today and while many believe this variety of teachers and teaching methods is to the benefit of the student, I disagree.

When one professor dictates something which contradicts anothers' teachings, it's hard for a student, especially a freshman like myself, to decide who to accept. I have come across this difficulty myself. In one of my classes I have a young graduate student whose ideas and methods of teaching are centered around simple though and simple writing. She intentionally avoids complex and methodical patterns. In another of my classes an older faculty member, who obviously has been teaching for quite some time, approaches the subject in a totally different way. The professor lectures on basics, and the three R's. On a particular occasion he made a point to come right out and say that the younger "new" approach teachers are hurting our education. He scorns them and wishes they did not exist at all.

In my opinion this ignorant and chauvinistic attitude is detrimental and unacceptable in today's society. Criticism is not the answer. Instead the "old" and "new" method teachers must work in conjunction with one another. After all, isn't the goal of all faculty to teach the students? If teachers cared more about who they were teaching and less about anyone elses methods, they would better achieve their purpose. For the benefit of all students and faculty, there must be an agreement between one another if anything is to be accomplished. We must face and dissolve this problem before it gets any worse.

Tom Ahern
Sylvan

Collegian

BOARD OF EDITORS
ROBERT E. STEIN, Editor-in-Chief; FRANT BASCHE, Managing Editor; JEF FREY F. BIANCHI, Graphics Manager; JONATHAN KLEIN, Business Manager; ERIC H. JANSZEN, Executive Editor; RICHARD NAGLE and JAMES MAHONEY, News Editors; JANE DeVIRGILIO, Women's Editor; JIM MORAN, Arts Editor; KAREN THOMAS, Black Affairs Editor; DONNA SULLIVAN and JONATHAN HAMILTON, Sports Editors; PAUL PRICE, Photo Editor

ASSOCIATE EDITORS
ANDREA ATKINS, CATHERINE CLABBY, JIM KANE, ED LEVINE, GAYLE YOUNG, Associate Managing Editors; BOB CARR, Associate Graphics Manager; JOE GANNON, Associate Executive Editor; NANCY ANDERSON, Associate News Editor; LILLIAN SINGER, Associate Women's Editor; MARY KINNEAVY, Associate Arts Editor; JOYCE McLAURIN, Associate Black Affairs Editor; NANCY NUTILE, Associate Photo Editor.

BUSINESS STAFF
KATHRYN KRESS, Advertising Manager; VICKI EGGERT, Finance Manager; JOSEPH RADLEY, Circulation Manager; MICHELLE SILVERSTEIN and JAY N. LUSTIG, Assistant Advertising Managers.

The Collegian is the newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.
Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons and letters represent the personal views of the authors.
The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.
The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertisements lies with the individual advertisers.
[USPS 333-220]

October 28
opening event of
"The Ways a Jewish Woman Can Be"
LYNN GOTTLIEB
Storyteller • dance • rabbi • mime
8 pm CC 101
Performing
Sara, A New Oracle
Storytelling through
★ dance and mime ★
Sponsored by Hillel,
Jewish Feminists Org & Resources Judaica

Frills, but no thrills from Nervous Eaters

The Nervous Eaters
The Hatch
Oct. 25
By Mary Kinneavy
and Jim Moran
Collegian Staff

Saturday nights are supposed to be fun. All the nice boys and girls go out and dance a little and drink a lot and, if you're not all that much concerned about frills, then this particular venue was satisfying.

The Boston-based Nervous Eaters did a lively two sets of heavy metal-infused New Wave, a bit samey-sounding, but competent and loud.

The Eaters opened their first set with a fast-moving number called "Necessities", and roller coasted their way through "Dominance" and "I Want," the latter being a little more melodic. New Keyboardist Larry Milton provided a nice organ riff on "Dominance" that sounded a bit like the Animals' Alan Price. But nothing really shocking or new here.

True, guitarist Jonathan Paley did look adequately "cute" for the part, with his genuine, leather-looking jacket complimenting lead singer Steve Cataldo's pants in every way. Still, he appeared to be "just going through the motions." No, he looked bored stiff.

Cataldo provided what little enthusiasm was evident, especially on the over-covered Bobby Fuller Four's "I Fought the Law" in the second set.

And they did do their obligatory Top 40ish song, "Loretta"—twice, no less. Yet the band offered pretty slim pickins' in the way of audible lyrics, theatrical manifestation or audience contact. I suppose one can't complain too much, considering the relatively low cover charge, eh—it was an ok bar band. But if you're really into innovation, not to mention motivation, in music...

Much more exciting was the opening act, The Trademarks, who were here once before this year (as an opener for Pastiche), clad in their Civil War-era garb and hoppin' around and backing each other up nicely. Audience sentiment was clearly in their favor. Let's hope they come back as a headliner some day real soon.

After the show, The Nervous Eaters expressed their thoughts on the evening's delivery. "Alpo" (the bassist, not the dog food) said, "The kids were really into it." He also expressed enthusiasm over the crowd's dancing. Paley said the audience was "great" but complained that the promoters didn't tell the band they'd be doing two sets.

ROCK NEW WAVE
Disc Jockeys for All Occasions
DENIS 546-6249
ANDY 546-1164
Reasonable Prices Quality Sound
Reliable Service
OLDIES DISCO

Be Involved

The Undergraduate Student Senate needs people to apply for Committee Positions. Immediate positions in Nominating Sub-committee are available. There are also positions available in Finance, Budgets, Coordinating Committee, Governmental Affairs, Academic Affairs, Rents & Fees & Public Policy. Please come up to the Senate Office to apply.

Deadline for Nominating Sub-Committee is Wednesday at 12 noon.

charlie's
good food & drink
LONGEST HAPPY HOUR IN AMHERST
3-8 P.M. Daily (5 hours)!
All Bar Prices Reduced, Most Bar Drinks .95 Miller, Bud, Schlitz bottles .75
Specials after Happy Hour
SUN. Rolling Rock Night .75 bottles
MON. Canadian Night.99 bottles of Molson Golden Ale, Labatts Ale, Moosehead Beer, O'Keefe Ale .75 Molson Red Export Drafts
TUES. Erlanger Night .75 bottles
WED. Schnapps Night .75 shots of cinnamon, spearmint, peppermint Schnapps
THURS. Drink of the Night Special Different drinks, prices each week
We are a nice place to drink, the place where friends meet
Come see our newly remodeled Lounge & Game Room
We have Asteroids, Galaxian, Space invaders, pool table, dart board
Our kitchen is always open, We also serve homemade pizza nightly
1 Pray St. Amherst, Ma 549-5403

LEGAL ASSISTANT INTERNS WANTED:

The legal services Office has 8 positions available for full-time legal asistant interns for the Spring 1981 semester. Up to fifteen credits may be received through Office of Internships. Legal assistants assist attorneys of the Legal Services Office with client interviewing, investigations, legal research, negotiations, giving advice and referrals, preparation of court forms, and attendance at hearings in District and Superior Courts of Hampshire and Franklin counties, and participation in administrative hearings and federal litigation. Legal Assistants maintain continuing caseload under supervision of attorneys. Application availableat Office of Internships, Curry Hicks Building, and inquire further at Legal Services Office, 922 Campus Center. Applications due November 7, 1980 at Office of Internships. Writing sample required.

ALL THIRD WORLD AND
WOMEN STUDENTS ARE ENCOURAGED TO APPLY

Every Wednesday and Friday
ALL YOU CAN EAT!
Fish Fry or Clam Fry
Howard Johnsons
Rt. 9, Hadley

UMASS Ski Club
BUSH BLITZ WEEK
Sugarbush Ski Week
Hotel $159 Cond $144
Jan 25 - 30
Deposits taken at table on CC Concourse Oct 27-31
Sign-Up for FREE RAFFLE
Prize: Free Sugarbush Week
Drop coupon off at table
COUPON
Name _____
Address _____
Phone _____

Carter and Reagan prepare for showdown

By David Espo
Associated Press Writer

President Carter called Ronald Reagan a flip-flopper on the issues yesterday as he campaigned through West Virginia on his way to tonight's two-man, televised debate in Cleveland. His GOP rival prepped for the confrontation by picking up some pointers from Carter's 1976 debate opponent, Gerald R. Ford.

Independent candidate John B. Anderson, who was not invited to the debate, told a news conference in Wisconsin that the State Department told him in a briefing that there are "no real negotiations" between the United States and Iran on the release of the 52 American hostages.

With a new Associates Press NBC poll saying that Reagan holds a slightly narrowing lead nationwide, a top presidential aide predicted Carter would win re-election if news of the hostages keeps the economy off the front pages of the nation's newspapers.

"If you keep the hostages on page one and Reagan and the economy off, Carter's in," said the source, talking anonymously with reporters aboard Air Force One en route to West Virginia.

There have been numerous reports in recent days that the hostages may soon be freed after nearly a year in captivity. Carter has sought to dampen optimism that an end to the crisis may be imminent, and the source said, "We're just weatching and waiting like everyone else."

Despite an attack on Carter's handling of the hostage issue last week, Reagan normally has steered clear of discussing the hostage crisis and has sought to focus public attention instead on what he calls Carter's failed economic policies.

Reagan, preparing for the debate at his rented estate near Middleburg, Va., got some good news from the AP-NBC poll.

PAINTS... for Face & Body
FACES
Downtown Amherst

PRECISION HAIRCUTS

ALL FOR $6.00
with this coupon only
Includes:
FIRST—a professional consultation
SECOND—a precision style cut selected individually just for you
THIRD—our stylists will show you how to take care of your hair
With personal style, cut, shampoo and blow dry $9.50, long hair slightly more. With this coupon only, limited to new customers only.
we also have facials and manicures
Styles by Deborah I & II
65 University Drive
Amherst, MA
549-5610
62 Main Street
Easthampton, MA
527-2411

Something New
BARSELOTTIS
Tuesday Happy Hour
in Downtown Amherst
T.G.I.A.W.
Happy Hour 3-6
Free Whole Wheat Pizza
Pitchers of Old Milwaukee $2.25

STADIUM
KEGS— U. Mass. Amherst —WINE—
BEER— —LIQUORS
LIQUORS
Miller ..... 12 oz btl. or can 7.99
Bud ..... 12 oz b tl. or can 7.99
Miller Light ..... 12 oz btl. or can 7.99
Molson ..... 9.90 case 2.75 six
Moosehead ..... 11.50 case 3.00 six
O'Keefe ..... 9.90 case 2.75 case
Lowenbrau ..... 9.50 case 2.50 case
Michelob Light
..... 7 oz. 1.45 six 8.50 case (6 packs)
University Drive, Amherst, Mass.
Just past UMass Stadium, from SW dorms
Stadium Liquors
ROUTE 9
Save money—Save gas—Save time
10 a.m. — 253-5595 — til 11 p.m.

THE WOK
Chinese Home Style Cooking
COMPLETE TAKE-OUT MENU
AMPLE PARKING
LUNCHEON & DINNER SPECIALS
COCKTAIL LOUNGE
MON. - THURS 11:30 AM - 10 PM • FRI. & SAT. 11:30 AM TO 12:00 PM
SUN. & HOLIDAYS 1 PM TO 10 PM • LUNCHEONS 11:30 AM - 3 PM
EXCEPT HOLIDAYS
48 RUSSELL ST.
HADLEY
Call 586-1202
Second Anniversary Dinner Specials
Available on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday
3:00 p.m. - 10:00 p.m.
SPECIAL
All Dinners come with a beer, wine or bar drink
$4.75
1. Beef w/Mixed veg. & (2) Fried Shrimp & Roast Pork Fried Rice
2. Chicken w/Mixed Veg & (2) Terriyaki Beef & Roast Pork Fried Rice
3. Shrimp w/Mixed Veg. & (1) Egg Roll & Roast Pork Fried Rice
4. Scallop w/Mixed Veg & (4) Chicken Fingers & Roast Pork Fried Rice
5. Sweet & Sour Chicken & Roast pork Fried Rice
6. Sweet & Sour Pork & Roast Pork Fried Rice
7. Sweet & Sour Shrimp & Roast Pork Fried Rice
Moo Shi Dishes (Szechuan Hot)
8. Moo Shi Chicken & Roast Pork Fried Rice
9. Moo Shi Pork & Roast Pork Fried Rice
10. Moo Shi Shrimp & Roast Pork Fried Rice

Collegian Classifieds

To place a Collegian Classified
•Come to Collegian Office CC 113
•8:45 to 3:45 Mon-Fri
•Classified deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day

Collegian Classified Rates
•15c per word
•Student rate 10c per word
•Cash in advance
•5 consecutive days 5 % discount
•Phone number FREE

AUDIO

Complete Panasonic Stereo System Receiver, Turntable, Tapedeck, Thruster 2-way speakers excellent condition $175 or BO must sell! T.J. 253-9032

Audiologic "micro" stereo system: 15 watt integrated amp, stereo tuner, hi fidelity 2-way air suspension speakers $225 call 6-5127

AUTO FOR SALE

74 Peugeot Wag 4 cyl stand AM/FM cassette BO call Jim 1-532-5030

Lancia—1975, brown, leather, air, AM/FM. 5-speed, 27mpg, 44,000 miles $4600 584-6563

'66 Volks RUNS great for parts call Walter 546-9072

Plymouth Fury great condition best offer over $150 call 549-4063

1974 Triumph Spitfire needs work asking $550.00 call 549-5791 between 6-7

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES

Address and stuff envelopes at home $800 per month possible Offer send $1 (refundable) to: Triple "S", 16243-Y78, Hesperia, CA 92345

DISC JOCKEY

Professional Disc Jockey Quality Sound Randy 546-7013

Why not have a succesful party? Hire quality Disc Jockeys!! Denis 546-6249 Andy 546-1164

ENTERTAINMENT

Springsteen Tickets available for Boston December 16 323-5757

Soundsystem and DJ for hire perfect for band parties coffeehouses Rick 584-4105

FREE DRINK

Cola War is coming Wed C.C. be there!!

FOR SALE

Gift Idea: Portrait Drawings; call dennis Delap 665-2972

TRS-80 48K or 16K System must sell mint condition call for details 546-7050

71 VW Squareback standard inspected $650 or BO 549-0305 after 6

Free 1 male 3 month old cat, had shots, good home wanted call 253-5116

New never used 170 Rossignol Skis Look bindings poles size 7 Dolomite boots $175 complete will consider selling separately 665-4213

Hexcel Sundance Skis 180's w/Soloman 555 bindings $130 Head 240 std skis 180's best offer. Boots: Munari Flow men's 8½-9½ last season's like new $70 665-7757

Beckpack new cost $150, sell for $100 will bring to Campus 1-684-3121, 1-442-6023

Moving, must sell 1970 Valiant runs well, $1200.00 Yamaha 12-string guitar, $200 or BO furniture 253-3101

Single bed $40 Carol [illegible]9-5440 after 5

Timberline ankle high hiking boots women's size 8, mens 6. Very good condition. Price negotiable. call 586-5288

FOUND

Calculator found in Campus Center Thurs Oct 23 claim it in the Building Operation Office

Psych Journal at Hasbrouck bus stop identify Carlos 665-4763

Size small women's sweater at West Hatfield Stables Friday 17th call Sue 6-6946

STEVE NOVAK call 665-7586 for the return of your dog

Found: A 6-month old puppy in the vicinity of Herter Hall brown, grey and black beautifully marked, a cross between Wiemarner and a German Shepard call 253-8850

HELP WANTED

Overseas Jobs — Summer/year round Europe, S. America, Australia, Asia all fields $500-$1200 monthly expenses paid Sightseeing. Free info. write IJC Box 52-MA2 Cornona Del Mar CA 92625

Wanted part-time radiology technician for multi-specialty group practice please call 256-8561 ext 248 M-F 8 am-4 pm

Make a dollar every raffle ticket sold on consignment supporting No Nukes call 549-6136

Lower Central Academic Center—looking for tutors in Chemistry 111 and 107, Physics 161, Economics 104, Psychology 150 and CE 240. Interested people call 5-3945 between 12-5 (Mon-Fri) Grad and Undergrad

Address and stuff envelopes at home $800 per month, possible. Any age or location. See ad under businss opportunities Triple "S".

Nationally known Travel Company looking for local sales representative to help promote Spring Break trips to Ft. Lauderdale, Florida Earn commissions and/or free vacation. Send resume with references to: Student Suntrips Inc. 1666 N. High St., Suite 20 Columbus, Ohio 43201

Summer Work Box 213, Amherst MA 01004

Hockey Referees, experienced or teachable, AHAUS situations in Amherst call Bud at 5-2208 or 549-0382 nites

HAPPY ANNIVERSARY!

Happy 1st Anniversary Baby! Love your one and only, Kitten 10/27/79

INSTRUCTION

English Classes (ESL) Elementary, Intermediate. Two hours an afternoon, except Wednesday. Faculty/student spouses, visitors, immigrants. People's Institute, Northampton. 584-3956 NLI, P.O. Box 34, Northampton

INTERNSHIPS AVAILABLE

Legal Assistant Interns Wanted: The Legal Services Office has 8 positions available for full-time legal assistant interns for the Spring 1981 semester. Up to fifteen credits may be earned through Office of Internships. Legal assistants assist attorneys of the LSO with client interviewing, investigations, legal research, negotiations, giving advice and referrals, preparation of court forms, and attendance at hearings in District and Superior Courts, and participation in administrative hearings and federal litigation. Maintain continuing case load under supervision of attorneys. Applications available at Office of Internships, Curry Hicks Building, and inquire further at Legal Services Office, 922 Campus center. Applicationsdue November 7, 1980 at Office of Internships. Writing sample required. All third world and women students are encouraged to apply.

LEGAL SERVICES

Attorney Jason Rosenthal reasonable rates Days 584-4285, Evenings 253-7617

LOST

Nova Owners I hitched back to Boston on Friday Oct. 10 I left a brown and tan reversible jacket in your car call 6-7470

Sterling Silver Bracelet with white stone. Lost Oct, 17 in maze. call 6-6862

Lost keys—Sat nite wall across from Thoreau Reward 6-7451

Gold Chain two medallions reward contact 546-7930

Medium sized charcoal grey shaggy mixed breed female dog. Answers to Fenario Lost near Amherst/Belchertown line. Please call 546-8587 or 256-6319

Lost Blue Checkbook in Northeast Dorm Area Please call 665-2592

Lost Calculator Sharp in zipper case call Korky Lois 549-0760 Info carved on the back

Help! Lg red Physics and manila Finance notebooks lost at Newman Center or SBA on Sun Oct 19 Reward call Carrie 546-4189 or 546-9382

Lost watch electric Timex with silver mesh band please call 546-8512 sentimental value REWARD!

Pair of pink tinted eyeglasses in brown leather case call 549-4874

Wool Blazer dark brown in Franklin Sentimental value Reward 6-6754

PERSONALS

Undergrad Pol. Sci. Assoc. interested in becoming member? Sign-up Rm 422 Thompson

Business Career Day Luncheon Tickets on sale Monday in SBA price $4.50 for UBC members 5.00 for others on sale all next week, but tickets are limited buy early!

Monster Mash—Halloween Party Poor Dick's Tue Oct 28 25c drafts 75c drinks $1 cover costumes optional sponsored by Delta Chi

Full Gospel Bible Study CC 905-909 Tues Oct 28th 8-10 PM

Sam—you bring new meaning to MWF. Let the sun shine in! Aquarius

Career Day 1980 Tuesday, Nov. 4 10-4 PM ist floor Campus Center Come hear distinguished speakers discuss career opportunities in various fields of business. All welcome! Sponsored by Undergraduate Business Club

Elizabeth Flanigan—I love you—P. anonymous Happy Birthday!

Robert—Always checking for a personal or mail, well today is a first! You're great!

Wally, Happy Birthday, treat yourself to the elevator, love, Gerbonzanoes

Mike Scanlon—your day is 7 months away! H.B.D.

Galloping Gaels—we will have our revenge

Tricia Happy 21st Birthday a day late! Hope it was happy, Love, The Pledges

BZ 7 days equals one year. Year two will be even better! Grovelling, my room tonight S M

Coolidge 3rd we have what it takes let's get it together!

Patricia—Happy Birthday—two one one in the cave? I'll bring the Big Mac—love Bones

Coolidge Fourth Floor "men" fake it well!

Yoooo Frazier! Happy Birthday! Sorry I'm late. Was it the balls? I have cards for you. First clue-DVP mail box. Have fun. H.G.

Larry Wolff Happy 19th Birthday T.a Wrestlers

Ned, I love you D.

Vote for Reagan & Bush

Ronald Reagan wants peace through strength, not appeasement

Ronald Reagan is NOT against equal rights

Hawkwind is God, but that doesn't mean Im crazy Wananana

RIDE WANTED

To Niagra Falls/Buffalo round trip any Fr-Mon and/or Thanksgiving week. Share expenses Tel 549-1542

ROOM WANTED

Student needs space in apt for Spring semester call Carol 546-8067

2 women seek 2 rooms House or apartment NEAR CAMPUS for Spring semester 546-9124/546-6342

Help us! We're one junior a 2 seniors who have outgrown dorm life. Looking for housing on bus route for Spring semester Call 546-7433 or 546-7427

Female looking for roomates to share apt for Spring semester call 256-6045 anytime

ROOMMATE WANTED

Female own room Puffton #130 549-1156

Roommate to share a 2 bedroom apt with female student $200 per month 253-2047

One or two women wanted to share two bedroom Brittany manor with two other women second semester call Gail or Barb 253-5370 after 6:00

Puffton Village one bdrm in two bdrm apt $157 + lights Mike 549-3616 545-0731

In S.Deerfield Quiet, non-smoking, serious (student preferred) person. Now until January 115 + /mo 665-7705

SERVICES

Experienced typist available Fast, neat work, reasonable rates. 546-6439

Typing; Words-Worth, 37 East Pleasant Street, Amherst, 549-1303. Double-spaced text from 95c a page. Justified resumes from $3.50 a page. Telephone dictation line. Overnight rush jobs. Your words are worth it.

Statistics Tutor Prepare for midterm, 4.50/hr. experienced graduate student 253-5764

Expert Typing, Editing reasonable rates 665-4815 evenings and weekends

SHITTER & TUMA

Shitter & Tuma Happy Belated Birthday Love Spunky & Dicky

SONGWRITERS

Folk-Singer, song writer researching song writing at UMass. If you write original folk, or country music I would like to interview you and profile your work in my Research--call Joe at 665-2840 10 pm-11:30 pm or weekends anytime

TO SUBLET

Cliffside one bedroom apartment, around 11/10, $205 Includes utilities, 665-4763

TRAVEL

Florida—The Great Getaway for Spring Break and January Term under $200 round trip jet 256-6704

WANTED

Top Dollars for class rings, gold, sterling, at Wendy's CC Concourse, twice a week

Highest prices paid for class rings, gold, and silver jewelry. See me before you sell. Daniel Smith, 25 North Pleasant St between Fotomat and Logos, Amherst M-Sat10-6 call 256-0710

Wanted pictures of Gary Numan Concert 10/17 at Orpheum call Emily 253-9987

Cash for unwanted class rings gold, silver anytime Bob or Sue 546-6607

WANT TO SUBLET

Would like to sublet a 2-3 bedroom apt beginning in January call Mindy 546-4825 or Carole 546-4848 anytime

OVERSEAS AUTO PARTS

For the most complete line of foreign auto parts and accessories in the Pioneer Valley.

Get an extra 10% off our low prices with this ad.

offer expires Nov. 15, 1980

API®

Zayre Shopping Plaza
Rt 9 Hadley, MA 01035
Tel 253-3403

authorized API distributor®

ABSENTEE VOTING

VOTE

BE COUNTED!

ABSENTEE BALLOTS FOR THE 1980 FEDERAL ELECTIONS WILL BE NOTARIZED IN THE MEMORIAL HALL LOBBY ON THE FOLLOWING DATES:

Wednesday	October 22, 1980	9 AM - 5 PM
Thursday	October 23, 1980	9 AM - 5 PM
Friday	October 24, 1980	9 AM - 4 PM
Monday	October 27, 1980	9 AM - 5 PM
Tuesday	October 28, 1980	9 AM - 5 PM
Wednesday	October 29, 1980	9 AM - 5 PM
Thursday	October 30, 1980	9 AM - 5 PM
Friday	October 31, 1980	9 AM - 4 PM
Monday	November 3, 1980	9 AM - 4 PM

Sponsored by: The Division of Student Services
The Office of Alumni Affairs
The Dean of Students Office

ONE FOR THE ROAD — Cindy Downing

YA'KNOW, I STILL DON'T EVEN FEEL THOSE 3 BOTTLES OF WINE!
NEITHER DO I! HEY, LOOK AT THAT TRAFFIC JAM
BUMPER TO BUMPER CARS.... YA KNOW WHAT I'M THINKING...
YEAH! DO YOU SUPPOSE WE SHOULD?
BONZAI!
WAHOO!

Abnormal Psychology — J. Demskey

HEY JOAN! TODD RUNDGREN'S IN A MAGAZINE ARTICLE. YOU'RE A TODD-HEAD, AREN'T YOU?
WELL, YEAH, SORT OF. WHAT'S IT ABOUT?
IT TELLS ABOUT THE MUSIC GIGS HE'S BEEN DOING TO SUPPORT JOHN ANDERSON'. HOW DO YOU LIKE THAT?
WELL THAT'S HIS CHOICE. I'M JUST ANTI-REAGAN. WHAT MAGAZINE IS THIS ANYWAY?
PEOPLE
R I P ?!
NOT PEOPLE!
BETTER WRITE TODD A FAN LETTER AND TELL HIM YOU'RE UPSET.

Under the Influence — M. Joyce

AH! WHAT WILL IT BE? JACK DANIEL'S OR HOW ABOUT JAMESON?
CROWN ROYAL SOUNDS GOOD! OR MAYBE CHIVAS?
HOW MUCH MONEY HAVE YOU GOT? I'M BROKE!!
A PINT OF OLD SNEAKERS PLEASE.
M Joyce 10/28

DOONESBURY — by Garry Trudeau

HI! WELCOME TO THE MYSTERIOUS WORLD OF RONALD REAGAN'S BRAIN! HOME OF NEARLY 30 BILLION NEURONS, OR "MARBLES," AS THEY ARE KNOWN TO THE LAYMAN!
WHAT WONDERS AWAIT US! THE FORNIX-REAGAN'S MEMORY VAULT, STOREHOUSE OF IMAGES OF AN IDYLLIC AMERICA, WITH 5¢ COKES, BURMA SHAVE SIGNS, AND HARD-WORKING WHITE PEOPLE!
THE HYPOTHALAMUS, THE DEEP, DARK COILS OF HUMAN AGGRESSION, SOURCE OF REAGAN'S IMPULSES TO SEND U.S. FORCES TO ANGOLA, IRAN, KOREA, CYPRUS, CUBA, LEBANON AND COUNTLESS OTHER HOT SPOTS!
SO FASTEN YOUR SEAT BELTS! IT'S A TOPSY-TURVY FUN-HOUSE OF A TRIP, BUT YOU WON'T BE SORRY! NOW THIS.
10-28
G.B. Trudeau

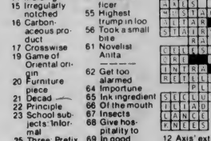
CROSSWORD

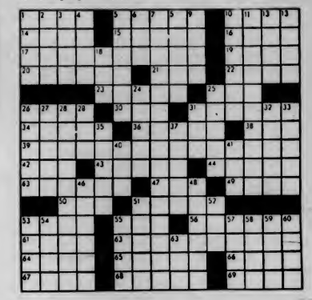
UNITED Feature Syndicate

ACROSS
1 Military base
5 Germanic alphabet characters
10 Elect. units
14 Molding
15 Irregularly notched
16 Carbonaceous product
17 Crosswise
19 Game of Oriental origin
20 Furniture piece
21 Decad. —
22 Principle
23 School subjects: Informal
25 Three: Prefix
26 Thin circular plate
30 54, of old
31 General inclinations
34 Pacific Fur Co. founder
36 Gunpowder ingredient: Var.
38 Goddess: Latin
39 Highly engrossing: 2 words
42 Resentment
43 — — — — Rica
44 Actress — — — — Hasso
45 Hunting dog
47 O
49 Leguminous plants
50 Cape — — — cottage
51 Pac. North west plant
53 Turkish official
55 Highest trump in loo
56 Took a small bite
61 Novelist Anita — — —
62 Get too alarmed
64 Importune
65 Ink ingredient
66 Of the mouth
67 Insects
68 Give hospitality to
69 In good health

DOWN
1 Traps for crustaceans
2 British person
3 Center of authority
4 Encamp
5 Make known
6 Ending with ten and text
7 Asians: 2 words
8 Letters
9 Noted
10 Yearn
11 Ellington classic: 2 words
12 Axis' extremity
13 Ancient Greek walk
18 Seminary: Abbr.
24 Changes the color
25 Lock of hair
26 Log rail
27 French river
28 Make longer: 2 words
29 Modest
31 Three, in Genoa
32 Man's nickname
33 Wise men
35 Passed through a sieve
37 Path
40 — — — easter
41 Poetic contraction
46 Honors with words
48 Dormant
51 Specific taste
52 Unenforced
53 Where Calgary is: Abbr.
54 Proceed: 2 words
55 Halifax or Houston, e.g.
57 Cargo-carrying vessel
58 Fatigue
59 Writ words
60 Secluded valley
63 Estuary

Monday Puzzle Solved





D.C. Menu

DINNER
Chicken Stew/Cornbread
Cheese Strata
Breaded Veal Pattie/Onion
Paprika Sauce

BASICS DINNER
Chicken Stew/Cornbread
Cheese Strata

LUNCH
Junior Club Sandwich
Fish in Batter/Tartar Sauce

BASICS LUNCH
Vegetable Taco
Fish in Batter/Tartar Sauce

KOSHER MENU
Roast Veal/Dressing, Gravy
Cold Cut Plate

WHAT ARE YOUR WORDS WORTH?

Your reports, manuscripts, letters and resumes; your thesis or dissertation—in whatever form, in almost any language—your words are worth the scrupulous, professional attention of Words-worth.

- Double spaced text from $.95 a page.
- Justified resumes from $3.50 a page.
- Telephone dictation line.
- Overnight rush jobs.

High quality computerized typing at an amazingly affordable price. Your words are worth it.

WORDS-WORTH

37 East Pleasant Street
Amherst, MA 01002
(413) 549-1303

ALL PHASES OF HAIRCARE

expert haircutting

permanent waving

haircoloring and hennas

Regency Hairstylists

189 North Pleasant Street Amherst

253-9526

apprentice haircutters available

drop in! we will show you how to french braid

'Fashion' satires the trendiness of Victorian society in a light comedy

By Michael Martineau
Collegian Staff

Begin with a delightfully old-fashioned script full of scoundrels, love triangles, fortune hunters, blackmailers and eccentrics, place it in the hands of a skillful director, with a cast that knows how to have a good time with it, and you have the makings of an evening that is lighthearted and entertaining. The University Ensemble Theater's production of "Fashion," or "Life in New York, Comedy," is exactly that.

"Fashion" was performed last week-end and will continue Thursday, Oct. 30 — Saturday, Nov. 1 at the University of Massachusetts Rand Theater.

"Fashion" is a playful satire of society's tendency to keep up with everything that is current and chic. It was written in the middle 1800's by Anna Cora Mowatt, one of the first female playwrights. In fact, the play opens with a prologue to the audience proclaiming that Fashion is a comedy, written by a woman. Two of the characters express their doubt that a woman is capable of writing a comedy, while the third character, a woman, points out that there would be no one better qualified to write a comedy about fashion than a woman. The three characters agree to let us decide, and the play begins.

Mrs. Tiffany (I. Mary Carter) is a woman who suddenly finds herself and her family in society's upper crust. Being new to such status, she attempts to keep up with what's in fashion with the assistance of her maid, Millinette (Audrey Jacques). Mrs. Tiffany's daughter Seraphina (Linda Chemini), is being wooed by the Count Jolimaitre (Michael Walker) who, unbeknownst to Mrs. Tiffany, is an impostor, merely after the Tiffany wealth. All Mrs. Tiffany knows is that the height of fashionableness would be having her daughter become a countess.

Meanwhile, Mr. Tiffany (Rick Martin) is being blackmailed by his confidential clerk, Snobson (Laurence J. Geddes). His blackmail demand is the hand of Seraphina in marriage. His threat, to put Mr. Tiffany out of business.

To complicate matters further, the count is making passes at Seraphina's music teacher, Gertrude (Megan R. Smith), who loves Colonel Howard, (Kevin Cristaldi). Enter a crusty farmer, Adam Trueman (Douglas Stark), who is immediately appalled by the immense importance placed on fashion, and sets out to open everyone's eyes. He is being lusted after by Prudence, Mrs. Tiffany's old maid sister. To reveal anything further would be unfair, not to mention impossible. Suffice it to say that things become impossibly complex but tidily resolved, with much laughter in the process.

This production has been directed by Edward Golden, with close attention to style. Actors deliver asides to the audience, often playing directly to them. It is a deceptively difficult style to maintain and for the most part, the cast succeeds.

Guest artist Mary Carter, as Mr. Tiffany, delivers a wonderfully subtle comic performance. Her Mrs. Tiffany is fluttery, exasperating, and very funny. As Adam Trueman, guest artist Douglas Stark does not fare nearly as well. He gives good line readings but appears uncomfortable with physical shtick, and his asides, rather than including the audience, tend to distance himself from his fellow cast members. Three exceptional performances however are provided by Audrey Jacques as Millinette, Laurence J. Geddes as Snobson, and Michael Walker, as the Count Jolimaitre. Each never misses a comic opportunity. In a play where excess would be disasterous, the three are subtle enough to be hilariously funny. Their performances with that of Carter make "Fashion" all the rage.

Linda J. Chemini, left, as Seraphina and Audrey Jacques as Millinette in the University Ensemble Theater production of Fashion. The play, written by Anna Cora Mowatt during the 1800's, is one of the only comedies by a woman playwright.

DAVE MASON in concert Thurs Oct. 30
special guest star - Kate Taylor 8:00
@ Mt Holyoke College Chapin Aud
Tickets $7.00 @ Faces of Earth, Country Comforts, Record Town (Holyoke Mall) Campus Shop, Monitor's Office at Mt. Holyoke

DISCO ON DOWN TO...
Rt. 9 Amherst
Poor Richard's DISCOTHEQUE
TUESDAY
BEER NIGHT
HALLOWEEN PARTY
THURSDAY
CA$H PRIZES
Fri. & Sat.
HAPPY HOUR 8-10 p.m.

I've studied a lot of classics...

None was as refreshing as this.

Coming November 2

DARK STAR!!

Outer Space was never like this DARK STAR; their not lost in space, their loose
50¢ Admission

STILL BUYING AT HIGHEST CA$H PRICE$
CLASS RINGS
Gold & Silver Jewelry

See me when you Sell
DANIEL SMITH
Permanently located between Fotomat and Logos
25 North Pleasant St.
Amherst
256-0710
Monday thru Saturday
10 AM to 6 PM
MEMBER AMHERST CHAMBER OF COMMERCE LICENSED BY TOWN OF AMHERST AND STATE OF MASS.

amc THEATRES
ADULTS $2.75 STUDENT & SR CITIZEN WITH AMC CARD $2.25 SPECIAL ENGAGEMENTS EXCLUDED TIMES SHOWN FOR TODAY ONLY TWILITE SHOW $1.75 TWILITE SHOW LIMITED TO SEATING

HAMPSHIRE 4 584-7550 HAMP. MALL ON CAFE SQ.—RT. 9, HADLEY, MASS.
DONALD SUTHERLAND Ordinary People R (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15
LOVING COUPLES PG (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30
HOPSCOTCH R (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:15
THE FIRST DEADLY SIN R (6:15 @ $1.75) 8:30
Movie and Dinner only $5.50 Have your choice of 5 different meals at the Pewter Pot Rest. in the Hampshire Mall and see one of the eight movies in this ad (Sun-THur only)
SHOPPER'S SHOW FREE! Thursdays at 1:00 P.M. Oct. 30 Lost & Found with George Segal and Glenda Jackson

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9-HADLEY, MASS.
GOLDIE HAWN as PRIVATE BENJAMIN R (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30
It's My Turn R (6:15 @ $1 75) 8:30
TIMES SQUARE R (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:15
ANTHONY HOPKINS THE ELEPHANT MAN PG (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15

★ Tuition

continue from page 1

time salaried employees at UMass for retirement, unemployment, health insurance, etc.

"We have to get it across that students just cannot afford to take on the cost of these benefits," said committee member Joel Weissman. Weissman also noted a state legislature mandate in 1977 that required that students of state schools, and not the state, pay the cost of these "fringe benefits." Weissman said that because of the "pull of then President Robert Wood in Boston" the cost was not applied to UMass schools.

The Committee decided to enact a plan to inform students of these increases through coverage and ads appearing in the Collegian, meetings with House Councils, and by circulating a petition in the Campus Center opposing "unnecessary fee increases." The Committee also tentatively planned a student rally for Nov. 12 protesting the increases.

"We have to have maximum student support in this," said Committee member Chip Nealy, "otherwise our work won't amount to anything."

The Committee will target their demands to Chancellor Koffler, and will petition for an "increase in financial aid, no tuition increase, and opposition to the cost of 'fringe benefits,' or unnessary fee increases" being placed on students.

★ Halloween

continue from page 1

"If the weekend goes fine, it will set a precedent for the administration not to accept student input in decisions afecting students," said Moran.

The administration is counting on students to remain in their dorms and have parties Keefe said. However, only Johnson Dormitory in the Northeast Residential Area has taken out papers for holding a party. Keefe added that the tower dormitories in Southwest are only allowed to have one major party per house, limited to 125 people.

"If the dorm parties don't work people are going to be roaming around looking for parties. And if there is trouble the police are going to pick them up," Keefe said.

Madson also said small parties are desirable because they would be easier to control and people causing problems could be more easily identified and dealt with.

"We've debated and though about it and the feeling of our staff is one which limits campus activity to small residential parties," Madson said last night. "Today we learned that the parties were not developed well and tomorrow at the residential staff meeting we will try to make it as easy as possible to develop parties for the weekend."

Keefe said the student leaders agree with the administration on closing the Campus Center and limiting access to the residential halls, but strongly disagree with the idea of limited or no student activities and functions.

Sports Notices

Intramural badminton players please pick up playoff schedules in the IM office on Wednesday, Oct. 29.

ATTENTION ALL IM ICE HOCKEY PLAYERS: Face masks are now required equipment. We have arranged for Fenton's Sporting Goods to provide and install these masks for $10.00 each. Fenton's is located just below Whole Wheat Pizza on Main St. in Amherst. Also, open stick practice every Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 1-3 p.m. at Williston Academy for $1.00 per head. Any questions call Dusty Burke at 253-3059.

Intramural racquetball players—IM racquetball started yesterday. If you have not already done so, please stop by the IM office and pick up your schedule. Hopefully you won't miss your first match.

The General Physical Education Program still has slots available for anyone interested in taking skating courses at Orr Rink. The following courses are open:

Ice Hockey, Tu./Th., 8:00-9:15 a.m.

Figure Skating, Mon.-Fri. mornings, 10:00-12:00.

The classes begin on November 1 and will end December 12. In both cases, there is a small lab fee. Interested persons should contact the General Physical Education office, Boyden 224, 545-2338 before the first class.

The UMass table tennis club is sponsoring the 3rd annual UMass Table Tennis Championships Saturday Nov. 8th in NOPE gym. Entry blanks are available at the games room located across from the Hatch. Winners will represent UMass in the New England regional tournament. All UMass students welcome. Entry fee in one dollar. For more info call 545-2527.

JOBS AVAILABLE
The Collegian has openings for Assistant Night Production Managers. Applications are available in the Collegian offices.

The Collegian is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer.

Join us for our Quick Lunch Specials
the Hungry U Restaurant
the ideal spot for a relaxing meal
from $1.99 to $2.99
Monday thru Friday

HALLOWEEN
Blood
Clown Kits
False Nails & Lashes
Hair Coloring Spray
Eye Liners
Body Make-Up
Clown White
Bald Pates
75c to $8.00
COLLEGE DRUG
4 Main St. Amherst 253-2523

Imagine yourself creating a simulator that duplicates in 3-D any situation a pilot might experience.

You can do it at Hughes Support Systems. We also support all of Hughes Aircraft Company with a vast assortment of advanced electronic systems — lasers, satellites, radars, electro-optics, and thermal imaging, to name a few.

We offer one of the finest continuing education programs in the country and a world of other benefits.

Imagine yourself at Hughes.
On Campus Nov. 4
See your placement office for an appointment.

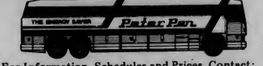
At Hughes, your future is limited only by your imagination.

HUGHES
HUGHES AIRCRAFT COMPANY
SUPPORT SYSTEMS
Proof of U.S. Citizenship Required
Equal Opportunity Employer

Hughes Aircraft Company, Support Systems Group, P.O. Box 90515, Los Angeles, CA 90009.

FAST ECONOMICAL & FREQUENT FREQUENT FREQUENT
TRAILWAYS and PETER PAN offer service to Boston, New york and many other destinations.
TRAILWAYS & PETER PAN BUS LINES

MAKE LIFE SIMPLER FOR YOU.



The Energy Saver
For Information, Schedules and Prices, Contact:
Campus Center Bus Office - 545-2006, or 549-6000

Sports

The women's soccer team travels to Cambridge to take on the top-ranked Harvard Crimson today at 3:00 p.m.

Dartmouth ties Minutewomen, 0-0

By Clay Borglund
Collegian Staff

HANOVER, N.H. — The UMass women's field hockey team recieved its first blemish of the 1980 season yesterday, when a 0-0 tie with Dartmouth College dropped them to 14-0-1 on the year. Dartmouth's record ran to 8-3-1.

In the end, the problem was simple and obvious. Almost too simple and obvious. UMass, who excelled defensively by holding the Green stickers to a paltry four shots on net, could not capitalize for themselves offensively. All 28 of UMass' shots were turned away in a superb showing by the Dartmouth goalie, who also had several timely visits from that perpetual 12th player, Lady Luck.

"We just couldn't put the ball in the net," explained Coach Pam Hixon, "that and the fact their goalie played very well for them."

Besides outshooting the Dartmouth squad 28-4, the Minutewomen also had a whopping 28-5 advantage in the corners department, but it was to no avail on this particular day.

"For us, trying the second best field hockey team in the national, (UMass is currently ranked #2 behind Penn State) is just as good as a win," said a jubilant Mary Corrigan, head coach of Dartmouth. "We've always seemed to do well against them, though."

How true. Besides yesterday's tie, played on a blustery, cold, autumn afternoon in the shadow of Dartmouth's Memorial Stadium, the Big Green had won the previous two meetings with UMass. Something they can hang their hat on with pride.

Despite not emerging with a victory, (and all the girls knew they should have) the game plan for UMass ran very smoothly.

On defense, the stingy Minutewomen stopped Dartmouth's offense allowing at most, five deep advances into the UMass zone. The UMass goalie Patty Shea was only called upon to make four saves all afternoon. So in effect, it boiled down to the UMass offense, and its inability to score.

There were some definite bright spots in the stickwomen's offense though. Judy Strong played her usual consistent game and ended up with a game-high eight shots on goal. Complimenting her fine play was Tish Stevens and Sue Caples who both notched six shots apiece. But alas, none found their way home, and Dartmouth celebrated their biggest game of the season as victors of sorts. While UMass could only think about all their missed opportunities, wishing they could have them back for one more shot.

Next on tap for the team is another encounter with an Ivy League foe. Brown University of Providence R.I. invades NOPE this Wednesday for a 3:00 match.

Then UMass' regular season ends Saturday with an away bout against the Rams of the University of Rhode Island. Beyond that is the unchartered territory of post season play.

And they couldn't be looking any better.

UMass' Joseph Bortolotti challenges for possession of the ball in last Saturday's loss against nationally-ranked UConn. The 4-9 Minutemen head to Westfield tomorrow night hoping to break a four-game losing streak. (Staff photo by Bill Harrold)

Minutemen face 'night' Owls

By Bob Mitchell
Collegian Staff

The University of Massachusetts men's soccer team, struggling at 4-9, travels to Westfield State College tomorrow night to battle the 12-2-3 Owls on the artificial surface at 7:30.

The Owls, who are unbeaten in their last 14 starts, are flying high, coming off a 4-3 win over Plymouth State, the number-one ranked Division II team in New England.

Westfield State is led by senior captain Hector Gomes, juniors Tom Denault (right fullback) and John Leahy (center halfback), and sophomore Neal Buchanan (left halfback). Freshman Rob Moller, however, currently leads the team in scoring with eight goals and seven assists, while Gomes has six scores and eight assists.

In goal, the Owls have alternated two freshmen — Brian Jarvis and Woody Cardoza, and apparently, the squad has not suffered from this inexperience in the nets.

Westfield has earned impressive wins over American International College, Worcester State, Skidmore College, Bridgewater State and Western New England College, as well as the upset over Plymouth.

"They're playing high," UMass head coach Russ Kidd said, "they're really up."

The Minutemen, coming off a 6-1 defeat at the hands of the UConn Huskies Saturday, will certainly have their work cut out for them. Not only are they running up against a tough team, but they must play them on an artificial surface.

"They've got a hell of an advantage because they play on it all the time," Kidd said.

Greeks rule, Maroons take Co-Rec crown

By Stephen Freker
Collegian Staff

In a fraternal sense, this game was the ultimate.

The brothers of Theta Chi, led by brothers Jim and Steve Aulenback, were going to battle Barry and Dean Bennett's Maroons in the semifinal round of the intramural football league playoffs.

The Maroons were out to do something that no one else has been able to do all season. Son of Sam almost beat Theta Chi last week, but Steve Aulenback's field goal in double overtime sealed the fraternity team's eighth consecutive victory.

Aulenback showed that he could do it defensively also as he and brother Jim teamed up for four interceptions while patrolling the defensive backfield and leading Theta Chi to a 7-0 win over the Maroons.

Defense was the final word throughout the game. The Bennetts were the cornerstones for a tough Maroon defense that was virtually flawless except for the winning touchdown heave from Jeff Mansfield to Ron Annand with 40 seconds left to play.

If the Maroons defense was flawless, Theta Chi's was ferocious. Busty Hamilton, who has perfected his Eric Cregan pass rush imitation, put heavy pressure on the Maroon quarterback all game and sparked Theta Chi to its shutout victory.

"It was a close game but we were real fired up out there," Hamilton said. "It was only a matter of time before we would score."

Theta Chi had its chances to score, but the Maroon "D" met the challenge. Mansfield had plenty of time to throw while blockers Hughie Ahearn and Jim Barbati consistently buried oncoming pass rushers, but his receivers were always well-covered by one of the Bennett clan. Bennett, on the other hand, had almost no time in his backfield as Hamilton and the Aulenbacks combined to stymie any of his attempts to establish an effective Maroon aerial attack.

Theta Chi's win last night gives them the right to face Spartan League winners, Phi Sig, in the playoff final which will start at 5:30 tonight at the Boyden playing fields. Phi Sig beat BMF 17-14 last night to gain their berth in the Greek showdown.

"We've been waiting for these guys all season," said Hamilton. "We'll be ready."

UMass falls in Maryland, hopes to rebound at UConn

By Maureen Sullivan
Collegian Staff

It has come down to this, this final week of the regular season for the women's volleyball team. In order to be considered for Eastern Regional competition, UMass must do better than just playing well. They have to win matches.

The Minutewomen, coming off a no-win, five loss weekend at the Maryland Invitational, faces everyone from Rutgers University to Smith College this week, and they have to "turn it around", begin to win again.

UMass hopes to improve their chances for the Regionals tonight, when they play Rutgers and the University of Connecticut at Storrs. The match against Rutgers will be televised on the Eastern Sports Broadcasting Network on a tape-delayed basis.

The Scarlet Knights and the Minutewomen met before, at Maryland; Rutgers defeated them 15-13, 15-4. The other teams who defeated UMass were Clemson University (17-15, 15-8), Temple University (15-12, 15-6), Princeton University (15-13, 15-7) and West Virginia University (15-7, 15-9), in the first round of the consolation bracket).

Despite the poor showing, UMass Coach Elaine Marasco said that UMass did get a lot of good out of the Invitational.

"The exposure, the experience was great for us," she said, "we played very well in the first game of each match, but we seemed to establish a pattern of doing well in the first game, then falling apart in the second. The teams we faced were the best in the East, and were very fact. But I'm confident about these kids. Right now (at practice yesterday afternoon), they're moving three times faster than they have in their lives."

"We have a good chance of beating Rutgers. I think they're going to be flat against us, but I know we'll play well against them (and UConn). We've got to do well and win," Marasco said.

After Tuesday's matches, UMass will host its last matches of the season, against Smith College and Northeastern University Thursday night, then head to the University of Rhode Island for its Tournament this weekend.

"Hopefully, we'll win, do well this weekend, then sit by the phone Sunday and pray it rings," said Marasco.

The Minutewomen are now 19-19, including a loss to Southern Connecticut State College last Thursday and a win over Sacred Heart University on Friday.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Volume CX, Issue 41 The University of Massachusetts at Amherst Wednesday, October 29, 1980

Goldfarb's contract still in question

By James F. Mahoney
Collegian Staff

The WFCR Advisory Committee Monday night decided to rescind an earlier decision recommending station manager Robert Goldfarb's contract be renewed at the end of this week.

The motion, introduced by committee member Mary McHenry stated the committee should overturn their original 5-4 decision not to fire Goldfarb.

The second vote of the night left the board in a situation of neither recommending nor opposing Goldfarb's contract renewal. Hubley said this essentially represented the views of the community and the vote clearly indicates the true nature of the situation. "I think, as ridiculous as it sounds it is the opinion of the board and the community," Hubley said. "One half of the people involved in this feel one way and the other half the other way and most people feel very strongly about it," Hubley said.

He added that the decision was made very late in the evening and the recommendation was rescinded by a 5-4 vote, identical to the original vote.

The Collegian reported yesterday that Goldfarb's contract had received a favorable recommendation by the committee however the decision to rescind was made after press time.

Daniel Melley, director of Public Affairs at the University of Massachusetts, said that he is more concerned with the arguments made by the committee members rather than any formal recommendation for

turn to page 15

Students express varied opinions on candidates

By Ed Levine
and Serena Richard
Collegian Staff

Editors Note: The following is the result of a telephone survey of 94 students conducted by the Collegian with the help of staff members Chuck Kilfoye and James F. Mahoney and a second survey, conducted by UMass student Serena Richard of 151 students in classrooms and the Hatch cafeteria.

University of Massachusetts students appear to slightly favor Independent presidential candidate John B. Anderson over Pres. Jimmy Carter, although a large number are undecided about who they will cast their ballot for, according to surveys conducted in the past week.

Of 225 students surveyed, 60, or 26.7 percent, favor Anderson, compared to 54, or 24 percent, who favor Carter. Only 15 students, or 6.7 percent said they intend to vote for Republican Ronald Reagan, while 22.2 percent, 50 students, are still undecided.

According to the results of the survey, a large number of students plan to vote in next week's election. Of those contacted, 176 or 78.2 percent, said they were registered voters and 161 of them, 91.5 percent, said they intended to cast a ballot. About 21.8 percent, or 49 students, said they were not registered for a variety of reasons.

Students cited the economy as the biggest issue in this year's election, with 55.1 percent listing it as a major concern. Foreign affairs ranked second, with 29.8 percent of the students concerned with the issue.

About 23.1 percent of the students surveyed said they saw energy as a large issue and another 21.3 percent said they were concerned with national defense. And 18.7 percent of the students also said they were worried about the possibility of a war.

Those surveyed also listed the Iranian crisis, nuclear energy, the Equal Rights Ammendment, the draft and abortion as major issues in the election.

Students' comments on the candidates were also varied, just as were their opinions on the issues and who they

turn to page 15

STUDENT SURVEY

Suit filed against Rowe Yankee

By Rob Stein
Collegian Staff

NORTHAMPTON — Anti-nuclear activist Al Giordano filed a $6 million suit yesterday in Hampshire County Superior Court against the owners and operators of the Yankee Nuclear Power plant in Rowe.

In addition to charging the Yankee Atomic Electric Co. with assault and battery, trespass and negligence, Giordano asked Superior Court Judge Samuel Adams for an injunction against the reopening of the plant this weekend.

Adams said he questioned his jurisdiction over the matter and said, "If the plant is in no direct violation of the NRC (Nuclear Regulatory Commission), than how can the court preempt an area under federal jurisdiction?"

After almost a full day in court Adams took the complaint under consideration and is expected to hand down a decision later this week.

Giordano, a 20-year-old resident of Charlemont, which is adjacent to Rowe, told Adams "The reopening of this plant poses an immediate threat to my life," and said, "because poses an immediate threat to my life," and said, because the plant is twenty years old "there is a serious risk that this plant will have a nuclear accident more serious than

The plant was shut down last January for refueling, and when attempts were made to put it back on line a turbine blade that is part of the plant's cooling system broke.

Giordano, who acted as his own counsel yesterday said the $6 million would go to the Rowe Nuclear Conversion Campaign to create jobs for the plant's workers who would be out of work if an injunction prevented the reopening.

Giordano's suit stated "radioactive atoms have escaped from the nuke on several occasions and assaulted and battered and penetrated the plaintiffs (Giordano's) body causing him great harm and against his will."

The suit's charge of negligence stated "by failing to warn the plaintiff of such dangers and failing to discontinue the operation of the nuke the defendant has breached the duty of care it owes the plaintiff."

In addition, the charge of trespass stated radiation leaks from the plant "interfere with a possessary interest that the plaintiff has in property and does so without the consent of the plaintiff."

About thirty members of the Rowe Nuclear Conversion Campaign attended the hearing and Giordano said the group's members number about 150.

Mary Giovnnucci licks the envelope to her absentee ballot in the presence of Ruth Green, one of the Notary Publics on duty at Memorial Hall. The notaries will be on duty from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. every weekday until Nov. 2. (Staff photo by Nancy Nutile)

Water main break floods library

By James F. Mahoney
Collegian Staff

A broken water main in the 28 story main library at the University of Massachusetts forced officials to close the structure yesterday.

The pipe broke Monday night while the seven year old facility was closed, flooding the basement level, said Paul Lawler, supervisor of the University Physical Plant. Lawler said that three and a half to five feet of water had accumulated.

News Bureau director Arthur Clifford said "just metal fatigue" caused the pipe to fail. He added no books or research materials were located in the flooded areas of the library.

The flood was discovered at 8 a.m. by Library Staff and the decision to close the facility was made at 9:15 a.m., said Director of Libraries Richard Talbot.

Physical Plan personnel had been pumping the water out of the basement with gas powered pumps but were forced to change over to electrical pumps when fumes from the exhaust began backing up into the building, Lawler said.

Because of the toxic fumes and the neccesity to shut off the elctrical system in the structure, library personnel evacuated all library users and staff from the building, said Talbot. The evacuation was completed in about an hour, he added.

He stressed that the flooding is not related to past structural problems with the building.

The facility was closed last fall by Chancellor Henry Kof-

turn to page 15

Physical Plant workers, aided by the fire department begin pumping water out of the flooded basement of the Library. (Staff photo by Cheryl Senter)

World and national news

State college union leaders vote for approval of contract

WORCESTER (AP) — Leaders of the union representing 1,800 teachers and librarians at the state's 10 public colleges yesterday unanimously recommended approval of a contract accepted by negotiators for both sides.

The terms of the new three-year pact will be submitted to union members for ratification tomorrow, members of the executive board of the Massachusetts State College Association said.

Gov. King to appoint students to separate boards of trustees

BOSTON (AP) — Gov. Edward J. King will appoint at least one student to each of the state college's newly structured higher education boards of trustees.

There was no mention, in King's announcement yesterday, about proposing membership for a student on the new Board of Regents, the so-called superboard in higher education. The regents have broad fiscal control over te schools under the major reorganization that was a rider in this year's state budget.

However, each of the 28 colleges and universities is to have its own, if less powerful, board, and King said he will include a student when he makes appointments by Dec. 1. The boards become operational in March.

"Students certainly have a stake in how their particular institution is run," King said. "By giving students trustee status, we are institutionalizing that stake."

Iran's parliament to resume debate on American hostages

Associated Press

Iran's Parliament was set to resume debate today on the American hostages after a one-day pause marked by renewed uncertainty on their fate.

The Carter administration, moving toward a Nov. 4 presidential election that coincides with the hostages' first anniversary of captivity, expressed its irritation at news reports suggesting their release was imminent. The White House said it feared the reports could cause an Iranian backlash.

Iranian Revolutionary leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini attacked President Carter in a broadcast speech marking a religious holiday, but did not mention the hostages

Iran claims fighting upsurge as Khomeini rejects peace

Associated Press

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Iran claimed an upsurge of fighting yesterday, with its forces on the counter-offensive, as revolutionary leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini rejected peace with Iraq because of its "crimes" in the Persian Gulf war.

Tehran Radio claimed Iran's forces killed 330 Iraqi soldiers in Iran's western provinces and pushed the Iraqis back about 11 miles, but was unclear exactly where the action occurred.

But the radio said Iranian forces checked an Iraqi advance at the oil refinery city of Abadan on the Shatt al-Arab waterway. It also said Iran's forces smashed an "enemy transport battalion" in a mountainous region.

HI ALL. COME TO THE MYSTIFYING WORLD OF RONALD REAGAN'S INNER HOME OF NEURO-3D BILLION NEURONS OR 'MARBLES' AS THEY ARE KNOWN TO THE LAYMAN!
WHAT WONDERS AWAIT US! THE FORMIX-REAGAN'S MEMORY VAULT, STOREHOUSE OF IMAGES OF AN IDYLLIC AMERICA, WITH 54 COKES, BURMA SHAVE SIGNS, AND HARD-WORKING WHITE PEOPLE!
THE HYPOTHALAMUS, BE DEEP, DARK COILS OF HUMAN AGGRESSION, SQUIRL OF REAGAN'S IMPULSES TO SEND U.S. FORCES TO ANGOLA, IRAN, KOREA, CYPRUS, CUBA, LEBANON AND COUNTLESS OTHER HOT SPOTS!
SO FASTEN YOUR SEAT BELTS! IT'S A TOPSY-TURVY FUNHOUSE OF A TRIP, BUT YOU WON'T BE SORRY! NOW THIS.

The "Doonesbury" cartoon strip has been temporarily dropped by several newspapers because of a story line in Tuesday's publication involving a "fantastic voyage through the brain of Ronald Reagan." The Indianapolis Star, Indiana's largest newspaper, cut the strip from its pages yesterday because of what it called an "unwarranted attack" on the Republican presidential candidate.

The Collegian will continue to carry the cartoon strip.

Digest

Associated Press

Weizman supports Carter; causes campaign trail furor

JERUSALEM — Former Israeli Defense Minister Ezer Weizman's appearance on President Carter's campaign trail in the United States touched off a furor yesterday in this country.

Prime Minister Menachem Begin rebuked Weizman and the Israeli government took pains to disassociate itself from what appeared to be a public endorsement of Carter's reelection campaign by a top Israeli personality.

Begin said he "deeply regretted" Weizman's "intervention in the electoral process of another country."

Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir called it "a violation of the unwritten laws" governing relations with a foreign power.

Supreme Court strikes down state's death penalty statute

BOSTON — Calling capital punishment "impermissibly cruel," the Massachusetts Supreme Court struck down the state's death penalty statute yesterday because it "offends decency" and imposes "physical and mental tortures."

No one is currently under death sentence in Massachusetts, where the last execution was in 1947. But the ruling spared four men who could have been executed if convicted in their pending first-degree murder trials.

The ruling follows a long series of court battles that began with the 1972 U.S. Supreme Court decision that voided all state death penalty laws as unconstitutional.

Subscription Rates

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 325-220) is published daily Monday through Friday (excluding vacation, examination periods or holidays) at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send all address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

War, peace dominate picture as candidates meet head-on

CLEVELAND — President Carter and Ronald Reagan argued war and peace in a climatic debate last night, the president calling the Republican nominee a habitual advocate of military intervention, the challenger declaring the use of force "always and only a last resort..."

"To maintain...peace requires strength," Reagan said. "America has never gotten into a war because we were too strong. We can get into a war by letting events get out of hand as they have in the la .. 0½ years."

Carter countered that he has kept the peace, said his administration has been steadily, carefully increasing the nation's defense commitment. He said he has used that power to preserve peace.

"I think habitually Governor Reagan has advocated the injection of military forces into troubled areas when I and my predecessors...have advocated resolving those troubles peacefully and diplomatically," the president said.

From lecterns precisely 15 feet apart, on the stage of an ornate Music Hall, the Democratic president and the Republican challenger traded answers and rebuttals, under questioning by four reporters and commentators.

The war and peace dispute, a central argument in the autumn campaign, was the first question. Reagan said he wasn't really sure what their differences might be on the use of force "because I don't know what Mr. Carter's policies are. I only know what he has said about mine...

"Our first priority must be world peace," Reagan said.

QR PRESENTS
Halloween October 31st
Martian Highway
Costume party
9-2 a.m. cover charge
Saturday Nov. 1st
DISCO 9-2 a.m.
800 sq. ft. dance floor
area's largest disco
bonus ticket for free
drink 8-10 pm cover charge
QUONSET 253-9214
(off I-91 exit 19) Rte. 9, Hadley, Ma.
18 & 19 yrs. old welcome

PIZZARAMA
355 College St.

M-Th 11-1:30 AM
F-Sun 11:2:30 AM
FREE DELIVERY
253-3808
256-0115
* Driver wanted - must work weekends/have own car! *

RUSSELL'S LIQUORS
18 Main St. Downtown Amherst 253-5441
CHECK THESE PRICES
Busch.....12 oz N/R's/7.99
Miller.....12 oz N/R's/7.99
Molson's.....2.99 six/10.99 case
WINE
Donelli Lambrusco...1.99/750 ml 3.99/1.5 liter
Le Domaine Rose, Chablis, Rhine.....2.99/1.5 liter
Liebfraumilch.....1.99/25 oz.
Tosca Soave, Valpolicella.....3.59/68 oz
ALL BEER AND WINE SPECIALS ARE COLD

Restraining order continued in student suit

By Kevin Cullen
Collegian Staff

NORTHAMPTON — Hampshire Superior Court Judge Samuel Adams yesterday granted a motion continuing a temporary restraining order in a $1.2 million suit filed against several University of Massachusetts officials by a senior who claims she was discharged from the school for past emotional problems.

The case, which was continued until Nov. 6, is now scheduled to come before Judge John J. Moriarty of Holyoke. Adams will serve his last day at Hampshire Superior Court tomorrow.

In an affidavit supporting the motion, attorneys for the plaintiff said they are in the process of going through settlement negotiations with the defense counsel in an attempt to resolve the matter.

"We are very close to reaching an agreement," said Charles J. DiMare of the UMass Legal Services Office, who is the plaintiff's attorney. "It's up to the University now."

On Oct. 9, Adams issued a temporary restraining order calling for the University to immediately reinstate the student, an unidentified 20-year-old woman from Paxton, and to provide a dormitory room for her. The plaintiff has assumed the fictitious name of Janis Student to avoid public embarrassment.

Defendents named in the suit include Dr. David P. Kraft, director of mental health at the University Health Services; UMass Dean of Students William F. Field; acting Registrar Mary Ellen Hanley and the University Board of Trustees.

Adams yesterday issued an order at the request of attorney Sidney Myers, counsel for the University, calling for the health records of the student to be available for Moriarty when the case is continued.

The plaintiff's affidavit claims the defendents have not given full psychiatric medical reports when requested, thereby causing a delay in preparation of expert witnesses.

DiMare, who said the plaintiff has resumed classes but is not living in the dormitory system, said the plaintiff had presented the defendents with a written release of authorization for the records.

Attorneys for both parties said they hope to reach an agreement shortly.

Area colleges and apartments increase security

By Richard Nagle
Collegian Staff

Apartment complexes and colleges in the Amherst area are imposing tight security measures this weekend following last week's announcement by University of Massachusetts officials to close the campus during Halloween.

At the four colleges surrounding the University, officials are increasing security and, at Hampshire College five miles away from UMass, sealing off the main entrances to the campus.

In Amherst, the management at Puffton Village has instructed its tenants to keep party attendence below 25 persons in each apartment, as well as to notify the office three days in advance.

On the other side of town, Brittany Manor's management has sent a memo requesting residents to keep parties small and to register all cars with the rental office or they will be towed.

"I must say that the fact that the University was closing alarmed us," said Rita Burne, Associate Dean of Student Affairs at the all-female Mount Holyoke College in nearby South Hadley.

On Oct. 6, University officials announced the closing of the Campus Center, Student Union and all other academic buildings over the Halloween weekend, as well as the increase of security patrols, restriction of Parties, and a no-guest policy.

Burne said there would be increased campus security and South Hadley police patrols over the weekend in addition to tighter dormitory security.

Smith College's Assistant Dean of Student Affairs Jane Pafford said there will be added campus security patrols at the all-female school.

Pafford said students have been alerted that the University will be closed and to watch for uninvited guests.

At Hampshire college, two of the three entrances to the campus will be sealed off, while the main entrance will be guarded by security officers, said Director of Public Relations Peter Gluckler.

Gluckler said the officers will check incoming cars to see if people are on the guest list for the school's annual HALLOWEEN PARTY. Students must register their guests with the school by noon on Friday, Glucker said.

Amherst College will have extra foot and car patrols over the weekend, said Erwin Nussbaum, Assistant Dean of Students.

The grim weather yesterday had Katie Griffin "singing in the rain." (Staff photo by Nancy Nutile)

RSO budget deadline extended

By Ken Ross
Collegian Staff

The deadline for Recognized Student Organization rationales for proposed budgets was extended yesterday to Nov. 7 by Student Senate Treasurer Al Wallace.

In a memo sent out to all RSO groups on Oct. 14, the deadline had been set for Oct. 31, but Wallace said the deadline had not been set by a proper authority.

The memo had been sent out by Senator Allen Hoch and Student Judge Michael Cohen. Wallace said they had assumed they were co-chairs of the Senate Budgets Committee but in fact were not.

"I had real problems with the listing of the chair and co-chairs," said Wallace. "Cohen and Hoch cannot be the chairs because they have no jurisdiction. The chairs must be appointed by the Senate."

There are over 201 RSO groups on campus, and these are budgeted through the Student Activities Trust Fund.

The deadline for submitting a final proposed budget will remain Nov. 17.

The rationale deadline will be extended if the RSO group submits a deadline extension to Wallace.

Wallace said this was a new system this year and it is explained in the RSOgroups' budget packets.

The packets will be sent to all groups this afternoon, Wallace said.

Nuclear physicists to debate nuclear viability tonight

By Abbe Bjorklund
Collegian Staff

The question, "Is nuclear power a viable energy option for America's Future?" will be debated tonight by Dr. Mishiu Kaku, Nuclear Physics professor from City College of New York, and Dr. Gerald Peterson, Physics professor here at the University of Massachusetts.

Originally planned to include a representative of Northeast Utilities, the debate will be held in Mahar Auditorium at 7 p.m. with Peterson taking Northeast Utilities' place on the pro side of the question.

During the planning of the event, jointly sponsored by the Student Coalition Against Nukes Nationwide, the Distinguished Visitors Program, and MASSPIRG, two companies, Northeast Utilities and Massachusetts Municipal Wholesale Electric C ompany (MMWEC), backed out on their commitments to debate Dr. Kaku over the nuclear issue.

According to Todd Clarke, Media coordinator for MASSPIRG's Campaign for Safe Energy and an organizer of the debate, Northeast Utilities cancelled their engagement because of their track record with debates.

After Northeast Utilities cancelled, Clarke negotiated a pro-nuclear replacement from MMWEC. Clarke said that Mary Anne Gamabaro of their public relations division stated that MMWEC would not participate in the debate unless they could participate in the press conference organized by MASSPIRG to precede the debate.

The press conference, which will take place today at 6 p.m. at the Bangs Community Center in Amherst, does not directly relate to the debate but is an endorsement of Question 8, an anti-nuclear referendum on the ballot in 33 congressional and senatorial districts in Massachusetts.

Some community figures scheduled to appear at the press conference include Rep. Jim Collins of Amherst, Poppy Doyle, candidate for the congressional seat in District 1, David Inglis, former chair of the Federation of American Scientists, and Sandy Small from Business People for Safe Energy in Northampton.

Clarke said he told Gamabaro that the purpose of the press conference was to endorse Question 8 and that MMWEC could participate if it wished to endorse the question.

After MMWEC's cancellation, Clarke confirmed that Professor Gerald Peterson of the UMass Physics Department will debate Kaku tonight.

"Utilities are very leary of debating their investiment in nuclear power for very obvious reasons. I think we'll see more of this peculiar pattern of backing out at the last minute in the future because investment in nuclear power hasn't proven to be economical, efficient, or productive," said Clarke.

The anti-nuclear debater, Dr. Mishiu Kaku, has debated and lectured about nuclear power on campuses around the country. First in his class at Harvard University, Kaku recently published an article in M.I.T.'s technical review entitled, "Nuclear power, an incomplete technology?"

Peterson holds a PH.D in Nuclear Physics, was a research scientist for the Institute of Nuclear Physics in Amsterdam, Holland, and was involved in nuclear bomb testings in Nevada and the Bikini Islands.

'Ozone' exemplifies move toward jazz and rythm and blues

Ozone
Walk On (Motown)

By Keith Johnson
Collegian Correspondent

Walk On is the first album from Motown's latest group, Ozone. If you followed the Progress of Kool & the Gang in the early 70's and Pleasure in the late 70's, Ozone will follow the same path in the 80's.

Backed up by a strong horn section which includes Thomas "T" Bumpass on trumpet and fluegelhorn; William C. White Jr. on alto and soprano saxophones and flute, and Ray C. Woodard on tenor and alto saxophone, the group also includes Paul Hines on drums, Benny Wallace on guitar, Charles Glenn Jr. on bass, James Stewart on keyboard, Greg Hargrove on guitar, and Everett Bryson on percussion.

The group exemplifies the current move toward jaxx (black classical) and rhythm and blues that has been growing in today's music. Yet they tend to stay more on the rhythm and blues side of the fence. All this adds to an exciting new sound.

"Walk On," the title tune, is a funky-strut-type tune that will probably be remembered by followers of this group in the future. "That J" is a very technical piece with heavy instrumentals. The cancer in me draw me toward "Moments to Come" which is smooth and emotional with the largest number of vocals on the album. Also there is "Ego" which ends the album on a very mellow note.

Altogether this is a very diverse album, representing the debut of a group which will receive wider recognition. I suggest that you pick up the album and also look for Ozone in the future.

Northampton's 'Paper Dolls' a wise choice

Paper Dolls (Tekno Tunes)
I Shouldn't Do This To Me b/w I Thought You Knew

By Rob Huffman
Collegian Staff

If you had to hire a local band to play at your little sister's "sweet sixteen" party, who would you choose? Martian Highway? Total Electric Living? The Munchy Brothers? Eh? I personally feel that Northampton's Paper Dolls would be a wise choice.

Displaying a penchant for sleeveless T-shirts and Rickenbacker guitars, Paper Dolls redefines "harmless."

And that's good, too.

While other aspiring rockers are struggling to meet payments on their studded dog collars, these guys (I use the term loosely) play an honest style of music in that often ignored category of "wimp rock."

And now, thanks to modern science and Tekno Tunes records, you can enjoy Paper Dolls in the privacy (if necessary) of your own home!

Their first single has just been released, and can be found at finer record stores in the area. This 45 rpm offering contains two of their original numbers: "I Thought You Knew," and "I Shouldn't Do This To Me". Rather than the traditional A-side/B-side, however, the Paper Dolls single says "play both sides." In brief, "I Thought You Knew" seems to be the AM cut, and "I Shouldn't Do This To Me" the FM cut.

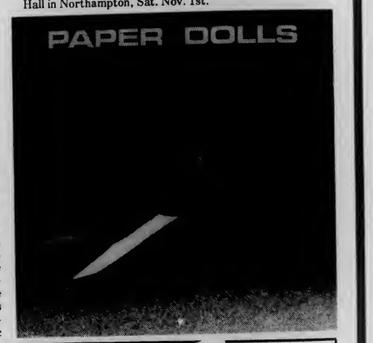
Musically, "I Thought You Knew" passes my personal acid test for catchiness--after two listenings, I found myself unexpectedly singing the chorus in the shower. "I Shouldn't Do This To Me," on the other side, is a darker tune, wryly suggestive of any number of uncomfortable situations. The sound of this debut single, though predictable in view of the band's '60s pop and new wave influences, is true to their live sound, with no superfluous overdubs, and a pleasing, subtle echo on the vocal track of "I Shouldn't Do This To Me".

In an interview with another paper, singer/songwriter/guitarist Jonny Steele said about the group's musical approach: "There's no improvisation." While this may be seen as a stylistic move it seems more likely that this is due to a lack of competent soloing ability (at least in the guitar department). To my ears, weaned on the same British pop that has so clearly influenced this combo, both songs die nastily when the guitar solos start. "I Thought You Knew" features a scale exercise that doesn't start to sound good until it feeds back on the last note. The guitar break on "I Shouldn't Do This To Me" is similarly boring, finally copping out by sustaining a single dreary note for many measures. I'm certainly not advocating flashy guitar freak-outs (though I hear they're coming back in vogue), but within the context of what this band is doing, it would be refreshing if a solo break involved a change in the chord pattern or an innovative melodic statement which would augment the verses and choruses.

Lyrically, both tunes tread the thin line between naivete and worn out cliches. Each is sucessful in the end, as the songs imply situations, but leave the final interpretation up to the listener. At their best, Paper Dolls are reminiscent of Nick Lowe and Squeeze. The "British Invasion" influence is so strong, however, that they should be entering their psychedelic phase by 1984.

Critics Cum: -3.2

Paper Dolls will be playing on their home surf at the Polish Hall in Northampton, Sat. Nov. 1st.



NOW AT
Time Out
2 TV's
37 N. Pleasant
256-0471
Beer, Free Popcorn,
Something New
Lunch served daily 11-2

THE QUESTION OF:
WOMENS' LIBERATION
-A TALK
by
GLENN CARTER M.D.
wed. OCT. 29 7:30 pm rm.162-75CC
SPONSORED BY CAMPUS CRUSADE FOR CHRIST

PRECISION HAIRCUTS
ALL FOR $6.00
with this coupon only
Includes:
FIRST—a professional consultation
SECOND—a precision style cut selected individually just for you
THIRD—our stylists will show you how to take care of your hair
With personal style, cut, shampoo and blow dry $9.50, long hair slightly more. With this coupon only, limited to new customers only.
we also have facials and manicures
Styles by Deborah I & II
65 University Drive
Amherst, MA
549-5610
62 Main Street
Easthampton, MA
527-2411

Dave Mason in concert
special guest star - Kate Taylor
Thursday, October 30 8:00
at Mount Holyoke College
Chapin Auditorium Tickets $7.00
at Faces of Earth, Country Comforts, Record Town (Holyoke Mall), Campus Shop, Monitors Office at Mt. Holyoke.

PAINTS... for Face & Body
FACES
Downtown Amherst

IRISH SEA FOODS
MASSE'S
FISH MARKET, INC.
SPECIAL OF THE WEEK: Alaskan King Crab Legs 4.49/lb.
Haddock, FRESH FISH — Steamers
Scrod, Salmon, Sword Fish, Sole, Clams, Lobsters,
MARKET HOURS:Tues. 1 PM-4:30 PM; Wed. 9 AM-6 PM;
Thurs. 9 AM-6 PM; Fri. 9 AM-7 PM; Sat. 9 AM-4:30 PM;
FRIED FISH, SCALLOPS, CLAMS sold during the following hours:
Wed. 10 AM-5:30 PM; Thurs. 10 AM-5:30 PM; Fri. 10 AM-6:30 PM;
Sat. 10 AM-2 PM
High Protein, All Natural
170 N. Pleasant St. Amherst, Mass.

Collegian

Today's Collegian produced by:
Assistant Managing Editor — Jim Kane
Copy Editor — Rhonda King
Layout Technician — Abbe Bjorklund
Head Photo Technician — Nancy Nutile
Ad Layout — Jay Brightman
Composing Room — Danny Guidera, Donna Levine, Jane Wolfson, Pam Dissinger, Michele Jones, Edie Eppich

Black Affairs

King for Carter

Norman P. Morgan
Black Affairs Staff

"On November 4 we can determine the destiny of our generation and generations to come," said Martin Luther King III in front of the Student Union, Friday afternoon, Oct. 24.

King, son of the late civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., endorsed the re-election of President Carter, stressing the importance of students to vote.

According to King, President Carter has increased the monies that are funded for urban renewal, spent more money on secondary education; three times that of the past two administrations, allocated more funds for educational grants such as the BEOG and the SETA program and has increased aid to family and children services.

"We need a President like Mr. Carter, who is sensitive to these needs," he said.

Twenty-three-year-old King continued, "We fought so long as students to get the right to vote at 18 and presently the worst group of persons who do not go out and vote are students between the ages of 18 and 24."

Citing the civil rights and anti-war movements of the 60's, King stressed the power of students.

"We are fortunate in that our society affords us with methods and tradition with which to combat our government," he said. "If 500 UMass students alone wrote to some of those 250 senators, some considerations would be taken of their requests."

King discussed the other presidential candidates.

"Reagan said he would retire if he became senile in office. Do you know anyone who is senile and admits it?" King asked the crowd.

According to King, Reagan would not represent the public's best interest. He is against the arms limitation act and in consequence, wishes to quadraple military expenditures.

"We have enough bombs to blow the world up seven and eight times. What is the sense of continuing to invest into projects to destroy people? We need a President, not an actor," he said.

King, acknowledging the support given on campus said of John Anderson, "a vote for Anderson is a wasted vote." King stressed the fact that Anderson was not nominated by any specific party during the conventions.

"I don't understand," he said. "If Anderson is elected, who would he be president of...what party?"

King stated that Anderson should be viewed realistically. According to him, Anderson voted for the B-1 Bomber and against aide for senior citizens. He als seconded the nomination for Richard Nixon to win the Nobel Peace Prize.

According to King, Anderson professes to be a liberal. "Is a liberal one who votes not to give aide to cities, even though we are an urban people?" he asks.

King stressed the importance of the student vote. "We are the ones who are going to have to live in this world that seems so highly technical, so much so that we have forgotten the most important of these—freedom," he said.

"My daddy used to say, no man is free until every man is free," he continued.

As a final plea for students to vote, regardless of which candidate, King said, "It does no good to spend all these thousands of dollars on an education and not get anything out of it. It only takes a little effort to inform a few people."

King concluded, quoting singer Gil Scott-Heron "We some times think we ahve a handle on things and they kind of slowly skip away from us, which is what happens in a bureaucracy such as ours."

Martin Luther King III endorsed President Carter for re-election Friday, Oct. 24, in front of the Student Union. Photo by Barron Roland.

Healing of Sugar

Patricia Cassell
Black Affairs Staff

Playwright and actor Carlos Anderson truly completed his job when he wrote "The Healing of 'Sugar'". The play in itself has a lot of potential and is a quality piece of Black drama. Especially at this point in the struggle of Black theatre to overcome meaningless drama, it was needed.

The "Healing of 'Sugar'" concentrated on the plight of a unique Black, upper-class family in the early 70's and questioned the ideas of love and friendship. Theatrically, the play was disappointing. Crystal Anderson's portrayal of the character of Harriet Bailey was overdramatized and overdone. She reached a peak in her character and never came down, staying on the same level and showing no versatility in mood. It was an unnatural interpretation of the character Harriet Bailey. Whether this device was intentional by Mr. Anderson or not, I felt it did not work for the audience. Instead it caused confusion and lessened the reality of the drama.

On the other hand, Sugar Bailey, the star of the show, played by Norman Lewis was an extraordinary portrayal of a grown man trapped in the mental state of a frightened child. His character was very believable and added to the creation of the world in which the Bailey family lived.

The effectiveness of the drama was lessened by the set design as well. This was apparent in the changing of scenes and the way in which the scenes were changed. It simply did not run smoothly. This partially could have had to do with the fact that Hampden is a very small theatre. But taking all of this into consideration and from seeing other performances in Hampden, one can conclude that Hampden is a very versatile theatre. It could have been done more professionally.

All of the other conventions of theatre worked cohesively in creating the drama, not to perfection, but sufficiently, with the exception of the acting and some of the actors.

"The Healing of 'Sugar'" will also be running this weekend, Saturday, November 1 and Sunday, November 2 in Hampden Theatre Southwest at the University of Massachusetts. For those of you who have not seen it, it is worthwhile seeing to examine its literary merits and to further the understanding of the kind of drama Black theatre is in need of. Again I would like to congratulate Mr. Anderson in response to the recognition he received for his playwriting with the receipt of the Actor's Peer's Award from the Negro Ensemble Company in New York City to encourage Mr. Anderson and othe prospective playwriters to produce more and more quality work as such.

Flagship or fool's ship?

Two articles, ("Tuition Hike Being Considered" and "Koffler hopes to keep University as flagship") appearing on the front page of the Collegian (Friday 10/24/80) provided ample evidence that the future of public higher education is in doubt. In those articles President Knapp, Chancellor Koffler, and Vice Chancellors Beatty and Madson seemed to be sounding the death knell for UMass' low-income students.

Read separately, the articles attempt to strike a "First the bad news...Now the good news" posture. However, close scrutiny and analysis of these articles raises serious concern about our administration's committment to preserving affordable, quality public higher education.

Commentary

This concern is prompted by what seems to be the administration's failure to analyze the predicament of public higher education and develop an innovative approach to our problems, ambiguous and contradictory statements, and the rational matter-of-fact manner in which the UMass leadership recently anounced the further demise of public higher education in the Bay State.

According to the first article, (Tuition hike..) President Knapp's memo stated that he wants to increase tuition partly because education costs have risen 8.5 percent. There is also an increase in the availability of financial aid, and the "disposable" income of Massachusetts residents increased by 13.3 percent. This tuition hike is proposed in addition to the hikes which went into effect last year and are still continuing.

I have some problems with Mr. Kanpp's rationalizations. First of all, the cost of living (medical, food, clothing, shelter...) has gone up more than the education cost he cited. By citing an ambiguous statistic on disposable income, Mr. Knap is implying that the working-class people of this state have money to throw away and that money should be scooped by the State which is already gouging most of its citizens into poverty.

I challenge Mr. Knapp's data because inflation and increase in the cost of living effectively absorb any wage increase that an individual may have received. And what about students who pay for their own education? Certainly none of us has 13.3 percent more money to throw away! My suggestion is for Mr. Knapp to contact those with any sizeable disposable income and ask them to contribute that money to UMass.

As for the matter of financial aid, Knapp's memo spoke of an increase in the availability of financial aid even though Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs Madson said that there is a 13 percent gap between the number of aid recipients and available federal funds. I'm a bit confused; if Knapp said there is more financial aid to be had then he'd better talk to Madson who said there are more people but less money (I think). Obviously Knapp hasn't seen the financial aid award letters which have been indicating reduced aid for students.

Knapp himself wrote, "We should not anticipate offsetting tuition increases across the board in financial aid." (Collegian 10/24/80). So there it is in black and white; the squeeze play. Tuition will continue to rise (notice Knapp's usage of the plural "increases") and there won't be any increase in Financial aid. Here is where Knapp's 13.3 percent could come in; 13.3 percent fewer students will attend this school because they will have been priced out of getting an education, something which should be a right not a privilege based on economic considerations.

turn to page 6

Announcements

Drum

Attention Drum Staff: We will be meeting today, Oct. 29 in NAH, Rm. 115 at 7 p.m. Please bring your proposals.

We invite you to share in the interpretations of the Black Experience. Poems, essays, artwork and photography are now being accepted for the Fall-Spring 80/81 editions of DRUM magazine. All submissions should be addressed to: DRUM, 115 New Africa House, UMass/Amherst 01003. Deadline for submission is Thursday, November 20, 1980. All contributions become the property of DRUM. Do not send originals.

Hair

Brothers and Sisters: Do you need your hair cut, trimmed, shaped or styled? Available and qualifed, contact Marlene E. Duncan. (Listed in the Student Directory)

Drama

The Third World Series presents Carlos Anderson's "The Healing of Sugar" on Nov. 1 and 2 in Hampden Theatre Southwest. The tickets are $2 for students and $3 for general public. This is the final performance of the drama. Don't miss it!

Support

Support group for Victims of Rape/Sexual Assault starts Mon. Oct. 27, 7-9 p.m., Everywoman's Center. For more information call 545-0883 or 546-4552.

Homecoming

The Afrik-Am Society is sponsoring the annual Black Homecoming. Black Homecoming in the five-College area means a "coming together" amongst the Third World students. Black Homecoming will begin November 9th and will continue until November 16th. The events planned are of social issues, culture, politics, and education. The schedule of events are the following:

November 9th: Parade or March, leaving from Amherst Commons at 12 noon, arriving at the New Africa House where there will be a re-dedication of the NAH and refreshments. All are urged to participate.
November 10th: Opening dinner, taking place at the Malcolm X Center at 7:00 p.m., along with a slide show.
November 11th: Poetry and Music by Ujiima and Co., 8:00 p.m. at Hampden Theatre.
November 12th: Organizational gathering and the movie "No Vietnamese Ever Called Me A Nigger" at the Malcolm X Center, 8:30 p.m.
November 13th: Ahora is sponsoring Actores Unido Cibales Dance Group at Hampden Theatre, 8:00 p.m.
November 14th: Ahora is sponsoring Ray Barretto in concert at Student Union Ballroom, 9:00 p.m. Following will be a Rollerskating party at USA in Chicopee.
November 15th: Party: Time and place to be announced.
November 16th: Fashion and Talent Show: Time and place to be announced.
Everyone is welcome!

LUTHER
By Brumsic Brandon, Jr.
SOCIAL STUDIES MAKES ME HUNGRY, LUTHER!
HOW CAN SOCIAL STUDIES MAKE YOU HUNGRY, PEE WEE?
HEARING ABOUT ALL THOSE DIFFERENT COUNTRIES MAKES ME THINK OF...
...ENGLISH MUFFINS, IRISH STEW, CANADIAN BACON, LONDON BROIL, FRENCH FRIES—

State rep. to re-file sexual harassment bill

By Marianne E. Savage
Collegian Correspondent

A bill to prohibit sexual harassment will be refiled in the Massachusetts State House before Dec. 3 by Barbara Gray, state representative and Ways and Means Committee member. Gray said she is in charge of redrafting the bill to correct some technical weaknesses that led to the demise of last year's version.

Section 3 of last year's bill that directly applies to UMass reads: "There shall be established a grievance procedure within the state government for state employees and students in state colleges who feel they have been victims of sexual harassment."

According to the bill, such harassment includes: "explicit or implicit promise that any person's employ, career or education will materially benefit in return for sexual favors; explicit or implicit threats that any person's employment, career or education will be adversely affected if sexual demands are rejected; or deliberate, repeated, unsolicited verbal or written comments, gestures or physical actions of a sexual nature."

Last year's bill failed in its third reading because of some technical weaknesses in the wording according to Linda Cohen member of the Women's Issues team of the Student Center for Education Research and Advocacy (SCERA).

Gray said, regarding the defeat of last year's bill, "We have been accused of overkill because our opposition felt that sexual harassment should be punished with modified penalties. They felt our solutions were too great for the problem."

When asked about the changes she is making in this year's bill, Gray said, "We are attempting to deal with harassment on two levels. On the first level we want to raise people's consciousness so they realize that women don't enjoy unsolicited sexual advances."

"On the second and more important level we feel that civil sanctions should be imposed to deal with the problem of harassment. This is when a person uses harassment to achieve some personal goal," said Gray.

If approved the bill would give superior and district courts jurisdiction to enforce a person's right to be free from sexual harassment and to award damages, according to SCERA.

★ Commentary

continued from page 5

Chancellor Koffler feels "that the increase is not unreasonable, but it will present an extra hardship on low-income students. Undaunted, he plans to keep UMass as the State's "Flagship" campus. I'm somewhat skeptical since Koffler admitted that pressure from the state legislature ("...they want more revenue"), which might arbitrarily cut the UMass budget, necessitated the tuition hike.

The Administration might send a letter to Governor King suggesting that the Board of Trustees be expanded from nine to fifteen members. I wonder how much good that would do when Ed King's half-assed reorganization plan has even settled the question of exactly who is in charge here, the trustees or the Board of Regents.

Well at least students have on representative on the Board of Trustees. The Regents said "No!" to student representation. What this school really needs is an administration that will agitate for it within the legislature, a board (Trustees, Regents,?) with sufficient student representation to consistently be appraised of students needs. The list could go on, what is pathetically apparent is that this school is sliding down the drain with barely a whimper.

The 1980's just might be the decade when accessible, low-cost, quality public higher education died in Massachusetts. A warning shot was fired, but the leadership doesn't appear prepared to fight. I can se it now- UMass, Ship of Fools-complete with an impotent administration, run by absentee rulers and populated by a homogenous faculty and student body who wil be subject to the mis-education which has always plagued institutions of higher learning and which does a great injustice to the world community.

Gary Lee

VOTE
BE COUNTED!
TIPS ON VOTING
2005 ABSENTEE VOTING
2006 VOTING IN AMHERST
545-1540
REQUEST TAPE BY NUMBER

Coming November 2
DARK STAR!!
•Outer Space was never like this DARK STAR; their not lost in space, their loose
50c Admission

Halloween Masks and Decorations
at
A.J. HASTINGS
Newsdealer and Stationer
45 S. Pleasant, Amherst

CAMPUS TRAVEL CENTER
$AVE
30 - 50%
By Booking By November 1st
Seats Limited
Campus Travel Center
Campus Center Univ. of Mass
Amherst, Mass 545-0500

Undergraduate Business Club
presents
Career Day '80 Luncheon
November 4, 1980
Tickets now available at SBA Lobby
$4.50 members
$5.00 non-members

Chinese Languag- and Cultural Studies
CLCS Offers:
Reasonable expenses * Travel
* Concentrated study in Taiwan
* Extensive course listing
* Full university credit
Accepting applications for all quarters
For Free Pamphlet and Counseling:
Chinese Language and Cultural Studies
P.O. Box 15563, Long Beach, CA 90815
Telephone: (213) 597-3361

Wednesday
Jim Plunkett
PUB MUG NIGHT
25¢ Beers-Pub Mugs
•Oldies•Trivia Contests
9 til 1
THE PUB
15 East Pleasant St.
AMHERST

ROOTIE KAZOOTIE'S
Bar/Restaurant
"Halloween Party"
Friday, Oct. 31
Prizes
Rootie Kazootie Look Alike Contest
6-8 ladies eat & drink for ½ price!
8-10 men eat & drink for ½ price!
Reverse Margueritas & Rum Smoothies $1.00
Thornes Market, Northampton 586-8878
(next to Steve Herrells Ice Cream)

AMC THEATRES
TIMES SHOWN FOR TODAY ONLY
ADULTS $2.75 STUDENT & SR. CITIZEN with AMC CARD $2.25 EXCEPT ENGAGEMENTS EXCLUDED TWILITE SHOW $1.75 TWILITE SHOW LIMITED TO SEATING
HAMPSHIRE 4 584-7550 HAMP. MALL ON CAFE SQ.—RT. 9, HADLEY, MASS
DONALD SUTHERLAND Ordinary People R (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15
LOVING COUPLES PG (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30
HOPSCOTCH R (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:15
THE FIRST DEADLY SIN R (6:15 @ $1.75) 8:30
Movie and Dinner only $5.50 Have your choice of 5 different meals at the Pewter Pot Rest. in the Hampshire Mall and see one of the eight movies in this ad (Sun-THur only)
SHOPPER'S SHOW FREE! Thursdays at 1:00 P.M. Oct. 30 Lost & Found with George Segal and Glenda Jackson
MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9—HADLEY, MASS
GOLDIE HAWN as PRIVATE BENJAMIN R (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30
It's My Turn R (6:15 @ $1.75) 8:30
TIMES SQUARE R (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:15
ANTHONY HOPKINS THE ELEPHANT MAN PG (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15

OVERSEAS AUTO PARTS
For the most complete line of foreign auto parts and accessories in the Pioneer Valley.
Get an extra 10% off our low prices with this ad.
offer expires Nov. 15, 1980
API
Zayre Shopping Plaza
Rt 9 Hadley, MA 01305
Tel 253-3403
authorized API distributor

Editorial/Opinion

Prop 2½: High tech gains

James Parrott

The floundering pro-Proposition 2½ campaign recently received emergency ideological and financial support from the Massachusetts High Technology Council (MHTC). Fostered to ballot-status by the libertarian-influenced Citizens for Limited Taxation (CLT), Proposition 2½ had been rapidly losing all credibility as a tax reform device. The effects of this draconian approach to tax reduction on essential public and human services was being exposed; informed debate was evaporating support for the measure. Taxpayers were reacting to CLT's crude "let's-try-it" rationale and expressing their skepticism about making up lost local revenue by eliminating $700 million in "wasted" (according to CLT) state spending on welfare and higher education.

While the High Tech Council's backing lends credibility to the pro-2½ effort, by supporting such an ill-considered tax reform proposal the Council risks alienating an otherwise sympathetic legislative leadership and losing a positive media image they have carefully cultivated over the past three years. The MHTC's support links passage of Prop. 2½ to their continued prosperity in Massachusetts, a ploy that enormously buttresses the pro-2½ case. Yet such support represents a slap in the face to a legislature that overwhelmingly rejected the substance of Prop. 2½ in favor of a less severe tax limitation measure supported by MHTC and the Associated Industries of Massachusetts.

Founded in Oct. 1977, the MHTC is a group of 112 firms with approximately 100,000 employees in the state in the "high-tech" sector (computers, electronics, industrial processing and control equipment; scientific, testing, and measuring instruments, and non-manufacturing firms providing consulting and computer programming and related services). Their Board of Directors currently includes executives of Arthur D. Little, Compugraphic, Computervision, Data General, Digital, Foxboro, GenRad, Honeywell, Hewlett-Packard, Prime Computer, Teradyne, and Unitrode among others. The MHTC also includes Wang Labs, EG&G, and Analog Devices—firms with executives that sit on the newly created 15 member Board of Regents.

The MHTC will work for the passage of Prop. 2½ by financing a media blitz (they've asked for a minimum $500 contribution from each member firm but would like to raise in excess of $200,000) and by encouraging the political participation of their employees. They're gambling that, because of their intervention, Prop. 2½ will pass and that, subsequently, when the legislature is forced to develop stop-gap measures in the avalanche of service cuts, the MHTC's interests will prevail.

They have two main goals that they jeopardize: (1) Reducing the percent of personal income in the state that goes to state and local taxes to the average of the 17 states MHTC claims compete with Massachusetts for hi-tech employment (this was part of the 1979 Council-initiated "Social Contract" with the King administration, and (2) reorienting public higher education to fulfill the growing labor demand in the hi-tech sector at all levels (assemblers/production workers, technicians, electrical/electronics engineers, and computer scientists).

The MHTC and their demands have attracted a good deal of attention, not only within Massachusetts but also nationally because "high technology" firms have grown so rapidly in employment in the past few years while the national economy in general has been plagued by various ills and continues to stagnate without relieving inflationary pressures. In Massachusetts, employment in computers and electronics components has increased 74 percent from April 1979 to April 1980, compared with total manufacturing employment increases over the same period of 14 percent in Massachusetts and less than 10 percent for the entire nation.

Another factor that can't be dismissed in accounting for the success of the MHTC's public relations and lobbying efforts is that they package their demands in a sophisticated "people-oriented" (their term) thrust. To overcome the crude, profit-grubbing, job-blackmailing image of much of the corporate crowd, the MHTC emphasizes that the engineers and other professionals that they so desperately need to attract in order to continue expansion in Massachusetts shy away from "Taxachusetts.' Drastic tax reduction is needed, the MHTC claims, not because the firms themselves fit the conventional greedy corporate image, but because otherwise engineers will demand to be employed in North Carolina or other low tax areas.

Massachusetts, however, should not let the MHTC claims, promises, and threats nor their pro-Prop. 2½ bombast go unexamined. For example, in their "Social Contract" the MHTC said they could create 60,000 new jobs in the four years of a King administration provided the tax burden was reduced to the average of the states they claimed compete with Massachusetts for hi-tech employment. If King couldn't deliver, they threatened to expand elsewhere (a repetition of the runaway threat all too familiar to the people of this state since at least the 1920's). While the promise of new jobs rather than just retention of already existing jobs provided a new twist to the blackmail threat, consider that in the two years prior to King high-tech manufacturing employment in Massachusetts had increased by around 30,000. Thus, the prize of 60,000 new jobs over four years was nothing more than about what you'd expect over that period given the continued dynamism of the hi-tech sector globally, and without any changes in state policy in Massachusetts relative to other areas.

MHTC's "people-oriented" approach is suspect, or at best only partially appropriate, when you consider that the MHTC participated in the successful effort to reduce the capital gains tax in Massachusetts by 60 percent. Moreover, you have to wonder about their contention that employees are hard to attract to Massachusetts because of high taxes when you consider that Massachusetts high-tech industries pay below national average wages and salaries. According to the 1977 Census of Manufacturing, in the computer industry, for example, production line hourly wages in Massachusetts were 10 percent below the national average, and white collar annual earnings were 15 percent below the national average (both figures even further below the levels in the major computer manufacturing states of California, New York, and Minnesota).

This is not to discount that there has recently been a significant amount of unfilled job openings at all skill levels in hi-tech firms, but an admonition that MHTC motives may be misrepresented, and more importantly, that we should be wary of the potential dangers of over-specialization of the state's economic base and its institutional supports. After all, because of an earlier devotion to textiles, the Great Depression came earlier and lingered longer in Massachusetts, and the dependence of defense and NASA contracts nurtured in the 50's and 60's claimed its toll in the extraordinarily high Massachusetts unemployment rates of the early 70's when defense and space spending was pared back nationally.

People concerned about quality public higher education in this state want to know why the MHTC—which has called for a greater committment on the part of the state's colleges and universities to enlarging the high-tech labor pool at all skill levels—aligns itself in support of Prop. 2½ with a group whose leaders (CLT's Barbara Anderson, for example) claim that $700 million in "wasted spending" for state human services and higher education could be diverted to replace lost local revenue.

The Massachusetts High Technology Council is gambling that they can get what they want "while the gettin's good."

This is the last in a three part series on Proposition 2½ by James A. Parrott, a member of the Campus Coalition Against Proposition 2½

SWP: Meet human needs

Shirley Kempinski

The Socialist Workers' Party candidates, Andrew Pulley for President and Matilde Zimmermann for Vice President, (stand-in candidate DeBerry on the Massachusetts ballot) unlike Carter, Reagan and Anderson, are voicing the real concerns and aspirations of the American people:

*For peace and security in the world—against the draft and wasting of lives to increase the profits of Exxon, Mobil, I.T. & T., etc.

*For equality and democratic rights—against the brutal murders of Black people and the shooting of leftists by the Ku Klux Klan.

*For ERA, reproductive freedom and affirmation action.

*For quality education, healthcare, housing and childcare—against increases in military spending and the skyrocketing inflation it causes.

*For jobs and a decent standard of living for all (30 hours work for everyone at 40 hours pay)—against closing factories.

*For safe, rational energy, for nationalization of the oil industry which controls energy resources & development—against deadly nuclear plants, weapons and wastes.

*For clean air, land and water—against life-threatening pollution.

*For letting the people know the truth about nuclear and chemical waste—against "industrial secrecy" (e.g. Love Canal).

*For worldwide cooperation—against U.S. support to brutal dictators.

In summary, the Socialist Workers' platform is for meeting human needs and against the miseries which flow from the tyranny of rule by the capitalist profit system.

The Socialist Workers' candidates not only voice the aspirations of the American people, they are of and from the people—not from the tiny millionaire class which dominates in Washington, D.C. Andrew Pulley, 29, is a member of United Steelworkers Local 1066 in Gary, Indiana. In 1968, he was forced to join the Army after being arrested for organizing protests in his high school against the murder of Dr. Martin Luther King. While in the Army, he organized GIs United Against the War and was charged with "inciting to riot" at Fort Jackson. After a nationwide defense effort forced his release, he joined the Young Socialist Alliance and Socialist Workers' Party. Pulley recently returned from a tour of revolutionary Granada.

Matilde Zimmermann, 36, helped organize many of the largest demonstrations against the Vietnam War. A member of the National Organization for Women, she has campaigned in defense of abortion rights, for passage of the Equal Rights Amendment, and in support of affirmative action. As candidate for vice president, Zimmermann has visited Cuba and Nicaragua. She works as a staff writer for the SWP's newspaper, the Militant.

Nelson Gonzales, the Socialist Workers' candidate for the 6th Congressional District (North Shore), is a machinist at GE, Lynn, and a member of I.U.E. local 201.

More and more people are disgusted with government of, by and for the ruling rich. It is no wonder that millions of eligible working people don't bother to vote for the "lesser evil." Pulley and Zimmermann call on everyone to exercise his/her democratic rights to turn disgust into active participation in the various movements for justice and social change—anti-draft/antiwar, civil rights, unions, women's rights, civil liberties, anti-nuke/environmental, solidarity groups, etc. They believe that working people—Blacks, Latinos, women, students, draft-age youth—must organize in their own interests to oppose the policies carried out against them. They work for the formation of a mass independent labor party which would create a political force both in election campaigns and in the day-to-day struggles we are going to have to carry out.

On Nov. 4, we are expected to enter the voting booths and cast votes as our means of "participation in the democratic process." However, the three major candidates stand for the very policies the majority of Americans oppose. Now, more than ever, the best way to exercise the democratic right to vote is to vote for the Socialist Workers' Party as a clear-cut, consistent and strong alternative to "politics as usual."

A vote for the Socialist Workers' Party is a vote for social justice, worldwide peace and security, a decent standard of living and for the use of technology and resources to meet human needs.

To quote Eugene V. Debs, pioneering American socialist, "It's better to vote for what you want and not get it, than to vote for what you don't want and get it."

To find out more about the Socialist Workers' campaign and program for social change, write: Young Socialists for Pulley and Zimmermann, P.O. Box 837, Amherst, MA 01004.

Shirley Kempinski is a member of the Young Socialist Alliance

LETTERS POLICY

Letters to the editor should be kept as brief as possible, and must be typed at 67 characters per line, triple spaced.

Proposition 2½

Taking a brief respite from the heat of the debate, opponents and proponents, as well as the moderator, relax before fielding questions from the audience last night at the Jones Library in Amherst in regard to Proposition 2½. Opponents are, from left to right, Joan Golowich and Rep. Jim Collins, both of Amherst, the moderator Dean William Field, Diana Trotterman, a specialist on the Proposition 2½ question, and Tracy Mehr, longtime resident of Amherst. Golowich and Collins said too many town services, especially in Western Massachusetts, would suffer from the tax-cuts. Trotterman and Mehr believe the tax-cut would not hurt the cities and towns in the state. (Staff photo by Vince DeWitt)

TACO VILLA
Wholesome Inexpensive Refreshing Change
Downtown Amherst
M-Tue CASH Anytime
Fri + SAT - 11-Late
SUN-THURS 11-10

New Wave Metallics
COSMETICS main floor
FACES
A Store-full of Ideas
Downtown Amherst Open 10-6, Mon.-Sat.

— Advertisement —
Friday, September 19, 1980

Hypnosis aids study

By KEVIN McDONOUGH
Collegian Correspondent

Faced with strenuous work loads, More and more students are turning to hypnosis to help them overcome learning difficulties in concentration, recall, and retention.

Milton Askinoss, a hypnotist practicing in Hadley, said hypnotism is a technique that "allows the subconcious part of the mind to surface, giving you a greater sense of suggestibility."

Askinoss has used hypnosis to help cure people of hard-to break habits such as nail biting, smoking, and over-eating. He has also treated people for discomfort from back pain, phobias, and other psychosomatic illnesses, he said.

Askinoss said hypnotism is not a kind of mind control. Contrary to popular belief, a hypnotist cannot force you to do anything against your will, he said.

"We show you the way to help yourself because whatever your mind has caused, your mind can cure," he said. Although hypnotism is a positive tool for behavior modification it is "in no way a subctitute for sleep, medecine, or medical attention," Askinoss added.

The students and faculty who visit Askinoss do so primarily to increase their studying efficiency or to quit smoking, he said. Askinoss added that only one visit is usually necessary to improve study skills. He claims a success rate of 90 percent.

Mr. Askinoss's office is located in the Farrick Building, Rt. 9, 3/10's of a mile from Hampshire Mall. (next to Rocky's Hardware) Call his office for an appointment 584-1919.

Why settle for JUST an MBA?

Rice University's Jones Graduate School offers much more
* OUR CURRICULA are innovative, challenging & demanding
* OUR STUDENTS are carefully selected
* OUR CLASSES are intentionally kept small
* OUR FACULTY is distinguished
* OUR LOCATION Houston, is the nation's fastest growing business center.

Plan to visit our representative on campus to discuss our programs
Thursday, October 30, 1980 9:00 a.m.-10:15 p.m.
Career Placement Center
Master of Business and Public Management
Master of Accounting

Please send an application and a brochure about Rice University's Jones Graduate School to:

Name (please print)
Address
City State Zip
College Degree Date

Rice University
Jones Graduate School of Administration
P.O. Box 1892
Houston, Texas 77001
(713) 527-4893
Rice University
is an equal opportunity/affirmative action institution.

HOUSING EXEMPTIONS

Spring 1980 Housing Exemption Applications are now available in the Housing Assignment Office, 235 Whitmore. Applications are due no later than FRIDAY OCTOBER 31, 1980.
Applications will not be accepted after this date. Please submit all applications to the Housing Assignment Office, 235 Whitmore. Thank you.

UMASS Ski Club
BUSH BLITZ WEEK
Sugarbush Ski Week
Hotel $159 Cond $144
Jan 25 - 30
Deposits taken at table on CC Concourse Oct 27-31
Sign-Up for FREE RAFFLE
Prize: Free Sugarbush Week
Drop coupon off at table
COUPON
Name
Address
Phone

Union RECORDS Unlimited
Monday-Saturday 10-5
Lowest Everyday Prices in the Valley
NEW WAVE ACTION
these new releases on sale til Sat Nov 1
Robin Lane & The Chartbusters
Joe Jackson - Beat Crazy
The Nervous Eaters
Talking Heads - Remain In Light
Police - Zenyatta Mondatta regularly $7.98 list, now only $4.99
and
The B-52's - Wild Planet regularly $8.98, now only $5.49
"Your Student-Run Record Store"

Check Our LOW Prices
Everything for Halloween
Choose full head masks or create your own unique costume with these:
SPOOKTACULAR SELECTIONS
THEATRICAL MAKEUP COLORED HAIRSPRAY GREASE PAINTS TOOTH OUT BEARDS FEET HANDS HATS SPIRIT GUM STAGE BLOOD MUSTACHES NOSES FANGS TEETH WITCHES HATS AND BROOMS WIGS HEAD PIECES LIQUID LATEX STAGE WARTS SPOCK EARS STRANGE SPECS ARROW THRU HEAD DEVILS HORNS AND TAIL BUNNY EARS AND TAIL AND A VARIETY OF SPECIALTY ITEMS
MOROSE MASQUERADES
MR LURCH BIGFOOT WOLFMAN
UNCLE VAL VAMPIRE WEREWOLF
CHEWBACCA WITCH OLD TIMER
ALIAS MR HIDE DEAMON DRAGON FACE
DARTH VADER SKULLHEAD DEATH CYBORG
NEW ADDITIONS FULL MASKS
YODA-UGNOUGHT-SPOCK-
VULCAN MASTER-KLINGOH
NEW FOR KIDS
SESAME STREET FULL COSTUMES
FLAME RETARDANT
open daily and Saturday 8-5:15 Thurs nite until 9:00pm
H.L.CHILDS & SON
25 State St. Northampton

Carter rating unaided by hostage talk

Associated Press

NEW YORK — The growing anticipation of Americans that U.S. hostages held in Iran will soon be released has not raised the public's judgment of how President Carter has handled the year-long confrontation, an Associated Press-NBC News poll says.

The hostage issue has, in fact, become more entangled in the presidential election in recent weeks, as an increasing number of people say Carter's handling of the crisis has been designed to advance his re-election campaign.

In addition, Americans do not favor any deal which would trade spare parts of military equipment to Iran in exchange for the release of the 52 hostages.

The recent swirl of rumors and speculation about a possible release of the hostages has fueled a substantial public expectation that they will indeed be freed.

Thirty-eight percent of those interviewed Oct. 22-24 said they expected the hostages to be released in the next few weeks. Twenty-five percent said the release will come later this year and 21 percent exected they would still be held next year. Sixteen percent of the 2,405 of the adults interviewed nationwide by telephone were not sure.

That's quite a change from the AP-NBC News poll in May which indicated only 4 percent saying the hostages would be released soon, 42 percent later this year and 42 percent not until next year, if ever.

The latest AP-NBC News poll was taken last week, before the inconclusive sessions of the Iranian legislature on the hostage issue Sunday and Monday.

The public's growing expectation that the hostages will be freed soon has not helped Carter at this point.

By a 53-36 margin, the public disapproves of the way Carter has handled the year-long crisis. Ten percent were not sure and one percent had not heard of the situation.

That's essentially the same as the 53-35 result of the AP-NBC News poll in May this year.

Thus, Carter has not yet benefited from the expectation of a peaceful end to the crisis. Of course, the public reaction to the hostages' release — when and if it comes — would depend on the condition of the hostages and the terms of the deal that freed them.

The crescendo of rumors on the impending release of the hostages as election day approaches has helped tarnish Carter's motives for some Americans.

Thirty-four percent of all those interviewed said Carter's handling of the crisis has been designed to help him win reelection. Fifty-one percent said he is trying to do what is best for the country. Seven percent said his motives are mixed and 8 percent were not sure.

That's a more cynical view than the public had in the April AP-NBC News poll, when Americans rejected the political opportunism argument by a 23-61 margin.

One thing the public does not want to do is trade U.S. spare parts for the hostages.

Iran badly needs spare parts for its U.S.-equipped military to continue fighting its war with neighboring Iraq.

But only 36 percent of the public would approve sending Iran the spare parts in exchange for the hostages, while 51 percent disapprove. Thirteen percent were not sure.

Iran has already paid for millions of dollars in spare parts, but Carter stopped the shipments after the hostages were seized.

As with all sample surveys, the results of the AP-NBC News poll can vary from the opinions of all adults because of chance variations in the sample.

NOTICE

NEWS COUNCIL—Public not only welcome, but invited. Please come at 7:30 tonight Campus Center room 917 and tell the Collegian Board of Editors what you like and dislike about the paper.

SUNSPOT
The year-round tan.
Tan in December? Tan in March? Without Florida or Mexico or Bermuda? Sure. With a SunSpot Tan, you're tan year-round. After a six-session, two-week lounge tan program, a residual once-a-week visit keeps you tan all the time. (The over-all year's tan costs just 39¢ a day!)
All SunSpot tanning programs are individualized by a trained technician so they're safer than the real sun. Our tanning booths have a controlled environment so you get a perfect tan with no sunburn worries. For most people, one minute with us is like an hour in the sun. So keeping attractively tan takes just a little while each week.
The SunSpot Amherst Carriage Shops 549-1499
39¢ a day*.
—based on a full year's tanning program

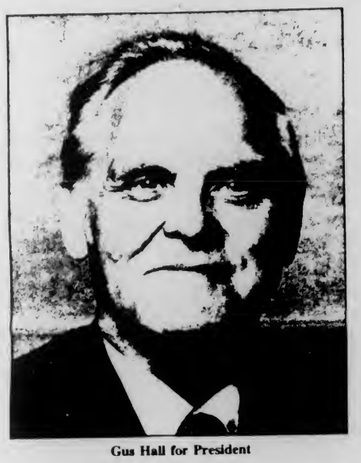
SOUTHSIDE JOHNNY and the ASBURY JUKES
with Beaver Brown
November 2nd 1980 8 PM at the Fine Arts Center
Tickets on Sale Now
$6.50, 7.00, 7.50
Umass Students
$7.50, 8.00, 8.50 Public
Available at:
Union Records Uniimted,
TIX (UMass)
Main Street records
Platterpus
(Northampton)
tice PRODUCTIONS
No cameras, taping, food, drink or smoke.

WOULD YOU BELIEVE?? FREE BEER
When the Bell rings for a total of 1
You Got It! Tonight! 9 - closing $1. Cover
MIKE'S WESTVIEW CAFE

FOR DAY OR NIGHT
HALLOWEEN PARTY!
FACES invites you to attend a demonstration; be made up by HELEN DREHER of Stagelight Cosmetics... ALL DAY HALLOWEEN!
...IT'S STAGELIGHT
OPEN FRI. 'TIL 9:00
STAGELIGHT Cosmetics
the new cosmetics
FACES
A Store-full of Ideas
Downtown Amherst /Open 10-6, Mon.-Sat.

Tired of budget cuts and tuition increases?

Here are two candidates and a program that all UMass students should consider.



Gus Hall for President

CANDIDATES OF THE COMMUNIST PARTY U.S.A

Angela Davis for Vice-President

A Real Alternative for Youth & Students

A People's Program . . .

People Before Profits

1. Ratify Salt II, End the Arms Race

Peace is crucial. A new war would mean nuclear holocaust. Therefore we must normalize relations with the Soviet Union, restore detente and negotiate mutual arms reduction. Cut the U.S. military budget by $100 billion and transfer the funds to domestic needs. End the blockade of Cuba. Independence for Puerto Rico.

2. Jobs For All. Stop Plant Closings

Enact the 6-hour day with no cut in pay, no speed-up or forced overtime. Federal takeover of closed factories under democratic trade union and community control. Convert these plants to useful production. An emergency government program to create new jobs. Raise unemployment compensation to 75% of prevailing wage.

3. A Labor Bill of Rights

Pass the Labor Reform Bill. Repeal Taft-Hartley and Landrum-Griffin Acts. End all restrictions on the right to organize and strike. Affirmative action programs at all levels of hiring, training and upgrading. Full rights for all foreign-born workers with or without documents.

4. Defend Farm Workers and Family Farmers

Full civil and trade union rights for farm workers. Government guaranteed low-interest loans, free crop insurance and 100% parity prices for family farm operators. End trade restrictions and embargoes against socialist and developing countries.

5. Fight Racism, Defend Democratic Rights

Take emergency measures to enforce civil rights laws and genuine affirmative action programs in employment, housing, education, health care and political representation. Make racist acts a criminal offense. Outlaw the KKK and Nazis. Defeat S. 1722 — the repressive anti-labor federal criminal code bill. Outlaw the death penalty. Padlock the CIA and FBI. Guarantee equal access to the ballot and the mass media for independent candidates and political parties.

6. Raise Family Living Standards

End all taxes on first $25,000 of family income. Guarantee $15,000 minimum income for family of four. No evictions or forced repossessions. No shutoff of utilities for families unable to pay.

7. Full Equality for Women

Pass the Equal Rights Amendment. Equal pay for comparable work. Prosecute employers who discriminate in hiring and upgrading or who harass women on the job. Federally funded, comprehensive child care accessible to all. Safe, affordable family planning, and abortion. No involuntary sterilization. Full representation of women at all levels of government.

8. Fight for the Needs of Youth

Pass a National Youth Act to provide jobs, education and training, cultural and recreational opportunities for young people. No military registration, no draft. Free education through college. Unemployment compensation for first-job seekers.

9. Strengthen the Rights of Senior Citizens

Increase social security payments to meet inflationary living costs. No taxes on social security income. Free public transportation for seniors. Special aid on rent, utilities and mortgages for the needy. Reduce Medicare deductible to zero. Remove restrictions on seniors' jobs.

10. Health Care — A Human Right

Pass a National Health Act to provide free comprehensive quality health care for all as a basic human right. Public ownership of the health care industry. Stop hospital closings. Expand public health facilities. Strengthen and enforce the Occupational Safety and Health Act. (OSHA).

11. Clean The Environment

Force the monopolies to pay the costs to clean up our air, water and land. Strengthen and enforce anti-pollution standards. Full compensation to victims of pollution, at corporate expense.

12. Nationalize the Energy Industry

Put the oil monopolies and all energy production under public ownership. Stop price rip-offs. Federal support for alternative energy sources. Close all nuclear plants until independent scientist-consumer-trade union committees decide they are safe to operate.

The Young Workers Liberation League is found in the high schools, campuses, industries and communities throughout this country. We are Afro-American, Puerto Rican and other Latino, Chicano, Native American Indian, Asian Pacific and white youth who are struggling together for a better life for our generation. We have demonstrations and dances, study groups and barbeques. We believe youth have the right to earn, to learn and to live-the right to a job at union wages, to quality, integrated education, to live in peace free from the threat of war and police brutality, to equality and democracy. That's why we support Hall and Davis-they're fighting for us.

sponsored by:
W.E.B. DuBois Branch
Young Workers Liberation League
Student Union Box 336
UMass, Amherst, 01003

Why not write in Gus Hall & Angela Davis for President & Vice-President, instead of staying at home on election day.

Robin Lane. (Staff photo by Kris Craig)

'Robin Lane and Chartbusters' play for a sellout crowd at SUB

By Julie Geanakakis
Collegian Staff

The conference room in the Student Union Building was dim due to the power failure and, within the darkness, the Chartbusters lounged eating wedges of rumcake and drinking beer. Robin Lane, looking very much like a schoolgirl after an energetic recess, sat at the end of a long polished table, eating a can of Planter's mixed nuts by flashlight. Her face illuminated within a circlet of light, she spoke of the band's plans to return to the studio on November 21 to begin work on their new album.

"The title we're thinking of is Grin and Bear it," said Lane. Unlike the previous album, which was recorded in sunny Hollywood, the band will stay up north working in Media Sounds Studio in New York City, with a new producer, Gary Lyons. "We have a new live EP out that was recorded at Boston's Orpheum, called Five Live with five songs on it," she said.

"Our reception has been good in all the states, but it has been really good in New England," said Lane.

Playing for a sell out crowd at the S.U.B. on Sunday night, the Chartbusters did two encores, one, an unamplified drum solo by Tim Jackson that turned into a spontaneious jam session of "Wipeout" when the power was restored and another, initiated by audience response. "We love playing here," said Lane.

When asked what her aspirations are, Lane responded, "I want to be a good Christian, not a hypocritical one, get married and have babies."

In the immediate future she wants to have a hit record and "one normal date."

PREPARE FOR
MCAT · LSAT · GMAT
SAT · DAT · GRE
Our 42nd Year

- Permanent Centers open days, evenings and weekends.
- Low hourly cost. Dedicated full-time staff.
- Complete TEST-n-TAPE™ facilities for review of class lessons and supplementary materials.
- Small classes taught by skilled instructors.
- Opportunity to make up missed lessons.
- Voluminous home-study materials constantly updated by researchers expert in their field.
- Opportunity to transfer to and continue study at any of our over 80 centers.

GRE PSYCH • GRE BIO • MAT • PCAT • OCAT • VAT • TOEFL • NMB • VQE • ECFMG • FLEX • NDB • NLE • CPA • MSKP

Call Days, Eves & Weekends

Stanley H. KAPLAN EDUCATIONAL CENTER
TEST PREPARATION SPECIALISTS SINCE 1938

in Amherst
253-5108
264 N. Pleasant St

For Information About Other Centers Outside NY State
CALL TOLL FREE 800-223-1782

TAKE SOME Time out

2 TV's

37 N. Pleasant
256-0471

Beer, Free Popcorn,
Something New
Lunch served daily 11-2

MIDNIGHT MADNESS SALE

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 31st, 1980
9:30 a.m. - 8:00 p.m. 25% off
8:00 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. 30% off
9:00 p.m. - 10:00 p.m. 35% off
10:00 p.m. - 11:00 p.m. 40% off
11:00 p.m. - Midnight 45% off

At Midnight 50% off!

BOOKS, BIBLES and MUSIC
* Special BONUS for costume-wearers!

logos book store
33 Main St. Northampton
586-4112

Join us for our Quick Lunch Specials

the Hungry U Restaurant
the ideal spot for a relaxing meal

from $1.99 to $2.99
Monday thru Friday

CHALLENGE THE UNKNOWN.

Bell Aerospace is recruiting prospective graduates to join one of the world's leading research/development teams. Consider your future with a vanguard company pioneering in diversified electronics, laser, combustion, air cushion vehicle and other threshold military and industrial technologies.

We offer a generous fringe benefits package, challenging assignments and pleasant four-season living in Western New York.

IF YOU'RE A PROSPECTIVE GRADUATE (BS, MS) IN ELECTRICAL OR MECHANICAL ENGINEERING, SIGN UP FOR AN INTERVIEW NOW. WE'LL BE ON CAMPUS NOV. 5 & 6.

Bell Aerospace TEXTRON
An Equal Opportunity Employer M/F/Hc Division of Textron Inc.

Hair Styles A LA CARTE
a cut above ... a price below

241 Main St.
— upstairs —
(across from the park)
584-7798
Northampton, Ma.

Appetizers

Shampoo	$1.00
Manicure	$4.95
Facial	$9.95

Entrees

Blow Dry	$2.00
Lamp Dry	$1.00
Hair Dried	$2.00
Curling Iron set	$2.00
Electric Rollers	$3.00
Braiding	$2.00
Perms	$17.95-$21.95

House Special
Haircut
$5.00

Desserts

Permanent Hair Color (Wella, L'Oreal Crescent)	$9.95
Semi-Permanent (Angelizing)	$13.95
Hennas (Color & Condition)	$10.95-$12.95
Luminizing (Sun Power)	$8.95
Frosting	$19.95

"Head" Maitre d'... Paul Laflamme, proprietor, 20 years experience
5 operators available at all times — Open Daily 9-5, Thursday 9-9

Collegian Classifieds

To place a Collegian Classified
•Come to Collegian Office CC 113
•8:45 to 3:45 Mon-Fri
•Classified deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day

Collegian Classified Rates
•15c per word
•Student rate 10c per word
•Cash in advance
•5 consecutive days 5 % discount
•Phone number FREE

AUDIO

Audiologic "micro" stereo system: 15 watt integrated amp, stereo tuner, hi fidelity 2-way air suspension speakers $225 call 6-5127

Onkyo-TX2500 Receiver 40 watts $160 546-5788

AUTO FOR SALE

Lancia—1975, brown, leather, air, AM/FM. 5-speed, 27mpg, 44,000 miles $4600 584-6563

'66 Volks RUNS great for parts call Walter 546-9072

Plymouth Fury great condition best offer over $150 call 549-4063

1974 Triumph Spitfire needs work asking $550.00 call 549-5791 between 6-7

Ford Galaxie 1966 excellent condition $400 or BO 549-4635

70 Impala excellent engine new exhaust 4 new tires new battery $450 Dave 256-0158

69 VW runs good AM-FM cass. inspected best offer call Chris 256-0353

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES

Address and stuff envelopes at home $800 per month possible Offer send $1 (refundable) to: Triple "S", 16243-Y78, Hesperia, CA 92345

CLUSTER GOSSIP

Mary E. Its so nice to have you to come home to Joe R.

DISC JOCKEY

Professional Disc Jockey Quality Sound Randy 546-7013

Why not have a succesful party? Hire quality Disc Jockeys!! Denis 546-6249 Andy 546-1164

ENTERTAINMENT

Springsteen Tickets available for Boston December 16 323-5757

Soundsystem and DJ for hire perfect for band parties coffeehouses Rick 584-4105

FREE DRINK

Cola War is coming Wed C.C. be there!!

FOR SALE

Gift Idea: Portrait Drawings; call dennis Delap 665-2972

TRS-80 48K or 16K System must sell mint condition call for details 546-7050

Free 1 male 3 month old cat, had shots, good home wanted call 253-5116

New never used 170 Rossignol Skis Look bindings poles size 7 Dolomite boots $175 complete will consider selling separately 665-4213

Hexcel Sundance Skis 180's w/Soloman 555 bindings $130 Head 240 std skis 180's best offer. Boots: Munari Flow men's 8½-9½ last season's like new $70 665-7757

Backpack new cost $150, sell for $100 will bring to Campus 1-684-3121, 1-442-6023

Moving, must sell 1970 Valiant runs well, $1200.00 Yamaha 12-string guitar, $200 or BO furniture 253-3101

Single bed $40 Carol 549-5440 after 5

Fender Telecaster guitar Randal amp, Sure mike, stand call Jenny 546-6276

Guitar for sale Epiphone acoustic excellent cond $125 546-9474 or 546-5493 after six

1966 Buick Wildcat PS, PB, PW, AT, snows 300 or BO 323-7774 Rick

Les Paul Guitar Case mint condition $70 call 256-0680

73 Gremlin 600.00 or best offer call 584-7094 after 7 PM

1969 Dodge Coronet 4-door $250 call 546-1136 or 1-413-543-2661 anytime

FOUND

Calculator found in Campus Center Thurs Oct 23 claim it in the Building Operation Office

Psych Journal at Hasbrouck bus stop identify Carlos 665-4763

STEVE NOVACK call 665-7586 for the return of your dog

Found a key in front of Stockbridge Hall Pick up at Collegian Office

Human found a scarf across the street from Morrill owner, identify 549-5193

HALLOWEEN AT UMASS

Yes! That's right folks the Halloween tradition will endure at the Zoo. Since the CC is closed, the party will be at the Southwest Pyramids. Party!!!

HAPPY BIRTHDAY SANDY HAMILTON!

Thanks for all the friendship you've given us these past four years! Your beautiful smile and laughing eyes really are one of a kind—just like you! Happy Day—Christine, Bonnie, Susan, Sue Ann, & Cathy

HELP WANTED

Wanted part-time radiology technician for multi-specialty group practice please call 256-8561 ext 248 M-F 8 am-4 pm

Address and stuff envelopes at home $800 per month, possible. Any age or location. See ad under businss opportunities Triple "S".

Summer Work Box 213, Amherst MA 01004

Hockey Referees, experienced or teachable, AHAUS situations in Amherst call Bud at 5-2208 or 549-0382 nites

Cruises—Club Mediterranean, Sailing, Expeditions! Needed: Sports Instructors, Office Personnel, Counselors, Europe, Carribean, Worldwide! Summer. Career. Send $5.95 + $1 handling for application OPENINGS, GUIDE to CRUISEWORLD 16160129, Sacramento, Ca. 95860

Chem 250 student needs a tutor please call Fern 546-5190

INSTRUCTION

English Classes (ESL) Elementary, Intermediate. Two hours an afternoon, except Wednesday. Faculty/student spouses, visitors, immigrants. People's Institute, Northampton. 584-3956 NLI, P.O. Box 34, Northampton

John Luca's Sport Historian to speak on "Moral Imperatives and the Modern Olympic Games" Thurs 10/30, 1:00 p.m., 106 Thompson

Hypnosis Speed reading Rm 909 Campus Center Nov 12, 13 at 7 PM all welcome KR Morse 532-5703

Guitar Instruction bluegrass & traditional orientation 10 yrs professional teaching experience reasonable rates Jerry 549-5650

INTERNSHIPS AVAILABLE

Legal Assistant Interns Wanted: The Legal Services Office has 8 positions available for full-time legal assistant interns for the Spring 1981 semester. Up to fifteen credits may be earned through Office of Internships. Legal assistants assist attorneys of the LSO with client interviewing, investigations, legal research, negotiations, giving advice and referrals, preparation of court forms, and attendence at hearings in District and Superior Courts, and participation in administrative hearings and federal litigation. Maintain continuing case load under supervision of attorneys. Applications available at Office of Internships, Curry Hicks Building, and inquire further at Legal Services Office, 922 Campus center. Applicationsdue November 7, 1980 at Office of Internships. Writing sample required. All third world and women students are encouraged to apply.

LEGAL SERVICES

Attorney Jason Rosenthal reasonable rates Days 584-4285, Evenings 253-7617

LOST

Nova Owners I hitched back to Boston on Friday Oct. 10 I left a brown and tan reversible jacket in your car call 6-7470

Lost keys—Sat nite wall across from Thoreau Reward 6-7451

Gold Chain two medallions reward contact 546-7930

Lost Blue Checkbook in Northeast Dorm Area Please call 665-2592

Lost watch electric Timex with silver mesh band please call 546-8512 sentimental value REWARD!

Pair of pink tinted eyeglasses in brown leather case call 549-4874

Wool Blazer dark brown in Franklin Sentimental value Reward 6-6754

Brown Leather Pocketbook don't care about the purse, just the contents Please call Juanita 6-8331 Reward

One room key on a leather "J" keychain between Sylvan and Puffton around Sat 10/18 call 6-4246

Burgundy Leather Jacket 10/24/80 Lot#63 Reward

Lost Friday bike bey on rawhide cord between UM & Amherst desperate 256-8678

Very large neutered male cat Black and grey stripes with some orange. White paws and chest I miss my cat, please call Karl at 256-8346

PERSONALS

Undergrad Pol. Sci. Assoc. interested in becoming member? Sign-up Rm 422 Thompson

Business Career Day Luncheon Tickets on sale Monday in SBA price $4.50 for UBC members 5.00 for others on sale all next week, but tickets are limited buy early!

Career Day 1980 Tuesday, Nov. 4 10-4 PM ist floor Campus Center Come hear distinguished speakers discuss career opportunities in various fields of business. All welcome! Sponsored by Undergraduate Business Club

Mike H. Happy 21st! How about a couple more Ward-8's?

Important Food Science Meeting Thursday October 30 6:30 PM Chen 227 all welcome

SDT invites all University Women to Informal Rush Oct 29 & 30 for info call Robyn 545-0627

To Rose of 12H Brandywine feel the sensation!

Marching Band for sale. Once in satisfactory condition, now running scared. Buy now—will be totally useless after 11/1/80 Contact director, UConn Husky Marching Band

Paula Happy B-day Your X. Sorry it's late. Love, Andy

Wall of Diamond-Down—i lik you so much ive got tumors where my heart oughta be! Let me know you care laetrille in my ear (tonight). . .arble h 666/7734

Yes, this one is for you. I guess mine was lost again. with love "ACE"

Happy 21st Birthday Timmy "These are the best 4 years of your life!" Thanks for the memories - 1602, Rick, Seabreezes, Old s'mills, Floyd, Drake, Brandywine 2C, "I think I know it," music seory, R.A. Selection and Poncho stories. the list goes on. . .Thanks again and have a good one! Jeff

Women of Webster Thanks for the thought. Any openings in your dorm. The Legend

Hey, blond mustached guy who drives the blue van around campus: What's your number? Answer in the Collegian

Nancy—I put my finger through your smoke ring last Fri nite at the Pub. You belong in the movie "Casablanca" I'm infatuated Mike

OKIE you're 21 so live it up! Happy Birthday Love The Kid

Karen, was it worth the wait? Chowda

RIDE WANTED

Ride needed weekends Brockton or nearby. Leaving Thursday night or Friday anytime. Share expenses call 546-7186

Ride needed to Dead concert Thurs will share expenses and partying call 6-9755 or 6-9781

Ride needed to Cornell (Ithaca) on Halloween weekend $$ shared call 6-4246 (Attention: Louis!!)

Ride wanted to NY within one hour of West Point Oct 30 or 31 call Diane 6-4694

ROOM WANTED

2 women seek 2 rooms House or apartment NEAR CAMPUS for Spring semester 546-9124/546-6342

Help us! We're one junior a 2 seniors who have outgrown dorm life. Looking for housing on bus route for Spring semester Call 546-7433 or 546-7427

Female looking for roomates to share apt for Spring semester call 256-6045 anytime

Two responsible females seeking off campus housing for Spring semester call 546-5458

ROOMMATE WANTED

Roommate to share a 2 bedroom apt with female student $200 per month 253-2047

Puffton Village one bdrm in two bdrm apt $157 + lights Mike 549-3616 545-0731

In S.Deerfield Quiet, non-smoking, serious (student preferred) person. Now until January. 115+/mo 665-7705

Own room in beautiful, semi-coop farmhouse in New Salem for November 1. $85/mth+ call David 617-544-2193

Friendly, responsible, independent roommates wanted Own room in 3 bdrm Rolling Green Apt. for Nov 1 $115/mth, includes everything Preferably female. Call Conworth or Shelley (617) 544-2193 Leave message

SERVICES

Experienced typist available Fast, neat work, reasonable rates. 546-6439

Typing; Words-Worth, 37 East Pleasant Street, Amherst, 549-1303. Double-spaced text from 95c a page. Justified resumes from $3.50 a page. Telephone dictation line. Overnight rush jobs. Your words are worth it.

Statistics Tutor Prepare for midterm, 4.50/hr. experienced graduate student 253-5764

Expert Typing, Editing reasonable rates 665-4815 evenings and weekends

SHITTER & TUMA

Shitter & Tuma Happy Belated Birthday Love Spunky & Dicky

SONGWRITERS

Folk-Singer, song writer researching song writing at UMass. If you write original folk, or country music I would like to interview you and profile your work in my Research--call Joe at 665-2840 10 pm-11:30 pm or weekends anytime

TO SUBLET

Cliffside one bedroom apartment, around 11/10, $205 includes utilities, 665-4763

TRAVEL

Florida—The Great Getaway for Spring Break and January Term under $200 round trip jet 256-6704

WANTED

Top Dollars for class rings, gold, sterling, at Wendy's CC Concourse, twice a week

Highest prices paid for class rings, gold, and silver jewelry. See me before you sell. Daniel Smith, 25 North Pleasant St between Fotomat and Logos, Amherst M-Sat10-6 call 256-0710

Cash for unwanted class rings gold, silver anytime Bob or Sue 546-6607

Wanted: weekend cook for Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity to cook two brunches and one dinner contact John 545-2150

WANT TO SUBLET

Would like to sublet a 2-3 bedroom apt beginning in January call Mindy 546-4825 or Carole 546-4848 anytime

The rusty nail Inn

Fri. Oct. 31
Widespread Depression
& The Cardiac Kids
cover $3.00/college ID

Sat. Nov. 1
The Shades
cover $2
(New Wave)

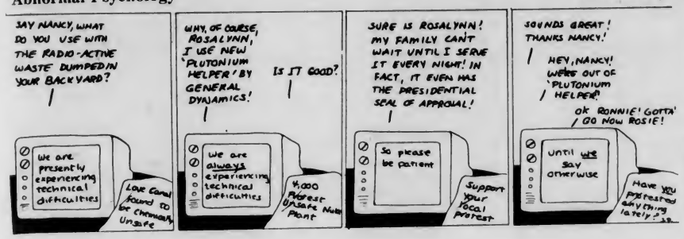
GEORGE THOROGOOD & THE DESTROYERS
NOV. 6

Rt 47 Sunderland MA 665-4937

DOONESBURY by Garry Trudeau

FIRST STOP, THE LEFT HEMISPHERE OF REAGAN'S CEREBRUM. TRADITIONALLY, THIS IS THE HOME OF LOGIC, ANALYSIS AND CRITICAL THINKING. LET'S TAKE A CLOSER LOOK...
AS YOU CAN SEE, MANY NERVES IN THIS PART OF THE BRAIN ARE FROZEN. THE RIGORS OF THE CAMPAIGN TRAIL, PARTICULARLY THE LACK OF SLEEP, HAVE TAKEN THEIR TOLL.
STUDIES HAVE SHOWN THAT SUBJECTS NOT ALLOWED TO SLEEP AND DREAM BECOME HIGHLY DISTURBED. THE BRAIN NEEDS TO DREAM; IF DEPRIVED AT NIGHT, IT COMPENSATES BY HALLUCINATING DURING THE DAY.
SEEN IN THIS LIGHT, MR. REAGAN'S ABILITY TO RECONCILE HUGE TAX CUTS WITH MASSIVE MILITARY SPENDING MUST BE VIEWED WITH SOME SYMPATHY.

Abnormal Psychology J. Demskey



SAY NANCY, WHAT DO YOU USE WITH THE RADIO-ACTIVE WASTE DUMPED IN YOUR BACKYARD?
WHY, OF COURSE, ROSALYNN, I USE NEW 'PLUTONIUM HELPER' BY GENERAL DYNAMICS!
IS IT GOOD?
SURE IS ROSALYNN! MY FAMILY CAN'T WAIT UNTIL I SERVE IT EVERY NIGHT! IN FACT, IT EVEN HAS THE PRESIDENTIAL SEAL OF APPROVAL!
SOUNDS GREAT! THANKS NANCY!
HEY, NANCY! WHERE OUT OF 'PLUTONIUM HELPER'?
OK RONNIE! GOTTA GO NOW ROSIE!
We are presently experiencing technical difficulties
Love Canal found to be Chemically Unsafe
We are always experiencing technical difficulties
14,000 Increase Obtains New Point
So please be patient
Support Your Local Protest
Until we say otherwise
Have you registered anything lately?

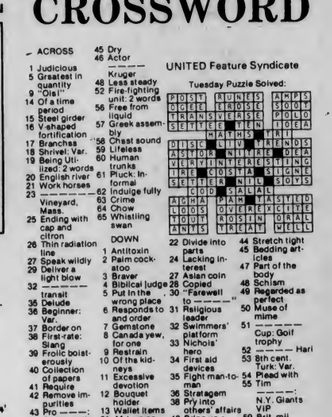
Under the Influence M. Joyce

BOY! I LOVE GETTING DRESSED UP FOR HALLOWEEN!
HEY FINNAGIN DO YOU HAVE A COSTUME?
YEAH, I WENT INTO TOWN AND GOT THE UGLIEST MASK I COULD FIND!
LIKE IT?
M.Joyce 10/29

Cindy Downing

ONE FOR THE ROAD
YOU MUST'VE TIED ONE ON! YOU'RE IN THE MORNING NEWSPAPER! DID YOU REALLY JUMP IN AN EMPTY POLICE CAR AND TURN ON THE SIREN?
NOT SO LOUD.
QUOTE:"...THEN THE RAMBUNCIOUS TWOSOME ANNOUNCED OVER THE P.A. SYSTEM THAT IF THE WORLD DIDN'T SHAPE UP THEY WOULD RELEASE MILLIONS OF MAN-EATING MICE."
DID YOU REALLY SAY THAT?!
WELL IT DOESN'T SOUND LIKE ANYTHING NOW.
YA' HAD TO BE THERE.
DINNER

CROSSWORD



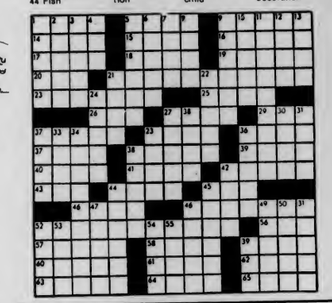
ACROSS
1 Judicious
5 Greatest in quantity
9 "Oisi"
14 Of a time period
15 Steel girder
16 V-shaped fortification
17 Branchas
18 Shrivel: Var.
19 Being Utilized: 2 words
20 English river
21 Work horses
23 ——— ———
26 Thin radiation line
27 Speak wildly
29 Deliver a light blow
32 ——— transit
35 Delude
36 Beginner: Var.
37 Border on
38 First-rate: Slang
39 Frolic boisterously
40 Collection of papers
41 Require
42 Remove impurities
43 Pro ——: Temporarily
44 Fish
45 Dry
46 Actor ——— Kruger
48 Less steady
52 Fire-fighting unit: 2 words
56 Free from liquid
57 Greek assembly
58 Ghost sound
59 Lifeless
60 Human trunks
61 Pluck: Informal
62 Indulge fully
63 Crime
64 Chow
65 Whistling swan

DOWN
1 Antitoxin
2 Palm cockatoo
3 Braver
4 Biblical judge
5 Put in the wrong place
6 Responds to and order
7 Gemstone
8 Canada yew, for one
9 Restrain
10 Of the kidneys
11 Excessive devotion
12 Bouquet holder
13 Wallet items
21 African nation
22 Divide into parts
24 Lacking interest
27 Asian coin
28 Copied
30 "Farewell to ———"
31 Religious leader
32 Swimmers' platform
33 Nichols' hero
34 First aid device
35 Fight man-to-man
36 Stratagem
38 Pry into others' affairs
42 Bring up a child
44 Stretch tight
45 Bedding articles
47 Part of the body
48 Schlam
49 Regarded as perfect
50 Muse of mime
51 ——— ——— Cup: Golf trophy
52 ——— ——— Hari
53 8th cent. Turk: Var.
54 Plead with
55 Tim ———
——— N.Y. Giants VIP
59 Brit. mil. decoration

UNITED Feature Syndicate

Tuesday Puzzle Solved:

P	O	S	T		S	U	N	I	S		A	M	P	S
O	G	E	E		T	H	E	O	S		M	O	O	T
D	I	S	S	I	D	E	N	T	S		P	O	L	D
S	E	T	T	E	E		T	E	N		I	D	E	A
				M	A	R	M
D	I	S	C	O		M	A	K	I	N	O	S
A	S	T	O	R		A	L	M	S		D	E	A
V	E	N	T	I	L	A	T	E	S		U	N	E
I	R	I		C	O	S	T	A		S	I	N	E
S	E	E		E	N	I	L		S	O	Y	S
		O	D	D		S	A	L	A	R
A	C	O	R	N		A	M	M	O		S	T	I	L	E
L	O	O	S	E		O	V	E	A		E	X	I	S	T
T	O	Y	O	T		T	O	S	S		N	E	W	T	S
A	N	T	E	S		T	R	A	M		W	I	L	L



D.C. Menu

LUNCH
Hamburg on Roll
Eggroll/Duc Sauce,
Plum Sauce

BASICS LUNCH
Golden Burgers
Eggroll/Duc Sauce,
Plum Sauce

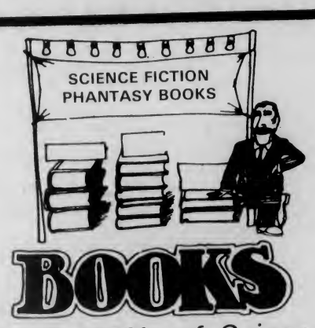
DINNER
Roast Top Round of Beef/Mushroom Sauce
Macaroni and Cheese

BASICS DINNER
Italian Tofu Balls and Sauce
Macaroni and Cheese

KOSHER MENU
Roast Beef/Au Jus
Tuna Boat

MUSIC GALLERY
★ BASS PLAYERS ★
FRED SPENCE from FIRST RATE and GLENN JUBILEE from FX are now scheduling lessons!
CALL NOW for an appointment!
★THIS WEEK★
Featuring, 100 watt "Hot Spot" miniature monitor system, "NORTH" drums and "LEGEND" amps
also
USED - Gibson J-200, Les Paul Custom (rosewood tip, maple neck)
B.C. Rich "EAGLE," Fender "BRONCO" all in EXCELLENT condition
Open Tue-Fri 10 a.m.-8:00 p.m.
RTE. 9 HADLEY
586-6228

Bolles Shoes
— FALL SPECIAL —
All Rockports for men and women
Rockport
20% off
Oct. 23 - Nov. 1
Bolles Shoes
8 Main St. Amherst 253-5598 Open daily Mon-Sat 9:00-5:30



BOOKS

What? 1000's of Science Fiction and Phantasy Books Available for Purchase

Where? The Campus Center Concourse

When? Wednesday, Thursday, Friday Oct. 29, 30, 31

Why? A Preview of the Science Fiction/Phantasy Fair Being Held Saturday, Nov. 1, 1980 at the "bookstore on the concourse"

the UNIVERSITY STORE

campus center/university of massachusetts

THE UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AT AMHERST

FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL

presents

DUETS
an evening with
CHICK COREA
&
GARY BURTON

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 1980 8 PM

Tickets go on sale Wednesday, October 29 at the Fine Arts Center Box Office (M-F, noon-4 p.m.) Phone reservations accepted through Tuesday, Nov. 4 (413-545-2511)

$10, 9, 8 General Public
$9, 8, 7 Senior Citizens
$5, 4.50, 4 UMass Students

LIVE! ON STAGE!

OPENS TONIGHT
BILL HANNEY
presents
THE ORIGINAL

BEATLEMANIA

DIRECT FROM 3RD YEAR ON BROADWAY

LIVE ON STAGE!

OCTOBER 29 - NOVEMBER 2
7 PERFORMANCES ONLY
WED., THURS., FRI.—8 PM; SAT.: 6:30 & 9:30; SUN. 3 & 7 PM
TICKETS $12.50-$10.00-$8.50
ALL SEATS RESERVED
TICKETS AT BOX OFFICE — NOON TO 9 PM
AND AT ALL TICKETRON OUTLETS

PARAMOUNT

MAIN ST. — AT THE ARCH — SPRINGFIELD, MASS.
TELEPHONE 734-5706

Do You Want A Single?

V.I.R.U.S.

Come to the Housing Assignment Office Rm. 235 Whitmore and fill out a V.I.R.U.S. request form.

V.I.R.U.S. is the new Variable Rate Structure which permits students to gain double singles, design singles, or triple-doubles and to guarantee their privacy and extra living space for a semester by paying a $25, $50, or $75 surcharge.

Does V.I.R.U.S. sound like it's for you? Then come to the Housing Assignment Office and fill out a V.I.R.U.S. request form.

DO IT TODAY!

★ Election Survey

continued from page 1

were going to vote for.

"I'm voting for Anderson because I feel he has the most insight. He gives solutions to problems and says how he's going to do things. He tells how he's going to fulfill his promises," said Elizabeth King, a freshman in Grayson dormitory.

"I'm voting for Reagan because, although he (Reagan) isn't my kind of guy, Carter's economics are sending this country into ruins. If (Reagan) can get big business going, maybe the private sector will follow," said David McCarthy, a MacKimmie dormitory resident.

"I like Anderson, but I figure a vote for Anderson is a vote for Reagan," said John Adams, a sophomore in Webster dormitory, who intends to vote for Carter.

"I'm tired of Jimmy Carter, I feel he's incompetent. The country needs a change and I think Reagan will be good," said Dana Washburn, a junior economics major in Hamlin dormitory.

"I don't think Anderson can win, and if Reagan wins it would mean the destruction of the earth," said a Carter supporter.

"Reagan and Carter are both clowns, fools and militarists," said another student. "Anderson is a sane, open man whose policies will not destroy our economy or national security."

Karen Graham, a junior in Crabtree dormitory, said she was voting for Reagan "because I think Carter had enough time and he hasn't produced. I think Reagan will do a better job."

Another student, who said he intends to vote for Anderson, said "he's not as militaristic as Reagan and has more energy than Carter. He is not, however, a really strong choice for president, rather a lesser of three evils."

But many students, who said they were not voting this year, felt there were no "lesser evils" to choose from.

"I don't believe any of the candidates would be capable of running this country," said one student.

"I don't like any of the candidates," said another student. "They are not addressing the important issues, the internal issues. All they talk about is foreign issues."

★ WFCR

continued from page 1

renewing the contract.

Melley is Goldfarb's direct superior, and Goldfarb reports directly to him.

Melley said the Western Massachusetts Broadcasting Council will be considering more than just the recent problems with "Que Tal Amigos" program. He said he is more interested in the ways the manager works with the administration and the community groups as a whole.

★ Library

continued from page 1

fler when it was deemed unsafe by Loomis and Loomis, a consulting firm from Windsor, Conn. because chips of brick had been falling off the exterior.

Talbot said he was hoping the building would be available for use today, but said the decision would have to be made by the Environmental Health Dept.

Gay/Lesbian
HALLOWEEN BALL
9 pm Thurs. October 30th
Red Barn, Hampshire College $2
sponsored by People's Gay Alliance
Gay Men of Hampshire College

ABSENTEE VOTING BE COUNTED!

VOTE

ABSENTEE BALLOTS FOR THE 1980 FEDERAL ELECTIONS WILL BE NOTARIZED IN THE MEMORIAL HALL LOBBY ON THE FOLLOWING DATES

Wednesday	October 22, 1980	9 AM - 5 PM
Thursday	October 23, 1980	9 AM - 5 PM
Friday	October 24, 1980	9 AM - 4 PM
Monday	October 27, 1980	9 AM - 5 PM
Tuesday	October 28, 1980	9 AM - 5 PM
Wednesday	October 29, 1980	9 AM - 5 PM
Thursday	October 30, 1980	9 AM - 5 PM
Friday	October 31, 1980	9 AM - 4 PM
Monday	November 3, 1980	9 AM - 4 PM

Sponsored by The Division of Student Services, The Office of Alumni Affairs, The Dean of Students Office

"BARDWELL HAS THE EXPERIENCE IN COUNTY GOVERNMENT!"

VOTE-NOV 4th AND HELP ELECT

WE NEED THIS MAN

CORY BARDWELL

HAMPSHIRE COUNTY COMMISSIONER

PAID FOR BY COMMITTEE TO ELECT A. CORY BARDWELL

THE UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AT AMHERST

FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL

presents

The
CANADIAN BRASS
featuring
ROBERT J. LURTSEMA

Host of "Morning Pro Musica" narrating "HORNSMOKE" - a fantasy of the Old West by Peter Schickele (a.k.a. P.D.Q. Bach)

Wednesday, November 12, 1980 8 PM

Tickets now on sale at the Fine Arts Center Box Office (M-F, noon-4 p.m.) Phone reservations accepted through Monday, Nov. 10 (413-545-2511)

$8, 7, 6 General Public
$7, 6, 5 Senior Citizens
$4, 3.50, 3 UMass Students

TASTE THE BEER THAT OUTSELLS MOLSON GOLDEN IN CANADA: LABATT'S.

Good news!
Labatt's, Canada's No. 1 selling beer, is now imported to the U.S.
So, now it's easier to compare the taste of our Labatt's with the brew of our friendly competitor.
See what you think.
We, like most other Canadians, prefer a bottle of Labatt's Beer over a Golden.
If we didn't, we'd likely be drinking Molson® instead—and we certainly wouldn't be running this ad.

THINK OF CANADA
THINK OF LABATT'S

PS. The green Labatt's bottle comes equipped with one of those twist off tops—which can be rather handy especially whilst one is otherwise engaged.

© Labatt Importers, Inc. Am. rep. N.Y. 10601

Save-on-Tires
ROUTE 9 HADLEY, MA.

MICHELIN - CONTINENTAL - DAYTON - B.F. GOODRICH - ARMSTRONG - GOODYEAR - PLUS OTHER MAJOR BRANDS
SUPERSEDES ALL OTHER ADS.

CASH & CARRY TIRE SALE CASH & CARRY

Wholesale to the Public.
We can arrange to have your tires mounted.

BIAS PLY SNOWS

SIZE	MFG. BY	PRICE	SIZE	MFG. BY	PRICE
600x12	BFG	27.95	G78x14	Seib.	36.95
A78x13	Seiberling	25.95	H78x14	Seib.	38.95
B78x13	Seib.	28.95	560x15	Seib.	28.95
C78x14	BFG	33.95	578x15	Seib.	36.95
E78x14	Seib.	33.95	178x15	Seib.	38.95
F78x14	Seib.	34.95	L78x15	Seib. Wt.	43.95

All Prices Plus F.E. Tax & Sales Tax.

RADIAL ALL SEASON AND SNOWS, ALSO AVAILABLE AT WHOLESALE PRICES.

VISA OR MASTER CHARGE

OPEN 8:30-5:30 Sat. 8:30-3

586-2544

Theta Chi wins Greek showdown

By Stephen Freker
Collegian Staff

The age-old Grecian civil war, Athens versus Sparta, realized a renaissance of sorts when Theta Chi conquered Phi Sig 21-17 in the championship game of the intramural football league's men's division last night at Boyden field.

Some customary battledress such as tunics, breastplates and broadswords were missing, but they were ably replaced by the cut-off sweatshirts and spotbilt baseball cleats worn by Phi Sig and Theta Chi's bright red gameshirts with their fraternity symbols emblazoned on the front.

This game was billed as the Greek showdown and, ultimately, it was. Theta Chi had traveled a rather easy road to the playoffs, blowing out most of their opponents by scores usually associated with Bear Bryant's Crimson Tide or the old Boston Patriots. The opening round competition in the playoffs made things more difficult for them. Paul Kennedy's Son of Sam squad almost knocked them off and Jeff Mansfield's 55-yard touchdown bomb to Ron Annand just eked out a win over the Maroons in the semifinals to keep Theta Chi's championship hopes alive.

Phi Sig also had a relatively easy time with their regular season opponents and had to beat a very good Pi Kappa Alpha team and a surprisingly tough BMF contingent to make it to the Superbowl of intramural football.

Strong, tight defenses ruled most of the action in this year's playoffs. Low-scoring, last-minute wins were in abundance. Coming into this game, for example, Theta Chi had outscored its playoff opponents 25-10 in three games, these statistics from a team which had averaged 26 per game during the seven game regular season.

It appeared that this game would be different when Theta Chi scored on each of its first two possessions. Mansfield, Theta Chi's field leader, set up both scores with short passes and a few runs on keepers. Keith Lombardo made a superb effort on his second touchdown reception of the first quarter.

"It was a great catch," Theta Chi captain Annand said. "He just took off and Jeff(Mansfield) laid it right in there."

An offensive barnburner was not to be seen, however, as both teams began to assert themselves defensively as the game progressed. Shane Hart, Phi Sig defensive tackle, made things difficult for Mansfield in the game with his quick line penetration. Phi Sig co-captain Doug Rhoder, batted down many passes and ran a interception back for a fourth-quarter score.

Theta Chi's defense scored six in the second period when Mark "Pumpkin" D'Angelo intercepted an errant Phi Sig toss and ran it in for the touchdown.

This was the first time that Theta Chi had played a team that was comparable to them in size. Apparently, this didn't matter.

"They were real quick and big," said Theta Chi defensive back Ray Nestor, who had two steals to his credit. "Our defense was ready and I think we handled them."

Rusty Hamilton, who is now being actively recruited by the Detroit Lions in an attempt to bolster their defensive line, had another outstanding game as did Ed Daviau, John "The Count" DeFusco and Mike Curran, who made a game-saving tag on the Theta Chi one-inch line in the fourth quarter.

Hugh Ahearn's clenched fist salute in the end zone following Paul White's game-clinching interception said it all. Theta Chi ruled Greece tonight and they were the champs.

Monday night, Jim Hynes did double-duty. He kicked and played cornerback for the Maroons of the Men's division in the 4:30 semifinal game and at 5:30, he changed uniforms and came on to lead the Co-Rec Maroons to a 26-25 victory over the defending champion Titans in their championship final barnburner.

"I was really down after the Theta Chi game," Hynes said. "But I decided to put it behind me and concentrate on this one."

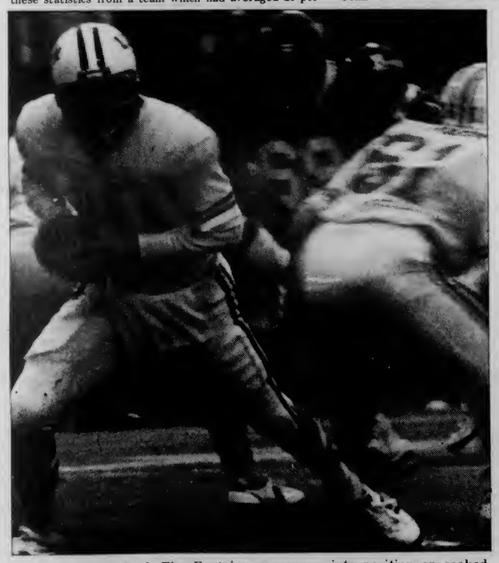
Hynes did more than concentrate. He also threw three touchdown passes to another dual-Maroon, Mike Bradley, and kicked the 16-yard winning field goal with just six seconds left in the game.

Brett Allen had an outstanding game for the Titans. He caught three touchdown bombs, intercepted two passes and made a key block on another Titan score.

In last night's Women's division championship game, Kathy O'Connel scored the only points on a pass from Fran Troy in the third quarter to lead the Whimps to an 8-0 victory over the Buckos.

"The play wasn't even supposed to go to me," O'Connel said. "I just looked up and the ball was there."

The Whimps, who had been held scoreless all last season, celebrateed their close win with a bottle of champagne which they graciously shared with the Buckos on the now deserted playing field.



UMass quarterback Tim Fontaine maneuvers into position on soaked astroturf at Boston University Saturday. (Staff photo by Brent Campbell)

A tale of two games

It is a tale of two games.

"I haven't even eaten yet," a Theta Chi fan was saying last night during the men's intramural championship game. "I went back to the house to eat and the place was deserted. I almost forgot about tonight. I got my ass down here in a hurry, though."

Two hundred people got their asses down to the Boyden playing fields last night. One-hundred and eighty watched the first game, as Theta Chi and Phi Sigma Kappa played for bragging rights on N. Pleasant St.

Kevin Cullen

It was the epitome of the campus showdown: the two so-called jock fraternities in a game that meant everything in men's intramural football.

The B.A. (Bad Ass) freshmen pledges stood on the sidelines and in the endzones, collars up, baseball caps pulled down over their brows. They stared.

"Hey, Fatso," someone called out to the ref. "You stink!"

It was a see-saw of emotion. When Theta Chi scored, their sidelines went beserk, while Phi Sig looked at the soggy ground. When Phi Sig scored, the roles were reversed.

The Sultan of Theta Chi appeared at half-time. Carried onto the field by pledges, the Sultan blessed the crowd from his throne, a stolen bed top placed on some two-by-fours. His royal robe, a Schlitz sleeping bag, slung from his shoulder, the Sultan spiked the ball in each endzone, and went to the sidelines.

"I watch football games in bed all the time," said the Sultan, alias Steve Halzel. "I figured this was no time to change."

The Sultan's blessing worked. Theta Chi used two touchdowns from Keith Lombardo and a goal line stance late in the game to take the championship, 21-17.

There were the traditional handshakes, a few hugs from opposing players who were friends. John "The Count" DeFusco settled some business on the sidelines and then it was over.

Phi Sig went home.

"We'll probably have a little party," Jim Aulenback, a member of Theta Chi, said, qualifying for the understatement of the year award. "A few of the Phi Sig guys may come over. It should be pretty good."

Theta Chi went home.

As the crowd left, the fog rolled in. The women took the field.

And no one was there.

Aside from the teams involved, intramural officials, and the press, there were just a couple spectators for the women's final between the Buckos and the Whimps.

Joshua and Jessica Pounds, an unidentified woman who left after three quarters, and Boog Powell's cousin were the only ones who braved the chill and fog.

Joshua and Jessica, two pre-school children, ran around more than the two teams. The unidentified woman yawned and went home.

"I don't even know what I'm doing here," Boog Powell's cousin said.

In the end, the crowds missed a pretty good football game, won by the Whimps, 8-0; the same Whimps who failed to score one point last year.

"You know, I was thinking of scheduling the women's game before the men's," said one intramural staff member, as the Whimps broke out the champagne brought for such an occasion. "But we wanted to get the men's game over with. We expected a war tonight, but I'll tell you, we got a real football game."

The Whimps ignored it all and toasted themselves and the fog. They did what they had set out to do, and they had fun.

It just didn't matter that no one was there to see it all.

Women booters chalk up sixth straight shut-out

The UMass women's soccer team defeated the Harvard Crimson 2-0 yesterday in Cambridge in their sixth straight shutout. Maddie Mangini and Nancy Feldman scored for the Minutewomen in the rout.

"They played great soccer," said UMass head coach Kalekeni Banda of his booters. "We just outplayed Harvard."

Mangini scored late in the first half off a corner kick. The next score came with 9:56 on the clock in the second half. Feldman, assisted by Mangini, scored off another corner kick.

WOMEN'S SOCCER NOTEBOOK...in the poll released in yesterday's Globe, UMass retained its fifth-place ranking, while UConn, who was beaten by UMass Oct. 8, took over the first-place spot from Harvard. Brown and Vermont are still ahead of the Minutewomen, who must get into the top four in order to play in the Easterns...the 4-0 win over Yale Saturday marked the fifth straight shutout for UMass as well as its sixth consecutive win.

It also was the second straight weekend match that saw UMass play in almost nightmarish conditions, featuring heavy rain and winds gusting up to 40 m.p.h. The game took so much out of the team that UMass Coach Kalekeni Banda gave them Sunday off, instead of the usual morning practice...the Harvard-UMass contests have had the flavor of a rivalry in the past few years. In each instance, supremacy in New England was on the line, and all games played were won by a difference of one goal. The Minutewomen lead the series, 2-1, winning the regular season matches, while the Crimson yanked a 1-0 overtime victory in last year's Easterns in Providence...DON'T LAUGH DEPT...UMass faces Smith College Thursday afternoon on the NOPE fields. Before you scream "blowout", remember this—Smith gave Harvard a hard time before falling 3-1; they even received votes in this week's poll. Could be an interesting game, beginning at 2:30 p.m.

UMass runners on trial

The UMass men's cross country and track teams have been reinstated, on a one year trial basis, into the New Englands competition, held for cross country and indoor and outdoor track. UMass was no longer allowed to compete in the New Englands following their resignation from the ECAC, due to their membership in the Eastern Eight League.

The New England Athletic Directors, voting through their track coaches on Sunday, overwhelmingly approved UMass' entry back into the New Englands, following their reinstatement into the IC4A's earlier this fall, on the same one year trial.

This decision most immediately affects the men's cross country team who will be competing in the New Englands on November 8 at Franklin Park in Boston.

Last year UMass was unable to compete at any of the New England competitions.

Jane Wolfson

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Volume CX, Issue 42 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Mass. Thursday, October 30, 1980

To decide Senate elections

SGA slates election referendum

By KEN ROSS
Collegian Staff

The referendum to voters on the question of the commuter elections will be held Monday, November 3, in front of the Hatch, it was announced in last night's Undergraduate Student Senate meeting.

The referendum will ask commuter voters whether or not they accept the results of the commuter election and both pro and con arguments on the referendum will be placed either on the ballot or outside the ballot box.

The idea of a referendum was adopted by the senate in last Wednesday's meeting and submitted to the Commuter Assembly for approval, as a means of deciding the validity of the election results which have been stalled since the election was held in the beginning of the month.

The Commuter Assembly, a body representing commuter voters at UMass, decided to accept the senate's proposal last Friday and go ahead with the referendum.

"The Senate has been up and down, back and forth, on this election and it's pissing me off," said Commuter Assembly Coordinator Jose Tolson. "I hope the commuters will vote to accept the election results, but if they don't, at least we'll know what the next step will be and we can go ahead on it."

The outcome of the referendum vote may also be nullified, at least temporarily, by the submission of a complaint to the Student Judiciary by one of the candidates not elected to the senate.

The complaint was submitted by Tony Gawienowski, who pointed to "political slogans" used on the ballot, where "PSA" appeared next to candidates' names who ran with the Progressive Student Alliance ticket, and two candidates who had "Democrat" appear next to their names. Gawienowski also pointed to the unconstitutionality of the senate's decision to overrule the senate Co-ordinating Committee's ruling to rule the elections invalid over the Jim "Bo" Floyd controversy.

"I've said from the beginning that there was something wrong with this election but no one would listen to me. I'd like to know if I was right," said Gawienowski.

The Student Judiciary will hear the complaint through a tribunal court within ten days, according to Student Judge Michael Cohen. Cohen also said that the tribunal's hearing the case would "render the referendum results moot" until a decision is reached.

State college contracts will not affect MSP

By GREG VOLPE
Collegian Staff

The recommended approval of a contract by state college union leaders Tuesday will not directly affect the course of current University of Massachusetts negotiations with its teachers, the Massachusetts Society of Professors president said yesterday.

Pete d'Errico, MSP president, said the signing of an agreement by state college faculty will have no "direct impact" on the present on-campus negotiations by MSP with the University administration.

The executive board of the Massachusetts State College Association Tuesday unanimously voted to approve the terms of a new three-year pact with the state. The contract, which will be voted on by teachers and librarians of the 10 state public colleges on Thursday, will replace the former contract which expired last June.

d'Errico, who stated the major issue for the MSP in its negotiations was that of "retrenchment" (or faculty layoffs), said the state faculty's approval of the contract on Thursday will not bring a "quicker settlement" to the UMass negotiations.

"The administration is using a very novel concept of bargaining. They snap at you when you ask for something."

—Bruce Laurie,
MSP vice-president

The MSP is presently looking for contract language in its negotiations with the administration, which will be favorable to them in preventing projected faculty layoffs, d'Errico said.

One of the major problems confronting the MSP in the negotiations is that the negotiators for the administration cannot agree among themselves about what to do in dealing with the union, d'Errico said.

"The people on the administration's negotiating table are not empowered to make decisions. As a result, it has become a very long, drawn-out procedure," said d'Errico.

Bruce Laurie, MSP vice president and a member of the bargaining team, said, "The administration is using a very novel concept of bargaining. They snap at you when you ask for something. They must come to understand that our negotiation is a give and take process by both parties involved."

Electrical workers, Eddy Baranowski and Dean Coalson begin the preliminary work on the long awaited traffic light at the corner of Triangle and East Pleasant Streets in Amherst center. Although the work has started it will not be complete for a few weeks yet.

(Staff photo by Kris Craig)

The Theater of the Unknown staged a skit yesterday in the Student Union Building lobby to try and convince people to vote "yes" onballot Question 7. The measure calls for a moratorium to the nuclear arms buildup. From left are Court Dorsey, Barbara Bennett, and Malcolm Quint. The other member of the group not in the photo is Jo Swanson. (Staff photo by Vince DeWitt)

Theater group dramatizes nuclear arms race question

By FRAN BASCHE
Collegian Staff

A small theater group stopped traffic through the Student Union Building yesterday afternoon as they dramatized their reasons to vote yes on a ballot question calling for a moratorium on the nuclear arms race.

"The Unknown Theater," founded last month by a cast of four, told students "the U.S. already has enough weapons to kill everyone in the world, 12 times" and urged them to participate in the country's first vote on the development, testing and development of nuclear weapons.

In western Massachusetts voters in Berkshire, Franklin and parts of Hamden and Hampshire counties can vote next Tuesday on Question 7, a non-binding resolution on the moratorium.

The group uses the nightmare of the character "Hardly Happening," to symbolize their version of a nuclear holocaust. Politicians, corporated executives, clergymen, and the media lull "hardly" to sleep over the issue of the arms race.

The four — Malcom Quint, Barbara Bennett, Court Dorsey and Jo Swanson — use common questions about the arms race such as whether the Soviets can be trusted, to illustrate their point.

"What should I do? asks one general, "invite the Russians over for a pajama party? The marines are all out building solar toasters," he says sarcastically to an imaginary Lenoid Brezhnev.

The play concludes when Hardly wakes from his nightmare realizing he can vote although the question isn't passed because the corporations and military strategists have all the power.

Quint said the group wrote the play because "people tend to glaze over this issue. We know it's there but it's too horrible to think about."

He said using a dramatic format, which appeals to viewer's emotions "provokes disagreement and debate. The first step is discussion."

Another question in 14 Boston and suburban districts asks support for a halt in defense spending, with the money used instead for creating jobs and better transportation and education.

The troupe also performed in physics Prof. Marvin Kalkstein's "Nuclear Arms Race and National Insecurity," class.

World and national news

Candidates continue to debate in campaign

CLEVELAND (AP)—President Carter and Ronald Reagan took up their campaign debate at a distance yesterday, back among the voters in parallel quests for the support of major swing states that will make one of them a winner and other a has-been on Election Day.

In the brief balance of their long White House contest, the two will be concentrating on much the same territory: the battleground states which carry the bulk of the electoral votes.

Carter, in Pittsburgh, forecast a top-to-bottom victory for the Democratic ticket next Tuesday, and accused Reagan of misstating his own positions in the debate.

Reagan, in Houston, said Carter "refused to defend his record, he couldn't defend it, so he changed the subject." He said Carter's economic policies "are leading us into the dark ages."

Both major party candidates claimed satisfaction and campaign headway out of their nationally broadcast debate in Cleveland Tuesday night. An Associated Press poll indicated both had grounds for encouragement.

It said Reagan and Carter gained just about equally in the eyes of the registered voters who viewed the 90-minute confrontation — their first and last.

The survey also said the television audience leaned Reagan's way before the debate began. In the judgment of those viewers, Reagan did the better job as a debater; 46 percent saw it that way, 34 percent said Carter did best.

But neither Reagan nor Carter carved significantly into the support of the other. The debate, it appeared, firmed opinions about the two candidates, but did not markedly change them. Their post-debate gains came largely among people who had been undecided, with a handful of registered voters who had sided with independent John B. Anderson switching to one of the major party contenders.

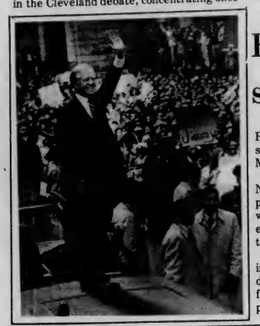
Anderson, campaigning in Philadelphia, said the debate created the perception that the contest is now a two-man affair, between Carter and Reagan. Anderson, who didn't make the Cleveland debate team, has staked his third-man campaign against exactly that view. He said he would keep "trying very hard to remedy that," and insisted that he isn't out of the running.

Carter was campaigning in Pittsburgh, Rochester, N.Y.; Newark, then Philadelphia. Pennsylvania and New Jersey are on the list of big, tossup states, crucial to the outcome of Tuesday's election. Reagan will be working in both before the week is out.

The Republican nominee went straight to Texas, another swing state, to campaign in Houston, Ft. Worth and Dallas. Carter will be hunting Texas votes on Saturday.

"We'll whip the Republicans from the courthouse all the way to the White House," the president said in Pittsburgh. Then he accused Reagan of misstatements in the Cleveland debate, concentrating once again on nuclear weapons policy, which he called "the most important single issue in this campaign . . ."

The president quoted Reagan once again as saying last winter that the spread of nuclear weapons was not America's business, and challenged his rival's disavowal of that statement.



Ex-GOP chair speaks tonight

Mary Crisp, former chairperson of the Republican National Committee will be speaking at the University of Massachusetts at 6:30 tonight.

Crisp, who is now Chairperson of the National Unity Campaign for Independent presidential candidate John B. Anderson, will speak in Hasbrouk Labs room 20. She is expected to give a short presentation and then entertain questions from the audience.

Crisp resigned as chair of the committee in protest against the Republican party for dropping the Equal Rights Ammendment from the platform at the convention this past summer.

Italian Gianni Marcolla, 26, hangs onto the back of a Lamborghini 4000cc, 12 cylinder sports car while wearing roller skates at the Monza race track Tuesday. The car reached a top speed of 103,347 miles per hour, carrying Marcolla to a new Italian record for speed roller skating. (AP Laserphoto)

Digest

Associated Press

Nixon testifies that FBI break-ins had his consent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon testified in court yesterday that the director of the FBI had direct authority from the president to conduct warrantless break-ins in foreign intelligence cases that were important to national security.

Testifying at the trial of two former FBI officials accused of illegally authorizing break-ins, Nixon said, "It was my understanding that in matters of foreign intelligence the line went directly from the president to Mr. (J. Edgar) Hoover."

Later, Nixon said that same authority was in effect in 1972 and 1973 when L. Patrick Gray III was acting director of the FBI and warrantless searches were conducted at residences of friends and relatives of radical Weather Underground fugitives.

Khomeini suffers from colon cancer, thought to be fatal

SHREVEPORT, La. — Iranian religious leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini "has cancer of the colon" and is "not going to last long," an aide to President Carter said in an interview published yesterday.

The remarks by Frank Moore, head of Carter's congressional liaison staff, were published in an interview in the Shreveport Journal conducted Tuesday while Moore was campaigning for Carter in Louisiana.

In Washington, the State Department's Iran working group declined comment and White House spokesmen were not immediately available.

There have been public reports that Khomeini is ill but the specific ailment has never been identified publicly.

Moore's statement on cancer came during a discussion with newspaper editors about the United States' concern for safeguarding the internal security of Iran.

"It is not in our best interest in the short range or in the long range to see Iran disassembled ... we need to see it stabilized. Khomeini has cancer of the colon ... he's not going to last long," Moore said.

Moore said the administration did not consider it likely that Iran would release the 52 American hostages before next Tuesday's election.

Subscription Rates

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 333 220) is published daily Monday through Friday excluding vacations, exam periods, or holidays, for $15 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

"BARDWELL HAS THE EXPERIENCE IN COUNTY GOVERNMENT!"

VOTE-NOV 4th AND HELP ELECT

CORY BARDWELL

WE NEED THIS MAN

HAMPSHIRE COUNTY COMMISSIONER

PAID FOR BY COMMITTEE TO ELECT A. CORY BARDWELL

CAMPUS TRAVEL CENTER

$AVE 30 - 50%

By Booking By November 1st

Seats Limited

Campus Travel Center

Campus Center Univ. of Mass

Amherst, Mass 545-0500

ABSENTEE VOTING

BE COUNTED!

VOTE

ABSENTEE BALLOTS FOR THE 1980 FEDERAL ELECTIONS WILL BE NOTARIZED IN THE MEMORIAL HALL LOBBY ON THE FOLLOWING DATES

Wednesday	October 22, 1980	9 AM - 5 PM
Thursday	October 23, 1980	9 AM - 5 PM
Friday	October 24, 1980	9 AM - 4 PM
Monday	October 27, 1980	9 AM - 5 PM
Tuesday	October 28, 1980	9 AM - 5 PM
Wednesday	October 29, 1980	9 AM - 5 PM
Thursday	October 30, 1980	9 AM - 5 PM
Friday	October 31, 1980	9 AM - 4 PM
Monday	November 3, 1980	9 AM - 4 PM

Sponsored by The Division of Student Services, The Office of Alumni Affairs, The Dean of Students Office

BARSELOTTIS

Downtown Amherst

THURSDAY SPECIAL

$1.00 Off on any name Pitcher of Beer

with this coupon

Don't forget our Friday Happy Hour with Free Whole Wheat Pizza

Halloween Ball

Gay Masked Dance

9pm, Thurs. 30 October 1980

Red Barn, Hampshire

$2 admission

Sponsored by People's Gay Alliance & Gay Men of Hampshire College

State representative, Jim Collins, stops to answer questions from Larry Dodik and Tim Nagle during his re-election campaign visit to Gorman Dormitory last night. (Staff photo by Kris Craig)

Senate opposes planned tuition and fee increase

By KEN ROSS
Collegian Staff

The Undergraduate Student Senate last night focused concern on proposed tuition and fee increases proposed for the next fiscal year, and voted to endorse a letter aimed at Chancellor Henry Koffler stating their opposition to what they termed "unnecessary increases."

The letter, which they intend to run in the Collegian on November 6, advocates "no tuition increases, exploration to alternatives to fee increases, and the pressing for increased financial aid."

The proposed increases could amount to as much as $600 on undergraduate student bills, with $75 intended for a tuition increase, and as much as $540 proposed for fee increases.

The $75 tuition increase was suggested in a memo from President David Knapp to Chancellor Koffler on October 16. Koffler also said that he "did not think the increase unreasonable."

The figures on the proposed fee increases were compiled by the senate Rents and Fees Committee, and were proposed by the University Trust Fund managers.

"This is something that has been creeping up on us over the past six years," said Senator Allen Compagnon in addressing the senate.

"The state would like to pass these increases on to the students. The supreme court says that the public has a right to public education. We all have a right to affordable higher education. I think it's time we start exercising our rights."

SGA co-President Richard LaVoice presented the Senate with proposed federal cuts in financial aid for the upcoming academic year.

"Basically, all federal financial aid for the upcoming academic year will be decided by Nov. 17. Already the house has recommended a $100 million reduction in National Direct Student Loans. I think low income people are being squeezed out of UMass and that really concerns me," said LaVoice.

LaVoice also proposed that transportation be provided to the November 19 Board of Trustees Budget and Finance Committee meeting to protest the proposed tuition and fee increases that the Committee will decide.

The senate also heard two administrators from the UMass police department speak on police measures to be used for the upcoming Halloween weekend. The administrators said patrols would be placed in both academic and residential areas on campus, and will be present Friday through Saturday evening to also accomodate for the UMass football game.

Safety problems divide physicists on nuclear issue

Energy future debate

By CATHERINE CLABBY
Collegian Staff

Safety was the key issue last night at Mahar Auditorium when anti-nuclear physicist Michio Kaku and University of Massachusetts Physics Professor Gerald Peterson squared off on the viability of nuclear power.

Both men agreed that nuclear power is an unfinished technology and could be unsafe. Kaku, an assistant professor at New York City College, said we need not take the risks of developing an unsafe nuclear industry where Peterson said we have no choice.

Peterson pointed to the present turmoil in the oil producing Mid-East as a defense for the nuclear industry.

"We are vulnerable to whatever happens in the Mid-East. Fifty percent of Massachusetts' oil comes from there," Peterson said. "Decreasing our dependence on that region will reduce the tensions and will promote peace."

Labeling nuclear power an "unforgiving and unnecessary technology" Kaku said nuclear power can never replace the oil the United States uses in its automobiles and industrial complexes.

Peterson said stopping the development of the nuclear industry in the United States would cripple the industrial development of the Third World Nations.

"Third World countries need oil. The United States uses too much," he said.

Michio Kaku debates his anti-nuclear position in last night's debate. He is shown here holding up a newspaper depicting an "accidental" nuclear bomb dropping in South Carolina by the United States. (Staff photo by Nancy Freedman)

Kaku said conversion to nuclear power is too expensive, in terms of its potential dangers and the present cost of operating a nuclear plant.

"We are thirty years into a nuclear age and we still do not have the technology to control it," he said.

Peterson said he is against nuclear weapons and their construction, but sees the weapons and nuclear power industries as two separate entities.

"A nuclear plant can not explode like a nuclear weapon," he said. "Let's get rid of nuclear weapons and burn them in nuclear power plants."

Kaku said the construction of both are intertwined as are the interests of those who construct them.

"There is a link," Kaku said. "Their construction uses the same mines, the same milling processes and the same method of waste disposal."

Peterson said that although there are gaps in scientists' ability to dispose of nuclear wastes, nuclear power remains the nation's only energy alternative.

"Nuclear power is unsafe but it is the most safe energy source we have," he said. "The emissions the burning of coal produces are more harmful than the legal level of emissions produced by a nuclear power plant."

Both Peterson and Kaku endorsed question 7 ren- dum calling for the voluntary moratorium on t ue- tion of nuclear arms. Only Kaku endorsed q n 8 which calls for a moratorium on the nuclear power, which was sponsored by MassPIRG, who sponsored the del te.

Votes of Massachusetts reps published by SCERA

By STEVE DENSMORE
Collegian Staff

A document entitled "Key Roll Call Votes of U.S. Representatives From Massachusetts" which was compiled by the public policy staff of the Student Center for Educational Research and Advocacy (SCERA) will be distributed today throughout campus and to outside news agencies.

The document keys on 81 of the "more important" roll call votes taken during the 1979-80 session of the 96th Congress, staff supervisor Ken Mosakowski said last night. He said the compilation covers a wide range of issues including important economic material which he feels is too often ignored by the public.

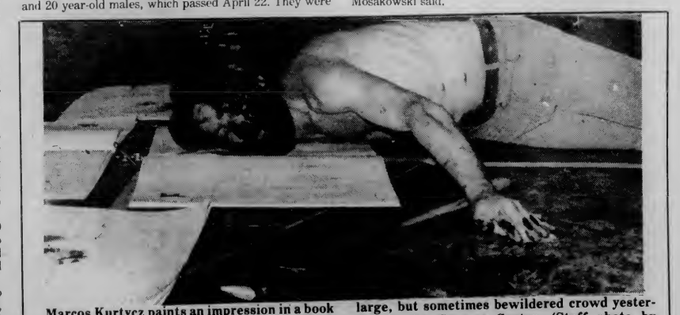
In the document, each amendment or resolution is underlined with a summary description underneath. The description gives the sponsor, voting results, and a summary of opponents' and proponents' arguments on each bill. The document also includes a reference section which shows how the 12 U.S. Representatives from Massachusetts voted on each issue.

Mosakowski said the public policy staff spent over 100 hours researching the document, which was meant to serve as a guide to help Massachusetts voters understand their incumbents' historical stance on important national issues before the November 4th elections.

For example, the compilation shows that Rep. Silvio Conte, Republican from the 1st Congressional District, which includes Amherst, voted in favor of an amendment "prohibiting the use of Medicaid payments for abortions" which the House passed last December 6. Of the 12 representatives, only Rep. Robert Drinan, 4th District; James Shannon, 5th District; and Gerry Studds, 12th District; voted against the amendment.

Only two representatives from Massachusetts voted in favor of an amendment calling for draft registration of 19 and 20 year-old males, which passed April 22. They were Rep. Edward Boland, 2nd District, and Rep. John Joseph Moakley, 9th District.

Approximately 300 copies of the compilation will be distributed to dormitories, public places on campus and to the government documents section of the library, Mosakowski said.



Marcos Kurtycz paints an impression in a book with his face during a performance of "A Ritual of Book/Print" which he performed in front of a large, but sometimes bewildered crowd yesterday in the Campus Center. (Staff photo by Cheryl Senter)

Woman rabbi discards stereotypes; puts bible in new light

[redacted] LILLIAN SINGER
[redacted]an Staff

Differentiating from the stereotypical Hebrew rabbi clad in black robe and flowing beard, Rabbi Lynn Gottlieb, who performed at Mount Holyoke College last night, proved such conventional conceptions are no longer valid.

Telling biblical stories from her own feminist perspective, Gottlieb portrays the context of the old testament as she sees it and does so through dance, music and mime. Translating the words of the bible into her own narration, she creates music which represents ancient Jewish chanting as well as the songs of the modern woman.

Dissenting from the conservatism of a seating arrangement, Gottlieb's congregation for the evening joined her in a circle on the floor. She created a service which told of two stories, both of her own adaptation. The creation of Adam, Lillith and Eve was told through the dexterity of the rabbi to use her hands, as well as her voice, to portray the teachings of the bible.

Candles burned as they sat on a cloth of blue velvet, shining light upon the other various items on the setting.

"This is sort of like my little portable tent," said Gottlieb. "I pick it up and carry it with me where ever I travel."

After her version of the creation of the first man, the ceremony was then opened to the "congregation" for questioning. Her answers were given, as was the entire presentation, through her own music and dance.

In addition to her exploratory work in creating a new Jewish Theater, Gottlieb serves as a rabbi to a deaf congregation in New York City where her creation of the bible through mime is extensively demonstrated. Sometime this year, the rabbi will form her own congregation where the practices of dancing, mime, music and feminism will actively continue.

Join the Collegian Staff

Concon Presents
A SURF PARTY
SATURDAY NOVEMBER 1st
8:00 P.M.
at the POLISH HOME PEARL ST. NORTHAMPTON
featuring: THE PAPER DOLLS
D.J.s RECORDS
TICKETS: $2.50 AVAILABLE at MAIN STREET RECORDS HAMP and FOR THE RECORD AMHERST
JUST THINK! ANNETTE / GIDGET / FRANKIE / THE BEACH BOYS
SWIMSUITS RECOMMENDED!
PROOF OF AGE REQUIRED

SUNSPOT
The year-round tan.
Tan in December? Tan in March? Without Florida or Mexico or Bermuda? Sure. With a SunSpot Tan, you're tan year-round. After a six-session, two-week foundation program, a residual once-a-week visit keeps you tan all the time. (The over-all year's tan costs just 39¢ a day!)
All SunSpot tanning programs are individualized by a trained technician so they're safer than the real sun. Our tanning booths have a controlled environment so you get a perfect tan with no sunburn worries. For most people, one minute with us is like an hour in the sun. So keeping attractively tan takes just a little while each week.
The SunSpot Amherst Carriage Shops 549-1499
39¢ a day*.
—based on a full year's tanning program

whole wheat PIZZA FACTORY
363 Main Street, Amherst, Mass. 01002, 256-8587
143 Main Street, Florence, Mass. 01060, 584-7583
50c off any large pizza
Coke 10c
Thursday Oct. 30 Only
256-8587 free delivery

HALLOWEEN
Blood
Clown Kits
False Nails & Lashes
Hair Coloring Spray
Eye Liners
Body Make-Up
Clown White
Bald Pates
75c to $8.00
COLLEGE DRUG
4 Main St. Amherst 253-2523

FRESH SEA FOODS
MASSE'S FISH MARKET, INC.
SPECIAL OF THE WEEK: Alaskan King Crab Legs 4.49/lb.
Haddock — FRESH FISH — Steamers
Scrod, Salmon, Sword Fish, Sole, Clams, Lobsters,
MARKET HOURS: Tues. 1 PM-4:30 PM; Wed. 9 AM-6 PM; Thurs. 9 AM-6 PM; Fri. 9 AM-7 PM; Sat. 9 AM-4:30 PM;
FRIED FISH, SCALLOPS, CLAMS sold during the following hours: Wed. 10 AM-5:30 PM; Thurs. 10 AM-5:30 PM; Fri. 10 AM-6:30 PM; Sat. 10 AM-2 PM
High Protein, All Natural
170 N. Pleasant St. Amherst, Mass.

Engineers: EE/ME/Software Development
Find out why Kearfott's rarefied environment is for you
We'll be on your campus Thursday, November 13
You'll hear all about some of the most sophisticated advances in the aerospace industry in which Kearfott has played an important role . . . like the full-scale inertial navigation system program for the F-16 lightweight fighter . . . an inertial measurement unit and multiplexing equipment for the Space Shuttle orbiter . . . MRAALS, the most modern self-contained scanning beam system for landing all types of aircraft. . . . The list is virtually endless.
If you're looking for a rarefied environment to try your wings . . . THINK KEARFOTT. See your Placement Office for our company profile and to sign up for a one-on-one interview.
Kearfott
a division of The SINGER Company
An equal opportunity employer, m/f, who creates opportunities

Club Listings

Ambrosia Cafe, Boltwood Walk, Amherst—Happy Hour 4-6 p.m. Mon.-Fri.; Oct. 30, Roger Salloom, $1; Nov. 5, Preston Reed.

Barselotti's, North Pleasant St., Amherst—Drinks served daily.

Carbur's, Elmwood Shops, Rte. 9, Hadley—Happy Hour Mon.-Fri. 4-6 p.m., 9-11. Double drinks and cheese and crackers during all Happy Hours and chicken wings daily 4-6.

Flat Street Club, Brattleboro, Vt.—Oct. 30, 3rd annual Halloween Costume Party, $2; Oct. 31 & Nov. 1, The Gators, $2; Nov. 2, disco, no cover.

The Hatch, Student Union, UMass—Happy Hour Mon.-St. 3-6 p.m.; Rock 'n' Reggae disco every Tues. with Jim McDee of WMUA; Crazy George's Happy Hour with 50's and 60's rock and trivia every Fri.; No acts this weekend.

Hungry-U, 55 University Dr., Amherst—Thurs. nights 5-midnight, pitchers of beer half price with purchase of large pizza.

Iron Horse Coffeehouse, 20 Center St., Northampton—Oct. 30, Jan Dzioba; Oct. 31, Halloween Costume Party, with FX, $2; Nov. 1, Eric Thompson & Sue Rothschild; Nov. 2, Billings Gap.

Mike's Westview Cafe, Sunderland Rd., Amherst—Thurs. is Penny Nite, every third drink; Fri., smorgasbord; Happy Hour every day 4-6 p.m.

Plumbley's, 30 Boltwood Walk, Amherst.

The Pub, 15 East Pleasant St., Amherst—Tues. 2 for 1 nite; Wed. Pub Mug Nite w/Jim Plunkett; Fri. & Sat., disco; Sun., oldies.

Poor Richard's, 10 Belchertown Rd., Amherst—Disco, drinks nightly.

QR, Rte. 9, Hadley—Oct. 31, Martian Highway, cover; Nov. 1, N.Y. Style Disco.

Rusty Nail, Rte. 47, Sunderland—Oct. 30, The Cardiac Kids, no cover; Oct. 31, The Cardiac Kids, $1. $100 prize for best costume; Nov. 1, The Shades, $2; Nov. 2, Justin, 2 for 1 nite, no cover.

"The Next Millenium: Unlearning the 20th Century," is a conference co-sponsored by the World Future Society's education section and the Future Studies Program at the School of Education at UMass. The conference will be held Nov. 6,7, and 8 in the Campus Center and will focus on the present and future roles of education as they relate to issues of caste, socio-economic class in America, and the management of growth and decline.

There will be over 130 presentations.

A limited number of free tickets for the conference will be available to UMass students with a valid ID on a first-come, first-serve basis on Friday and Monday in room 124 School of Education building from Cathy Campbell.

THE GREAT-ES-SKATE
DOWNTOWN AMHERST / 256-6004 (across from the fire station)
SKATE SALES & RENTALS
Indoor & Outdoor Skating Specialists
Boots, Plates, Wheels & Bearings in all price ranges.
GROUP RATES & PARTIES OPEN SEVEN DAYS A WEEK...10-5

Spirit Haus
The full-line liquor store that's close and has convenient parking.
CHECK OUR WEEKLY SPECIALS ON BEERS, LIQUORS AND WINE.
Largest selection of wines in Amherst; friendly, knowledgeable staff.
KEGS - ICE - CUPS - SNACKS
338 College Street. Open till 11 p.m.
Telephone 253-5384

SALE
Friday & Saturday
BARGAINS and TREATS
$20.00 sale rack
HALLOWEEN
the SHOE BIN
no coupons on sale items
187 n. pleasant st., amherst

Sunday November 2
Campus Center Auditorium
5, 7, 9, and 11pm
Adm.50¢
They're not lost in space... they're loose!
DARK STAR
The Mission of the Strangest Generation

SALE!
ONE DAY ONLY... SATURDAY, NOV. 1
100% COTTON SHIRTS
if perfect... 12-18.00
almost perfect... 2.95
3 for 7.95
FACES
A Store-full of Ideas
Downtown Amherst /Open 10-6, Mon.-Sat.

Branagan's
food&spirits
Now appearing
Tom McClung
at the piano
RT 9 At University Drive, Amherst

the Hungry U Restaurant
the ideal spot for a relaxing meal
Thursday Night Pizza Special
Half Price Pitcher of Beer
with purchase of any large pizza
55 University Drive
Amherst
549-5713

ACADEMY of MUSIC
Northampton, Mass.
- Double Feature -
Now, Ends Tuesday
Shown at 9:00
Starring Susannah Fowles
PG
The Getting of Wisdom
Plus at 7:00
Peter Weir's
Classic
"PICNIC AT HANGING ROCK"
AT THE GATES OF SMITH COLLEGE

upstairs...
the BEST for women
SIENNA
FINE CLOTHING
243 Main Street, Northampton 586-6457

live wire
by Jim Moran

...I HEARD IT THROUGH THE GRAPEVINE—No, Gladys Knight & the Pips aren't going to be gigging around here in the forseeable future, but the juice on the musical current this week is that two very popular new wave acts might be coming to this area real soon. Siousie & the Banshees and The Buzzcocks have been mentioned for shows either locally or at Stage West in Hartford. The former, with their Patti Smith clone lead singer are perhaps best known for their hit "Hong Kong Garden," the latter for their two albums, Singles Going Steady and Different Kind of Tension. Stay tuned for further details.

...IN THE GROOVES—A load of new vinyl is on the market now, among which are The Psychedelic Furs self-titled first LP, on Columbia; More Specials by the English Ska group, on Chrysalis, with the cuts "Enjoy Yourself" and "Rat Race" getting considerable airplay on FM outlets; local fav NRBQ's Tiddly Winks on the Rounder label; the once-shunned-now-respectable disco queen Donna Summer with her new album The Wanderer on Geffen Records (a new label, read on) and the Jim Carroll Band's Catholic Boy on Atco (to be reviewed next week).

BLONDE ON BLONDIE—Debbie Harry and the Hennas have a new one in the works (due out by December), called Auto America on Chrysalis. The planned "hit" for the charts is "The Tide is High," which is due for radio airplay by November 17...

ARTISTS ONLY—Industry giant David Geffen has a new pet project—his own record label, according to the recent edition of Rolling Stone. Among the biggies already signed are: Donna Summer, John Lennon and Yoko Ono, Elton John, and an as-yet-to-be-formed band featuring Yes keyboardist Rick Wakeman and Carl Palmer of Emerson, Lake and notoriety...Speaking of John and Yoko, their first LP in six years, Double Fantasy, is due out next month, with the cut "(Just Like) Starting Over" being touted as the single play. This LP will determine the ex-Beatle's status as either "comeback of the year" or "all-washed-up"...

Continue on next page

ATTENTION
Departmental Graduate Student Organizations

The Graduate Student Senate is accepting applications for REVENUE SHARING FUNDS from Departments who have elected their senators.

For more information and to pick up your application forms please contact Michael Pazyra, GSS Treasurer, 919 Campus Center 545-2896.

Deadline is November 21

Northampton Days are Here!
Reach 25,000 people every Thursday at a special discount rate!
Call the Collegian for more details
545-3500

HARLOW LUGGAGE
All Leather Handbags from ☐ Cobblers Classic ☐ Bell ☐ Cocciola
☐ Frye ☐ Bugatti ☐ Tumi
the little leather store with a whole lot more 157 Main St. Northampton, Mass.

NORTHAMPTON DAYS

Peloton's Traditional XC Ski Sale
First 50 people purchasing Elan RBW outfit get 50% off! Reg. $189.00 Special $94.50
Nov. 1st thru Nov. 8th

Outfits
Asnes Marka Outfit	$79.95
Edsbyn Childrens (to 150 cm) Waxless	55.95
Edsbyn Junior (to 170 cm) waxless	63.95
Haugen Waxless	99.95
Elan RBW	112.95
Bonna New Mica Waxless	115.95

All outfits include skis, poles, boots, and bindings. Free mounting and base preparation.

A la carte

Skis	30% off	Boots	20% off
Poles and Bindings	10% off
XC Accessories	10% off	XC Clothing	25% off
Hats & Gloves	20% off	Winter Clothing	50% off

Special Closeout Rack on Skis — Save up to 80% of the original price.

1 E. Pleasant St. Amherst 549-6904
PELOTON
15 State St., Northampton 584-1016

ROOTIE KAZOOTIE'S
Bar/Restaurant
"Halloween Party"
Friday, Oct. 31
Prizes
Rootie Kazooties Look Alike Contest
6-8 ladies eat & drink for ½ price!
8-10 men eat & drink for ½ price!
Reverse Margueritas & Rum Smoothies $1.00
Thornes Market, Northampton 586-8878
(next to Steve Herrells Ice Cream)

live wire
by Jim Moran

...YOU CAN'T ALWAYS GET WHAT YOU WANT—But you shouldn't have too many problems with two 45s on Billboard's Top 100. Although the Stones' "Emotional Rescue" has dropped to #65 from #61 this week, after 19 weeks on the charts, their second take from the album, "She's So Cold" b/w "Send It to Me" is going up (#39 last week, #32 now) after just five weeks on the list. A bit predictable, 'idn't it?

...BYE, BYE JOHNNY?—Ex-New York Dolls guitarist Johnny Thunders, whose last band Gang War just dissolved a month ago, but has been known to still do occasional gigs in the Big Apple, is in quite a state of affairs. When his first solo album, So Alone (on Real Records) wasn't distributed by Warner Brothers as an American release, it appeared Thunders and ex-MC5er Wayne Kramer also in Gang War would try other labels for the "more-than-two-albums-worth" of material in the can. Now, however, Thunders' health problem has become the obstacle. Recently, Thunders (known for his stage antics) beat up one of his own roadies at a N.Y. gig. His planned gig at Max's Kansas City this weekend was just cancelled, and everyone concerned seems to be needling Johnny about needling himself. A source from Max's tells me the club's record label has plans for a release of Thunders' So Alone revue, but the LP has yet to be pressed. It's too bad this talented delinquent can't get his act together. Say a prayer.

SCARY MONSTERS—Some of the bands playing 'round here on this Halloween weekend...At Rahar's on Friday, check out The Elevators. The same night, at the QR in Hadley, it's Grateful Deadettes, Martian Highway. At the Hatch this weekend don't miss .
And finally, for all you Springsteen fans, you have two chances to check out Bruce's old acquaintances. Southside Johnny and the Asbury Jukes will be at Stage West in Hartford tonight and at the Fine Arts Center on Sunday evening. Later!

NECKWEAR
in imported wools, silks, leathers, and more
SIENNA
FINE CLOTHING
243 Main Street, Northampton 586-6457

QR PRESENTS
Halloween October 31st
Martian Highway
Costume party
9-2 a.m. cover charge
Saturday Nov. 1st
DISCO 9-2 a.m.
800 sq. ft. dance floor
area's largest disco
bonus ticket for free drink 8-10 pm cover charge
QUONSET 253-9214
(off I-91 exit 19) Rte. 9, Hadley, Ma.
18 & 19 yrs. old welcome

STILL BUYING AT HIGHEST CA$H PRICE$
CLASS RINGS
Gold & Silver Jewelry
See me when you Sell
DANIEL SMITH
Permanently located between Fotomat and Logos
25 North Pleasant St.
Amherst
256-0710
Monday thru Saturday
10 AM to 6 PM
MEMBER AMHERST CHAMBER OF COMMERCE LICENSED BY TOWN OF AMHERST AND STATE OF MASS.

PSYCHOTHERAPY:
Individuals, couples, families. Sliding fee scale.
Psychological Services Center
545-0041

MIDNIGHT MADNESS SALE
FRIDAY, OCTOBER 31st, 1980
9:30 a.m.-8:00 p.m. 25% off
8:00 p.m.-9:00 p.m. 30% off
9:00 p.m.-10:00 p.m. 35% off
10:00 p.m.-11:00 p.m. 40% off
11:00 p.m.-Midnight 45% off
At Midnight
At logos book store
50% off!
* Special BONUS for costume-wearers!
33 Main St. Northampton
586-4112

Carlo of Naples foods of Italy
Now serving wine and beer.
45 State Street, Northampton, Mass. 01060, 584-9722

Thursday
LIVE ENTERTAINMENT
with
TWO WAY STREET
October 16th, 30th
9 til 1
2.00 cover charge
THE PUB
15 East Pleasant St.
AMHERST

UMASS Ski Club
BUSH BLITZ WEEK
Sugarbush Ski Week
Hotel $159 Cond $144
Jan 25 - 30
Deposits taken at table on CC Concourse Oct 27-31
Sign-Up for FREE RAFFLE
Prize: Free Sugarbush Week
Drop coupon off at table
COUPON
Name _____
Address _____
Phone _____

Woolrich Limited Special Sale

THE FAMOUS LIGHTWEIGHT NYLON LINED MOUNTAIN PARKA OF WINDPROOF WATER REPELLENT 60/40 RAMAR CLOTH. FULLY CUT FOR WEAR OVER DOWN PARKA OR VEST.
NOW FOR A LIMITED TIME WE HAVE A SELECT GROUP OF THESE EXCEPTIONAL PARKAS AVAILABLE IN SIZES EXTRA SMALL THROUGH LARGE. HURRY, COLORS AND QUANTITIES LIMITED.
Regularly $57.50 NOW $45.00
House of Walsh, Inc.

Editorial/Opinion

Editorials

Tuition increase

In a memo to the Chancellors of the three state university campuses, University President David Knapp requested they review and respond to a tuition increase of $75.

What is not noted in Knapp's letter, however, is that this increase comes on top of a $225 increase that was approved by the Board of Trustees in May 1979.

According to Knapp, the decision to increase tuition was based on a 13.3 percent increase in disposable personal income (income left after taxes) in the state which, because of the "uncertainties regarding financial aid," was adjusted to a ten percent increase in tuition.

Whereas disposable income may have increased by 13.3 percent, the Consumer Price Index (an indicator of inflation) has also risen by at least 11.3 percent, so that real disposable income has risen by a maximum of two percent.

Chancellor Koffler has stated he feels the increase, "is not unreasonable," and that if hikes are not made the state legislature might, "arbitrarily cut the school's budget." What Koffler seems to have forgotten is that the state legislature has been consistently cutting the budget despite the already approved tuition hikes.

And if the tuition were not burden enough, Knapp stated in his memo that students should not expect to offset tuition increases with increased financial aid, a situation Koffler has agreed will create an, "extra hardship to lower income students"—the very students institutions like UMass were expressly created to benefit.

Tuition is not the only cost that is going up. Fees are expected to increase $400 by fall 1980. And this is not the end. The last paragraph of Knapp's letter to the chancellors states that UMass can expect, "a tuition level for academic year 1982-1983 which approaches $1000."

Yet even as we pay more we receive less. Tuition monies from the University go into a general fund and are not necessarily put back into the University. Increases, therefore, in those funds do not imply a reciprocal increase in the school's budget. In fact, the opposite has been true. In the past few years the UMass budget has been cut or, at best, kept constant.

The events of the last few years have shown that public higher education has lost the priority it once held in the legislature. Because of the inability of the administration to convince the legislature of the crucial value of UMass to the Commonwealth, students are beginning to realize that if we wish to reinstate public higher education as a priority, then we must do it ourselves.

Proposition 2½

Massachusetts is in drastic need of tax reform on two counts. First, the Commonwealth's citizens pay more in state and local taxes than almost any citizenry in the nation. Second, the regressiveness of state and local taxes brings about intolerable inequities in the distribution of the tax burden between the private and corporate sectors.

Proposition 2½, the Massachusetts version of California's disasterous Proposition 13, has been presented as the answer to the taxpayer's cries for needed tax relief. It is not.

The idea behind the proposal, Question 2 on this November's ballot, is to reduce local property taxes to 2½ percent of a property's assessed value, thus lowering that portion of the taxpayer's tax bill without affecting state and federal income tax demands.

But local tax revenues come primarily from local property taxes, so that town and city funded services —such as education, fire protection, policy protection—will have to be cut to match shrunken revenues. To prevent the diminishing of vital services to dangerously deficient levels, 2½'s backers propose eliminating $700 million in "wasted" state spending on welfare and higher education.

When you go to the polls this Tuesday, consider the consequences this tax reform will have, if implemented, on the funding and, ultimately, the quality of education available to you at this university. A more effective and intelligent tax reform proposal is needed. The issue will come up every year, and the problem of tax relief will be resolved. We urge you to wait until then. Vote NO on Question 2.

Anderson has seen the light

With all the worry about Ronald Reagan, people are forgetting to think rationally about the election. Pollsters are trying to dictate the outcome of the election, Jimmy Carter's record has been ignored, people are forgetting about the electoral college process and John Anderson has been the subject of inaccurate charges leveled by groups including the Democratic National Committee, which has unsuccessfully spent millions of dollars to keep John Anderson off the ballot on all fifty states.

Don't let Lou Harris, George Gallup and other pollsters decide who you vote for in this election. Make the decision yourselves. If everyone that wanted to vote for John Anderson did so, he would win. A vote for John Anderson is not a vote for Reagan. If the reader is a believer in polls, he or she should look at the recent ABC News Harris survey that shows Anderson drawing votes equally from Carter and Reagan.

Francis Moore

James Garrity was absolutely right in saying that Jimmy Carter's record speaks for itself, but not in the positive fashion mentioned. Isn't it ironic that the President who pardoned all Vietnam draft evaders in 1977 would be the same one to start up a peacetime draft registration program in 1980? After pledging to work for nuclear disarmament in 1976, Jimmy Carter in 1980 abandoned SALT II and pushed heavily for the MX missile program. If John Anderson can be held accountable for actions taken twenty years ago, Jimmy Carter must also be held accountable for actions he took in 1972.

At the 1972 Democratic National Convention, Jimmy Carter pushed heavily for the Democrats to support Richard Nixon's Vietnam war policies. This is fact and it can be verified by reading any written record on the 1972 Democratic Convention. With his foreign policy failures, his lack of leadership, his domestic policy failures, and all his actions totally motivated by political needs, I claim that four more years of Jimmy Carter would be equally as bad as four years of Ronald Reagan.

Now let me answer to some false charges leveled against John Anderson on this campus. To Joel Weissman and Arvid Muller of the Citizen's Party, John Anderson is no friend of the Oil Companies. Mobil and Exxon are probably not thrilled about John Anderson's plan for a fifty-cent a gallon tax on gasoline.

Anderson, unlike Carter and Reagan, is in favor of Medicaid funding of abortions.

John Anderson has not flipflopped on the issues. As early as 1964, he cast the deciding vote on the Rules committee for the Open Housing Act and since then he has supported every piece of Civil Rights legislation to come before Congress. Anderson has supported gun control legislation since 1968.

He does not claim to be a liberal. John Anderson is the only candidate openly advocating the unpopular view that Americans will have to make sacrifices now in order to plan for the future. Anderson is the only one of the major candidates that doesn't support an election year tax cut. He is opposed to both the MX missile and the B1 bomber.

John Anderson has changed his mind on some issues. He was supportive of nuclear power until the Three Mile Island accident. Anderson being the open-minded man that he is, has seen the need to follow the Kemmeny Commission recommendations. Anderson is a man who is willing to sacrifice pride for principle. There are few politicians that are willing to admit past mistakes.

Let's look at the election process. A vote doesn't count nationwide. It only counts in-state. The popular vote doesn't determine who the next President will be. Electoral votes are what count. Jimmy Carter won 279 electoral votes in 1976. That was only nine more than the number needed to win the presidency. For those hardcore realists that feel Anderson can't win, here is another reason to vote for him. If Anderson can get enough votes, he can deny an electoral college majority to either Carter or Reagan. This hasn't happened since 1824. The election would then be decided in the House of Representatives. This would constitute a real test of the system.

Whether the members of the Citizen's Party like the man or not, John Anderson has opened up the way for the Citizen's Party in 1984. When the question of ballot access comes up four years from now, the Citizen's Party will use all of Anderson's ballot victories to their own advantage. He has laid the foundation for another party.

As far as this writer is concerned, we have a Republican, a closet Republican and an ex-Republican from which to choose our next President. I'm voting for the ex-Republican that saw the light.

Francis Moore, UMass Anderson campaign coordinator

Looking after their sloth

Jogging traffic is so rough on campus that I've had to invest in a pair of side-view mirrors which I now carry in each hand. I had crashed into so many joggers that my friends and insurance agent would quip that I must have had a magnet in me that attracted them to me. However, the truth is that I go out of my way to confront these sorts.

I figure that if I can get just a couple each day to stop and talk to me then perhaps they won't jog quite as much and that will be a couple less who look so disgustingly healthy. Each Bruce Jenner I convince to blossom into a Meatloaf is another point added to my favorite shares of stock, Seth Jacobson, Inc. So I've become a one-man vigilante squad, luring slim jims from their states of perfect fitness into what I hope will be a life of sloth and lethargy. My tactics are not subtle; I throw tidbits at them like popcorn, chocolate bars, spare-change and always some lies.

Seth Jacobson

"Hey, Roger-the-Dodger. Slow down a second will you! You got ants in your pants or something?"

"No, man...Jogging...Can't talk."

"Sure. You know you look pretty sick. Your face is all red. Might be having a stroke. Remember what happened to Richards?"

"Richards?"

"You know, the Astros pitcher who suffered the stroke because he worked so hard. Don't want to overdue it, you know?"

"Why are you telling me this?" By now I'm jogging alongside him. I do a few cartwheels, then I backpeddle a few circles around him. The idea is to make him feel very tired.

"You just never know when one of these things is going to take place. Richards had his first sign when he was only twenty."

"Twenty!" He's upset. I can tell, because he's lost his stride and tripped ove his shoelace.

"Have a candy bar." I shove a Cadbury bar into his mouth.

"Say!...What are you a nut!" But he eats the bar.

"Your stride looks funny. Seen a podiatrist lately? Running does some numbers on your knees." On that note he does a reverse step and takes off in the opposite direction, but lucky for me my sideviews have tipped me off in time and I make the turn right with him.

"And another thing, running near traffic is a great way to double your intake of exhaust. Bet you didn't know that?"

"You're cruzin for a bruzin, pal."

"Ah-hah! It shows. You're type-A which makes you infinitely more susceptible to a stroke. Come on, let me help you off the street."

"Oh, okay. Just keep those mirrors away."

Later I treat him to a large pizza and chocolate malted at the campus coffee shop. In front of me is V8 and a garden salad.

"You know I really appreciate you looking out for me and all."

"Don't forget your milkshake. Another?" He downs it and I get up to serve my new found friend.

"Naw, that's okay. I really have to watch my you know what."

"Don't hold yourself back. Be loose. Enjoy. That's the only way to good health." I can't help beaming with every sip he takes of his second milkshake.

Seth Jacobson is a Collegian columnist

Letters

On preventing sexual assault

To the Editor:

Halloween has traditionally been a time for "trick or treating," costumes, fun and games. Unfortunately, at UMass Halloween has become a time of real and frightening tricks. Halloween night on the UMass campus and surrounding area is notorious for vandalism, excessive drinking and violence. One type of violence, of great concern for women, is the increased incidence of rape and sexual assault. There are a number of things women can do to protect themselves and each other from rape. Remember that many people will be in costumes, which would make identification of a rapist difficult, if not impossible. Be cautious. The following guidelines are recommended.

1) Do not hitch-hike (women with cars are encouraged to offer rides to other women).

2) Use the buddy system; walk in groups and do not leave women behind by themselves.

3) Be aware of your consumption of alcohol and drugs; too much of either can make a possible escape difficult and will impair your judgment.

4) Many rapes are acquaintance rapes. Don't be dependent on someone you hardly know for transportation or housing. Be polite but firm in refusing help from a casual acquaintance; your safety should come first.

5) Make sure your costume does not immobilize you.

6) If you ar being followed, walk quickly to the nearest occupied building or group of people.

7) If you hear someone screaming, bring someone with you and check it out. Call the police emergency line, 545-3111, if the situation warrants it.

It is unfortunate that women, the potential victims, are required to assume the burden of responsibility. Preventing sexual assault is a community, not only an individual responsibility. Have a safe Halloween.

Joanne Gravell
Susan Olson
University Health Services
549-2671 (24-hour)
Bernadine Young
Chris Riley
Dean of Students Office
Sgt. Mary Dumas
Public Safety
Myra Hindus
Violence Against Women Program
Everywoman's Center
545-0800 (sexual assault hotline)

On the coverage of egotism

To the Editor:

It is somehow ironic that here, in the heart of the academic community, intellectual dishonesty of the worst kind seems to flourish.

Tuesday's Collegian carried a story on University planning for the Halloween weekend in which Ron Keefe, a student government spokesperson, indicated that the planning process had taken place without student involvement. Regrettably, it appears that Mr. Keefe has made the error of assuming that student involvement cannot take place without his own personal intervention, or that of his immediate colleagues.

The truth is that students were involved in the Halloween planning process, including the debate over the desirability of large-scale "alternative" programming, from the very beginning. The first group on campus to develop recommendations for the Halloween weekend (and the group whose recommendations were ultimately adopted) was the Residential Committee. The Residential Committee was created two years ago in response to student demand, and a majority of the seats on the Committee are apportioned to students. The Committee has broad responsibility to develop policy recommendations in the residence hall system, and took the Halloween issue as its top priority for the year.

The student members of the Residential Committee are elected, at the same time as the Student Senate, by the residence hall students they represent. The student members demonstrated unusual sensitivity and vision in their consideration of ways to avoid the disastrous experience of past Halloweens, and deserve the gratitude of the entire community. To suggest that their work somehow did not qualify as "student involvement" is a disgraceful display of egotism.

Mr. Keefe was well aware of the work of the Committee when he made his comments, but chose to dismiss their views and those of all others with whom he disagrees. There are 23,000 students at this University; sooner or later Mr. Keefe and his compatriots will learn that they do not have an exclusive hold on the "truth," and that there may be legitimate student opinions which are not spawned on the fourth floor of the Student Union.

Bryan C. Harvey
Staff Assistant to the Vice Chancellor of Student Affairs

"Legal" competition damaging to students

To the Editor:

In the last two weeks the Collegian has given considerable coverage to the foray on campus by an outside mobile food service. In these articles you made no mention of the following facts:

This truck is drawing business away from the student run snack bars serving the dormitories already.

It is taking student money out of the University community.

Student wages, earned running the snack bars, are threatened. This could affect up to 65 students weekly pay.

Allowing this truck in the area constitutes unfair competition.

Although the snack bars and other student run businesses have kept their word to not even advertise off campus, the town feels it is perfectly all right to encourage outside businesses to intrude into our community where ever they wish.

We recognize that this food truck has the "legal" right to park anywhere on Amherst town roads that the town grants permission. There are even areas of campus with no convenient snack bar that could well be served by such a service. What we object to is the unfair restrictions placed on student businesses which do not apply to other businesses. We also object to the Collegian's support of such unfair competition to the detriment of students.

Student run businesses provide wages, work and educational experiences for you as students. They can provide services and goods students need which no one else in the area wants to provide. They can bring lower prices. But not unless they get student support.

For your own benefit, support student businesses.

Thomas D. Osborn
Coordinator, Economic Development Office

PSST! HEY SWEETY, WHY DON'T YOU TELL YER MA IF SHE VOTES FOR PROPOSITION 2½ SHE COULD BUY A NEW CAR!
WHAT THE...? MY MA DOESN'T NEED A NEW CAR AND WATCH WHO YER CALLIN' SWEETY.
HEH, HEH... WELL AH-H... HOW COME ON WOULDN'T YOU LIKE TO RIDE TO SCHOOL IN A SHINY NEW CAR?
NAW, I LIKE RIDING TO SCHOOL ON A BUS WITH MY FRIENDS. AN' MY MA RIDES HER BIKE TO WORK... SEE IT SAVES ENERGY AND IS GOOD EXERCISE TOO. PRETTY SMART, HUH?

YEAH, HEAT... WELL NOW 'BOUT TELLIN' YER MA 2½'S FOR RENTERS TOO SHE'LL GET A DEDUCTION ON HER STATE INCOME TAX FOR PART OF A YEAR'S RENT.
I DON'T KNOW MISTER... MY MA SEZ EVEN THOUGH TAXES ARE HARD ON US IT'D BE ROUGHER ON KIDS LIKE MY FRIENDS AT SCHOOL WHO NEED SPECIAL TEACHERS OR ON GRANDMA WHO'S SICK AND CAN'T WORK, IF WE DIDN'T PAY THOSE TAXES YER TALKIN' ABOUT.

WELL HOW ABOUT A NEW HOUSE? IF YER MAYOTES YES FOR 2½ REAL ESTATE TAXES'LL BE REAL CHEAP DON'T YA KNOW?
DON'T NEED A HOUSE, BE AN' MY MOM RENT A REAL EXCELLENT APARTMENT WITH MY FRIEND AND HER MOM. OUR MOMS ARE FRIENDS SO AND THEY'RE BOTH TEACHERS... NEAT HUH?

ALL RIGHT YOU LITTLE SHIT— I'VE GIVEN YOU YER LAST SMART ALECKY CHANCE TO UNDERSTAND REASON! YOU'LL BE SORRY AFTER UPSTANDING CITIZENS LIKE ME VOTE FOR PROPOSITION 2½, YER MEAT MA AND HER FRIENDS LOSE THEIR LOUSY TEACHING JOBS, THEY'LL SHOW 'EM, THEY WON'T BE ELIGIBLE FOR A RENT DEDUCTION. THEY COULDN'T BUY A CAR EVEN IF THEY WANTED ONE. AN' FORGET YER FREE BUS RIDES, MAYBE WE'LL CUT YER ROUTE ALTOGETHER! AND FOR YER FREE LOADING GRANDMOTHER AND YER SUFFER.
DUMB FRIENDS LET 'EM FER ALL I CARE!!
FUNNY... THAT'S JUST WHAT MY MOM SEZ WOULD HAPPEN... WELL SEE YA SWEETY!
CAREFUL YER FANCY SUIT DOESN'T GET RUMPLED!

Correction

James Parrott's article "Proposition 2½: High tech gains" (Collegian, 10/29) contained the statement "In Massachusetts, employment in computers and electronics components increased 74 percent from April 1979 to April 1980..." The actual period of the increase was between April 1976 and April 1980.

British band, Spectres, gives a good time concert

The Spectres with Someone and the Somebodies
Rahar's
October 24

By STEVE WINNIMAN
Collegian Staff

In its very best moments, rock and roll music can transcent the boundaries of entertainment and become true artistic expression—commentary on life itself. But it doesn't have to do that to be fun, as The Spectres showed at Rahar's last Friday night. This five-piece band from Britain played a set of tuneful pop-rock that kept the audience on their feet through a double encore, and if it didn't exactly prove to be earth-shattering, so what? The crowd may not have been enlightened, but they certainly had a good time.

The Spectres, a nine-month-old band, features Glen Matlock on bass and Danny Kustow on guitar. Matlock, whose pop sensibilities dominate the group's sound, it, at, 24, a new-wave superstar of sorts. He's been in several major bands (including the Sex Pistols, Rich Kids, and Iggy Pop's band) but rarely stays in any group long enough to make a name for himself. Danny Kustow, formerly of the Tom Robinson Band, provides a perfect foil for Matlock, playing adeptly and singing backup vocals while playfully engaging in mock belligerence with the bassist. Other band members are Arthur Collins on, sax; Graeme Putter, drums; and Mark Ambler, keyboards. Despite the rather short set, which included "Ambition," a song Matlock wrote for Iggy Pop's Soldier LP, they made quite a good impression on the crowd and left them well satisfied.

The show at Rahar's was part of a quasi-tour for The Spectres, mostly with the intention of attracting an American record label. In England, the group is on F-Beat records, which will soon by releasing a Spectres 45, recorded with Madness producer Clive Langer. The slapdash nature of the tour is reflected by Matlock's uncertainty of what the group will do once it gets to New York.

"We might hang around a bit, we might go to the west coast, or we might go back home. Haven't really made up our minds," he said, by way of outlining the band's future plans. Hopefully, The Spectres will be able to land a record deal in the U.S. and be back for a proper tour. They were a fun way to spend an evening.

Opening for The Spectres were Someone and the Somebodies, a band from Boston. This group tries to mix pop music with avant-garde structures, but only captures the worst qualities of each, resulting in a bland, tuneless sound. They should definitely get a better idea of what they want to do—until then their most intriguing aspect is their name.

French cooking, American style.

Now appearing at your nearest store.

Got something on your mind? Let people know in a letter to the Editor

PAINTS... for Face & Body

FACES
Downtown Amherst

Happy Anniversary

50 wonderful years for us & for you

MIKE'S WESTVIEW CAFE
you'll never forget you've been here

Happy Halloween
Tomorrow Afternoon & Night

Tomorrow starts the next Half-Century for Mike's we'd like you to help us celebrate with an afternoon Happy Time starting at 3 PM
Roll Back the Prices!!!
Pitcher's of Bud $2.75
Schnapps Ginger, Peppermint, Cinnamon, Spearmint .95c
Mike's usual great Free Buffet No Cover extending into the evening with Halloween Party & Costume Contest at 10:00 P.M. with a Cash Prize of $50.00 for the Best Costume, $25.00 for 2nd prize
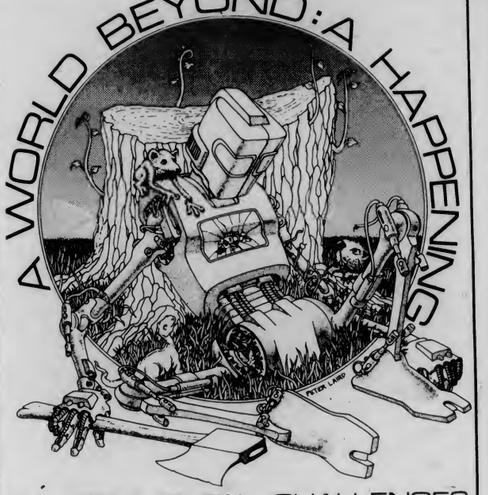
Free T-Shirts
Don't forget that tonight is Penny Night. Every 3rd drink at Mike's is a penny.

A WORLD BEYOND: A HAPPENING



ENVIRONMENTAL CHALLENGES AS VIEWED BY SCIENCE FICTION / PHANTASY

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1980
9 a.m. - 5 p.m.
Student Union Ballroom, University of Massachusetts/Amherst
NO ADMISSION CHARGE

FILMS
10:00 a.m.
"Journey to the Far Side of the Sun" (1969)
1:30 p.m.
"This Island Earth" (1955)

PANEL DISCUSSION
12 Noon
"Environmental Challenges As Viewed by Science Fiction/Phantasy Writers"
Authors Jeffrey A. Carver, Robin McKinley, Frederick Pohl, Jane Yolen
Professors Ernest Gallo, Charlotte Spivak, Maria Tymoczko and Ernie Black

BOOK EXHIBIT
Thousands of Science Fiction and Phantasy Books Available to Purchase
Authors will be available for discussion and autographs

Sponsored by
THE UNIVERSITY STORE
University of Massachusetts
and
THE HOLYOKE NEWS COMPANY

WHY HITCH?

Take a warm, comfortable TRAILWAYS or PETER PAN bus to Boston, New York and many other places. Play it safe!
TRAILWAYS & PETER PAN BUS LINES
MAKE LIFE SIMPLER FOR YOU.
The Energy Saver
For Information, Schedules and Prices, contact: Springfield Bus
Campus Center Bus Office - 545-2006, or 549-6000

FOR DAY OR NIGHT

HALLOWEEN PARTY!
FACES invites you to attend a demonstration; be made up by HELEN DREHER of Stagelight Cosmetics... ALL DAY HALLOWEEN!

...IT'S STAGELIGHT

OPEN FRI. 'TIL 9:00

STAGELIGHT Cosmetics
the new cosmetics
FACES
A Store-full of Ideas
Downtown Amherst /Open 10-6, Mon.-Sat.

FOUR REASONS TO EARN THE MBA AT RUTGERS

STUDY WITH THE LEADERS.

Paul S. Nadler, Ph.D. New York University. National authority on banking, regular columnist in the American Banker, author, consultant and adviser to banks, state and federal agencies. Professor of Banking.

Richard D. Marshall, L.L.B. Howard University. Former Corporate Officer of the Government National Mortgage Association. Consultant and advisor in housing development, municipal management, real estate finance and land use. Professor of Management.

A. Moneim El-Meligi, Ph.D. London University. Internationally known clinical psychologist. Specialist in leadership behavior and problems of transcultural communications. Professor of Organization Behavior.

Rosa Oppenheim, Ph.D. Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn. Research and publications in mathematical programming and graph theory. Professor of Management.

Faculty - Outstanding Professors of national and international prominence in their respective fields.

Curriculum - Rigorous programs that bridge the gap between classroom theory and "hands on" experience in the field.

Placement - Personal preparation starts the first day and culminates in many interview opportunities with organizations in private, public and non-profit sectors.

Location - Minutes from international headquarters for banking, finance, advertising, marketing, public accounting, manufacturing, sports and the arts.

Degree Programs
MBA in Management
MBA in Professional Accounting
Ph.D. in Management

Full-time admissions June and September. Part-time admissions September and February. Please return coupon for detailed information.

Campuses in Newark and New Brunswick.

GRADUATE SCHOOL OF MANAGEMENT
RUTGERS
THE STATE UNIVERSITY OF NEW JERSEY
92 New Street, Newark, N.J. 07102

Please send me full information on your MBA program.
Name
Address
City State Zip

Collegian Classifieds

To place a Collegian Classified
•Come to Collegian Office CC 113
•8:45 to 3:45 Mon-Fri
•Classified deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day

Collegian Classified Rates
•15c per word
•Student rate 10c per word
•Cash in advance
•5 consecutive days 5 % discount
•Phone number FREE

AUDIO

Audiologic "micro" stereo system: 15 watt integrated amp, stereo tuner, hi fidelity 2-way air suspension speakers $225 call 6-5127

Onkyo-TX2500 Receiver 40 watts $160 546-5788

Cassette Deck— Technics 630US front loading with Dolby, dB meters and other features Great for recording! $90.00 546-7483

AUTO FOR SALE

Lancia—1975, brown, leather, air, AM/FM. 5-speed, 27mpg, 44,000 miles $4600 584-6563

'66 Volks RUNS great for parts call Walter 546-9072

Ford Galaxie 1966 excellent condition $400 or BO 549-4635

70 Impala excellent engine new exhaust 4 new tires new battery $450 Dave 256-0158

69 VW runs good AM-FM cass. inspected best offer call Chris 256-0353

1971 Plymouth Valient 318 cu in engine 76,000 miles, vinyl roof 17 mpg $450 546-7458

67 Mercury 60000 mi one owner professor best offer 549-4930 ext 296 office 549-1896 home

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES

Address and stuff envelopes at home $800 per month possible Offer send $1 (refundable) to: Triple "S", 16243-Y78, Hesperia, CA 92345

DISC JOCKEY

Professional Disc Jockey Quality Sound Randy 546-7013

Why not have a succesful party? Hire quality Disc Jockeys!! Denis 546-6249 Andy 546-1164

ENTERTAINMENT

Springsteen Tickets available for Boston December 16 323-5757

Soundsystem and DJ for hire perfect for band parties coffeehouses Rick 584-4105

FOR SALE

Gift Idea: Portrait Drawings; call dennis Delap 665-2972

TRS-80 48K or 16K System must sell mint condition call for details 546-7050

Backpack new cost $150, sell for $100 will bring to Campus 1-684-3121, 1-442-6023

Moving, must sell 1970 Valiant runs well, $1200.00 Yamaha 12-string guitar, $200 or BO furniture 253-3101

Single bed $40 Carol 549-5440 after 5

Guitar for sale Epiphone acoustic excellent cond $125 546-9474 or 546-5493 after six

1966 Buick Wildcat PS, PB, PW, AT, snows 300 or BO 323-7774 Rick

Les Paul Guitar Case mint condition $70 call 256-0680

73 Gremlin 600.00 or best offer call 584-7094 after 7 PM

1969 Dodge Coronet 4-door $250 call 546-1136 or 1-413-543-2661 anytime

Harmon Kardon 330B 2 Jensen speakers I'll make a deal Patti 549-6338

Mattress/sofa Queensize futon with pillow. Both have slipcovers All 100% cotton. 1 month old $175 253-2427

Electric Guitar Gibson SG tune-o-matic bridge, grover pegs, hardshell case. Mint condition. $450. (neg) Chris 546-7809

2-JR-78-15 Radial Tires on GM rims good thread $20 each 6-6484

FOUND

Psych Journal at Hasbrouck bus stop identify Carlos 665-4763

Human found a scarf across the street from Morrill owner, identify 549-5193

Found: a lock and a set of keys at the Southwest horseshoe. If you own them call Rob at 6-9191 and identify the keyring

HELP WANTED

Wanted part-time radiology technician for multi-specialty group practice please call 256-8561 ext 248 M-F 8 am-4 pm

Address and stuff envelopes at home $800 per month, possible. Any age or location. See ad under businss opportunities Triple "S".

Summer Work Box 213, Amherst MA 01004

Newspaper Deliverer wanted Mornings 6:00 AM to 8:00 AM Must have car Call 549-5059

Cruises—Club Mediterranean, Sailing, Expeditions! Needed: Sports Instructors, Office Personnel, Counselors, Europe, Carribean, Worldwide! Summer. Career. Send $5.95 + $1 handling for application OPENINGS, GUIDE to CRUISEWORLD 16160129, Sacramento, Ca. 95860

INSTRUCTION

English Classes (ESL) Elementary, Intermediate. Two hours an afternoon, except Wednesday. Faculty/student spouses, visitors, immigrants. People's Institute, Northampton. 584-3956 NLI, P.O. Box 34, Northampton

Hypnosis Speed reading Rm 909 Campus Center Nov 12, 13 at 7 PM all welcome KR Morse 532-5703

Guitar Instruction bluegrass & traditional orientation 10 yrs professional teaching experience reasonable rates Jerry 549-5650

INTERNSHIPS AVAILABLE

Legal Assistant Interns Wanted: The Legal Services Office has 8 positions available for full-time legal assistant interns for the Spring 1981 semester. Up to fifteen credits may be earned through Office of Internships. Legal assistants assist attorneys of the LSO with client interviewing, investigations, legal research, negotiations, giving advice and referrals, preparation of court forms, and attendance at hearings in District and Superior Courts, and participation in administrative hearings and federal litigation. Maintain continuing case load under supervision of attorneys. Applications available at Office of Internships, Curry Hicks Building, and inquire further at Legal Services Office, 922 Campus center. Applicationsdue November 7, 1980 at Office of Internships. Writing sample required. All third world and women students are encouraged to apply.

LEGAL SERVICES

Attorney Jason Rosenthal reasonable rates Days 584-4285, Evenings 253-7617

LOST

Nova Owners I hitched back to Boston on Friday Oct. 10 I left a brown and tan reversible jacket in your car call 6-7470

Lost keys—Sat nite wall across from Thoreau Reward 6-7451

Pair of pink tinted eyeglasses in brown leather case call 549-4874

Wool Blazer dark brown in Franklin Sentimental value Reward 6-6754

Brown Leather Pocketbook don't care about the purse, just the contents Please call Juanita 6-8331 Reward

One room key on a leather "J" keychain between Sylvan and Puffton around Sat 10/18 call 6-4246

Burgundy Leather Jacket 10/24/80 Lot#63 Reward

Lost Friday bike bey on rawhide cord between UM & Amherst desperate 256-8678

Very large neutered male cat Black and grey stripes with some orange. White paws and chest I miss my cat, please call Karl at 256-8346

Lost electric blanket off the roof of my car. So. East St or Rt 9 Its dreadfully cold at night call 253-7503

Pair of women's eyeglasses in Central Area call 546-4753 Reward

YOU found my PENTAX PLEASE return it, I NEED it, LARGE REWARD Steve Thomas 545-2240 or 467-7091

Women's gold Windert watch Time-Out or vicinity, night of 10-24 Reward—call Micki 549-1741

Passive '80 bag left in back seat of brown car of Ashfield couple who brought me to Amherst Saturday morning. Contains notebook and blue hat. 665-4419

PERSONALS

Undergrad Pol. Sci. Assoc. interested in becoming member? Sign-up Rm 422 Thompson

Career Day 1980 Tuesday, Nov. 4, 10-4 PM. 1st floor Campus Center. Come hear distinguished speakers discuss career opportunities in various fields of business. All welcome! Sponsored by Undergraduate Business Club

Important Food Science Meeting Thursday October 30 6:30 PM Chen 227 all welcome

SDT invites all University Women to Informal Rush Oct 29 & 30 for info call Robyn 545-0527

Marching Band for sale. Once in satisfactory condition, now running scared. Buy now—will be totally useless after 11/1/80 Contact director, UConn Husky Marching Band

Coolidge 4th "Faker Award" goes to Mutt and Jeff

Debbie Have an excellent Birthday Do it up! Love Robyn

Heidi O. Where have you been all my life?? Dave JFK upper

Czech, Ping, and Taco: What do you mean "Better luck next time"? We got the last laugh, didn't we? the Pumpkin Bandits

Danny, The UMass Tuba Happy Birthday wail on T.T.

TO MY MINI BABY: You make my days 100 percent more bearable just by being you. I love you very much! Your micro mini baby Scuba Divers Let's go down and you lap it up. Remember "Two HEADS are better than one". P.S. Bring nose plugs.

What's so funny about subleting Jill?

Kelly congrats on your first annual MVP betwetting keep it up! Jul and James Beatle, Stevels and the Gorila woman—what would I do without you guys? Beeyootifull!! XOX Suzles

J.T. and the SHRIMP—I miss hairbrushes, Mac's and both of you like crazy! Life goes on but so do friendships! Tons of love - Sue

Ken D, Happy 19! A fellow Scorpio never forgets. Where have you been? Love, Kathy

Buster—Have a blast in D.C. Don't forget the cold hower technique If you leave me your electric blanket I'll let you take my teddybear! Withdrawal symptoms or what? I love you madly—Rapunzle

Happy Birthday Kathy, hope you and Funky enjoy the weekend. Pinky

Treat yourself or a friend on Halloween candy, sweet for sale today and tomorrow only at CC

Robby How about a drink at Seven O's CS 546-8209

Abby L. Happy Birthday wishes from Bach, Glasria

Honey - I love you - Dear

Merilee MM Mumms and Tiny Bubbles Happy 23rd plus one "we love you" Marilyn, Tricia and Meta

Hey Pat—The novelty hasn't worn off! Hope you're feeling better—236

Another Taost—to vast amounts of hope & time. It's probably quite nice!

Hey Trippy Happy Birthday to the best roomie around what would I do without you? Have a great day—love always, Twinkie

To Marty & Ed: What's your game? Relax and have a Happy Halloween! Thanx for all the B-hits! Love ya Sheryl

Senator—For you there will always be a space The Women of Webster

HAPPY BIRTHDAY WENDY (Trippy) from fourth floor Field love ya

Jackie have a Super Happy 21st Birthday! Live it up! Love Paula

Stevey, How about dinner and studying Sat. nite? My place. Puppy

RIDE WANTED

Ride needed weekends Brockton or nearby. Leaving Thursday night or Friday anytime. Share expenses call 546-7186

Ride needed to Dead concert Thurs will share expenses and partying call 6-9755 or 6-9781

To Binghamton, Syracuse N.Y. or vicinity weekend of 11/7 will share expenses Rich 6-7493

ROOM WANTED

2 women seek 2 rooms House or apartment NEAR CAMPUS for Spring semester 546-9124/546-6342

Help us! We're one junior & 2 seniors who have outgrown dorm life. Looking for housing on bus route for Spring semester Call 546-7433 or 546-7427

Female looking for roomates to share apt for Spring semester call 256-6045 anytime

Two responsible females seeking off campus housing for Spring semester call 546-5458

Women seek 2-4 bedroom house or apartment On bus route for Spring semester 546-1296 546-1137 546-1412

ROOMMATE WANTED

Puffton Village one bdrm in two bdrm apt $157 + lights Mike 549-3616 545-0731

In S.Deerfield Quiet, non-smoking, serious (student preferred) person. Now until January 115+/mo 665-7705

Own room in beautiful, semi-coop farmhouse in New Salem for November 1. $85/mnth+ call David 617-544-2193

Friendly, responsible, independent roommates wanted Own room in 3 bdrm Rolling Green Apt. for Nov 1 $115/mth, includes everything Preferably female. Call Conworth or Shelley (617) 544-2193 Leave message

Male, quiet, non-smoking for own room in Riverglade Apt 85+/mo 253-5487 keep trying

SERVICES

Experienced typist available Fast, neat work, reasonable rates. 546-6439

Typing; Words-Worth, 37 East Pleasant Street, Amherst, 549-1303. Double-spaced text from 95c a page. Justified resumes from $3.50 a page. Telephone dictation line. Overnight rush jobs. Your words are worth it.

Statistics Tutor Prepare for midterm, 4.50/hr. experienced graduate student 253-5764

Expert Typing, Editing reasonable rates 665-4815 evenings and weekends

SHITTER & TUMA

Shitter & Tuma Happy Belated Birthday Love Spunky & Dicky

SONGWRITERS

Folk-Singer, song writer researching song writing at UMass. If you write original folk, or country music I would like to interview you and profile your work in my Research--call Joe at 665-2840 10 pm-11:30 pm or weekends anytime

TO SUBLET

Cliffside one bedroom apartment, around 11/10, $205 includes utilities, 665-4763

EVACUATING your 2 bedroom apt this spring? We would like to sublet. Please call Maureen or Ellen 253-9685

TRAVEL

Florida—The Great Getaway for Spring Break and January Term under $200 round trip jet 256-6704

WALDO'S WOMEN

2 East - practice tonite - BYOF Pam and Linda

DI - Don't wear your Gloria Vanderbilts Saturday night! Louie's Lovely's

Linda - "Touch-a, touch-a, touch-me-"

Pam - I'm having a try-on session, you're invited - IBTV - Linda

Holly - New info - call Pam, Linda, Lori, and Diane

Lori - Pickup trucks are cheap - Linda and Pam

WANTED

Top Dollars for class rings, gold, sterling, at Wendy's CC Concourse, twice a week

Highest prices paid for class rings, gold, and silver jewelry. See me before you sell. Daniel Smith, 25 North Pleasant St between Fotomat and Logos, Amherst M-Sat10-6 call 256-0710

Cash for unwanted class rings gold, silver anytime Bob or Sue 546-6607

Wanted: weekend cook for Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity to cook two brunches and one dinner contact John 545-2150

Want to be a judge for Southwest? Contact the S.W.A. at 5-0960 or attend their general meeting, Thurs @ 6:30 at The Hampden Student Center

DOONESBURY

by Garry Trudeau

REAGAN'S CEREBELLUM. HERE WE ENCOUNTER A MAZE OF NEURONS AND THEIR DENDRITIC SPINES, FROM WHOSE TIPS INFORMATION IS TRANSMITTED BY ELECTRICAL IMPULSES.
INTELLIGENCE IS THOUGHT TO BE RELATED TO THE COMPLEXITY OF THESE CONNECTIONS. UNHAPPILY, THE BRAIN STOPS GROWING AT AGE 20, AND THEREAFTER, NEURONS DIE OFF BY THE MILLIONS EVERY YEAR.
WHAT THIS MEANS IS THAT THE BRAIN OF RONALD REAGAN HAS BEEN SHRINKING EVER SINCE 1931, WHEREAS JIMMY CARTER'S BRAIN CELLS HAVE ONLY BEEN DYING SINCE 1944.
TO THE TRAINED SCIENTIST, THIS REPRESENTS A CLEAR CHOICE. BACK AFTER THIS.
10-30
GBTrudeau

CRUISE FOR THE MIND

Cindy Downing

JIMBO, I GOTTA MEET SOME PEOPLE. YOU'RE THE ONLY ONE I KNOW OUT HERE. I WANNA KNOW WHAT MASSACHUSETTS PEOPLE ARE LIKE
HEY JIMBO, WE THOUGHT WE SMELLED RUM IN HERE
HEY!! I GOT IT! I GOT-
LOVE TO STAY, BUT WE'RE IN A BIG RUSH!
WHO'S YOUR FRIEND? BEEN WICKED GOOD TALKIN' TO YA!
ARE ALL PEOPLE FROM MASS...
BIRT
NOPE. JUST MY NEIGHBORS
SLAM!
CINDER

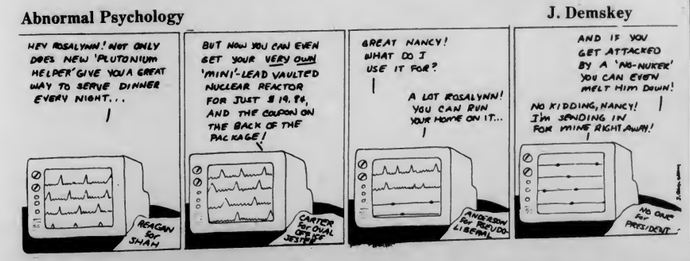
Under the Influence

M. Joyce

HEY, LOOK AT THAT COSTUME!
BOY, DRESSING AS A NAZI IS IN SUCH BAD TASTE!
"IT'S NOT A COSTUME, THAT'S THE DORM SECURITY!"
YOUR PAPERS, PLEASE.
M. Joyce

Abnormal Psychology

J. Demskey



HEY ROSALYNN! NOT ONLY DOES NEW 'PLUTONIUM HEATER' GIVE YOU A GREAT WAY TO SERVE DINNER EVERY NIGHT...
BUT NOW YOU CAN EVEN GET YOUR VERY OWN 'MINI'-LEAD VAULTED NUCLEAR REACTOR FOR JUST $19.84, AND THE COUPON ON THE BACK OF THE PACKAGE!
GREAT NANCY! WHAT DO I USE IT FOR?
A LOT ROSALYNN! YOU CAN RUN YOUR HOME ON IT...
AND IF YOU GET ATTACKED BY A 'NO-NUKER' YOU CAN EVEN MELT HIM DOWN!
NO KIDDING, NANCY! I'm SENDING IN FOR MINE RIGHT AWAY!
REAGAN for JOAN
CARTER for OVAL OFFICE JESTER
ANDERSON for WORLD LIBERATOR
NO ONE for PRESIDENT

CROSSWORD

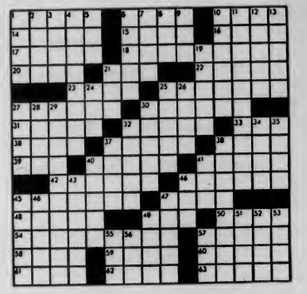
UNITED Feature Syndicate

ACROSS
1 American Indian
6 Mange in animals
10 Dalai ——
14 ——— numerals
15 Gross weight increment
16 Literary collections
17 Change
18 That which follows
20 "Auld ——"
Syne"
21 A la mode basa
22 Hair-raising
23 Study written matter
25 Skips about
27 Be present
30 Scanty supply
31 E.C. Bentley's detective
32 Gambling game
33 Skating surface
36 Small skin growth
37 ——— Ste. Marie
38 Freight vessel
39 Characterized by unity
40 Skins. Suffix
41 Great disappointment
42 Is frugal
44 Trader
45 Heavy knife
47 Be ahead of
48 Lifeless: Archaic
49 In ——: in one's charge
50 History book entry
54 Sports forecasters
57 Baseball score
58 To leeward
59 Drug source
60 Fruit of the oak
61 Untidy state
62 Morsels
63 Animal pelts

DOWN
1 Spoken rather than written
2 Body: Zool.
3 It is so
4 Tissue decay
5 Extremity
6 Permanent
7 Eating place
8 Craft
9 Task performing group
10 Regret deeply
11 Iawlass
12 Young fat herring
13 Fireplace residue
19 Lifts upright
21 One's apartment: Slang
24 Adjective suffix
25 Chimes
26 Enchanted
27 Alr: Comb. form
28 Vacuum tube: Suffix
29 Optical devices
30 Band instruments
32 Manu
34 Arrive
35 Wide-mouthed jug
37 Carried away: Slang
38 Grapefruit's relative
40 Counts calories
41 ——— Ilon
43 Trios
44 Moisture
45 "Call Me ——— ———"
46 Mexican agave
47 Mislays
49 Animal's gait
51 Mina: Fr.
52 Three-masted schooner
53 Birds
55 Flap on a garment
56 Biblical judge
57 Possesses

Wednesday Puzzle Solved:

S	A	G	E		M	O	S	T		B	R	A
A	L	A	I		I	R	A	S		R	E	D
R	A	M	I		S	E	R	I		N	U	S
U	R	E		G	R	Y		D	I	S	O	A
M	A	R		A	G	E		E	L	M	A
			R	A	V	E		T	A	P
R	A	P	T		O	U	T		E	L	I	D
A	B	U	L		D	E	R		R	O	M	P
F	I	L	E		N	E	R	D		R	I	N	S
I	T	H		O			E		S	I	C
		O	I	L			S	H	A	K	E	R
N	O	T	O	P	U	M	P	E	R	D	R	Y
A	T	O	M		A	L		D	I	E	T	S
T	O	S	S		C	R	T		S	A	T	E
A	R	S	O	N		E	A	T	S		O	L	D



D.C. Menu

LUNCH	BASICS LUNCH
Cold Cut Grinder	Vegetable Grinder
California Quiche	California Quiche
DINNER	BASICS DINNER
Baked Chicken/Gravy	Baked Chicken/Gravy
Cranberry Sauce	Cranberry Sauce
Reuben Sandwich	Brazilian Rice Casserole
Brazilian Rice Casserole	Halloween Treats
Halloween Treats

KOSHER MENU

Spaghetti/Meat Sauce
Beef Turnover/Gravy

Tonight's Episode:
That Darn Co-ed
hits the stage, screen and Fine Arts Center.

$2.00 off

Any Men's Shirt.

Men's Corduroy Shirts.
100% cotton. Solid colors.
$14.50.

The Lodge also carries men's Lodge oxford cloth shirts, in solids $12.95 and stripes $13.95; and men's Lodge 100% cotton chamois shirts $16.95.

With ad only. Amherst Lodge only.
Good thru 11/8.

Route 9. Hadley. 584-9690.
Monday to Saturday, 10:00 - 9:30.

THE LODGE at harvard square ® MDC

DISCO ON DOWN TO...

Rt. 9 Amherst

Poor Richard's DISCOTHEQUE

Halloween Party TONIGHT

8-9 50c | 9-10 75c | 10-closing $1.00

All Drinks

CASH PRIZES

• Most Creative • Best
• Most Original • Scaryest

Fri. & Sat.
HAPPY HOUR 8-10 p.m.

ENGINEERS, YOUR SHIP IS COMING IN.

It might be a nuclear sub or a billion dollar aircraft carrier. At the Norfolk Naval Shipyard, you can provide engineering support for the maintenance and testing of the most sophisticated technology in the world, with hands-on experience that will challenge your personal creativity, stimulate and enhance your engineering knowledge, and accord you a good measure of responsibility on important projects.

Our shipyard recruiter will be on campus on
November 6, 1980
A General Information Meeting will be held on
November 5, 1980

An Equal Opportunity Employer U.S. Citizenship required.

Located in the Tidewater, Virginia area, the shipyard is surrounded by a vast array of recreational and cultural activities. Just minutes away, the resort city of Virginia Beach hosts water activities of all types and descriptions. Also, the shipyard is just a short drive from the Blue Ridge Mountains with its spectacular fall foliage and numerous winter ski resorts.

Mr. L. B. Austin
Code 170.3
Norfolk Naval Shipyard
Portsmouth, Virginia 23709
Call Collect: (804) 393-7340

AMC THEATRES — TIMES SHOWN FOR TODAY ONLY

ADULTS $2.75 — STUDENT & SR. CITIZEN WITH AMC CARD $2.25 — SPECIAL ENGAGEMENTS EXCLUDED — TWI-LITE SHOW $1.75 — TWI-LITE SHOW LIMITED TO SEATING

HAMPSHIRE 4 — 584-7550 HAMP. MALL ON CAFE SQ.—RT. 9, HADLEY, MASS.

DONALD SUTHERLAND Ordinary People R (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15	LOVING COUPLES PG (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30
HOPSCOTCH R (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:15	THE FIRST DEADLY SIN R (6:15 @ $1.75) 8:30
Movie and Dinner only $5.50. Have your choice of 5 different meals at the Pewter Pot Rest. in the Hampshire Mall and see one of the eight movies in this ad (Sun-THur only)	SHOPPER'S SHOW FREE! Thursdays at 1:00 P.M. Oct. 30 Lost & Found with George Segal and Glenda Jackson

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 — 584-9153 — MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9 HADLEY, MASS

GOLDIE HAWN as PRIVATE BENJAMIN R (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30	It's My Turn R (6:15 @ $1.75) 8:30
TIMES SQUARE R (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:15	ANTHONY HOPKINS THE ELEPHANT MAN PG (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15

Every Wednesday and Friday
ALL YOU CAN EAT!

Fish Fry or Clam Fry

Howard Johnsons
Rt. 9, Hadley

Sports Notices

ATTENTION ALL IM ICE HOCKEY PLAYERS: Face masks are now required equipment. We have arranged for Fenton's Sporting Goods to provide and install these masks for $10.00 each. Fenton's is located just below Whole Wheat Pizza on Main St. in Amherst. Also, open stick practice every Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 1-3 p.m. at Williston Academy for $1.00 per head. Any questions call Dusty Burke at 253-3059.

☆☆☆

There will be an intramural swim meet Wednesday, Nov. 5, at the Boyden pool. The eight events, for men and women, will include diving. Those interested may either stop by the Intramural Office, Room 215, Boyden, or sign up from 6:00 p.m. — 7:15 p.m. on Wednesday, Nov. 5.

The classes begin on November 1 and will end December 12. In both cases, there is a small lab fee. Interested persons should contact the General Physical Education office, Boyden 224, 545-2338 before the first class.

☆☆☆

The UMass table tennis club is sponsoring the 3rd annual UMass Table Tennis Championships Saturday Nov. 8th in NOPE gym. Entry blanks are available at the games room located across from the Hatch. Winners will represent UMass in the New England regional tournament. All UMass students welcome. Entry fee in one dollar. For more info call 545-2527.

☆☆☆☆

The General Physical Education Program still has slots available for anyone interested in taking skating courses at Orr Rink. The following courses are open:
Ice Hockey, Tu./Th., 8:00-9:15 a.m.
Figure Skating, Mon.-Fri. mornings, 10:00-12:00.

☆☆☆

Intramural foul shooting contest will take place Wednesday, Nov. 12, on the Boyden basketball courts at 6:00 p.m. The contest is for men, women and co-rec competition. To enter, fill out a form in the IM office before Nov. 12 or show up by 5:30 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 12, on the basketball courts.

Rowe nuclear plant reopened

ROWE, Mass. (AP) — The Yankee nuclear power plant here is generating power again, after being shut down since February for repairs to its turbines, according to plant manager Herb Audio.

Audio said the turbines started back up Tuesday night and the plant began generating power shortly after 8 a.m. yesterday.

During the shutdown, crews also upgraded some of the equipment at Rowe Yankee which, at age 20 is New England's oldest nuclear plant. An anti-nuclear group filed suit last week to block the re-opening of the plant. Court action on the suit is pending.

RUSSELL'S LIQUORS

18 Main St. Downtown Amherst 253-5441

CHECK THESE PRICES

Busch ..... 12 oz N/R's/7.99
Miller ..... 12 oz N/R's/7.99
Molson's ..... 2.99 six/10.99 case

WINE

Donelli Lambrusco... 1.99/750 ml 3.99/1.5 liter
Le Domaine Rose, Chablis, Rhine..... 2.99/1.5 liter
Liebfraumilch..... 1.99/23 oz.
Tosca Soave, Valpolicella..... 3.59/68 oz

ALL BEER AND WINE SPECIALS ARE COLD

In 1971...
ANOTHER ROADSIDE ATTRACTION
In 1976...
EVEN COWGIRLS GET THE BLUES
Now–
STILL LIFE WITH WOODPECKER

A SORT OF A LOVE STORY
TOM ROBBINS
#1 NATIONAL BESTSELLER
350,000 COPIES IN PRINT!

$6.95 TRADE PAPERBACK
$12.95 CLOTHBOUND

Bantam.
BANTAM BOOKS
666 Fifth Avenue
New York 10103

Come Meet TOM ROBBINS at:

WALDENBOOKS
3 Center Plaza, Boston. Oct. 31. 12-2 PM
HARVARD BOOKSTORE AND CAFE
Newbury Street, Boston. October 31. 7-9 PM
HARVARD COOP
Harvard Square. November 1. 12-2 PM
BUDDENBROOKS
753 Boylston Street, Boston. November 1. 7-9 PM

Dave Mason in concert
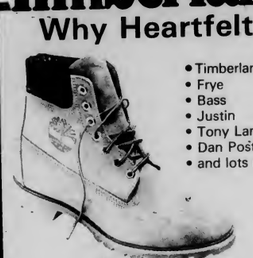
special guest star - Kate Taylor
Thursday, October 30 8:00
at Mount Holyoke College
Chapin Auditorium Tickets $7.00
at Faces of Earth, Country Comforts, Record Town (Holyoke Mall), Campus Shop, Monitors Office at Mt. Holyoke.

Timberland
Why Heartfelt?



- Timberland
- Frye
- Bass
- Justin
- Tony Lama
- Dan Post
- and lots more

Heartfelt Leather
103 N. Pleasant St.
Downtown Amherst
Open 10-6 Mon-Sat
Open Friday till 8
253-5135

Ye Curling Iron

Hair Cutting and Styling for Men & Women

We do our best to make you look your best
Come see us. No appointment necessary.

Triangle Street Amherst, Mass. (413) 549-4412
257 Maple St. Holyoke, Mass. (413) 536-3153

OVERSEAS AUTO PARTS

For the most complete line of foreign auto parts and accessories in the Pioneer Valley.

Get an extra 10% off our low prices with this ad.
offer expires Nov. 15, 1980

API ®

Zayre Shopping Plaza
Rt 9 Hadley, MA 01305
Tel 253-3403

authorized API distributor ®

Smith College Rec Council
Presents

SPYRO Gyra

Saturday Nov.8, 1980
8 p.m.
John M. Greene
Smith College
General Admission $5.00
Tickets available at
For the Record - Amherst
Platterpus - Northampton
Main St. Records - Northampton
no cans or bottles, please

Sports

UMass' Tish Stevens passes the ball in yesterday's 3-1 win over Brown University. (Collegian staff photo by Bill Harrold)

UMass bests Bruins, 3-1

By NANCY PARKS
Collegian Staff

Extending their unbeaten streak to 15 games was not an easy task for the UMass women's field hockey team yesterday as they faced an aggressive and defensively tough Brown University.

The women won by a decisive 3-1 victory over Brown but it took a questionable call by one of the referees in the second half to really fire up the women.

Judy Strong advanced on goal with a flick off a corner shot early in the second half for an apparent goal.

One of the refs however, called the shot dangerous to the players and discounted the goal.

"No way," said Strong. "There was no one there; there was no one rushing. It would have been dangerous if I scooped it into someone's face, but..."

"I absolutely disagree; it was a bad call," said coach Pam Hixon. "I couldn't understand it, no way was it dangerous, it wasn't shot into a crowd."

Dangerous or not, neither Hixon or Strong's reaction could make a change of the call, so the women just had to keep on playing.

"I turned the game around and we really got fired up," said Strong.

The first goal for the Stickers came early in the first half with 25:40 still on the scoreboard. Dribbling the ball down the field with great stickwork, Strong brought the ball into the circle and passed it off to Patty Smith who connected for the goal.

UMass finished the half with a number of corner shots that were lost to too much ball-watching in the circle.

Action in the second half started with the Bruins scoring for their first and only goal in the game. With 24:30 still posted, the Bruins evened the score to 1-1.

The Minutewomen followed with five corner shots in a row and total possession of the ball until 19:45 into the second half when Brown gained possession of the ball.

The Bruins brought the ball down the field only to have it taken back by Strong who dribbled it past the Brown defenders for an unassisted goal on net. This brought the score to 2-1, UMass leading.

Within three minutes of the last goal, the Stickers came back for another goal by Patti Bossio, bringing the tally to 3-1.

Booters drop number ten to Westfield

By BOB MITCHELL
Collegian Staff

WESTFIELD—Marty Noquiera's goal at 14:34 of the second half lifted the Westfield State Owls to a 3-2 win over the UMass men's soccer team here last night.

Noquiera's tally, his second of the night, spoiled a Minuteman comeback. UMass had scored two goals early in the second half to tie the game at two, after Westfield had taken a 2-0 advantage at halftime.

The Minutemen, playing on the artificial surface for the first time this season, had trouble with their footing on the frosty turf in the first half. The turf was rain-soaked from Tuesday's showers, and ice patches began to form as the temperature dropped into the 20's.

"This is the worst it's been," Westfield coach Jim Fonte said of the condition of the field. "We've practiced on it like this before but never played a game on it like this."

The Owls, who played all of their home games on the artificial surface, quickly took advantage of the early Minuteman mistakes.

John Franco took a feed from Noquiera and beat UMass goalie Paul Healey with a left-footed shot into the far right corner just 7:09 into the game. The score came after Minuteman fullback Chris New slipped and fell on the slick carpet.

The Owls upped the count to 2-0 when Noquiera notched his first goal of the game with 6:22 left in the first half. Keith O'Conner crossed a pass from the left side of the goal and Noquiera, charging toward the net, headed the ball just under the crossbar.

UMass, which had six corner kicks to Westfield's two, quickly tied the game at the beginning of the second half.

Tony G. Dias rolled in a Scott Cooper feed just 1:58 into the half after a scramble in fron of the net to cut the margin to 2-1.

Fritz Pike then scored the equalizer 12 minutes later after taking a pass from Tony M. Dias. Pike outraced Owl goalie Brian Jarvis to the ball and tipped a rolling shot into the far right corner after Tony M. had sent a looping feed in from the top of the penalty area.

Pike cited the field conditions as UMass' main problem in the first half. "It was really slippery, you couldn't trap the ball correctly," Pike said. "I switched from sneakers to these (short cletes), it made a big difference."

Noquiera's second goal of the game however, was the biggest difference in the game as far as the Owls were concerned.

The quick forward blasted home the winning marker after Healey, who was playing in his first varsity game due to an ankle injury to regular starter Brett Olsher, was caught out of position.

"This is the best we've ever played here, but what are you going to do," UMass coach Russ Kidd said. "I'll say one thing though, the kid (Healey) did a good job in goal for us."

"The win will definitely help us," said Fonte, whose team elevated its record to 13-2-3. "Anytime you can beat a Division I team, it's got to help you. But we were lucky to hang on tonight."

The Minutemen, who dropped to 4-10 on the year, travel to BC Saturday before closing out the season against Springfield at home next Wednesday.

Minutewomen home for final matches

By Maureen Sullivan
Collegian Staff

The women's volleyball team ends its home season tonight when it hosts Smith College and Northeastern University at NOPE gym, beginning at 6:00 p.m.

The Minutewomen are coming off a split Tuesday night at the University of Connecticut. They beat the Huskies 11-15, 15-3, 15-11, while falling to Eastern Regional leader Rutgers University 9-15, 5-15.

"The win over UConn was more significant than our loss to Rutgers," said Coach Elaine Marasco. "We gave Rutgers a run for their money, and had we beaten them, it would've been a major, major upset. Against UConn, who is a Division One school like Rutgers, we blew them away."

"Our matches against UConn is an indication of how far this program's gone in the last couple of years. A year ago, we would've struggled to play UConn. In the early going this season, we were till struggling to keep up. Now, with the speed and defense we have, we can beat them. UConn didn't have a prayer in the match," she said.

As for its chances of going to the Easterns, Marasco said that the loss to Rutgers didn't hurt UMass' chances, but the win against UConn, its second in three matches this season, will "enhance" them.

"The win was good, but we need to do well against Smith and Northeastern," she said. "Smith is 17-4 and has beaten Springfield College. Northeastern's a Division One school and would love nothing better than beating us."

The matches tonight will be the last home appearances for senior co-captains Brenda Simmons and Peggy Barber.

After tonight, the Minutewomen travel to Rhode Island for the URI Tournament this weekend.

Maddie Mangini, shown here in action earlier this season, helped the women's soccer team to a crucial 2-0 win over Harvard Tuesday. Mangini scored one goal and assisted on the other by Nancy Feldman. UMass hosts Smith College this afternoon at 2:30 p.m. at NOPE field.(Staff photo by John Bunting)

Lucas to speak on Olympics

John Lucas, a member of the United States Olympic Committee's Educational Executive Board, will be speaking on "Moral Inperatives and the Modern Olympic Games," today at 1 p.m. in room 106 Thompson Hall.

Lucas, a sport history scholar, author and professor at Penn State University, believes that the U.S. boycott of the summer games was not warranted.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Volume CX, Issue [illegible] Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Mass. Friday, October 31, 1980

Former GOP co-chair says 'right wing' poses threat

By JANE DeVIRGILIO
Collegian Staff

The former Republican National Committee co-chairperson said yesterday the Republican party is dominated by a "fearful right wing" attempting to impose a "pervasive morality through legislation that will go as far as tampering with the judiciary of the country."

Mary Crisp, now the campaign chairperson for Independent presidential candidate John Anderson, resigned from her position as co-chairperson of the Republican party in July, when the GOP refused to include support of the Equal Rights Amendment in its platform at the Republican convention.

The Republican party has endorsed the Equal Rights Amendment for forty years, until it dropped the amendment this year.

> "If Ronald Reagan loses this election, I'd like to think it was because of the women's vote." —Mary Crisp

Crisp said "the Republican party has done stupid things like this in the past" that alienates the party from the country. "Many of us may be conservative economically, but not socially," said Crisp.

Calling herself a victim of this "frightening alliance of the radical right," Crisp said it is a group that has nothing to do with the greater interest of the people in this country.

"Once Ford lost, they tightened their grip, politicized and they would have used Phil Crane if they could have. I think once Reagan is defeated, he's out, but this alliance of the right will stay with us," said Crisp.

"They are ruthless people," said Crisp," who believe that if you give people something to hate, they'll support you."

Crisp said Reagan's promise to appoint a woman to the United States Supreme Court was "a politcally crass ploy" to gain support of women voters.

"If Ronald Reagan loses this election, I'd like to think it was because of the women's vote. If he wins, it will be not because women are voting for him but because they are voting against the incompetency of President Carter," said Crisp.

When asked about the dwindling support for Anderson, Crisp said "November 4 is the only poll with any significance," and if people voted their conscience, John Anderson will "surprise this country on election day."

Crisp said she felt "morally obligated" to resign from her position, and that her resignation was "honorable." She said allegations that she had personal differences with Reagan which led to her resignation are untrue.

Mary Crisp, spokesperson for the John Anderson campaign, makes a point during her speech here last night. (Staff photo by Dan Drollette)

Traditional UMass Halloween different this year

By ELISE GREENBAUM
Special to the Collegian

With the administration's closing of the Campus Center, it is questionable where werewolves, phantoms, and witches will materialize at the University of Massachusetts this Halloween.

The tradition of Halloween, or All Hallow's Day, began in the 9th century as a Scottish-Irish festival intended to honor the dead, according to the Encyclopedia Americana.

During medieval times in Europe, people believed that elves, witches, and fairies existed. Bonfires were lit historically to ward off these creatures that people feared flew around on All Hallow's Eve. These beliefs were modified in American culture, resulting in the present day mischievious Halloween behavior of school age "elves and witches."

UMass students have traditionally maintained Halloween's "spirited" quality. Masquerade balls highlighted by costume judging have been a favorite here.

In response to rumours of alternative plans to the University's traditional Campus Center costume parade in the Campus Center, the Southwest Assembly last night passed a resolution that they will not condone or advocate any outdoor, non-dormitory activities within the area during Halloween weekend.

Over the years, zippers, toothpaste tubes, Chiquita bananas, and meal ticket books were just a few of the disguises donned by students.

Occasionally a creative and original costume is duplicated. According to former Student Government Association President Jon Hite, several years ago many people dressed as Richard Nixon during the campus festivities.

For many students, experiencing a "good scare" is vital to an enjoyable evening. Horror flicks such as "The Bride of Frankenstein," "The Mummy," and "The Wolfman," Alfred Hitchcock mysteries, and three-dimensional ghost thrillers were favorites with UMass students on Halloween when programming was permitted in the Campus Center.

In past years, Orchard Hill Residential Area successfully frightened its residents with a "horror tunnel" filled with sinister apparitions. Umass students needing a dose of fright have also enjoyed haunted houses in the Amherst area.

The tradition of celebrating Halloween at UMass began around 1967-68, and was centered around individual dormitory masquerade parties rather than a single, central activity, according to Hite. As the school grew, more and more unaffiliated individuals began arriving at UMass to attend the ties.

Due to the extensive vandalism and security problems of the last few Halloweens, a closed guest policy will be enforced this year in the dormitories, and the Campus Center will be closed. Administration approval and assistance in planning campus activities could turn Halloween at UMas back into the pleasurable time it was a decade ago, said Hite.

An 80,000 barrel natural gas storage tank at Union Oil Co. of California refinery in Wilmington, near Long Beach Harbor, undergoes its annual transformation to the "Great Pumpkin" as Halloween nears. Union Oil annually decorates the tank, seen by thousands of southern Californians at Halloween since the painting first took place nearly 30 years ago. (AP Laserphoto)

Women warned of Halloween weekend violence

By KATHLEEN HOWLEY
Collegian Staff

The Women's Issues Team, a group from the Student Center for Educational Research and Advocacy (SCERA), has posted flyers warning women and Third World students to take precautions against the increased violence and sexual abuse traditionally associated with Halloween weekend at UMass.

Ellie Bagli, one of the four professional staff members of the group, said she believes the closing of the Campus Center will increase the danger to women.

"I think it's going to make things much worse," she said, "because people will have nowhere to go. No provisions have been made for the students . . . It's more of a problem this year because people are making it a problem."

The pamphlets advise people to protect themselves and avoid dangerous situations by traveling in groups, refusing rides from anyone they don't know well, and reporting any dangerous or suspicious occurences.

> . . . one out of three women in the United States will be raped in her lifetime, and 64 percent of on-campus assaults occur in coed dormitories.

It also emphasizes that violence against women and Third World people is a year-round, nationwide problem. According to statistics available from the team, one out of three women in the United States will be raped in her lifetime, and 64 percent of on-campus assaults occur in coed dormitories.

"A lot of people aren't aware of the problem and don't realize how dangerous this weekend can be," said Mimi Turchinetz, a member of the Women's Issues Team.

According to Turchinetz, sexual harassment can be either blatant, as in cases of rape, or subtle, such as verbal abuse.

She called the closing of the Campus Center a "band-aid solution," and said "it isn't the answer to the problem."

University administrators ordered the Campus Center closed to prevent students from congregating on the concourse as they have in the past. The building will be closed from 6 p.m. today until 6 a.m. tomorrow morning and will close again tomorrow night and reopen Sunday morning.

Rape counselor advocates at the Everywoman's Center in Wilder Hall also caution women against wearing costumes which may imobilize them, and to remain aware of alcohol and drug consumption during the evening.

The Everywoman's Center sexual assault hotline is 545-0800, the police emergency line is 545-3111, and the 24-hour Health Services line is 549-2671.

World and national news

Threatened Species

An African elephant charges an intruder to protect the herd. A report on the first continent-wide census of African elephants, recently presented to the National Geographic Society in Washington, puts the number of elephants killed every month for their tusks in the thousands to satisfy the demands for ivory jewelry, art objects and piano keys. (AP Laserphoto)

Deputies boycott Parliament

Hostage debate delayed again

By The Associated Press

Boycotting deputies forced postponement of the long-awaited open debate on the U.S. hostages in the Iranian Parliament yesterday, creating new doubts and uncertainties on the fate of the captives. Another session was set for Sunday.

President Carter, asked by reporters in New York whether the hostages would be home by election day Nov. 4, said: "I have no way of knowing. The American people understand what the situation is. It's an unpredictable thing."

Speaker of the Majlis, or Parliament, Hashemi Rafsanjani, said the United States was supporting Iraqi military attacks, and that made debate "very difficult."

Deputies who oppose any action on a hostage settlement until after the U.S. presidential election milled noisily outside the assembly chamber while legislators inside tried and failed to raise the necessary quorum - 179 of 228 members.

Some 66 deputies failed to heed pleas broadcast on Tehran radio that they appear for the scheduled hearing of a special committee report on terms for the Americans' release. The first anniversary of their captivity falls Nov. 4, the same day as the U.S. election.

When it became clear that no more than 162 of the members were going to show up at Parliament, the apparently infuriated Judge Sadegh Khalkhali stormed to the rostrum waving his white turban in the air and pleaded for a quorum so debate could begin, according to a Danish reporter.

Khalkhali, called "the hanging judge" for the large number of death sentences he has meted out since the revolution, is known to be a hardliner on the hostage issue.

But on Wednesday, a Swedish reporter quoted Khalkali as saying "we want the hostages to be freed before the presidential election in the United State next Tuesday," and preducting debate would end Thursday.

Mass. utilities allowed to buy additional shares of Seabrook

BOSTON (AP) — Three private electric utilities in Massachusetts were given approval by the Department of Public Utilities yesterday to purchase nearly $200 million in additional shares of the controversial Seabrook, N.H. nuclear power plant.

The announcement said the DPU decision "provides the Seabrook project with necessary support to complete construction of its facilities."

Another case, involving up to $335 million in financing by the Massachusetts Municipal Wholesale Electric Co., a consortium of city-owned utilities, is still pending before the DPU.

Montaup Electric, Fitchburg Gas and Electric Light and New Bedford Gas and Electric Light are the three companies which will be permitted to increase their present ownership interests in the Seabrook project by 3.87 percent.

The action "will ensure for the consumers that their future energy needs will be provided by reliable service at just and reasonable rates," DPU Chairman Doris Pote said in a statement.

But Lt. Gov. Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., blasted the decision as "economic nuclear waste."

He said, "The DPU has now committed the rate-payers of (the three utilities) to a 30-year sentence to bail out Seabrook.

"This new round of purchases has resulted from attempts by the Public Service Company of New Hampshire and two Connecticut electric companies to unload shares of Seabrook which they could no longer afford to own. Massachusetts is, in essence, becoming a dumping ground for what could be called economic nuclear waste which no other state wants."

The total cost of Seabrook is now estimated at $3.1 billion, according to O'Neill.

The DPU, in a 300-page decision, said it considered possible alternative energy sources to Seabrook.

But, "the record indicates that none of these (alternatives represents) a source which offers, when compared to Seabrook, the same degree of certainty for meeting the demonstrated needs of the petitioners."

Khomeini report discounted

SHREVEPORT, La. — Presidential adviser Frank Moore was quoted Wednesday as saying Ayotollah Ruhollah Khomeini "has cancer of the colon" and "is not going to last long." But the White House said it had no information that the 80-year-old Iranian ruler is terminally ill.

Moore, who heads the White House congressional liaison staff, was interviewed Tuesday by the Shreveport Journal during a stop here while campaigning for Carter.

During a discussion with editors about U.S. concern for safeguarding Iran's internal security, Moore repeated the Carter administration's position that "It is not in our best interest in the short range or in the long range to see Iran disassembled ... we need to see it stabilized."

Digest

Associated Press

Nuclear plant closes for repairs

ROWE — One day after it re-opened, following a nine-month shutdown, the Rowe Yankee nuclear power plant closed for several hours Thursday for repairs of a leaky valve, a plant official said.

The valve was repaired and the plant returned to operation about 2 p.m., Audio said. He said the malfunction was totally unrelated to the nuclear side of the plant's operation, and that the leak posed no danger.

The Rowe plant re-opened Wednesday after being shut down since February for repairs to its turbines. The plant was scheduled to re-open Saturday, and its early return angered a Western Massachusetts anti-nuclear group that filed suit last week to keep the facility closed.

Auto insurance rebates sought

BOSTON — Attorney General Francis X. Bellotti, who has recommended a $75 million boost in Massachusetts car insurance rates for next year, argued yesterday that the industry should refund $12.5 million on its current rates.

Bellotti's staff presented his case for a $5 rebate per vehicle before state Insurance Commissioner Michael Sabbagh. A recent state Supreme Court decision requires Sabbagh to consider further adjustments in the 1980 rates.

Bellotti said the insurance companies are seeking to collect additional money from Massachusetts motorists because they have received less than 8 percent returns on their investments over the last five years.

However, Bellotti argued that the insurance companies could have earned higher returns if they had invested in low-risk government bonds, which last year yielded 11 to 13 percent interest.

"...If the companies failed to achieve even these minimal riskless yields, the burden must fall squarely on their shoulders and not on the automobile drivers of Massachusetts," Bellotti said in a statement. He urged Sabbagh to order rebates in the form of credits on 1981 insurance premiums.

ROOTIE KAZOOTIE'S
Bar/Restaurant
"Halloween Party" Prizes
- TONIGHT -
Rootie Kazooties Look-Alike Contest
6-8 ladies eat & drink for ½ price!
8-10 men eat & drink for ½ price!
Reverse Margueritas & Rum Smoothies $1.00
Thornes Market, Northampton 586-8878
(next to Steve Herrells Ice Cream)

STEEPLE JACKS
Home Cooked Food
at its Finest
Breakfast-Lunch 6-2 pm
Located in the
Belly of Sunderland

THE UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AT AMHERST
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
and the University Arts Council present the
Minnesota Orchestra
Neville Marriner, Music Director
WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 1980 8 PM
Tickets now on sale at the Fine Arts Center Box Office (M-F, non-4 pm) Phone reservations accepted through Monday, Nov. 3 (413-545-2511)
$9, 8, 7 General Public
$8, 7, 6 Senior Citizens
$4.50, 4, 3.50 UMass Students

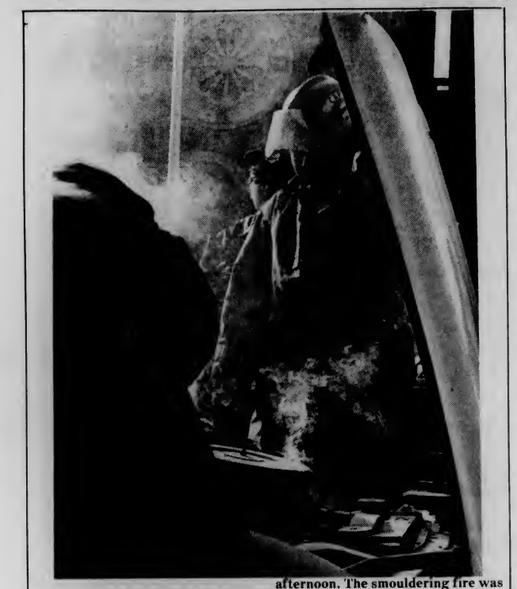
Subscription Rates

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 325 220) is published daily Monday through Friday excluding vacations, exam periods, or holidays, for $15 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

ABSENTEE VOTING
BE COUNTED!
VOTE
ABSENTEE BALLOTS FOR THE 1980 FEDERAL ELECTIONS WILL BE NOTARIZED IN THE MEMORIAL HALL LOBBY ON THE FOLLOWING DATES

Wednesday	October 22, 1980	9 AM - 5 PM
Thursday	October 23, 1980	9 AM - 5 PM
Friday	October 24, 1980	9 AM - 4 PM
Monday	October 27, 1980	9 AM - 5 PM
Tuesday	October 28, 1980	9 AM - 5 PM
Wednesday	October 29, 1980	9 AM - 5 PM
Thursday	October 30, 1980	9 AM - 5 PM
Friday	October 31, 1980	9 AM - 4 PM
Monday	November 3, 1980	9 AM - 4 PM

Sponsored by The Division of Student Services
The Office of Alumni Affairs
The Dean of Students Office



An unidentified motorist has some smoky car trouble in front of the Amherst Post Office yesterday afternoon. The smouldering fire was quickly brought under control by firefighters. (Staff photo by Dan Drollette)

CC advised to delay candy counter work

By SAM CHAFLEN
Collegian Staff

The Board of Governors last night passed a motion to advise the Campus Center administration to delay its planned expansion of the Student Union news and candy shop.

Renovations are scheduled to begin in the second week of November — two weeks before the final examinations period.

Attempts to delay construction until intersession were made by board members. Peter Taggart said he "can't believe it is in the best interest of the students" and expansion could pose a "serious potential threat to the (student-run) co-ops."

Campus Center Director William Harris reminded the board that it was notified of the planned expansion last summer and students have had the opportunity to voice opinions on the plans.

The expansion would allow the news and candy shop to sell products such as stationary and toiletries which cannot be purchased anywhere in the Campus Center Student Union complex while the University store is closed.

Also the advisory board rescinded a $325 payment and debated a conflict of interest within the board's membership.

Member Nancy Seraphin questioned whether $325, originally tagged for the Governor's Program Council to film a music group,couldn't be reduced by making use of the Union Video Center's staff. The Governor's Program Council wanted the $325 to film a workshop by "Papillion," a group that specializes in "future music" and features electronic synthesizers. The $325 included $232 for personnel. The Governor's Program Council promotes non-musical events on campus.

According to Harris, the funding would serve to subsidize "Papillion" and not serve the student interest. Harris indicated that such an allocation could be considered frivolous and would be taken into consideration by the Campus Center administration during its upcoming review of the Governor's Program Council's budget.

Board member John Furbish introduced the motion to rescind the $325. The motion was passed unanimously.

Vice-Chairwoman Martha Casey questioned whether a conflict of interest was posed by Furbish's involvement in both the Union Program Council and the Campus Center administration. Furbish is paid by both groups.

"Obviously," Furbish said, "there are matters which, when it comes to a vote, I should excuse myself."

UMass students participate in election campaigns

By ED LEVINE
Collegian Staff

As the nation prepares to elect a new president next Tuesday, many Univeristy of Massachusetts students are busy working on campus and in the surrounding area, talking to voters, handing out leaflets, and mailing letters in an effort to help get their candidates elected.

Francis Moore, campus coordinator for the campaign of Independent John B. Anderson, said about 40 students have been working since January on Anderson's campaign distributing campaign literature to homes in Amherst, Chicopee and Greenfield, in addition to staffing a table in the Campus Center and talking to student in the dormitories.

Moore said the UMass Anderson campaign formed early this year before the primary season. After the state contest, the students spent most of their time distributing petitions to get the candidate's name placed in the ballot as an Independent. Since then, Moore said, the students have worked campaigning in the area; they also sponsored last night's appearance by former Republican Party chairperson Mary Crisp, now Anderson's campaign chairperson. In addition, the group was instrumental in bringing Anderson himself to campus last spring.

Moore said he has seen some enthusiastic support for Anderson at UMass but added many students are reluctant to help in the campaign, fearing that it may interfere with their studies, and that the candidate has no real chance of winning the election.

"Most people were excited when he first came on campus," Moore said. "But now people think he's a spoiler and are chicken to vote for him. But there's not much to lose in this election at all," Moore said.

Moore said he has worked for Anderson since the state campaign began early this year, and now devotes about 20 hours a week to the effort.

James Garrity, who coordinates President Jimmy Carter's campaign at UMass, says he has about 45 people, who have been working this semester running a table in the Campus Center, distributing leaflets at football games and area shopping centers, and mailing campaign literature to students in the dormitories.

Garrity said he has run Carter's UMass effort since January when the campaign began. Once the primaries ended, the Carter campaign at UMass grew as supporters of Sen. Edward Kennedy joined. This semester, the group has brought Rep. Robert F. Drinan and Martin Luther King III to campus to speak for the president.

"Our main purpose is to stress the differences between Carter and Reagan," said Garrity, 19, a sophomore history major from Milton. "We started giving this message a month ago and we've been getting a lot of positive results. The undecided vote on campus is drifting towards Carter.

Efforts to contact campus representatives of the Reagan campaign were unsuccessful.

Election countdown

Sylvan elections are invalidated

By JIM KANE
Collegian Staff

The results of Wednesday's Sylvan Area Government Elections were invalidated yesterday due to the failure of Cashin dormitory to open its polling place, Area President Chris Ferretti said.

Ferretti cited a general lack of organization in the running of the election. He said the polling hours had to be changed twice because of student election workers not showng up at the polls.

On the ballot were the positions of area president, vice-president, and treasurer, said Ferretti. Ferretti said all three candidates on the ballot ran for president, while the remaining openings drew only write-in candidates.

This was the second unsuccessful attempt to hold elections for these positions, said Ferretti, whose term, under normal circumstances, would have expired last May. Ferretti said an election was scheduled for last May, but no candidates ran for any of the vacancies. He said because of this, he has "been running the area government single-handedly for the past eight weeks."

Ferretti said that from the other two dormitories in Sylvan, a total of 123 persons voted, roughly ten percent of the area's population.

Calling this turnout "ridiculously low," Ferretti said student awareness of the election suffered because 'candidates did not campaign and make themselves visible.' He also cited apathy in the area house councils.

Ferretti said he would have to consult with the student senate before planning another election to will be held before the end of the semester.

He said he is considering holding future elections in conjunction with SGA elections, using the same polling place and ballots to avoid the organizational problems which occurred in this election.

Bobby Mitchell, a Salem State College student exploring UMass discovers a leaf in the campus center pond. (Staff photo by Nancy Nutile)

UMass students favor Anderson

By ED LEVINE
Collegian Staff

A survey released yesterday by Project Pulse of the Student Affairs Research and Evaluation Office indicates that University of Massachusetts students want Independent candidate John B. Anderson to be the next president. Students, however, are still undecided.

Of 364 students surveyed earlier this month, 115, or 33 percent, indicated they favored Anderson. Pres. Carter was preferred by 86 students, or 24 percent, followed by Republican Ronald Reagan, who was preferred by 36 students, or 10.1 percent. About 32 percent of the students surveyed indicated they were undecided.

When asked who they felt would win this year's election, 44.3 percent said Carter, 37.9 percent said Reagan , 7 percent said Anderson.

Of the students polled, 75.4 percent said they were registered voters, and 72.1 percent intended to vote. Another 13 percent said that they did not know whether they would cast a ballot.

When asked what they felt were the most important issues in this election, students listed, in order, the economy, foreign policy, inflation, defense and military issues, the hostages in Iran, the possibility of war, the arms race, the draft, energy and nuclear power, and abortion.

Another survey published Tuesday by the Collegian showed similar results, with 26.7 percent of the students for Anderson, 24 percent for Carter and 6.7 percent for Reagan. About 22 percent of those surveyed said they were undecided.

The Collegian survey also showed students concerned with the economy, foreign policy, energy, national defense, the possibility of war, the hostages, nuclear energy, the Equal Rights Amendment, the draft and abortion as the major issues.

About 78 percent of the students in the survey said they were registered voters.

A spokesperson for Project Pulse said their survey was conducted at random with students' names chosen from computer listings. Of the students interviewed, 46.9 percent were female, and 53.1 percent were male; about 30 percent were freshmen, 27 percent sophomores, 20 percent juniors, and 22 percent seniors.

Journalism Majors
Don't be an imp!
Join the Collegian

OVERSEAS AUTO PARTS
For the most complete line of foreign auto parts and accessories in the Pioneer Valley.
Get an extra 10% off our low prices with this ad.
offer expires Nov. 15, 1980
API
Zayre Shopping Plaza
Rt 9 Hadley, MA 01035
Tel 253-3403
authorized API distributor

THE GREAT-ES-SKATE
COCO
DOWNTOWN AMHERST / 256-6004 (across from the fire station)
SKATE SALES & RENTALS
Indoor & Outdoor Skating Specialists
Boots, Plates, Wheels & Bearings in all price ranges.
GROUP RATES & PARTIES OPEN SEVEN DAYS A WEEK...10-5

One Performance Only
Sunday, November 16 7:30 PM
Springfield Symphony Hall
Seats: $9.50 $8.50 $7.50
Tickets at THE CENTER Box Office, 1277 Main St., all TICKETRON OUTLETS, or PHONECHARGE (413) 787-6600
A Springfield Attractions Inc. Presentation

ITALIAN FILM FESTIVAL
Bertolucci's
The Spider's Strategem
Tuesday Nov 4 7 & 9 pm C.C. Aud.
!! FREE ADMISSION !!
Nov. 18: Fellini's classic "Roma"
Dec. 2 Visconti's "Death In Venice" or Toviani's "Padre Padrone"
Presented by U-Mass Arts Council/Governors Program Council with assistance from Italian & French Dept.

BlackAffairs

Black Affairs staff reporter Kim Greene, is hard at work interviewing an artist. Photo by Barron Roland

Community meets to Ease tension

ATLANTA AP — A federal agency has called a meeting Wednesday of about 25 community leaders in an attempt to ease tensions caused by the slayings of 10 black children here and reports of renewed Ku Klux Klan activity.

Invitations were sent last week to representatives of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith and other civil rights and civil liberties groups, said Ozell Sutton, regional director of the U.S. Justice Department's Community Relations Service.

"These are the people who would be concerned about problems of ethnic or racial conflict," Sutton said. He added that the meeting will deal with Atlanta blacks' feelings that they are "under siege" because of the killings here and violence against blacks in other cities.

Since July 1979, 10 black children have been found slain in Atlanta and four others have been reported missing.

"We do not have the information to tell us conclusively that one person is responsible," Public Safety Commissioner Lee Brown said Monday night. He said authorities are not ignoring the possibility that the cases might involve 10 different killers.

Barretto in Concert

Latin jazz drummer, Ray Barretto will appear at the Student Union Ballroom as part of the Duke Ellington Series on Nov. 14 at 9:00 p.m.

Barretto started his musical career in the army while stationed in Munich, Germany. He learned of "jam sessions" at the G.I. club through a few of his friends, and joined in beating on the back of a banjo. Soon he became obsessed with jazz, and attended every "jam session" that he could.

After he left the army, Barretto returned to New York, and started performing with Charlie Parker, Max Roach and many other jazz giants. He also recorded with many jazz artists including Dizzy Gillespie, Gene Ammons and Red Garland.

Barretto formed his own band called the Fania All-Stars. Here he began to bring back his roots and changed his style to Latin music. He signed with Riverside Records and recorded two albums. The most successful, "Latino," has become a collector's item. Signing with Tico Records, he recorded "Charanga Moderna," which became one of the most popular albums on the market. This album contained a composition that Barretto wrote entitled "El Watusi" bringing him recognition at the top of the charts.

Ray had succeeded; it had paid off. Now a Fania Records artist, Barretto has traveled to Europe, Africa, Venezuela, Puerto Rico and all over the U.S. His albums "Acid and "Hard Hands" were outstanding successes.

Ray Barretto is appearing during the Black Homecoming week in November. He will contribute to our Third World community and broaden our perspective of great Latin music.

Announcements

Black women in medicine

A symposium, "Black Women in Medicine," will be held on Saturday, November 1, at 2 p.m. in Converse Assembly Room, Amherst College. Speakers will be Dr. Dahlia Kirkpatrick, pediatrician, Memorial Sloan Kettering Hospital, State Mental Health; and Dr. M. Comrie, obstetrician-gynecologist, Harlem Hospital. They will speak on their lives as black women in medicine and professional and society's attitudes directed toward women, especially black women.

Hair

Brothers and Sisters: Do you need your hair cut, trimmed, shaped or styled? Available and qualified, contact Marlene E. Duncan. (Listed in the Student Directory)

Drum

We invite you to share in the interpretations of the Black Experience. Poems, essays, artwork and photography are now being accepted for the Fall-Spring 80/81 editions of DRUM magazine. All submissions should be addressed to: DRUM, 115 New Africa House, UMass/Amherst 01003. Deadline for submission is Thursday, November 20, 1980. All contributions become the property of DRUM. Do not send originals.

Third world Theatre Series

The Third World Series presents Carlos Anderson's "The Healing of Sugar" on Nov. 1 and 2 in Hampden Theatre Southwest. The tickets are $2 for students and $3 for general public.

Halloween Precautions: Keep them home

By DAVID L. LANGFORD
Associated Press Writer

With the slayings of 10 black children in Atlanta still unsolved and crime rampant in Miami, officials in those two cities agb asking citizens to set aside tradition and keep their children at home on Halloween.

Halloween, says Dade County Juvenile Court Judge Adele Faske in Miami, offers criminals a "license to do what they want."

But nowhere in the country are parents more aware of what dangers lurk on the streets at night than in Atlanta, where four youngsters are still missing in addition to the 10 who have been strangled, bludgeoned or suffocated in the past 15 months.

Atlanta Public Safety Commissioner Lee Brown on Thursday urged parents not to allow their youngsters to go "trick-or-treating."

"Instead," Brown said, "we are encouraging parents to have community parties for the children on Saturday, during the daylight hours. Persons having parties on Halloween are being asked to call police and let them know the locations of the parties."

In Miami, where homicides, robberies and assaults have doubled in recent months with a heavy influx of Cuban refugees without jobs, the judge said she fears criminals in Halloween masks might go door to door robbing unsuspecting people.

"Identification is down the drain," she said.

Authorities in other cities, aware of Halloween atrocities against children in past years, are taking precautions against such things as razor blades, pins and glass imbeded in apples or candy laced with poison or hallucinatory drugs.

In Knoxville, Tenn., costumed technicians at the Park West Hospital will X-ray any goodies brought in by children to make sure they are safe. A flouroscope will be used for the same purpose at Venice Hospital in the southwest Florida city of Venice.

But the Long Island community of Central Islip, N.Y., has come up with one of the more original safeguards against junk food that has been tampered with. Residents will give out coupons instead.

Danielle Alduino, a PTA official in Central Islip, said between 36,000 and 40,000 coupons redeemable for a nickel apiece have been sold to hand out to trick-ortreaters.

"The children like them because they can redeem them for a toy or something," she said. "It doesn't have to be candy any more."

"The first year,"she recalled, "Children would tell each other, 'go to that house, they give coupons."

One free, one indicted

MIAMI AP — A jury on Tuesday found one black man guilty of manslaughter and another black man innocent in the death of a white motorist who was beaten and mutilated during racial riots in May.

Both defendants had been charged with second-degree murder. The Dade Circuit Court jury of five whites and one black deliberated just more than three hours before finding 18 year old Frankie James innocent of all charges and 20 year old James McCullough guilty of the lesser charge of manslaughter.

It was the first trial stemming from the three-day Miami riots, which left 18 people dead.

Judge Marco Goderich set McCullough's sentencing for six weeks from Tuesday. McCullough faces a maximum sentence of 15 years in prison.

The riots erupted on May 17 within hours after an all-white jury in Tampa found four white ex-police officers innocent of charges that they fatally beat black Miami insurance man Arthur McDuffie.

James and McCulough were charged in the May 17 death of 22 year old Jeffrey Kulp, who was pulled from his car and fatally beaten, stabbed and shot at the height of the violence. The riots caused an estimated $100 million worth of property damage.

Ray Barretto will be performing at the SUB Nov. 14 at 9:00 p.m. Tickets are available for the concert. For further information call Duke Ellington Committee at 545-2892, (UPC office) or Ahora at 545-2517.

By Brumsic Brandon, Jr.

LUTHER
PEE WEE, IT'S ALMOST TIME TO HAND IN YOUR TEST PAPER...
... AND YOU HAVEN'T EVEN BEGUN! WHAT'S WRONG?
I THINK I NEED A JUMP START, MISS HART!
BRANDON JR.

The Stables

Best Breakfast in Town - Special Still only 99c

Rt. 9 Hadley Opposite Mt. Farms Mall

SALE
Friday & Saturday
BARGAINS and TREATS
$20.00 sale rack

the SHOE BIN
no coupons on sale items
187 n. pleasant st., amherst

FOUR SEASONS
HALLOWEEN SPECIAL

Molson Golden	9.99
Miller btl	7.99
Bud btl	7.99
LaBatts beer & ale	10.99
Schmidts bt	6.99
Gordon's Gin 1.75	11.89
Castillo Rum 1.75	9.99
Mr. Boston Vodka 1.75	8.99
Donelli Lambrusco 1.5L	3.69 750 1.99

New Posters Have Arrived!
Wines/Liquors
Open 9-11 PM
rte.9, hadley, ma./584-8174
In front of the malls

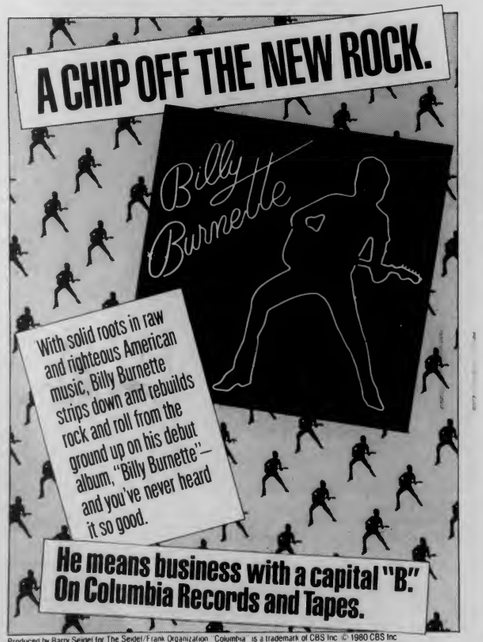
FOR DAY OR NIGHT

HALLOWEEN PARTY!
FACES invites you to attend a demonstration; be made up by HELEN DREHER of Stagelight Cosmetics... ALL DAY HALLOWEEN!

...IT'S STAGELIGHT

STAGELIGHT Cosmetics
the new cosmetics
FACES
A Store-full of Ideas
Downtown Amherst /Open 10-6, Mon.-Sat.

A CHIP OFF THE NEW ROCK.



With solid roots in raw and righteous American music, Billy Burnette strips down and rebuilds rock and roll from the ground up on his debut album, "Billy Burnette"— and you've never heard it so good.

He means business with a capital "B." On Columbia Records and Tapes.

Produced by Barry Seidel for The Seidel/Frank Organization Columbia is a trademark of CBS Inc © 1980 CBS Inc available at your favorite record store

Today's paper was produced by:

ghost writer — Catherine Clabby head witch — Fran Basche spellbinder — Dayle Thompson master of illusion — Cheryl Senter abracadabra crew — Donna Sullivan, Lise Zeiger, Michele Jones, Michael Krumpe, Mary Kinneavy

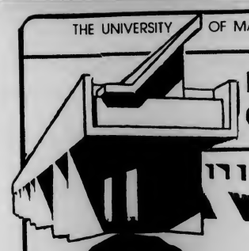
FRESH SEA FOODS
MASSE'S FISH MARKET, INC.
SPECIAL OF THE WEEK: Alaskan King Crab Legs 4.49/lb.
Haddock — FRESH FISH — Steamers
Scrod, Salmon, Sword Fish, Sole, Clams, Lobsters,
MARKET HOURS:Tues. 1 PM-4:30 PM; Wed. 9 AM-6 PM; Thurs. 9 AM-6 PM; Fri. 9 AM-7 PM; Sat. 9 AM-4:30 PM;
FRIED FISH, SCALLOPS, CLAMS sold during the following hours:
Wed. 10 AM-5:30 PM; Thurs. 10 AM-5:30 PM; Fri. 10 AM-6:30 PM; Sat. 10 AM-2 PM
High Protein, All Natural
170 N. Pleasant St. Amherst, Mass.

Old Mr. Boston
Peppermint Schnapps
1 liter. $5.69

Bud.....$7.99 case
Miller.....$7.99 case
Molson any flavor.....$2.85 six
Tuborg Lite/Dark.....12 oz/nr's $2.10 six

C & C LIQUORS
Behind the Police Station
For Off Campus Delivery
253-3091

THE UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AT AMHERST



FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL

in cooperation with the University Student Activities Office, presents

SONNY ROLLINS
Saturday
November 15, 1980
8 PM

A Duke Ellington Series Concert

Tickets now on sale at the Fine Arts Center Box Office (M-F, noon - 4 pm). Phone reservations accepted through Th., Nov. 13. (413-545-2511)
$7, 6, 5 General Public
$6, 5, 4 Senior Citizens
$3.50, 3, 2.50 Umass Students

50 wonderful years for us & for you

Happy Anniversary

MIKE'S WESTVIEW CAFE
you'll never forget you've been here

Happy Halloween
Tomorrow Afternoon & Night

Today starts the next Half-Century for Mike's we'd like you to help us celebrate with an afternoon Happy Time starting at 3 PM
Roll Back the Prices!!!
Pitcher's of Bud $2.75
Schnapps Ginger, Peppermint, Cinnamon, Spearmint .95c
Mike's usual great Free Buffet No Cover extending into the evening with Halloween Party & Costume Contest at 10:00 P.M. with a Cash Prize of $50.00 for the Best Costume, $25.00 for 2nd prize
Free T-Shirts

WANTED FOR COUNTY COMMISSIONER

Preserve Nature's Great Gifts To Mankind

Progressive Ambitious Energetic Determined Concerned

Your Ecological Concerns Are His Too

David E. West is Wanted for a strong voice in your county government. Dave opposes nuclear power and the proposed plan to divert water from the Connecticut River. He is also concerned with the handling of sanitary landfill and toxic wastes as well as the preservation of farmland. Your vote for Dave West will allow him to work for everyone concerned in Hampshire County.
Whatever You Do, Get Out and Vote on November 4, 1980.

SALE!
ONE DAY ONLY... SATURDAY, NOV. 1
100% COTTON
SHIRTS
if perfect... ~~12-18.00~~
almost perfect...
2.95
3 for 7.95

FACES
A Store-full of Ideas
Downtown Amherst /Open 10-6, Mon.-Sat.

Editorial/Opinion

Editorials

Each other

The University has taken drastic steps to prevent and respond to incidents of violent behavior that have characterized Halloween weekend on campus. Closing the Campus Center and increasing building security and police patrols should help to provide for the protection of students who will celebrate responsiblity from those who may not.

But the task of looking after the safety of thousands of students spread over an area as large as the UMass campus is beyond the capacity of even the most extensive and determined security force. The certain protection of your friends, your neighbors and yourself depends on your awareness of threatening circumstances and dedication to preventing them from resulting in the tragedies of rape and other forms of violent crime.

The success of this weekend, particularly in the memories of campus women who are the worst to suffer acts of violence, will be the triumph of our caring for each other's welfare. We must look after each other to carry the happiness of our Halloween celebration.

Letters

More on Zionism

To the Editor:

This letter is in response to Lou Golden's letter "Zionism 'far from being racist' " (Collegian, 10/17).

It is hard to believe that the Zionist movement — a movement supposedly devoted to representing world Jewry and defending its interests — could itself adopt a policy of provoking anti-Semitic acts. Yet this was the case, and even David Ben Gurion himself publicly expressed his view of the use Zionism could make of stirring up waves of anti-Semitism as a means of increasing immigration to Israel.

The New York Jewish newspaper Kemper on July 11, 1952, quoted Ben Gurion's outrageous proposal (originally published in the Israeli daily Davar) as to how immigration might be increased, "I shall not be ashamed to confess that if I had the power, as I have the will, I would select a score of efficient young men — intelligent, decent, devoted to our ideal and burning with the desire to redeem Jews — and I would send them to the countries where Jews are absorbed in sinful self-satisfaction. The task of these young men would be to disguise themselves as non-Jews, and plague Jews with anti-Semitic slogans such as 'Bloody Jews,' 'Jews go to Palestine' and similar intimacies. I can vouch that the results in terms of a considerable immigration to Israel from these countries would be ten thousand times greater than the results brought by thousands of emmissaries who have been preaching for decades to deaf ears."

After the Kishinev pogrom of 1903 — the worst of Czarist Russia's anti-Semitic outrages, in which forty-five Jewish men, women and children were massacred — Herzl not only expressed his satisfaction and hope that "anti-Semitism would serve as the driving force which would be conducive to the influx of Jews to the Promised Land" (Herzl's Diaries, p.7), but he also carried out his plans to visit the sinister Von Plehve — Czarist Minister of the Interior and organizer of pogroms — and reached an agreement with him on how to further Jewish immigration to Palestine. Von Plehve promised moral and material support, as well as promising to bring Russian pressure to bear on Turkey in relation to Jewish colonization of Palestine. (Ch. Weizmann, Trial and Error, p.83)

As for Zionist co-operation with Nazi Germany, it started shortly after Hitler came to power in 1933. The first irrefutable evidence of this collaboration is the Haavara (transfer) Agreement of 1933 between the Jewish Agency and the Nazi regime. The agreement enabled Germans of Jewish faith to transfer their capital from Germany to Palestine in the form of German goods. In 1938, Pino (Pinhas) Ginsberg was sent by the Zionists to Nazi Germany where, under the auspices of Eichmann's Immigration Agency, he set up the Jewish Agency for Palestine. According to Ben Hecht's Perfidy (New York, 1961), the last known Zionist-Nazi agreement was made as late as 1944 between Rudolf Kastner, the Jewish Agency representative in Hungary, and the Nazi occupation authorities, represented by Adolf Eichmann.

In the early fifties, an Israeli writer, Malchiel Greenwald made public the Kastner agreement and accused Kastner of collaborating with Nazism. The Israeli Government promptly sued Greenwald for libel, but his trial brought to light a number of Zionist conspiracies and secret Zionist collaboration with Nazis concerning the dreadful holocausts and mass-murder of innocent Jews during the Second World War. The fact that Kasner's Jewish Agency Rescue Committee had helped Nazis exterminate the bulk of Hungarian Jewry in exchange for 600 prominent Zionists was confirmed. According to the judge in the Kastner trial, "The sacrifice of the majority of the Jews in order to rescue the prominents (Zionists) was the basic element in the agreement between Kastner and the Nazis." (Judgement given on 22 June 1955. Protocol C.C. 124/53 in District Court, Jerusalem.) In any case, Kastner's agreement was justifiable according to official Zionist policy. "Selectivity," in the words of Executive Vice-Chairman of the United Jewish Appeal, Henry Montor, "is an inescapable factor in dealing with the problem of immigration to Palestine." (Letter to Rabbi Baruch Rabinowitz, Congregation B'nai Abraham, Hagerstown, Maryland, February 1940.)

These are a few methods used the Zionists to increase immigration to Israel. The victims of these policies were not only Arabs and later the British but also, and most shocking of all, the Jews themselves, whom the Zionists claim to represent. As long as such policies continue and as long as Zionism continues to persecute and consolidate the exclusive state of Israel, humanity will continue to suffer.

Mohammad Saleh
Amherst

Be on the lookout

To the Editor:

We, the student leaders of Southwest, feel a great need and urgency to write this letter to all the students of Southwest. As you know there will not be much programming on Campus for this weekend due to t he violence and vandalism that has erupted over the last two years. This weekend many students will disguise their true identities and seek to have a good time, even if the Campus Center is closed. The Executive staff, the Southwest Assembly, and the Southwest President's Council ask your cooperation in dealing with certain situations that could very well arise. As Univeristy students we should protect and strengthen the image of the University, and this weekend will be a very big testing ground.

We hope that the residents of the Southwest Residential Area will be on the lookout for people who destroy or vandalize our homes and physically attack our fellow residents, for usually they are the outsiders. Let's protect our community and act as mature and level headed students so that Southwest will be able to show to the University our ability to cope with these situations. Have a good Halloween but dont let it be too spooky.

Ruth Mazzola
Kevin Mangan
Co-Presidents, Southwest Assembly

Skin color not issue

To the Editors:

With all due respect, I would like to clarify a few things in regard to your article on the series on Jewish women. I and three other women and Rabbi Saul Perlmutter met with a representative of the Collegian a few days before the series, "The Ways a Jewish Woman Can Be." In the interview, the issues facing Jewish women, and Jews and women in general, were discussed.

One aspect of oppression is that one finds oneself defined and ruled by others. For Jewish women, the definiations of ourselves come from many different forces — the secular and Jewish patriarchy against us as women, and the secular community against us as Jews. In the interview, we discussed many aspects of our misrepresentations by these various forces, and how we as Jews and as Jewish women internalize these misrepresentations. The interviewer did not take direct quotes, and the "slight" change in her representation of what I said made a difference. Both of the "quotes" taken were paraphrased and inaccurate.

We did, in the interview, discuss as one aspect of our internalized oppression, the issues of beauty, but I did not say that all Jewish women have dark, dark skin and dark eyes. In fact, it was made very clear that this was not the case, as one of the women interviewed has blonde hair, and others of us have light skin. The main aspect of our oppression is not skin color, and I believe that this is an important clarification to make because in saying that skin color is an issue for Jewish women (it is an issue for some Jewish women) denies the experience of women of color and people of color whose oppression rests very heavily on their skin color.

It is dismaying as well that other aspects of the oppression of Jewish women weren't brought out in the article, but it is the aim of the series, "The Ways a Jewish Woman Can Be," to begin to discuss the aspects of our lives as Jewish women — our oppression, our joy. And to begin to clarify our own sense of self, free of those misrepresentations imposed upon us.

The series so far has been exciting and rejuvenating. All are welcome to attend.

Emily Loeb
for the Jewish Feminist Organization

Murders sickening

To the Editor:

I'm sick because they're so sick. It's really happening, I realize that, and so I'm sick.

Two men, who were black, were murdered and had their hearts cut out. They had their hearts cut out with a knife! Their hearts were real, their blood was real, and they were really murdered and had their hearts cut out because they were black. Think about that for a little more than a second, dear editor, because that is really frightening. It is coldly petrifying. Another man was an engineer (possibly just like your dad) who was eating lunch, but he was black too. And now he's dead too — shot in the head while he was getting his damn nine to five lunch, because he was black.

And I am sick, I'm nauseated, I am about ready to throw up about all this. Because, "his heart was cut out," is no metaphor; it really happened. It's not just tonight's news. Can you even begin to imagine killing someone and using a knife to cut out their bloody heart because they are black!?! If you can then you are very, very sick, and if you can't (and I hope to hell you can't) then isn't there an overpowering reason to get upset? I can't even start to tell you what to do about it, what organization to call, where to go, and who to talk to — I really don't know; all I know is that if there's any reason in this world to make you want to just plain break down and scream and get angry, then the reality of these events is most definitely one. There are many others, but this horror is too obvious, too close to ignore.

The people who did these things are terribly sick, and terribly real, and terribly close. They held a public rally — a goddamned public rally! — in Connecticut little more than a month ago. They aren't hiding out in back rooms down South anymore; their leaders aren't even wearing hoods anymore! They stand in front of you on television, smiling faces to the world, and explain their political views to you and I'm really sick of it. They can sue the Connecticut state government for false arrest. (And you know, the scary thing is that they may win!)

But the black engineer can't sue anybody anymore, because he's dead, because he was black. Now don't you think that's a pretty good reason to get upset?

Orville Wright
Amherst

Book like the election debate: Not very funny

More How to Speak Southern
(Bantam) $1.95
By Steve Mitchell

Books

By SUSAN RING
Collegian Staff

Mulling over the reams of print I've perused lately, it occurred to me that More How to Speak Southern, while devoid of literary and entertainment value, might shed some light on what went on during the recent debate sponsored by the League of Women Voters.

In his introduction, Mitchell says the purpose of his book is to amuse, entertain, and preserve "the distinctive and delightful Southern accent." The book fails on all three counts. Both Northerners and Southerners are shown derogatorily. The Civil War is an obsession with Mitchell and it just isn't funny.

Sam C. Rawls' cartoon of two "good ole boys" commenting on the intelligence of a character bearing a striking resemblance to President Carter, is a fine starting point in our interpretation. The caption reads "Thet boy aint real braht . . ."

The same may be said about his opponent. Both candidates had considerable trouble with the issue of "ahr" pollution. They couldn't get their facts straight.

Carter was serious through the entire evening but Reagan chuckled several times. Mitchell's example of how to use the world "mawk" seems pertinent here; "You ought to hear him mawk President Cotta."

President Carter did not have a monopoly on bad moments. Although Reagan is against the Equal Rights Amendment, he attempted to show he is in favor of women's rights. He would probably be more comfortable with this line of Mitchell's: "Jeans are nice, but I'd rather see a woman in a DRESS."

Mitchell defines "dollin" as "another term of endearment. President Jimmy Carter got in trouble for calling a woman reporter this . . ." Neither Carter nor Reagan called Barbara Walters "Dollin" after she pointed out neither of them had answered her question concerning methods of dealing with terrorists.

Another Mitchell definition: "Izril: A nation of which Southerners are inordinately fond, mainly because they respect its fighting ability . . ." Carter, who made no bones about being a Southerner, spoke fondly of "Izril" at several point during the debate; this tactic may stem from his fondness for the Jewish vote.

All in all, it doesn't seem that the debate will have much of an effect on the "lekshun (a political contest)."

Nor will this book have much of an effect on the general public.

Sunday Nov. 2
Campus Center Aud.
5, 7, 9, and 11pm
Adm. 50¢
DARK STAR
The Mission of the Strangelove Generation!

Q PRESENTS
Halloween October 31st
Martian Highway
Costume party
9-2 a.m. cover charge
Saturday Nov. 1st
DISCO
9-2 a.m.
800 sq. ft. dance floor
area's largest disco
bonus ticket for free
drink $ 10 pm cover charge
(off I-91 exit 19) Rte. 9, Hadley, Ma
18 & 19 yrs. old welcome

PAINTS... for Face & Body
FACES
Downtown Amherst

Amherst Gulf
(formerly D & M Sunoco)
Skilled Auto Mechanics
Foreign & Domestic Auto Repair
Honda
Volvo
Datsun
Toyota
Subaru
Saab
VW
Capri
Trouble Shooting
Disc Brakes
Tune-Ups
Fuel-Injection
Exhaust Systems
Electrical
Suspension
catering to the Campus Area
Open 7 Days a Week
call
256-8936
48 N. Pleasant St., Amherst
Center of Amherst

amc THEATRES
TIMES SHOWN FOR TODAY ONLY
ADULTS $2.75 STUDENT & SR CITIZEN WITH AMC CARD $2.25 SPECIAL ENGAGEMENTS EXCLUDED
THE LITE SHOW $1.75 THE LITE SHOW LIMITED TO SEATING
HAMPSHIRE 4 584-7550 HAMPSHIRE MALL ON CAFE SQ RT 9 HADLEY MASS
WALTER MATTHAU & LINDA JACKSON
HOPSCOTCH
Fri & Sat (4:45 @ $1.75) 7:15-9:45
Sun (4:45 @ $1.75) 7:00-9:30
Matinees (Sat & Sun) 2:00
R
MARY TYLER MOORE
DONALD SUTHERLAND
Ordinary People
Fri & Sat (4:30 @ $1.75) 7:15-9:45
Sun (4:30 @ $1.75) 7:00-9:30
Matinees (Sat & Sun) 2:00
R
"TALES FROM THE CRYPT"
A 94 hour nightmare
FRIDAY THE 13TH
Friday & Saturday
All Shows start at 12:15 AM
all seats $2.50
LOVING COUPLES
starring Shirley MacLean
Fri & Sat (5:00 @ $1.75) 7:30-9:55
Sun (5:00 @ $1.75) 7:15-9:30
Matinees (Sat & Sun) 2:15
PG
THE ROCKY HORROR PICTURE SHOW
R
Frank Sinatra - Faye Dunaway
The First Deadly Sin
Fri & Sat (4:45 @ $1.75) 7:30-9:55
Sun (4:45 @ $1.75) 7:15-9:30
Matinees (Sat & Sun) 2:15
R
MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9 HADLEY MASS
GOLDIE HAWN as PRIVATE BENJAMIN
Fri & Sat (4:45 @ $1.75) 7:30-10:15
Sunday (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30
Matinee (Sat, Sun) 2:00
R
JILL CLAYBURGH
It's My Turn
Fri & Sat (5:00 @ $1.75) 7:45-10:15
Sunday (6:15 @ $1.75) 8:30
R
CHARLTON HESTON SUSANNAH YORK
THE AWAKENING
Fri & Sat (4:45 @ $1.75) 7:30 10:00
Sun (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:15
Matinee (Sat, Sun) 2:15
R
A roaringly funny tale ...
Clarence the Cross-eyed Lion
Saturday & Sunday @ 2:15
All Seats $1.50
G
ANTHONY HOPKINS
THE ELEPHANT MAN
Fri & Sat (4:30 @ $1.75) 7:15 10:00
Sun (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15
Matinee (Sat, Sun) 2:00
PG

JOIN US FOR PRE-GAME
TOUCHDOWN
FOOTBALL BRUNCH
at
Top of the Campus Restaurant
Murray D. Lincoln, Campus Center
Brunch is Served from 10:30 am · 1:00 pm
ONE
COMPLIMENTARY DRINK
Bloody Mary or Screwdriver
ALL YOU CAN EAT
Fresh Juices, Fresh Fruit,
Waffles
Home Fries, Bacon, Chicken Livers
Chipped Beef on Toast
Scrambled Eggs, Eggs Benedict
Assorted Danish, Blueberry Muffins
Coffee and Tea
$5.95 per person
HOME GAME SCHEDULE
Nov. 1st. Minutemen vs. Univ. of Connecticut 1:00
Nov. 15th Minutemen vs. New Hampshire 1:00
Nov. 22nd Minutemen vs. Boston College 1:00

the rusty nail Inn

Fri. Oct. 31
Widespread Depression
& The Cardiac Kids
cover $3.00/college ID

Sat. Nov. 1
The Shades
cover $2
(New Wave)

GEORGE THOROGOOD & THE DESTROYERS
NOV. 6

Rt 47 Sunderland MA 665-4937

GRAND OPENING CELEBRATION

OUR 12th LOCATION OPENS OCT 30th

OPEN 8 A.M.-5:30 P.M. WEEKDAYS 8 A.M.-3 P.M. SATURDAYS

HAPCO AUTO PARTS

9 Main St., Belchertown

Four weeks of prizes and grand opening specials!

Come in to see our brand-new store and register to win our Grand Prize—a valuable men's Seiko quartz watch.PLUS ... weekly prizes and daily giveaways! (At our Belchertown store only. No purchase necessary.)

Our HAPCO stores in Amherst and Belchertown are celebrating by offering these grand opening specials! All prices are effective Oct. 30th through Nov. 5th.

Save 58¢!
AMALIE 10-40 IMPERIAL
87¢/qt.
Reg. $1.45/qt.
"Better than it has to be"
Limit: 6 qts. to a customer.

Save $3.08!
12' JUMPER CABLES #112B
$4.87
Reg. $7.95
100% Pure Copper

Save $5.25!
AUTO BODY REPAIR KIT #700
$15.87
Reg. $21.10
• DENT PULLER • BODY HAMMER • ANVIL • RASP • MANUAL • FILLER • SANDPAPER • SPOT PUTTY • SPREADER

Save $6.08!
21-piece METRIC TOOL SET #WMSKC 21
$18.87
Reg. $24.95
in metal case

What the pros use
SHALER RISLONE ENGINE TREATMENT #1000R
Save 55¢
$1.47/qt.
Reg. $2.00/qt.
Promotes immediate lubrication. Quiets noisy valves, lifters.

Save $4.00!
FOXCRAFT CAR RAMPS #CR 75
$15.87
Reg. $19.87
• 1 pc. unitized HD steel • 1 pair supports up to 5000 lbs.

We carry a full line of:
• starters • alternators • water pumps • brake parts • front end parts • exhaust systems • carburetors • fuel pumps • ignition for domestic & foreign cars

BELCHERTOWN: 9 Main St. 323-7887
HAPCO AUTO PARTS
AMHERST: 534 Main St. 256-6414
. . . where there's always a parts pro to help you

12 GREAT STORES SERVING WESTERN MASSACHUSETTS
AMHERST: 534 Main St.; BELCHERTOWN: 9 Main St.; CHICOPEE: 182 Exchange St.; HOLYOKE: 480-490 High St.; GREENFIELD: 11 Olive St.; PALMER: 416 Main St.; PINE POINT: 226 Boston Rd.; SPRINGFIELD: 727 Main St.; TURNERS FALLS: 131 Ave. A; WESTFIELD: 151 Elm St.; WEST SPRINGFIELD: 246 Memorial Ave.; WILLIMANSETT: 831 Chicopee St.

Smith College Rec Council Presents

SPYRO GYRA

Saturday Nov.8, 1980
8 p.m.
John M. Greene
Smith College
General Admission $5.00
Tickets available at
For the Record - Amherst
Platterpus - Northampton
Main St. Records - Northampton
no cans or bottles, please

NECKWEAR

in imported wools, silks, leathers, and more

SIENNA FINE CLOTHING
243 Main Street, Northampton 586-6457

Minutewomen split two

By MAUREEN SULLIVAN
Collegian Staff

The women's volleyball team's chances for the Regionals dimmed last night as it split a tri-match with Northeastern University and Smith College at NOPE gym.

UMass overcame the Huskies' blocking and its own mistakes to sweep Northeastern 15-10, 15-9. Spiking at the outside by seniors Peggy Barber and Brenda Simmons (who played their last games last night), and freshman Nancy Joraskie's three serving aces paved the way for the Minutewomen.

Against Smith College, UMass could not get anything going against Smith's serving. Poor passing and block coverage helped Smith take a 15-9, 15-11 victory from UMass.

While trying in the first game to rally from a 4-11 deficit, the Minutewomen showed spots of power, only to stall. Ahead 11-7 in game two, UMass stalled again; Smith rallied to raise its record to 19-4.

"What can you do about it?" UMass Coach Elaine Marasco said, "We must do well in Rhode Island this weekend."

UMass faces Springfield College, Hofstra University and East Stroudsburg at the URI Tournament this weekend.

PSYCHOTHERAPY: Individuals, couples, families. Sliding fee scale.
Psychological Services Center
545-0041

silverscape
Natural Cuisine
•fresh baked quiche
•breads, honey desserts
•homemade soups
•pocket sandwiches
•cappuccino • espresso
COFFEE EQUIPMENT
Coffee Beans
15 varieties
$3.99-4.69/lb
•Wine Imported Beer Liquored Coffee
adjacent to UMass Campus
264 n. pleasant st. amherst
Mon-Sat 9 AM-Midnight Sun 11 AM-Midnight

CRAFT FAIR

Presents A Quality Craft Show
Sat. & Sun. Nov. 1 & 2
11 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Pattie Harnden of North Andover, Mass. is one of the many crafts people from all over New England who will be displaying and selling their hand made wares at the show.

Featuring Quality Craftsmen

With, jewelry, pottery, leather, puppets, toys, quilts, Christmas crafts, stained glass, macrame, rugs, furniture, clocks, dried flower arrangements, hand bags, etc., plus many one of a kind unusual crafts.

To Be Held At Fairfield Inn Chicopee MA
460 Memorial Drive at Exit 5 Mass Pike

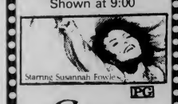
There are a few openings still available for crafts people to sell their wares. If interested call 617-263-7243 (CRAFT FAIR, 36 Hammond St., Acton, MA 01720.)

Admission $1.25 Children under 12 Free $2.00 per couple with this ad.

TACO VILLA
Wholesome Inexpensive Refreshing Change
Downtown Amherst
Mon (CASH Anyone)
Fri + SAT- 11-1am
Sun-Thurs 11-9

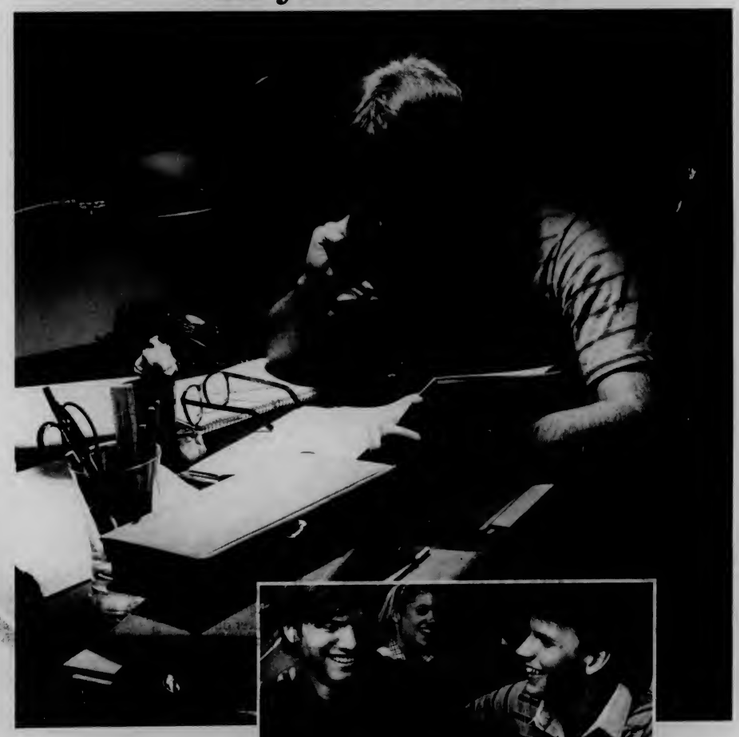
Deerfield Drive-In Theatre
Route 5 & 10
So. Deerfield, Mass
Tel. 665-8746
Fri Sat Sun
Oct. 31 - Nov. 2
INSIDE DESIREE COUSTEAU X
also
SENSUAL ENCOUNTERS OF EVERY KIND X
Showtime 7:30
under 18 not admitted
Police to check ID's

ACADEMY of MUSIC
Northampton, Mass.
- Double Feature -
Now, Ends Tuesday
Shown at 9:00



Starring Susannah Fowles
PG
The Getting of Wisdom
Plus at 7:00
Peter Weir's Classic "PICNIC AT HANGING ROCK"
AT THE GATES OF SMITH COLLEGE

When you need some notes at 3:00 a.m., you find out who your friends are.



You left the notes for chapter 6 in the library. A sure sign that tomorrow's test will be heavy with questions from chapter 6. Someone you know is about to get a phone call. He's not going to like it, but he's going to come through. When this is over, do something special for him. Tonight, let it be Löwenbräu.

Löwenbräu. Here's to good friends.

© 1980 Beer brewed in U.S.A. by Miller Brewing Company, Milwaukee, Wisconsin

Collegian Classifieds

To place a Collegian Classified
•Come to Collegian Office CC 113
•8:45 to 3:45 Mon-Fri
•Classified deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day

Collegian Classified Rates
•15c per word
•Student rate 10c per word
•Cash in advance
•5 consecutive days 5 % discount
•Phone number FREE

AUDIO

Onkyo-TX2500 Receiver 40 watts $160 546-5788

Cassette Deck— Technics 630US front loading with Dolby, dB meters and other features Great for recording! $90.00 546-7483

AUTO FOR SALE

Ford Galaxie 1966 excellent condition $400 or BO 549-4635

69 VW runs good AM-FM cass. inspected best offer call Chris 256-0353

67 Mercury 60000 mi one owner professor best offer 549-4930 ext 296 office 549-1896 home

COLLOQ

Summer fashion - from Marblehead to Hyannis to Silver Hill. Joan Kennedy, facilitatrix. 2 credits

COMMUTER REFERENDUM

A referenda will be held on Monday November 3, from 11:00 to 6:00 outside the Hatch on the Commuter elections validity. There will be a pro and con argument on the question. if you are a commuter, please vote on this referendum question Further info: contact 5-0341

DISC JOCKEY

Why not have a succesful party? Hire quality Disc Jockeys!! Denis 546-6249 Andy 546-1164

ENTERTAINMENT

Soundsystem and DJ for hire perfect for band parties coffeehouses Rick 584-4105

FOR SALE

Gift Idea: Portrait Drawings; call dennis Delap 665-2972

TRS-80 48K or 16K System must sell mint condition call for details 546-7050

Backpack new cost $150, sell for $100 will bring to Campus 1-684-3121, 1-442-6023

Moving, must sell 1970 Valiant runs well, $1200.00 Yamaha 12-string guitar, $200 or BO furniture 253-3101

Single bed $40 Carol 549-5440 after 5

1966 Buick Wildcat PS, PB, PW, AT, snows 300 or BO 323-7774 Rick

73 Gremlin 600.00 or best offer call 584-7094 after 7 PM

1969 Dodge Coronet 4-door $250 call 546-1136 or 1-413-543-2661 anytime

Harmon Kardon 330B 2 Jensen speakers I'll make a deal Patti 549-6338

Mattress/sofa Queensize futon with pillow. Both have slipcovers All 100% cotton. 1 month old $175 253-2427

Electric Guitar Gibson SG tune-o-matic bridge, grover pegs, hardshell case. Mint condition. $450. (neg) Chris 546-7809

Mag Wheels 14x6 for most G, cars call Phil 546-6675

Top grade leather mens boots size 8½ like new. Call Dave 586-0800 after 5:00

FOUND

Pocket Calculator in Thompson Hall call 549-0101 eve 659-3885 ask for Liz

HELP WANTED

Wanted part-time radiology technician for multi-specialty group practice please call 256-8561 ext 248 M-F 8 am-4 pm

Summer Work Box 213, Amherst MA 01004

Cruises—Club Mediterranean, Sailing, Expeditions! Needed: Sports Instructors, Office Personnel, Counselors, Europe, Carribean, Worldwide! Summer. Career. Send $5.95 + $1 handling for application OPENINGS, GUIDE to CRUISEWORLD 16160129, Sacramento, Ca. 95860

Newspaper Deliverer wanted Mornings 6:00 AM to 8:00 AM Must have car Call 549-5059

Recycling Project has w/s openings to help with glass, paper and aluminum pickups. $3.50/hr. Call 545-0618 or come by room 306 Student Union Ask for Steve

INSTRUCTION

English Classes (ESL) Elementary, Intermediate. Two hours an afternoon, except Wednesday. Faculty/student spouses, visitors, immigrants. People's institute, Northampton. 584-3956 NLI, P.O. Box 34, Northampton

Hypnosis Speed reading Rm 909 Campus Center Nov 12, 13 at 7 PM all welcome KR Morse 532-5703

Guitar Instruction bluegrass & traditional orientation 10 yrs professional teaching experience reasonable rates Jerry 549-5650

INTERNSHIPS AVAILABLE

Legal Assistant Interns Wanted: The Legal Services Office has 8 positions available for full-time legal assistant interns for the Spring 1981 semester. Up to fifteen credits may be earned through Office of Internships. Legal assistants assist attorneys of the LSO with client interviewing, investigations, legal research, negotiations, giving advice and referrals, preparation of court forms, and attendance at hearings in District and Superior Courts, and participation in administrative hearings and federal litigation. Maintain continuing case load under supervision of attorneys. Applications available at Office of Internships, Curry Hicks Building, and inquire further at Legal Services Office, 922 Campus center. Applicationsdue November 7, 1980 at Office of Internships. Writing sample required. All third world and women students are encouraged to apply.

LEGAL SERVICES

Attorney Jason Rosenthal reasonable rates Days 584-4285, Evenings 253-7617

LOST

Nova Owners I hitched back to Boston on Friday Oct. 10 I left a brown and tan reversible jacket in your car call 6-7470

Lost keys—Sat nite wall across from Thoreau Reward 6-7461

Wool Blazer dark brown in Franklin Sentimental value Reward 6-6754

One room key on a leather "J" keychain between Sylvan and Puffton around Sat 10/18 call 6-4246

Burgundy Leather Jacket 10/24/80 Lot#63 Reward call 546-9366

Lost Friday bike bey on rawhide cord between UM & Amherst desperate 256-8678

Very large neutered male cat Black and grey stripes with some orange. White paws and chest I miss my cat, please call Karl at 256-8346

Lost electric bianket off the roof of my car. So. East St or Rt 9 Its dreadfully cold at night call 253-7503

Pair of women's eyegiasses in Central Area call 546-4753 Reward

YOU found my PENTAX PLEASE return it, I NEED it, LARGE REWARD Steve Thomas 545-2240 or 467-7091

Reward for return of small black pouch containing tools for bassoon reed making. PLEASE CALL 586-1739

Ladies' Watch black cord band Reward! contact Norma 256-0632

Dark plaid kerchief in Thompson 104 Grandmother's very sentimental reward 546-6278

PERSONALS

Undergrad Pol. Sci. Assoc. interested in becoming member? Sign-up Rm 422 Thompson

Career Day 1980 Tuesday, Nov. 4, 10-4 PM. 1st floor Campus Center. Come hear distinguished speakers discuss career opportunities in various fields of business. All welcome! Sponsored by Undergraduate Business Club

Marching Band for sale. Once in satisfactory condition, now running scared. Buy now—will be totally useless after 11/1/80 Contact director, UConn Husky Marching Band

Debbie Have an excellent Birthday Do it up! Love Robyn

Heidi O. Where have you been all my life?? Dave JFK upper

What's so funny about subleting Jill?

Pete - There's no one I'd rather be attacked by - your passive victim, Ellen

To the wabbit hope you have lots of carrots on your 21st birthday remember I will be your Knight in Shining Armour happy birthday from your neighboring mouse

Happy weenie Miguelito May all your treats turn into TRICKS!! Love and Besitos, L. Kazan

To the lady in black, Laura, the sexy witch with the ruby slippers Happy 20th Lovey Duck

Hi Favori Let me borrow those eyes OK? Love Mike

Diana - Here it is your own personal personal at last - guess who

UConn Husky "Band" - you just never learn! Prepare ye the way of the UMMB!!

hey uconn - give it up. U know who's got the Most Awesome Superior Sound UMMB!!

Happy Halloween Birthday Gwen

Eat me, I'm a jelly donut! Love, Al

Hey Gwen - whack the big one on your Birthday! Love, Traci, Peggy, Abby & Debbi

Gwenllyn, you hyperactive "cracker" fiend. Go wild!! XOXO B.O.C.-1

Barb Russell - finally legal!! Happy Birthday - Go for it! Liz

Diane - Don't worry, don't be bummed love Lisa

Wendy - Dis everything come out alright?

Happy Halloween to the one and only Bookbinder family. Love Bella

To the basic Eric this one is for you. Happy Halloween from a basic friend

LBS-TV is #1 and so is it's president! Thanks for putting up with my recent manicness. The Maid

Andrea - The cat club announces that you are not forgotten! Your gift is on its way and you'll love every inch --2baatmoo

Diane - only one more year and I can take my ID back. Happy Birthday Bren

Happy Birthday Linda love Ira Dudley and a pregnant ant

To the BTB's: the most "exclusive" house at UMass, you're all fantastic and I'm glad I'm one of you! Love M

Sally got a guy with looks lucky her he also cooks. Diane got a guy who's hot electric blanket she needs not

CTM your the best roomie. Let's do it again next semester PS where's the unicorn's paint

ROB - Finally legal to do everything you always did before. Thanks for the evening escort to dinner from little sister Dines Meyeus, your favorite F.C.P. your rumored partner, and the Quarters Champion

Mary Shuffleton, Here's to a SUPER roommate and friend! You finally made it! Happy 20th Birthday and Happy Halloween Marium Love, Pamatious

Tony, Boar of the week number one piglover lets go scooping for some real sows love, the women on 4-south

Robbie - This note is worth reading: Happy 20th Birthday! Your 113-114 sidekicks, Jin & Mike

Bitsie - Two years! A cold duck taost to many, many more. Luv ya always, Mark

Kathy: To the good times! L.D., PJ's, Kahluas, parties, riverboat, Salisbury 495, etc! Happy Halloween, Happy Birthday! I love you! Jean

Barbara you finally made it! Now you can say goodbye to Joan F. forever. Happy Birthday! Julie

Ellen Happy tenth I don't need to tell you how I feel except that my feelings for you grow every day love Joey

Fitzy, Larry, Andy, Hugh, Salty, Tom, Craig, Happy Halloween! May the great pumpkin bring you all kinds of organic goodies love AB

Jim - Good forever for one giant hig Pami

Happy Birthday Judi - we know, we know, "right here buddy!" hugs & kisses Ape & Krol!

"Aichi" Happy 20th Don't get too burnt out before Sunday night. Love, Persie

Darlene, Sharon, Rose, Michelle, John--Happy Halloween! Remember, Sunday afternoon is only 48 hours away!

Youre never too old for trick or treat candy on Halloween 50c a bag at CC

Lisa sex, drugs, and rockn' roll! How about it? Debbi

Happy Birthday to Lori, Sue and Linda love Leslie, Janet and Allison

"Happy Eternity Cokel" I love you lots Nance

RIDE WANTED

Ride needed weekends Brockton or nearby. Leaving Thursday night or Friday anytime. Share expenses call 546-7186

To Binghamton, Syracuse N.Y. or vicinity weekend of 11/7 will share expenses Rich 6-7493

ROOM WANTED

2 women seek 2 rooms House or apartment NEAR CAMPUS for Spring semester 546-9124/546-6342

Two responsible females seeking off campus housing for Spring semester call 546-5458

Women seek 2-4 bedroom house or apartment On bus route for Spring semester 546-1296 546-1137 546-1412

ROOMMATE WANTED

Puffton Village one bdrm in two bdrm apt $157 + lights Mike 549-3616 545-0731

Own room in beautiful, semi-coop farmhouse in New Salem for November 1. 985/mth + call David 617-544-2193

Friendly, responsible, independent roommates wanted Own room in 3 bdrm Rolling Green Apt. for Nov 1 $115/mth, includes everything Preferably female. Call Conworth or Shelley (617) 544-2193 Leave message

Male, quiet, non-smoking for own room in Riverglade Apt 85 + /mo 253-5487 keep trying

In S. Deerfield Quiet, non-smoking, serious (student preferred) person. Now until January 115 + /mo 665-7705

SERVICES

Experienced typist available Fast, neat work, reasonable rates. 546-6439

Typing; Words-Worth, 37 East Pleasant Street, Amherst, 549-1303. Double-spaced text from 95c a page. Justified resumes from $3.50 a page. Telephone dictation line. Overnight rush jobs. Your words are worth it.

Expert Typing, Editing reasonable rates 665-4815 evenings and weekends

Paul you're right there's nothing like an old fashioned spanking!

SHITTER & TUMA

Shitter & Tuma Happy Belated Birthday Love Spunky & Dicky

SONGWRITERS

Folk-Singer, song writer researching song writing at UMass. If you write original folk, or country music I would like to interview you and profile your work in my Research--call Joe at 665-2840 10 pn-11:30 pm or weekends anytime

TO SUBLET

EVACUATING your 2 bedroom apt this spring? We would like to sublet. Please call Maureen or Ellen 253-9685

One bedroom apt in Southwood from 12/1 or 1/1/81 to 9/1/81 w/option $235 + 256-8958

TRAVEL

Florida—The Great Getaway for Spring Break and January Term under $200 round trip jet 256-6704

UMASS FOOTBALL TEAM

Hey Monutemen - we KNOW you're the best!! Get psyched for Saturday. (Let's hope it doesn't rain!) We love ya, your cheerleaders

VIDEO JOURNALISM

Camera people. reporters, writers needed for Senate Watch, weekly TV documentary of senate meeting, campus issues, will train 545-1336

WANTED

Highest prices paid for class rings, gold, and silver jewelry. See me before you sell. Daniel Smith, 25 North Pleasant St between Fotomat and Logos, Amherst M-Sat10-6 call 256-0710

Want to be a judge for Southwest? Contact the S.W.A. at 5-0960 or attend their general meeting, Thurs @ 6:30 at The Hampden Student Center

WANTED TO RENT

Two responsible students and one westdude looking for a cheap 3 bedrm house near campus fireplace/woodstove and pet elephant Bonzo a must Happy Halloween you guys

Under the Influence — M. Joyce

DOONESBURY — by Garry Trudeau

WE'RE UP NEAR THE VISUAL CORTEX NOW, THAT PART OF THE BRAIN RESPONSIBLE FOR PROCESSING STIMULI RECEIVED FROM GOVERNOR REAGAN'S EYES...
UNHAPPILY, A SEVERE PERCEPTUAL DISORDER, WITHIN THE CORTEX ITSELF, HAS PLAGUED THE CANDIDATE'S VISION FOR YEARS...
INSTEAD OF LOOKING FORWARD THROUGH CLEAR EYES, REAGAN IS ONLY ABLE TO SEE BACKWARDS THROUGH A ROSE-COLORED MIST.
TRAGICALLY, HIS CONDITION IS THOUGHT TO BE INOPERABLE.
10-31
GBTrudeau

While You're This Bored — Cindy Downing

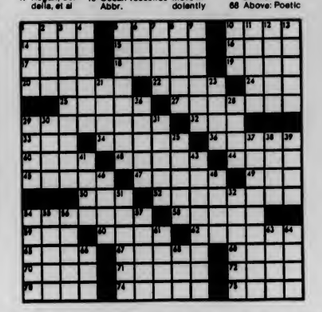
IT'S NOT HARD TO MEET PEOPLE FIG. JUST GO OVER THERE & START CONVERSATION!
OK., YEAH.
HEY THERE BIG FELLAH! HOW'S THE WEATHER UP THERE?
IT'S RAINING.
I GUESS HE HEARD THAT ONE BEFORE.
JIN

CROSSWORD

UNITED Feature Syndicate

Thursday Puzzle Solved:

O	S	A	G	E		S	C	A	B		L	A	M	A
R	O	M	A	N		T	A	K	E		A	N	A	S
A	R	E	N	D		A	F	T	E	R	M	A	T	H
L	A	N	G		P	I	E			E	T	A	T	E
					R	E	A	D		P	R	A	N	C	E	S
A	R	T	E	N	D		D	E	A	R	T	H
T	R	E	N	D		G	R	A	P	E		J	U	I	C	E
A	D	L	E		S	A	U	L	T		S	C	O	O	P
O	N	E		D	E	N	I	E	S		S	H	A	M	E
	S	W	I	D	U	S		D	E	A	L	E	A
M	A	C	H	E	T	E		L	E	A	D
A	N	D	I			L	O	V	E		D	A	T	E
D	E	P	E	N	D	S				D	I	O	N	N
A	L	E	E		A	L	O	E		A	C	O	R	N
H	E	S	S		B	I	M	S		S	K	I	M	S



D.C. Menu

LUNCH
Tuna Boat
Turkey Divan

BASICS LUNCH
Lentil Spinach Stew
Turkey Divan

DINNER
Beef Burgundy
Baked Cod with Crumb Sauce

BASICS DINNER
Potpourri
Baked Cod with Crumb Sauce

KOSHER MENU
Chicken Soup with Noodles
Gefilte Fish/Horseradish
Baked Chicken/Supreme Sauce, Cranberry Sauce

Spirit Haus

The full-line liquor store that's close and has convenient parking.

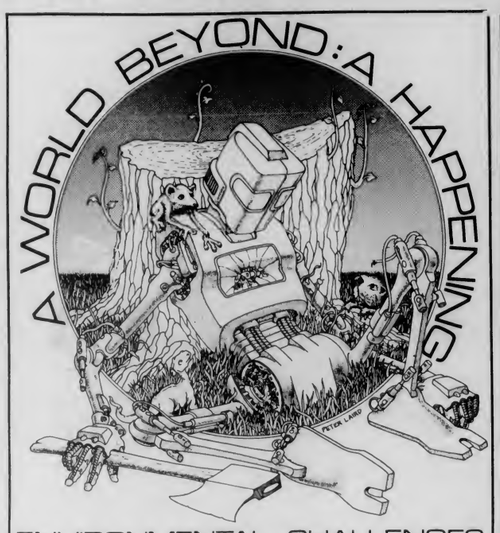
CHECK OUR WEEKLY SPECIALS ON BEERS, LIQUORS AND WINE.

Largest selection of wines in Amherst; friendly, knowledgeable staff.

KEGS - ICE - CUPS - SNACKS

338 College Street. Open till 11 p.m.
Telephone 253-5384

CARBUR'S
Restaurant & Lounge
FAMOUS SINCE 1896
BUS to US
Take the BUS TO US and Get FREE chicken wings & cheese-n-crackers with your Double Drinks during Happy Hour
4-6 and 9-11
Rt. 9 Hadley 586-1978



A WORLD BEYOND: A HAPPENING
PETER LAIRD
ENVIRONMENTAL CHALLENGES AS VIEWED BY SCIENCE FICTION / PHANTASY
SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1980
9 a.m. - 5 p.m.
Student Union Ballroom, University of Massachusetts/Amherst
NO ADMISSION CHARGE
FILMS
10:00 a.m.
Journey to the Far Side of the Sun (1969)
1:30 p.m.
The Island Earth (1955)
PANEL DISCUSSION
12 Noon
"Environmental Challenges As Viewed by Science Fiction/Phantasy Writers"
Authors: Jeffrey A. Carver, Robin McKinley, Frederick Pohl, Jane Yolen
Professors: Ernest Gallo, Charlotte Spivak, Marie Tedeschi, and Ernie Black
BOOK EXHIBIT
Thousands of Science Fiction and Phantasy Books Available to Purchase
Authors will be available for discussion and autographs
Sponsored by
THE UNIVERSITY STORE
University of Massachusetts
and
THE HOLYOKE NEWS COMPANY

ATTENTION COMMUTERS

A referendum to determine the validity of the recently held Commuter Senate Elections will be held by the Commuter Collective on Monday, Nov. 3, 1980 from 11 a.m. -6 p.m., outside the Hatch. Pro/Con Arguments will be posted at the ballot box. Please Cast Your Vote! Further info: 545-0341.

STADIUM LIQUORS

U. Mass. Amherst

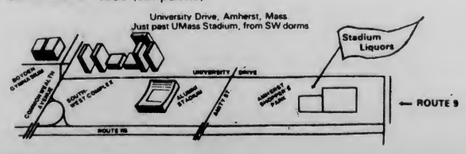
Catch Our Weekly Specials

KEGS—
BEER—
WINE—
LIQUORS

Save money—Save gas—Save time
10 a.m. — 253-5595 — til 11 p.m.

Miller	12 oz btl. or can 7.99	Gallo	3 litres 5.29
Bud	12 oz b tl. or can 7.99	Carlo Rossi	4 liter 4.95
Miller Light	12 oz btl. or can 7.99	Chateau Moreau	3 liter 3.99
Molson	9.90 case 2.75 six	Cossack Vodka	1.75 7.99
Moosehead	11.50 case 3.00 six	Cossack Gin	1.75 8.39
O'Keefe	9.90 case 2.75 six	Canadian Mist	1 liter 6.99
Lowenbrau	9.50 case 2.50 six	Pasqua 1.5 liter
Michelob Light		Soave Bardolino, Valpolicella	3.29
7 oz. 1.45 six 8.50 case (six packs)

University Drive, Amherst, Mass.
Just past UMass Stadium, from SW dorms



500—Parking places
Soda—Ice—Munchies

-Save gas-
Save money-
-Save time

Booters at BC

By SCOTT SOLOMON
Collegian Staff

UMass men's soccer team will be searching for their first win in six tries tomorrow night, when they face the Boston College Eagles at BC's Alumni Stadium at 7:30 p.m.

The Minutemen have not won a game since October 7, when they shut out UNH 2-0. It was the first and only home victory for UMass to date, and the first goals that the Minutemen have scored at home this season. UMass has tallied only three times in six home contests this year.

The Minutemen, (4-10) are coming off a stinging 3-2 loss at the hands of Westfield State College Wednesday. The UMass attack was led by sohpomore Tony G. Dias and Fritz Pike, who each picked up a goal in the defeat.

★ YanCon showdown

continued from page 16

MINUTEMAN NOTEBOOK:

Freshman Kevin Jackson will probably start at flanker in place of Mike Stone, who separated his shoulder against BU and could be gone for the year. Tough luck for Stone, a Watertown, Conn., native who would like nothing better than to play against the Huskies...Tony Matoin, who is Pearson's backup at tailback, is doubtful for tomorrow with a bruised leg. Leaves the backup duty to junior Mike Maloney...Herb Newland has very quietly kicked 9 of 10 extra points to go along with a field goal of 32 yards... UMass is still fifth in Lambert Cup voting; UConn is third...Food for though: after six games, UMass has been penalized 55 times for 564 yards while the opposition has been caught just 29 times for 277 yards...Nice to hear that Tony Jesi, cornerback for UMass who graduated last spring, has been doing a good job as defensive backfield coach for Wakefield High School...There were more people at this week's intramural football final than at last week's BU-UMass game...Sweitzer picked up his second Yankee Conf. weekly all-star honors for his performance against Maine...Miller, at 6'5', 240, is the biggest tight end UMass has faced this year...UMass sports information director Howie Davis must endure the onslaught of no less than 16 writers who follow UConn, including (for no apparant reason) a writer from the Providence Journal. "I can fit them all in," says Davis. "We have one extra seat, in fact. But the young neoole who work in our department will lose their seats."...speaking of Davis, kudos to him and the whole UMass staff for running the best press box in the Yankee Conf. this year...

--compiled by Steve Freker, Kevin Cullen and Goggles Pizano

家酒園南湖
Hunan Garden Restaurant

MANDARIN SZECHUEN CUISINE
"The Best Chinese Food"
Luncheon Specials Dinner Specials
Take-Out Service Full Cocktail Menu
Sun.-Thurs. 11:30 a.m.-10:00 p.m.
Fri. & Sat. 11:30 a.m.-11:00 p.m.
10 Belchertown Rd., at Route 9, Amherst
256-0251 256-0252

BE COUNTED!
VOTE
TIPS ON VOTING
2005 ABSENTEE VOTING
2006 VOTING IN AMHERST
545-1540
REQUEST TAPE BY NUMBER

"BARDWELL HAS THE EXPERIENCE IN COUNTY GOVERNMENT!"
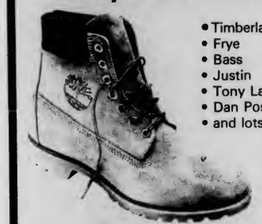
VOTE-NOV 4th AND HELP ELECT

WE NEED THIS MAN
CORY BARDWELL
HAMPSHIRE COUNTY COMMISSIONER
PAID FOR BY COMMITTEE TO ELECT A. CORY BARDWELL

Timberland
Why Heartfelt?



- Timberland
- Frye
- Bass
- Justin
- Tony Lama
- Dan Post
- and lots more

Heartfelt Leather
103 N. Pleasant St.
Downtown Amherst
Open 10-6 Mon-Sat
Open Friday till 8
253-5135

THE UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AT AMHERST
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
presents
The
CANADIAN BRASS
featuring
ROBERT J. LURTSEMA
Host of "Morning Pro Musica" narrating "HORNSMOKE" - a fantasy of the Old West by Peter Schickele (a.k.a. P.D.Q. Bach)
Wednesday, November 12, 1980 8 PM
Tickets now on sale at the Fine Arts Center Box Office (M-F, noon-4 p.m.) Phone reservations accepted through Monday, Nov. 10 (413-545-2511)
$8, 7, 6 General Public
$7, 6, 5 Senior Citizens
$4, 3.50, 3 UMass Students

TASTE THE BEER THAT OUTSELLS ALL THE OTHERS IN CANADA: LABATT'S.

Good news!
Labatt's, Canada's No. 1 selling beer, is now imported to the U.S. So, now it's easier to try our Labatt's—and understand the secret of its popularity
We think you'll discover a taste that's crisp, clean and natural—truly, the beer that tastes as good as the country it comes from.

THINK OF CANADA
THINK OF LABATT'S

PS The green Labatts bottle comes equipped with one of those twist-off tops—which can be rather handy, especially whilst one is otherwise engaged

© Labatt Importers, Inc., Amherst, N.Y. 1980

Sports

Deanna Denault gives it all she's got in yesterday's game against Smith. UMass defeated Smith 2-0. (Staff photo by Terri Bellafiore)

Win puts UM in Easterns

By MAUREEN SULLIVAN
Collegian Staff

The UMass women's soccer team made it 10-2-1 yesterday as it blanked Smith College, 2-0, on the lower NOPE field.

The win gives UMass a chance to host a team Nov. 5 in the Eastern Championships, as its record makes them one of the top four teams in New England. According to Coach Kalenkeni Banda, UMass will find out its position with the seedings tonight.

"Right now, we have the best record in New England," Banda said, "it's just a matter of waiting now."

Smith College and UMass tangled each other throughout the game, using close marking and many slide tackles to take the ball away.

The Minutewomen had a chance to score early, when Smith goalie Joni Bigwood mishandled the ball on her goal line. As the ball squirted out, Natalie Prosser tried to chip it into the open net, but the ball took a bad bounce, skidding away from the net and out-of-bounds.

It was a matter of passing and tackling until 27:25 of the first half, when Maddie Mangini lobbed the ball from a corner kick into the goal over Bigwood's left shoulder.

After that score, the defense took over for the rest of the half, as it plugged up several Smith opportunities around the goal area and midfield. Deb Pickett, Jacqueline Gaw and Deborah Fine were among the Minutewomen keeping Smith at bay. The half ended with UMass ahead, 1-0.

The second half opened with a UMass offensive surge, climaxed by its second goal at 4:10 of the second half. Deanna Denault took a feed from Stacey Filonis, who came from the right, and rammed it into the Smith goal for the final tally of the contest.

Smith tried several times to score, and it nearly did, but the defense kept away most shots. On those that got away, UMass goalie Kelly Tuller made close saves. When Smith broke away from the defense at about 19:00 of the half, it shot to the center of the net. Tuller shoved the ball up, catching it on the goal line as it came down.

The game ended with UMass dominating the ball, while Smith remained persistent to the end.

UMass plays its last game of the regular season against New Hampshire tomorrow at 1 p.m. at the NOPE fields.

YanCon showdown:

UM vs. UConn

By KEVIN CULLEN
Collegian Staff

[illegible] praying for rain tomor[illegible] to anyone from the [illegible] program.

The Minutemen [illegible] University of Connecticut Huskies [illegible] afternoon at 1 p.m. at Alumni Stadium in a game which [illegible] will decide the Yankee Conference [illegible].

UMass [illegible] Saturday's game coming off their [illegible] that good conditions of Saturday [illegible] Connecticut 1-2-0) meanwhile, continued [illegible] Saturday's battle begins Maine in the final match.

For both teams, the previous weekend have produced weather conditions which made their games less than fair assessments of their talent.

"We're hoping for some good weather," says UConn head coach Walt Nadzak. "This could be an excellent football game if the weather cooperates."

Nadzak, in his third year at UConn, runs the Huskies out of a wish bone, the second time along with Villanova UMass will be forced to deal with the multi option offense.

"Actually, we call it a multi bone offense," Nadzak says. "We're not your re-strict wish bone team. We throw a lot more."

UConn throws a lot more because they happen to have one of the best (if not the best) in New England in quarterback Ken Sweitzer. Sweitzer has completed 50.9 percent of his passes for 1342 yards and nine touchdowns.

"From a fan's or a sportswriter's point of view, he (Sweitzer) doesn't look pretty," Nadzak said of his quarterback. "But Kenny is a leader, and he gets the job done."

Sweitzer's favorite target has been Reggie Eccleston, who ranks second in the nation amond Div. 1 AA receivers with 33 reception for 718 yards and a remarkable 21.8 yards per catch.

UMass head coach Rob Pickett would like to rebound from what he calls a "depressing weekend." Pickett will send his highly-touted defense against the wishbone, and hope tailback Garry Pearson. Pearson's bruised thigh is healed enough to allow the talented Bristol, Conn., native to play at full capacity.

UConn lacks any one outstanding runner, but instead throws at you three good backs, Tony Jordan, Joe Markus and Joe Addison in addition to Sweitzer.

"If we had a (Maine's Lorenzo) Bouier or a Pearson, we couldn't run the type of offense we do. Last year we ran that type of one-back offense, giving the ball to Tony Jordan 30 times a game. And we didn't win."

UConn struggled to a 3-8 record last year, one of those wins being a 24-0 drubbing of the Minutemen.

But a year has made a considerable difference, and now the Huskies are ranked fifth in Div. 1-AA (UMass is 10th), and their skill has been supplemented this year by what seems to be an inexhaustable supply of luck.

"I don't think we've won the games because we're playing well. The weather conditions made the games closer than they should have been."

With a win, UMass could force UConn to beat BU next week down in Storrs and, barring upsets, then all three teams would tie for the Yankee Conference title.

[illegible] on page 15

Prof. outlines Olympic solutions

By CLAY BORGLUND
Collegian Staff

"It's sad when the Olympics make the front page of the New York Times instead of the sports page where they belong," said John Lucas, a sports history professor at Penn State, who lectured for an hour yesterday on the topic of the United States boycott of the 1980 Summer Olympics held in Moscow a few months back.

Lucas, who was a guest lecturer in Betty Spears' Sport History 150 class, outlined a couple of solutions to the problem facing the Olympic movement. One is to have a single centralized permanent location for them to be held at every four years, preferably in Switzerland or in Western Scandanavia. The other is a bit more radical in its nature. It would have the games take a 20 year hiatus and return in 1996, which is also the 100 year anniversary of the Olympics. This way, hopefully all the ill-winds of today will have blown down the line and they could be held in the spirit in which they were intended to be.

Lucas started out his talk with some background material concerning the concept of the Olympics, then entered the part of his discussion on which he feels very strongly and personally about; the U.S. Olympic boycott. Becoming very impassioned at times, he gave a brief synopsis of what exactly happened during that late January period when President Carter made the decision to boycott. It seems that after Carter had thought about boycotting the Olympics, he finalized the decision without consulting the United States Olympic Committee (USOC), International Olympic Committee (IOC), or even Robert Cain, president of the USOC, Lucas said. In effect, he transcended the power of those committees and acted on his own accord to do what he thought best, much to the outrage of those who thought they should have been involved in that decision making process, he said.

Consequently, the games in Moscow proceeded on schedule with 81 countries participating, and only 26 noticeaby absent, much less than Carter had hoped for, he said. If Lucas, who attended the games, had to sum them up, he would consider them "A qualified success."

Zoo Disc, ZULU to host New England Sectionals

By DONNA SULLIVAN
Collegian Staff

The UMass ultimate teams, Zoo Disc and ZULU, will play host to 15 teams from Western New England this weekend in the Sectional Tournament, the first step on the road to the Nationals. With the regular season having ended last weekend, ultimate teams from all over the country will be competing in Sectional tourneys, vying for a chance to go on to the Regionals and then to the Nationals to be held Thanksgiving weekend in Atlanta.

Zoo Disc compiled a 17-11 record this season and will be seeded second in the tourney.

"The potential for us to come in first or second is definitely there," co-captain Joel Zuckerman said. "Even though we've lost our last nine of 14 games, we're 5-1 against Hampshire College, the defending New England champs," he said.

The top two teams this weekend advance to the Regionals to be held next weekend, also at UMass.

ZULU, the newly formed women's ultimate team and the only women's team in western New England will be competing against 16 male teams this weekend.

Middlebury College in Vermont came in second last year and is seeded first in this year's tournament. Hampshire College, defending champ will be seeded third or fourth.

The tournament starts tomorrow morning at 10:30 on the field across the street from the Southwest horseshoe.

ZULU, or the Zoo Ultimate Ladies Union will be competing in the Sectionals tomorrow. (Staff photo by Cheryl Senter)

Commuter Election referendum today See page 3

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Volume CX, Issue 44 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Mass. Monday, November 3, 1980

Ghost Town UM Amherst

Halloween is wicked quiet

By RICHARD NAGLE
Collegian Staff

University officials said Friday night was busy for police and Health Services but said the remainder of the Halloween weekend was relatively quiet — a sharp contrast to last year's violence, vandalism and on-campus rape.

University Police yesterday reported that 10 people were arrested and six taken into protective custody for the weekend. Police also reported 10 emergency calls, one trash fire and several false fire alarms.

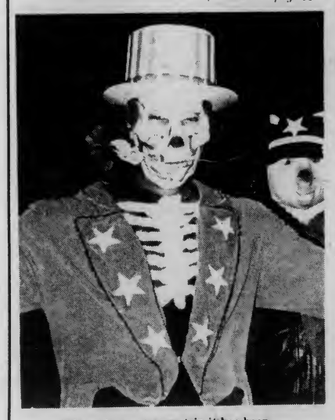
The arrests included two men charged with trespassing on Sunday, one arrested for driving under the influence of alcohol, one man for being a disorderly person and possession of marijuana, three men for disturbing the peace, and two for disorderly conduct. The nature of the tenth arrest was unknown.

Vice Chancellor for Administration and Finance George Beatty yesterday said the closing of the Campus Center and Student Union complex and the imposing of a no-guest policy for dormitory residents were responsible for the relatively quiet weekend.

Last Halloween weekend, police made 14 arrests — in-

turn to page 10

Students mingle during the annual University of Massachusetts Halloween gala at the pyramids in the fashionable Southwest district of campus Friday night. (Staff photo by Chris Grewe.)



What a long, strange trip it has been.

Greek clean-up competition clears Halloween remains

By KEVIN CULLEN
Collegian Staff

For one Saturday, at least, the hangovers and sleep-in mornings were put aside. They arrived bleary-eyed, and went to work.

About 400 members of the 21 University of Massachusetts fraternities and sororities participated in a clean-up competition Saturday morning to help alleviate the trash build-up over Halloween weekend.

See more Halloween stories and photos on page 3.

"It was a clear success," said UMass fraternity-sorority director Leslie Chambers, who organized the two-hour clean up. "To get this many people out at 9 in the morning, and to collect as much trash as we did was more than we expected."

Chambers said the clean up centered in the Southwest residential area.

The incentive for participation was a free tee-shirt and a keg of beer for the winner.

The competition, won by the Iota Gamma Upsilon sorority, Fi Kappa Alpha and Sigma Alpha Mu fraternities, resulted in the collection of roughly 500 trash bags full of debris, according to Chambers.

Chambers handed out 336 tee-shirts and promised about 60 other participants they would receive one later.

"The clean-up operations really went well this year," said Bryan Harvey, assistant to the vice chancellor for student affairs, who was a member of a committee which drew up recommendations for University policy on Halloween weekend activities adopted by the UMass administration.

"One thing that didn't work as well as we had hoped was the positioning of dumpsters," Harvey said. "The dumpsters should have been located more toward the center of Southwest. I saw people looking for places to throw trash away."

Chambers said she rode around campus Friday night with UMass Director of Public Safety Gerald O'Neil and Dr. Marjorie Lenn, director of residential life.

"We all remarked how fairly quiet things were," Chambers said. "I mean, there were the usual parties, but nothing out of the ordinary."

A Physical Plant spokesman said no great problems arose from the weekend, and clean-up details operated normally.

"The whole business about discouraging outsiders from coming onto campus really worked," Harvey said. "One look at the campus could tell you that."

Hostage release terms discussed

By MIKE FEINSILBER
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Carter, his own election prospects at stake, discussed with his highest advisers yesterday whether the United States could accept the Iranian Parliament's terms for freeing 52 American hostages and end a crisis that has cast a year-long shadow over America.

The answer was slow in coming.

Washington was tense and expectant as it faced the most promising development since Iranian militants, outraged when the United States admitted the late Shah of Iran for medical treatment, seized the U.S. Embassy on Nov. 4, 1979.

Carter, staying out of public sight, said through his press secretary that "a number of details" to be worked out.

Iran demanded compliance with all its terms — not just American acceptance of them.

Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie said the release of the hostages by the time America elects its next president tomorrow may not be possible. Former Iranian Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh was more definite. It would be "physically impossible," he said.

Officials were frustrated since they did not have an official document outlining exactly what the parliament said. They depended on a vague radio broadcast from Iran listing four conditions for the hostages' release — releasing $8 billion in frozen Iranian assets in the United States, cancelation of all U.S. legal claims against Iran, a pledge of non-interference in Iranian affairs and return of the property of the late Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi.

The initial U.S. reaction was guarded. Muskie and White House press secretary Jody Powell said the administration would not accept any proposal inconsistent with American interests and American honor. Carter, awakened within 15 minutes with the news from Tehran, broke off his reelection campaign blitz and left Chicago shortly after 6 a.m.

Air Force One left O'Hare International Airport so swiftly that a boarding ramp was blown over as the jet maneuvered for takeoff.

Carter ordered briefings for his rivals for the presidency — Republican Ronald Reagan and independent John B. Anderson.

Vice President Walter F. Mondale and Zbigniew Brzezinski awaited Carter's helicopter on the south lawn and hurried into the White House with him. That started a day of conferences and evaluation of intelligence reports.

World and national news

Prez campaign at the wire

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — President Carter conferred with his diplomatic high command at the White House while Ronald Reagan sought crucial Ohio votes yesterday, in the closing hours of a tense presidential campaign that was suddenly hostage to terms set by an alien parliament for the release of 52 captive Americans.

Reagan, the Republican presidential nominee, said the Iranian hostage situation was too delicate for him to discuss. His running mate, George Bush, said it would not affect the outcome of tomorrow's election.

Campaigning in Marietta, Ohio, Reagan said, "This is not the time or the place for me to be addressing such a sensitive matter.

"Obviously, all of us want this tragic situation resolved. That's my deepest hope, and I know it's yours."

Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie said Carter did not regard the possible break of the year-old hostage stalemate as a poltical resource.

Nonetheless, it became the dominant concern of campaigners for both sides, almost on the eve of an election the public opinion pollsters said was too close to forecast.

Reagan appeared to hold the advantage in potential electoral votes, and his lieutenants had been forecasting victory. But one of them said in advance that a break in the hostage situation could change the odds.

The voters also will be electing 34 senators, a new House of Representatives and 13 governors tomorrow. While Republicans epected to gain stength in Congress, both branches were virtually certain to remain under Democratic control.

There were some familiar names on the list of veteran Democratic senators facing difficult re-election bids, among them Frank Church of Idaho, George McGovern of South Dakota, Warren Magnuson of Washington and Birch Bayh of Indiana.

Carter broke off his own campaign early yesterday and flew home from Chicago after the Iranian parliament — the Majlis — affirmed four conditions for the release of the hostages who now have been captive since last Nov. 4.

"It had been obvious since the beginning of this latest phase that the president ought to return to Washington if there was a prospect that major decisions would need to be made, simply because of the greater access to his advisers and the advantages of communications afforded by the White House," said press secretary Jody Powell.

GOP presidential candidate Ronald Reagan and wife, Nancy, campaign in Marietta, Ohio during the final days of the campaign. (AP Laserphoto)

A supporter of Reza Pahlavi, who proclaimed himself Iran's King-in-exile Friday, sticks an effigy of the Ayatollah Khomeini in London (AP Laserphoto)

Iraq attacks major oil city Minister capture reported

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Iraq mounted an attack on the major Iranian oil refinery city of Abadan on yesterday and reported its troops captured Iranian Oil Minister Mohammed Jawad Baquir Tungunyan in a separate ambush.

The official Iraqi news agency said Tunguyan was captured last Friday in an ambusy by "special Iraqi patrols" and taken to the Iraqi capital of Baghdad. It gave no other details. The 30-year-old minister took office about two months ago.

There was no immediate Iranian statement on the claim.

Military communiques from both warring nations issued earlier yesterday said Iraqi soldiers used a mobile bridge across the Bahmanshir Rive to try to breach Abadan's defenses in suburban Zolfaqar east of the city. Tehran Radio said Iranian troops "fought with all their might to stop the enemy advance." On Saturday, Iran said its troops in Abadan desztroyed a similar mobile bridge and killed 200 Iraqi soldiers.

Abadan, located on the Shatt al-Arab waterway at the northern tip of the Persian Gulf, has been pounded by Iraqi aircraft, gunboats and artillery. The port city has remained in Iranian hands despite repeated Iraqi predictions its fall was imminent.

A six-member commission of the 94-nation non-aligned movement assembled in Belgrade, Yugoslavia, meanwhile, to prepare a peacemaking shuttle between Baghdad and Tehran.

Iran's Parliament endorsed the four conditions set by Islamic revolutionary leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini for the release of the 52 American Embassy hostages now in their 365th day of captivity.

Tehran radio also reported fighting near Ahwaz, 80 miles north of Abadan. It said Iranian soldiers supported by fighter-jets destroyed 20 tanks and killed "at least 100 invading Iraqi soldiers."

Hostage families are alerted

Relatives of the 52 American hostages kept close to the telephone yesterday, encouraged by the developments in Iran but wary that yet again their hopes for an end to the crisis culd be dashed.

"I'm kind of waiting to see what kind of monkey wrench they, the Iranians, throw in the works now," said Marjorie Moore of Mount Vernon, Ohio, wife of hostage bert Moore.

"It's not over with yet," she said. "I hate to get hopeful at this point."

Several relatives said they received calls from the U.S. State Department advising them that the Iranian Parliament had approved four conditions for the release of the hostages.

The announcement came on the 365th day of captivity for the hostages and after countless delays, setbacks and disappointments for their families back home.

"They State Department officials are still saying be cautious," said Dorthea Morefield of San Diego, wife of U.S. Consul General Richard Morefield.

Subscription Rates

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 324 220) is published daily, Monday through Friday, excluding vacations, exam periods, or holidays, for $15 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

Digest

Associated Press

Penny Laingen, wife of American hostage in Iran Bruce Laingen, participates in a candlelight vigil in Washington D.C. yesterday. (AP Laserphoto)

Ski season future looks brighter

WATERVILLE VALLEY, N.H. — The doom predicted never developed and New England's ski areas made it through the snowless winter without anyone going out of business. Projections for this year are great, industry leaders say.

But tourist experts say lesons were learned from the barren slopes.

"Last winter convinced even the most adamant holdout that the ski industry must have the ability to put snow on the slopes when nature won't," says Louis Zemel, owner of Powder Ridge Ski Area in Middlefield, Conn. "Snowmaking has always been a way of life for areas in southern New England. Now the large areas up north have been forced to accept it."

Iranians stage a Paris sit-in PARIS, France — French police yesterday forced 120 Iranian students to leave the headquarters of UNESCO, where they had staged a 34-hour "sit-in" to protest Iraq's invasion of Iran.

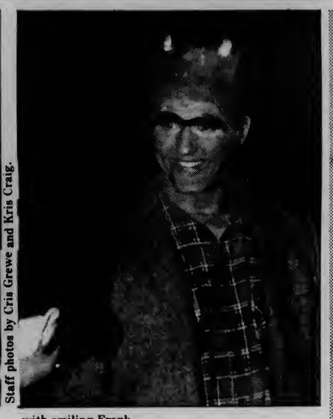
Police said their intervention in the affair had been requested by officials of the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization. Authorities said the students were evacuated from the halls of UNESCO without incident.

The students entered the headquarters Friday afternoon in small groups, telling security officials they wanted to view an exhibition of paintings.

Typewriter Ribbons & Typing Paper
at
A.J. HASTINGS
Newsdealer and Stationer
45 S. Pleasant, Amherst

Hampshire Ethical Hypnosis Center
Milton H. Askinoss A.A.E.H.
• Weight control • Improve study habits • Stop smoking
• Nail biting • Self confidence
• Improve concentration • Relaxation • Sexual problems
• Insomnia • Fear of heights • Improve sports ability
• Bed wetting • Memory improvement • Fear of flying
Call or write for free brochure
• On-going classes for self-hypnosis
Special Fees • College Students & Senior Citizens
Lecture demonstrations
The Farrick Building, Rte 9, Hadley, Mass.
3/10 mile Hamp. Mall (Next to Rocky's Hardware)
584-1919 By Appt. Only

Attention - Scholars Wanted
The Northampton Lodge of Elks wishes to contact all recipients of both Elk National Foundation or State Scholarships. Write B.P.O.E. #997 43 Center Street, Northampton, Mass. 01060 with pertinent information (Attention Charles D. Meakim, Chairman Trustees.)



Staff photos by Cris Greswe and Kris Craig.

The Blues Bros. . . with smiling Frank

Most students agree with closing

By MARK L. CURELOP
Collegian Staff

Most students interviewed Sunday agreed the administration had to close the Campus Center complex and prevent most residential and dorm social functions to ensure student safety and minimize destruction of property over Halloween weekend.

Cindy Brown, who graduated in 1979, said she was glad the administration closed the Campus Center and enforced a no party regulation.

"It's unfortunate for the UMass students, but the campus shouldn't be a party ground for the rest of the state," she said.

Hilton Magier, a graduate student in the school of Engineering, said he remembered in the early 1970's when students paraded in costume on the Campus Center concourse, and the Hatch and Bluewall were open to students Halloween weekend.

"Maybe I wasn't aware of the damage then, but now there seems to be much more destruction" he said.

Other students disagreed.

"The administration seems paranoid about things like Boston Magazine which blow everything out of proportion," said Jonathan Bailey a junior majoring in Geographing.

turn to page 9

The chick. . . and the Prof.

Referendum to decide validity of elections

By JAMES F. MAHONEY
Collegian Staff

A referendum will be held today to decide if the commuter senate elections held last month are valid.

The referendum ballot, which states: "Should the Commuter elections stand as voted," will be available outside of the Hatch cafeteria from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. The ballots, which are available only to commuter students, will require a "Yes" or "No" vote and will have 100 pro and con arguments printed on them, according to Student Senate Speaker Linda Geary.

If students vote to run the elections again, the senate would set up a new election in the near future. If they decide to let last month's results stand, the new commuter senators would be seated at the next senate meeting.

Although the referendum is sponsored by the Commuter Collective, Geary said, the Student Government Association is officiating the election. She said they would make sure staff members would be at the voting area and count the ballots.

"I'd like about 10 percent of the population vote — that's about how many voted in the original election — 1,000 people," Geary said.

A complaint filed by Senator Tony Gawienowski last week against the election was withdrawn Friday when he said he had forgotten about the referendum vote, Geary said. She said he withdrew the complaint in accordance with Student Government procedure.

The complaint, concerned the commuter candidates with PSA printed next to their names on the ballot, and, according to Geary, "two or three other things." PSA stands for the Progressive Student Alliance, a political slate.

One of the complaint items cited the manner in which the SGA dealt with the election rulings.

Geary said Gawienowki's complaint listed a Senate vote which overruled a Coordinating Committee decision to invalidate the election results as illegal.

Turn to page 9

Dick Gregory comes to SUB on Thursday

Professional comedian and social activist Dick Gregory will speak in the Student Union Ballroom Thursday as a guest of the Distinguished Visitor Program.

The speech will be open to University of Massachusetts students and faculty only, said Susan Chicchio of DVP.

Gregory will appear at 8 p.m. and willspeak on "Social Problems: Social or Anit-Social?"

Gregory has been labelled a human rights activist, political analyst, social satirist, critic and coinedian since breaking into the entertainment field in the early 1960's.

Gregory's outspoken viewpoints have cost him with at least two prison terms resulting from demonstrations he participated in. He also ran from the Chicago to Washington D. C., 800 miles, to emphasize the problem of world hunger.

His struggles for civil rights and persistent nonconformity have also cost him thousans of dollars in cancelled bookings, legal fees and transportations costs, according to a DVP news release.

The St. Louis born native was a state champion athlete in high school and college.

Gregory, a graduate of Malcolm X University, makes over 200 appearances annually at different college campuses across the nation.

INDEX: reflects UMass

By JUDY GALLANT
Collegian Correspondent

The INDEX, University of Massachusetts yearbook, has grown from a small-scale 20-page publication in 1869 to an award winning 288 page volume in 1979.

Before the 1980 yearbook on campus arrives next month work already begun on the 1981 issue.

"Any student can come down to the Index office, in the basement of the Campus Center and work as a writer, photographer or artist," said 1981 Editor-in-Chief Rita Caprino.

The year long process of producing the Index is coordinated by 10 different section editors in the area of news, sports, fine arts, living areas, student organizations, business, academics, photography and senior sections.

"Connections" is the theme of the 1981 yearbook.

"We're working to show how throughout the UMass community there are connections," Caprino said, "and to show how everything is interrelated —students and teachers, the living areas, and the other four colleges— all different aspects of campus."

The Index is funded through the Student Activities Tax Fund (SATF) paid by each student, and through the sale of books. The total 1981 yearbook budget is approximately $57,000.

All SATF-paying students receive a yearbook card through the mail which states the price of the book is $4.

The 1979 Index, recently given an award of general excellence by the Printers Institute of America, cost $3 per book. Caprino said the UMass Index has received this prestigious award three times: in 1975, 1976 and 1979.

"Based on graphics and the general appearance of the book, the Index is number one in the country," Caprino said.

Caprino said the staff "will try to give an overall view of campus and try to appeal to everyone as best as we can.

"Working on the Index can prepare you for opportunities in journalism, publishing, or just simply teach you self-discipline. You will learn how to get involved, get things done, and to be independent," she said.

The Josten-American Yearbook Co., in Topeka, Kansas prints the yearbook although the type is set on campus in the Student Senate Communications office.

Caprino expects the 1980 yearbook to be available sometime in December.

Don Lendry of Josten's American Yearbook Company presents the Printer's Industry of America Award for yearbook excellence to June Kokturk, 1979 managing editor of the INDEX, and Rita Caprino, this year's editor-in-chief. The 1979 INDEX was rated the best yearbook in the country. (Staff photo by Vince DeWitt)

Hypercurricula . . .

Mon., Nov 3

SPECTRUM — There will be an editorial meeting Nov. 3, at 4:00 in rm. 104 C.C. Also there will be a Poetry Staff meeting at 7L00 that night in the office. New members welcome!

"The Next Millenium: Unlearning the 20th Century," is a conference co-sponsored by the World Future Society's education section and the Future Studies Program at the School of Education at UMass. The conference will be held Nov. 6, 7, and 8 in the Campus Center and will focus on the present and future roles of education as they relate to issues of caste, socio-economic class in America and the management of growth and decline.

There will be over 130 presentations.

A limited number of free tickets for the conference will be available to UMass students with a valid ID on a first-come, first-serve basis on Friday and Monday in room 124 School of Education building from Cathy Campbell.

Gay/Lesbian/Bi Rap Group, 6:30 p.m.location will be posted by elevators in Campus Center. Sponsored by Lesbian and Gay Men's Counseling Collective.

ECUM (Ecumenical Council of UMass) Meeting, 2:30 - 4:00 p.m., at UCF, 428 Student Union.

Hunger Task Force Meeting, 4:15 - 5:45 (note new hours!), in Room 428, Student Union. Open to anyone interested in helping to solve the problems of World Hunger — if you can't attend, stop by tomorrow between 2:30 and 3:30.

Minority Chaplain Search Committee Meeting, 7: p.m., at UCF, 428 Student Union.

Ski Patrol: Meeting SBA 103 at 8:00 p.m. Will discuss raffle, catalogue purchases.

5 p.m. Hillel Meeting to plan events, policy, groups...5 p.m. in the Hillel Office, 302 SU. New members welcome.

Film: The Diary of Anne Frank, will be shown in Thompson 104 at 8 p.m. Free. 4 p.m. Hillel Social Committee Meeting to plan Chanukah party, cof- . ehouses, candle-lighting in dorms. 4:00 p.m. in the Hillel office, 310 Student Union.

Tues., Nov. 4

Help to prevent rip-offs! Educate students on consumer issues and rights. Come to the consumers issues team meeting at the UMASSPIRG office in the SUB 423.

The chess club will meet in room 165 of the Campus Center at 7:30. New members are welcome!

Film: The Spider's Strategum, Campus Center Aud., UMass, 7 & 9 p.m. Part of the Italian Film Series, Governor's Program Council, FREE!

Northeast/Sylvan Racial Awareness Program film offering, "Courage Of The People" — this film details major government massacres of workers in Bolivia from 1942 to 1967 and illustrates the tragic pattern so often repeated in Latin American countries, where labor unrest is met with brutal armed repression by government troops. 7 p.m. in the Johnson House Lounge.

"Attica" — a powerfully dramatic investigation of the Attica Prison rebellion of 1971 which presents events frm both inside and outside the prison walls, and explores the cqnditions that led to the rebellion. 3 p.m. in the Dwight House Lounge.

For more information, contact Sally Majewski, 106 Johnson House, 545-0290.

"Human Sexuality and the Bible," part of a series taught by Chaplain Pete Sabey at the Western Area Office (First Congregational Church in Amherst), 8-9:30 p.m. All are welcome. Contact UCF, 545-2661, for more information.

Study in Greece: 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. in the Classics Department Library, 544 Herter Hall. A representative of this semester length program will be visiting campus to talk with interested students.

Learn Aikido, the martial art. All are welcome to practice. Boyden Wrestling Room: Tuesday and Thursday, 6 - 7 p.m.; Sunday, 1 p.m.

The consumer Action Project Team from UMassPirg is meeting at 4 p.m. in the Student Union Building 423 B. All those interested in gaining experience working on consumer issues are welcome. Legal Studies and Consumer Economics majors especially urged to attend.

Student Alliance for Israel Meeting. 6 p.m. in the Dukes Room, 310 SU. Israel Exhibition, Aliyah, Independence Week Planned, New members welcome.

"Israel at the Crossroads" lecture series. Talk on The Israeli Army & Yom Kippur war, with possible speaker and film. p.m. in Herter 205. Free and open to all.

Wed., Nov 5

Early Childhood Education Students: There will be an organizational meeting for all students who will be doing Student Teaching II next semester at 4:30 p.m. Room 483 Hills South. Attendance is mandatory for all students who plan on doing Student Teaching II next semester.

Early Childhood Eduation Students: There will be an organizational meeting for all students who will be doing Student Teaching I next semester at 4:30 p.m. in Room 151 Hills South. Attendance is mandatory.

Film: "The Patriot Game" — 90 min. documentary on the struggle against British Imperialism in the North of Ireland during the past 10 years. 7:30 p.m. Hampshire College, East Lecture Hall.

Dr. Ricahrd Brimacombe Max-Planck Institute fur Molekulare Genetik Berlin, Germany. Ribosomal RNA: Studies on its organization within the ribosome and some first hints as to how it may function. Room 203, Graduate Research Center. Coffee will be served at 3:45 p.m.

UCF Board Meeting, 6-8 p.m. in 428 Student Union. These meetings are open to any interested persons.

"Biblical Exploration," 9 p.m. at UCF, 428 Student Union, facilitated by Chaplain Pete Sabey. Anyone interested in an intelligent, serious, open-minded study of the Bible is cordially invited to try this out.

Spectrum: There will be a prose meeting 5. CC 104

The Northeast Area Women's Center is spnsoring a workshop on rape, to be held at 7 p.m. The meeting place is the Annacoanna Center in B6, Dwight House, Please come and join us.

Join the fight against hazardous waste! The UMASSPIRG Hazardous Waste Project team is meeting at 4:30 in the SUB 423B. There will be a guest speaker to provide an overview for our upcoming forum. All interested are welcome.

The Parachute Club will hold a special First Jump Course at 7 p.m. in Campus Center Rm 178. Please bring your ID and $75. Skydive!

The Society for Creative Anachronism, 7:30-9:30, Greenough Lounge. The SCA is dedicated to the recreation of select crafts, arts and sciences of the middle-ages, medieval dance practice will be held, new people are always welcome.

The Working Women's Task Force, an educational/support group, is sponsoring an open meeting on "The Amherst Nursing Home Strike: Organizing Working Wopmen," led by Linda Edwards, an employee of the Amherst Nursing HOme who was involved in the union organizing and strike efforts. Everywoman's Center, 7:30 p.m. All university and community women are invited. The Center is located in Wilder Hall on the UMass campus in Amherst. Childcare is available. Everywoman's Center is not wheelchair accessible; please call in advance so we can make arrangements.

Gerontology Colloquium Series: Second in a Fall Series. 12 noon. 151 Hills South. Speaker: Albert Chevan, Sociology Department. Topic: Age Segregation: A Personal Perspective. For a complete schedule contact the Gerontology Planning Project, 353 Hills South, telephone: 5-1306.

5 p.m. Jewish Newsletter Meeting — all interested persons welcome. Editors, writers, artists, lay-out people needed! Meet at the Hillel Office, 302 Student Union. Israeli Dancing in the Commonwealth Room, SU 7:30

Movie: THE GRADUATE, Campus Center Auditorium, 7,9,11 p.m.

TACO VILLA
Wholesome Inexpensive Refreshing Change
Downtown Amherst
N.Y.on (CASH Anyone)
Fri + Sat-11-1 am
Sun-Thurs 11-9

BE COUNTED!
VOTE
TIPS ON VOTING
2005 ABSENTEE VOTING
2006 VOTING IN AMHERST
545-1540
REQUEST TAPE BY NUMBER

Top of the Campus Restaurant
TOP PRIORITY #1
we're open when you need us, at prices you can afford!
Breakfast: 7:00-9:00 am - Mon-Fri
Lunch: 11:30-2:00 pm - Mon-Fri
Dinner: 5:00-9:00 - Tues-Sun
For Reservations Call: 549-6000 ext 639

Foreign Book Sale
at the University Store's
Textbook Annex
9:00 AM to 4:00 PM
Nov 4 - Nov 9 only
Up to 50% off overstocked titles from previous semesters.
FRENCH SPANISH ITALIAN GERMAN GREEK LATIN

IDB TIPS
Although the IDB can provide most University-related information, the only phone number we can provide is our own:
545-1555
Student Numbers 545-1515
Other University Numbers "O" on campus
545-0111 off campus
The Information Data Bank
227 Whitmore

THE UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AT AMHERST
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
and Columbia Artist present
The ACADEMY of SAINT MARTIN in the FIELDS
WORLD'S MOST RECORDED CHAMBER ORCHESTRA
Friday, Nov.14 8 PM
Tickets now on sale at the Fine Arts Center Box Office (M-F, noon-4 pm) Phone reservations accepted through Wed. Nov. 12 (413-545-2511)
$9, 8, 7 General Public
$8, 7, 6 Senior Citizens
$4.50, 4, 3.50 UMass Students
Partial funding provided by Andry Montgomery Ltd. of London

Soviet womens health care tragic

By SIOBHAN C. BREEN
Collegian Staff

"Although the Soviet Union calls itself a socialist government I am not convinced," said Soviet feminist Tatyana Mamonova yesterday at Amherst College during her speech on "Conditions of Life of Soviet Women."

Mamonova was exiled from the Soviet Union after publishing Women in Russia, an "underground" paper that dealt with women's problems in the Soviet Union.

"Feminist concerns in the two superpowers have extraordinary similarities," said Robin Morgen, who introduced Mamonova and had interviewed her for this month's issue of Ms. magazine.

"Women health care is tragic," Mamonova said. "Abortions are done without anesthetics and is fearful and traumatic." The average Russian woman is estimated to have 10 to 12 abortions during her lifetime, said Robin Morgen. There are little contraceptives which shows the government indifference to women's lives and bodies, she said.

After the publication of Women in Russia, Mamonova and her family were threatened by the government with imprisonment, her husband with the draft, and both with the loss of custody of their child. Another publication followed titled, Russian Women.

Mamonova and her family were exiled, yet she spoke with great concern about some of the women from the young movement that are still in the Soviet Union. One women in particular, Natalia Lazarvea, who worked with Mamonova, was arrested and has been unaccounted for since the beginning of October.

The feminist movement in Russia is for Humanism, said Mamonova. "Everyone feels social pressure, but women also feel sexual pressure and that is what we worked on in the Almanac (the first publication)," she said.

"Sooner or later they'll have to work with women not only in print but in reality," she said, "they cannot put all Soviet women into exile.

"It is still a young movement," she said several times during the evening. "It is the character of many Russian people to believe that change cannot occur."

Mamonova will live in Paris after her tour of the United States and will continue to publish the Almanac.

News Desk:
GAYLE — who told us all where to go

LINDA — who lay-ed out

Headlines — by LAUREL

CHRIS — who developed (in the darkroom)

(Sugar baby) — CARLA treated

Composing Room: Mary Kinneavy, Daniel P. Guidera, Grace North, Michael Krumpe, with a little help from their friends.

And yes, it is ED LEVINE'S birthday.
And we mustn't forget JEFFREY P. BIANCHI, that far-out disco boy.

The aftermath of an accident on Route 9 Friday night which claimed the life of a 19-year-old Amherst man. (Staff photo by Paul Price.)

Problems of educational system to be debated by futurists at UM

By STEPHANIE KLEIN
Collegian Correspondent

Futurists from all over the world will gather at the University of Massachusetts next week to tackle a monumental problem: the future of the American educational system for the next 1,000 years.

"The Next Millennium — Unlearning the Twentieth Century" is the title of the Nov. 6 through 8 conference which will deal with social classes, women, minorities and the disabled in education.

Sponsored by the World Future Society and the Future Studies Program at UMass, the conference wil offer 100 presentations including lectures, films, exhibits and improvisational theatre.

Futurists hope to change the present educational system and introduce "equity" as a priority in education, according to the conference's planners.

"A greater awareness will be the basic building block with which to incorporate this change in society," said Barbara Howard, a member of the Future Studies program at UMass.

A pamphlet promoting the conference states there is a drastic need to diversify every angle of the present educational system. It claims women, homosexuals, minorities and the disabled must be given a chance to participate in a higher level of society.

turn to page 14

CAREER DAY 1980
Tuesday, November 4
10 A.M. -4 P.M.
1st Floor Campus Center
Twenty Guest Speakers
Luncheon: C.C. 1009 12 - 2 P.M.
Reception: C.C. 1001 4 - 6 P.M.
Sponsored by Undergraduate Business Club

In Concert Chick Corea/Gary Burton
November 6 University of Massachusetts Fine Arts Center

2-record set.
CHICK COREA and GARY BURTON IN CONCERT
ZURICH, OCTOBER 28,1979
ECM 2-1182

Also available.
1979 Grammy winner
GARY BURTON CHICK COREA
DUET
ECM 1-1140

GARY BURTON CHICK COREA
Crystal Silence
ECM 1-1024

On ECM Records & Tapes Manufactured and distributed by Warner Bros. Records Inc

Album or Tape
to be released in 2 weeks
available at
Belmont Baystate
Platterpus
and For the Record

Smith College Rec Council
Presents
SPYRO Gyra
Saturday Nov.8, 1980
8 p.m.
John M. Greene
Smith College
General Admission $5.00
Tickets available at
For the Record - Amherst
Platterpus - Northampton
Main St. Records - Northampton
no cans or bottles, please

SW Assembly OK's letter on tuition hike

By JOHN DiPALAZZO
Collegian Staff

The Southwest Assembled endorsed a letter to University of Massachusetts Chancellor Henry Koffler recommending tuition not be increased at a meeting last Thursday.

The letter was presented to the assembly by Student Senate Speaker Linda Geary, who is also asking other student organizations to endorse the letter.

The letter, which the assembly endorsed unanimously, recommends tuition not be increased and advocates increases in financial aid, and that alternatives to fee increases be sought.

A proposal to increase student fees will come before the UMass Board of Trustees Budget and Finance Committee on Nov. 19 and UMass President David C. Knapp said last month he proposed to raise in-state tuition for next year.

Geary said some students will not return next year if the fee increases are implemented. "That's what the important issue is," she said.

In other business, the assembly again table a resolution to spend $400 for advertizing an upcoming Ray Barretto concert sponsored by Ahora, the UMass Latin American organization, because there was debate on a finance committee recommendation to charge extra for non-student tickets.

SWA treasurer Steve Judge reported the assembly's budget for the semester at $45,320, and that after the deduction of staff salaries, allocations to the Southwest Residential College, and expenditures already made this semester, the balance was $17,493.

Andrew Prescott and Melinda Ordway were appointed by the assembly to the SGA Judiciary.

The assembly voted to spend $500 for a "Battle of the Bands" to be held in the Hampden Student Center on Dec. 6. The contest will include various student bands.

Staff photo by Nancy Nutile

Northampton or bussed; PVTA gets you there free

By TY ROBY
Special to the Collegian

About 22,000 people catch the bus every day.

The buses are provided by the University of Massachusetts Transit Service — the riders are mainly students. Not only do the buses serve University students and faculty free-of-charge, but residents of surrounding towns ride them as well.

In the past the service has been referred to as the "Largest Free Bus System West of Moscow." Bill Barrot, director of Transportation and Parking for the University, said the UMass Transit Service is "definitely" one of the largest free bus systems in the United States.

There are a total of 10 routes which run through the towns of Amherst, Belchertown, Sunderland and South Deerfield.

There are also other area services that provide free transportation. The Hampshire Mall offers the Free Bus, which runs to and from the mall. Towns such as Northampton and Hadley can be reached via the Western Massachusetts Bus Service buses which are free for students.

A total of 575,000 miles are covered by the 43 buses each year using 128,000 gallons of gas, Barrot said. Six new buses were recently added to the fleet and six more are expected to be delivered in the coming weeks, he said.

TURN TO PAGE 14

ABSENTEE VOTING
BE COUNTED!
VOTE

ABSENTEE BALLOTS FOR THE 1980 FEDERAL ELECTIONS WILL BE NOTARIZED IN THE MEMORIAL HALL LOBBY ON THE FOLLOWING DATES

Wednesday	October 22, 1980	9 AM - 5 PM
Thursday	October 23, 1980	9 AM - 5 PM
Friday	October 24, 1980	9 AM - 4 PM
Monday	October 27, 1980	9 AM - 5 PM
Tuesday	October 28, 1980	9 AM - 5 PM
Wednesday	October 29, 1980	9 AM - 5 PM
Thursday	October 30, 1980	9 AM - 5 PM
Friday	October 31, 1980	9 AM - 4 PM
Monday	November 3, 1980	9 AM - 4 PM

Sponsored by The Division of Student Services, The Office of Alumni Affairs, The Dean of Students Office

Amity
GMAT
LSAT
MCAT
REVIEW PROGRAMS
Call for Amity's free brochure on the exam of interest to you
800-243-4767
IN CT., 1-800-922-4635

Can UMass Afford You
or
Can It Afford To Lose You?
Meeting on Tuition and Fee Increases
TONIGHT
in Room 805-809 CC 7:00
All students welcome to join us in educating and organizing students about tuition, fees and financial aid.

ITALIAN FILM FESTIVAL
Bertolucci's
The Spider's Strategem
Tuesday Nov. 4 7 & 9 pm C.C. Aud.
!!FREE ADMISSION!!

SUNSPOT
The year-round tan.
Tan in December? Tan in March? Without Florida or Mexico or Bermuda? Sure. With a SunSpot Tan, you're tan year-round. After a six session, two-week foundation program, a residual once-a-week visit keeps you tan all the time. (The over all year's tan costs just 39¢ a day!)
All SunSpot tanning programs are individualized by a trained technician so they're safer than the real sun. Our tanning booths have a controlled environment so you get a perfect tan with no sunburn worries. For most people, one minute with us is like an hour in the sun. So keeping attractively tan takes just a little while each week.
The SunSpot Amherst Carriage Shops 549-1499
39¢ a day*.
*based on a full year's tanning program

Political Advertisement

ELECT
PATRICK M. GOGGINS
COUNTY COMMISSIONER
(Unexpired Term)
•ABILITY •EXPERIENCE •INVOLVEMENT
•Graduate Northampton High School and B.S., University of Massachusetts
•Vice President, Woodward & Grinnell Insurance and Real Estate Agency
•8 years Director of Recreation, City of Northhampton
•3 years - Board of Public Works
•4 years - Board of Directors - Greater Northampton Chamber of Commerce
•4 years - Board of Directors - Hampshire Reg YMCA
•Active on City Advisory Committees, including C.A.R.D., Smith and Jackson Street School Additions, Downtown Parking
•Massachusetts Natural Resource Planning Council
•Hampshire County Energy Resource Planning Council
•Elected Northampton Charter Commission
NOT RUNNING AGAINST INCUMBENTS FROM AMHERST OR SOUTH HADLEY
PRIMARY, TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 4th
VOTE PATRICK M. GOGGINS
ROLAND CHILTON, Amherst
JEFFERY L. SEDGWICK, Amherst
GEORGE COMO, Amherst
GERALD GRADY, Amherst
BETH BRACE, Amherst
LUTHER A. ALLEN, Amherst
LEO BOUCHARD, Amherst
JOAN KROTKOV, Amherst
CURT TAUSKY, Amherst
KARL RYAVEC, Amherst
KENNETH A. MOSAKOWSKI, Amherst
IRVING HOWARDS, Amherst
GLEN GORDON, Amherst
GEORGE T. SULZNER, Amherst
W.R. THOMPSON, Amherst
HOWARD WIARDA, Amherst
SHELDON GOLDMAN, Amherst
WILLIAM E. CONNOLLY, Amherst
ROBERT A. SHANLEY, Amherst
HERMANN STELZNER, Amherst
JEROME B. KING, Amherst
LEWIS MAINZER, Amherst
JEAN B. ELSTAIN, Amherst
ERIC S. EINHORN, Amherst
JOHN C. ROBERTS, Amherst
HARRY SCHUMER, Amherst
GEORGE TREYZ, Amherst
Jerome, M. Milleur, 164 Columbia Drive, Amherst

Editorial/Opinion

Editorials—— Election '80

America is not working. We are in debt. We are unemployed. Our industries are antiquated; their products cannot compete for price or quality with foreign manufacturers.Millions of our people live in absolute poverty. Our military can no longer control the political and economic lives of the smaller nations of the world on which we have relied for the cheap material and labor resources of our industry and as markets for our goods. Continued competition for control over these countries between the U.S. and U.S.S.R. drags us inexorably closer to a nuclear exchange.

If we were drunk, maybe we'd cry about this. What happened? we'd ask. When we were growing up, everything was fine. First Kennedy was president, then Nixon; he brought us the worst of the Viet Nam war, and we knew that was bad. But gasoline cost only 43 cents a gallon, it looked like the civil rights movement would win the long exploited black and Spanish-speaking minorities lasting equality, our older brothers and sisters stepped out of college into well-paying jobs, Dad had no trouble getting a loan for the house, or much trouble paying the mortgage. Now none of this is true. Everything has become so hard.

So we look for a leader, someone who will make everything all right again. Some of us believe he is Reagan, a warrior of the American Way; or he is Carter, he just needs four more years; or he is Anderson, with his valiant grin-and-bear-it approach; or maybe he is someone else.

But when we really listen to them, we come to understand that something insidious has been done. When we were growing up, no one told us the world would change, that we would be given new responsibilities for and challenges to our happiness and survival. And that leaders would not always understand this, and would have to be told what to do, by us.

Tomorrow we can wake up to the face of disappointment, frustration, and anger for the way things have gone. Or we can accept the challenge of forming our future in a changing world. The first step is to vote. The second is to work for an understanding of our situation as individuals, as classes and races, and as a nation of simultaneously great strength and vulnerability. We must act each and all as a determining force, for that is what we are. That is the choice.

Litter on the campaign trail

And so the first Tuesday of every fourth November is finally and mercifully upon us. After tomorrow the media games, meaningless rhetoric, and infantile personal attacks will be nothing but a foul memory. In this corner the bumbling president. In that corner the doddering governor. Rarely has the overused phrase "lesser of two evils" had such a frighteningly literal ring.

Bob Conte

Some lighter thoughts on political year 1980:

IN YOUR FACE — Governor John Connally of Texas spent over eleven million dollars for his one delegate to the Republican convention.

ALL IN THE FAMILY — My brother David got four votes in the Connecticut Democratic primary (himself, his girlfriend, his neighbor, and me), well short of his goal of ten. He immediately threw his support to Kennedy, but nobody cared. He'll try again in '84.

WHAT A WIMP! — When Jimmy Carter pitched in a charity softball game a couple of months ago, he wore knee-length Bermuda shorts and black, ankle-high socks. His only hit was to right field.

DOES LIFE IMITATE ART? — From the November 14, 1941 New York Times review of the film "International Squadron: "Ronald Reagan is excellent as the slap-happy hell-diver who pays for his moral failures with his own death in combat."

GOODBYE YELLOW BRICK ROAD — This is the last presidential election assignment for CBS anchorman-God Walter Cronkite. According to one poll, more Americans trust him than Carter, Reagan and Anderson combined.

WISHFUL THINKING — A) The Bible clearly states that thou shalt not kill. B) The three major candidates all claim to be devout, practicing Born again Christians. C) Ergo, none of them can sign a declaration of war, because that would sanction thousands of murders. So don't sweat it kids.

WHERE ARE YOU CHESTER A. ARTHUR? — How can people with horrendously dull names like Bob Dole, Phil Crane, Ed Clark, and Gus Hall expect to be elected President?

I'M ONLY KIDDING FOLKS! — Representative Michael Myers' capsule analysis of American politics: "In this business, money talks and bullshit walks." He maintains his innocence in Abscam despite the fact that he felt shortchanged by his bribery payoff and so went back for $20,000 more. It's all on videotape.

MONEY IS THE ROOT OF . . . — The Carter and Reagan media campaigns have been alloted about $15 million apiece by the Federal Election Commission. The Anderson media campaign has received no federal money. As a result, Anderson's ads have been simple, direct, and informative, as opposed to Carter's mock-Fellini drivel and Reagan's smooth, folksy chitchat, which propagandize and insult but rarely inform.

FREEDOM OF THE WHAT? — Some newspapers refused to run Doonesbury last week because the satire was, according to one, an "unwarranted attack" on Reagan, missing Garry Trudeau's point that Reagan's policies are an unwarranted attack on reality.

Bob Conte is a Collegian columnist.

Collegian

BOARD OF EDITORS
ROBERT E. STEIN, Editor-in-Chief, FRANT SASHIE, Managing Editor, JEFFREY P. BIANCHI, Graphics Manager, JONATHAN KLEIN, Business Manager, ERIC H. JANSZEN, Executive Editor, RICHARD NAGLE and JAMES MAHONEY, News Editors, JANE DeARGELO, Women's Editor, JIM MORAN, Arts Editor, KAREN TIBOMAN, Black Affairs Editor, DONNA SULLIVAN and JONATHAN HAMILTON, Sports Editors, PAUL PRICE, Photo Editor

ASSOCIATE EDITORS
ANDREA ATKINS, CATHERINE CLARRY, JIM KANE, ED LEVINE, GAYLE YOUNG, Associate Managing Editors; BOB CARR, Associate Graphics Manager, JOE GANNON, Associate Executive Editor, NANCY ANDERSON, Associate News Editor, LILLIAN SINGER, Associate Women's Editor, MARY KINNEAVY, Associate Arts Editor, JOYCE McLAURIN, Associate Black Affairs Editor, NANCY SETTILE, Associate Photo Editor

BUSINESS STAFF
KATHRYN KRESS, Advertising Manager, VICKI EGGERT, Finance Manager, JOSEPH RADLEY, Circulation Manager, MICHELLE SILVERSTEIN and JAYN LESTIG, Assistant Advertising Managers

The Collegian is the newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.
Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons and letters represent the personal views of the authors.
The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.
The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertisements lies with the individual advertisers.
USPS 203 220

Letters

SGA endorses University friend

To the Editor:

We would like to take this opportunity to pass on to the student body that on Wednesday, Oct. 29, the Undergraduate Student Senate endorsed the candidacy of State Representative James G. Collins.

Throughout his tenure as our State Representative, Jim Collins has been a great asset to the students and to the University, fighting for us and for our concerns on Beacon Hill.

We have worked with Representative Collins for the last two years on various issues and we would like to personally attest to his fine abilities and his constant concern for everyone he represents.

We urge all studets concerned with the future of the university to vote for Jim Collins on election day.

Ken Moore
Chairman, Public Policy Committee
Undergraduate Student Senate
Linda Geary
Speaker
Undergraduate Student Senate

Prop. 8 chance for safe energy

To the Editor:

On Nov. 4th, voters in Franklin and Hampshire counties will have a chance to directly affect their local energy policies by voting in favor of the safe energy referendum. Question 8 on the ballot provides for a moratium on the construction of nuclear power plants and their replacement with alternative energy sources, such as solar, hydropower, and conservation.

The referendum is non-binding, but will give voters an opportunity to voice their concern for our country's need for safe, alternative forms of energy. This is the first state in the country where voters will have this opportunity, and if the referendum passes it could serve to pave a way for other states to follow.

Nuclear power is hazardous to people's health and to the environment. While there has been no safe method devised for the disposal of nuclear wastes, there are currently 3.5 metric tons of radioactive waste from civilian nuclear power plants. It is estimated that by the year 2000, at the current rate of production, we will have accumulated enough of the lethal stuff to pave a four lane, foot thick highway from New York to California.

Here in the Pioneer Valley there are abundant energy alternatives available to us. There are some 9000 lowhead drums which were abandoned after World War II when oil and coal became less expensive. The town of Springfield, Vermont anticipates a 33 percent savings on residential and commercial accounts by using several existing lowhead dams on the Black River during peak power times. The Army Corp of Engineers has estimated that installing generators on small dams already in existence could provide the energy equivalent of 26 large nukes. New England wood resources alone have been estimated by the government to have the energy potential of 10 nukes, the only crucial difference being that trees are a renewable energy source. Many of our forests have been badly logged and are in need of care and thinning. Proper management could create thousands of jobs, produce huge amounts of energy and leave us with healthier woods.

As registered voters in Hampshire and Franklin counties, we have the power and the opportunity to make known our concern toward issues affecting our energy future. Your vote on November 4 will help to make elected officials aware of this concern.

Bonnie Anderson
Janet Feld
Student Coalition Against Nuk. Nationwide

Specials Effective Nov. 3-8, 1980

Pork Sale! HERE IS AN OPPORTUNITY TO SAVE ON ARMOUR 5 STAR VERIBEST BLADELESS EXTRA LEAN PORK CUTS!

UP TO 4 LBS. Rib Roast	$1.33 LB	WHOLE Pork Loins	$1.39 LB
UP TO 6 LBS. Loin Roast	$1.43 LB	COUNTRY STYLE Spareribs	$1.33 LB
CENTER CUT Pork Chops	$1.63 LB	FRESH GROUND Pork	$1.59 LB

Steak Sale!

USDA CHOICE T-Bone Steak $3.33 LB — CHOICE ROUND Cube Steak $2.49 LB — USDA CHOICE Porterhouse Steak $3.49 LB

ARMOUR EXTRA LEAN Boneless Hams 2½-4 LB AVG $2.29 LB

ARMOUR Beef Franks 1 LB PKG $1.29

OSCAR MAYER Bacon 1 LB PKG $1.89

LEAN Ground Beef 5 LB PKG OR MORE $1.65 LB — $1.69 LB

Any Season Of The Year... Louis Foods Makes The Difference

Instant Coffee MAXWELL HOUSE 10 OZ JAR $3.99

Motor Oil QUAKER STATE DELUXE 10W-40W QT. CAN 69¢ LIMIT 6 CANS

Produce

EXCELLENT QUALITY FLORIDA Pink or White Grapefruit 5 FOR $1

Tangelos NEW FLORIDA	DOZ 99¢
Fresh Native Carrots	3 LB PKG $1
Russet Potatoes EXCELLENT FOR BAKING MAINE	5 LB BAG 99¢
Washed Spinach	12 OZ CELLO PKG 59¢

At Louis Foods We Give A 5% Discount To all Non-profit Organizations — Just One More Service That Makes A Difference!

Frozen Food

Breyers Ice Cream	ALL NATURAL ALL FLAVORS	½ GAL $1.99
Mrs. Smith's Apple Pie		26 OZ PKG $1.19
Chocolate Cake	SARA LEE 13 OZ PKG	$1.29
French Bread Pizza	STOUFFER 10 OZ PKG	$1.49
Green Peas or Mixed Veg.	SWEET LIFE 20 OZ BAG	69¢
Shoestring Potatoes	ORE-IDA 20 OZ BAG	69¢
Birdseye Orange Plus		12 OZ CAN 89¢

TETLEY Tea Bags	125 CT BONUS PKG	$1.49
CARNATION Hot Cocoa Mix	20 OZ CAN	$1.99
KELLOGG'S ALL FLAVS. Pop Tarts	10½ OZ PKG	69¢
KELLOGG'S Rice Krispies	13 OZ PKG	99¢
HOSTESS MULTI PAK Cupcakes	8 PACK 14 OZ PKG	$1.19
GINGER ALE, ORANGE, ROOT BEER Cott Soda	2 LITER BLT	99¢
PRINCE SHELLS & CHEDDAR Macaroni & Cheese	4 7¼ OZ PKGS	$1
B&M OVEN BAKED Pea Beans	28 OZ CAN	79¢
SWEET LIFE Apple Sauce	50 OZ JAR	99¢
SWEET LIFE REAL Mayonnaise	QT JAR	99¢
HABITANT Chicken Broth	3 14 OZ CANS	89¢
SCOTTIES Facial Tissue	300 CT PKG	89¢
PAMPERS EXTRA ABSORBENT DISPOSABLE Diapers	24 CT PKG	$2.89
YES LIQUID W/FABRIC SOFTENER Laundry Detergent	32 OZ BTL	$1.49
SURE & NATURAL Maxi-Shields	30 CT PKG	$2.89
FRISKIES BUFFET Cat Food ALL VARIETIES	4 7½ OZ CANS	$1

Louis' Custom Cut Cheese Special

Imported From Denmark CREAMY CUSTOM CUT Harvarti Cheese Plain Only REG. $3.09 $2.49 LB

• Dairy •

HOOD ECONOMICAL Orange Juice	GAL JUG	$1.99
QUARTERS Blue Bonnet Margarine	LB PKG	55¢
HOOD REC. & COUNTRY STYLE Cottage Cheese	ALL NATURAL 1 LB CONT	89¢

WE RESERVE THE RIGHT TO LIMIT QUANTITIES

NOT RESPONSIBLE FOR TYPOGRAPHICAL ERRORS

Louis FINE FOODS

76 N. Pleasant St. Amherst, Mass.

Clip The Coupons & Redeem Monday, November 3, 1980

COUPON — LUBS VALID NOV. 3-8 — SWEETLIFE 6 PACK — English Muffins Free — WITH COUPON AFTER $7.50 PURCHASE LIMIT ONE EXCLUDING COUPON ITEMS & TOBACCO — Louis

COUPON — LUBS VALID NOV. 3-6 — CAMPBELL'S 10¾ OZ CAN — Tomato Soup Free — WITH COUPON AFTER $7.50 PURCHASE LIMIT ONE EXCLUDING COUPON ITEM & TOBACCO — Louis

Health & Beauty Aids

REGULAR & MINT Crest Toothpaste	20¢ OFF LABEL 7 OZ TUBE	$1.19
50¢ OFF LABEL Scope Mouthwash	18 OZ BTL	$1.59
NORMAL, OILY, DRY Flex Shampoo	20 OZ BTL	$1.69
ANTI-PERSPIRANT Ban Roll-On	2½ OZ BTL	$1.69

LIBERTY BLUE Dinnerware Made in Staffordshire, England COMPLETE YOUR COLLECTION NOW

Wexford This Week's Special 59¢ Iced Tea WITH $5 PURCHASE SPECIAL SAVINGS EACH WEEK ON FEATURED ITEMS

Newman Center is for everyone

By KATHLEEN HOWLEY
Collegian Staff

The Newman Center is not just for Roman Catholics, Center director stresses that the facilities, which include study rooms, a library and a cafeteria are available to all students and faculty in the Five College area.

"Everyone in the community has a right to use the center. We're not exclusive," Director Fr. Joseph Quigley said.

Regular masses, marriages and baptisms are conducted for a primarily young adult community. The Newman Club, with approximately 150 members, offers students social activities and a chance to volunteer to perform community services.

Fr. Joseph Marchese, who, along with Fr. John Smegal, comprise the religious staff at the center, said 80 percent of the center's $300,000 budget is provided by the Catholic Student Aid Fund of the Diocese of Springfield. The remaining 20 percent comes from Sunday collections and alumni donations. He estimated that of the 8,000 UMass students who have indicated their religious preference as Catholic, about 3,000 use the Newman Center.

Diana Reyendeo, co-president of the Newman Club, sees the Newman Center's purpose as helping students realize their own worth and develop their potential. She said she believed students need to reach out to each other for support.

"UMass is so big," Reyendeo said, "that it's easy to feel alienated. The center offers friendship and a feeling of community."

The Newman Club has sponsored ski weekends, Irish nights, dances, and a variety of fund raising activities. They are also involved with the Oxfam "Fast for Hunger" organization, and recently conducted a Halloween party for children of married students.

The Newman Club's annual "Rain for Ritter" rite is planned for April 11, of next year. All proceeds from this event go to Fr. Ritter's Covenant House, a haven for runaways located in Times Square, New York City. Last year, they contributed approximately $250 to the Covenant House, and plan to substantially increase that sum this spring.

Also in the works is a play fashioned after the Broadway hit "Godspell."

★ Student reaction —

continued from page 3.

Many students said they felt a UMass tradition had been taken away from them and nothing was sent to replace it. And what is the traditional social outing for the Campus Center pond? The traditional answer is "nothing."

Though on-campus parties were not allowed, parties were held at off-campus apartment complexes although in many special party regulations were enforced for the Halloween weekend.

Townehouse had three security agents monitoring the complex, said Townehouse resident Robert Wolff, a senior majoring in Business.

"The Halloween weekend has promoted and glorified a behavior that is unhuman. The school in past years has absorbed that type of behavior which could have raised the tuition," Wolff said.

"Anyone not invited did not get in. There were no kegs and the doors were never open," he said of his Townehouse party. "If we had any problems at our party we were told to call the (rental) office," Wolff said.

★ Referendum —

continued from page 8

"I ruled that the Senate could not overrule the Coordinating Committee, but the senate overruled by ruling letting the senate's decision stand," she said.

The elections were plagued by numerous complaints, protests and rulings which were registered during and immediately after the voting was completed. Geary said there were a total of four protests and one complaint.

She said she was unsure when the results would be available, but said depending on the turnout she hoped they would be available tonight or early tomorrow.

The Guitar Workshop and Music Store
223 N. Pleasant St. Amherst, Mass. 01002
Phone 549-1728
Save 40% off retail price on new Guild, Gibson, Ovation, Rickenbacker, and Yamaha guitars. Also discounted prices on Marshall and Ponytone amps, Mxr and Ibanez effects and acc. Large selection of music for all instruments.

When the good ol' boys on Beacon Hill reorganized higher education, Jim Collins 'gave 'em hell.'

It was 4:30 a.m. when the powerbrokers in the State House decided to reorganize your education. You were sleeping, the good ol' boys were scheming. With a nod and a wink, they thought, we'll reorganize higher education, without a single public hearing, and with just one yea or nay vote.

The plan was a dandy too. An all-powerful Board of Regents with no student representation would make all the decisions, and you, the students and faculty, well, 'never mind.'

But they forgot about one obstacle: Jim Collins. That afternoon, at 1 p.m., Jim Collins took the floor of the House and gave a speech that reporters called "impassioned" and "the highlight of the debate." He talked about you, and for you, because they wouldn't let you tell it as you saw it.

"What this proposal does," Collins said, "is rip the guts out of public higher education in Massachusetts. It wipes away with one wave of the pen all the governance structures in the state and gives total power to one man: Edward J. King. The political sharpies, who move so sleekly through these halls are now waiting to line up for the $54,000 a year jobs this plan creates."

"Mr. Speaker," Collins concluded, "educational policy in this state will be decided not by what you know, but by who you know. And that is wrong."

It was a tough battle, against all the odds, and unfortunately it didn't have a storybook ending. But when the students and faculty at UMass need a voice to stand up and fight for their educations and their professions, Jim Collins is there.

Jim Collins
State Representative–Democrat
Paid for by Citizens For Collins, Katherine J. Houston, Treasurer.

ADULTS $2.75 — SHOWS BEFORE 6 P.M. DAILY EXCEPT SUN. HOLIDAYS & FRI. — MATINEE DAILY AT 1 P.M.

DONALD SUTHERLAND — HAMPSHIRE 4 — 584-6568 HAMP. MALL OR CALL 50 — RT. 9, HADLEY, MASS.

Ordinary People (R) (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15 — LOVING COUPLES (PG) (6:15 @ $1.75) 8:30

Hopscotch (R) (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:15 — THE FIRST DEADLY SIN (R) (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30

Dinner and Movie only $5.50 Hampshire Mall Restaurants Hampshire Mall and the Hampshire Mall Cinemas present one of the eight movies in this Mountain Farms Mall Cinema

GOLDIE HAWN — PRIVATE BENJAMIN (R) (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30 — SISSY SPACEK — COAL MINER'S DAUGHTER (R) (6:15 @ $1.75) 8:30

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 — 584-9153 — ROUTE 5 & 10, SOUTH HADLEY, MASS.

CHARLTON HESTON — THE AWAKENING (PG) (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:15 — Shoppers Show Movie Thursdays at 1:00 pm with Free Parking. Thursday Nov 6 Just You and Me Kid with George Burns

ANTHONY HOPKINS — THE ELEPHANT MAN (PG) (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15

THREE THOUSAND YEARS OF YOUR HISTORY - TAKE ONE YEAR FOR YOURSELF

Exciting, meaningful long and short-term programs are offered in Israel to students and young adults. Work, study or do both. Come-ete, up-to-date information now available at special exhibit currently visiting the University of Massachusetts Campus.

November 6, 1980
11 A.M. - 3 P.M. Student Union

Don't miss this rare opportunity for first hand talks with experts from Israel.

It's Your Future.

★Halloween

continued from page 1

cluding a man who was charged with the rape of a woman in her dorm — and answered more than 200 emergency calls.

Dr. Thomas McBride, director of the Unviersity Health Services medical care division, said Friday night was busier than usual but the rest of the weekend was quiet. Although the count of how many people who were treated at the infirmary was not available, McBride said most of the injuries were minor.

On Oct. 6, University officials announced plans to close the University to outsiders, and put a lid on open parties for the weekend.

In the 5,500-student Southwest Residential area, about 1,000 students crowded into the mall, leaving a carpet of broken glass.

The head of residence for John Quincy Adams middle dormitory said, "It was a nice weekend. There was a lot of broken glass on the pyramid but no one was hurt."

It's My Turn is a real turn off

By SARAH SCHULTZ
Collegian Staff

It's My Turn makes you wonder if it is director Claudia Weill's design to join the ranks of so many aspiring directors who sell out.

It certainly is a cliched Hollywood norm film in all its dull glory. All the necessary ingredients — a few big names, a few big bucks, a New York skyline, and a dry script — combine to form a product that comes out tasting like a mouthful of soggy cereal.

Jill Clayburgh plays the part of a spacey, supposedly brilliant mathematician who never seems to have outgrown her role as daddy's little girl. Consequently, she finds herself in a stale but secure relationship with Charles Grodin. Not for long, however.

Enter Michael Douglas: knight in shining armor. Enter lust (what woman wouldn't lust after Michael Douglas?). And what do you get? Love. Love? Well, who knows what Claudia Weill wants us to believe.

In any case, they spend a few days together and kazam . . . The experience seems to have a profound effect on Jill at least. It provides her the courage, the insight, or some kind of incentive to leave Charles Grodin and the empty, unfinished apartment which symbolizes their relationship. Then comes the best part — the credits.

If the list of credits is fairly impressive, the acting certainly is not. It is as undemanding as it is unexciting. The characters are like paste up paper, doll cut-outs. They were never expanded beyond the flat dimensions of the screen. For a movie based on psychological growth, it struck me as a little superficial.

And at times, a little unbelievable. Michael Douglas plays a washed up baseball player. Yet in the whole movie we see him with a baseball glove in his hands only once. They hang a tag on him but leave it dangling. Likewise Jill Clayburgh's excessive spaciness and exagerated clumsiness are far from convincing.

The whole movie is like a poorly fit puzzle and the only cohesive elements are the wearisome stereotypes and cliches.

The advertisements for the movie bill it as a "funny love story." In Hollywood terms, I am discovering more and more often, this is a smokescreen for a simple, unimaginative script ornamented with a few dry jokes. It's My Turn is no exception.

STILL BUYING AT HIGHEST CA$H PRICE$
CLASS RINGS
Gold & Silver Jewelry

See me when you Sell
DANIEL SMITH
Permanently located between Fotomat and Logos
25 North Pleasant St.
Amherst
256-0710
Monday thru Saturday
10 AM to 6 PM
MEMBER AMHERST CHAMBER OF COMMERCE LICENSED BY TOWN OF AMHERST AND STATE OF MASS.

NOW AT
Time Out

2 TV's
37 N. Pleasant
256-0471
Beer, Free Popcorn,
Something New
Lunch served daily 11-2

ATTENTION
Departmental Graduate Student Organizations

The Graduate Student Senate is accepting applications for REVENUE SHARING FUNDS from Departments who have elected their senators.

For more information and to pick up your application forms please contact Michael Pazyra, GSS Treasurer, 919 Campus Center 545-2896.

Deadline is November 21

ATTENTION COMMUTERS

A referendum to determine the validity of the recently held Commuter Senate Elections will be held by the Commuter Collective on Monday, Nov. 3, 1980 from 11 a.m. -6 p.m., outside the Hatch. Pro/Con Arguments will be posted at the ballot box. Please Cast Your Vote! Further info: 545-0341.

Top of the Campus Restaurant
Hosts a Luncheon Fashion Event
Fashions from Chona's at

Luncheon Specials
$2.50-$3.95
Wed. Nov 5
11:30-2:00pm
continuous

Thorne's Market, Northampton

Chona Neon

Murray D. Lincoln Campus Center
Reservations Recommended 549-6000 x639 Validated Parking

VOTE YOUR CHOICE TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 4TH

Genuine Diamond 14 Karat Gold Filled Jewelry

Choose from 12 exciting designs.
Accumulate $100 worth of gold tapes & get one piece for $9.99. Without tapes, just $19.99 each. Only tapes dated Sept. 21 - Dec. 20, 1980 will be honored
9.99 each with $100 in our gold register tapes

STOP & SHOP GROCERY COUPON A-17 C
Campbell's Tomato Soup FREE
10¾ oz can
With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase. Good Sun. Nov. 2 Sat. Nov. 8. Limit one per customer. 413

STOP & SHOP GROCERY COUPON A-16 C
Stop & Shop Whole Kernel Corn FREE or Cream Style 16 ounce can
With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase. Good Sun. Nov. 2 Sat. Nov. 8. Limit one per customer. 412

STOP & SHOP GROCERY COUPON A-15 C
Ocean Spray Cranberry Sauce FREE
16 ounce can jellied or Whole
With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase. Good Sun. Nov. 2 Sat. Nov. 8. Limit one per customer. 411

STOP & SHOP GROCERY COUPON A-14 C
Stop & Shop 6½ oz can Chunk Light Tuna 69¢ in oil or water
With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase. Good Sun. Nov. 2 Sat. Nov. 8. Limit one per customer. 410

Stop & Shop
Honest values are what we're all about

Canned Goods Sale
Value From Our Twelve-Page Circular!
Extra copies, and lots more savings, in the store!

Last Two Weeks To Collect your set of WEAR-EVER PREFERRED COOKWARE Sale ends Nov. 15 1980

self service deli Specials!

Colonial Extra Mild Franks 1 lb pkg 1.29

Bologna	1.29
Colonial Bacon	1.59
Chicken Hot Dogs	99
Chicken Roll	99
Armour Bacon	1.69
Armour Hot Dogs	1.39
Morrison & Schiff	1.99

corner deli Sliced to order!
Available in stores featuring a service deli.

Colonial Top Bologna Meat or Beef 1.79 lb

Weaver Chicken Roll	2.49
American Cheese	2.19
Baked Meat Loaf	1.99
Cole Slaw	59
Chicken Salad	2.49
Colonial "Top"	1.79
"Our Rare Beef"	3.99 lb

Over 3 million pizzas sold kitchen Stop & Shop
Cheese Pizza 1.39
18 ounce size

Cheese Pizza	2.29
Double Cheese	1.59
Twin Pack Pizza	1.19
Pepperoni Pizza	1.99
French Bread Pizza	1.19

frozen meats Easy entrees!
28 oz pkg Weaver Batter Dipped or Dutch Fryer Chicken Thighs & Drumsticks 2.59

Weaver Chicken	4.99
Croquettes	2.39
Chicken Au Gratin	2.39
Weaver Chicken	3.19

seafood Best buys!
Fresh Scrod Cod Fillets 2.19 lb

Fresh Cod Steaks	1.79 lb
Oysters	1.89
Matlaws Clams	1.89
Haddock	1.99
Flounder	1.99

STOP & SHOP DAIRY COUPON A-13 C
Save 25¢ Variety Cheese
REAL SHARP CHEDDAR
White or Yellow Bar or MONTEREY JACK Random Weight Pkg Stop & Shop
With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase. Good Sun. Nov. 2 Sat. Nov. 8. Limit 1 per customer. 414

"Great Beef" USDA Choice
Beef Top Round Roast 1.99 lb

Beef Round Tip Roast	1.99 lb
Boneless Beef Chuck Roast	1.89 lb
7 Bone Beef Chuck Roast	1.49 lb
Underblade Beef Chuck Roast Bone In	1.79 lb
Beef Top Round Steak	2.69 lb
Beef Round Tip Steak	2.69 lb
Boneless Beef Chuck Steak	1.99 lb
7 Bone Beef Chuck Steak	1.59 lb
Underblade Beef Chuck Steak Bone In	1.89 lb

Whole Pork Loins 16-18 lbs Untrimmed 1.39 lb

Pork Loin Roast Rib Half	Young, Gov't inspected pork 1.49 lb
Pork Loin Sirloin Half	Extra meaty Big Eye Pork 1.59 lb

Perdue Chicken Wings 5-6 lbs pkg 79¢ lb

Perdue Chicken Legs With Thighs	5-6 lb package 89¢ lb
Perdue Chicken Breast With Ribs	5-6 lb package 1.39 lb
Combination Pack	Perdue Chicken 4 Split Breasts, 4 Drumsticks, 4 Thighs 1.29 lb

Colonial Cooked Ham Semi-Boneless water added 1.79 lb

Smoked Pork Shoulder	Colonial Master Picnic Water Added 1.29 lb
Colonial Smoked Pork Butts	Boneless Water Added 1.79 lb
Cooked Ham Shank Portion	Stop & Shop water added Plump Portion 1.59 1.49 lb
Armour Boneless Ham	Water added 2.89 lb produce Pick and choose what's perfect for you.

Grapefruit Florida White Seedless size 40 6 for $1
Florida Tangerines Large 120 size 8 for $1
Shop the largest selection of 'loose' produce around!

Large Size Brussel Sprouts	89¢ lb
Fresh Firm White Parsnips	79¢ lb
Fresh 'Topless' Large Beets	39¢ lb
Purple Top Fresh Turnips	39¢ lb
California Fresh Broccoli	69¢
Fresh Pascal Celery Sticks	29¢
Fresh White Mushrooms	1.99 lb
Fresh Loose Crisp Carrots	29¢ lb
Pick Your Own Green Olives	99¢ lb
Fresh Ripe Cherry Tomatoes	79¢

Red Pack Tomato Paste 6 ounce can	4 for $1
3 lb can Shortening Stop & Shop	1.79
Chock full o' Nuts Coffee All Method Grind One Pound Can	2.29
Hi-C Fruit Flavored Drink Assorted Flavors 46 ounce can	3 for $2
Progresso Soup Lentil, Tomato, Minestrone 20 ounce can	2 for $1
Potatoes Sliced or Whole Stop & Shop 16 ounce can	4 for $1
Mushroom Stems & Pieces Stop & Shop 4 ounce can	5 for $2
Coke, Tab, Sprite or Fresca 12 ounce can 6 pack ..... Ct deposit	1.59
Cycle Dog Food All Varieties 14 ounce can	3 for $1
Big Daisy White Bread Sliced 20 oz loaf	2 for 89¢
Prestone II Anti-Freeze Winter/Summer Coolant Gallon container	3.99
Franco American Spaghetti 14½ oz can	4 for $1
Sun Glory Peas 16 ounce can	3 for 89¢
Lucky Leaf Pie Filling Blueberry, Strawberry or Cherry 21 ounce can	99¢
Early California Olives Mammoth Ripe 6 ounce can	59¢
Red Pack Tomatoes Crushed or Italian Style 28 ounce can	3 for $2
Cut Green or Wax Beans Stop & Shop, 15½ oz can	3 for $1
Green Giant Peas 17 oz can or Kitchen Sliced Beans 16 ounce can	5 for $2
Friskies Buffet Cat Food Assorted Varieties 6½ ounce can	3 for 89¢
Cream of Mushroom Soup Stop & Shop 10½ oz can	4 for $1
Thomas English Muffins 24 ounce package 12 per package	1.59
Citgo Multi-Grade Motor Oil SAE 10W-30 or 10W-40 quart size	79¢

frozen foods Specials for quick, delicious meals!

Stop & Shop Fish Sticks 16 ounce package	99¢
Orange Juice Stop & Shop 6 oz can	3 for $1
Hood Ice Cream Assorted Flavors Half Gallon Carton	1.59
Green Giant Rice Pilaf Medley or Verdi 11 ounce package	59¢
Newton Acres Strawberries Whole 16 oz pkg	99¢
Rich's Creamer for Coffee 16 oz cont	3 for $1
Banquet Pot Pies Chicken, Turkey or Beef 8oz pkg	3 for 89¢
Green Giant Vegetables in Butter Sauce: Peas, Niblet Corn, Mixed Veg. 10 oz pkg	59¢

dairy Save on many of your favorite brands!

Breyers Yogurt Assid Flavors 8 oz cup	3 for $1
Minute Maid Orange Juice or Stop & Shop Half Gal. Con. From Concentrate	99¢
Sealtest Cottage Cheese or Light n' Lively One pound cup Large or Small Curd	79¢
Sour Cream Stop & Shop 16 ounce cup	69¢
Fleischmann's Margarine Corn Oil 1 lb quarters	89¢
Bordens Cheese Food Slices White or Yellow 12 ounce package	1.39
Pillsbury Biscuits Buttermilk or Country Style 7½ ounce package	4 for $1
Fruit Flavored Drink Assid Flavors Sun Glory Gallon Cont.	89¢

Prices effective in Conn. Sun. Nov. 2 Sat. Nov. 8 in Mass. Mon. Nov. 3 Sat. Nov. 8 at Hampden as to all our customers, we reserve the right to limit sales to three packages of any item except where otherwise noted. Items offered for sale not available in case lots or to other retail dealers or wholesalers. Copyright 1980 by Stop & Shop Supermarkets. All rights reserved.

Collegian Classifieds

To place a Collegian Classified
•Come to Collegian Office CC 113
•8:45 to 3:45 Mon-Fri
•Classified deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day

Collegian Classified Rates
•15c per word
•Student rate 10c per word
•Cash in advance
•5 consecutive days 5 % discount
•Phone number FREE

ART AND LETTERING

See Susan for all your artistic needs. Specializing in calligraphy, specialty lettering and matting. Signs, posters, etc. . 545-2690

AUTO FOR SALE

Ford Galaxie 1966 excellent condition $400 or BO 549-4635

69 VW runs good AM-FM cass. inspected best offer call Chris 256-0353

67 Mercury 60000 mi one owner professor best offer 549-4930 ext 296 office 549-1896 home

1968 Volvo Wagon good condition rebuilt engine 1200 BO Joe 546-7924

68 Cougar good condition best offer over $450 call Jim 549-6321

1974 Dodge Dart good condition slant six 20 mpg needs nothing $900 6-9054

COLLOQ

Summer fashion - from Marblehead to Hyannis to Silver Hill. Joan Kennedy, facilitatrix. 2 credits

COMMUTER REFERENDUM

A referenda will be held on Monday November 3, from 11:00 to 6:00 outside the Hatch on the Commuter elections validity. There will be a pro and con argument on the question. if you are a commuter, please vote on this referendum question Further info: contact 5-0341

DISC JOCKEY

Most professional DJ Reserve now for weekend! Andy 546-1164 Denis 546-6249 call now

Have a Great Party!! Hire Quality Disc Jockeys Denis 546-6249 Andy 546-1164

ENTERTAINMENT

Soundsystem and DJ for hire perfect for band parties coffeehouses Rick 584-4105

Benefit Punk Party at Poor Richards $1 Tues Nov 4 punk attire welcome ID req

FOUND

Found Student ID's 3793026 and 7562644 claim at SGA Presidents Office 406E Student Union

Found: Administrative theory notebok on soap opera couches call Karen 256-5274

GUITAR LESSONS

Beginning Guitar Lessons avail plenty of experience $5.00 per half hour call Jim fo an apointment 665-3625

HAPPY BIRTHDAY JOHN

Happy Birthday John! I hope you have a wonderful 21 YOU DOG! I love you very much even though it may not seem so at times. Love always, your unaffectionate tree!!

HELP WANTED

Wanted part-time radiology technician for multi-specialty group practice please call 256-8561 ext 248 M-F 8 am-4 pm

Cruises—Club Mediterranean, Sailing, Expeditions! Needed: Sports Instructors, Office Personnel, Counselors, Europe, Carribean, Worldwide! Summer. Career. Send $6.95 + $1 handling for application OPENINGS, GUIDE to CRUISEWORLD 16160129, Sacramento, Ca. 95860

Newspaper Deliverer wanted Mornings 6:00 AM to 8:00 AM Must have car Call 549-5059

Certifield CPR instructor wanted to co-teach CPR (BLS) at UMass Anyone certified call 546-3296 keep trying!

JEFFREY P.

Jeff — Happy Birthday! I.O.U. chocolate mousse to celebrate. Have a zippity-do-rag day! Love, your managing editrix, Frenchie

Jeffy, get that arm up! (I'll meet you at Walsh's anytime, and never tell) Happy Day! Love, Maria Consuela Etcetera

We know a young man named Jeff / Who thinks he's a gourmet chef / He makes a mean Hollandaise sauce / In our kitchen he's boss, / and we do the dishes, you bet! The sisters of SDR

Happy B'day Jefferino. Un-do my do-rag, and I'll un-do jo's. Darth

A special birthday note for the SDR house brat: Your adoption papers have been finalized and you're stuck to us like do-tape. Sorry, but we can't afford to buy your clothes at the H.O.W.

Brother Jeff — HBD from John Ts. and your own Janelle number one. Loosey, Loosey, you must stay home with leetle Reeky and wish Bro. Jeff a HBD. But Ricky, I wanna be in the show!!!!

FOR SALE

Gift Idea: Portrait Drawings; call dennis Delap 665-2972

TRS-80 48K or 16K System must sell mint condition call for details 546-7050

Backpack new cost $150, sell for $100 will bring to Campus 1-684-3121, 1-442-6023

Moving, must sell 1970 Valiant runs well, $1200.00 Yamaha 12-string guitar, $200 or BO furniture 253-3101

Single bed $40 Carol 549-5440 after 5

1966 Buick Wildcat PS, PB, PW, AT, snows 300 or BO 323-7774 Rick

73 Gremlin 600.00 or best offer call 584-7094 after 7 PM

1969 Dodge Coronet 4-door $250 call 546-1136 or 1-413-543-2661 anytime

Harmon Kardon 330B 2 Jensen speakers I'll make a deal Patti 549-6338

Mattress/sofa Queensize futon with pillow. Both have slipcovers All 100% cotton. 1 month old $175 253-2427

Electric Guitar Gibson SG tune-o-matic bridge, grover pegs, hardshell case. Mint condition. $450. (neg) Chris 546-7809

Mag Wheels 14x6 for most G, cars call Phil 546-6675

Top grade leather mens boots size 8½ like new. Call Dave 586-0800 after 5:00

INSTRUCTION

English Classes (ESL) Elementary, Intermediate. Two hours an afternoon, except Wednesday. Faculty/student spouses, visitors, immigrants. People's Institute, Northampton. 584-3956 NLI, P.O. Box 34 Northampton

Hypn... Speed reading Rm 909 Campus Center Nov 12, 13 at 7 PM all welcome KR Morse 532-5703

Guitar Instruction bluegrass & traditional orientation 10 yrs professional teaching experience reasonable rates Jerry 549-5650

Tutoring help for all statistics calculus and math related courses experienced teacher John 253-2036 or 549-6230

OOBOL Tutor professional experience call 665-4722 6 PM to 10 PM reasonable rates!

INTERNSHIPS AVAILABLE

Legal Assistant Interns Wanted: The Legal Services Office has 8 positions available for full-time legal assistant interns for the Spring 1981 semester. Up to fifteen credits may be earned through Office of Internships. Legal assistants assist attorneys of the LSO with client interviewing, investigations, legal research, negotiations, giving advice and referrals, preparation of court forms, and attendance at hearings in District and Superior Courts, and participation in administrative hearings and federal litigation. Maintain continuing case load under supervision of attorneys. Applications available at Office of Internships, Curry Hicks Building, and inquire further at Legal Services Office, 922 Campus center. Applicationsdue November 7, 1980 at Office of Internships. Writing sample required. All third world and women students are encouraged to apply.

LEGAL SERVICES

Attorney Jason Rosenthal reasonable rates Days 584-4285, Evenings 253-7617

Attorney Robert Astor Criminal matters, domestic relations, real estate. Reasonable rates. 584-4369

LOST

Nova Owners I hitched back to Boston on Friday Oct. 10 I left a brown and tan reversible jacket in your car call 6-7470

Lost keys—Sat nite wall across from Thoreau Reward 6-7451

Wool Blazer dark brown in Franklin Sentimental value Reward 6-6754

One room key on a leather "J" keychain between Sylvan and Puffton around Sat 10/18 call 6-4246

Burgundy Leather Jacket 10/24/80 Lot#63 Reward call 546-9366

Very large neutered male cat Black and grey stripes with some orange. White paws and chest I miss my cat, please call Karl at 256-8346

Reward for return of small black pouch containing tools for bassoon reed making. PLEASE CALL 586-1739

Ladies' Watch black cord band Reward! contact Norma 256-0632

Dark plaid kerchief in Thompson 104 Grandmother's very sentimental reward 546-6278

OLNY Friends Boarding School Sweatshirt Please Andrea 253-9668

Lost 1 watch black band, women's in Holdsworth Tues afternoon 28th Sharon 803 Cashin 6-4156

PERSONALS

Dear Ed, heres the birthday gift for the man who wants everything and gets nothing

Undergrad Pol. Sci. Assoc. interested in becoming member? Sign-up Rm 422 Thompson

Tony, Boar of the week number one piglover lets go scooping for some real sows love, the women on 4-south

Jersey City Steve Hope your 18th was the greatest and that they'll be many more to come all our love Coolidge 16

The Academic Editor of the 1981 INDEX is seeking students who enjoy writing and working on their own to conduct interviews with various academic deans. If interested contact Maureen at the INDEX office, 103 CC 545-0848

What do you think of your department, school or college? This is your chance to let the rest of the world know! Have your opinion published in the 1981 yearbook. See Maureen at the Index office, room 103 CC, or call 545-0848 and leave your name and phone number

Cara, How's life treating you? Long time no see! How about lunch sometime? Give me a call. Lisa

Richie Happy Birthday! Thanks for all those great talks. Whistle!! We love you! Amy and Jackie

Coolidge 5th floor conspiracy flattery will get you no where - Mutt and Jeff

Senator Goldman - The Women of Webster can have you - The Women of Chadbourne

Marian Webster Happy 18th keep smiling love always J. and D.

Shari I hope your birthday was great! Live it up, you'll only be 18 for a year All my love, Cuddles

To the Beloved of House Tara - beginning a second year--Laida

To my ex-290's WHACKO from OHIO

Ed-Happy Birthday! May the spirits flow as fast as copy on a good night, Your Boss

There's nothing exactly like this. . .anywhere! Send your favorite snapshots, magazine picture, drawing. . .anything! We'll customize it into a beautiful 2 3/8" key-chain button, or pin backed button. (specify) Your personalized memento $3.00 p.p.d. T.G.R. Enterprises 2900 Griffin Road Suite #5 Fort Lauderdale, Florida 33312 + ask for giant "slogan" catalog!!

Business Career Day 1980—tomorrow 10 AM-4 PM 1st floor Campus Center free sponsored by Undergraduate Business Club all are invited!

Yvana Happy Birthday keep blossoming love Willy and Phil drop by for tea for three

Springsteen at Hartford 12/12 tickets for sale best offer 586-0180

BBK I hope you had a Happy Halloween Love X

UMass Photo Co-op Raffle 1st prize Canon AE-1 Nov 3-7 CC Concourse

Chesterfield: Almost a year and we're getting better every day. Looking forward to the log cabin with you. Bobina

Happy Birthday Diane Better late than never. Go have an attack. Jane

Happy Birthday Fingold Hope you had a litte fun on your day between studying from your HB friends DD and WB

To 12L Brandywine did another one bite the dust?

To the girl with the long brown hair with the ex-boyfriend from Berklee I met you backstage JQA 12 Sat the 24th you loved the way I played I loved the way you looked lets have drinks Ricky 6-7762

Ron—Do you consider smiling for 24 hours straight, worth the wait? Now its your turn. Thanks much! A Buddy

RIDE WANTED

Ride needed weekends Brockton or nearby. Leaving Thursday night or Friday anytime. Share expenses call 546-7186

To Binghamton, Syracuse N.Y. or vicinity weekend of 11/7 will share expenses Rich 6-7493

To Albany/Syracuse Leave phone number 11/22 546-7955

RIDERS WANTED

Going to UVM 11/7 want someone to share expenses with call Marlene 6-8337

ROOM WANTED

Two responsible females seeking off campus housing for Spring semester call 546-5458

Women seek 2-4 bedroom house or apartment On bus route for Spring semester 546-1296 546-1137 546-1412

ROOMMATE WANTED

Male, quiet, non-smoking for own room in Riverglade Apt 85 + /mo 253-5487 keep trying

In S. Deerfield Quiet, non-smoking, serious (student preferred) person. Now until January 115 + /mo 665-7705

SERVICES

Experienced typist available Fast, neat work, reasonable rates. 546-6439

Typing; Words-Worth, 37 East Pleasant Street, Amherst, 549-1303. Double-spaced text from 95c a page. Justified resumes from $3.50 a page. Telephone dictation line. Overnight rush jobs. Your words are worth it.

Expert Typing, Editing reasonable rates 665-4815 evenings and weekends

Need babysitter weeknights? Call Carrie 546-6847

SHITTER & TUMA

Shitter & Tuma Happy Belated Birthday Love Spunky & Dicky

SONGWRITERS

Folk-Singer, song writer researching song writing at UMass. If you write original folk, or country music I would like to interview you and profile your work in my Research--call Joe at 665-2840 10 pn-11:30 pm or weekends anytime

TAKE MY CAR, PLEASE

1972 Pinto no brakes, runs well downhill. Much abused. Rides low (with or without Jay) Another reason why Ford lost $600 million

TED LATRINE

Flying High Productions acknowledges the birthday of that master of verbal vebosity, Ted Latrine and the Pintettes

Hey Ed, What's green and has twelve legs?

Foos and Foop made a bet that the Behemoth would never forget! If you expect a new bong you're seriously wrong 'cause what you see is what you get

TO SUBLET

EVACUATING your 2 bedroom apt this spring? We would like to sublet. Please call Maureen or Ellen 253-9685

One bedroom apt in Southwood from 12/1 or 1/1/81 to 9/1/81 w/option $235 + 256-8958

TRAVEL

Florida—The Great Getaway for Spring Break and January Term under $200 round trip jet 256-6704

WANTED

Highest prices paid for class rings, gold, and silver jewelry. See me before you sell. Daniel Smith, 25 North Pleasant St between Fotomat and Logos, Amherst M-Sat10-6 call 256-0710

Top Dollars paid for class rings, gold, sterling at Wendy's. CC Concourse, twice a week approved by UMass Board of Governors

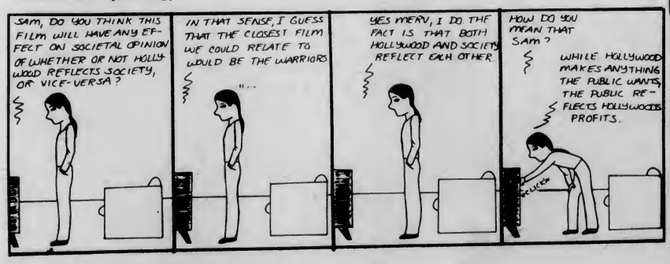
ZOOLOGICAL PHENOMENON

(and on and on) Just wanted to get the last word in. Happy Birthday. Love, Oscar & Medusa

CUE FOR THE FOOL
Cindy Downing
IF YOU BOARD HERE, YOU GOTTA FOLLOW THE RULES... 1ST OFF—NO MEN...
OK.! SURE!
AND I DON'T WANT ANY "FUNNY CIGARETTES" 'ROUND HERE...
ALLRIGHT.
ALSO, NO BOOZE!! DONT LIKE BOOZERS!
WELL.. YEAH.. OK.. ANYTHING ELSE?
THEN HE SAYS NO CIGARETTS, NO CIGS JIMBO! WHAT KIND OF SADIST IS HE?
THERE, THERE! FIG, YOU'LL FIND OTHER PLACES.
BINNER

DOONESBURY
by Garry Trudeau
WHAT'S THIS? A COFFEE TABLE BOOK ON OUR KITCHEN TABLE?
IT'S B.D'S NEW COPY OF "REAGAN'S BRAIN."
YOU MEAN, FROM THE TV SERIES?
UH HUH. I'VE BEEN READING THE SECTION ON REAGAN'S INTELLECTUAL FACULTIES. THE ILLUSTRATIONS ARE INCREDIBLE!
"ABOVE WE SEE THE FULL PANORAMA OF REAGAN'S INTELLECT. LOOK OUT OVER THE VISTAS OF REAGAN'S IMAGINATION AND FORESIGHT. NOTE THE TOTAL RANGE OF HIS CONCEPTUAL THINKING."
"FINISHED? OKAY, LET'S MOVE ON DOWN THE BRAIN STEM."
LOOK! THERE'S WHERE HE STORES HIS ONE-LINERS!

Under the Influence
M. Joyce
HA! A JACK!
NEXT TIME WE'LL USE MY DECK!
WHY DO I ALWAYS LET THIS PLACE DETERIORATE?!
HELP ME!
HEY! HAVE YOU GOT ANY MORE BIG NO.? THIS IS ALMOST GONE!



Abnormal Psychology
J. Demskey
SAM, DO YOU THINK THIS FILM WILL HAVE ANY EFFECT ON SOCIETAL OPINION OF WHETHER OR NOT HOLLYWOOD REFLECTS SOCIETY, OR VICE-VERSA?
IN THAT SENSE, I GUESS THAT THE CLOSEST FILM WE COULD RELATE TO WOULD BE THE WARRIORS
YES MERV, I DO THE FACT IS THAT BOTH HOLLYWOOD AND SOCIETY REFLECT EACH OTHER.
HOW DO YOU MEAN THAT SAM?
WHILE HOLLYWOOD MAKES ANYTHING THE PUBLIC WANTS, THE PUBLIC REFLECTS HOLLYWOODS PROFITS.

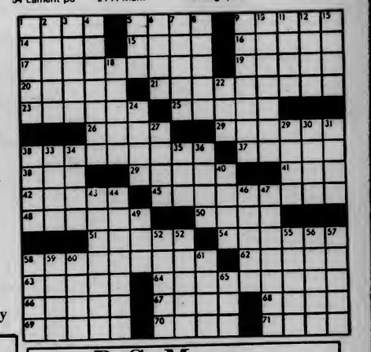
CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1 Soothe
5 Aromatic plant
9 Kilmer classic
14 Away from the wind
15 Awry
16 Paris landlord's due
17 Coming together again
19 Perfumer's necessity
20 Auto compartment
21 Most robust
23 Trace
25 Nasty look
26 Afr. village
28 Like better
32 Conquering
37 1954 pact: Abbr.
38 "Exodus" hero
39 Looks askance
41 In addition
42 Circular bands
45 Hat part
48 Appetizer
50 Metal strand
51 ----- common denominator
54 Lament poems
58 Slender pieces
62 "Myrt and --...": Old radio program
63 Carts
64 Unfriendly look: 2 words
66 Be of one mind
67 Comprehensive trip
68 At anytime
69 Card game
70 Scot. river
71 Places

DOWN
1 Vehicles
2 Vigilant
3 Madagascar primate
4 Most stingy
5 Possesses
6 Shield: Var.
7 Splits
8 Started
9 NYSE members
10 Soc. Sec. recipient
11 Being in Madrid
12 Gr. letters
13 Sp. painter
18 Ice or roller -----
22 Corded fabric
24 A Marx
27 Ceases to live
29 ---- Morgana: Mirage
30 Pitt's alma mater
31 Quarter acre
32 Grape refuse
33 Diva's specialty
34 ---- Fein: Irish org.
35 --- Brunswick
36 Got larger
40 Uttered
43 Palestine region
44 Eng. poet
46 Makes neat
47 Scolds
49 Have dinner
52 Divides: Suffix
53 Group of people
55 Cemetery plot
56 Bird
57 Prophets
58 Shop: Scot. var.
59 Amer. Samoa city, in part
60 Slink
61 A lot: Var.,
65 Lose moisture

Friday Puzzle Solved:

C	E	D	E		V	I	A	L	S		S	T	O	P
A	D	E	N		E	C	T	A	L		T	R	U	E
P	I	C	O	T		E	D	O	N	E		R	E	N	T
S	T	E	R	E	O		P	I	E	P		A	C	E
			P	E	R	M		S	P	E	E	D	E	R
I	N	T	E	R	I	O	R		S	A	Y
R	O	T		S	T	R	A	W		A	B	E	E	L
C	R	O	S	S		Y	A	C	H	T		D	E	M	O
S	A	N	T	A		C	L	A	R	A		E	L
			A	L	A		D	R	E	A	M	F	U	L
S	P	I	R	A	L	S		F	A	K	E	S
P	E	N		S	I	L	L	Y		S	E	T	T	E	R
R	A	T	S			B	A	Y	O	U		V	I	L	E
A	C	R	O			I	N	N	E	R		L	A	S	T
T	W	A				S	Y	R	E	N		E	K	E	S



D.C. Menu

LUNCH	BASICS LUNCH
Sausage Grinder Tuna a la King/Biscuit	Oatburger Tuna a la King/Biscuit
DINNER	BASICS DINNER
Fried Chicken/ Cranberry Sauce Spinach and Mushroom Quiche	Fried Chicken/ Cranberry Sauce Spinach and Mushroom Quiche

The Umass Music Theater Guild Presents:
The Broadway Musical

"ON THE TOWN"
Music by Leonard Bernstein

Thurs, Fri, Sat, Nov. 6, 7, 8 and 13, 14, 15
All Performances: 8 P.M. Students $2.50
Bowker Auditorium Gen Admission $3.00

Special Discount Preview
Thursday Nov. 6, $1.00 off all ticket prices
Tickets now on sale at the Bowker Box Office
or phone reservation by calling 545-0783

WANTED FOR COUNTY COMMISSIONER

Preserve Nature's Great Gifts To Mankind

Progressive Ambitious Energetic Determined Concerned

Your Ecological Concerns Are His Too

David E. West is Wanted for a strong voice in your county government. Dave opposes nuclear power and the proposed plan to divert water from the Connecticut River. He is also concerned with the handling of sanitary landfill and toxic wastes as well as the preservation of farmland. Your vote for Dave West will allow him to work for everyone concerned in Hampshire County.

Whatever You Do, Get Out and Vote on November 4, 1980.

An unidentified woman poses for an unknown photographer.

★ Millennium

continued from page 6

More than 500 educational administrators, futurists, issue advocates and students are expected to attend the conference according to its planners.

The conference is open to UMass students free of charge. Information is available from the Future Studies Department in the School of Education.

★ Transit

continued from page 6

Each new bus costs $135,000. According to Barrot, handicapped equiped buses are $12,000 to $15,000 more and include rear door lifts and ramps.

The UMass bus system operates in connection with the Pioneer Valley Transit Authority. The funding for this service is provided through the Federal and State departments of Transportation. In addition money from the Student Activities Tax Fund helps pay the cost.

The size of the University and the number of students necessitated the need for a bus service of this magnitude, Barrot said. The Amherst campus based Transportation and Parking System began operation in 1973.

TONIGHT'S EPISODE
Those Darn Co-eds
clean up for Parents Weekend

OVERSEAS AUTO PARTS

For the most complete line of foreign auto parts and accessories in the Pioneer Valley.

Get an extra 10% off our low prices with this ad.

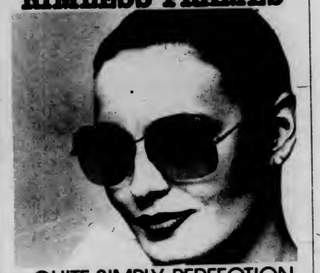
offer expires Nov. 15, 1980

API®

Zayre Shopping Plaza
Rt 9 Hadley, MA 01035
Tel 253-3403

authorized API distributor ®

NYLOR™ RIMLESS FRAMES



QUITE SIMPLY, PERFECTION.
• lightweight
• flexible
• easy-to-adjust

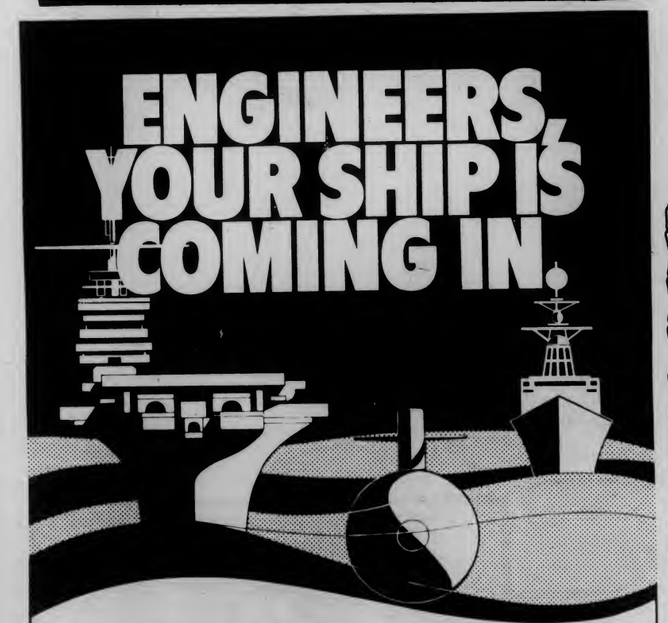
Logo PARIS

Amherst Optical Shoppe

170 University Dr.
Amherst, Mass.
253-5412

195 N. Pleasant St.
Amherst, Mass.
256-6403

ENGINEERS, YOUR SHIP IS COMING IN.



It might be a nuclear sub or a billion dollar aircraft carrier. At the Norfolk Naval Shipyard, you can provide engineering support for the maintenance and testing of the most sophisticated technology in the world, with hands-on experience that will challenge your personal creativity, stimulate and enhance your engineering knowledge, and accord you a good measure of responsibility on important projects.

Our shipyard recruiter will be on campus on
November 6, 1980
A General Information Meeting will be held on
November 5, 1980

An Equal Opportunity Employer U.S. Citizenship required.

Located in the Tidewater, Virginia area, the shipyard is surrounded by a vast array of recreational and cultural activities. Just minutes away, the resort city of Virginia Beach hosts water activities of all types and descriptions. Also, the shipyard is just a short drive from the Blue Ridge Mountains with its spectacular fall foliage and numerous winter ski resorts.

Mr. L. B. Austin
Code 170.3
Norfolk Naval Shipyard
Portsmouth, Virginia 23709
Call Collect: (804) 393-7340

Chevy goes Whole Whog™!

"This coffee table masterpiece... which, should you find it necessary to read after my preface, will stimulate you for weeks."–CHEVY CHASE

Whole Whog Catalog

by Victor Langer, Leslie Anderson, Bob Ross illustrated by Leslie Anderson with a preface by Chevy Chase

Chevy Chase's hilarious preface to this wonderfully illustrated catalog of unprecedented products is only the beginning. What follows is a ham-on-wry look at American aspirations in the eighties, a scintillating parody of the current madness in the marketplace, a complete guide to both high tech and dreck, the ultimate Saturday Night Live of mail order catalogs. As Francis Bacon put it, "You only wallow once in the sty of life. So go whole hog and pig out while you can."

$6.95 trade paperback / At all bookstores

Times BOOKS
Three Park Avenue, New York 10016

Booters lose sixth in a row to Eagles

By SCOTT SOLOMON
Collegian Staff

CHESTNUT HILL — Ken Bovell's goal 17 minutes into the second half catapulted the Boston College Eagles past the UMass men's soccer team, 3-1.

It was the sixth consecutive loss for the Minutemen, who slip to 4-11, while the Eagles surge to 11-3-2. With only four games remaining on their schedule, Boston is almost certain to qualify for a bid in the four-member ECAC tournament.

The BC victory marks the Eagles first series win since the rivalry began in 1968. UMass had compiled a 10-0-1 mark against BC before the loss.

"I think UMass is a good team with good individual talent," remarked BC coach Ben Brewster after the game. "What they are lacking is a ringleader."

The Bovell score came after BC's Rich Whalen looped a pass over a UMass defender. Bovell backed into the ball, which deflected off a Minuteman player and squired past a lunging Paul Healy to put BC on top, 2-1.

UMass opened the first half as they have done in their previous 14 games – on the defensive. BC did an effective job keeping the pressure in the visitors end, forcing the Minutemen to rely on their defense. Starting fullbacks Scott Cooper and Dave Harrington teamed to smother Eagle speedster Bovell, who was botted up for the full 90 minutes. Containing the opposition's quick, overpowering forward is something UMass has had only moderate success in doing this season.

With just under four minutes to go in the half, BC's Jon Farrow picked up his own rebound in front of the net, which deflected off a UMass player and, in the confusion, drilled it past Healy to put the Eagles ahead, 1-0.

Overall, the UMass backfielders did a credible job shutting down the BC offensive strike. Goalie Healy, starting in his second game after an injury to starting keeper Brett Olsher, made a couple of outstanding diving stops. "The goalie (Healy) saved a couple of good goals," said BC coach Brewster. "We got a couple of cheapies."

UMass' Fritz Pike let a bullet go from about 30 yards out with just over 20 minutes to go in the game. The ball took off like a rocket, and appeared to be headed over the BC net. Eagle keeper Tom McElroy watched nonchalantly, standing 15 yards out. Just as the ball reached the cage it dipped sharply, slicing the BC lead to 2-1. McElroy turned, open-jawed, and shook his head in disbelief. It was Pike's second goal in as many games.

The Eagles would get an insurance goal from Paul Zientek with 15 minute left in the game, in a pretty feed from teammate Whalen, to up the count to 3-1.

"We've had two big wins against Brown and UMass," Eagle co-captain Lou Papadellis said. "The attitude on the team has been great."

Minutewomen place fifth at URI Tournament

By MAUREEN SULLIVAN
Collegian Staff

One more week, one more test.

That's the situation as it stands for the women's volleyball team. After placing fifth out of 16 teams at the University of Rhode Island Tournament last weekend, UMass will have to wait one more week and participate in the Rutgers Invitational this weekend to see if they will go to the Easterns.

At the Tournament, the Minutewomen defeated East Stroudsburg State College 10-15, 15-3, 16-14, then lost to Springfield College 8-15, 11-15. UMass rebounded against Hofstra University 6-15, 15-6, 15-7, before losing to George Washington University 3-15, 14-16.

It was in play on Saturday that UMass finally accomplished a task that took them seven years to do – beat New England rival Springfield College for the first time 10-15, 17-15, 15-8.

The Minutewomen also defeated Southern Connecticut State College for the second tie in three meetings. With that win, UMass finished 4-2 in the Tournament; the overall record is now 25-23.

"We have a good chance to get into the Easterns," Marasco said, "the way we played against those Division One schools, especially George Washington, it would be hard not to overlook us when the time comes for consideration."

Marasco said that while everyone played excellently, she pointed out Patti Philbin, Nancy Joraskie and Nola Eddy in particular.

"Patti was blocking all over the place," she said, "she and Nancy were just incredible. And Nola's setting was impeccable."

So it's on to Rutgers University this weekend, with the season stretched out that much longer until the decision is made.

★ UM drops first way."

Action didn't start picking up in Saturday's game until the second half after a scoreless first half.

"We played better in the second half and once we scored we were all set," high-scorer Judy Strong said. Strong scored the first two goals of the game, the first on an assist from Sue Caples who drove the ball upfield to Strong, who then broke away for the score. The second score from Strong came from inside the circle unassisted.

"It was a good game to end the season with," added Strong who, along with the rest of the team, is now looking forward to the regionals which start November 7 and run until the 9th.

Last year the Minutewoman were seeded third behind UConn and UNH, respectively. But this year the women are looking toward the number one or two seed.

"We are definitely gong to be a contender this year," Bossio said. "UNH is undefeated but they have three ties and we beat the teams they tied. I'd like to be number one, but . . ."

★ UMass outplays

continued from page 16

received a less than hospitable welcome to Amherst as Grady Fuller, Scotty Crowell and Dwayne Lopes picked off three Sweitzer passes.

Pearson, who added a 10-yard touchdown run in the second half, boosting his point total to 74, tops in Div. 1-AA had runs of 34 and 71 yards. The 71 yarder, his longest this year, would have been a touchdown had not UConn linebacker Jeff Thomas run him down.

Thomas, who is a product of the same Briston Central high school as Pearson, showed why pro scouts are watching him closely. Thomas (6'2" 226, with 4.62 speed in the 40) was simply awesome on defense, involved in 24 tackles, five of them unassisted.

Sweitzer threw a couple of touchdown passes, one to Keith Hugger on fourth down, the other to Reggie Eccleston, who the UMass defense held to just three receptions. Eccleston, who played with back spasms, entered the game as the second top receiver in the nation in Div. 1-AA. These scores, sandwiched around UConn back Joe Addison's one-yard TD run, were offset by a 19-yard Herb Newland field goal and another Murray touchdown.

Perhaps most indicative of the afternoon UConn had was Raymond James' embarassment of taking a bouncing kick-off at the two yard line, running back to the UConn end zone and downing the ball, handing UMass a top-point safety. James left the field, head down and confused.

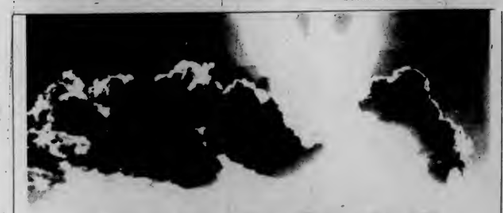
The UMass win sets up the following situation: BU will travel to UConn next week; if UConn wins; they should have an easy time with Rhode Island. UMass, barring an upset, should beat their last Yankee Conference opponent, New Hampshire, in two weeks. And, if that all works out, there will be a three-way tie (UMass, BU, UConn) for the Yankee Conference title.

And BU will haunt this team forever.

Don't be a member of the Silent Majority

Vote your conscience on Tuesday, Nov. 4

PSYCHOTHERAPY: Individuals, couples, families. Sliding fee scale.
Psychological Services Center
545-0041



CHALLENGE THE UNKNOWN.

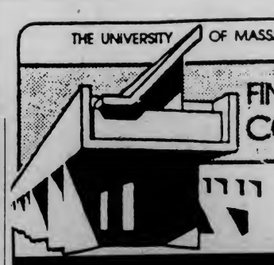
Bell Aerospace is recruiting prospective graduates to join one of the world's leading research/development teams. Consider your future with a vanguard company pioneering in diversified electronics, laser, combustion, air cushion vehicle and other threshold military and industrial technologies.

We offer a generous fringe benefits package, challenging assignments and pleasant four-season living in Western New York.

IF YOU'RE A PROSPECTIVE GRADUATE (BS, MS) IN ELECTRICAL OR MECHANICAL ENGINEERING, SIGN UP FOR AN INTERVIEW NOW. WE'LL BE ON CAMPUS NOV. 5 & 6.

Bell Aerospace TEXTRON
An Equal Opportunity Employer M F Hc Division of Textron Inc

THE UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AT AMHERST



FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL

presents

DUETS
an evening with
CHICK COREA
&
GARY BURTON

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 1980 8 PM

Tickets go on sale Wednesday, October 29 at the Fine Arts Center Box Office (M-F, noon-4 p.m.) Phone reservations accepted through Tuesday, Nov. 4 (413-545-2511)
$10, 9, 8 General Public
$9, 8, 7 Senior Citizens
$5, 4.50, 4 UMass Students

Sports

Pearson rushes for 222

UMass outplays Huskies, 39-21

By KEVIN CULLEN
Collegian Staff

Garry Pearson and Brian Heyworth have the whole thing worked out. They both run like crazy against teams who use wishbone offenses, then sit back, a locker away from each other, and laugh at it all.

Pearson rushed for 222 yards and two touchdowns while Heyworth rambled for 110 yards Saturday, leading the University of Massachusetts football team to a surprisingly easy 39-21 victory over the University of Connecticut in an important Yankee Conference game before 12,146 at Alumni Stadium.

Pearson and Heyworth teamed up for the same type of one-two punch they showed earlier this year against Villanova who, like UConn, employs a wishbone offensive set.

"I didn't know whether I could play until kickoff," said Pearson, who sustained a badly bruished thigh in last week's loss to Boston University. "I told the offensive line I needed big holes today, and they gave them to me."

As in the Villanova game, it was the same story. The quick trap play up the middle to Heyworth was gaining six and seven yards a clip, and Pearson was getting outside, giving the Huskie defenders headaches.

Garry Pearson, 22, rushed for 222 yards and 2 touchdowns in Saturday's win over UConn. (Staff photo by Scott Burke)

"It's been a while since I got the ball so much," said Heyworth, who had 20 carries. "It felt really good to run a lot. I think it takes some of the pressure off Garry (Pearson), too, because they have to watch the middle more."

The Minutemen (now 5-2 overall, 3-1 Yankee Conference) built up a 21-0 halftime lead, despite losing starting quarterback Tim Fontaine early in the first quarter. Fontaine took a helmet in the back and was taken to Cooley-Dickinson Hospital in Northampton. Hospital officials reported yesterday that Fontaine is under observation and is resting comfortably.

Sophomore quarterback Dean Percevich stepped in and performed well, completing two of the three passes he threw for 45 yards and directing a disciplined UMass offense as it rolled up 379 total yards rushing.

"In the four years I've been here, no team has run for that kind of yardage against us," UConn head coach Walt Nadzak said "What did Pearson have? 1000 yards?"

Not quite.

Pearson opened the scoring with a one-yard run with 3:33 left in the first quarter. Sophomore fullback Tom Murray came in for Heyworth and went over from three yards just 32 seconds into the second quarter for a 14-0 lead.

With 52 seconds left in the half, Pearson appeared to have yet another touchdown, but he was hit and fumbled the ball into the end zone. No matter. UMass sophomore Scott LaFond, who started at offensive guard in place of the injured Mike Chua, pounced on the ball for the 21-0 lead at the half.

"We haven't practiced that before," UMass coach Bob Pickett said with a grin.

Meanwhile, the UMass defense was containing UConn quarterback Ken Sweitzer, holding the Huskies to just 82 yards in total offense for the first half, the least that UConn has gained in a half all year.

Sweitzer, who had been intercepted just six times all year coming into the game,

TURN to page 15

UMass drops first, but finishes with win

By NANCY PARKS
and CLAY BORGLUND
Collegian Staff

It was a disappointing weekend for the UMass women's field hockey team after its first loss of the season to the University of New Hampshire Friday afternoon 2-1. But bouncing back on Saturday, they added the University of Rhode Island to their impressive list of shut-outs, defeating them 3-0.

It was a disappointing weekend also for senior field hockey player Patti Bossio, who earlier last week fractured her right foot in playagainst Brown University.

Bossio played Friday against the Univeristy of New Hampshire, but had to be pulled toward the end. To play Friday, Bossio had to numb her foot to reduce the feeling of pain. But during action, it started to get really bad, and toward the end of the game she "really couldn't feel it."

Bossio's doctor said if she really wanted to play she could, but it was up to her. "I really wanted to play (Friday) because it was the big game of the season. So I forced it and now it is really sore," Bossio said.

"I am definitely upset because I want to be well for the regionals. This week in practice I won't do anything at the beginning, but wait until Wednesday or Thursday to see how it feels," Bossio said.

Bossio had to abstain from action in Saturday's game against the University of Rhode Island and, because she couldn't play, coach Pam Hixon had to do a lot of subbing. But the women pulled off an easy victory, downing URI by a decisive 3-0.

On Friday though, New Hampshire handed UMass its first loss of the 1980 season. After six weeks of play, fifteen wins, and one tie, the Minutewomen finally knew what it felt like to be on the short end of a score.

Coach Rilling of the UNH Wildcats was able to sum it up for her team after calming herself down somewhat. "We felt if we executed our game plan we could win. We did and we won."

And execute their game plan was something they did with authority. from the opening bully of the first half, until nearly 13 minutes later when UMass finally got off its first corner opportunity UNH showed the Minutewomen the type of pressing attack they most likely will encounter when they enter the playoff jungle later this week. Outsticking, outshooting, and outplaying the UMass girls up to that point, they still could only muster a one goal lead.

Perhaps UMass' Patty Shea put it best as she was taking off her pads on the bench, "Sometimes the breaks just don't go your

turn to page 15

Terry DiGiacomo takes control of the ball for UMass against UNH on Friday. (Staff photo by Lisa Mead)

Minutewomen down UNH, host Vermont tomorrow

By MAUREEN SULLIVAN
Collegian Staff

The women's soccer team closed out its regular season Saturday with a 3-0 win over the University of New Hampshire at NOPE field.

Along with their eighth straight win and seventh consecutive shutout, the Minutewomen have been given the second seed for the Eastern Championships. They will host the University of Vermont at the Boyden field Tuesday at 2:00 p.m.

Both UMass and UNH played a wide-open kind of soccer Saturday, letting passes go mostly unchallenged not only to the players, but out-of-bounds as well. The Wildcats and the Minutewomen exchanged throw-ins frequently; most of the time was spent on the sidelines.

"It (the game) was a little sloppy," said UMass coach Kalekeni Banda, "but we did not anyone to get hurt. It was good for the seniors to end their careers with a win, and I hope we can continue to win in the playoffs."

UMass scored its first goal at 11:55 of the first half, when Nancy Feldman, taking the corner kick from Maddie Mangini, flipped a backwards kick through the UNH defenders and past goalie Barbara Steinbrecker's right side.

The Minutewomen closed the half with a 1-0 lead, holding UNH to seven shots on goalie Kelly Tuller (who as a senior, was playing her last game of the regular season); Mary Szeltela and Jacqueline Gaw led the defense for UMass.

Sloppy passing paced most of the second half; it was such a pass that gave UMass its second goal. At 21:00, UNH, trying to prevent a scoring drive, booted a keeper to Steinbrecker. Traveling high and fast, the ball sailed away from her left and landed in the net. The goal was credited to senior Elaine Contant, who was the last UMass player to kick the ball.

After that, it was mostly UMass, as try after try rained on the UNH net throughout the half. With 1:10 left on the clock, Jacqueline Gaw took a pass from Jane Lojek and fired it past Steinbrecker in the middle for the final tally.

WOMEN'S SOCCER NOTEBOOK . . . The probability of Nina Holstrom's playing on Tuesday is still in doubt. Her foot has been bothering her since the Springfield game . . . UMass has a score to settle with Vermont. The Catamounts have been the only team to beat UMass two years running (6-2 in '79, 1-0 this year). In fact, the last team the Minutewomen lost to was Vermont, back on Oct. 4 . . .

TODAY IS BLACK SOLIDARITY DAY

NUMMO

VOLUME 9 ISSUE 10 NOVEMBER 3, 1980

CENTER FOR RACIAL STUDIES

Photos by A. Nazario

by Gertrudis Garcia

The following is a condensation of Mr. Bhaki Langa's words describing the Center for Racial Studies.

"The Center for Racial Studies islocated in Moore House in Southwest. It was started in the early 1970's. it was started because the students wanted a center in Southwest that would deal with racism directly. in other words, in a non-traditional way, through workshops, speakers series, concert, with politics and all issues in the university plus of course the traditional method of offering three credit courses."

According to Mr. Langa "Racism cannot be taken in isolation." For that reason the center invites speakers that would talk about the parallels between South Africa and the United States in terms of racism. The speakers could also present as example Cuba, its economic system and how it affects other countries in the area. the courses the center offers deal with a diversity of issues. the center is also responsible for training student-administrators in the dorms so that they can deal with situations arising form racism. The center presents the basic notions of black studentexpectations and how to mediate in the problems or disputes that could arise between them.

The center is also interested in dealing with racism in the university (in the academic and administrative levels). The fact is that a lot of students come to the university for four years but never have to deal with a course that presents to them the question of racism, colonialism, and sexism. the center is fighting along with other groups for the implementation by the university of the Core requirement. In this way, as part of their education, students will have to the university can be exposed to courses that deal with racism, sexism, colonialism, etc.

TURN TO PAGE 4

DRUM
You are invited to share in the interpretations of the Black experience. Contributions of poems, essays, fiction, artwork and photography are now being accepted for the fall 80-81 edition of Drum magazine. Address your submisions to:
DRUM
115 New Africa House
UMASS, Amherst, MA 01003
no later than November 20, 1980

Come accept the invitation and SHARE YOUR MIND with the world. All contributions become the properiy of DRUM.

NUMMO NEWS STAFF MEETING
MONDAY 7:30pm
NEW AFRICA HOUSE
ROOM 103
STAFF AND INTERESTED MEMBERS OF THE COMMUNITY PLEASE ATTEND.

Friday November 7: Pianist Jorge Dalto and his group "Chevere"
Latin and Brazilian Jazz Music
Buckley Recital Hall Amherst College
8:15 P.M.

Robert Chrisman will be speaking on the Cuban refugee situation. November 7 at 4:30 pm at the Red Room at Amherst College. Sponsored by La Causa.

Meeting on the situation of Hispanic programming on WFCR. Tuesday at 7:30 pm in the Campus Center 9th floor.

NUMMO NEWS STAFF

CURTIS HAYNES — Editor in Chief
GERTRUDIS GARCIA — Editor En Latino
RICHARD MEI — Editor Asian Affairs
BARRON HOLLAND — Photo Editor

Type Setters

LORRAINE COX
MONSI RODRIGUEZ
THENA COOPER

Other Dedicated Staff and Contributers

YVONNE CHIREAU
GLENN CARPINIAN
ZULMA NAZARIO
CHARMAINE DE LEMOS
HARRY MILLER
BARI NJIRI
THEO MOORE
THOMAS FOSTER
HECTOR BIAGGI
JOSE CHIQUI GARCIA
TONY CRAYTON
RIA DURRAN
MARIA TERESA TOLEDO
ED COHEN
ROBERT DAVIS
MARIE VICTOR
MAURICIO HERNANDEZ
MARLEAN DUNCAN
BARBARA COVINGTON
SEMAJ LYCURGUS

NUMMO is the magic power of the spoken and written word. With each word translated there escapes vapor. Vapor is a form of water. Water is necessary for the existance of all life forms on earth.

The Black News Service strongly believes that our newspaper will speek the truths of the oppressed people of black people. Only through the truth can we, as a people develop a clear and precise knowledge of the world and its perplexities. When we receive knowledge, it is our duty to use it and share it with you, our fellow brothers and sisters. It is through this exchange of written information which you, the people transfer the spoken word into power. Then together we will surely become the controllers of our creative life forces, our destiny.

THIRD WORLD EVENTS

Mon. Nov.3 Eugenio Balari 4 p.m.
Topic:"Cuban Economic Policy and Planning For the Cuban Consumer"
Campus Center, rm. 174 Discussion will follow presentation.
Mon. Nov.3 Molliendo Vidrio 8 p.m.
Valentine Annex Amherst College $2.00

Wed. Nov.5 "Courage of The People"7 p.m.
Campus Center rm.917 Discussion on Bolivia to follow film.

Sun. Nov.9 PARADE/Rededication of New Africa House
Amherst Center 12 noon

Tue. Nov.11 Ujima and Company 7 p.m.
Black Poetry and Music.Hampden Theater Southwest

Wed. Nov.12Manuel Lee of I.C.A.P.(Cuban Institute ForFriendship With The People)Cuba and the World in the 1980's"a discussion on Cuba's Foreign Policy
Topic:"Cuba and the World in the 1980's"a discussion on Cuba's Foreign Policy
Mahar Auditorium 7:30 p.m.
Wed. Nov.12 "No Vietnamese Ever Called Me Nigger"
Malcolm X Center 8:30 p.m.

Thus. Nov.13 Actores Unido/Cibales Dance Group
Hampden Theater Southwest U.Mass 8 p.m.

Fri. Nov.14 RAY BARRETTO in concert! 9p.m.
Student Union Ballroom U.Mass.

Sat. Nov.22 Gimme 5 8 p.m. Bowker Auditorium

Mon. Nov.24 "Women in Arms" 4 p.m. Smith College
Place to be announced Free of charge.

Mon. Nov.24 "Women in Arms" 8 p.m. U.Mass
Place to be announced $2.00 donation requested

Victoria Shultz, producer of this film on the liberation struggle in Nicaragua will be speaking following each showing of the film.

More activities will be announced soon.Please watch the paper for upcoming details.

For more information on the events listed;please feel free to contact Ahore 545-2479,or Afrik.Am 545-1990

U.S. LAWS TC REPRESS B L A C K'S REBELLION

The following two pieces of legislative "law" are being submitted to educate the Third world and university community as to what steps the Federal government has taken to crush any Third world retaliation against repressive acts which affect Third world people on a national or local level.

The "King Alfred plan" was established as law in 1949, its leading wxponent was congressman Richard Morehouse Nixon. The McCarran Act was established in 1957. Ass final these twolegislative laws are being brought to your attention to encourage you to do more research concerning these two laws for your own information because you will find that this is only the tip of the iceberg.

KING ALFRED

In the event of widespread and continuing and coordinated racial disturbances in the United States, KING ALFRED, at the discretion of the President, is to be put into action immediately.

PARTICIPATING FEDERAL AGENCIES

National Security CouncilDepartment of Justice

349-899 (?) King of England; directed translation from the Latin of the Anglo-Saxon Chronicle.

Central Intelligence AgencyDepartment of Defense
Federal Bureau of InvestigationDepartment of Interior

PARTICIPATING STATE AGENCIES
(Under Federal Jurisdiction)

National Guard UnitsState Police

PARTICIPATING LOCAL AGENCIES
(Under Federal Jurisdiction)

City PoliceCounty Police

Even before 1954, when the Supreme Court of the United States of America declared unconstitutional separate educational and recreational facilities, racial unrest and discord had become very nearly a part of the American way of life. But that way of life was repugnant to most Americans. Since 1954, however, that unrest and discord have broken out into widespread violence which increasingly have placed the peace and stability of the nation in dire jeopardy. This violence has resulted in loss of life, limb and property, and has cost the taxpayers of this nation billions of dollars. And the end is not yet in sight. This same violence has raised the tremendously grave question as to whether the races can ever live in peace with each other. Each passing month has brought new intelligence that, despite new laws passed to alleviate the condition of the Minority, the Minority still is not satisfied. Demonstrations and rioting have become a part of the familiar scene. Troops have been called out in city after city across the land, and our image as a world leader severely damaged. Our enemies press closer, seeking the advantage, possibly at a time during one of these outbreaks of violence. The Minority has adopted an almost military posture to gain its objectives, which are not clear to most Americans. It is expected, therefore, that, when those objectives are denied the Minority, racial war must be considered inevitable. When that Emergency comes, we must expect the total involvement of all 22 million members of the Minority, men, women and children, for once this project is launched, its goal is to terminate, once and for all, the Minority threat to the whole of the American society, and, indeed, the Free World.

Chairman, National Security Council

Preliminary Memo: Department of Interior
UNDER KING ALFRED, the nation has been divided into 10 regions.

In case of Emergency, Minority members will be evacuated from the cities by federalized national guard units, local and state police and, if necessary, by units of the Regular Armed Forces, using public and military transportation, and detained in near by military installations until a further course of action has been decided.

I-Capital region
2-Northeast region
3-Southeast region
4-Great Lakes region
5-South Central region
6-Deep South region
7-Deep South region II
8-Great Plains, Rocky Mountain region
9-Southwest region
10-a,b-West Coast region

No attempt will be made to seal off the Canadian and Mexican borders.

Secretary, Department of Interior

TURN TO PAGE 4

RE: INCOMPLETE MEMO ON BLACK REPORTER

by Earl Caldwell

Every page of documents carries the stamp. In bold letters it reads:"All information contained herein is classified." Then there is the date of declassification and underneath that, the initials of the appropriate official.

The documents provide one more look into the way the FBI operated through the late '60's and early 70's.

They are full of revelations. They [illegible] many old fears. But still, they do not tell all that happened. I know. Iwas one of the reporters caught up in the counterintelligence program the FBIconducted in its effort to destroy the Black Panther Party.

One of the declassified documents is dated Jan. 12, 1970. It is a memorandum that carries the code name "Airtel" and was sent by the special agent in charge of the FBI's San Francisco office to Washington, to the national director.

Regarding subject, the memo says: Black Panther Party. Racial matter. Smith Act of 1940, seditious conspiracy, rebellion and insurrection.

It is a two paragraph memo directed to J. Edgar Hoover, the lontime head of the FBI. It begins: "Re: Bureau Airtel Dated: 12—18—69 Concerning interview of Earl Caldwell of the San Francisco office of the New York Times. Special agents of the San Francisco office have made six calls at The New York Times office, leaving messages that an appointment was desired."

The memo goes on to say that Caldwell, the reporter, was never available but that this secretary had been advised of the FBI's interest in an interview Caldwell had with a Panther leader, David Hilliard.

The memo says the secretary volunteered that she believed the Hilliard interview had been tape—recorded.

Then, the declassified FBI memorandum concludes: "In view of the lack of response from Caldwell, no further attempt is being made to conduct the interview."

It did not happen that way, and it did not end there.

The memo says nothing about the FBI first asking, then demanding, that I become an informant. It does not mention the threats that were made. And it says nothing of the court fight thah followed, one that wound up before the Supreme Court of the United States with its historic ruling in 1972 that dealt with reporters' rights.

It goes back to 1969. It was a national correspondent with the New York Times, then based in the newspaper's San Francisco bureau. A part of my responsibility was covering groups hhat were considered radical. At the forefront was the Black Panther Party.

In the middle of December 1969, there were almost constant battles between the Panthers and the police. Not a week went by that there was not some kind of confrontation. Some emded in killings; most involved shooting. And the Panthers argued that nobody would say what was really happening to them, that they were being set up and thah the FBI was behind what was taking place.

"Why don't you write this?" Hilliard, who was the Panthers' national chief of staff, screamed one night. "Why don't you tell people what the FBIis doing to us?"

At the time, I spent every night that I could at the party's national headquarters, which was in an old two—story wood frame building on Shadduck Ave. in Oakland. The nightly fear was that a police raid would take place.

There was nothing to sayI understood what Hilliard meant, and I believed the raids that were taking place were not chance happenings. There was obvious planning and coordination, and the raids were being executed with military precision. But reporters cannot always say what they would like to say in their newspaper stories. Editors demand facts.

They want proof. They say to their reporters, "Prove it and then we'll print it." The proof needed to say what Hilliard wanted to say was proof I did not have.

It was then that the FBI came to me. It was the middle of December 1969, and the FBI approac ed me to ask if I would be willing to become an informant, to spy on the Black Panther Party.

"You are around the Panthers all of the time. You are there every day," an agent said to me over the telephone. "What we would like you to do is call us and let us know what you see and what you hear. You could call us every few days."

At the time, it surprised me what the FBI was asking, and my answer was no. It was something that no reporter could do. A reporter is not a cop. And over the

continued on page 4

FBI RELEASES MEMOS ON BLACKS

By D.J. Saunders & Owen Moritz

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover deliberately set out, in the late 1960s and early '70s to discredit and create discord among black nationalist groups and their sympathizers, newly released documents obtained by the Daily News revealed yesterday.

The documents also revealed that the director, who died in 1972, had ordered his New York bureau to cultivate black reporters in New York for this purpose.

Among Hoover's targets were former Black Panther leader Huey Newton, radical philosophy professor Angela Davis and their sympathizers, such as composer Leonard Bernstein, whose late wife, Felicia, gave a fundraising party in their swank apartment in 1970 for the Black Panthers. The party got wide publicity and came to symbolize author Tom Wolfe's "radical chic."

After the Bernstein party, Hoover fired off a memo to the New York FBI office, directing agents to find out who attended and to send the guests fictitious letters outlining "the Black Panther Party's anti-Semitic posture."

HOOVER THEN suggested the New York office not use a ploy that had been suggested--that of signing the letters with the name of a nonexistent member of the militant Jewish Defense League, "since it would appear such action might prove self-defeating in the event of an injury." Instead, Hoover told his New York agents to sign the letters with "an anonymous name with additional phraseology such as 'A Concerned and Loyal Jew' or other similar terminology."

Hoover was explicit in telling how the letter-writing campaign should be conducted. "New York should insure use of unwatermarked bond stationery in connection with the above and utilization of mailing procedures which will not allow the bureau's identification as the origin of this correspondence," Hoover wrote.

THE DECLASSIFIED documents are mostly in memo form between Hoover and his New York and San Francisco bureaus. A federal judge in Manhattan ordered these documents turned over to attorneys for Dhoruba Moore, 36, a former Black Panther who is serving a 25-year-to-life sentence for the attempted murder of two New York City policemen.

Moore is suing the FBI and the New York Police Department, charging he was framed for the attempted murders of Police Officers Thomas Curry and Nicholas Binetti, both of whom were critically wounded in a burst of machine-gun fire while guarding Manhattan District Attorney Frank Hogan's home on May 19,1971.

According to the documents, Hoover, on Aug. 25, 1967, set out on his self-described "counter-intelligence endeavor" in order to "expose, disrupt, misdirect, discredit or otherwise neutralize the activities of black nationalist, hate-type organizatins and groups, their leadership, spokesmen and supporters, and to counter their propensity for violence and civil disorder."

HE ORDERED agents here to seek out local media in this campaign, but the New York office wrote back on June 26, 1968, that "at the present time, the NYO (New York Office) has no established reliable contacts among Negro news media who might be of assistance."

New York called it "an extremely sensitive field" with the "possibility of embarrassment...ever present" and wondered whether "the results to be gained would justify the continued risks involved."

But a month later, Special Agent T.J. Harrington, Jr. wrote his boss that he was "in dialy contact with the following news media in New York City: ABC-TV and Radio, CBS-TV and Radio, WNEW-TV and Radio, WOR-TV and Radio, The Associated Press, United Press International, WINS Radio."

Harrington added that "the following Negro reporters are known" to him, managing to misspell most of their names.

HE LISTED THEM as Bill McCarey (Bill McCreary) of WNEW-TV; Gill Noble (Gil Noble) of WABC-TV; Miss Melbo Tolliber (Melba Tolliver), then with WABC-TV; Laster (Lester) Carson, reporter, the Associated Press; Denny (Denton) Watson, reporter, United Press International, and Stanley Scott, formerly of WINS.

McCreary commented yesterday: "No, no way. No one from the FBI has ever contacted me for anything" while a reporter.

Scott, vice-president of public affiars for Philip Morris and ranking black in the Nixon White House as deputy to Herb Klein, President Richard Nixon's and President Gerald Ford's special assistant, said "absolutely not" when asked if he had ever been contacted by the FBI.

The documents also show that:

°In October 1968, the FBI approached Earl Caldwell, now a Daily News columnist, then a reporter for the New York Times covering the Black Panthers, seeking information. The bureau had little success, telling Hoover in a memo:

"Mr. Caldwell reiterated that he did not desire to be interviewed because he did not feel he should discuss matters reflecting on his relationship with the Negro community and his confidential relationships as a newspaperman."

°The New York office monitored an appearance by Harlem Rep. Adam Clayton Powell on the Merv Griffin television show, then wrote Hoover: "At the conclusion of the program Powell was asked by the host as to his views on certain well-known persons in public life. As to Attorney General John Mitchell, he merely replied by saying, 'Ugh,' As to J. Edgar Hoover, Powell stated that he is the 'number' one enemy of the U.S.'"

°The FBI frequently sent "Irving" letters to selected newsmen. Irving was a fictitious person who was described as a disgruntled member of the Communist Party.

A memo dated April 23, 1969, said: "New York has in the past effectively utilized the counter-intelligence technique of having a fictitious person called Irving, a disgruntled Jewish member of the Communist Party, United States of America, write to (blank) which have proven to be embarrassing and injurious to the (Communist Party) CPUSA. (Blank) has published every article so far submitted by 'Irving.'"

°It was suggested that "articles be prepared in the news media discrediting" black militant Stokely Carmichael, adding that "it might be appropriate to gag Carmichael with a CIA label."

°It was suggested that an anonymous letter be sent to Black Panther founder Eldridge Cleaver from a "brother" warning that the "brethren in New York are planning to eliminate him."

°It was suggested that thought be given to "placing discreet pretext phone calls, using a Negro accent, to the spouse (of a Black Panther member), suggesting various things concerning her husband."

°Hoover reveled in his successes with the media. For example, he bragged how "the dissemination of mass media information to selected and trusted newspapermen, pointing out violent and dangerous nature of a group, has contributed measureably to the decline of Ku Klux Klan in the United States."

He opined that "newspapers will print derogatory information much easier than they will print commedatory information, especially if the organization is by its nature violence-prone."

Asian Affairs

Third World Arts Brought to UMass

by Roberta Uno

Richard Mei, Jr.

Her title is program specialist in the Student Activities Office, but she is more than that. As author of the play "In the Rock Garden" and the creator of the Third World Theater Series and the Duke Ellington Music Series, Roberta Uno has done more than just bring dynamic and enlightening entertainment to the Pioneer Valley. She has promoted and helped students further their artistic talents while exposing her audiences to entertainment not typically found on a college campus. At the same time, she is truly enhancing the idea of third world unity and building popular support for those programs.

The Third World Theater Series

Roberta has always been active in third world events and she has become a prime force in uniting and developing third world students through the arts. The idea of the Third World Theater Series came about because she was very disappointed with the lack of diversity on the stage and of the little support there was for non-white actors. Traditionally, theater has been almost exclusively all white, both in its casting and in the selection of the plays that are performed. Usually it is very rare to see a Black, Hispanic, Asian or Native American perform on stage or ever watch a play that concerns those people at all. The few times that they are, they are often shown in a negative light. However, the talents of third world actors, writers, light, stage, sound and tech people does exist. These talents only need exposure. Willing to experiment and take risks, Roberta wanted third world students "to see themselves in a positive light." The theater, as a living art form, could instead be used to encourage third world students to participate and enjoy doing something that is just as much a part of their heritage as anyone else's but which is often obscured. Her aims are to develop third world artists and writers and to bring to the stage plays that could have relevance not only to third world peoples, but to everyone. According to Roberta, the theater series could've been "a statement of existence if nothing else." The majority of the plays that have been performed as part of the Third World Theater Series have been from professional multi-racial theater companies from New York City which have expressed keen desire and enthusiasm to perform at UMass-often at no monetary gain for themselves. Plays performed in the past have dealt with South Africa, prisons, working women and other issues of concern to third world peoples. When the artists are at UMass, besides their performances, they lecture to Roberta's third world theater class which deals with the historical as well as technical and training aspects of third world theater productions. In addition to the outside plays, three productions have been entirely done by students. Plays written by two UMass graduates and by one Smith College student were performed, produced and directed by students from the Five-Colleges. Students also design the posters and advertisements for the plays which become artistic statements in themselves.

The Duke Ellington Music Series

Black classical music has always been at home in the Amherst area. The Valley for a long time has had a reputation for its support of this music. At UMass, the Afro-American Studies Department has always supported great artists to teach here, including Archie Shepp, Max Roach and Reggie Workman. However, until two years ago, there was no program on a regular year-round basis that highlighted America's only true indigenous music form.

Initiated in 1978 by Roberta, the Duke Ellington Music Series is dedicated to bringing the finest performers of black classical music to perform at UMass. This year, the series has featured performances in the Fine Arts Concert Hall as well as hosting the Annual Black Musicians Conference and the summer Bright Moments in Music Festival. Not only does the general public get to experience some of the greatest jazz performers of our time, but interested students can attend the workshops, lecture series and panel discussions that accompany most concerts to really learn from the "greats" who come to UMass.

Roberta's first love is that of being a playwright, but when she wrote her first play, "In the Rock Garden" as a graduation requirement for Hampshire College, she did it at first "as a silly idea." "At first I just wanted to fill a stage with Asians and blow the audiences' minds!" However, she was encouraged to stage her work, which was received with much praise. After it was performed at Hampshire College, it was later performed at Smith College and then at UMass. The play stems from her experiences at Hampshire, when, for the first time in her life, she really felt like a minority. It is from her background-born among Chinese, Japanese, Portugese and Hawaiians in Hawaii and growing up in a Chicano neighborhood in Los Angeles, that has influenced Roberta's ties to the ideas of a third world community-united in both political causes and through the arts.

Asians, Blacks, Native Americans and Hispanics all have similarities as well as differences. Putting together programs such as Roberta does, to appeal to those groups is a difficult thing to do, but she is obviously doing quite well. "Young minds" and "positivity" she says, have been the keys to the success of her endeavors.

Richard Mei and Roberta Uno sharing a humourous moment
photo by Barron Roland

BOSTON COLLEGE DAY TO RECRUIT NEW STUDENTS

Yat Man

The fourth annual college day was held on Sunday, October 26, 1980, on the campus of UMass, Boston near Boston's Chinatown. The College Day was sponsored by the East Coast Asian Student Union (EACASU) and the UMass Boston Asian Organization. Numerous East Coast Colleges and Universities had the opportunity to recruit inner-city Asian students to their campuses. Some of the schools which participated were Brown, Tufts, Yale, MIT, Princeton, UMass/Boston, Smith College, Mount Holyoke College, etc. Representing UMass/Amherst were the Asian American Students Association (ASASA) and the Concerned Comittee for the Education of Black Students (CCEBS).

Student leaders from ECASU opened the day by stating that Asian youths must strive to acquire higher educational degrees in order to raise the social status of Asians and to improve present social and economic situations in Little Tokyos and Chinatown ghettos across the country. One of the student leaders emphasized that Asians and all the minorities of this country can enter the job market and become a recognized and vital force through education.

The format of the College Day was well-structured and provided a chance for Asian students, primarily from the Chinatown neighborhood, to talk informally with each school's representatives. Workshops in financial aid and admission procedures were given throughout the day to inform parents as well as students about the complicated and often confusing process of selecting a suitable school without the heavy burden of tuition costs. In addition, workshops were offered and slides were shown to give students, a visual account of different schools' campus and dormitory life.

Objectives of the college day were successfully fulfilled. High school students left college day, with useful information about financial aid, admission procedures and campus life.

The students were also able to gain valuable perspectives and insights into each school through informal discussions with the student representatives and academic counselors from each campus. The advantage of gaining such a perspective is to make the difficult decision of selecting the "right" school an easier one. Hopefully, in the future all young Asians with the help of similar events will be able to pursue a meaningful form of higher education. Potential college students were aided by the efforts of concerned fellow students.

The pot luck dinner sponsored by the Asian American Students Association took place Sunday October 26th at the Center for Racial Studies in Moore House. It was well attended by students, friends and faculty, including Prof. Franklin Houn of the Political Science Department and Roberta Uno (see above article). In informal chats, Miss Uno shared with us her experience growing up as an Asian American on the West Coast and in many ways expressed eloquently the concerns of minority students not only on this campus but in the entire academic community. Prof. Houn, who is chairman of the Asian Faculty Association this year, enjoyed talking with the students and giving expert insight into the politics and culture of present day China and ideas about the course of Sino—American relations.

Sai Ikemoto

photo by Barron Roland

Announcements

Asian Literary Magazine

Bamboo, formerly Asian American Review, will make it's debut as a collection of fiction, essays, poems and drawings by Asian and Asian-American students of the five colleges next Spring. No previous writing or drawing experience is necessary! Everyone is welcome to submit material. If interested, contact Richard Mei through the Asian-American Students Association. Material may be dropped off in the office of the Asian-American Students Association, Room 415, Student Union Building or by writing Editor, Bamboo c/o AASA, Box 28, SUB, UMass, Amherst, MA 01003.

The Asian American Students Association now meets every Tuesday at 6:30 P.M. in Mary Lyon lounge. Come and meet some new friends!

Jean Kim, counseller in student development, will be conducting workshops at three meetings of the AASA. These are: Nov. 4, on group dynamics, Nov. 18, on leadership and on Dec. 2, on study skills.

Friends who attended the pot luck dinner sponsored by the Asian American Students Association

ALEX HALEY SPEAKS IN SPRINGFIELD

by Kharmia DeLemos

Author of "Roots"

"Technological advancements in the past fifty years have shaped the present efficacy level of world communication such that "we know what's happened within five or ten minutes," after a major event has occured. Ironically, though communications around the globe have progressed ot heights of supersonic jets and Tel-star satellites and to depths of nuclear submarines and ocean probes, communications between geographically dispersed members of nuclear families have reached historic lows. This concern is but one of those voiced by author Alex Haley, as he spoke to an audience widely varied in age last Tuesday night at Springfield Symphony Hall.

Haley, whose internationally acclaimed books "Roots", and "The Autobiography of Malcolm X" (the latter of which he co-authored) have become literary milestones in the process of preserving Black history and culture, is fervent in his belief in all that "family" symbolizes. Pulitzer Prize-winning "Roots", the subject of much of Haley's speech, is currently being published in 33 languages and, as recently as last week, consent was given for it to be read over Alaskan radio in the language of the Eskimo. Indeed, Haley conjectures, based on inferences from world response to "Roots", that the reason for its great international appeal is the book's focal point, i.e., family.

Alex Haley also stressed American society's contemporary use of semantics to implicitly justify its disrespectful treatment of elders. Ramifications of the phrase "senior citizens" he said, is but one example. Haley believes "we have done some rather unkind things, from a social point of view, to our elders by moving them out of the home." He is staunch in his opinion that elders should be around the hove to enrich childrens' lives and to pass along the knowledge fo generations. In Haley's words, "Grandparents sprinkle stardust in the lives of little children."

After his lecture, the prominent author entertained questions regarding his books and his career. During this session, Haley extemporaneously cited as false "the assumption that a Black writer has something special about him, something to do that no one else has to do." According to Haley, the only key to being a successful writer is self-discipline. he made no mention of choice of subject matter of factors of race as being pertinent issues in the minds of potential publishers. Moreover, Alex Haley did not have any advice to young Black writers. Said the author, quite matter-of-factly, "it doesn't matter if you're Black, white or polka-dot."

Center for Racial Studies

§Racism continue to be an important issue to be studied today , now when ther is high unemplyment, inflation, the K.K.K.s gathering world attention, while povertyis an accepted way of life in the cities. In America, racism has not diminished, but increased.

§The center tries to bring more issues but unfortunately it has limited resources. Third World organizations in UMass means organizations working with limited budgets. The university claims taht centers like the Center for Racial Studies are losing (?) money. HLowever, budget wise, the center operates on a part time basis, but in reality the position of director is full time.

§The teachers taht work in the center are in reality, teacher assistants. They are T.A.'s as in any other department, but in terms of the work they are expected to do, it is not the same. For instance, teachers in the center not only have to teach three credit courses and prepare material for them, but also they have to go th workshops, ahve to thake part in the planning, excecution, and coordination of coloquia, and take part in a series of meetings. Being a teacher in the Center for Racial Studies is in fact a full-time position though al far as the University is concerned, it is part time. At this moment the center is able to continue in its aims because of the devoted people working on it.

§Mr. Langa considers that implementation of the G core requirement would facilitate things for the center. His opinion is that the G core is good to the university because of two things. First, because its implementation doesn't represent extra expenses to the university. Second because "it would attract more third world students. If Third World students know that the university of Massachusetts is committed to educating the student population in this kind of issues they would feel that the

continued on page 8

Re: incomplete memo on a black reporter

phone that afternoon I tried to explain this as best I could to the agent who called. But when I was finished, he did not want to leave it there. He pressed it. Finally, the conversation ended with my saying that I did not even want to talk to him or any other agents again.

But the next day, the FBI called back. And the day after that and then the next day. But I would not take the telephone calls. Still the FBI continued to call, saying now that they wanted information about Hilliard. I continued to refuse to speak to them on the telephone. Then came the threat.

Over the phone the agent said to the secretary in the Times Bureau that the FBI was tired of playing games.

"You tell Caldwell that we've hadit with him," the agent said. "You tell him that if he does not want to meet with us, that if he won't tellus anything, that he can tell it in court."

That was on a Friday. On the Monday morning thah followed, a federal marshal showed up at The Times bureau and he had a subpena in hand. There were other ways.

The subpena that was served ordered me to appear before a federal grand jury that was investigating the Panthers. Snd the subpena further said that when I come I should bring all of my notebooks, tape—recordings and anything else I had that dealt with the Black Panther Party.

And that day, right then, my reporting on the activities of the Black Panther Party was finished. it was over. Checkmate.

It meant that I could not stay out there and watch as my editors had wanted. The Panthers had been making charges, saying that there were provocateurs, that they aere being set up, that FBI agents were using phony documents and a lot of other devices to create dissension, then trouble within the party. But the Panthers had no proof.

Getting the proof is the reporters job. We want facts, editors say, and then it is the reporter who must go back and dig, and the reporter hopes that in time the facts that the newspaper must pay attention to will emerge. The reporter goes back and stands watch. The reporter does this because what the reporter understands is that if he stays out there long enough and that if everything is right, that sooner or later there is the chance of getting the evidence that is needed.

With the issuing of the subpena, the FBI took away any chance that I had of getting the facts. From that Monday morning on, my time was spent with lawyers, fighting first one subpens and then another. And before it was over, the issue was in the hands of the Supreme Court.

It never occurred to me then. I did not realize that the FBI did not want reporters out there looking and asking questions, standing watch, because there was fear that in time, the reporter might just be lucky enough to stumble onto what they, the agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, were doing.

This is part of what the document, the one numbered 105—185706 and directed to the attention of J. Edgar Hoover, does not say.

Combined Memo: Department of Justice
Federal Bureau of Investigation
Central Intelligence Agency

There are 12 major Minority organizations and all are familiar to the 22 million. Dossiers have been compiled on the leaders of the organizations, and can be studied in Washington. The material contained in many of the dossiers, and our threat to reveal that material, has considerably held in check the activities of some of their leaders. Leaders who do not have such usable material in their dossiers have been approached to take Government posts, mostly as ambassadors and primarily in African countries. The promise of these positions also has materially contributed to a temporary slowdown of Minority activities. However, we do not expect these slow-downs to be of long duration, because there are always new and dissident elements joining these organizations, with the potential power to replace the old leaders. All organizations and their leaders are under constant, 24-hour surveilance. The organizations are:

1-The Black Muslims
2-Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC)
3-Congress of Racial Equality
4-Uharu Movement
5-Group on Advanced Leadership (GOAL)
6-Freedom Now Party (FNP)
7-United Black Nationalists of America (UBNA)
8-The New Pan-African Movement (TNPAM)
9-Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC)
10-The National Urban League (NUL)
11-The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP)
12-Committee on Racial and Religious Progress (CORARP)

NOTE: At the appropriate time, to be designated by the President, the leaders of some of these organizations are to be detained ONLY WHEN IT IS CLEAR THAT THEY CANNOT PREVENT THE EMERGENCY, working with local public officials during the first critical hours. All other leaders are to be detained at once. Compiled lists of Minority leaders have been readied at the National Data Computer Center. It is necessary to use the Minority leaders designated by the President in much the same manner in which we use Minority members who are agents with CENTRAL and FEDERAL, and we cannot, until there is no alternative, reveal KING ALFRED in all its aspects. Minority members of Congress will be unseated at once. This move is not without precedent in American history.

Attorney General

Preliminary Memo: Department of Defense.
This memo is being submitted in lieu of a full report from the Joint Chiefs of Staff. That report is now in preparation. There will be many cities where the Minority will be able to put into the street a superior number of people with a desperate and dangerous will. He will be a formidable enemy, for he is bound to the Continent by heritage and knows that political asylum will not be available to him in other countries. The greatest concentration of the Minority is in the Deep South, the Eastern seaboard, the Great Lakes region and the West Coast.

HUAC's Internal Security Act (McCarran Act), Title II

Concentration ("Detention") Camps should President Proclaim an "Internal Security Emergency:"

-Public law 831-81st Congress; Title H; Sec. 102; 103; 104 (HUAC's original Internal Security Act (McCarran))

EMERGENCY DETENTION : In the event of ..Insurrection...the President is authorized to make public proclamation...of an "Internal Security Emergency' "...and..."acting through the Attorney General, is...authorized to apprehend and...detain...each person as to whom there is reasonable ground to believe...PROBABLY WILL...CONSPIRE with others to engage in act...of sabotage...Persons apprehended...shall be confined in...places of detention...prescribed by the Attorney General."

CHAPTER X

CONCLUSION

...

Once the ghetto is sealed off, and depending upon the violence being perpetrated by the guerrillas, the following actions could be taken by the authorities:

(1)A curfew would be imposed in the enclosed isolated area. No one would be allowed out of or into the area after sundown.

(2)During the night the authorities would not only patrol the boundary lines, but would also attempt to control the streets and if, necessary, send out foot patrols through the entire area. If the guerrillas attempted to either break out of the area or to engage the authorities in open combat they would be readily suppressed.

(3) During a guerrilla uprising most civil liberties would have to be suspended, search and seizure operations would be instituted during the daylight hours, and anyone found armed or without proper identification would immediately be arrested. Most of the people of the ghetto would not be involved in the guerrilla operation and, under conditions of police and military control, some would help in ferreting out the guerrillas. Their help would be invaluable.

(4)If the guerrillas were able to hold out for a period of time then the population of the ghetto would be classified through an office for the "control and organization of the inhabitants." This office would distribute "census cards" which would bear a photograph of the individual, the letter of the district in which he lives, his house and street number, and a letter designating his home city. This classification would aid the authorities in knowing the exact location of any suspect and who is in control of any given district. Under such a system, movement would be proscribed and the ability of the guerrilla to move freely from place to place seriously curtailed.

(5)The population within the ghetto would be exhorted to work with the authorities and to report both on guerrillas and any suspicious activity that they might note. The police agencies would be in a position to make immediate arrests, without warrants, under suspension of guarantees usually provided by the Constitution.

(6)Acts of overt violence by the guerrillas would mean that they had declared a "state of war" within the country and, therefore, would forfeit their rights as in wartime. The McCarran Act provides for various detention centers to be operated throughout the country and these might well be utilized for the temporary imprisonment of warring guerrillas.

(7)The very nature of the guerrilla operation as presently envisioned by certain Communists and black nationalists would be impossible to sustain. According to the most knowledgeable guerrilla war experts in this country the revolutionanes could be isolated and destroyed in a short period of time.

. . . . . .

Revolutionary Film from Bolivia

"El Coraje del Pueblo"
(The Courage of the People")

Directed by Jorge Sangines
In Spanish and Quechua, with English subtitles

The workers in the major tin mines in Bolivia have a powerful weapon they can use against right-wing dictatorships: they stop working.

Bolivia's economic survival depends on tin production, thus a strike in the mines brings the national economy to a standstill. When extreme-right military officers took state power away from a civilian government last July, the mineworkers were at the forefront of the popular resistance to the military takeover. As usual, the miners strike was the rallying point for a general strike throughout the country.

The military junta needed to crush the strike in order to consolidate its power. The generals attacked the mining camps with troops, aircraft and artillery. They tried to destroy the miner's radio stations and block the access of food to the mines.

This was not the only time that mineworkers and their families were the victims of genocide. In June 1976 the U.S.-backed Barrientos dictatorship carried out the massacre of the Night of San Juan, an infamous incident in Bolivian history. This happened in Siglo XX, one of the largest and most important mining centers in Bolivia.

"Courage of the People" is a dramatization of the massacre, filmed in Siglo XX itself. The events are re-enacted by the actual survivors and witnesses: the mineworkers and their families.

The idea for the film occurred in 1970 when UKAMAU, a group of leftist film-makers, were looking for support from the tin miners to promote the films they made about Bolivia's social reality. A film about Siglo XX was suggested by the miners, among them Domitila Chungara, the leader of a women's organization in Siglo XX. Domitila, who later wrote a book with Moema Vizzier entitled "Let Me Speak", is an important figure in the film.

A screenplay was not written for the film, and the people of Siglo XX largely take the film into their own hands and protagonize the events through improvisation. "Courage of the People" is a beautiful film and a powerful political document. It is an expression of working-class life and struggle by working-class people themselves. It is a testimony of an oppressed people in a struggle for liberation.

The film showing is co-sponsored by the Commuter Collective and the Western Mass. Latin America Solidarity Committee.

Wednesday, November 5th

7:00 pm

Campus Center, Room 917

Pelicula Revolucionaria de Bolivia

"El Coraje del Pueblo"
De Jorge Sangines.
En español y quechua, con subtitulos en ingles.

Miercoles, 5 de Noviembre, a las 7:00 p.m. en el Campus Center, Salon 917.

Los trabajadores en las minas de estano mas grandes en Bolivia poseen una arma muy poderosa que pueden usar en contra de las dictaduras: dejan de trabajar.

La existencia economica de Bolivia depende de la produccion de estano, asi que una huelga en las minas puede paralizar la econimia nacional. Cuando militares de extrema derecha hicieron un golpe de estado contra un gobierno civil en Julio de este ano, los trabajadores mineros estaban en la vanguardia de la resistencia popular al golpe. Como de costumbre, a la huelga minera se unieron los demas sectores laborales en una huelga general en el pais.

La junta militar se puso a aplastar la huelga para poder consolidar su autoridad. Los generales fascistas atacaron a los campamentos mineros con tropas, artileria y aviones. Trataron de destruir las radioemisoras mineras y tambien bloquear la provision de alimentos a las minas.

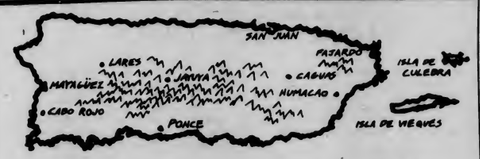
Esta no es la unica vez que los trabajadores mineros y sus familias han sido victimas de genocidio. En julio del 1967, la dictudura del gral. Barrientos (apoyada por los Estados Unidos) fue autor de la masacre de la noche de San Juan, un incidente tragico en la historia de Bolivia. Esto ocurrio en siglo XX, uno de los centros mineros mas grandes e importantes en el pais.

"El Coraje del Pueblo" es una dramatizacion de la masacre, filmada en el mismo siglo XX. Los sucesos de la masacre son reconstruidos por los mismos sobrevivientes y testigos: los trabajadores y sus familias.

La idea para la pelicula surgio en 1970 cuando UKAMAU, un grupo de filmadores de izquierda, estuvieron buscando apoyo de los mineros para promover las peliculas que hacian acerca de la realidadd boliviana. La sugerencia de hacer una pelicula sobre siglo XX vino de los mineros, entre ellos Domitila Chungara, la lider de una organizacion femenina en siglo XX. Domitila, quien despues escribio un libro con Moema Vizzier titulado "Si me permiten Hablar", es una protagonista importante en la pelicula.

No se escribio un guion para la pelicula, y los residentes de siglo XX protagonizaron los sucesos historicos por medio de la improvisacion. "El Coraje del Pueblo" es una pelicula bella y es un documento politico poderoso. Es una expresion de vida y lucha obrera, por gente obrera. en un testimonio de un pueblo oprimido en una lucha de liberacion.

La presentacion de la pelicula esta auspiciada por el Commuter Collective y el Comite de Solidaridad con America Latina.



Rally for Puerto Rico

Carlos Soto Arrivi
Pablo Marcano
Arnaldo Dario Rosado
Nydia Esther Cuevas
Angel Cristobal Rodriguez
The 11 Prisoners of war from Evanston, Illinois

For 82 years now Puerto Rico has been a colony of the U.S. One fundamental element unites all these persons mentioned above whether dead or in prison they all form part of the list of victims of U.S. represion against Puerto Rico's independence movement.

Today, more than ever, it has become clear that independence for Puerto Rico constitutes a necessary condition for the radical transformations that will make of the country a new society free from the chains of colonialism and neo-colonialism.

Support independence for Puerto Rico!
Denounce the repression of the National Liberation Movement!
Come to the Rally! Thursday, November 13th, 1980. At 12:15, in front of Student Union.

Rally sponsored by: Western Mass Latin American Solidarity Committee, Patria Libre, Palestinian Solidarity Committee, and other organizations.

Desde hace 82 anos, Puerto Rico es una colonia de los EEUU. Un elemento fundamental une a todas las personas que se mencionan arriba: ya sea muertos o encarcelados, todos forman parte en la lista de victimas de la represion del gobierno norteamericano contra el movimiento por la independencia para P.R.

Hoy, mas que nunca, se ha hecho claro que la independencia para P.R. constituye una condicion necesaria para las transformaciones radicales que haran de nuestra patria una nueva sociedad libre de las cadenas del colonialismo y el neo-colonialismo.

¡Independencia para Puerto Rico!
Abajo la represion del movimiento de liberacion nacional!
Asista a la manifestacion: jueves, 13 de noviembre, a las 12:15 pm, en frente del Student Union.

"A people filled with courage and dignity cannot be suppressed by imperialism."
-Albizu Campos

News Briefs from Latin America

EL SALVADOR

According to the Washington Post, close to 300 Salvadorean officials are being currently trained by the United States in the Panama Canal Zone. U.S. functionaries have informed that these officials are part of an experimental program which combines counter-insurgency techniques with "respect for human rights".

Meanwhile, in El Salvador the juridical office of the Archbishop has finformed that 6,000 civilians have been victims of political violence during the first nine months of this year. The majority of deaths have been caused by the government armed forces and the semi-official death squads. The Salvadorean Commission on Human Rights has estimated the death toll during this same period at 7,000.

CHILE

Over 1,500 employees of Panal, a textile company went on strike October 8 for higher wages. Also the employees of Caletones, the furnace works of El Teniente, a copper mine, went on strike on October 12 in protest of the introduction of a new schedule for public transport.

The recent visit of Brazil's president Joao B. Figueriedo to Santiago has been considered a victory for the right-wing dictatorship of General Augusto Pinochet in his current effort to break the political isolation of his government.

In an joint statement, both heads of state enunciated agreements intended to foment economic and technological cooperation and exchange. The commission which accompanied Figueireido included seven ministers and 198 Brazilian entrepreneurs, pointing to the emphasis which Brazil is putting on taking advantage of ties with Chile. Commercial exchange between the two countries went from $70 million in 1973 to $745 million in 1979, and if it continues at the present rate it will grow by 35 percent during 1980.

NICARAGUA

The government is manifesting a growing concern with internal security. The disorders occurred in Bluefields, at the beginning of the month and were followed by the expulsion from the country of Vicente Vasquez, a Spanish diplomat accused of being in contact with the clandestine counterrevolutionary group, Democratic Armed Forces. Tomas Borge, Minister of Interior, maintained that this organization was headed by the former minister of defense, Bernardino Larios, who was arrested a few weeks ago.

The government has attributed the disorders to counter-revolutionary rightist opposition, which has been recently active in neighboring countries. The Atlantic coast constitutes an obvious strategic point for launching an eventual subversive offensive. Anti-Sandinista organizations announced, during the end of September, that they have joined forces in Guatemala. The government has accused Honduras several times of tolerating activities of former members of Somoza's National Guard who use camps near the border to carry out incursions into Nicaragua.

GUATEMALA MEXICO

Mexico's Secretary of Defense has denied the validity of reports claiming that Guatemalan guerrillas recieve arms through Mexico. Business Week recently reported that the government of Guatemala is concerned about the existence of guerrilla training camps in the Mexican state of Chiapas.

BEHIND THE SCENES: ELECTION 1980

by C. Zulu

Voting is an American political institution stemming from the constitutionally acknowledged right of the masses (citizens) to choose their ruler. This term is too often substituted by "leader". It is even more clouded by the rhetoric, "government by consent of the governed."

Every four years the highest governmental executive office in the country goes up for grabs. The outcome of the presidential contest is seemingly decided by the participation of millions of people of all races, colors and national origins.

However, since the 1940s a startling and worrisome change has been taking place, in American politics.

Fewer and fewer of the American population have been exercising its opportunity to vote. It has gotten so bad that during the 1976 elections it was reported that approximately 50 per cent of the eligible voters did not vote. In the Sunday, October 26 edition of Parade Magazine, it states, "compared with other democratic nations, the U.S. ranks poorly in voter turnout..." Many people have noted the airing of paid T.V. commercials using popular T.V. and other entertainment personalities as well as campaigns and ads urging people to vote in the upcoming elections.

Hundreds, thousands and millions of people from diverse economic and social backgrounds clearly see the bankrupt state of American politics. Every economic and political policy created and implemented by the ruling class and its strong arm the Government (Federal and State), that run roughshod over the interests of the working and unemployed majority of people betrays the true nature of the American political system. Every instance of brutality committed in the name of law-enforcement and order every instance of political repression and manipulation, every act of official racism and denial of human rights enlightens people to the reality that in essence what they do every four years is choose one or another representative of the ruling class into the highest government office! Millions can see with striking clarity that no matter who wins the presidential elections the exceptional needs of the ruling classes will have priority over the vital needs of everyone else.

Who are the Ruling Classes?

Who are these people, the ruling class? So many political activitists use this term and condemn this group that they appear to be some illusive mystical force hovering above society secretly manipulating this society and the future of the world for their own benefit.

This is partly true because they do have the ability to determine (collectively) world events, by the fact, that they own or control the distribution of vast portions of the worlds material resources. But they are hardly mystical.

(In the space of this article it would be impossible to list in detail all the information on the makeup, nature, and characteristics of the American ruling class, so I will resort to a general description.)

Generally, the ruling class consists of the sum of all the conglomerations of the largest American Banks and their subdivisions, and finance companies together with the sum of all the corporations listed under the "Fortune 500" at any given particular time. Population wise they are the 10 or 15 per cent of the population that owns or controls approximately 60-70 percent of this country's economic resources.

Relationship of the Government to the Ruling Class

Liberal Democratic political scientists view the role of government in society as an impartial referee when it comes to balancing the competing interests of different classes. However, far from being an impartial, the role of the state (regardless of whether it is on a Federal, State and many times local level) in a capitalist country is to promote the interests of the capitalist ruling class at the expense of everyone else.

Every now and then a socially progressive law will get through the legislative process. But American socially progressive legislative policies are often temporary concessions used to patch up an immediate proble. (Remember Model Cities and the War on Poverty programs? Soon we will be remembering Affirmative Action.) Also, when one examines the entire history of American lawmaking it will become evident that progressive social legislation is the exception--not the rule!

How the Government Promotes the Interests of the Ruling Classes

In the August 20th edition of the Boston Globe there was a report that corporations suffered the biggest drop in profits in 22 years. Supposedly to the tune of 19 billion dollars. (Quite coincidentally but also very fortunate for the Carter administration this happens during an election year.)

In a later edition of the Globe, an editorial carries the story of a Carter administration "economic stimulation package" proposal designed to restimulate the economy. An integral part of this proposal package proposes an "refundable investment tax credit." The Aug. 28 edition of the New York Times goes more into detail on the proposal, "...If Congress approves, tax credits...could be traded in for cash. Say if a steel company barely breaks even in 1981 but yet generates a 50 million dollar tax credit by virtue of spending $500 million on a new rolling mill. The treasury would mail the company a check for $50 million." Also according to this plan tax credits could be held up to seven years in reserve before a refund could be requested. Already under the existing Federal corporate tax laws companies can reduce their existing tax payments by 10 per cent when they expand.

On its face this new tax proposal appears to be a sound policy because theoretically it would stimulate the economy by providing an incentive for companies to expand by investing in new plants and machinery thus creating more jobs in the private sector.

What an ingenious plan our government proposes for outrightly giving money to the ruling class! The only better way they can do it is to sneak it to them in paper bags and suitcases!

Under this proposal not only would the corporations not pay 10 per cent of their assessed taxes (present tax laws), but the 10 percent they didn't pay would be paid to them! They would receive a 20 percent tax benefit!!!

As for jobs, this proposal, indirectly would create a few jobs for a few architects and engineers. Obviously it would provide work for a few construction companies and other contracting companies, but it would hardly dent the present national unemployment rate it would hardly scratch the present black and other minority employment rate, precisely because these credits and refunds would only be granted when expansion took place with capital intensive production forces, i.e., technology as opposed to human labor.

Far from forgetting about the common person the administration true to it's tricky nature has also provided for him/her. An 8 percent tax cut to offset rising federal income taxes over a period of years" is what the generous administration proposes for those who are lucky enough to be working. A measely 8 percent tax cut! This is like trying to cover a bayonet wound with a band-aid!

Neither aspect of the proposal would or could resolve the real economic problems facing the entire working class as a whole or the problems of minority nationalities in particular. But it is easy to see how it would resolve the problems of cash flow extra money for the corporations.

The Differences Between the Candidates

The above criticism is not being used to ridicule the Carter administration per se, but to demonstrate the true nature of the government (the State). Any administration regardless of whether it is Republican, Democrate or Independent would have to bow before the power of the ruling class! There is no way anyone can become the head of the United States government and not promote whole-heartedly the interests of the ruling classes over the needs of all the others.

Also, quite interestingly this tax cut and refund proposal initiated by a Democrat really smells of a Republican idea. Indeed it is the central economic plank of the Republican platform (which is to restimulate the economy by industrial expansio and tax cuts).

This in and of itself demonstrates the degree of difference between the candidates in their relationship to the ruling class and the broad masses of people.

The difference between the candidates in relationship to the ruling class is virtually none! In their relationship to the masses, Ronald Reagan, Jimmy Carter and John Anderson are about as different as a wolf, a fox and a weasel. The first will confront you to your face; the second will double talk you into stupidity; and the third will sneak up behind you!

After the elections the real power will always remain where it has always been, in the hands of the ruling classes.

WHY THE BLACK VOTE IS BEING IGNORED

by William Raspberry

Everybody acknowledges that the black vote is crucial, particularly in elections as close as this one figures to be. So why, aside from Prsident Carter's insinuation that Gov. Reagan is a racist, are the candidates paying so little attention to the issues that concern blacks?

Just by way of contrast, consider the almost fawning appeals the candidates are making for the Jewish vote. Consider, too, that the total Jewish vote is something like 3 million, while total black registration is above 10 million. Approximately 7 million blacks actually voted in 1976.

So to repeat: why is this potentially crucial vote being all but ignored?

It's a question that Howard University political science professor Ronald Walters has been wrestling with a long time. He has been studying campaigns and conventions at least since 1972, looking at the significance of the black vote and reflecting on "the tremendous missed opportunities for bargaining."

"I began to ask myself: if our vote is so strategic, why are we missing all these opportunities for political bargaining? I've concluded that the answer has nothing to do with the vote. It has a lot to do with the lack of a vehicle."

The Jewish vote, for instance, is organized, or at least disciplined. Jews, like blacks, tend to be Democrats, but unlike blacks, they tend to be flexible: available to candidates of any party who appeal to their self-interests.

"Blacks have to be re-educated as to how to get the most out of our political involvement," says the 42 year old Walters. "Just voting is not enough. The power of the black vote depends on the extent the vote is tied to a bargaining process that has some integrity.

"We invest a great deal of energy in party politics at a time when party politics are in serious decline and true political parties are in disarray. Added to that is the fact that the civil rights coalition has broken down over a series of issues in the 70's, and ther is a serious question of its viability.

"Most elements of the coalition are going for themselves and here we are, still hanging on. I'm not suggesting that we give up the idea of coalitions, but institutionally we have to reorganize ourselves so that we can deal with coalitions from a stronger base."

What Walters is talking about is an idea that has been kicking around at least since the 1972 black political gathering in Gary, Ind., a black political party. Delegates from around the country will be meeting in Philadelphia Nov. 21-23 to transform that idea into a reality.

As Walters sees it, the new party would run candidates for local, state and national office, adopt platforms and do the other things that political parties do. But its chief function would be to set the black agenda and to bargain with the major-party candidates, with a realistic threat of defeating those who refused to bargain.

"We're not playing 1960s politics. The name of the game now is not political parties but candidates' organizations. We must have a vehicle for bargaining effectively with the candidates themselves."

The inability to engage convincingly in such bargaining is the reason for the difference in the way the candidates deal with black and Jewish voters.

For example, although twice as many blacks as Jews voted in the 1976 presidential election, 94 percent of the black vote went, quite predictably, to the

continued on page 8

WE CANT GO DOWN WITHOUT A FIGHT

By Greg Tarpinian

Gary Lee's commentary "Flagship or Fool's Ship", which appeared in the "Black Affairs" section of the Collegian was an excellent overview of the current attacks being waged by the Governor and Legislature on the quality of education being offered at UMass and other institutions of public higher education. The key message to be gotten from Gary's article is that the administration of this University--Presicent Knapp, Chancellor Koffler, and the Board of Trustees--is not providing leadership for this campus in the struggle to save this University. They are too busy trying to preserve their individual reputations as "administrators" while UMass goes down the tubes.

It is our responsibility to make our administrators responsive to our demands for a high quality, low cost education. They should be with us not against us in this struggle.

Unfortunately, it doesn't look as though they are paying much attention to our needs. They are quite content with increasing tuition, rents and fees. They seem to act as mere passive recipients of the word that comes down from the State House, from the offices of King Edward, our pro-corporate, anti-people governor.

To think that our administrators want to increase tuition, rents and fees while financial aid is being cut drastically, while inflation outside of the University runs rampant, while our own and our parent's incomes get smaller and smaller in real purchasing power. This is part of the hypocrisy which makes our administration so far removed from the needs of the people of this state. The working people of this state built this University, through their tax dollars and through their struggle to see their sons and daughters afford the opportunities of a higher education. The administration is acting as if it does not care about the fact that poor and working people will not be able to afford an education at UMass in the near future. Hence, the administration is not doing its job. It is not trying to make UMass the type of institution it was intended to be in the first place: A high quality, inexpensive school where the youth of this state could get educated.

The administration is participating fully in the plan that big business has for UMass. They want to make UMass into a school which turns out technocrats for the high-technology corporations of the state. The high-tech firms want the tax payers to subsidize the costs of educating their work-force. At the same time they want the students to pay directly, through increased tuition, for the costs of that education. So, then, we are being taxed twice. We and our parents pay taxes and then we are forced to pay tuition. This is ridiculous since our tuition does not go to UMass but goes into the General Fund of the State Legislature. They then do what they want with it. One just has to look at the fact that while tuition has been increased almost every year of the last five that the budget has been cut! This destroys their argument that they need to increase tuition in order to offset the costs of our education. The real reason they need to increase tuition is so that they can cut the taxes of the corporations and give the corporations greater subsidies.

The result of all of this is that the sons and daughters of the working people are getting squeezed out of an educational experience. And of the people who do get an education: They will meet a labor market when they graduate which is flooded with technicians. This means that the high-technology corporations can keep wages down because the supply of labor will exceed the demand. The result is that they can increase their profits.

At the same time as they build up the engineering and business schools they want to cut the funding for the liberal arts and special programs. The corporations and the state government (which at the present time is acting as a tool of the corporations) don't want us to be able to think critically about our society. They don't want us to be socially responsible citizens who try and change society for the better. They want us to be people who do not question, who just go to work every day, come home, watch t.v., consume, fight, drink, take drugs, etc.. They want us to do anything but question! They want people who can take orders! That's

continued on page 8

THE CENTER FOR WOMEN OF COLOR

Toward the positive development of women of color

by Sharon Shelton

For the Third World Women's Center, the past has been a struggle. A struggle for survival no less. Historically, there have been two coordinators solely running the organization with little or no support from the community.

Recruitment seemed to be the answer until it was obvious that there would be no recruits, and the image projected by an all women's group left us misunderstood. A tremendous amount of time and effort was spent trying to erase these images of "radical feminism", and "anti-male attitudes", which acted (and still act) as berriers between us and the community's perceptions. Those who did link us with the above political and social ties, were those who simply did not know us.

A metamorphasis had to occur in order to clarify the reason for our existence. The change was slight, but its impact on our development was enormous. So much so that the Third World Women's Center has been reborn, into the 'Center for Women of Color', appropriately named to change the term "Third World", which has always been misunderstood in terms of representation. In our case we are not synonomously "Black" though most of our support has been from the black community, but the time has come for us to diversify and unite all women of color.

We specifically made this clear in our first event, "An introduction to the Center for Women of Color", through a brunch at Butterfield on October 26, 1980. What was obvious was that the term "Third World" has been exclusive of other cultures other than black as demonstrated by Roberta Uno, Carol Young, and Monica Santiago, whose talks on the stereotypes and struggles of their "own" people brought to the attention of the black women present, the lack of knowledge about other Third World peoples.

But what was just as evident was the eagerness of the women to learn and accept the differences inherent in our cultures as well as the similarities. "Not all colored peoples are black, but that doesn't mean that all non-black people are white."

What we found in our discussion (s) with Third World women leaders in the community. When we chaged our views, we opened ourselves to the extensive network of support from active women on campus representing Third World groups.

United by our common support for each other in our endeavors and by uniting ourselves as women we can better be prepared to support our organizations and our community in the STRUGGLE that we all share.

Now the Women's Center has a new definition: The Center for Women of Color: Toward the positive development of Third World Women and in support of the struggle among people of color.

Our membership and Organizational affiliations are as follow:

Officers Sharon Shelton: Co-Coordiantor of the Center For Women of Color.
Cheryl Watkins: Co-Coordinator of the Center For Women of Color.
Roberta Uno: Advisor of the Center for Women of Color, Specialist for Student Activities.
Monsi Rodriguez: Secretary of the Center for Women of Color, Secretary for AHORA, Counselor at Everywomen's Center.

Board: Delphine Quarles: Program Advisor for Student Activities.
Carol Young: Vice-President of Asian Students Association.
Aquila Ayana: Everywomen's Center, Third World Women's Task Force.
Uzuri Amini: Everywomen's Center, Third World Women's Task Force.
Monica Santiago: President of AHORA.

Affiliates: Marlene Duncan: Editor of DRUM Magazine.
Leslie Harrison, Carol Williams: Black Mass Communications Project.
Karen Thomas: Editor of Black Affairs.
Anyone whose name (s) were left off please accept our apologies. Thank-you for your time and we encourage your support.

THE CENTER FOR WOMEN OF COLOR-- Fall Semester Schedule

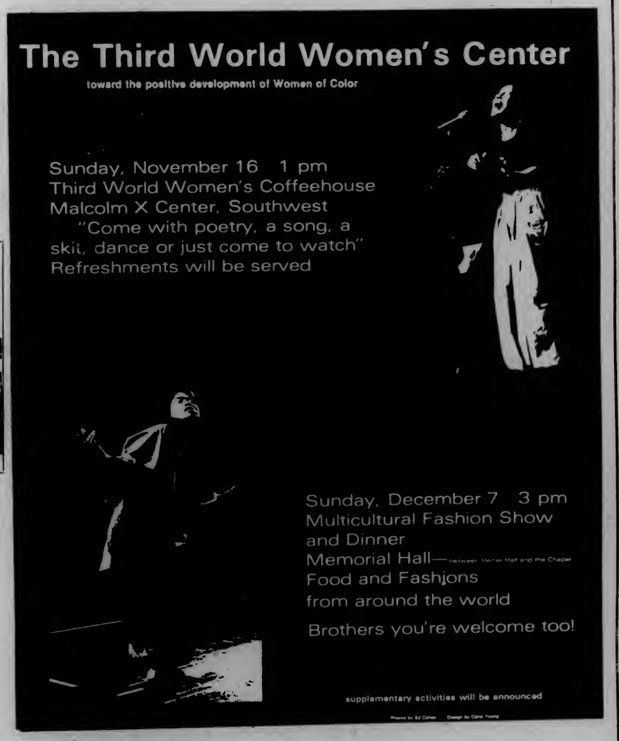
NOVEMBER

6 Thursday Fashion Show Committee Meeting and discuss COFFEEHOUSE.
9 Sunday Participate in the Black Homecoming Parade.
16 Sunday WOMEN OF COLOR'S COFFEEHOUSE in the Malcolm X Center at 1 p.m. "Bring a skit, dance, poem or just yourself ready to have a good time."
20 Thursday Fashion Show Committee Meeting.

DECEMBER

Wednesday Fashion Show Rehersal, 7:00 p.m. (Place not decided yet.)
6 Saturday 1:00 p.m. Fashion Show rehersal (Memorial Hall)
7 Sunday 3:00 p.m. "Multicultural Fashion Show and Dinner." "Brothers you are welcome too."
All Fashion Show Committee Meetings will be held on the first floor of New Africa House at 5:00 p.m.

For more information please contact: Sharon Shelton 546-6571 or Cheryl Watkins 665-2215.



The Third World Women's Center
toward the positive development of Women of Color
Sunday, November 16 1 pm
Third World Women's Coffeehouse
Malcolm X Center, Southwest
"Come with poetry, a song, a skit, dance or just come to watch"
Refreshments will be served
Sunday, December 7 3 pm
Multicultural Fashion Show and Dinner
Memorial Hall—between Hamlin Hall and the Chapel
Food and Fashions from around the world
Brothers you're welcome too!
supplementary activities will be announced

Photos by Barron Roland Ed Cohen) Cheryl Watkins Tim Foster Carl Yates

climate under which they are going to study is favorable to them." Mr. Langa also thinks that is the university that has to take the initiative because politicians are not going to beobjective about a project like this. To Mr. Langa the G core requirement is something that is very important in the agenda of the center. He thinks that "unless we have something like the G core, there will be no institutional structure that will insure that racism and sexism will not confronted.

In relation to the economic soundness of the center Mr. Langa said that most of theresources the center recievers are dedicated to pay the personnel;while little is left for new programs. In some ways the center has to rely on co-sponsors in order to move forward its projects. mr. Bheki Langa thinks that in this aspect the center needs a full-time 'coordinator'. His opinion is that the center requires a full-time employed person to write proposals for funds from sympathetic organizations.This person would be someone whose work would investigate for sources of funds, track these people, and arrange meetings with them.

Mr Langa left establishing the point that the work of the center is one of united efforts from the staff that works on it. In addition to him, as director, other members of the staff are: Mokubumg Nkomo (Teacher Assistant)

Steve Coons (Teacher Assistant)

Elaine Valenski and Rosa Paulino (work-study students)

The center is located in Moore House in Southwest. it is open Mondays, through Fridays, the telephone number is 545-0472.

why they don't want us to take courses in history, economics, philosophy, languages, etc.. They want us to be as narrow and parochial as possible.

All of this makes eminent sense when one looks at the composition of the new Board of Regents: It is nearly all executives of the major corporations in this state and their lackeys. The head of the Board is also the Chairman of the Board of the Massachusetts Business Roundtable - the most powerful big business grouping in the state. Let's begin to question these trends and start to fight back. Pretty soon it may be too late; we must begin now.

Its time for UMass students to get organized and not accept these trends as inevitable. We can fightback. We can win. Its been done before. That's one reason they don't want us to learn history.

Because history shows that when the people get together they can struggle against the powers that be and they can win. It's happening every day in this country right now! We can make it happen here. We can't go down without a fight. And, with a united fightback of campus groups and students, faculty and campus staff, we won't go down. We will win and we will make UMass the type of school it should be, not the type of school big business wants it to be.

We must get involved in the groups on the campus who are fighting these trends; like the Student Senate, Students United for Public Education (SUPE), the Student Center for Educational Research and Advocacy (SCERA). We must also get the groups that we are already involved in to be in the struggle to save the University. We must individually and collectively launch a united campus movement to "Save the University". Its in all of our interests.

CONSPIRACY OF HATRED

BERNSTEIN RESPONDS TO FBI DOCUMENTS

This is the statement of Leonard Bernstein in response to the FBI memos released yesterday:

"I have substantial evidence, now available to all, that the FBI conspired to foment hatred and violent dissention among blacks, among Jews and between blacks and Jews."

"My late wife and I were anong many foils used for this purpose, in the context of the so—called party for the Panthers in 1970 which was neither a party nor a radical chic event for the Black Panther Party, but rather a civil liberties meeting for which my wife had generously offered our apartment.

"The ensuing FBI—inspired harassment ranged from flocks of hate letters sent to me over which are now clearly fictitious signatures, thinly veiled threats couched in anonymous letters to magazines and newspapers, editorial and reportorial diatribes in the New York Times, attempts to injure my longstanding relationship with the people of the State of Israel, plus innumerable other dirty tricks.

"None of these machinations has adversely affected my life or work, but they did cause a good deal of bitter unpleasantness, especially to my wife, who was particularly vulnerable to smear tactics. For the sake of er memory, if for no other reason, I should be happy to see this whole shameful FBI epis de exposed for what it truly was: incitement to violence

BLACK VOTE

Democratic nominee. Jews, on the other hand, favored Carter with only 75 percent of their votes.

The black leadership has been trying, without success, to sell the notion htat the black turnout for Carter in 1976, which he acknowledges made the difference between vitory and defeat for him, ought to be rewarded with special influence on the Carter administration.

The reality works the other way. Jews, having demonstrated their willingness to go with whichever candidate appeals to their interest, are being courted by all three candidates.

Blacks, having established that they are available only to the Democratic nominee, whoever he happens to be, are wooed only in the most offhand fashion by Democrats and Republican alike.

That's what Ron Walters and company will be talking about in Philadelphia next month. What they do ther won't matter in the Carter-Reagan fight, of course. But it might make a critical difference in elections to come.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Volume CX, Issue 40 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Mass. Tuesday, November 4, 1980

It waves at half-mast

One year ago today people who described themselves as students took Americans hostage in the United States Embassy in Tehran, Iran. On campus, people were uncertain about how to respond to what has become a year-long ordeal. When President Carter asked that flags be placed at half-mast for the duration of the Americans' imprisonment, the University administration complied.

The flag outside the Whitmore Administration Building is still at half-mast.

An Associated Press report on the current situation in Tehran appears on page 2.

(Staff photo by Diana Lee Brown)

Promises echo as candidates race to finish

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON—President Carter and Ronald Reagan journeyed the last miles of a long campaign yesterday, their final words echoing a season of argument over war and peace, inflation and unemployment. Both candidates were terse and cautious on the possible release of American hostages in Iran—the unspoken issue that could be crucial.

"Like you, there is nothing I want more than their safe return ... after this long year of imprisonment," Reagan said in a speech recorded for election eve television broadcast. "When they have returned, all of us will be turning to the concerns that will determine the course of America in the next four years."

Beyond that, Reagan said he would not comment on hostage developments. But he did have one more word: "No," when asked whether signals that they may soon be freed would hurt him at the polls.

Carter was back on the road after a day of White House conferences and a televised report that Iran's terms offer "a positive basis" for an end to the hostage stalemate. He said in Akron, Ohio, that he'd stand on what he had said.

"Don't know yet," he replied when asked whether he was encouraged at word the 52 hostages would be turned over to Iranian government custody by the captors who have held them for one full year.

Carter and Reagan were on parallel routes across the nation, although the president's spokesman said he was prepared to return to Washington if hostage developments warranted.

Independent John B. Anderson turned his third-man campaign homeward, too, insisting that there might be "dramatic shifts" in his direction on Tuesday.

The Carter-Reagan race was rated too close to call by the national opinion pollsters, although the Republican nominee appeared to hold the election-eve edge in potential electoral votes. That state-by-state count will settle the contest between the 39th president and the man who seeks to become 40th.

The voters also will be electing 34 senators, a new House of Representatives, and 13 governors. Republicans appeared likely to gain seats in both branches of Congress, but no nearly enought to undo the Democratic control that has held for 25 years now.

The first polls open at 6 a.m. EST in New England; the last ballots will be cast 20 hours later in Alaska.

The key to victory for Reagan or for Carter appeared to rest in the verdict of closely contested industrial states in the Midwest, and both men made final bids for support there as they headed westward. Vice President Walter F.

turn to page 11

The Collegian provides an overview of national and state elections. See the full report on page 5.

Lack of federal funds means less financial aid

By CHARLES MARRAM
Collegian Correspondent

Students facing a tenative tuition increase next year at the University of Massachusetts were dealt a blow when the Financial Aid Office yesterday announced an across the board financial aid cut.

Recipients of campus based aid were informed by letter that their financial aid had been adjusted.

The letter stated, "previously anticipated increases in federal funds have not materialized, thus forcing the University to revise its commitment. Therefore, all students receing campus based aid have had their awards reduced.

Ed C. Apodaca, director of Financial Aid Services said that "approximately 5,000 students have been affected by the cuts." Most of the cuts are from work-study programs.

Each student has lost an average of $300 on his or her award. The total loss if $1.5 to $1.75 million. Apodaca said these cuts were necessary because the Federal Office of Education did not come up with the funding that we originally had anticipated.

The Financial Aid Office is merely a clearing house for funds allocated by the FOE he said. When FOE funding goes down, so does UMass financial aid funding.

"We are doing everything we can to give students as much aid as possible. We are appealing the FOE's decision in order to provide us with more aid. We will try to locate funds from other sources and apply these to the recent cutbacks," Apodaca said.

Apodaca said that it was still not known what funds are available from the government. "We will know more of what is available in December, at which time we will work with students individually. In the meantime my staff and I are always available to answer questions and provide any necessary information the student feels is necessary," he said. Apodaca said he and his staff are aksing departments with work-study students to keep these students on payroll although work-study funding has been cut.

"Departments can keep these students working if they adjust their budgets, putting more money into student employment, Apodaca said.

In addition, the Financial Aid Office is working with banks across the state to make more HELP (Higher Education Loan Program) Loans available. In the interim, Apodaca suggests that students seek HELP Loans, and non-work-study jobs to help alleviate the extra expense.

Fee hikes teach-in planned

By MARK J. WELCH
Collegian Correspondent

The Ad Hoc Committee on Fee and Tuition Increases decided last night to hold a teach-in to educate students about the proposed $540 increase, which is scheduled to be voted on by the Board of Trustees' Budgets and Finances Sub-committee Nov. 10.

The teach-in, to be held Nov. 13, will be structured in a town meeting format and will include information on and possible alternatives to the fee increases. Other topics of concern will be the proposed $75 tuition increase and recent and future cutbacks in financial aid.

The Coalition heard a presentation by Bob Cleary of the Undergraduate Student Senate's Rents & Fees Committee, who explained that the tuition and fee increases are separate, though related items.

He said over half of the increases are the result of a proposed student trust fund assumption of fringe benefits provided for

turn to page 11

World and national news

Government say over hostage release seen as breakthrough

By The Associated Press

Iranian militants relinquished "responsibility" for their 52 American captives to the Iranian government yesterday, a move U.S. officials called a major breakthrough toward their eventual release. Iran also designated Algeria to talk with the United States on conditions for the release.

The transfer of jurisdiction over the 52 Americans was approved by Iranian spiritual leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, believed to be the only single authoritative voice in the matter.

After the Islamic militants stormed the U.S. Embassy in Tehran and took the Americans hostage last Nov. 4, the Iranian government appeared to concede them a measure of power over the fate of the captives. Statements from the militants often drowned out the voices of moderates in the government, and the split in authority appeared to dim prospects for a negotiated settlement.

Terms for the release were delivered to the United States via the Algerian Embassy in Tehran yesterday. Some of the conditions would be hard to meet immediately, U.S. officials have said. In Washington, U.S. Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie said ending the hostages' year-long captivity "will require time, patience and diplomacy."

The conditions, set by Khomeini in September and adopted by the Iranian Parliament, or Majlis, on Sunday, are a U.S. government pledge not to interfere in Iran's affairs, release of all Iran's assets frozen by the United States, cancellation of all American legal actions against Iran and return to Iran of all assets of the late Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi and his close relatives.

Earlier yesterday the militants met with Khomeini and issued a statement which said in part: "We will from now on delegate responsibility for the hostages' safeguarding to the government and will engage in the most important current issue of the revolution, defense of the Islamic homeland."

A candlelight procession was held to honor the U.S. hostage last night in Hermitage, Pa. Richard Hermening of Cudahey, Wisc., father of U.S. hostage Kevin Hermening and Eleanor of Francesville, Ind., mother of hostage Frederick Lee Kupke took part in the ceremony. (AP Laserphoto)

Iraq refuses to release Iran's oil minister

By ALEX EFTY
Associated Press

BAGHDAD, Iraq—Iraq refused to free Iran's oil minister yesterday and said Iran's complaint that his battlefield capture violated international law sounded odd coming from a country that has held 52 American hostage for a year.

The Iraqis said they held Iran's oil minister Mohammed Jawad Baquir Tunguyan and five senior aides here and shunned an Iranian pledge to invoke "all international codes and regulations" for his release.

"They were ambushed and kidnapped...and taken to Iraqi territory," said a statement by Iran's Prime Minister Mohammed Ali Rajai.

Iraqi officials pointed to the occupied U.S. Embassy in Tehran as an answer to Iranian complaints about the illegality of the capture and noted that Tunguyan and his aides were prisoners of war.

Iraq said one of its patrols captured Tunguyan, 30, outside the besieged city of Abadan on Friday. Abadan has been shelled daily since the war began Sept. 22. The Iraqis claim to surround the city.

Both sides reported sharp fighting yesterday at Abadan, Iran's last stronghold on the Shatt al-Arab waterway and the source of 60 percent of its refined oil before the 43-day-old war began.

Abadan was the target of a fresh weekend drive by the Iraqis who threw a mobile bridge across the Bahmanshir River and stormed up its eastern river bank into the outlying Zolfaqar district.

Iran's news agency Pars admitted that "Iraqi mercenary aggressors...had infested" the Zolfaqar district but were "totally annihiliated and their positions destroyed." A war communique asserted Iranian troops pushed back by several miles Iraqis trying to block southern roads to the city.

Pars said yesterday Iranian warplanes bombed Iraq's "deluded mercenaries" near the Bahmanshir River.

Iran, issuing a flurry of dispatches and communiques claiming smashing war victories, has made such claims several times before.

11th child murdered in Atlanta

ATLANTA—A 9-year-old boy who was either strangled or smothered has become the 11th black child murdered in Atlanta in the last 16 months—and the first since the city mounted an all-out campaign to find the killer, police said yesterday.

Four other black children have disappeared during that time in a series of unsolved crimes that Public Safety Commissioner Lee Brown called "the worst thing that has ever happened in Atlanta."

A pedestrian crossing a bridge over the South River in southeast Atlanta on Sunday afternoon discovered the body of Aaron Jackson Jr. on the steep, wooded riverbank about a mile from his home.

Preliminary autopsy results showed that young Jackson had been either strangled or smothered, police said.

After the body of a ninth child was found in early October, the city began to try to find the person or person responsible. Officers began going door-to-door in certain neighborhoods questioning residents, and weekend crews of volunteers undertook searches of areas where authorities thought the missing children might be found.

A 10th body—that of girl abducted five months earlier—was found during a weekend search.

Brown yesterday denied suggestions that, despite special steps, police were unable to stop the killings.

Digest

Associated Press

Decision may aid deaf students

WASHINGTON —The Supreme Court said yesterday it will decide whether the nation's public schools and colleges must pay for interpreters to help deaf students in their classwork.

In a case that could significantly affect the educational opportunities of handicapped persons, the court will study a University of Texas attempt ot avoid such expenses.

A federal appeals court said the university was obligated under the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 to pay for Walter Camenisch's classroom interpreter.

The law prohibits all programs and activities receiving federal aid from discriminating against any "otherwise qualified handicapped individual." That would include all public schools and most private colleges and universities.

In other matters yesterday, the court

*Agreed to decide when broadcasters can refuse to sell airtime to candidates for federal political office.

Bill would soften impact of 2½

BOSTON—Advocates of the tax rollback ballot issue, Proposition 2 1/2, said yesterday if they win, the Legislature will be asked to soften the impact on thrifty communities.

Barbara Anderson, director of Citizens for Limited Taxation, said CLT planned to file a bill next week to ease the squeeze on towns that already meet its limitations.

For now, the proposition—Question 2 on today's ballot-requires communities with high tax rates to reduce them 15 percent a year until they become equivalent to $25 per $1,000 of real value.

The provision means rollbacks in every community of 22,000 or more people.

If a town already is at the $25 rate or below, the proposition presently requires a virtual freeze. Property-tax collections would be allowed to increase only 2 1/2 percent a year—far less than current inflation and property appreciation rates.

Anderson said CLT would propose relaxing that feature and CLT now is willing to give towns greater flexibility with their budgets as long as tax rates are kept at or below the $25 ceilings.

She said the change would apply mainly to towns on Cape Cod and in the Berkshires.

AMHERST COPY CORNER
MEANS
TOP QUALITY
FAST

If you don't have the time to waste waiting for quality copies:

—come to the fastest high quality machine Xerox makes.
—the machine with unsurpassed sorting capability.
—the Xerox 9500. Only at the Amherst Copy Corner.

Conveniently located in the former Minuteman Cleaners, with free parking at our back door, and a bus stop in front of Hampshire National Bank next door.

Large job? Call for free pick-up — 549-2854.

IT'S COMING
THE GREAT
SKI SNATCH
NOV 19-22 S.U.D.

Top of the Campus Restaurant
TOP PRIORITY #2
Come up and enjoy the view from the top. The Pioneer Valley's most spectacular dining atmosphere!
For Reservations call 545-6000 Ext 639

Subscription Rates

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 383 220) is published daily Monday through Friday excluding vacations, exam periods, or holidays, for $45 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster, Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

Tuesday
OLDIES
TWO FOR ONE
All Mixed Drinks • 9 til 11
NO COVER CHARGE
THE PUB
15 East Pleasant St.
AMHERST

Strolling by

Juan Segarra Bassat takes his time on the sunny steps of the Fine Arts Center. Bassat is a UMass graduate student in Human Services Administration. (Staff photo by Nancy Nutile)

Commuters vote to validate last month's senate elections

By FRANCINE MINTZ
Collegian Staff

Commuter students favored validation of last month's Commuter Senate Elections by a vote of 203-102, according to Michael Cohen of the Student Government Association.

Jay Englander of The Student Government Association said the new Senate has been seated, except for commuters who will be seated tomorrow.

> "The issue is settled for now, but it still isn't known whether the Judiciary Committee is planning on taking any action." —Jay Englander

"The issue is settled for now, but it still isn't known whether the Judiciary Committee is planning on taking action," Englander said. He said there is still the possibility the Judiciary Committee could overrule the referendum.

The Judiciary Committee will be meeting Thursday to discuss related matters.

Student Senate Speaker Linda Geary had said she'd like to see about 10 percent of the population or the same number of voters as in the original election vote.

One thousand commuters voted last month, but only about 5 percent (or half that number) voted yesterday, according to Cohen.

The referendum was sponsored by the Commuter Collective, Geary said, but the SGA officiated the election to make sure staff members were at the voting areas and available to count the ballots.

The referendum resulted in part from a complaint on the manner in which the SGA dealt with the election rulings.

A protest was filed last month by SGA Attorney General Dana Collier because she said she felt the election was not run in an "efficient and equitable manner" in light of a decision made by Government Affairs Chairman Diane Muellar. Muellar's decision declared the "stickers" appearing on ballots cast in the elections invalid on the grounds they were illegal under Massachusetts State Election laws.

The elections were plagued by numerous compaints, protests and rulings during and immediately after the voting was completed. Geary said there was a total of four protests and one complaint.

Rape victims choose silence rather than seek prosecution

By CARLA LESH
Collegian Staff

The number of rape victims who press charges rather than suffer in silence has increased over the years but victims who do not press charges still far out number those who do said Myra Hindus of the Everywoman's Center.

The number of calls received by the Counselor/Advocates program of the Everywoman's Center increased from 73 in the '78-'79 school year to 106 in the '79-'80 school year according to the annual reports of the Everywoman's Center. The Counselor/Advocates provide counselling and advice to the sex crime victims.

Victims are reluctant to press charges because they fear the embarrassment a trial can cause due to the sensitive nature of the crime, Hindus said.

"It can be like being raped all over again."

The rape conviction rate is higher in Hampshire County than in other parts of Massachusetts, Hindus said. This is due in part to the number of college programs in the area that make women aware of the implications of rape, she said.

"It is important to remember not all rapists jump out of alleyways; 60 percent of all rapes are acquaintance rapes," Hindus said.

"Learning self-defense is an excellent idea," she said. "Weapons can be turned against you, knowing self-defense measures gives women an increased sense of strength. Each situation is different; you have to decide what will work in that particular situation.

"If you suspect that you are being followed get to a lighted place immediately. Always be on the alert when walking alone," Hindus said.

If a woman is attacked she should get to a safe place as soon as possible and call the police even if she does not intend to press charges, Hindus said. She stressed the importance of getting a medical exam and calling the Counselor/Advocates who are available 24 hours a day.

Hindus said it is estimated that for every rape reported nine are not.

The new emergency call boxes located around campus are a good safety measure, Hindus said but campus lighting and security could be improved. Not all rapes occur outside, Hindus said noting that many of the campus rapes occur in academic buildings.

"Our society promotes violence. The pornography industry leads to a rape mentality and gives the impression that this kind of attitude is all right," Hindus said.

UMass jumped into sport parachuting

By JOAN OVERMAN
Collegian Correspondent

The University of Massachusetts Sport Parachute Club offers Five-college students and employees the chance to jump at Turners Falls Airport for less than the cost at commercial jump centers.

"It's an incredibly addictive sport," said Russ Pirkot, a senior at UMass and secretary of the club, which has about 20-30 active members.

Before making the first jump, a three hour course offered in the Campus Center once a week is required, as well as a three hour outdoor training session at the airport prior to the jump.

While the jumper is on student status, the training phase, he or she is required to make a certain number and type of jumps to become a "novice" parachutist.

For the first five jumps, the parachute is opened automatically by a static line, a 15-foot cord hooked from the inside of the plane to the main canopy on the jumper. When the jumper falls, the cord pulls the bag out of the container within one second, and the chute opens within three seconds.

The rest of the jumps during student status are freefalls. Freefall is the time the jumper leaves the plane until his or her chute opens. As evaluated by the jumpmaster, the jumper must make three good five-second delays, a freefall jump in which the jumper pulls the chute five seconds after leaving the plane, and three good ten, fifteen, twenty, and thirty second delays before he or she is off student status.

Jumper taught new techniques

During freefall jumps, the jumper is taught different techniques, such as how to make turns during freefall, how to do a backloop, and how to bomb, or dive head first from the plane. On the last thirty-second delay jump, the jumpmaster will follow the jumper out of the plane and grab him. This is the beginning of relative work, when jumpers make formations during freefall by holding each other.

"That's what skydiving is all about," said Pirkot. "The purpose is so that with absolute control, we can fly our bodies. We can make our bodies turn, we can do a backloop. Skydiving is flying your body. That's really what a skydiver in freefall is doing."

The first jump costs $75.00, which covers the $20.00 membership fee, the three-hour course, and the three-hour outdoor training session at the airport prior to the jump. The second jump is $11.50 if the jumper is taught to pack his ov hute and $14.50, if not. The rest of the jumps are $11 50.

UMass club oldest college club

As a sport, parachuting started in this country in 1959, the year UMass formed its club, making it the oldest college club in the country.

In 21 years, the club has never had a fatality. There have two injuries this semester suffered by Russ Pirkot and Ron Rennie, who both broke their ankles. Pirkot, who was injured on September 11 during a club demonstration near Whitmore Administration Building, said "My velocity wasn't correct in approaching the target near Whitmore and I landed hard and fast."

In December 1978, the UMass club competed in the National Collegiate Parachute League's annual competition in Florida but did not win any awards. The club did not attend last year because of lack of funds since it was held in Arizona, according to Pirkot. During intersession every year, however, the club goes to Eustis, Florida to jump for two to three weeks.

As the semester progresses, fewer students show up for the three-hour course. Less money, colder weather, and fear are some reasons, Pirkot said.

Feel like you're floating

"When peole tell me they're afraid of heights, I try to push that aside," said Pirkot. "You're in a different world up there. You feel more like you're floating. You don't have things to judge how fast you're going except other jumpers, and they're going the same speed as you."

The classroom instruction is usually held each Thursday night in the Campus

turn to page 11

A member of the UMass Sky Diving Club heads for Alumni Stadium from 4500 feet. (Staff photo by Jim Mahoney)

Class survey shows Carter lead in Amherst

By ED LEVINE
Collegian Staff

A survey conducted by students in a University of Massachusetts statistics course indicates that registered voters in the town of Amherst prefer Jimmy Carter be re-elected president of the United States.

Of 224 residents interviewed who said they were likely to vote, 44 percent said they favored Carter, 33 percent like Independent John B. Anderson and 20 percent said they intended to vote for Republican Ronald Reagan. About 3 percent of the population said they would vote for other candidates, including Barry Commoner of the Citizen's Party, Liberterian Ed Clark and Socialist Workers' candidate Clifton Deberry.

The survey, conducted by students in sections three and four of the statistics 121 class, was supervised by course instructor Richard Breen, a graduate student in public health who specializes in statistics. Breen said 245 people were interviewed by telephone between Oct. 27 and Nov. 2.

Breen said because of the random sample, the survey could be off as much as 6 percent in any direction.

Earlier surveys published in the Collegian last week indicated that UMass students favored Anderson over Carter, with Reagan placing a distant third. The first survey, conducted by the Collegian, showed Anderson ahead with 27 percent, followed by Carter with 24 percent and Reagan with 7 percent.

A survey released Thursday by Project Pulse of the Student Affairs Research and Evaluation office showed UMass students favoring Anderson with 33 percent, followed by Carter with 24 percent and Reagan with 10 percent.

Mass. may lose reps after '82

By DANIEL BEEGAN
Associated Press

WASHINGTON—It may be the last election in at least a decade that Massachusetts has 12 congresional districts, the U.S. Census Bureau says.

Census official Arthur Mielke said yesterday that preliminary estimates still show Massachusetts a potential loser in the 10-year congressional seat sweepstakes.

If the population estimates remain valid when final figures are calculated, Bay State voters will have only 11 seats.

New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Maine would have two each. Vermont would continue to have a single congressional seat. Connecticut would continue to have six seats.

Massachusetts dropped to 12 seats from 14 after the 1960 census and retained 12 after the 1970 census, Mielke said.

Other potential losers include New York, which could drop four seats, Illinois, Ohio and Pennsylvania, which could lose two each, and Michigan, New Jersey and South Dakota, which, like Massachusetts, could lose one.

The gainers include Florida, which could pick up three seats, California and Texas, which gain two each, and Arizona, Colorado, New Mexico, Oregon, Tennessee, Utah and Washington State, each of which might get an additional seat, Mielke said.

Asked how firm the projections are, Mielke said, "We don't have any numbers, so it's a guess. The numbers are coming in very slowly."

Mielke said the estimate also is based on presumption that Congress will keep the total number of House seats at 435, a figure set in 1910 and raised only briefly to 437 when Alaska and Hawaii entered the union in 1959. The number dropped back to 435 after the 1960 census.

Mielke said Congress has the right to increase the number of congressional seats, staving off losses; but he said that would be unlikely.

charlie's

good food & drink

LONGEST HAPPY HOUR IN AMHERST
3-8 P.M. Daily (5 hours)!
All Bar Prices Reduced, Most Bar Drinks .95 Miller, Bud, Schlitz bottles .75
Specials after Happy Hour
SUN. Rolling Rock Night .75 bottles
MON. Canadian Night .99 bottles of Molson Golden Ale, Labatts Ale, Moosehead Beer, O'Keefe Ale .75 Molson Red Export Drafts
TUES. Erlanger Night .75 bottles
WED. Schnapps Night .75 shots of cinnamon, spearmint, peppermint Schnapps
THURS. Drink of the Night Special Different drinks, prices each week
We are a nice place to drink, the place where friends meet
Come see our newly remodeled Lounge & Game Room
We have Asteroids, Galaxian, Space invaders, pool table, dart board
Our kitchen is always open, We also serve homemade pizza nightly
1 Pray St. Amherst, Ma 549-5403

Top of the Campus Restaurant
Hosts a Luncheon Fashion Event
Fashions from Chona's at
Thorne's Market, Northampton
Luncheon Specials
$2.50-$3.95
Wed. Nov 5
11:30-2:00pm
continuous

Chona Leon
Murray D. Lincoln, Campus Center
Reservations Recommended 549-6000 x639 Validated Parking

PRECISION HAIRCUTS

ALL FOR $6.00
with this coupon only
Includes:
FIRST—a professional consultation
SECOND—a precision style cut selected individually just for you
THIRD—our stylists will show you how to take care of your hair
With personal style, cut, shampoo and blow dry $9.50, long hair slightly more. With this coupon only, limited to new customers only.
we also have facials and manicures
Styles by Deborah I & II
65 University Drive
Amherst, MA
549-5610
62 Main Street
Easthampton, MA
527-2411

THE GRADUATE
starring
Dustin Hoffman
Anne Bancroft
Katherine Ross
WED, NOV. 5
7 PM, 9 PM, 11 PM

OVERSEAS AUTO PARTS
For the most complete line of foreign auto parts and accessories in the Pioneer Valley.
Get an extra 10% off our low prices with this ad.
offer expires Nov. 15, 1980
API
Zayre Shopping Plaza
Rt 9 Hadley, MA 01305
Tel 253-3403
authorized API distributor

ELECTION '80

A nation goes to the polls

Millions of Americans are expected to go to the polls today to cast their ballots for president of the United States, various members of congress and numerous state and local legislative posts.

A difficult choice faces voters today in their selection for the man they want to lead the country for the next four years. After a long and tumultuous campaign, American voters are being presented with the choice of re-electing President Jimmy Carter, or electing Republican nominee Ronald Reagan or Independent candidate John B. Anderson.

Charges and countercharges ran rampant between the candidates, especially during the latter stages of the campaign as the contenders headed towards last week's debate. Anderson and Reagan squared off earlier and Carter confronted Reagan last Tuesday night. The candidates presented themselves as three very separate individuals: Carter as the knowledgeable incumbent who has guided the country through the last four, very difficult years; Reagan as the conservative, defense-minded former governor of the nation's largest state who is out to challenge the traditional, Democratic-controlled government; and Independent Anderson who decided to challenge the traditional two-party political system, and talk tough about the issues and propose seemingly unpopular solutions to pressing problems.

Also on the ballot in Massachusetts are Liberterian Ed Clark, who advocates less government and more personal freedom and liberty, and Socialist Workers Party candidate Clifton Deberry, who advocates a total change in our governmental system.

In addition, voters have been asked to consider writing in the environmentalist Barry Commoner of the Citizens' Party, Gus Hall and running-mate Angela Davis of the Communist Party, Labor party candidate Lyndon LaRouche or Socialist David McReynolds.

Locally, voters must decide between incumbent congressman Silvio O. Conte and Democratic challenger Helen (Poppy) Doyle. In the state representative race incumbent Democrat James G. Collins and Republican challenger Deanna Flynn will appear on the ballot.

This year several difficult questions will be on the ballot addressing such issues as tax reform, nuclear power, handicapped rights, legislative pay raises and legislative decision making. Among the most controversial items are question 2, the so-called "Proposition 2½," and question 4, dealing with the repeal of legislative pay raises. (See related story this page).

In other parts of the nations, voters will be deciding who to elect as senators, governors and various other state and local officers. Among the many well-known senators seeking re-election are former presidential candidates Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., Frank Church, D-Idaho, Birch Bayh, D-Ind., and George McGovern, D-S.D. Also included is former vice-presidential candidate Thomas Eagleton, D-Mo.

Senators seeking re-election in New England states are John Durking, D-N.H., who is being challenged by Republican Warren Rudman, and Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., being challenged by Republican Stewart Ledbetter. Sen. Abe Ribicoff, D-Conn., is resigning, and his seat is being contested for by Republican James uckley, Democrat Christopher Dodd and Liberterian Gerard Bernnan.

Mass. Sen. Edward Kennedy comes up for re-election 1982 and Sen. Paul Tsongas' term expires in 1984.

Mass. voters face many ballot questions

When Massachusetts voters go to the polls tomorrow they will face a wide variety of ballot questions, some of which have sparked heated debate in recent weeks.

QUESTION 1

The first question on the ballot would, if passed, add an amendment to the state constitution prohibiting discrimination against handicapped persons. The amendment would prohibit handicapped persons who are "otherwise qualified" from being denied participation in an activity or a job on the "sole basis of that handicap."

Proponents of the measure argue that the constitutional guarantee for handicapped persons is needed in the state to prevent discrimination. Those opposed to the amendment protest that the state would enforce the requirement too strictly and inhibit the activities of employers and sponsors.

QUESTION 2

Perhaps the most controversial of all the ballot questions, Question 2, or the so-called "Proposition 2½" would cut back local property taxes to 2½ percent of their actual property value. In towns where the property tax rate is above 2½ percent, the tax could be decreased by 15 percent each year until it reaches 2½ percent. The measure would also require local school districts to adhere to budgets set by town governments, that no agency or town could increase costs more than four percent from the previous year and would cut the maximum automobile excise tax rate from $66 per thousand to $25 per thousand.

Those in favor of question 2 argue that the measure would bring the state in line with the rest of the nation, since Massachusetts' property taxes are 70 percent higher than the rest of the nation, and would also end fiscal automony for local school boards, which doesn't exist in most states. The measure would take the burden of property taxes of homeowners who cannot afford it and would force government officials to cut down on waste and act more responsibly, the proponents charge.

Opponents to "Proposition 2½" charge that it will help businesses more than homeowners and provide no tax relief to apartment dwellers and other renters. They claim community services will be drastically cut, with 40 percent of the average town's budget being slashed. In addition, opponents also charge that the state government has shown unwillingness to help out local communities and, as a result, town services will suffer.

QUESTION 3

As an alternative to "Proposition 2½", Question 3, another tax-cutting measure, has been proposed. The measure, if passed, would limit local property taxes in 1981 through 1984 to the previous year's rate plus the percentage increase in the income of state residents over the previous year. The law would also require the state to pay gradually, up to 50 percent in 1984, the amount of funds it gives to communities for education costs.

Question 3 was filed by the Massachusetts Teachers Association who say they want to offer taxpayers some form of tax cut while not endangering funding for community services. Massachusetts now ranks 40th in state aid to education, they charge, and the measure would increase the aid from its present 30 percent to 50 percent. The proposal would also allow the cities and towns to set their own rates within the flexible framework provided by the law.

turn to page 14

Where to cast ballots in area communities

Amherst

Precinct One—North Amherst Church in the Parish Hall
Precinct Two—North Fire Station (Tillson Farm)
Precinct Three—Immanual Lutheran Church
Precinct Four and Five—Bangs Community Center
Precinct Six—Fort River School
Precinct Seven—Crocker Farm School
Precinct Eight—Munson Library

Belchertown

Precinct A—Memorial Hall on Jabish Street
Precinct B—Franklin School on Franklin Street

Hadley

All voters will vote in the Old Gym in Hopkins Academy on Russell Street.

turn to page 14

Area Polling Spots

Transportation to polls available

The Student Center for Educational Research and Advocacy Public Policy Team will be providing free rides to the polls from the Campus Center Circle today for voters in Precincts 1, 3, 4 and 5.

Ken Moore of the team said the shuttles will be leaving UMass at 11 a.m., 12:45, 2:30, 4:30, 5:30, 6:30 and 7:30 p.m.

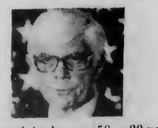
Moore said the vehicles being used in the shuttle were being donated by volunteers and the operation itself is sponsored, in part, by the campus group opposed to "Proposition 2½."

This Election '80 special section was compiled and written by Ed Levine and James F. Mahoney, edited by Cathy Clabby and laid out by James F. Mahoney.

Carter, Reagan or Anderson; the choice is yours

James Earl "Jimmy" Carter, 56, is seeking his second term as president of the United States. A native of Plains, Georgia, Carter is a 1946 graduate of the United States Naval Academy and also did graduate work in nuclear physics at Union College. He served as a nuclear physicist in the Navy until 1953 when he left to run the family-owned peanut farming and warehouse business. In 1962 Carter was elected to the Georgia state senate and in 1970, following an unsuccessful attempt in 1966, he was elected governor of Georgia. Six years later Carter narrowly defeated Pres. Gerald Ford to become the 39th president of the United States.

Ronald Wilson Reagan, 69, is the Republican Party's candidate for president. A native of Tampico, Ill., Reagan is a 1932 graduate of Eureka College in Illinois. Reagan supported himself as a radio announcer after college and went on to appear in over 50 movies. During his film career Reagan was elected president of the Screen Actors Guild six times between 1946 and 1952. In 1962 Reagan switched from the Democratic to the Republican party. He was elected as governor of California in 1966 and served two terms. Reagan made an unsuccessful bid for the GOP presidential nomination in 1976.



John Bayard Anderson, 58, a 20 year veteran of the House of Representatives, is seeking the presidency as an Independent after unsuccessfully running for the Republican nomination. A native of Rockford, Ill., Anderson received a Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of Illinois in 1942 and graduated from its law school in 1946. From 1952 to 1955 he served as a State Department advisor in Europe and returned to Illinois when, in 1956, he was elected state's attorney. Anderson was first elected to the House in 1960 and was elected chairman of the House Republican Conference in 1969.

Reviews:

Southside Johnny and the Asbury Jukes rocked the house at the Fine Arts Center Sunday night, and the crowd "didn't want to go home." (Staff photo by Nancy Nutile)

Jukes have fever, show their best

Southside Johnny and the Asbury Jukes
Fine Arts Center
Nov. 2

By ABBE BJORKLUND
Collegian Staff

Once again, UMass enjoyed the best R & R/R& B sound the Fine Arts Center has seen: Southside Johnny and the Asbury Jukes. Sunday night's show was sold out to an energetic crowd of dancing, singing Jukes' fans.

As an "older" fan, I was far from disappointed by the variety of songs performed. Southside went all the way back to his first album from 1976 and almost every album in between for his selections.

I won't list all of the 20 (or so) songs the Jukes performed Sunday night, but here a few of the hottest: "The Fever," "Trapped Again," "Talk to Me," "Vertigo," "We're Having a Party," "The Night Won't Make it Right."

The band was fun to watch. Southside's expressive and almost epileptic staggering was offset by the lively movements of the brass section of the band. Everybody was having a good time.

Southside sung with emotion and ease. Instrumentals, especially by lead guitarist, Billy Rush, were strong and confident. Southside lapsed into old songs such as "Twister" and "Satisfaction" quite spontaneously, and the Jukes joined in. The whole sound of the 10-piece band was obviously "tight."

The audience, which was continuously on it's feet for the entire concert, responded by holding the band for two encores.

Nobody wanted to go home!

To mention the warm-up: Beaver Brown has a "summer-at-the-beach"-type, theme for practically all their numbers. Much of the audience seemed familiar with their music from club gigs in their native Rhode Island.

They did some fun R & R tunes: "Wild Summer Nights" and "I Don't Wanna Hang up my Rock and Roll Shoes." Later in the show, Southside ridiculed them for their adaptation of the Beach Boys' "Fun, Fun, Fun."

At points I wasn't sure if their Springsteen-like cries were authentic or imitation. We'll see more of them, I think.

Dynamic Sylvain glitters in Boston

Sylvain Sylvain
The Channel, Boston
Nov. 1
By JIM MORAN
Collegian Staff

Syl Sylvain, formerly known in his role as guitarist for the Glitter-era, pre-punk band The New York Dolls, as well as for his association with David Johansen's first solo band, gave a dynamic performance of back-to-basics rock and roll here Saturday night.

By comparison with his former colleagues (Johansen and Johnney Thunders), Sylvain's style of early 60's-sounding bop-rock songs may prove financially (as it did with this South Boston crowd publically) that he has the most potential for commercial popularity. At any rate, he is easily the most accessible (and likeable) of all the ex-Dolls I have met.

Sylvain opened his set with "Teenage News," from his only album (released on RCA last year) and churned out tune after tune of delightful, bounce-inducing dance music. His boyist, breathy grunts and "oohs," layered between his fast-strum style of guitaring served him especially well on tunes like "Every Boy and Every Girl," and "What's That Got to Do with Rock 'n Roll?"

Easily the best number of the evening was "14th Street Beat," with Syl tough-talking the lyrics like a kid fascinated with his first garage band: "Hey, where'd ya get that cah?/I bought that cah wit this giftah." His new band, featuring a Puerto Rican Deborah Harry named "Rosie" on drums, and bassist Donnie Reid, complimented the sound in every way.

After the show I talked with Sylvain. He told me he has plans to release another album in January (title unconfirmed) and is "really pleased" with the reception he's received on his tour of the club circuit thus far.

Sylvain Sylvain, once a guitarist in the legendary, non-defunct New York Dolls, played to a receptive crowd with his own band in South Boston Saturday night. (Photo courtesy of RCA Records)

Political Advertisement

ELECT
PATRICK M. GOGGINS
COUNTY COMMISSIONER
(Unexpired Term)

•ABILITY •EXPERIENCE •INVOLVEMENT

•Graduate Northampton High School and B.S., University of Massachusetts
•Vice President, Woodward & Grinnell Insurance and Real Estate Agency
•8 years Director of Recreation, City of Northhampton
•3 years - Board of Public Works
•4 years - Board of Directors - Greater Northampton Chamber of Commerce
•4 years - Board of Directors - Hampshire Reg YMCA
•Active on City Advisory Committees, including C.A.R.D., Smith and Jackson Street School Additions, Downtown Parking
•Massachusetts Natural Resource Planning Council
•Hampshire County Energy Resource Planning Council
•Elected Northampton Charter Commission

NOT RUNNING AGAINST INCUMBENTS FROM AMHERST OR SOUTH HADLEY
PRIMARY, TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 4th
VOTE PATRICK M. GOGGINS

ROLAND CHILTON, Amherst
JEFFERY L. SEDGWICK, Amherst
GEORGE COMO, Amherst
GERALD GRADY, Amherst
BETH BRACE, Amherst
LUTHER A. ALLEN, Amherst
LEO BOUCHARD, Amherst
JOAN KROTKOV, Amherst
CURT TAUSKY, Amherst
KARL RYAVEC, Amherst
KENNETH A. MOSAKOWSKI, Amherst
IRVING HOWARDS, Amherst
GLEN GORDON, Amherst
GEORGE T. SULZNER, Amherst
W.R. THOMPSON, Amherst
HOWARD WIARDA, Amherst
SHELDON GOLDMAN, Amherst
WILLIAM E. CONNOLLY, Amherst
ROBERT A. SHANLEY, Amherst
HERMANN STELZNER, Amherst
JEROME B. KING, Amherst
LEWIS MAINZER, Amherst
JEAN B. ELSTAIN, Amherst
ERIC S. EINHORN, Amherst
JOHN C. ROBERTS, Amherst
HARRY SCHUMER, Amherst
GEORGE TREYZ, Amherst

Jerome, M. Milleur, 164 Columbia Drive, Amherst

LOOK AT THE RECORDS

	CARTER	ANDERSON	REAGAN
Nat. Health Insurance	yes	no	no
Clinch River Breeder Reactor	no	yes	yes
B-1 Bomber	no	yes	yes
Lower Wage for Youth	no	yes	yes
Kemp-Roth Tax Cut	no	yes	yes
Consumer Co-op Bank	yes	no	no

THE DIFFERENCE IS WITH THE DEMOCRATS

— VOTE TODAY —
RE-ELECT PRESIDENT CARTER
Paid for by the U-Mass CARTER COMMITTEE

Collegian sticks by Trudeau

Doonesbury remains a phenomenon despite controversial subject matter

The first syndicated Doonesbury strip (above) appeared on October 26, 1970. The strip's creator, Garry B. Trudeau, (right), began the strip when he was a student at Yale University. It was carried in the late 60's by the Yale Daily News.

A Pulitzer Prize. The mayor of the nation's capital declares a day in its honor. Newspapers across the country have chosen not to publish it.

"Doonesbury," of course. And on October 26, 1980, the famed (and sometimes notorious) comic strip by G.B. Trudeau celebrated its tenth anniversary. What began a decade ago as a humorous look at two archetypal collegians—Michael J. Doonesbury and B.D.—has earned a reputation for biting satire that focuses on anyone in the cultural limelight, from politicians, journalists and authors to television shows, football and lifestyle trends.

Trudeau, now 32, began his work on a comic strip with "Bull Tales," carried in the late '60s by the Yale Daily News. The strip was spotted and renamed by James F. Andrews and John P. McMeel, the founders of Universal Press Syndicate, which distributes the comic strip to 600 newspapers in this country and abroad.

Initially, 28 newspapers signed up for "Doonesbury." Helped by the comic strip's reputation for irreverence and brashness, the number of clients grew steadily, attracting a young and educated readership.

The comic strip has frequently been the center of controversy and has received considerable attention for its treatments of John Mitchell, Sen. John Warner, and Gov. Edmund G. Brown. The comic strip has also blazed new trails by introducing a gay character and exploring the liefestyle of single people.

The Collegian continued to run Doonesbury last week while other papers around the country pulled it because of its controversial depiction of Ronald Reagan. A Collegian readership survey taken in September showed the strip was one of the most frequently read features of the paper.

Trudeau remains a shy, reticent individual, and has stated that he prefers to let his work do the speaking for him. James F. Andrews, editor of Universal Press Syndicate, and the man who discovered "Doonesbury," summed up Trudeau as effectively as anyone: "It was clear he was a comic genius."

by Garry Trudeau

DOONESBURY
WELL, HERE I SIT AT COLLEGE AWAITING MY NEW ROOMMATE. I KNOW HE'LL BE COOL, SINCE HE'S COMPUTER SELECTED!!
10-26
YOU JUST FILL IN A FORM, SEND IT IN, AND PRESTO! IDEAL ROOMMATES!
KNOCK KNOCK
©1970 UNIVERSAL PRESS SYNDICATE
HI THERE! MY NAME'S MIKE DOONESBURY. I HAIL FROM TULSA, OKLAHOMA AND WOMEN ADORE ME! GLAD TO MEET YOU, ROOMIE!
OF COURSE, THERE ARE STILL A FEW BUGS IN THE SYSTEM.
G.B. Trudeau

Correction

On page 5 in yesterday's Collegian, (Nov. 3), a story titled "Problems of educational system to be debated by futurists at UM," incorrectly stated that the "Next Millenium: Unlearning the 20th Century" conference which is to be held Nov. 6, 7, and 8, was open free of charge to UMass students. There are a limited number of tickets available to UMass students with a valid ID in room 124 School of Education building from Cathy Campbell.

Hair Styles
A LA CARTE
a cut above ... a price below
241 Main St.
— upstairs —
(across from the park)
584-7798
Northampton, Ma.

Appetizers
Shampoo $1.00
Manicure $4.00
Facial $9.00

Entrees
Blow Dry $2.00
Lamp Dry $1.00
Hair Dried $2.00
Curling Iron set $2.00
Electric Rollers $3.00
Braiding $2.00
Perms ..... $17.00-$21.00

House Special
Haircut
$5.00

Desserts
Permanent Hair Color $9.00
Wella $13.00
L'Oreal Crescent
Semi-Permanent $13.00
Angalizing
Hennas ..... $10.00-$12.00
Color & Condition
Luminizing $8.00
Sun Power
Frosting $19.00

"Head" Maitre d'... Paul Laflamme, proprietor, 20 years experience
5 operators available at all times — Open Daily 9-5, Thursday 9-9

THE $79 FACE LIFT. REG: $89

With Bausch & Lomb Soflens Contacts, you do something nice for your eyes and give your whole face a lift.

Now you can finally switch from glasses to famous Bausch & Lomb Soflens® Contacts at a beautiful low price. Of course we carry all major brands including the new "Astigmatics".

Don't change your face. Change to contacts.

Save $10
ON ANY FRAME OVER $25
WITH ANY COMPLETE EYEGLASS PURCHASE
NOT VALID IN CONJUNCTION WITH ANY OTHER DISCOUNT OR SPECIAL OFFER.
EXPIRES: DEC 15th 1980

American Vision Centers
HAMPSHIRE MALL, Hadley · 584-7958
WE HONOR AMERICAN EXPRESS AND ALL MAJOR CREDIT CARDS

Editorial/Opinion

Repression in El Salvador: Cry of the people unheard

"...Look at the death toll in El Salvador for the first few months of 1980 (over 5,000 documented political murders from January to September). I shudder to think how many people have been killed with weapons made in the United States and shipped under our aid programs!"

—M.W. Williams, former U.S. ambassador to El Salvador, April 1980

Michael Sussman
Tom Kuh

El Salvador is the smallest of the Central American nations, having a population in excess of 5 million. Between the predominance of foreign capital in the industrial sector, the ownership by 200 families of almost all of the land, and the past 50 years of military rule, human rights for most of those 5 million have been entirely denied.

The seeds of the current crisis in El Salvador were sown in the 1860's when communal peasant ownership of land was abolished to pave the way for coffee plantations. The country still produces more coffee than any other Central American nation, selling most to the U.S. and Germany.

With the resulting increase in landlessness came the beginnings of destitution for large portions of the population. Rural uprisings culminated in 1932 when a drop in coffee prices led to a wide-spread, organized rural uprising. The Army and the National Guard killed some 4 percent of the population (30,000) within a few weeks. A new military regime stepped in, about the same time as Somoza in Nicaragua and counterparts in Guatemala and Honduras were consolidating power.

Military rule has continued unabated in El Salvador for the past 50 years. During this time some increase in industrial capability was fostered, sponsored almost entirely by foreign capital. Landlessness increased with a shift to cotton production—needed to provide raw materials for textiles—which required large tracts of land. After WW II, U.S. interests in region blossomed. U.S. corporate investment opportunities and markets went hand-in-hand with U.S. "strategic" interests.

As a result of the consolidation of power by the ruling class in El Salvador and the support of the U.S. and other foreign governments, the Salvadorean people have continued to live with poverty and repression. Unemployment and landlessness remain among the highest in Latin America, while population growth, which the World Bank links directly to the lack of services and general poverty, is a staggering 3 percent per year. Despite the State Department's desire to promote a vision of the current government as a moderate alternative caught between the "right" and the "left," the reality is a polarized society with the U.S. aiding the side of oppression.

In 1977, General Carlos Humberto Romero siezed power in El Salvador. Romero was the former head of ORDEN, a paramilitary, right wing death squad. The ensuing bloodbath ended the lives of thousands of people including opposition leaders, priests, and peasants. The U.S. Department of State began to worry that Romero would go too far. Pressure from it increased in hopes of avoiding "another Nicragua." A transition was desired, while at the same time repression of opposition revolutionary forces continued.

In October 1979, a coup led by young reformist military officers instigated by the U.S. took place. A military-civilian junta took control. The U.S. immediately provided anti-riot equipment to the National Guard and budgeting began for $5.7 million in military aid for 1980. By January, it was obvious the repression would not end. The civilian members of the junta resigned, unable to initiate reform because of continued military control. At the same time, a broad coalition of opposition groups resolved their differences and became the Democratic Revolutionary Front (FDR), including former members of the junta and most of the major opposition parties.

Civil war and the possibility of progressive change in Latin America has stirred talk in the Presidential campaign, and the media, of U.S. intervention. The issue, however, is not whether the U.S. government will intervene in the affairs of El Salvador. Historically, the U.S. has intervened, and is currently supplying arms and advisors to the junta and training 3,000 Salvadorean special forces in the Panama Canal Zone. The question to be addressed, then, is when will U.S. government intervention end.?

The role of the U.S. in El Salvador must be scrutinized with respect to several commonly accepted fallacies.

The fraud of human rights rhetoric: At the same time that Carter is demanding an accounting by Latin America for human rights violations, the U.S. continues to authorize military sales to El Salvador in the face of documention by Amnesty International, the OAS Human Rights Commission and others, of killing and repression on an unprecedented scale. In fact, Amnesty, for the first time in its history, has taken a stand against U.S. military aid to El Salvador. In the year since the "centrist" coup, 7,000 have been killed and 20,000 wounded.

The myth of non-lethal military aid: For "humanitarian" reasons the U.S. first offered "non-lethal" military equipment to El Salvador. Not only were flack jackets, jeeps, and tear gas used to repress strikes, demonstrations, and other forms of democratic expression, but when combined with the weaponry already supplied by the U.S., France, Israel, and Brazil, this equipment is lethal. Proposed U.S. military aid for 1980 alone totals $12.2 million.

In addition, an "agrarian reform" attempted with U.S. aid has not only failed to alter the extreme prevailing inequalities in land distribution and access, but has been used as a cover for military occupation of the countryside, and has increased peasant landlessness.

The myth of a "centrist" alternative: Without acknowledging a role in the 1979 coup, the Carter administration has backed the junta as a centrist alternative to "terrorism" on the extreme right and left, and used this rationale as the basis for military and diplomatic support. The fact is that the majority of Salvadoreans now face a new, higher level of military and political repression. This includes such stark examples as the assassination of Catholic Archbishop Oscar Romero as he delivered mass, the unprovoked massacre of 600 landless peasants by the National Guard (documented by Amnesty International), and the torture and murder by right wing "death squads" of Maria Magdalena Henriquez, Secretary of Information of the Human Rights Commission of El Salvador. It has become clear that in El Salvador, the government is the extreme right.

As students and as voters, we have a stake in these developments. Reagan and Anderson have indicated their willingness to seek military solutions to the situation in Latin America. Carter has already engaged U.S. resources and arms, and promises more. Attempts to revive the draft raise the spectre of more massive U.S. involvement in the region.

The military budget, projected to be $1 trillion over the next five year, contributes substantially to inflation and wastes resources on destruction that could be used to improve the quality of public education and other social services in this country.

What can we do? One of the primary barriers to understanding the nature of popular movements in Latin America has been inadequate and distorted media coverage. It is important to write to newspapers encouraging more news and analysis, as well as to write to people who occupy key committee positions in relation to Latin America, such as Silvio Conte (Rep., Western Mass.). Support for campus groups who do work with democratic struggles is also important. If you plan to vote in the presidential elections, your choice in part can be based on candidates view on issues raised here. Consider whether the major candidates will fundamently change U.S. Latin America policy, and be aware that alternative platforms exist.

With your involvement and help, we can insure that the role of the U.S. government in the future will be to support peaceful change rather than the suppression of democracy.

Michael Sussman and Tom Kuh, for the Western Massachusetts Latin America Solidarity Committee.

The Village: not-so-quiet desperation

On a sidewalk that once led to the steps of Luke O'Connor's saloon—an artisan, intellectual, lively, political, and certainly illegal establishment during the height of prohibition—a black man wails a lonely song, hoping for quarters and, nearby, another, younger white man falls against a wall, the thick Greenwhich Village night air beating his shabby shoulders down.

David Cole

Back when Luke O'Connor kept a saloon—up to and even during prohibition—Greenwhich Village was a world apart. It was a much better world than it is today. Then the Village was strictly bohemian, a good place, a good place because it was a bohemia—people bundled together to question certain features of American capitalism that, when unchecked, lead us to Thoreau's "quiet desperation," and sometimes the not so quiet desperation of the man against the wall.

What changed the conscientious Village of the early twentieth century into todays two-tone world of chandeliers and broken bottles, with more and more of the broken, in every street, in the shade of every corner, was what eventually makes or breakes most of what's good or bad in our society—money. Speculative realtors saw some sort of gold mine in Village property as early as 1915, and by the end of the jazz age many of the poets, artists, and reactionary left were forced out by prices. They couldn't live there any more, decently, unless they were well provided for.

Another cause behind the dismantling of the Village's bohemia was establishment pressure. The commercial, middle class, and other "moral interests" were represented by the Saturday Evening Post in an attempt to drive out vice from lower Manhattan, and therefore America. The Village around the time of WW I, Malcolm Cowley wrote, had a reputation because of the Post as being:

...the haunt of affectation; ...inhabited by fools and fakers; that the fakers hid Moscow heresies under the disguise of cubism and free verse; (and that the fools would eventually be cured of their folly; they would forget this funny business...and return to domesticity in South Bend, Indiana, and sell motorcars, and in the evenings sit with slippered feet...

Today, Greenwhich Village from Bleecker Street to West 13th is a place of assurity; as assured as large city blocks can be. And it is also a place of desperation; much of it unquiet.

It isn't a place anymore of "revolt." There is nothing in the air but the smell of stale peanuts. There are hundreds fewer artists, too, and a "community behind a cause"is more or less non-existent.

What occurs instead is that frustration moves into the Village at night in waves; to the punk bars; rock establishments; tea rooms; and then out again during the early morning. What once was a neighborhood where frustrations were ended thoughtfully—in self expression, in magazines like The Masses, in demonstrations at Union Square—is now a group of city blocks where they are ended thoughtlessly.

Night has come down on the lower part of Manhattan. What is left is the thinness of neon light.

A crowd gathers in the street outside of "The Village Gate," A ROCK SPOT. Sirens cut the air. A teenager from the Bronx lays in the gutter bleeding. He was stabbed, but not because someone hated him. He lays in the gutter stabbed, and bloody, because no longer is there a neighborhood to let angry energy run its course.

David Cole is a Collegian columnist.

Letters

In defense of WFCR manager

To the Editor:

It's high time that someone stuck up for Bob Goldfarb, manager of WFCR, and publically presented the other side of the picture. If I may outline his accomplishments:

1) Since his arrival a year ago, Bob has "restored sound and effective management practices in every department." I'm quoting a staff member of the station, who also said that the budget figures were "sadly inaccurate" before Mr. Goldfarb was hired, and that Bob has successfully undertaken the enormous job of setting the station on firm financial footing.

2) He has worked hard to make the most of WFCR's limited budget, encouraging locally produced programming (e.g. the folk and jazz programs "Banish Misfortune," "Ellingtonia," and the documentary of local residents "Rural Lives").

3) Bob has set high standards for the station. Now here I can speak as a listener, having followed the innovative changes in the station's programming, which I heartily welcome. For example, programs are no longer repeated, as National Press Club used to be (Heaven forbid!). The diversity in classical and jazz programs challenge the listener—something more than Bach and Brahms all night. And the programs of poetry and drama bring an entirely different character to the station. In short, Bob's philosophy, as I understand it, is to present as diverse and interesting a selection of programs as possible.

The current problem with Hispanic programming reflects the selfishness of a vocal minority which is sadly unaware of the tremendous good that Mr. Goldfarb has done for WFCR. In my opinion, he deserves to pursue the creative ideas he has set in motion. If his contract is not renewed, we will lose a dedicated and highly talented man.

Bruce Ritchings
Amherst

Occupational health everyone's concern

To the Editor:

Public television attains unprecedented heights tomorrow night with the airing of Song of the Canary, a highly-acclaimed documentary film on occupational illness and injury. An "unpolemic model of the documentary film..." "...Sections resonate so much they approach poetry...," read the reviews.

Unhealthy working conditions affect everybody. Chemical contamination of the environment begins in the workplace; hence studies on workers are routinely used as harbingers of health effects in the general population. Economic relief for disabled workers impacts everybody who pays taxes. The cost of caring for cancer victims drives up our medical bills. Doubtless, some students and their families have been directly affected by workplace disease and injury.

I would especially urge chemists, engineers and business students to take time out to see this film, since their careers are likely to place them in pivotal roles on occupational health and safety. Indeed, all members of the community who share an interest in the future should tune in to Channel 57 (Cable 2), Wednesday, Nov. fifth at nine p.m.

Ken Silver
Granby

Anti-semitism in Europe not due to Palestinians

To the Editor:

In France, another crime was committed against humanity—the bomb attack by right-wing groups on a Jewish synagogue, in which three people died and 20 were injured.

Fascist, neo-Nazi, and racist attacks have been growing and taking place in Germany, Italy, Spain, and Belgium. In the United States, several neo-Nazi and KKK crimes have been committed in the last few weeks. The brutal slayings of two Puerto Ricans, 14 Black children in Atlanta, and six Blacks in Buffalo, are crimes like the bombing of the Jewish Temple in Paris.

Neither the United States officials nor any major political candidates have condemned the bombing at the temple. Furthermore, no U.S. official or major candidate has spoken out to denounce the ideas expressed in recent neo-Nazi demonstrations calling for the elimination of Jews. Moreover, police arrested six people from the counter-demonstration against the Nazi demonstration.

In France, the police for the first time have started to build up their files on extreme right-wing groups. According to the New York Times, one-fifth of the 150 known members of the European Nationalist Fascists are policemen.

After a series of assaults on Jewish premises, Christian Bonnet, the French Interior Minister, had asserted only one week before the fatal bombing that "the danger from the extreme right should not be exaggerated." In addition, the same minister revealed his own racist views when he said in the aftermath of the bombing, "The bombs were intended against Jews, but nevertheless three innocent Christians were killed" (or "three innocent Frenchmen" depending on which press version is correct).

The Jewish people have been victimized by anti-semites, virtually all European, through many centuries. This fact is known to most Jewish people, but, unfortunately, Zionist ideology has promoted the notion that anti-semitism is inevitable (and undefeatable). The Zionist leaders, since the foundation of political zionism to the present time, have attempted to manipulate the Jewish masses' valid fear of their Western oppressors. Rather than struggle against racism and anti-semitism, Zionism called (and still calls) for concentrating instead on building a Jewish state as an alleged refuge or haven. In diverting the angry masses of Jewish people away from the real problem and the real dangerous enemy, Menachem Begin, a Zionist leader and Israeli Prime Minister, along with other anti-semites, particularly in the media, have deliberately misled people to believe that the facist bombings in France are due to the Palestinian struggle for self-dtermination and national rights to their homeland. The Palestinian people, and their organization, the PLO, are not the cause of anti-semitic moods and violence in Europe and the U.S. The same forces which are anti-semitic against Jewish people are also anti-semitic against Arabs, racist against Blacks and Latinos, and other third world peoples, and oppose liberation struggles and progressive causes the world over.

It is high time to stop voting and giving support to the racist, anti-semitic upholders of the status quo—all three major candidates. It is time to vote for those candidates who have consistently opposed and fought against oppression of the Jewish people, and other oppressed peoples of the world and for social change.

Taleb Bizri
Amherst

Fighting sin with sin

If any of the thousands of Valley Advocate readers are aware of what was being shoved down their throats during the last issue of this "alternative" (i.e. better than thou) newspaper, they would clearly see that the editorial views of militant pro-abortionists have come forth without any regard whatsoever for "equal time for opposing views." Note that this was the pre-election issue, so that even if the paper were to allow time for an exchange of views, the opposition would have its say too late! Very sharp move, Advocate.

Steve Masse

I call to mind specifically Bev Eaton's servile editorialization in her article, "Silvio's Sins Against Women." Bev Eaton herself admits she is "giving in to single-issue politics and all the narrow-mindedness it can represent," and then rants on in spite of it all! The rationale here is that if you keep stamping your feet and yelling that it is a woman's right to kill her unborn children (i.e. "choice"), you don't have to listen to any other views.

Silvio Conte, whether he's Catholic or not, whether he loves his wife or not, believes that it is constitutionally, morally and socially incongruent to assume that because we can talk, walk and screw, we have an inherent "right" to kill another human being because it can't talk, walk, screw or stand in court in self defense. Lots of females are being aborted these days—what of their right to control their bodies? Let's be fair now—why should one female have a legal right when another doesn't?

Because Helen Doyle has children supposedly adds credibility to the "pro-choice" clayball. (Silvio Conte makes women pregnant (!) because he supports the Hyde Amendment and believes that taxpayers should not be forced to pay for "the legal medical procedure" of killing unborn people). If the Hyde Amendment institutionalizes second-class citizenship for the poor by prohibiting payments for elective abortions, then what sort of citizenship does the "pro-choice" movement institutionalize for the unborn children of the poor? Third class citizenship? And what sort of citizenship does the "pro-choice" movement institutionalize for all children born after the 1973 Supreme Court decision which made their birth a privilege instead of a right? Lucky class citizenship?

Abortion may be perfectly correct, but that it can exist legally in a nation whose Constitution guarantees protection of the rights to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, is a clear contradiction. It seems all too obvious that the rights to liberty and pursuit of happiness can exist only if one is alive in the first place. Where does one "get" a right to anything at all, if one does not have the very right to exist in the first place?

And since abortion denies protection of this Constitutionally recognized right to life, then it undoubtedly follows that abortion is unconstitutional. Whether the law recognizes the fact or not. Whether we like the idea or not. If we live in a country whose Constitution we have accepted, we must live within the precepts of that Constitution or change it.

This abortion controversy is reminiscent of slavery in the early days of America. Blacks were considered to be not human. To own, abuse of kill them was a "legal right," insured further by the infamous Dred Scott decision of the United States Supreme Court. Somehow, white supremacists supposed if they ranted loud and long enough, surely everybody would believe them that Blacks were made to be non-humans.

And let's not forget Hitler, folks—he ordered the killing of over six million "non-people" in Germany not too long ago. The German citizens let it happen, just as we Americans let it happen that over six million of our own "non-people" have been selected for death—with no end in sight. And I supposed like white supremacists of the 1800's and like Nazis of the 1900's, if we stamp our feet and yell loud enough that unborn children aren't people, maybe everybody will believe it.

Must we repeat ignominious history, and again deny a whole part of our citizenry its right—and continue to justify abortion because rape, incest and poverty exist? Because the Supreme Court has chosen expediency instead of duty in its 1973 decision? Because people like Bev Eaton believe that children can be "forced" on "poor families?" Please!!

Steve Masse is a Collegian guest columnist.

Man takes hostage at GOP camp

OXFORD, Miss. (AP) — An armed man who seized the Ronald Reagan campaign headquarters here yesterday surrendered after holding a woman worker hostage for almost three hours and demanding that a television station broadcast a message he had recorded, police said.

Officers said John F. Kellum, of Memphis, Tenn., left the building with police after releasing his hostage, Virginia Langen of Oxford, and surrendering two pistols.

Assistant Chief of Police Mike Stewart said Kellum was charged with kidnapping, aggravated assault and possession of more than one ounce of marijuana and taken to the Lafayette County Jail.

Stewart said Kellum appeared to be "under influence of intoxicant. He did smoke marijuana while we were there."

Stewart said that after Kellum demanded that a message be broadcast, officials were unable to find a reel-to-reel player to check the tapes. Kellum later demanded that the station broadcast music by the rock group Pink Floyd.

"We have yet to find out what the tapes contained or what he hoped to gain by doing this act," said Stewart. "We had heard there was something about nuclear testing but we can't verify this."

Police Lt. Gwen Smith went into the headquarters shortly after noon to talk to Kellum and his hostage, and Lafayette County Sheriff Buddy East went in about an hour later.

At first Kellum had asked for some black paint to cover the windows, but Stewart said "we never delivered the paint."

More than 1,000 Williams College students, faculty and townspeople join hands and form a circle around the green at Williams College in Williamstown, Ma. yesterday to protest a cross-burning on the campus Saturday night. College officials have offered a $1,000 reward for information leading to the capture of the culprits who set the fire outside of a dormitory.

★★★★★

Assistant Managing Editor — Andi Atkins
Layout Technician — Suzette Courtmanche
Copy Editor — Sarah Schultz
Head Darkroom Technician — Scot Burke
Ad Layout — Jay Brightman
Page One Design — Carol Rosenberg
Election Page Special — James F. Mahoney, Ed Levine, Cathy Clabby
Composing Room — Bob Carr, Danny Guidera, Andra Armstrong, Pam Dissinger, Janet Milstein, Edie Eppich

★★★★★

Don't forget to vote!

PSYCHOTHERAPY
Individuals, couples, families. Sliding fee scale.
Psychological Services Center
545-0041

silverscope
Natural Cuisine
*fresh baked quiche
*breads, honey desserts
*homemade soups
*pocket sandwiches
*cappuccino * espresso
COFFEE EQUIPMENT
Coffee Beans
15 varieties
$3.99-4.89/lb.
*Wine, Imported Beer, Liquored Coffee
adjacent to UMass Campus
264 n. pleasant st. amherst
Mon-Sat 9 AM-Midnight Sun 11 AM-Midnight

amc THEATRES
TIMES SHOWN FOR TODAY ONLY
ADULTS $2.75 STUDENT & SR CITIZEN with AMC CARD $2.25 SPECIAL ENGAGEMENTS EXCLUDED TWILITE SHOW $1.75 TWILITE SHOW LIMITED TO SEATING

HAMPSHIRE 4
$84-7550 HAMP. MALL ON CAFE SQ.—RT. 9, HADLEY, MASS.
DONALD SUTHERLAND Ordinary People R (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15
LOVING COUPLES PG (6:15 @ $1.75) 8:30
HOPSCOTCH R (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:15
THE FIRST DEADLY SIN R (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30
Dinner and Movie only $5.50 Have your choice of 5 different meals at the Pewter Pot Rest at the Hampshire Mall and see one of the eight movies in this ad for only $5.50 (Sun-Thur only)
Shoppers Show Movie FREE! Thursdays at 1:00 pm Nov.6 Just You and Me Kid with George Burns

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4
584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9-HADLEY MASS
GOLDIE HAWN in PRIVATE BENJAMIN R (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30
CHARLTON HESTON SUSANNAH YORK THE AWAKENING R (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:15
JILL CLAYBURGH It's My Turn R (6:15 @ $1.75) 8:30
ANTHONY HOPKINS THE ELEPHANT MAN PG (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15

THREE THOUSAND YEARS OF YOUR HISTORY- TAKE ONE YEAR FOR YOURSELF

Exciting, meaningful long and short-term programs are offered in Israel to students and young adults. Work, study or do both. Complete, up-to-date information now available at special exhibit currently visiting the University of Massachusetts Campus.

November 6, 1980
11 A.M. - 3 P.M. Student Union
Don't miss this rare opportunity for first hand talks with experts from Israel.
It's Your Future

Attention - Scholars Wanted!

The Northampton Lodge of Elks wishes to contact all recipients of both Elk National Foundation or State Scholarships. Write B.P.O.E. #997 43 Center Street, Northampton, Mass. 01060 with pertinent information (Attention Charles D. Meakim, Chairman Trustees.)

The Distinguished Visitors Program presents

DICK GREGORY

Human Rights Activist/Social Satirist

speaking on:
"Social Problems: Social or Anti-Social?"

Thursday, Nov. 6, 1980
8 PM Student Union Ballroom
Admission is Free
U.Mass Student w/I.D. only

DISCO ON DOWN TO...
Rt. 9 Amherst
Poor Richard's DISCOTHEQUE
TUESDAY
BEER NIGHT
25c Drafts 75c Bottles
Wed. 50c Drinks
Sunday Happy Hour all night
Fri & Sat. HAPPY HOUR 8-10 p.m.

★Rents and fees

continued from page 1

trust fund employees. In the past, Cleary said, these benefits were paid out of the same general fund as the salaries and benefits of academic and administrative employees.

Increased pressure by the Massachusetts State Legislature to make the trust funds self-sufficient has forced the Trust Funds to assume many expenses previously paid by the state. These include, for example, maintenance expenses of the residence halls, previously paid by the Physical Plant and now paid by the Residence Hall trust funds.

Cleary also discussed possible alternatives to the fee increases, such as transfer of money between trust funds. He said that in the past, such transfers have been considered "quasi-legal at best" but that recent transfers of money from the Auxilary Services Trust Fund for the Campus Center renovations, as well as hopes to revise the current Management Services Agreements, have brought out the possibility that funds may be transferred from more profitable areas, perhaps to offset fee increases in other areas.

Joel Wiessman, a member of the Coalition, said better priorities should be set in the future. He cited the expensive renovations to the Blue Wall and Top of the Campus, and suggested that this money might have been better used to offset increases in Board Plan costs.

Cleary also cited efforts by members of the Student Center for Educational Research and Advocacy to bring a bill before the legislature that would save as much as $1 million in energy costs. In addition, he noted that the UMass Building Authority is holding about $2.4 million that could be used to offset building repairs now paid for by maintenance funds. If this money were used for repairs, he said, the extra maintenance funds could be transferred to othe areas.

Weissman also suggested that refinancing might be considered on the various buildings on campus, but agreed that current high interest rates made this unlikely.

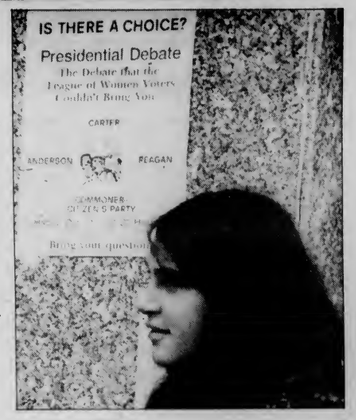
The various trust funds might be transferred back to the state, instead of being self-sufficient, so that the state could absorb the increases, he said.

Also discussed at the meeting were proposals to organize members and other students to attend the upcoming Board of Trustees Budget and Finance Subcommittee meeting Nov. 19, as well as the general meeting of the Board of Trustees Dec. 4. Each of these meetings will concern the proposed fee increases.

The first two hours of the Senate meeting were also set aside for an educational session about the increases.

It was also proposed that a rally be held prior to the Dec. 4 Trustees' meeting to inform students of the meeting so they may express their opinions about the fee and tuition increases and financial aid cuts.

With today's election, scenes like this one of Jill Basmajian listening to a Presidential candidate will be replaced by voters casting their ballots. (Staff photo by Scott Burke)



★Club

continued from page 3

Center from 7:00 to 10:00. There is a limit of nine persons to each course on a first come basis, but because interest usually drops as the semester goes on, the club usually discontinues the course after Thanksfiving and starts it again in the spring, although some members continue to jump during the winter.

"We have to defend why we do what we do," said Pirkot. "Jumping out of a plane is ludicrous. But as Pirkot, who has jumped 124 times, puts it, "Dreams of flying are about the most common. Skydiving is a realization of a dream."

★Elections

continued from page 1

Mondale and George Bush, Reagan's running mate, combed that territory, too, in the final hours.

As always, Reagan accused Carter of mismanaging the economy into rekindled inflation and rising unemployment. "We have more than a president who has failed," he said in Peoria, Ill. "We have a president who refuses to admit his policies had anything to do with those failures."

Carter pressed his chosen theme in Granite City, Ill., saying that Reagan is outside the mainstream on "the issue of peace and the control of nuclear weapons." He also said a Reagan administration "would be the worst that could happen."

The president cancelled a planned appearance in Burbank, Calif., and went to Detroit instead. Michigan has 21 electoral votes to offer, and it looked close. California has 45, but Reagan is rated the leader in the state that twice elected him governor.

Carter booked a 6,000-mile campaign windup to take him nearly twice around the clock, Washington to Akron to Granite City to Detroit to Portland, Ore., to Seattle, then home to Plains, Ga., to vote.

Reagan's last campaign route led from Peoria to Portland, then to California for windup shows in San Diego and Los Angeles.

Richard Wirthlin, Reagan's pollster, said the 270 electoral votes needed for victory were within reach. He said the hostage developments could have an impact, but that he couldn't forecast it.

"I think the voters are primarily interested in what will happen over the next four years, rather than the events of the next few days, as they cast their votes," Reagan aide Edwin Meese said.

BLUE WALL campus center at u mass at THE HATCH
EVERY TUESDAY ROCK N' REGGAE
TOC Sticker & valid ID required to purchase alcohol

Magic Lantern
Route 20 Palmer, Mass
6 miles East of Eastfield Mall

Ladies Night
from Boston: Male Dancers Butch Cassidy
and
The Sundance Kid

Tues Nov 11 8-11 P.M.
Reservations Accepted
1-413-283-9275

IDB TIPS
Although the IDB can provide most University-related information, the only phone number we can provide is our own:
545-1555
Student Numbers 545-1515
Other University Numbers "O" on campus
545-0111 off campus
The Information Data Bank
227 Whitmore

Foreign Book Sale
at the University Store's
Textbook Annex
9:00 AM to 4:00 PM
Nov 4 - Nov 9 only
Up to 50% off overstocked titles from previous semesters.
FRENCH SPANISH ITALIAN
GERMAN GREEK LATIN

CAREER DAY 1980
Tuesday, November 4
10 A.M. -4 P.M.
1st Floor Campus Center
Twenty Guest Speakers
Luncheon: C.C. 1009 12 - 2 P.M.
Reception: C.C. 1001 4 - 6 P.M.
Sponsored by Undergraduate Business Club

VOTE BE COUNTED
TIPS ON VOTING
2005 ABSENTEE VOTING
2006 VOTING IN AMHERST .
545-1540
REQUEST TAPE BY NUMBER

Collegian Classifieds

• Come to Collegian Office CC 113 • 8:45-3:45 Monday - Friday • Deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day • 15c per word • Student rate 10c per word • Cash in advance • 5 consecutive days 5% discount • Phone number FREE

AUDIO

Phase Linear Mark V Speakers wxc. cond. only 2 mo old need $ $650 – or BO Bill 546-5835 anytime

AUTO FOR SALE

Ford Galaxie 1966 excellent condition $400 or BO 549-4635

69 VW runs good AM-FM cass. inspected best offer call Chris 256-0353

67 Mercury 60000 mi one owner professor best offer 549-4930 ext 296 office 549-1896 home

1968 Volvo Wagon good condition rebuilt engine 1200 BO Joe 546-7924

68 Cougar good condition best offer over $450 call Jim 549-6321

1974 Dodge Dart good condition slant six 20 mpg needs nothing $900 6-9054

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITY

Opportunity to earn $18,000/yr by May working 10-12 hrs/wk Find out how YOU can do it for appointment call 549-1172

CHEM. E. CATHY

Happy Birthday!! You're legal again! from your friend in Thermo

DISC JOCKEY

Have a Great Party!! Hire Quality Disc Jockeys Denis 546-6249 Andy 546-1164

ENTERTAINMENT

Soundsystem and DJ for hire perfect for band parties coffeehouses Rick 584-4105

Benefit Punk Party at Poor Richards $1 Tues Nov 4 punk attire welcome ID req

Blow the Doors Off Your Next Party! $100 dorm party special · best DJ's on campus Andy 546-1164 Denis 546-6249

FOR RENT

Room near campus 95/month, no pets. Anna 549-0363 evenings Leave message

FOR SALE

Gift Idea: Portrait Drawings; call dennis Delap 665-2972

TRS-80 48K or 16K System must sell mint condition call for details 546-7050

Backpack new cost $150, sell for $100 will bring to Campus 1-684-3121, 1-442-6023

Moving, must sell 1970 Valiant runs well, $1200.00 Yamaha 12-string guitar, $200 or BO furniture 253-3101

Single bed $40 Carol 549-5440 after 5

1966 Buick Wildcat PS, PB, PW, AT, snows 300 or BO 323-7774 Rick

73 Gremlin 600.00 or best offer call 584-7094 after 7 PM

1969 Dodge Coronet 4-door $250 call 546-1136 or 1-413-543-2661 anytime

Mattress/sofa Queensize futon with pillow. Both have slipcovers All 100% cotton. 1 month old $175 253-2427

Electric Guitar Gibson SG tune-o-matic bridge, grover pegs, hardshell case. Mint condition. $450. (neg) Chris 546-7809

Mag Wheels 14x6 for most G, cars call Phil 546-6675

Top grade leather mens boots size 8½ like new. Call Dave 586-0800 after 5:00

Bass Guitar-Gibson Grabber details call Guy 546-9189 Give my baby a home

FOUND

Found Student ID's 3793026 and 7562644 claim at SGA Presidents Office 406E Student Union

Found: Administrative theory notebok on soap opera couches call Karen 256-5274

HELP WANTED

Wanted part-time radiology technician for multi-specialty group practice please call 256-8561 ext 248 M-F 8 am-4 pm

Cruises—Club Mediterranean, Sailing, Expeditions! Needed: Sports Instructors, Office Personnel, Counselors, Europe, Carribean, Worldwide! Summer. Career. Send $5.95 + $1 handling for application OPENINGS, GUIDE to CRUISEWORLD 16160129, Sacramento, Ca. 95860

Newspaper Deliverer wanted Mornings 6:00 AM to 8:00 AM Must have car Call 549-5059

Certified CPR instructor wanted to co-teach CPR (BLS) at UMass Anyone certified call 546-3296 keep trying!

Part-time Driver with own van or station wagon for self-help group of mentally retarded adults. Monday eves. Wage & mileage. Call Association for Retarded Citizens 586-0109

Collectively-Run Bookstore now hiring. For application and further details, call or visit our new store today--Food For Thought, 67 N. Pleasant St., Amherst Center 253-5432

INSTRUCTION

English Classes (ESL) Elementary, Intermediate. Two hours an afternoon, except Wednesday. Faculty/student spouses, visitors, immigrants. People's Institute, Northampton. 584-3956 NLI, P.O. Box 34, Northampton

Hypnosis Speed reading Rm 909 Campus Center Nov 12, 13 at 7 PM all welcome KR Morse 532-5703

Guitar Instruction bluegrass & traditional orientation 10 yrs professional teaching experience reasonable rates Jerry 549-5650

Tutoring help for all statistics calculus and math related courses experienced teacher John 253-2036 or 549-6230

COBOL Tutor professional experience call 665-4722 6 PM to 10 PM reasonable rates!

INTERNSHIPS AVAILABLE

Legal Assistant Interns Wanted: The Legal Services Office has 8 positions available for full-time legal assistant interns for the Spring 1981 semester. Up to fifteen credits may be earned through Office of Internships. Legal assistants assist attorneys of the LSO with client interviewing, investigations, legal research, negotiations, giving advice and referrals, preparation of court forms, and attendance at hearings in District and Superior Courts, and participation in administrative hearings and federal litigation. Maintain continuing case load under supervision of attorneys. Applications available at Office of Internships, Curry Hicks Building, and inquire further at Legal Services Office, 922 Campus center. Applicationsdue November 7, 1980 at Office of Internships. Writing sample required. All third world and women students are encouraged to apply.

LEGAL SERVICES

Attorney Jason Rosenthal reasonable rates Days 584-4285, Evenings 253-7617

Attorney Robert Astor Criminal matters, domestic relations, real estate. Reasonable rates. 584-4369

LOST

Nova Owners I hitched back to Boston on Friday Oct. 10 I left a brown and tan reversible jacket in your car call 6-7470

Lost keys—Sat nite wall across from Thoreau Reward 6-7451

One room key on a leather "J" keychain between Sylvan and Puffton around Sat 10/18 call 6-4246

Burgundy Leather Jacket 10/24/80 Lot#63 Reward call 546-9366

Very large neutered male cat Black and grey stripes with some orange. White paws and chest I miss my cat, please call Karl at 256-8346

Reward for return of small black pouch containing tools for bassoon reed making. PLEASE CALL 586-1739

Ladies' Watch black cord band Reward! contact Norma 256-0632

Lost 1 watch black band, women's in Holdsworth Tues afternoon 28th Sharon 803 Cashin 6-4156

Friday, sharp thin-line calculator near Hasbrouck parking lot Ray 323-4874

PERSONALS

Undergrad Pol. Sci. Assoc. interested in becoming member? Sign-up Rm 422 Thompson

Tony, Boar of the week number one piglover lets go scooping for some real sows love, the women on 4-south

The Academic Editor of the 1981 INDEX is seeking students who enjoy writing and working on their own to conduct interviews with various academic deans. If interested contact Maureen at the INDEX office, 103 CC 545-0848

What do you think of your department, school or college? This is your chance to let the rest of the world know! Have your opinion published in the 1981 yearbook. See Maureen at the Index office, room 103 CC, or call 545-0848 and leave your name and phone number

There's nothing exactly like this. .anywhere! Send your favorite snapshots, magazine picture, drawing. . .anything! We'll customize it into a beautiful 2 3/8" key-chain button, or pin backed button. (specify) Your personalized memento $3.00 p.p.d. T.G.R. Enterprises 2900 Griffin Road Suite #5 Fort Lauderdale, Florida 33312 + ask for giant "slogan" catalog!!

UMass Photo Co-op Raffle 1st prize Canon AE-1 Nov 3-7 CC Concourse

Happy Birthday Kel "E". Love you! The 14th floor and Linda too!

To my Li'll bit, I love you—Peter

First Floor Gorman loves you Kathy—Happy 18th!

Operation Identification: Starts this week in S.W. Alpha Chi Omega brothers will mark your valuables free!

BOBBY I love you very much G.B.

Layout person needed for Thursday nights at the Collegian. If you applied earlier come down again. Talk to Fran Basche

Assistant Managing Editors: meeting this Friday. Check with Fran

Career Day 1980 TODAY—1st floor Campus Center 10 AM - 4 PM All welcome Sponsored by Undergraduate Business Club

Lady — Cherish is the word, catch it!

Happy Birthday, Magda!! . . .Lips thinner than the finest veal, hair coarser than the most costly Burgundian broom straw?? See you at the "Red Door" on Wednesday? Ardens having a special! Warm wishes, Phyliss & Chuck Tyler

Dear Leno—What was written on the fridge? oink, oink!! Yours in spirit, Rosemary & L. Kazan, TMESBAWWHT

RIDE WANTED

Ride needed weekends Brockton or nearby. Leaving Thursday night or Friday anytime. Share expenses call 546-7186

To Albany/Syracuse Leave phone number 11/22 546-7955

RIDERS WANTED

Going to UVM 11/7 want someone to share expenses with call Marlene 6-8337

ROOM WANTED

Two responsible females seeking off campus housing for Spring semester call 546-5458

Women seek 2-4 bedroom house or apartment On bus route for Spring semester 546-1296 546-1137 546-1412

RESPONSIBLE, INDEPENDENT FEMALE looking for own room in house or large apartment for Spring semester. Preferably near town or campus. Call WHITNEY 546-9346

ROOMMATE WANTED

In S. Deerfield Quiet, non-smoking, serious (student preferred) person. Now until January 115 + /mo 665-7705

Own room in thre bdrm Puffton Village apt. $122 includes heat Call Bob 549-5877 after 6

Female as 4th roommate in Brittany Manor for Spring semester. Friendly, responsible. $95/mth Call 253-5729 Ask for Maryellen or Cathy

Colonial Village one bdrm in two bdrm apt $125 & elec Mark 256-6454 after 5 pm Nov. 1 sublet

SERVICES

Experienced typist available Fast, neat work, reasonable rates. 546-6439

Typing; Words-Worth, 37 East Pleasant Street, Amherst, 549-1303. Double-spaced text from 95c a page. Justified resumes from $3.50 a page. Telephone dictation line. Overnight rush jobs. Your words are worth it.

Expert Typing, Editing reasonable rates 665-4815 evenings and weekends

Need babysitter weeknights? Call Carrie 546-6847

SHITTER & TUMA

Shitter & Tuma Happy Belated Birthday Love Spunky & Dicky

SONGWRITERS

Folk-Singer, song writer researching song writing at UMass. If you write original folk, or country music I would like to interview you and profile your work in my Research--call Joe at 665-2840 10 pm-11:30 pm or weekends anytime

TO SUBLET

One bedroom apt in Southwood from 12/1 or 1/1/81 to 9/1/81 w/option $235 + 256-8958

TRAVEL

Florida—The Great Getaway for Spring Break and January Term under $200 round trip jet 256-6704

WANTED

Highest prices paid for class rings, gold, and silver jewelry. See me before you sell. Daniel Smith, 25 North Pleasant St between Fotomat and Logos, Amherst M-Sat10-6 call 256-0710

Top Dollars paid for class rings, gold, sterling at Wendy's. CC Concourse, twice a week approved by UMass Board of Governors

Subject needed for participation in weight training study for newly developed Dynamic Strength Machines Need male not currently involved in weight training program, must be willing to make commitment. Call 5-1337 till 5; 549-3833 after 5 PM

The rusty nail Inn

Thurs. Nov. 6
GEORGE THOROGOOD and THE DESTROYERS

Fri. Nov. 7
JAMES MONTGOMERY BAND
with special guests
FIRST RATE

Sat. Nov. 8
THE JAMES COTTON BAND
with special guests
FIRST RATE

Rt 47 Sunderland MA 665-4937

ONE FOR THE ROAD
CINDY DOWNING
I KNOW WHY YOU'RE GIVING ME THAT DISGUSTED LOOK! YOU DON'T LIKE THAT I SIT AROUND SMOKING & DRINKING ALL THE TIME.
LADDLEOGLEE!
SIMPLE PLEASURES ARE THE BEST!
©1980

Under the Influence — Cindy Downing

SOME PEOPLE TAKE THEIR RISK SERIOUSLY!
HA! HA! I'LL MAKE THIS SMALL TREATY NOW AND STAB HIM IN THE BACK ON MY NEXT MOVE.
IT'S NO USE! I'VE LOST! ALL THAT'S LEFT IS TO GO OUT IN A BLAZE OF SUICIDAL GLORY!
I ALWAYS LOSE WITH PINK.

Abnormal Psychology — J. Demskey

DAVID, DID YOU KNOW THAT THE DEMOCRATS CHOSE THE DONKEY AS THEIR SYMBOL BECAUSE IT CRAPPED WHERE - EVER IT PLEASED?
YES, BUT THE REPUBLICANS CHOSE THE ELEPHANT BECAUSE IT HAD BIGGER CRAPS.
NOT ONLY THAT, BUT DID YOU KNOW THAT ELEPHANTS ONLY MATE EVERY FOUR YEARS?
SO, THAT MEANS THE REPUBLICANS SCREW US EVERY FOUR YEARS AND THE DEMOCRATS CRAP ON US ALL THE TIME?
RIGHT.

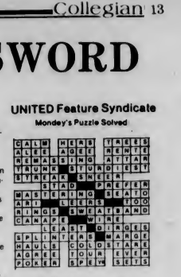
DOONESBURY — by Garry Trudeau

HEY, AREN'T YOU GUYS GOING IN TO VOTE?
WHAT FOR, MAN? WITH THE CHOICES THIS YEAR, WHAT'S THE POINT?
WHAT DO YOU MEAN, WHAT'S THE POINT? THE OUTCOME OF THIS ELECTION COULD PROFOUNDLY AFFECT THE DESTINY OF THIS COUNTRY! THERE HASN'T BEEN SUCH A CLEAR-CUT CHOICE IN YEARS!
NO KIDDING? JEEZ... I DIDN'T KNOW THAT, MIKE.
YOU TOLD ME CARTER AND REAGAN WERE RUNNING!
I MAY HAVE GOTTEN IT WRONG

CROSSWORD

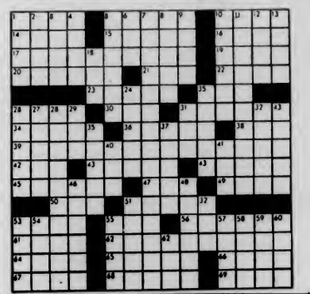
UNITED Feature Syndicate

Monday's Puzzle Solved



ACROSS
1 Vehicles
5 Superior
10 On + --- with
14 Came to earth
15 Perfume
16 The Pentateuch
17 Cocktail party item 2 words
19 Ridicule +
20 Pistol Slang
21 Not to scale: Abbr
22 Inactive
23 Describes
25 A prior time Prefix
26 Commend for bravery
30 Utter aloud
31 --- del Fuego
34 Macaw
36 Bridge author
38 Is in possession of
39 Meet 2 words
42 Midseason
43 Race subdivisions
44 E German river
45 Hockey's Mr. Patrick
47 He owns it
49 Diffused
50 Annual returns: Abbr.
51 Fasting periods
53 Yawn
56 Apart: Comb. form
58 More unctuous
61 Its capital is Teheran
62 Significance
64 Sparrow
65 Habitation
66 Man's name
67 --- up
Cleans one's plate
68 Loved to excess
69 Fuss

DOWN
1 Hebrew letter, Var
2 Afr. plant
3 Ms. Moreno
4 Ending for hello or ivy
5 New Zealand natives
6 Circle part
7 Mr. Available 4 words
8 Neglects
9 Censures: Slang
10 Dress
11 Explosive container 2 words
12 Seed cover ing
13 Quality level
18 --- Aviv
24 --- charta
25 Volume units
26 Ship of the desert
27 Mad
28 Disassembles 2 words
29 Before
31 Gumshoe
32 Hindu queen
33 Resource
35 Feels pity
37 Plant sap
40 Poetic contraction
41 Int'l Phonetic Assn
46 Tendences
48 Put in a warehouse
51 Jav
52 Be in session
53 Scoff
54 Tune
55 Twosome
57 Ultimate
58 To the inside of
59 Modified organism
60 Nevada tourist center
63 Verse form



D.C. Menu

Lunch
D.C. BURGER DAY
Double Burger on Sesame Roll
Fishburger on Roll
Franks with Rolls

Basics Lunch
D.C. BURGER DAY
Tofu Burger with Roll
Fishburger on Roll

Earthfoods
Spinach Ricotta Pie
Green Salad
Minestrone Soup
Grain
Datenut Bread

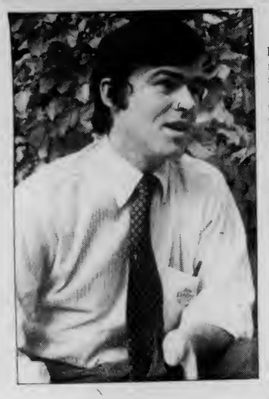
Dinner
Roast Beef/Gravy
Cheese Lasagna/Tomato Sauce

Basics Dinner
Baked Cod with Crumb Sauce
Cheese Lasagna/Tomato Sauce

ITALIAN FILM FESTIVAL
Bertolucci's
The Spider's Strategem
Tuesday Nov. 4 7 & 9 pm C.C. Aud.
!!FREE ADMISSION!!

The Umass Music Theater Guild Presents:
The Broadway Musical
"ON THE TOWN"
Music by Leonard Bernstein
Thurs, Fri, Sat, Nov. 6, 7, 8 and 13, 14, 15
All Performances: 8 P.M. Students $2.50
Bowker Auditorium Gen Admission $3.00
Special Discount Preview
Thursday Nov. 6, $1.00 off all ticket prices
Tickets now on sale at the Bowker Box Office
or phone reservation by calling 545-0783

Area incumbents tested



James G. Collins

3rd Hampshire district

Incumbent James G. Collins is battling Deanna O. Flynn of Granby for the state representative seat from the 3rd Hampshire District.

Flynn faces an uphill battle against the eight-year veterk Collins. She said her main concern was the economy of the state and would favor legislation that gives the towns more control over their tax ceilings.

Collins however said that he favors tax reform in the state but vehemently opposes Prop. 2½. He said he would call for a tax program that would make all taxes progressive. He said a careful examination of all state programs could cut fat from the budget.

The UMass graduate also said he would fight for quality public higher education and opposes the new system of regents. Flynn said she would set up an office in the Amherst areas to stay in touch with area students.

1st congressional district

The race in the 1st Congressional District will be a heated battle between Helen Poppy Doyle and incumbent Silvio O. Conte.

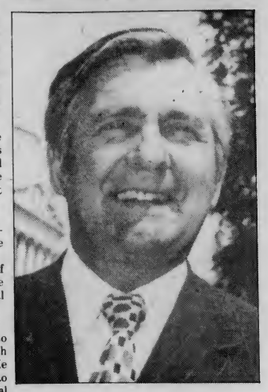
Doyle has served on the Democratic National Committee and the Massachusetts Democratic State Committee. Doyle has also been a representative for the president at the Australian/American Friendship Week and served as a delegate at the UNCTAD Conference in Manila. She is a graduate from Trinity College.

The Ashfield Democrat supports the ratification of the Salt II treaty and is opposed to the nuclear arms race. She said she favors mandatory wage and price controls and would support government subsidized employment programs.

Conte, a Republican, is a native of Pittsfield and a graduate of Boston College. He has been in the House since 1958.

Conte is the ranking minority member of the Appropriations Committee and is the co-chair of the New England Congressional Caucas.

He stressed that he will continue to support allies in the Middle East with security assistance and economic aid. He said he would fight for more tax credits to negate the effects of a regressive Social Security Tax. He has helped or sponsored 22 different energy initiatives, 16 of which have been signed into law.



Silvio O. Conte

★Ballot questions

continued from page 5

Northampton

Ward 1 Precinct A—Memorial Hall, Main Street
Ward 1 Precinct B—Jackson Street School Auditorium
Ward 2 Precinct A—Smith Agricultural School on Route 9
Ward 2 Precinct B—Same
Ward 3 Precinct A—Bridge Street School in the Basement
Ward 3 Precinct B—Same
Ward 4 Precinct A—South Street School
Ward 4 Precinct B—Same
Ward 5 Precinct A—Florence Grammer School Auditorium on Pine Street, Florence
Ward 5 Precinct B—William Feiker School on Riverside Road
Ward 6 Precinct A—Ryan Road School
Ward 6 Precinct B—Same
Ward 7 Precinct A—John F. Kennedy Junior High School Auditorium
Ward 7 Precinct B—Leeds School Gym

Sunderland

All voters will use the Town Hall to cast their votes. All area polling places will be open from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. today.

DON'T FORGET TO VOTE!

★Area polls

continued from page 5

Opponents to question 3 charge that it will not substantially help taxpayers since only 35 communities had tax rates high enough to be affected by the law. The measure would also result in an increase in state taxes because it would require the state to dole out about $500 million to pay for education costs, which would result in a 25 percent increase in state income taxes or a 66 percent increase in sales tax.

QUESTION 4

Question four on the ballot would authorize an October, 1979 legislate vote providing for pay raises for legislators and officers in the state by varying amounts from $1,853 to $17,923 per year. The measure would set the base salaries of legislators at $20,335 with the highest legislative salary of $55,920 being paid to the speaker of the house and the senate president. The law would also raise the salary of the governor by $20,000, to $60,000 per year, and all other oficers by $10,000 per year, or $47,500 for the attorney general and $40,000 for other officers. In addition, the law would give the human services and administration and finance departments more flexibility in establishing positions and setting salaries.

Proponents of question 4 argue that Massachusetts lawmakers are underpaid and their salaries need to be brought up to the standards of other states. Those opposed to the measure argue that the pay raises were voted on suddenly and without publicity or the opportunity for public input. The pay raises are also far above the wage guidelines set by the state and federal governments, they charge.

QUESTION 5

A proposed amendment to the state constitution, question 5 would require any regulation imposed on a specific city or town be first accepted by the community before it could become law. Local acceptance would not be required, however, if the legislature passes a requirement by a two-thirds vote.

Those in favor of question 5 argue that it would increase the control the local communities have over state mandates. This, in effect, would give local residents more control over local spending. Opponents argue that the measure should not be an amendment to the constitution, but rather a law, since the constitution should not be changed unless absolutely necessary.

QUESTION 6

An amendment to the state constitution proposed in quesiton 6 would allow the legislature to pass an emergency law by a standing vote rather than a roll call vote which is currently required. The law would not prevent a roll call vote, which can still be requested by lawmakers.

Proponents of the measure argue that it would allow the legislature to pass emergency bills more quickly and would help the legislature operate more efficiently. Opponents charge that the measure would provide legislators with anonymity and would "make it easier" for lawmakers to vote against unpopular measures.

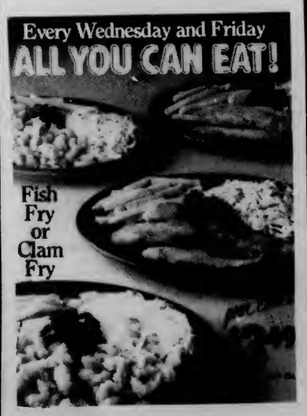
QUESTION 7

This question, which is on the ballot in only Berkshire, Franklin and parts of Hampden and Hampshire counties, would direct the legislators in this district to contact the president and request an immediate end to the arms race and a cutback in production of nuclear weapons.

QUESTION 8

Question 8, which is also on the ballot in just a few areas, calls for a moratorium on the construction of new nuclear power plants and a gradual shut-down of existing plants.

Every Wednesday and Friday
ALL YOU CAN EAT!



Howard Johnsons
Rt. 9, Hadley

LEGAL ASSISTANT INTERNS WANTED:

The Legal Services Office has 8 positions available for full-time legal asistant interns for the Spring 1981 semester. Up to fifteen credits may be received through Office of Internships. Legal assistants assist attorneys of the Legal Services Office with client interviewing, investigations, legal research, negotiations, giving advice and referrals, preparation of court forms, and attendance at hearings in District and Superior Courts of Hampshire and Franklin counties, and participation in administrative hearings and federal litigation. Legal Assistants maintain continuing caseload under supervision of attorneys. Application available at Office of Internships, Curry Hicks Building, and inquire further at Legal Services Office, 922 Campus Center. Applications due November 7, 1980 at Office of Internships. Writing sample required.

ALL THIRD WORLD AND
WOMEN STUDENTS ARE ENCOURAGED TO APPLY.

Weekend cross country tournaments:
Moores and McCrone qualify for the Nationals

By JIM GRAHAM
Collegian Staff

The University of Massachusetts women's cross-country team placed ninth out of 17 Division I teams in the Easterns held last Saturday at the Indiana University of Pennsylvania. The meet included the best teams in the East competing for a chance to travel to the Nationals held November 15th in Seattle, Washington.

Mass's Tricia Moores and Judy McCrone secured themselves a trip to Seattle by finishing among the top 15 runners who qualify for the Nationals. Moores ran her best race of the season and finished seventh in 18:13 with McCrone close behind in 13th place, clocking an 18:29 over the 5000 meter (3.1 mile) course.

"I had a bad start and I was nervous but I really put it together at the end," Moores said.

McCrone and Moores ran together until the last half-mile when McCrone fell off the pace. "I felt good until the two-and-a-half-mile mark but I lost my concentration after that," McCrone said.

Finishing third for UMass was Cathy Petrick who placed 39th overall with a time of 19:13. Running her best race of the season and placing fourth for the harriers was Caroline Cardiner with Dill Wilson fifth and Eileen Everett sixth for the Mass squad.

"Tricia ran better than she did in the New Englands and looked really good. She and Judy work well together and in their races they seem to switch-off finishing first, even in the big meets. They're definitely psyched for the Nationals," coach Julie LaFreniere said. In the New Englands last week at Franklin Park in Boston, McCrone placed third overall with Moores placing fourth.

Winner of the individual title in the Easterns was Vermont's Judy St. Hilaire finishing in 17:28 with teammate Leslie Bancroft taking second in 17:29. In the team scoring Penn State took first, Maryland second and Vermont third overall. UMass tied for ninth with Rhode Island. Boston College won Division II. It was the last meet of the season for UMass.

Men place 9th in Easterns

By CHRIS WILSON
Collegian Staff

With a sweep of the first five places, the Penn State men's cross country team overcame five other teams to win the Coaches Championship, Saturday at Penn State.

The University of Massachusetts placed fifth with 132 points behind Penn State (15), Cleveland State (64), Rutgers (71), and George Mason (115). West Virginia was sixth with 160 points.

Coach Ken O'Brien was disappointed with the team's running saying it was "probably one of the poorer performances of the year" because the team "didn't respond to the high level of performance of the other runners."

UMass' Chris Omeltchenko continued his consistent running by placing 22nd at 25:45, but O'Brien called Kevin Corcoran's 27th place (25:54), "the team's best performance."

Omeltchenko felt that the wind made the five mile course "a little hard to run" but overall they "didn't run well as a team."

The harriers still face the two toughest meets of the year, the New England's and the National Qualifying meet.

Omeltchenko is hoping they will "put everything together for the New England's so we will see how well we can go against our rivals in the National Qualifier."

Booters go 6-0 with shutout

By SUE BRIDGMAN
Collegian Staff

The J.V. soccer team extended its unbeaten streak to six games, shutting out the University of Connecticut 4-0 Friday at Boyden Field.

The University of Massachusetts played good heads-up ball, and took advantage of their opportunities. They executed their plays well and finished off the plays strongly.

Forward Vince Foti opened the scoring for Massachusetts 26:27. Foti, taking a pass from Eric Zuckerman, hooked a long shot into the corner. The ball deflected off the goalpost for the first tally of the game.

Less than six minutes later Zuckerman came back with a goal of his own, Paul Suozzo crossed tha ball to the forward, who chipped a shot over the head of the UConn goalie, just under the crossbar.

Early in the second half, the booters rallied again for the third goal of the game. Rick Wasmund fired a hard shot which the goalie bobbled and lost control of. Zuckerman, coming to the net on the play, stroked the ball over to Will Kreisher who tapped it in.

Mass's final goal came at 47:37 on a corner kick by Mike Runeare. Runeare let off a low hard shot, which Steve Berlin lunged for and headed into the right corner.

UConn finished off the game short-handed when Rich Cahill was red carded for arguing with the referee and forced to retire from the action.

"This game made my coaching season" coach Joel Mascolo sai. Mascolo was proud of each of his players and felt that forward John Poutas was his most improved player of the season.

The J.V.'s will try to close off their season with a perfect mark, when they take on Springfield Wednesday on the lower Boyden fields at 2:30.

★Huskie

continue from page 16

Penglis could no longer contain himself. The jig was up.

"John, I have something to tell you," Penglis said to Briody. "My name is Greg Penglis, and I'm from the UMass Marching Band, and so is half the bar."

The 30 band members present then peeled off their shirts to reveal various UMass tee-shirts.

"Your uniform has just crossed the Massachusetts border," Penglis told Briody.

"I don't believe it," Briody said, shaking his head. "I just don't believe it," he repeated, over and over again, staring blankly at the empty bottles on the table.

The Huskie uniform, worn by UMass band member Mike Krivitsky at the football game, was returned to the UConn side shortly before halftime.

Briody, who had come back to UMass with Penglis, too embarrassed to face the disgrace at UConn, saw the first half of the game from the stands, but returned to the field, in uniform by halftime.

At UConn, Briody's name is now Huskie-doo-doo.

Notices

TRAINERS EMT/RED CROSS needed. Contact Intramural office at 5-2693.

IM SWIM MEET will be held tomorrow at Boyden pool—sign up at the pool at 6 p.m. thru 7:15 p.m. There will be eight events including diving.

IM FOUL SHOOTING CONTEST takes place Wednesday, Nov. 12 on the Boyden basketball courts at 6 p.m. The contest is for men, women and co-rec competition. To enter, fill out a form in the IM office before Nov. 12 or show up by 5:30 Wednesday Nov. 12 on the basketball courts.

THE UMASS TABLE TENNIS CLUB is sponsoring the third annual UMass Table Tennis Championships Saturday, Nov. 8 in NOPE gym. Entry blanks available at the games room located across from the Hatch. Winners wil represent UMass in the New England Regional Tournament. All UMass students welcome. Engry fee $1.00 For more info call 5-2527.

HANG GLIDING CLUB MEETING: Wednesday Nov. 5 at 7 p.m. in room 805 Campus Center. All club members urged to attend. New members welcome. Discussion of raffle and Christmas party for fund raisers.

the Hungry U Restaurant
DINNER SPECIALS
the ideal spot for a relaxing meal

MANICOTTI DINNER FOR TWO MONDAY $7.95
Includes entree, garlic bread & tossed salad.

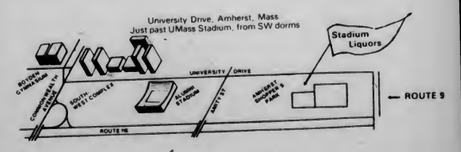
LASAGNA DINNER FOR TWO TUESDAY $7.95
Includes entree, garlic bread & tossed salad.

VEAL STEAK PARMESIAN DINNER FOR TWO $7.95 WEDNESDAY
Includes entree, garlic bread & tossed salad

55 University Drive Amherst 549-5713

STADIUM
KEGS— U. Mass. Amherst —WINE—
BEER— —LIQUORS
LIQUORS

Miller	7.99	case bot or cans
Miller Light	7.99	case bot or cans
Lowenbrau	9.50	case bot
Molson (Golden)	9.90	case bot
Moosehead	11.50	case bot
Wiedemann	5.49	case bot



Save money—Save gas—Save time
10 a.m. — 253-5595 — til 11 p.m.

Sports

The Mass. women's soccer team battles Vermont tomorrow at 2 p.m. at Boyden in the first roundof the Easterns.

UM heists a Huskie

By KEVIN CULLEN and
JANE WOLFSON
Collegian Staff

It was a different kind of victory.

While the University of Massachusetts football team celebrated its 39-21 victory over the University of Connecticut on Saturday, the UMass Marching Band had its own victory to boast of.

Greg Penglis stole a dog.

Penglis, along with 30 other band members, culminated two months of planning when they successfully acquired (more or less) the uniform of the UConn Huskie mascot.

"At first, we thought of getting it (the uniform) raid-style...just going right in and taking it," said Penglis, a tuba player with the band. "We heard Yale tried to steal it but got caught. But that's beeause Yale is stupid. Then we thought, why not make them (UConn) give it to us."

And, so, Operation Huskectomy began.

The 30 band commandos divided into three teams: a psychology team, a film crew and a getaway car team.

Through a leak in the UConn band, the identity of the mascot, John Briody, was discovered two weeks ago, Penglis said.

Penglis then assumed the identity of one Dr. Greg Montgomery, Program Director of the Harvard Medical School's department of Theoretical and Psychological Research.

Posing as Montgomery, Penglis told Briody that Harvard was conducting a study of personality and behavioral traits of college mascots in and out of uniform, he said.

Penglis told Briody that a group of researchers would come to Storrs, Conn., to explain the research, have a couple of drinks, and fill out preliminary forms, he said.

"He fell for it, hook, line and sinker," Penglis said with a grin.

Meanwhile, last Wednesday, the psychology team, posing as master's candidates under Montgomer, met with Briody at Rosales bar, a mile outside of the UConn campus, to discuss the proposed study and gave him release forms to sign.

Through the help of a UMass band alumni, the commandos were able to obtain release forms printed on actual Harvard Medical School stationery, adding legitimacy to the caper, Penglis said.

Briody agreed to take part in the study and readily signed the release forms.

The researchers and Briody bid farewell until Friday, Halloween, when the study would take place.

On Friday, the film crew videotaped a half-hour interview in Briody's dormitory room. Briody was then filmed on and around the UConn campus, parading in his Huskie costume and shaking hands with nearby spectators.

Later, Penglis suggested the researchers and Briody celebrate the study's completion back at Rosales.

Briody peeled off his uniform, placed it in the back seat of Penglis' car, for safekeeping, and proceeded to enter Rosales clad only in gym shorts and Penglis' sportcoat.

While the others enjoyed a few drinks, one of Penglis' accomplices, Nancy Wyllie, went to the car with an extra set of keys and removed the uniform. With the uniform in hand, Wyllie then drove back to Amherst.

Meanwhile, back at the bar, Briody related to the researchers a conversation with his parents.

"I called my parents and told them about the study," Briody said. "But they didn't believe it. they thought you guys might be from UMass or something."

Briody laughed.

The researchers laughed.

"But I knew you guys were on the level," Briody said.

turn to page 15

The UConn "Huskie" dances with a football fan in front of the UMass Marching Band during the game last Saturday. (Staff photo by Paul Price)

Minuteman notebook: Fontaine, Read hurt

By KEVIN CULLEN
Collegian Staff

The report on University of Massachusetts quarterback Tim Fontaine isn't a good one. Fontaine took a helmet in the back during the first quarter of Saturday's 39-21 win over the University of Connecticut and suffered a bruised kidney and a cracks 1 vertebra.

Fontaine is in the intensive care unit of Cooley-Dickinson Hospital in Northampton.

More bad news for the Minutemen: Senior tri-captain Fred Read broke a bone around his ankle and fibula and is in a cast.

The injuries put somewhat of a damper on the victory over UConn.

As for some of the finer points'

What kind of a guy is Mass tailback Garry Pearson? When the UMass coaches gave Pearson the game ball for his 222-yard rushing performance against UConn, Pearson said his offensive line deserved it, not him. "They did all the blocking, they should get the game ball," Pearson said. Class...

Pete DiTommaso showed some fancy running ability when he rambled 10 yards on a fake punt. UMass lined up in punt formation late in the game, but the ball wound up in DiTommaso's arms and the Minuteman linebacker fell just short of the first down. Peter D. now leads UMass with a 10 yards-per-carry average...Split end Jim Ryan made a nice jumping grab on a Dean Pecevich pass, sandwiched between two UConn defenders for a 34-yard gain in the second quarter, leading to Scott LaFond's fumble recovery in the end zone...Speaking of Pecevich, the poise he showed was simply outstanding. He came off the bench after Fontaine's injury and just did a super, disciplined job running the offense the rest of the game...Special teams mad dog Victor Pizzotti made yet another unassisted tackle on a kickoff, pinning UConn deep in their end. Pizzotti, who is just plain fun to watch on special teams, also did an admirable job at center when Read had to leave the game.

The 39 points scored by UMass is the most a UConn team has allowed since Rutgers beat the Huskies 42-18 in 1977...Pearson's effort, his fourth 100-plus game this year, was the best for a UMass player since Dennis Dent ran for 203 against Holy Cross in 1977...Tri-captain Bob Manning did a good job running back four punts for 32 yards.

In other Yankee Conference action, Maine's Lorenzo Bouier rushed for 302 yards against hapless Northeastern, breaking school records for single-game and career rushing.

Meanwhile, Holy Cross quarterback Dave Boisture set school records for pass completions and passing yardage in a 26-0 romp over Columbia. Boisture completed 27 of 46 attempts for 387 yards.

UMass travels to Worcester this weekend to take on Boisture and the Crusaders of Holy Cross.

The highs and lows of women's volleyball

Maureen Sullivan

I look one way, to the court upon which they play, and they can't decide who gets the volleyball as it floats in between them for an easy point.

I look the other way, or close my eyes for just a second, and they play like masters, making the impossible moves, digging out the sure spike, set, pass and bury the ball on the other side, making the opposition seem helpless in their presence.

Black and white, high and low, deep and shallow, is the only way to describe the women's volleyball team's season.

The Minutewomen have played 48 matches, with at least three more coming when they participate in the Rutgers Invitational this weekend. That combined total is almost the amount of matches played last season and the season before.

With those matches has come an intensity, a sort of rapid growth necessary to play those schools—Rutgers University, Southern Connecticut State College, the University of Rhode Island, the University of Delaware, where the Easterns is just another tournament.

This growth has been sporadic. While beating Southern Connecticut twice, Rhode Island for the first time ever, and nearly beating Delaware, the University of Massachusetts has also fallen, and has not been playing with that same intensity. A withdrawal from the "growing pains" encountered from playing tougher competition? Perhaps. For whatever reason, the Minutewomen lost where they should have won, so many times Massachusetts was ahead, ready to take the victory, only to have something within themselves snap, the result being anything from a missed spike to a foot over the serving line to just silence on the court. In those 23 losses, there's been a lot of that.

But within the 25 wins exists a drama seldom experienced by any team. Just as they have lost a win, the Minutewomen have won a loss. From out of nowhere, the intensity comes back, often when the opposition is at game point. Spikes hit the floor, the passing is perfect, the digging can't be any better.

Then comes the screaming. "HERE!" shouts Nola Eddy to the serve receptionists. Katrin Hecht passes to Eddy, who sets it up "I'VE GOT IT!" screams Ellen Braun as she steps to the net, waiting for the set. "WHAM!" goes the ball as it smacks the floor behind the blockers and in front of the backcourt.

At least, that's the way it should be, right? With a few changes, yes. Sometimes, it doesn't; the mistakes take all the rhythm away, and UMass loses.

Backward, forward, in, out, up, down. The entire season has been played in constant enthusiasm and optimism, especially from coach Elaine Marasco, and especially for their chances to enter the Easterns.

"This program's going places," she said, "the way they've been playing (beating the big teams), it will be hard not to be chosen for the Easterns. In the beginning of the season, we've had problems with experience; there were three first-time players on the court (Eddy, Hecht and freshmen Nancy Joraskie). Now, we're playing well, and we've hit the big time in going to the Rutgers Invitational."

"We've beaten Southern twice, and they're in the Easterns," senior co-captain Peggy Barber said, "we have a great shot to go to the Easterns."

The Easterns after the Invitational. First, they have to be in Rutgers this weekend. Then, if they don't disappear like Cheshire cats and play poorly, the call might come, the call earned from playing more than 50 matches, in more or less sporadic fashion, in more or less emotion than a heart could stand.

Come to the Easterns, Mass, and let's see how good you are.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Volume CX, Issue 46 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Mass. Wednesday, November 5, 1980

REAGAN WINS

Massachusetts votes for Jimmy Carter

President-elect Ronald Reagan displays clipping showing victory last night in his Los Angeles hotel suite. Reagan won the election by a landslide.

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Ronald Reagan won the White House last night, sweeping past President Carter to restore Republican rule. Carter conceded, saying the people had spoken "and I accept that decision."

Massachusetts bucked the national trend in the presidential contest, giving Carter the lead in returns across the state.

But soon after Carter's Massachusetts coordinator claimed victory at home, the president conceded he had lost the national race for the White House.

The polls were still open in the West when Carter acknowledged that his presidency was finished—an hour after telephoning Reagan in Los Angeles to congratulate him on victory.

So ended the longest campaign, in the makings of a landslide that belied the forecasts of the president and the pollsters that it would be close. It never was, from the moment the first polls closed.

With 29 percent of the nation's precincts counted, Reagan was gaining 50 percent of the vote, Carter 43 percent, independent John B. Anderson 6 percent.

In electoral votes, the competition that counted, it was a Reagan runaway. He had won or led for 384 electoral votes, a comfortable cushion past the 270 he needed. Carter had won or led for 74.

"It is now apparent that the American people have chosen you as the next president," he wired Reagan. "I congratulate you."

He promised to work for an orderly transition to the Republican administration that will take office on Jan. 20.

Flanked by his wife and the high command of his vanquished administration, Carter told downcast but applauding supporters at a Washington hotel:

"I promised you four years ago that I would never lie to you, so I can't stand here tonight and say it doesn't hurt. The people of the United States have made their choice

turn to page 8

Southwest reacts

Residents of the Southwest residential area voiced their disapproval over the victory of Republican Ronald Reagan last night.

With many residents chanting in unision "Reagan Sucks," the level of noise rose to a point where it could be heard near the Goodell Library.

There were, however, many who disagreed with the majority and added their comments to the growing din.

A large sign hung outside of Webster dormitory in the Orchard Hill Residential Area stating, "Reagan Wins, This means war."

Voters favor tax-slashing Proposition 2½

Associated Press

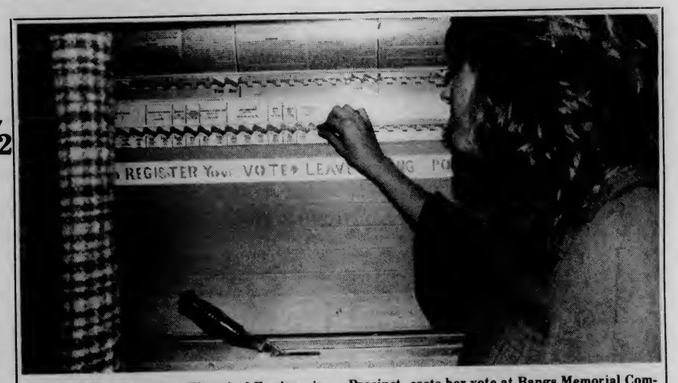
BOSTON — Massachusetts voters, taking advantage of a pre-Thanksgiving chance to carve a whopping slice off their property tax bills, favored tax-slashing Proposition 2½ in early returns yesterday.

Bucking the rest of the state, Amherst voters decided to vote down question 2 more popularly known as "Proposition 2½" by close to a three to two margin.

Despite predictions of fiscal doom for the state's poorer cities, the ballot question was running ahead, 67-33 percent, with 1 percent of precincts counted. Pre-election polls had given the issue a slight edge among voters.

Supporters of the proposal, inspired by passage of California's Proposition 13 in 1978, likened themselves to modern-day Boston Tea Party activists, rebelling against a "Taxachusetts" tax burden they say is 60 percent higher overall than the national average.

turn to page 13



Brenda Clark, a UMass Electrical Engineering senior and a voter registered in the Fourth Precinct, casts her vote at Bangs Memorial Community Center. (Staff photo by Nancy Nutile)

University Staff Association to hold sickout

By STEPHEN MORAN
Collegian Staff

The 1260 member University Staff Association will engage in a sickout Thursday, an informed union source said. The union is comprised of technicians and clerical workers on the University of Massachusetts campus.

The sickout is being held in response to a poll distributed at last Thursday's general membership meeting. Of the 583 polls that were returned, 425 indicated a desire to hold a sickout.

Union members have become increasingly frustrated with the administration's wage offer, he said.

He said the 30,000 member state "alliance" signed a contract last spring. The settlement included a higher wage increase than what has been offered to the USA members, he said. The "Alliance" is a coalition of the American Federation of State, County, and Municipal Employees, and the Service Employees International Union.

Because the administration has refused to offer the USA at least the same wage increase the "Alliance" has received, the USA workers have become increasingly willing to participate in Thursday's sickout, he said.

He said support for a union strike was only slightly less favorable among union workers.

UMass Personnel Director John DeNyse said "we are presently engaged in negotiations using a mediator. I hope the USA will continue to bargain in good faith."

Poll's form indicated that union members who met at the last membership meeting "were angry and frustrated at the low wage offer proposed by the University administration."

The poll form then directed the membership to complete the statement: "I am angry enough to:" resulting in 73 percent of respondents indicating a desire to sickout.

The union's ad hoc crisis co mittee tabulated the polls, and called for the sickout.

The union members have worked without a contract since July 11, and have engaged in a number of job actions during that time, including informational picketing and leafletting.

The issues that prevent a settlement include a wage increase, an end to the dual-pay system, additional sexual harrassment language, seniority and additional parking privileges.

Chancellor Henry Koffler said: "to my knowledge, workers in the public sector are not allowed to sickout."

Chapter 150E, section 9, of the laws, specifically forbids public employees from engaging in a strike. A sickout is considered a strike by the Massachusetts Labor Commission, the commission responsible for investigating public-sector strikes.

World and national news

Iraq offers conditions for withdrawal

Associated Press

BAGHDAD, Iraq — Iraqi President Saddam Hussein, whose troops have captured a large chunk of southwestern Iran in six weeks of war, offered yesterday to withdraw the invasion force if the Iranians recognize Iraqi "rights" to control of the Shatt al-Arab river.

If the Iranians do not accede, Iraq will fight on and its demands may increase, Hussein told the Iraqi National Assembly.

"War always produces additional rights for the conqueror," he said in a speech.

Iran rejects Iraqi territorial claims, including the claim to full sovereignty over the Shatt al-Arab, the disputed waterway that separates the two countries at the head of the Persian Gulf.

There was no immediate reaction from Iran to Hussein's statement, but the Iranians have refused to consider a cease-fire until after Iraqi troops are withdrawn from Iranian territory.

The development came as an effort by the Non-Aligned Movement to mediate an end to the war broke down.

On the battlefront, the Iraqis claimed their forces had "massacred" an Iranian brigade that tried to break out of the besieged city of Abadan in a desperation counter-attack.

Since invading Iran Sept. 23, the Iraqi army has overrun much of southwestern Iran's oil-rich Khuzistan province and has a number of major cities under attack, including Abadan, site of Iran's biggest oil refinery.

Hussein said his government is prepared to withdraw its forces "as from tomorrow" in exchange for "a full recognition of its rights," the Iraqi News Agency said.

Under a 1975 agreement, the Iran-Iraq border was drawn down the middle of the Shatt al-Arab. Under earlier treaties the waterway was totally under Iraqi sovereignty.

Hussein renounced the 1975 accord just before the outbreak of the war.

The Iraqis also are pressing territorial claims farther north on the Iran-Iraq border, and demand that three Persian Gulf islands seized by Iran in 1972 be returned to "Arab" control. Iran is not an Arab country; the Persians are the dominant ethnic group.

Adding to the recent tensions between the two countries had been Iranian leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's efforts to foment rebellion against Hussein in Iraq, and the Iraqis support for anti-Khomeini dissidents among the Arabic-speaking population of Khuzistan.

Earlier yesterday, it was reported from Yugoslavia that a six-member mission of the NonAligned Movement gave up its peace efforts for now after the Iranian government again "categorically rejected" all mediation and calls for a cease-fire.

Iranians celebrate anniversary of Embassy capture

Associated Press

Tens of thousands of Iranians rallied at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran on yesterday, marking the first anniversary of its capture with celebration, revolutionary rhetoric and flaming effigies of the man whose future was being decided by American voters.

The Iranian Foreign Ministry, meanwhile, pressed the Carter administration for a quick, public response to its conditions for release of the 52 U.S. hostages, now beginning their second year in captivity. U.S. officials have said the conditions will be studied carefully before a response is made. They have warned against expectations of a quick solution.

The demonstrators shouted "Death to American Imperialism" and carried placards reading "Shame on Carter." Papier-mache renderings of the U.S. president were set ablaze under sunny skies and brightly colored banners denouncing the United States.

The demonstrators included Iranian troops and revolutionary guards, many carrying rifles with flowers protruding from the barrels, and thousands of school children, Western reporters said. Estimates of the size of the crowd ranged from tens of thousands by the reporters to hundreds of thousands by the official Iranian news agency Pars.

Speeches inside the 27-acre embassy compound were broadcast outside, and Western reporters said the rally could be heard for blocks.

The UMass Arts Council & Hillel present. . .

Thurs. Nov. 6
SALLY FOX

"THE DILEMMAS & DELIGHTS OF BEING JEWISH & FEMALE"

A portrait of serious & humerous vignettes of Jewish womens lives.

7:30 pm
Hampden Theatre
Southwest College

Subscription Rates

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 333 220) is published daily Monday through Friday excluding vacations, exam periods, or holidays, for $15 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

NOW AT
Time Out

2 TV's
37 N. Pleasant
256-0471
Beer, Free Popcorn,
Something New
Lunch served daily 11-2

Today's Collegian produced by:

Assistant Managing Editor:
Jim Kane

Layout Technician:
Abbe Bjorklund

Copy Editor:
Rhonda King

Head Photo Technician:
Nancy Nutile

Ad Layout:
Jay Brightman

Composing Room:
Marsha Bianchi
Donna Sullivan
Laura Garland
Pam Dissinger
Michele Bedard
Edie Eppich
Mary Kinneavy

STILL BUYING
AT HIGHEST
CA$H PRICE$
CLASS RINGS
Gold & Silver Jewelry

See me when you Sell
DANIEL SMITH
Permanently located between Fotomat and Logos
25 North Pleasant St.
Amherst
256-0710
Monday thru Saturday
10 AM to 6 PM
MEMBER AMHERST CHAMBER OF COMMERCE LICENSED BY TOWN OF AMHERST AND STATE OF MASS.

ALL YOU CAN EAT
Barbecued Spareribs
SERVED DAILY 'TIL 10 P.M.
Includes:
• Barbecued Spareribs
• Potato & Coleslaw
• Rolls & Butter
ALL YOU CAN EAT
$3.95
An outstanding lunch or dinner value — Try this new addition to our daily features.
James H. McManus
eating place
Zayre Shopping Center
Rte. 9
Amherst/Hadley line
256-6889
Open 7 a.m./till 3 a.m. Sunday-Thursday
Friday & Saturday - All Nite

Saze-on-Tires
ROUTE 9 HADLEY, MA.
MICHELIN - CONTINENTAL - DAYTON - B.F. GOODRICH - ARMSTRONG - GOODYEAR - PLUS OTHER MAJOR BRANDS
SUPERSEDES ALL OTHER ADS
CASH & CARRY TIRE SALE CASH & CARRY
Wholesale to the Public.
We can arrange to have your tires mounted.
BIAS PLY SNOWS

SIZE	MFG. BY	PRICE	SIZE	MFG. BY	PRICE
600x12	BFG	27.95	G78x14	Seib.	36.95
A78x13	Seiberling	25.95	H78x14	Seib.	38.95
B78x13	Seib.	28.95	560x15	Seib.	28.95
C78x14	BFG	33.95	G78x15	Seib.	36.95
E78x14	Seib.	33.95	H78x15	Seib.	38.95
F78x14	Seib.	34.95	L78x15	Seib. Wt.	43.95

All Prices Plus F.E. Tax & Sales Tax.
RADIAL ALL SEASON AND SNOWS, ALSO AVAILABLE AT WHOLESALE PRICES.
VISA OR MASTER CHARGE
OPEN 9:30-5:30 Sat. 9:30-3
586-2544

Incumbents win big locally

By JAMES F. MAHONEY
and ED LEVINE
Collegian Staff

The incumbents scored big in the Amherst area in yesterday's elections with State Rep. James G. Collins and Congressman Silvio O. Conte easily winning re-election over their challengers.

Incumbent republican Silvio O. Conte was re-elected to the House of Representatives last night by a wide margin over Democratic challenger Helen "Poppy" Doyle.

Conte was returned to Congress for his 12th term, soundly defeating Doyle by nearly an 80 percent margin in the "key" cities of Holyoke and Pittsfield.

In Amherst, Conte defeated Doyle by a 5259 to 4351 vote margin.

"I never expected to get this large a majority," Conte said last night from his campaign headquarters in Holyoke. "When you get into a campaign you really don't know how well you're going to do."

Conte said when he returns to Washington he'll make no major changes in his policies, saying, "the problems of the 70s are the challenges of the 80s."

Conte added that he would continue his work in the fields of energy, transportation and higher education. He said that since he returned to the district when the last Congress ended in October he got the impression that his constituents thought he was doing a "good job."

When reached at her election headquarters in Northampton last night, Doyle said she had not seen the actual results and was reluctant to comment on the outcome. She did say, however, that she was disappointed with the Holyoke and Pittsfield results.

"I had hoped for a better showing in the two cities," Doyle said somberly.

Incumbent state Rep. James G. Collins, D-Amherst, an eight year veteran of the State House, was elected to his third term yesterday by a wide margin over Republican challenger Deanna Flynn. Although Collins lost in Flynn's hometown of Granby by a 1145 to 1055 vote margin, he took over 80 percent of Amherst, his hometown, by a 7716 to 1536 vote.

When contacted at his campaign celebration at Chequers Restaraunt in Amherst last night, Collins said he was pleased with the results and promised to continue to work hard for his constituency.

"I'm very happy and honored by the results that I have gotten so far. I'm especially happy with these results when, tonight, many progressive legislators around the state and nation lost," Collins said.

Colins also thanked UMass students for voting for him and said he wanted to work on re-building the Democratic party over the next few years.

"For the next two years, I'd like to help re-build the Democratic party in Massachusetts and strengthen its principles. A re-birth of Democratic principles is needed," he said.

An unidentified Anderson/Lucey supporter stands in the rain outside of Bangs Community Center in Amherst in a last minute attempt to gain more votes for his candidate. (Staff photo by Vince DeWitt)

Rep. James G. Collins sits in front of his house. (File photo by David Rodgers)

State Representative Collins celebrates election victory

By JOE BARRETT
Collegian Correspondent

The mood was jovial and exuberant at Chequers Restaurant where Jim Collins and his campaign staff celebrated the incumbent's victory over Deanna Flynn of Granby.

Collins won by nearly an 80 percent margin over his Republican challenger. With eight of twelve precincts reporting Collins had 7666 votes to Flynn's 1554.

Campaign workers who have put in many hard weeks and long hours sat down last night at the restaurant to mull over the Collin's campaign and watch the national results on television.

Beer and wine flowed on Collins tab.

"What you see here," said Collin's legislative aid Jon Hite, "is the payoff of three and one half months of very hard work on the representative's part."

"He ran a grass roots campaign, knocked on doors and ran some very issue orientated radio and newspaper advertisements, and the group of people in this room is the organization that did a literature drop to 85 percent of this district," said Hite.

"For two years," said Hite, "it's been my pleasure to work for one of the hardest working and honest legislators on Beacon Hill. His record is what won him this victory."

Reaction to the Reagan victory was unanimously negative among the partisan democratic Collin's crowd.

As for President Carter, most workers seemed to feel that the results were sad to see, but that he clearly wasn't strong enough to carry the voters.

turn to page 15

Goldfarb accepts six-month WFCR contract

By CATHERINE CLABBY
Collegian Staff

WFCR's controversial general manager, Robert Goldfarb, accepted a six-month contract from University of Massachusetts officials yesterday, ending doubts that the station would be in the market for a new manager.

Goldfarb was unavailable for comment.

Chancellor Henry Koffler, who offered Goldfarb the contract, yesterday also appointed Dr. Miriam Williford to act as the University's representative for program policy and external relations at WFCR.

Goldfarb was at the center of a ten-month long controversy concerning his January decision to cancel Que Tal Amigos?, a program geared to the area's Spanish speaking community.

Williford, director of the University's division of continuing education said yesterday she hopes to diffuse any left over hostility from the Goldfarb controversy.

"This is a sticky question," Williford said. "I don't think there are good guys or bad guys."

The station's community advisory committee decided last week to neither recommend nor oppose Goldfarb's contract renewal. In a letter to the committee Goldfarb conceded that he had lost community confidence.

Daniel Melley, a former Western Massachusetts Broadcast council member, said Williford will meet with the station's Community Advisory Board and the Coalition for Public Involvement in Public Radio to work out the controversy over Hispanic programming.

Williford said she had no involvement with the controversy before her appointment although she replaced Melley two months ago on the broadcast council.

"I plan to go in as a fresh face and help the station and the community get together and find a solution to any difficulty," she said.

She said she will look to University officials and students for input before making any recommendations to the WFCR staff.

The University holds WFCR's license although it was founded and continues to be supported by the Five-College consortium. Therefore the University is ultimately responsible for ensuring the station meets FCC requirements, Williford said.

"The University is responsible, not Goldfarb or the station's staff," Williford said. "Ultimately the staff are University employees."

Business Club sponsors Career Day

By CHUCK MARRAM
Collegian Correspondent

In order to provide students with information on jobs in the business world, the Undergraduate Business Club (UGBC) sponsored Career Day '80 yesterday at the University of Massachusetts Campus Center.

Speakers from corporations all over the Northeast addressed over 500 students on the issues of careers and occupational planning in their represented companies as well as in the general business world.

Career Day '80 Publicity Coordinator Sharlene Reynolds said the purpose of Career Day '80 was, "to make business students aware of the daily practices of business professionals as well as to show them how to prepare for these careers."

Reynolds said, "students not only learned about careers, but were also able to make valuable contacts for summer as well as career recruitment." According to Associate Dean and UGBC Advisor Arthur Elkins, it is important that students consider their careers early in their academic programs so that curricula and coursework can be planned purposefully.

The highlight of the day was a luncheon in the Campus Center at which Earl Harris, president of Rodney-Hunt Inc., spoke on the subject of "managing Yourself and Your Company."

turn to page 8

Chemical Bank employee Pedro Rodriguez, a former UMass student, makes a point to aspiring business-people yesterday in the Campus Center during the Business Club's Career Day '80. (Staff photo by Vince DeWitt)

SEE RELATED STORY ON PAGE 8

PREPARE FOR
MCAT·LSAT·GMAT
SAT·DAT·GRE
Our 42nd Year
• Permanent Centers open days, evenings and weekends.
• Low hourly cost. Dedicated full-time staff.
• Complete TEST-n-TAPE™ facilities for review of class lessons and supplementary materials.
• Small classes taught by skilled instructors.
• Opportunity to make up missed lessons.
• Voluminous home-study materials constantly updated by researchers expert in their field.
• Opportunity to transfer to and continue study at any of our over 80 centers.
GRE PSYCH • GRE BIO • MAT • PCAT • OCAT • VAT • TOEFL • NMB • VQE • ECFMG • FLEX • NDB • NLE • CPA • MSKP
Stanley H. KAPLAN EDUCATIONAL CENTER
TEST PREPARATION SPECIALISTS SINCE 1938
Call Days, Eves & Weekends
in Amherst
253 5108
264 N. Pleasant St
For Information About Other Centers Outside NY State
CALL TOLL FREE: 800-223-1782

OVERSEAS AUTO PARTS
For the most complete line of foreign auto parts and accessories in the Pioneer Valley.
Get an extra 10% off our low prices with this ad.
offer expires Nov. 15, 1980
API®
Zayre Shopping Plaza
Rt 9 Hadley, MA 01035
Tel 253-3403
authorized API distributor®

FLYING FEET OF AMHERST
INVENTORY CLEARANCE SALE!!
HUGE savings
up to 40% off
Store Hours: Mon. 10-6 Tues. Thurs. Fri. 10-8 Wed. 12-8 Sat. 10-6
175 University Drive Amherst 253-3354

TOP PRIORITY #3
No time for that important meeting? Why not a breakfast meeting at the TOC!
Complete breakfast $1.35-2.25
Top of the Campus Restaurant
For Reservations call 545-6000 X639

The rusty nail Inn
Thurs. Nov. 6
GEORGE THOROGOOD and THE DESTROYERS
Fri. Nov. 7
JAMES MONTGOMERY BAND
with special guests
FIRST RATE
Sat. Nov. 8
THE JAMES COTTON BAND
with special guests
FIRST RATE
Rt 47 Sunderland MA 665-4937

PRECISION HAIRCUTS

ALL FOR $6.00
with this coupon only
Includes:
FIRST—a professional consultation
SECOND—a precision style cut selected individually just for you
THIRD—our stylists will show you how to take care of your hair
With personal style, cut, shampoo and blow dry $9.50, long hair slightly more. With this coupon only, limited to new customers only.
we also have facials and manicures
Styles by Deborah I & II
65 University Drive
Amherst, MA
549-5610
62 Main Street
Easthampton, MA
527-2411

AMHERST TICS PRESENTS:
In Concert
Nina Kahle

CBS RECORDING ARTIST
Thursday, NOV. 6
8:15 pm
BUCKLEY RECITAL HALL, AMHERST COLLEGE
TICKET SALES:
DEAN OF STUDENTS OFFICE
CONVERSE HALL, AC
AT DOOR ONE HOUR BEFORE SHOW
$2

BlackAffairs

Cross Burning at Williams College

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass. AP — Police and Williams Colege authorities today sought to find the sheet-clad figures reportedly seen running from a burning cross near a building where black students partied the night after Halloween.

There were no leads so far, according to Ray Boyer, a spokesman for the exclusive liberal arts college which a year ago counted among its students the son of the late shah of Iran.

College officials offered a $1,000 reward for information leading to the culprits.

According to Boyer, a security guard inside Perry Hall noticed the 2½-foot wood cross - doused with gasoline - burning outside the dormitory Saturday night. The guard saw one or two sheet-clad figures running away but was unable to identify them, Boyer said.

The Black Student Union had held a party in a building next door that night.

More than 1,500 students and faculty members held a protest vigil Monday at the college dormitory where the cross was burned.

"The response was amazing when you think we only have 1,900 students," said Boyer. About 120 students are black, according to college officials.

"No use of the terrible symbolism of the fiery cross, whether seen as a thoughtless or insensitive prank or a malicious effort to intimidate will be tolerated on the campus," said John W. Chandler, the college president.

School administrators and black student leaders organized the rally.

"It was hard to believe this could happen - even harder to believe it could happen in an ivory tower," said student government president Darrell McWherter of Cincinnati.

"It would be even worse if it was a joke. No one who is black on this campus was laughing last night...," said McWherter, who is black.

"The students are angry and scared," said Chris Roosenraad, acting dean of the college.

Above: During Beautiful Fall Weather such as the kind we had last Friday; Beautiful couples such as Ray and Dories, take time together to enjoy it. (Photo by Barron Roland)

Gregory at S.U.B.

Professional comedian and social activist Dick Gregory will speak in the Student Union Ballroom Thursday as a guest of the Distinguished Visitor Program.

The speech will be open to University of Massachusetts students and faculty only, said Susan Chicchio of DVP.

Gregory will appear at 8 p.m. and will speak on "Social Problems: Social or Anti-Social?"

Gregory has been labelled a human rights activist, political analyst, social satirist, critic and comedican since breaking into the entertainment field in the early 1960's.

Gregory's outspoken viewpoints have cost him with at least two prison terms resulting from demonstrations he participated in. He also ran from the Chicago to Washington D.C., 800 miles, to emphasize the problem of world hunger.

His struggles for civil rights and persistent nonconformity have also cost him thousands of dollars in cancelled bookings, legal fees and transportations costs, according to a DVP news release.

The St. Louis born native was a state champion athlete in high school and college.

Gregory, a graduate of Malcolm X University, makes over 200 appearances annually at different college campuses across the nation.

Census Study: Blacks advance in the 70's

Black Americans chalked up important educational gains during the 1970's, particularly at the high school level, according to a new report from the U.S. Department of Commerce's Census Bureau.

One of the most dramatic gains involves Blacks with a high school education, the total of whom reached an all time high. In 1970, only 56 percent of Blacks 25 to 29 years old had completed high school. By the end of 1979, the percentage with high shcool diplomas in the same age category had risen to 75 percent.

The report notes that Blacks continued to make important gains in higher education. For example, the proportion with college degrees, among those 25 to 29 years old, increased from 7 percent in 1970 to more that 12 percent by the end of 1979. An even greater increase was noted for Blacks who had completed one year of college or more; the percentage of those age 25 to 29 rose sharply from 17 percent in 1970 to 31 percent by 1979.

Still, college education continued to be more common for Whites than Blacks. As the 1970's drew to a close, 17 percent of White 25 and over had completed 4 or more years of college compared with only 8 percent of Black adults.

The report has detailed tables showing educational attainment of the population by marital status, residence, and occupation as well as by age, sex and race.

Black Astronaut at UMass

Lt. Col. Frederick D. Gregory, NASA's first black astronaut, will speak at the CC auditorium on Nov. 6 at 12 p.m. Attending the Future Studies/World Futurists three-day conference The Next Millenium: The 20th Century, Gregory will give "An Astronaut's View of the Space Shuttle Operation."

Gregory also plans to attend several of the neighboring schools, including Amherst College where his father and grandfather are alumni.

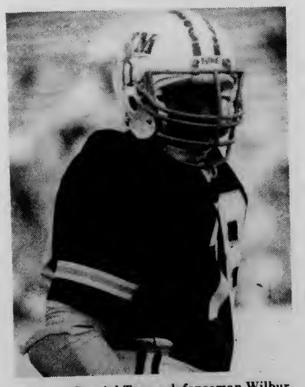
The Black Community will hold a reception for Gregory, this evening at 7:30 p.m. at New Africa House. Don't miss the change to meet this distinguished gentleman!

ETC.

Latees Muhammed will be the new barber and hair stylist at New Africa House, every Thursday from 10:00 to 7:00.

★ ★ ★

Spyro Gyra will be appearing at the John M. Greene Hall, at Smith College, on Saturday, November 8, 1980. For more info. contact the Smith College Rec Council at 584-2700 ext. 615.



Above: Special Teams defenseman Wilbur Jackson "watching is back" before the play. Wilbur is a second year varsity player on the UMass Minutemen football team. Incidently, we beat UConn 39-21; if UConn loses to B.U. there is a good chance for UMass to go to the playoffs. (Photo by Barron Roland)

Announcements

DRUM

You are invited to share in the interpretations of the Black experience. Contributions of poems, essays, fiction, art work and photography are now being accepted for the Fall 80-81 edition of Drum magazine. Address your submissions to: DRUM 115 New Africa House.

The deadline for submission is November 20.

Benefit jazz concert

The Massachusetts Black United Fund presents it's first annual benefit jazz concert, Saturday November 8th at 7:30 p.m. Berkeley Performance Center, Mass. Ave., Boston.

Come spend an evening with the masters, Max Roach, Jackie McLean, Donald Byrd and 125th St. along with Jacki Byard and John Neves.

Tickets available at Berkeley Performance Center or Mass. Black United Fund. (617) 536-0200. Proceeds to benefit the Mass. Black United Fund.

Women's Workshop

On Saturday Nov. 8th from 9 a.m. to 12 p.m. the Southwest Women's Center will be having a workshop on Third-World Women's views of the Womens Movement. All are welcome to attend and participate. For further information call 545-0626.

Basketball tournament

All men and women in the five college area interested in playing in the Afrik-Am Black Homecoming Basketball Tournament, please contact: Julian Tynes (546-7752), Segun Eubanks (546-7690), or Wilma Tynes/Liz Skelton (549-0074). The tournament will be held on Saturday, Nov. 15.

Latin music

A night of Latin and Brazilian Jazz Music. Pianist Jorge Dalto and his group "Chevere" will appear at Amherst College at 8:15 p.m. in the Buckley Recital Hall.

Chick Corea Gary Burton

Thursday, Nov. 6 at 8 p.m. an evening with Chick Corea and Gary Burton at the Fine Arts Center. Tickets are available at the Fine Arts Box Office between the hours of 12-4 p.m. Mon-Fri. Ticket prices are $10,9,8, general public. $9,8,7, senior citizens and $5,4.50,4, UMass Students.

LUTHER

By Brumsic Brandon, Jr.

A contact lens solution that won't soak you.

Barnes-Hind has made things a lot easier for the hard contact lens wearer in four important areas: cleaning, wetting, soaking and paying. Our One Solution puts all the important maintenance functions into one convenient formulation. It gives you a nice little price break, too. So try our One Solution. And enjoy the luxury of carrying two less bottles around with you. And fifty more cents.

50¢ 50¢

Save 50¢ on Barnes-Hind One Solution.

Available at most college book stores and drug retailers.

To the retailer: Barnes-Hind will reimburse you for the face value of this coupon plus 5¢ for handling if you receive it on the sale of the specified product and if upon request you submit evidence thereof satisfactorily to Barnes-Hind. Coupon may not be assigned or transferred. Customer must pay any sales tax. Void where prohibited, taxed or restricted by law. Good only in U.S.A. Cash value 1/20¢. Coupon will not be honored if presented through outside agencies, broker or others who are not retail distributors of our merchandise or specifically authorized by us to present coupons for redemption. For redemption of properly received and handled coupon, mail to: Barnes-Hind Pharmaceuticals, Inc. P.O. Box 531, Sunnyvale, California 94086. Offer expires March 31, 1981. Limit: one coupon per purchase. This coupon good only on purchase of product indicated. Any other use constitutes fraud.

BLUE WALL campus center at u mass

ALL AGES WELCOME

At The Hatch Bar

Thursday Nov. 6th

JOHN COSTER & the Medicine Band

"Northern Rock and Roll"

FREE

In Association with UPC Productions

Friday, Nov. 7th

The Shaboo All Stars

featuring Matt "Guitar" Murphy (of the Blues Brothers)

$3.00 cover charge

In Association with UPC Productions

Saturday, Nov. 8th

Arista Recording Artists

THE ELEVATORS

$2.00 cover charge

In Association with UPC Productions

Due to renovations, the Bluewall Beverage Service is temporarily located in the Hatch Cafeteria in the Student Union Building.

TOC sticker & valid ID required to purchase alcohol.

Foreign Book Sale

at the University Store's

Textbook Annex

9:00 AM to 4:00 PM

Nov 4 - Nov 9 only

Up to 50% off overstocked titles from previous semesters.

FRENCH SPANISH ITALIAN GERMAN GREEK LATIN

The Distinguished Visitors Program presents

DICK GREGORY

Human Rights Activist/Social Satirist

speaking on:

"Social Problems: Social or Anti-Social?"

Thursday, Nov. 6, 1980

8 PM Student Union Ballroom

Admission is Free

U.Mass Student w/I.D. only

Eric Binford lives for the movies...

Sometimes he kills for them, too!

DENNIS CHRISTOPHER in FADE TO BLACK

IRWIN YABLANS and SYLVIO TABET present

A LEISURE INVESTMENT COMPANY & MOVIE VENTURERS LTD. PRODUCTION

DENNIS CHRISTOPHER in "FADE TO BLACK" starring TIM THOMERSON, NORMANN BURTON, MORGAN PAULL, GWYNNE GILFORD, EVE BRENT ASHE and JAMES LUISI

and introducing LINDA KERRIDGE director of photography ALEX PHILLIPS, JR. A.S.C. music by CRAIG SAFAN

executive producers IRWIN YABLANS and SYLVIO TABET produced by GEORGE G. BRAUNSTEIN and RON HAMADY associate producer JOSEPH WOLF written and directed by VERNON ZIMMERMAN

R RESTRICTED

AN AMERICAN CINEMA RELEASE © 1980 American Communications Industries, Inc. All rights reserved.

Opening Soon At A Theatre Near You

Editorial/Opinion

Sexual Harassment

A professor propositions a student. She is just about to graduate. She has taken her law boards. She cannot fail in any course. The competition to get into law school is too fierce. What should she do?

The choice is to compromise her values or fail the course and possibly lose her chance of going to law school. There is no choice.

Sexual harassment occurs when an individual in authority exercises or attempts to exercise that authority and power to control, influence or affect the academic success or future career of a student in exchange for sexual favors. Its devastating effects are most often felt by women because, historically, men have held most positions of power.

Sexual harassment is not a problem confined to university communities but is also widespread in the spheres of business and government. Forty-two percent of the women in Federal jobs have reported incidents of sexual harassment. The sexual harassment of female graduate students was documented in a graduate student's survey last year as an extensive problem at this university. Sixty percent of the women surveyed have experienced milder forms of sexual harassment: leering, comments, physical contact, passes, or explicit propositions. Thirty-one out of 356 respondents (8.7 percent), reported severe forms of sexual harassment: coercion or pressure. The occurence of sexual harassment is not limited to graduate classrooms alone. It extends to all levels of instruction here at the university.

Without an effective means of curbing harassment by professors, grades for many women are no longer a measure of intellectual ability. Professors wield a great deal of power, their words often will determine our futures. This is particularly true for graduate students in seminars. Their grades are totally dependent on the votes of a panel of professors. With our futures at stake grades take on an inflated value.

This kind of manipulation is not confined to the classroom alone. An employee in the dorms takes a peek in the showers while he is working. He is caught and moved to another dorm where he can peek at someone else. Where is the university's sensitivity to this issue?

What can women do to defend themselves? How can they determine the course of their future for what is at stake here is just that: a woman's right to determine her own future. Women should have the right to be treated as human beings without having their sexuality exploited.

A solution to sexual harassment must begin with a growing public awareness that this is not an acceptable form of behavior or a matter to be made light of—it is an offense worthy of prosecution and punishment. Recognizing the frequency and severity of this problem on campus, Students Against Sexual Harassment (SASH) formed to better educate ourselves and others and to develop a means of redressing harassment through state legislation and a university grievance procedure. We serve as a support and advisory group for women who have been harassed and as advocates for women who want to pursue a complaint. We urge women to report old and new instances of sexual harassment to us (we offer complete confidentiality).

Legislation prohibiting sexual harassment was introduced last year into the state legislature. Due to a lack of public pressure on key legislatures, the bill died in committee before reaching the floor for a vote, but the publicity generated by the many groups advocating the bill did a great deal to raise public awareness. (A new bill will be introduced in the next legislative session.)

A grievance procedure is in its final stages of drafting and steps are being taken to have it approved and implemented by the administration. Without a procedure, the administration leaves us unprotected, we need a standing grievance board to receive and investigate complaints of sexual harassment. The university should be a place where a tolerable atmosphere for learning is guaranteed, in the policies of the university, for all its students.

SASH wants to provide an arena that focuses on a problem that we've been taught to keep quiet about. We plan to run workshops that will create a non-threatening atmosphere where we can clearly define sexual harassment or perhaps recognize incidences that we were unaware, or only vaguely aware of before. The workshop will provide a supportive environment in which people can discuss personal experiences. In addition, information about counseling will be available, and we will collectively explore steps to be taken in redressing the problem.

In the near future, there will be workshops given in dorms, sororities, and at House Council meetings. SASH also plans to hold workshops in the Campus Center to be open to the general public and we are willing to do workshops for any group who requests one.

Ellen Ginsberg, Linda Cohen, and Cathy Butler are members of Students Against Sexual Harassment

Linda Cohen
Ellen Ginsberg
Cathy Butler

A dream turns to nightmare

The "mood of the nation," in 1972, was...ovewhelmingly vengeful, greedy, bigoted, and blindly reactionary...the Silent Majority was so deep in the behavioral sink that...all they wanted in the White House was a man who would leave them alone and do anything necessary to bring calmness back into their lives—even if it meant turning the whole state of Nevada into a concentration camp for hippies, niggers, dope fiends, do-gooders, and anyone else who might threaten the status quo.

—Hunter S. Thomson

The two real political parties in America are the Winners and the Losers. The people do not acknowledge this. They claim membership in two imaginary parties, the Republicans and Democrats, instead...Losers can join imaginary parties.

Losers have thousands of religions...The single religion of the winners is a harsh interpretation of Darwinism, which argues that it is the will of the universe that only the fittest should survive...

But you must know in your heart what every Winner knows: that one must behave heartlessly toward losers, if one hopes to survive...

All the rest was hokum...

The Nixon-Kissinger scheme, the Winners' scheme...for lasting world peace is simple. Its basic axion is to be followed by individuals as well as by great nations, by losers and winners alike. We have demonstrated the workability of the axion in Vietnam, in Bangladesh, in Biafra, in Palestinian refugee camps, in our own ghettos, in our migrant labor camps, on our Indian reservations, in our institutions for the defective, the deformed and the aged.

This is it: ignore agony.

—Kurt Vonnegut

Letters

Halloween weekend successful because of community cooperation

To the Editor:

With Halloween now behind us for another year, I want to take a moment to comment on the event itself and our response as a community.

As many of you already know, our planning for Halloween was remarkably successful: With only minor exception, the campus was quiet and people enjoyed themselves without the kind of destructive behavior which occurred in the two previous Halloweens. Arrests and damage were substantially reduced, and the number of outsiders on campus was quite low.

Of course, the weekend was not entirely without incident. Some members of the community did behave in a manner which posed a threat to themselves and others, and their final reckoning will come in court or in the University's discipline process. The vast majority of students had a good time without crossing the bounds of civilized behavior.

I was most impressed by two phenomena. First, the remarkable inventiveness and creativity displayed in the costumes which appeared in every corner of campus are a tribute to our student body. Second, and more important, is the cooperation among students and staff which made our success possible. We all recognized the seriousness of the problem, and we all contributed to the common effort.

I would like to take special note of the contributions of the student and professional residence hall staff; the residence hall security staff; the Department of Public Safety; the Offices of Housing Administration and Residential Life; University Health Services; Environmental Health and Safety; and Physical Plant. We owe a special debt to the hundreds of fraternity and sorority members who turned out on Saturday morning to clean up the worst of the trash and litter on campus. Finally, the concern demonstrated by the Collegian editorial board and student government leaders was particularly valuable.

I frequently point out that the University is a better institution than many believe. It is especially gratifying when we go out and prove it.

Henry Koffler
Chancellor

Plea for programming for future Halloweens

To the Editor:

Thankfully, this past Halloween weekend was a quiet one in comparison to those of years past. As a result of the decreased violence and vandalism many administration officials and students are claiming "victory" over the problems that have plagued the campus in yesteryear. This is incorrect.

In the years to come, the Campus Center must be allowed to stay open. To do this, greater communication and understanding must be achieved between the administration and the student body. If this does not occur, students will become increasingly disappointed with the lack of programming and the continued closing of the Campus Center, all of which will lead many to feel disenchanted and resentful with the University and its actions.

Above all, it is the realization that we must work together as a whole in order to find acceptable solutions to the problems we all face here at the university. Certainly these problems will continue to exist if the students and adminstration alike don't realize their interdependence upon each other. I make this plea with the hope that in the future adequate programming will be allowed over the Halloween weekend, and that the forfeiture of student access to campus based buildings does not continue.

Matt Doyle
Amherst

Collegian

BOARD OF EDITORS

ROBERT E. STEIN, Editor-in-Chief, FRANT BASCHE, Managing Editor; JEF FREY P. BIANCHI, Graphics Manager; JONATHAN KLEIN, Business Manager; ERIC H. JANSZEN, Executive Editor, RICHARD NAGLE and JAMES MAHONEY, News Editors; JANE DeVIRGILIO, Women's Editor; JIM MORAN, Arts Editor; KAREN THOMAS, Black Affairs Editor; DONNA SULLIVAN and JONATHAN HAMILTON, Sports Editors; PAUL PRICE, Photo Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

ANDREA ATKINS, CATHERINE CLABBY, JIM KANE, ED LEVINE, GAYLE YOUNG, Associate Managing Editors; BOB CARR, Associate Graphics Manager; JOE GANNON, Associate Executive Editor, NANCY ANDERSON, Associate News Editor, LILLIAN SINGER, Associate Women's Editor, MARY KINNEAVY, Associate Arts Editor, JOYCE McLAURIN, Associate Black Affairs Editor; NANCY NUTILE, Associate Photo Editor.

BUSINESS STAFF

KATHRYN KRESS, Advertising Manager, VICKI EGGERT, Finance Manager, JOSEPH RADLEY, Circulation Manager, MICHELLE SILVERSTEIN and JAY N. LUSTIG, Assistant Advertising Managers.

The Collegian is the newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons and letters represent the personal views of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertisements lies with the individual advertisers.

USPS 333-220

Career Day

Real estate offers business opportunities

"Real estate offers so many ways of making a living that if you don't like one facet of it, you'll find another to fit your personal needs," said Muarial Satlawa, of the Satlawa Real Estate Company of Holyoke speaking before a group of 30 business students during yesterday's Career Day '80.

"There's no difference in the earnings that men and women receive in this business," said Satlawa. "Twenty years ago there were many men who wouldn't buy a piece of property from a woman, but all of that has changed, she said.

Satlawa described real estate as a challenging, lucrative, and creative field, that provides opportunities for people who enjoy working with others, and have an interest in sales.

Satlawa said the appraisal field "is a specialieed field where commissions range from $50 for a quick appraisal to thousands of dollars for a in depth evaluation."

Appraisals are needed when selling real estate, evaluating an estate, during a divorce settlement, and during the taking of eminent domain, when an individual's property is needed for community development and they must be justly compensated, said Satlawa.

Satlawa has been in the real estate business for 21 years. In that time, she said, "Real estate has never gone down. No one is making more land so what we have is appreciating, and it will continue to appreciate."

"In real estate there is no ceiling on how much you can earn. It is a highly specialized field providing a steady income," she said.

Satlawa said it is an innate desire to own your own home. It's always a challenge "to find the right home for the right buyer," she said.

★ Elections

continued from page 1

and of course I accept that decision, although not with the same enthusiasm I accepted it four years ago."

In that 1976 election, Carter narrowly ousted Republican President Gerald R. Ford. It took all night to settle that contest. This time, Carter had conceded the outcome and was offstage by 10 p.m. EST.

The president-elect was at a private dinner with friends when Carter delivered his concession statement at what was supposed to have been a victory rally. An aide said Carter had telephoned him earlier, "conceded the election, wished him well, and offered his assistance during the transition."

Anderson had also phoned Reagan his congratulations.

Carter had known that his White House days probably were numbered.

Carter discussed the situation early last night in telephone calls across the White House to the office of press secretary Jody Powell, who was heard to say, "Mr. President, you'd better wait a few minutes more." He waited about two hours.

His concession statement had been prepared by early evening, for the Carter inner circle knew it was over.

★ Career Day

continued from page 4

Harris stressed that in order to manage a company a business person must first be able to manage himself. When this is accomplished the business person can then set up the objectives to manage a company, he said.

Students were able to meet with company representatives at a reception in the Campus Center at the end of the day's programs.

Company representatives commented on Career Day '80. One representative said, "this program was an invaluable experience for any prospective business person. I was extremely impressed with the professional atmosphere of the program."

SUPERIOR PIZZERIA
UMass Favorite Pizza

10 & 16 INCH PIZZAS
ALL COMBINATIONS - LARGE & SMALL
DAILY 11 A.M. TILL ?
HOT OVEN GRINDER!
STEAK GRINDERS
SPAGHETTI · LASAGNA · RAVIOLI
MANICOTTI · STUFFED SHELLS
GREEK SALAD
NEXT TO THE NORTH AMHERST POST OFFICE
COMPLETE TAKE OUT SERVICE
FREE DELIVERY
FOR FAST SERVICE
Call 549-0626
17 B MONTAGUE RD AMHERST

Valley Light Opera presents
Gilberts & Sullivan's
"The Gondoliers"
Nov. 7, 8, 14, 15 8:15 p.m.
Nov. 9 2:15 p.m.
THE GONDOLIERS
VALLEY LIGHT OPERA 1980
$5.00 Adults
$2.50 Students & Senior Citizens
Amherst Regional High School
Triangle Street, Amherst
Tickets at the Jones Library in Amherst
Nov 3-14 9 a.m.-5 p.m. and at the door
All Seats Reserved
For more information please call 549-2800

RESUME
NAME: Paper House
ADDRESS: 65 University Drive, Amherst (next to Bell's Pizza)
PHONE: 549-5656
OBJECTIVE: We will print the best resume for you on the best paper (w/matching paper and envelopes.)
EXPERIENCE: We produce hundreds of high quality resumes that get jobs.
OTHER INTERESTS: Typing, graphics, copies (1 to 10,000 or more) of newsletters, posters, etc., notebooks, chartpak, and a tremendous paper selection.

amc THEATRES
ADULTS $2.75 TIMES SHOWN FOR TODAY ONLY
HAMPSHIRE 4
$64-7550 HAMP. MALL ON CAFE SQ.—RT. 9, HADLEY, MASS.
DONALD SUTHERLAND Ordinary People R (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15
LOVING COUPLES PG (6:15 @ $1.75) 8:30
HOPSCOTCH R (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:15
THE FIRST DEADLY SIN R (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30
Dinner and Movie only $5.50 Have your choice of 5 different meals at the Pewter Pot Rest at the Hampshire Mall and see one of the eight movies in this ad for only $5.50 (Sun-Thur only)
Shoppers Show Movie FREE! Thursdays at 1:00 pm Nov.6 Just You and Me Kid with George Burns
MOUNTAIN FARMS 4
584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9-HADLEY, MASS
GOLDIE HAWN in PRIVATE BENJAMIN R (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30
CHARLTON HESTON SUSANNAH YORK THE AWAKENING R (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:15
JILL CLAYBURGH It's My Turn R (6:15 @ $1.75) 8:30
ANTHONY HOPKINS THE ELEPHANT MAN PG (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15

Smith College Rec Council
Presents

SPYRO GYRA
Saturday Nov.8, 1980
8 p.m.
John M. Greene
Smith College
General Admission $5.00
$6.00 at the door
Tickets available at
For the Record - Amherst
Platterpus - Northampton
Main St. Records - Northampton
no cans or bottles, please

How to stretch your college dollars.

You don't have to be a math genius to figure it out. Basic money management and careful budgeting are two very effective ways to keep from feeling the pinch when money gets tight. And we'll tell you how to do just that, and more, in our next issue of "Insider," the free supplement to your college newspaper from Ford.

We'll explain how to meet the high cost of tuition through scholarships and student loans. We'll set up guidelines for developing your own personal finance system . . . like custom tailoring a budget . . . choosing and maintaining a checking account . . . and obtaining and using credit wisely. And we'll offer tips on how to stick to those budgets. With info on where to live, and how to get the best buys on food, entertainment, clothing, travel, textbooks, stereos, and more. Then we'll tell you how to be sure you're getting what you pay for. And how to complain when you don't.

Check it out. You'll find some great tips on how to stretch your college dollars. And who knows, you may even discover being frugal can be fun!

Also be sure to check out Ford's exciting new 1981 lineup, including Escort. The front-wheel drive car that's built to take on the world. With Escort you'll find some great ways to multiply your fun.

Look for "Insider"—Ford's continuing series of college newspaper supplements.

FORD
FORD DIVISION

SEAGRAM'S '7' CROWN 11.29
80 Proof 1.75 Liter (59.2 oz)

BACARDI RUM 10.89
80 Proof, 1.75 Liter (59.2 oz)
JIM BEAM BOURBON 10.29
80 Proof, 1.75 Liter (59.2 oz)
SANDY SCOTT SCOTCH 11.99
86 Proof, 1.75 Liter (59.2 oz)
COFFEE LIQUEUR 6.99
KAMORA, 53 Proof, 750 ML Btl.
CINZANO VERMOUTH 2.99
750 ML Bottle
CINZANO ASTI-SPUMANTI 750 ML 5.99
LABATT'S ALE & BEER 9.49
24-12 oz N.R. Bottles
PIELS LIGHT LAGER BEER 24-12 oz N.R. Btls. 4.79
FALSTAFF PREMIUM Beer, 24-12 oz Cans 5.09
HEINEKEN'S LIGHT & DARK Beer, 24-12 oz N.R. Bottles 12.99

WINE of the MONTH
Chateau Lauretan Bordeaux Superieur
From the house of Cordier Lauretan is given the same care as the more famous Cordier properties. Chateau Lauretan is made primarily from the Cabernet Sauvignon grape. the wine is soft, delicate and with enough tannins to age gracefully for the next few years
Joe Hyder, Wine Consultant
1-Liter Bottle 2.99
Case of 12 32.89

SALE STARTS MON., NOV. 3 THRU SAT., NOV. 8, 1980
Not responsible for typographical errors. We reserve the right to limit quantities.

PLAN AHEAD
IT'S NOT TOO EARLY TO START STOCKING UP FOR THE HOLIDAYS, AND BIG 'Y'S WEEKLY SPECIALS WILL HELP YOU SAVE EVEN MORE FOR A HAPPIER HOLIDAY!

d'amour's BIG WINES & LIQUORS supermarkets
3 Convenient Locations...All Next To Big 'Y'
Northampton ..... KING ST., ROUTE 5, HAMP PLAZA
Springfield ..... BRECKWOOD BLVD. & WILBRAHAM RD.
Chicopee ..... ROUTE 33 MEMORIAL DR., FAIRVIEW

WINES of MARGAUX

Chateau Margaux, 1976	$42.00	Chateau Brane Cantenac, 1973	$9.99
Chateau Margaux, 1975	$47.99	Chateau Brane Cantenac, 1970	$21.99
Chateau Margaux, 1971	$24.50	Chateau Brane Cantenac, 1971	$15.99
Chateau Margaux, 1967	$24.50	Chateau Brane Cantenac, 1975	$20.00
Chateau Palmer, 1976	$17.99	Chateau Marsac Seguineau, 1975	$6.99
Chateau Palmer, 1974	$18.99	Chateau Marsac Seguineau, 1966	$18.99
Chateau Palmer, 1966	$74.99	Chateau Durfort Vivens, 1975	$11.50
Chateau D'Angludet, 1975	$11.99	Chateau Margaux, 1959	$149.00
Chateau D'Angludet, 1976	$8.99	Chateau Lascombes, 1959	$35.00
Chateau D'Angludet, 1978 (Magnum)	$29.99	Chateau Lascombes, 1975	$17.99
Chateau Giscours, 1973	$7.58	Chateau Margaux, 1966	$99.00
Chateau Giscours, 1974 (Magnum)	$19.99	Chateau Margaux, 1934	$219.00
Chateau Durfort Vivens, 1971	$14.99	Chateau Cantenac Brown, 1900	$225.00
Chateau Boyd Cantenac, '70 (Magnum)	$38.00	Chateau Margaux, 1961	$199.99
Chateau Siran, 1971 (Magnum)	$29.00

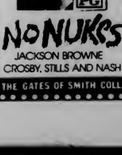
Got some-thing on your mind? Let people know in a letter to the Editor

PSYCHOTHERAPY
Individuals, couples, families. Sliding fee scale.
Psychological Services Center
545-0041

KACO VILLA
Wholesome Inexpensive Refreshing Change
Downtown Amherst
Mon (Cash Anyone)
Fri + Sat 11-12 am
Sun-Thurs 11-?

Space Invaders
OFFICIAL T-SHIRT
WHITE ON BLACK ONLY
S-M-L-XL Quality 50/50 Silk Screened by hand
Send Check, Cash, Money Order
$5.95 + .75 Shipping and Handling
(CO Inc)
WIZ KIDS
P.O. Box 1074, Brewster, MA 02631
A GREAT XMAS PRESENT
PROMPT DELIVERY
DISTRIBUTOR INQUIRIES WELCOME

ACADEMY of MUSIC
Northampton, Mass.
Limited Showing Now, Ends Tues. at 7:00 and 9:00
"'No Nukes' knocks your socks off."
— Rolling Stone



PG
NO NUKES
JACKSON BROWNE
CROSBY, STILLS AND NASH
AT THE GATES OF SMITH COLLEGE

ALL PHASES OF HAIRCARE
expert haircutting
permanent waving
haircoloring and hennas
Regency Hairstylists
189 North Pleasant Street Amherst
253-9526
apprentice haircutters available
drop in! we will show you how to french braid

BARSELOTTI'S
Whoop & Holler Night
nine till closing
16 oz. Knick & Shot $1.25
Downtown Amherst

The Umass Music Theater Guild Presents:
The Broadway Musical
"ON THE TOWN"
Music by Leonard Bernstein
Thurs, Fri, Sat, Nov. 6, 7, 8 and 13, 14, 15
All Performances: 8 P.M. Students $2.50
Bowker Auditorium Gen Admission $3.00
Special Discount Preview
Thursday Nov. 6, $1.00 off all ticket prices
Tickets now on sale at the Bowker Box Office
or phone reservation by calling 545-0783

UNIVERSITY COOP PHOTO
RAFFLE for a
CANON AE-1 !
November 3 -14
Tickets 3/$1
C.C. Concourse &
Photo Coop

The PUB MUGS Are In!
Wednesday Nights 9-1
25¢ Beers
THE PUB
15 East Pleasant St.
AMHERST
THE PUB
EATING & DRINKING
AMHERST

Jack Green's first solo album "Humanesque" lacking essentials

Jack Green
Humanesque (RCA)

By RON MILLER
Collegian Staff

"Humanesque" is Jack Green's first solo album and, for everyone's sake, I hope it's his last. This album is lacking one essential ingredient: talent. The material is a collection of boring, redundant, pseudo-new wave garbage.

Although Jack Green's name isn't a household word, he has been around. With a resume that includes stints as guitarist with T. Rex and the Pretty Things, I thought this album had hope, but after repeated listenings I've not found one song that catches my attention.

Green's strategy appears to be to turn up the bass and write some mindless lyrics no matter how ridiculous they sound. The album opens with a tune called "Murder," highlighted by classic lines like: "Somebody call somebody/There's gonna be a murder right here." It makes little sense and isn't saved by the melody.

The next song, "So Much," includes one of the few bright moments on this dull album—a guitar solo, which incidentally is not performed by Green. Although he appears

turn to page 13

Records

Racquetballs, Squashballs and Tennis Balls at A.J. HASTINGS
Newsdealer and Stationer
45 S. Pleasant, Amherst

THE GRADUATE
starring
Dustin Hoffman
Anne Bancroft
Katherine Ross
WED, NOV. 5
7 PM, 9 PM, 11 PM

IT'S COMING
THE GREAT SKI SNATCH
NOV 19-22 S.U.D.

SKYDIVING
THE ULTIMATE HIGH
Flying..... the Body & the Mind
FIRST JUMP COURSES
Wed., Nov. 5, 7:00 p.m., C.C. 178
Thur., Nov. 13, 7:00 p.m., C.C. 902
Thur., Nov. 20, 7:00 p.m., C.C. 902
Bring I.D. and $75.
Jump with the U.M. Sport Parachute Club

TASTE THE BEER THAT OUTSELLS MOLSON GOLDEN IN CANADA: LABATT'S.
Good news!
Labatt's, Canada's No. 1 selling beer, is now imported to the U.S.
So, now it's easier to compare the taste of our Labatt's with the brew of our friendly competitor.
See what you think.
We, like most other Canadians, prefer a bottle of Labatt's Beer over a Golden.
If we didn't, we'd likely be drinking Molson® instead—and we certainly wouldn't be running this ad.
THINK OF CANADA
THINK OF LABATT'S
© Labatt Importers, Inc., Amherst, N.Y. 1980
P.S. The green Labatt's bottle comes equipped with one of those twist-off tops—which can be rather handy especially whilst one is otherwise engaged.

PRESERVATION HALL JAZZ BAND with KID THOMAS
THE EFFECT UPON THE AUDIENCE IS DEVASTATING
One Performance Only
Sunday, November 16 7:30 PM
Springfield Symphony Hall
Seats: $9.50 $8.50 $7.50
Tickets at THE CENTER Box Office,
1277 Main St., all TICKETRON OUTLETS, or PHONECHARGE (413) 787-6600
A Springfield Attractions Inc. Presentation

THE UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AT AMHERST
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
and the University Arts Council present the Minnesota Orchestra
TONIGHT
Neville Marriner, Music Director
WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 1980 8 PM
Tickets now on sale at the Fine Arts Center Box Office (M-F, non-4 pm) Phone reservations accepted through Monday, Nov. 3. (413-545-2511)
$9, 8, 7 General Public
$8, 7, 6 Senior Citizens
$4.50, 4, 3.50 UMass Students

Collegian Classifieds

• Come to Collegian Office CC 113 • 8:45-3:45 Monday - Friday • Deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day • 15c per word • Student rate 10c per word • Cash in advance • 5 consecutive days 5% discount • Phone number FREE

AUDIO

Phase Linear Mark V Speakers wxc. cond. only 2 mo old need $ $650— or BO Bill 546-5835 anytime

Discount Stereo Equipment: Campus Sounds has everyday sale prices on over 100 top brands-all fully guaranteed!-Will beat any competitor's price! Call Eric @ 546-1147 (try again after 11 p.m.)

Stereo Console w/turntable AM/FM radio cassette player $125.00 firm 549-6988 aft 9 PM good cond

AUTO FOR SALE

Ford Galaxie 1966 excellent condition $400 or BO 549-4635

1968 Volvo Wagon good condition rebuilt engine 1200 BO Joe 546-7924

68 Cougar good condition best offer over $450 call Jim 549-6321

Capri 1976 standard, black, 39000 miles, very good condition, new batteries and brakes, no rust, must sell-leaving the country $2580 Carlos 584-4185 (Hadley)

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITY

Opportunity to earn $18,000/yr by May working 10-12 hrs/wk Find out how YOU can do it for appointment call 549-1172

DISC JOCKEY

Have a Great Party!! Hire Quality Disc Jockeys Denis 546-6249 Andy 546-1164

ENTERTAINMENT

Soundsystem and DJ for hire perfect for band parties coffeehouses Rick 584-4105

FOR RENT

Room near campus 95/month, no pets. Anna 549-0363 evenings Leave message

Rooms for rent So. Deerfield bus available 665-7093

FOR SALE

Gift Idea: Portrait Drawings; call dennis Delap 665-2972

TRS-80 48K or 16K System must sell mint condition call for details 546-7050

F kpack new cost $150, sell for $100 will bri. to Campus 1-684-3121, 1-442-6023

Moving, must sell 1970 Valiant runs well, $1200.00 Yamaha 12-string guitar, $200 or BO furniture 253-3101

Single bed $40 Carol 549-[illegible]*40 after 5

1966 Buick Wildcat PS, PB, PW, AT, snows 300 or BO 323-7774 Rick

73 Gremlin 600.00 or best offer call 584-7094 after 7 PM

Mattress/sofa Queensize futon with pillow. Both have slipcovers All 100% cotton. 1 month old $175 253-2427

Electric Guitar Gibson SG tune-o-matic bridge, grover pegs, hardshell case. Mint condition. $450. (neg) Chris 546-7809

Mag Wheels 14x6 for most GM cars call Phil 546-6675

Bass Guitar-Gibson Grabber details call Guy 546-9189 Give my baby a home

Bruce Springsteen Jim Morrison silkscreens back in stock 6-8581

3-yr old Pacific Trail 100% down jacket no holes or stains; $30 call eves; 665-7134

Hockey Equipment: Goalie stick and catch gloves; shoulder and chest pads take all for $60 Keith 665-4914

Wristwatches; namebrands $110-160 retail ½ price

Springsteen Tickets For Sale 12/15 show at Boston Garden. Call 546-7979

FOUND

Found Student ID's 3793026 and 7562644 claim at SGA Presidents Office 406E Student Union

Found: Administrative theory notebok on soap opera couches call Karen 256-5274

Found: Womens down vest outside of Crampton on Halloween. For return, call with description bet. 10 and midnite 253-5643

HELP WANTED

Wanted part-time radiology technician for multi-specialty group practice please call 256-8561 ext 248 M-F 8 am-4 pm

Cruises—Club Mediterranean, Sailing, Expeditions! Needed: Sports Instructors, Office Personnel, Counselors, Europe, Carribean, Worldwide! Summer. Career. Send $5.95 + $1 handling for application OPENINGS, GUIDE to CRUISEWORLD 16160129, Sacramento, Ca. 95860

Newspaper Deliverer wanted Mornings 6:00 AM to 8:00 AM Must have car Call 549-5059

Certifield CPR instructor wanted to co-teach CPR (BLS) at UMass Anyone certified call 546-3296 keep trying!

Part-time Driver with own van or station wagon for self-help group of mentally retarded adults. Monday eves. Wage & mileage. Call Association for Retarded Citizens 586-0109

Collectively-Run Bookstore now hiring. For application and further details, call or visit our new store today--Food For Thought, 67 N. Pleasant St., Amherst Center 253-5432

INSTRUCTION

English Classes (ESL) Elementary, Intermediate. Two hours an afternoon, except Wednesday. Faculty/student spouses, visitors, immigrants. People's Institute, Northampton. 584-3956 NLI, P.O. Box 34, Northampton

Hypnosis Speed reading Rm 909 Campus Center Nov 12, 13 at 7 PM all welcome KR Morse 532-5703

COBOL Tutor professional experience call 665-4722 6 PM to 10 PM reasonable rates!

INTERNSHIPS AVAILABLE

Legal Assistant Interns Wanted: The Legal Services Office has 8 positions available for full-time legal assistant interns for the Spring 1981 semester. Up to fifteen credits may be earned through Office of Internships. Legal assistants assist attorneys of the LSO with client interviewing, investigations, legal research, negotiations, giving advice and referrals, preparation of court forms, and attendance at hearings in District and Superior Courts, and participation in administrative hearings and federal litigation. Maintain continuing case load under supervision of attorneys. Applications available at Office of Internships, Curry Hicks Building, and inquire further at Legal Services Office, 922 Campus center. Applicationsdue November 7, 1980 at Office of Internships. Writing sample required. All third world and women students are encouraged to apply.

LEGAL SERVICES

Attorney Robert Astor Criminal matters, domestic relations, real estate. Reasonable rates. 584-4369

LOST

Nova Owners I hitched back to Boston on Friday Oct. 10 I left a brown and tan reversible jacket in your car call 6-7470

Lost keys—Sat nite wall across from Thoreau Reward 6-7451

Friday, sharp thin-line calculator near Hasbrouck parking lot Ray 323-4874

Icelandic Brown Sweater on Friday btw Whitmore and SBA great sentimental value please call 546-7064

Lost - small brass sword, substantial reward. Lost downtown Amherst Halloween night. Steve L. 545-0731, 549-0627

Small gold double-chain bracelet Sun, 11/2, around SBA or Newman Ctr. great sentimental value. Reward if found please call Cindy @ 545-0527

Bursar's Check and receipts payment already stopped, reward please call Amy 6-5855

MORNING SUNSHINE!

Morning Sunshine - Call Me

MOTORCYCLES

Kawasaki 500 3 cyl. 1976 excellent cond. helmet steal $700 John 665-4395

PERSONALS

Undergrad Pol. Sci. Assoc. interested in becoming member? Sign-up Rm 422 Thompson

What do you think of your department, school or college? This is your chance to let the rest of the world know! Have your opinion published in the 1981 yearbook. See Maureen at the Index office, room 103 CC, or call 545-0848 and leave your name and phone number

There's nothing exactly like this. .anywhere! Send your favorite snapshots, magazine picture, drawing. . .anything! We'll customize it into a beautiful 2 3/8" key-chain button, or pin backed button, (specify) Your personalized memento $3.00 p.p.d. T.G.R. Enterprises 2900 Griffin Road Suite #5 Fort Lauderdale, Florida 33312 + ask for giant "slogan" catalog!!

UMass Photo Co-op Raffle 1st prize Canon AE-1 Nov 3-14 CC Concourse

Layout person needed for Thursday nights at the Collegian. If you applied earlier come down again. Talk to Fran Basche

Assistant Managing Editors: meeting this Friday. Check with Fran

Dale we're not taking off Friday unless you are completely recovered C.M.

Life is a lust-filled affair on Gorman 4. wacka-wacka, how's that Sheelah?

Dana - When are you going to stop trying to get me.

Pork'em now you're legal, Happy Birthday! From JU, JW, PT, JL, TS, SL, GB, and SK

Nos amie Donna, Have a great one while you can, it may be too late, but you tried. Keep it flashing always, don't forget we love you! Happy Birthday! Love Steve and Viv

JQA staff and security - thanks for th great job las tweekend The HR's

To the Lower Central staff Great Job done over Halloween weekend we all appreciated it Sharon

Looking for 3 bedroom apt. will take over January 1st Please call 6-7441

404C1—Happy "Guy Fawkes Day" Birthday! Have a safe trip south. Love, 404C2

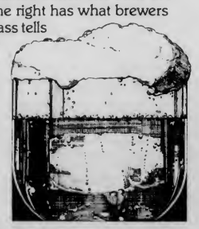
To the handsome stud on the track team you impove with age! —L.G.

Happy 20th Tim & Wash ½ ½ ½

Which beer tasted better?

An impossible question?

No. The answer is, the beer on the right tasted better. The suds are the tipoff. The head lacing the glass on the right has what brewers call "cling." Its tendency to cling to the glass tells you that the brewer didn't skimp on the hops. And that it tasted better.



Ever taste a beer with no "hop" to it?

Hops give a beer its zing. Too little hops leaves a beer lifeless. Too much hops makes a beer bite.

But choose a beer with the right proportion of hops to barley malt, and your beer will be lively and refreshing. Yet, still go down nice and smooth.

Does your beer have "cling?"

To check for "cling," you need a glass that's "beer clean." (Never used for milk or soft drinks, never washed in soap.*)

Pour your beer down the center of the glass to form a 3/4 inch head. See if it leaves rings of foam as you drink. But don't stop at the "cling" test. Make this a full-fledged taste test.

*Note: "Beer-clean" glasses should be washed with detergent. Rinse several times in very hot water. Air dry only—never use a towel.

Can you recognize your beer by the taste?

Probably just 1 beer drinker in 3 can pick his beer out of a group of three. You try. Pour your brand and two other leading beers—a Schlitz, Bud or a Miller—into identical glasses. Have a friend switch them around. As you drink each beer, not only check it for its "cling," but rate its taste characteristics from 1 to 10 on the flavor scale. Now comes the real test. Tell your friend which beer is yours.

Did your choice surprise you?

Something like 2 out of 3 beer drinkers don't pick their brand. And that surprises them. A lot of them pick Schlitz instead.

That doesn't surprise us. Two years ago a master brewer, Frank Sellinger, came to Schlitz. Today he is the Chief Executive Officer and today's Schlitz is the smoothest beer he's ever brewed. Taste it against yours. The results may surprise you.

The best beer is # _____

	Refreshing	Faintly sweet	Full bodied	Smooth	Mellow	Mild	Full flavored 10
9
8
7
6
5
4
3
2
1
	Flat	Too bitter	Watery	Biting	Too strong	Overly carbonated	Bland

Place beers' numbers on each scale from 1 to 10.

Beer #1 is _____

Beer #2 is _____

Beer #3 is _____

Schlitz®

Today's Schlitz. Go for it!

©1980 Jos. Schlitz Brewing Company, Milwaukee, WI

You Got It! Tonight!
9 - closing $1. Cover

WOULD YOU BELIEVE?? FREE BEER

MIKE'S WESTVIEW CAFE

Got something on your mind? Let people know in a letter to the Editor

★ Collins

continued from page 3

When Carter conceded the election and said "I called Governor Reagan an hour ago," someone from the boisterous crowd yelled "collect."

That seemed to sum up the mood of this gathering of campaign workers.

Results showed Collins earning a large majority.

Collins and Hite posted the tallies. Amy Collins, the representative's wife, said she was very happy and counting on her husband's election and continued success.

As the results of the defeat of Democratic Senators McGovern and Bayh came in, the crowd voiced its disapproval.

At this democratic gathering the atmosphere appeared to be one of both optimism and pessimism.

IT ONLY TAKES 5 MINUTES
& ALL YOU HAVE TO DO
IS SMILE

INDEX YEARBOOK

senior portraits for Feb. grads
& students off campus
next semester
November 12 - 25
Campus Center Room 178
MWF 9 - 5 TTh 12 - 9
Call 545-2874 for your appointment
MAKE IT EARLY!

SUNSPOT

The year-round tan.

Tan in December? Tan in March? Without Florida or Mexico or Bermuda? Sure. With a SunSpot Tan, you're tan year-round. After a six session, two-week foundation program, a residual once-a-week visit keeps you tan all the time. (The over-all year's tan costs just 39¢ a day!)

All SunSpot tanning programs are individualized by a trained technician so they're safer than the real sun. Our tanning booths have a controlled environment so you get a perfect tan with no sunburn worries. For most people, one minute with us is like an hour in the sun. So keeping attractively tan takes just a little while each week.

The SunSpot Amherst Carriage Shops 549-1499

39¢ a day*.

—based on a full year's tanning program

Saturday Sunspot Special (Nov. 8th) 1 Free Visit & Free Gift with this ad

THE UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AT AMHERST

FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL

in cooperation with the University Student Activities Office, presents

SONNY ROLLINS

Saturday
November 15, 1980
8 PM

A Duke Ellington Series Concert

Tickets now on sale at the Fine Arts Center Box Office (M-F, noon - 4 pm). Phone reservations accepted through Th., Nov. 13. (413-545-2511)

$7, 6, 5 General Public
$6, 5, 4 Senior Citizens
$3.50, 3, 2.50 Umass Students

IT PAYS TO MIDASIZE

Muffler
Schalldämpfer
Silencieux
Silenziatore
Ljuddämpare
₹77-

In any language...
MIDAS IS THE MUFFLER EXPERT.

*(English, German, French, Italian, Swedish & Japanese)

THE FIRST FOREIGN CAR MUFFLER GUARANTEED TO BE YOUR LAST.

Only Midas has a foreign car guarantee honored from coast to coast. We promise if anything goes wrong, Midas will replace the muffler free as long as you own your foreign car.

586-4840 MIDAS® 143 King St., Northampton

MON.-FRI. 8:00-5:30 SATURDAY 8:00-2:00

Sports

Tuller shuts out Catamounts

By MAUREEN SULLIVAN
Collegian Staff

Nina Holstrom's goal at 20:17 in the first half gave the UMass women's soccer team a 1-0 victory over the University of Vermont at the Boyden field yesterday.

The win moves the Minutewomen into the semifinals of the Eastern Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (EAIAW) Tournament. They will face the winner of the Connecticut-St. John-Fisher game this Saturday at Vermont.

Both teams slipped often while playing on a slick field caused by some early afternoon showers. Passing, despite the slips, managed to thread through the midfield; it was more a battle of the goalline defenses than of the midfield and attack.

UMass took advantage of a direct kick penalty to get their score. As Maddie Mangini booted the ball towards the middle, it looked as though Vermont keeper Kiki Sirop had covered it. However, it squirted out of her arms and landed in front of the goal. Holstrom jammed it through the sprawling Catamount defense to tally the only score of the game.

It was Holstrom's first full-time appearance since the Springfield College game last Oct. 18, when she was sidelined with a foot injury.

"I was very happy when I scored," Holstrom said, "I didn't even feel my foot."

The Minutewomen controlled the ball for the majority of the half, until Vermont managed to make some clear scoring threats to Mass goalkeeper Kelly Tuller. With two minutes left, the Cats fired a high shot towards Tuller, who jumped, blocked the ball with her fingertips and shoved it away to her right.

Vermont had one more chance with six seconds left; a direct kick by Vermont was blocked by the Minutewomen. The half ended with UMass ahead, 1-0.

The second half proved to be a war of the defenses; though Vermont kept the ball inside the UMass side, the Minutewomen kept denying. Deborah Fine, Mary Szetela, Jacqueline Gaw and Tuller helped UMass to fend off a squad trying desperately to score.

Mass gave Vermont several scares as well, but Sirop and the Cat defense would not let the Minutewomen get the insurance goal.

As the game wound down, the Cats tried to tie the game with the help of several corner kicks. But Tuller and company headed, shoved and kicked Vermont's chances away.

It was the first time in two years UMass has beaten Vermont; the Cats have handed the Minutewomen a 6-2 loss in '79 and a 1-0 defeat earlier this year.

"We had to be careful," Coach Kalekeni Banda said, "several of the top players were playing hurt (Holstrom, Natalie Prosser, Elaine Contant and Nancy Feldman), but I couldn't play without them. They were pretty slow, but did a good job. Kelly was superb in goal, and I hope we can do well in the semifinals. But it won't be easy. The teams in the semis will be tough, and I hope we don't go in with any serious injuries."

The game marked the last home appearances for seniors Tuller and Contant.

UMass' goalie Kelly Tuller looks on as teammate Jackie Gaw clears the ball away in action earlier this season. (Staff photo by Terri Bellatiore)

UM hosts Springfield, tries to salvage season

By BOB MITCHELL
Collegian Staff

The 4-11 University of Massachusetts men's soccer team, riding the crest of a frustrating six-game losing streak, hosts the Chiefs of Springfield College today at 2:30 p.m. at Boyden Field in the last game of the season.

The Minutemen, who have fallen in consecutive defeats to Boston University, Providence College, University of Rhode Island, University of Connecticut, Westfield State and Boston College will battle the 6-10-1 Chiefs for little more than pride as they bring a close to this dismal season.

The Chiefs, who are led on offense by senior John Szymko (12 goals, two assists) and juniors Dave Farrell (five goals, seven assists) and Bob Wheble (four goals, one assist), looked sharp against UConn last Wednesday. UConn—a team that defeated Mass 6-1—slipped by a tough Springfield club, 1-0.

"It was our best performance of the year," Springfield Assistant Sports Information Director Doug Hawkins said of the UConn contest, "Our defense was really strong."

Senior Bill Herman and junior Bruce Forbes anchor the Springfield fullback corps, while freshman Bernie Watt attends to the goal-tending duties. Watt, who has played in five games this year, has seven goals against and 43 saves to his credit.

Two of the most recent Chief victories have come over Williams College, 2-1, and American International College, 6-1.

UMass, which has been outscored this season by better than a 2-1 margin (36-17), has not scored more than three goals in any one game (the Minutemen had three tallies against Williams and Keene State). In addition, the Minutemen have been shut out five times and have scored only one goal in five other games (all losses).

Perhaps Boston College coach Ben Brewster said it best after his BC Eagles downed UMass, 3-1, Saturday, "UMass is a good team with good individual talent. What they are lacking is a ringleader."

Brewster certainly hit the nail right on the head with that remark. It's exactly what the Minutemen have been criticized for all season—the lack of a team leader.

Today's game not only marks the end of the season, but also the end of the UMass soccer careers of Scott Cooper, John Thomas and Julio Avila.

There will be a sports staff meeting tonight at 7 p.m. Winter beats will be handed out. Anyone wishing to write sports for the Collegian is invitled to attend.

Running and running

Donna Sullivan

Did you say he suffered a bruised thigh against Boston University? Well you sure as hell could have fooled me.

222 yards? From a guy with a bruised thigh? No way.

Well, uh, yes way. 12,000 witnessed it Saturday and Bob Levey, UMass statistician, couldn't goof up the stats if he tried. The numbers read 222 yards and two touchdowns from a Massachusetts running back who, days before the football game, wasn't even sure if he would be playing against the University of Connecticut. But Garry Pearson, a Bristol, Conn. native, wanted to play against his home state.

And he did.

From his first run of the game, a 34-yarder midway through the first quarter for a first down, to his 71 yard gainer in the final period that brought the Minutemen to UConn's 15 yard line, yes, Pearson played.

He ran and ran and ran with no apparent sign that the bruised thigh he had suffered a week earlier at Boston University was bothering him at all.

But then that's what the sophomore has been doing all season, running and running and running. In seven games, Pearson has rushed for a total of 742 yards. If you forget about the two games at Maine and Boston that were played while Noah was in the construction business again, Pearson would be averaging 122 yards per game. As it stands, his average is 106.

"I'm not using the rain as an excuse, but you're not as fast in the rain. It's a real shame that the Yankee Conference title has to be decided in the rain."

With three weeks left in the season, Pearson is definitely not counting Massachusetts out. "I think we have a good chance, there's always a chance. Seven points separate us from being undefeated," he said.

Pearson will not accept full credit for his performance. "The offensive line is part of me," he said. "I don't function without them. They do more than a good job.

"My first game was my best," he said, "because it was the first time I started." Pearson's first start was also the first game of the season for UMass—Villanova. He rushed 117 yards and caught five passes for 29 more yards on that Saturday.

But Pearson is quicker to talk about his teammates than about himself. "Mass has the best defense. I would hate to run against them," he said.

And he has tremendous respect for quarterback Tim Fontaine. "If I had to have an older brother, I would want it to be Tim. He's helped me out a lot."

If Pearson can amass about 400 yards in the remaining three games, Pearson will break the Massachusetts record for most yards rushing in a season. Dennis Dent, a 1979 graduate holds the current 1,139 yard record. Dent set that record as a senior. Pearson is close to breaking it as a sophomore.

"The thigh injury is coming along," he said recently. For a guy who runs and is looking to help his team to a conference title as well as break a season rushing record, it had better.

Carlton wins Cy Young award

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK — Steve Carlton, the brilliant left-hander who led the Philadelphia Phillies to baseball's world championship this year, was named winner of the National League Cy Young award for a record-tying third time Tuesday.

Carlton was voted the honor by a Baseball Writers Association of America panel and joined Tom Seaver and Sandy Koufax as the only three-time winners of the coveted award which goes to the league's best pitcher.

Carlton polled 118 points, with 23 of 24 first-place votes and one second-place vote. Jerry Reuss of the Los Angeles Dodgers got the other first-place vote and wound up second with 55 points.

Reagan takes conservative command

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — President-elect Ronald Reagan took command Wednesday in a conservative dominion that will stretch from the White House to a new Republican Senate, his lieutenants vowing a wholesale housecleaning of officeholders installed by the Democrats.

President Carter, the incumbent overwhelmingly repudiated by the voters in Tuesday's election, retreated to Camp David, Md., saying he needed time to be alone and think.

Carter said he would work for a smooth transition from his one-term administration to the one Reagan will begin on Jan. 20, when he is inaugurated 40th president of the United States. At nearly 70, he will be the oldest man ever to take that oath of office.

Meanwhile, here in the Bay State, most incumbent Congressmen were returned to office. Elected were Silvio O. Conte, R-1st District; Edward P. Boland, D-2nd; Joseph Earley, D-3rd; Barney Frank, D-4th; James Shannon, D-5th; Nicholas Marvoules, D-6th; Edward Markey, D-7th; Thomas P. O'Neill, Jr., D-8th; John Joseph Moakley, D-9th; Margaret Heckler, R-10th; Brian Donnelly, D-11th; and Gerry Studds, D-12th.

Of the ballot questions, question one passed with 56 percent of the vote; question two passed with 59 percent; three failed with 64 percent; four failed with 89 percent; five passed with 66 percent; and six failed with 71 percent of the vote.

As the nationwide tally in a low-turnout election neared completion, the dimensions of the Reagan landslide — and mandate — were in the numbers.

turn to page 14

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Volume CX, Issue 46 47 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Mass. Thursday, November 6, 1980

Prop. 2½ may harm University

By TIMOTHY J. FOWLER
Collegian Correspondent

"Proposition 2½", this year's most controversial ballot question, could have a dramatic impact on the University of Massachusetts' budget and its programs, according to University officials.

"When there's a four-inch snowfall maybe the roads won't get plowed, or maybe the side streets won't be plowed until a foot of snow falls."
— William C. Atkins, chairman of the Amherst Board of Selectmen.

George Beatty, Jr., Vice Chancellor for Administration and Finance, said, "The impact will be indirect. The overall state revenue will be decreased, so the University will be competing with other state programs for a smaller total state budget."

Beatty said the effects of "Proposition 2½" on the University would not be known until the Massachusetts legislature completes a final draft of the law, and then he would meet with other UMass officials to determine what actions to take.

He ruled out any futher tuition increases to make up for any loss of funds.

"Since tuition is not directly related to real University costs, I do not see any tuition increases as a result of Proposition 2½," Beatty said.

Proposition 2½ is a measure which will cut property taxes by an average of 40 percent state-wide, slash auto excise taxes by 62 percent, abolish both binding arbitration for police and fire-fighter's unions as well as fiscal autonomy for school committees, and allow renters to deduct half their annual rent from their state income taxes.

Supporters of the measure claimed passage was needed to alleviate what they call burdensome taxes, while opponents claimed that it will eliminate many necessary social services.

The Question was approved by Massachusetts voters by a three to two margin, or sixty percent of the total votes cast, in Tuesday's general election.

The passage of "Proposition 2½" will be disastrous for UMass, said Arvid Muller, student coordinator for the Student Center for Research and Advocacy (SCERA).

"Because towns are going to have less money, the legislature will give them more, and since there's only so much money around, this means there will be less money in general state funds for education," he said.

Frank A. Decker, Jr., President of the Amherst Taxpayers Association, said passage of "Proposition 2½" will have no effect at all on the town of Amherst.

"I'm sure that with a little better management the town will do just as well as ever. The roads will still get plowed, and the police and firemen will still be able to do their jobs," he said.

However, William C. Atkins, chairman of the Amherst Board of Selectmen, said, "there will be some layoffs and cutting of some projects" as a result of the measure's passage.

Atkins also said that some town services would be cut.

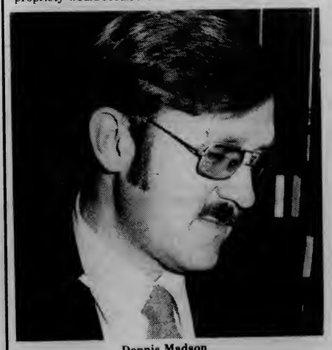
"For example, when there's a four-inch snowfall maybe the roads won't get plowed, or maybe the side streets won't be plowed until a foot of snow falls," Atkins said.

LSO, Administration feud over evaluation

By MAUREEN McMANUS
Collegian Staff

A conflict of interest has apparently developed between the Legal Services Office's power to sue the Univeristy of Massachusetts administration, and the administration's attempt to become the sole evaluator of the Legal Service's managing attorney.

While the evaluation process may work for other University employees, Managing Attorney Charles DiMare said his concern is that his position is unique. The managing attorney has the power to sue the administration on behalf of students, an irrevocable right granted in 1976 by the Board of Trustees. In light of this power, the LSO board and staff are concerned an appearance of impropriety would result if the administrators were to be the sole evaluators.



Dennis Madson

Attorney's code of ethics conflicts with job description

Students are the equitable employers of the LSO, DiMare said. Although the staff is paid by the University, the money is derived from the Student Activities Trust Fund. Ismael Ramirez-Soto, the chairperson of the LSO board, said, "We are putting into question the University's right to encroach the rights of students to select thier lawyers."

Furthermore he maintained, "The decision should be up to students, and the LSO board wants input or the right to be involved in the final decision of the evaluation process."

Charles DiMare said, "Just because our paychecks are from the University, this doesn't mean they can control me or this office in terms of the quality of legal services we provide for the students."

According to the Code of Ethics of Professional Responsibility for attorneys, Canon 9 states, "A lawyer should avoid even the appearance of professional impropriety." Based on the Canon DiMare asked: "Can an adverse party evaluate an attorney that could potentially sue them on behalf of the students."

Ramirez-Soto's comment pertaining to the possible consequences of University control over DiMare is that, "It makes the LSO especially vulnerable to any move from the administration to act in self defense to avoid being sued or questioned legally."

The LSO offers free legal services to fee paying graduate and undergraduate students at the UMass.

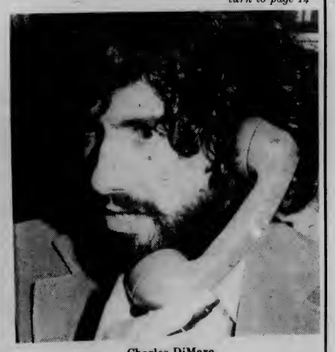
The organization is staffed by attorneys and paralegals who can become involved in a variety of student problems. In the past problems have been with the University administration, between landlords and tenants, consumer complaints, and uncontested divorces. The services may only provide help in criminal court if there is evidence of police brutality, and they also provide counseling on small claims, according to the Taped Information Phone Services.

This question concerning who has the power to evaluate the managing attorney is by no means a new problem, said Ramirez-Soto. The conflict has always existed, but it is now surfacing for several reasons.

In 1977 the problem was resolved through a collective management where the decision process was discussed, and a solution was reached, said Ramirez-Soto. The position of managing attorney was created in 1979 when Steven Bauhmol, senior attorney, was promoted to managing attorney. The problem was not so significant in 1978-79 because, according to Ramirez-Soto, "There was a great number of employee turnover, and with everyone leaving it became unnecessary for evaluations. Managing Attorney Bauhmol had left at this time, and Charles DiMare was promoted to Managing Attorney.

The question now comes to surface because DiMare is

turn to page 14



Charles DiMare

Campus police arrest Anti-Ronald Reagan protesters at the University of California at Berkeley following an occupation of the school's administration building yesterday. Earlier, several hundred people had rallied to protest Reagan's election and had marched from Sprowl Hall, the site of many anti-war demonstrations in the late 1960s. (AP Laserphoto)

Reagan's victory may alter hostage release

Ronald Reagan's election will delay the release of the 52 American hostages held in Iran but will not change the conditions for freeing them, Iranian officials said yesterday.

The spiritual adviser to the militants holding the hostages, deputy parliament speaker Hojatoleslam Moosavi Khoeniha, was quoted by Tehran Radio as saying in an interview with Greek television:

"Because (President) Carter was already in office, we would have reached a solution faster if he were re-elected. With Reagan's victory this will need a long time. I think Carter's policy has failed in the United States and this has no effect on the hostage issue."

Prime Minister Mohammad Ali Rajai as well as Khoeniha said in interviews with the Iranian news agency Pars that the election of Reagan would have no effect on Iran or on its conditions for release of the hostages, Tehran Radio reported.

In world money markets, the value of the dollar went up and stock markets in some West European capitals experienced rallies, apparently in the belief Reagan will turn the U.S. economy around.

Firecrackers exploded in the streets of Taiwan, seat of the Nationalist Chinese government which favors Reagan's "two-Chinas" policy. In a statement, the Nationalist Foreign Ministry in Taipei said it anticipated new ties with the United States. Those ties had grown cold when President Carter set up diplomatic relations with Peking in 1979, after breaking them with Taiwan.

The government in Peking on the mainland expressed guarded hope the concessions it had won from the United States previously on the Taiwan issue would not be set aside by the Reagan administration.

Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher of Britain and Chancellor Helmut Schmidt of West Germany, in warm messages of congratulations to Reagan, said they hoped for meetings with the president-elect.

President Valery Giscard d'Estaing of France said he hoped to establish a "the dialogue which is natural between our two countries, friends and allies always."

Election outcome damages women's rights

By DEBBIE WALLACE
Collegian Staff

The loss of liberal Senators Birch Bayh (D-Ind.), John Culver (D-Iowa), and George McGovern (D-S.D.) and the gain of President-elect Ronald Reagan will have a "devastating" effect on women's rights according to Beth Broderson, president of the Boston chapter of the National Organization for Women,(NOW).

Broderson said the election will hurt the extension of the Equal Rights Amendment and reproductive freedom for women. "We have lost many powerful friends in the Senate who were at least willing to negotiate," she said.

Ronald Reagan claims to support women's rights, and pledged his support during the campaign by outlining California legislation he signed establishing the right of women to obtain credit. He also cited the increased severity of rape penalties and the provision that the residence of a husband would not determine the residence of the wife for purposes of college tuition.

But, Reagan's true colors show clearly in his recent deeds. After 40 years of endorsement for the Equal Rights Amendment, Reagan led the fight to oust the ERA from the Republican platform during the July convention.

As a substitute for the ERA, Reagan said he will "ask the existing commission on the Status of Women to submit an annual list of federal laws which subvert women's rights." Reagan has repeatedly said increasing the court's legislative power could do more harm than good.

The strongest and most harmful effect of the election is the strong support these Republican officials have for a human life amendment. Reagan said in a Jan. 31 speech he supports an "enactment of a constitutional amendment to restore protection of the unborn child's right to live," and believes that interupting a pregnancy is the taking of human life, justified only if the mother's own life is in danger.

The human life amendment would be a proposed constitutional amendment supported by conservative senators, such as Strom Thurmond (R-S.C.), Jessie Helms (R-N.C.), and Henry (Scoop) Jackson (D-Wash.), that forbids taking of human life for any reason. This could include euthanasia, capital punishment, suicide, and abortion as a result of rape and incest.

Birch (D-Ind.) has worked 18 years in the senate for "higher principles and constitutional rights and liberties," as head of the Subcommittee on the Constitution according to Rick Paul, Bayh's Senate press secretary. Senator Orin Hatch (R-Utah) is next in line to head the subcommittee, and because of Hatch, Thurmond, and other conservatives, "The human life amendment has a better chance unfortunately," said Paul.

Marguerite Beck-Rex, spokesperson for the National Abortion Rights Action League said "now there is more of a chance to pass a constitutional amendment, but all Republicans are not anti-choice." She said she does not think there are enough votes on the Senate floor to pass an amendment forbidding all abortions, because a two thirds vote is needed for it to pass," but Beck-Rex added, "Reagan will be pressed to lobby to get the amendment passed but that doesn't mean it will make the two thirds vote. A Republican majority doesn't mean an anti-choice majority."

Leaders of Massachusetts and National women's organizations said abortion and the Equal Right Amen-

turn to page 8

Bay State hedges tradition

BOSTON (AP) — Inflationweary Massachusetts voters, who broke a 20-year Democratic tradition to give Ronald Reagan a narrow presidential victory, have turned the spotlight on Beacon Hill for the next battle in a burgeoning tax revolt.

The polls were closed for 12 hours before it was known yesterday that Reagan had squeezed out a 6,000-vote victory over Jimmy Carter in a state that once stood alone for George McGovern.

In Massachusetts congressional districts, it was a struggle for the Democrats too.

Liberal state Rep. Barney Frank did win the seat vacated by Robert F. Drinan, a progressive priest ordered by the Vatican to quit politics. But Frank struggled home, 103,461 to 95,895, against a virtually unknown Republican, Richard Jones.

Republican Margaret Heckler, the senior woman in Congress, was thought to be in trouble from liberal state Sen. Robert E. McCarthy. But she trounced him with 61 percent of the vote.

Independent presidential candidate John B. Anderson, who thought he might do best in a "liberal" state, got only 15 percent of the Massachusetts vote.

Democratic Rep. Nicholas Mavroules turned back a GOP challenge from Tom Trimarco on the North Shore and Democrats still rule the state's congressional delegation 10-2.

The party still has an iron grip on the Legislature although Republicans added a couple of House seats and one in the state Senate.

But House Speaker Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill of Massachusetts, an easy winner Tuesday, surveyed the national wreckage and called it a disaster for his party.

Khomeini rejects 'peace now'

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — Iran's religious leader, Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, on yesterday rejected a "peace now" offer from Iraq. He declared "many of our youths have died in the war, but this is for Islam."

The 80-year-old patriarch of Iran's Islamic revolution ordered his generals to continue the war "until the infidels (Iraqis) are defeated."

His speech in Tehran to a visiting group of Moslem clergy came a day after Iraqi President Saddam Hussein declared he was ready to "withdraw our forces as from tomorrow if Iran unequivocally recognized our full national rights." The broadcast was monitored in Beirut, Lebanon.

Hussein told the Iraqi Parliament he would push his territorial claims beyond the Shatt alArab estuary, the disputed border waterway used by both Iran and Iraq to ship oil into the Persian Gulf, if Khomeini chose to fight on.

"Conquest confers new rights," said Hussein. "The longer a nation stays in a territory, the more rights it gains. Khomeini must realize that war creates additional rights over and above the pre-war rights."

Both nations reported heavy casualties in land and air combat as Iraq pushed on the northern and eastern gates of Iran's major oil refining city of Abadan on the eastern coast of Shatt al-Arab.

Iranian communiques said Abadan's defenders repulsed fresh Iraqi assaults across mobile bridges thrown across the Bahmanshir River to storm the city's eastern gates while hand-to-hand combat raged on a highway juncture on Abadan's northern outskirts.

Capture of Abadan appears to be the main objective of the Iraqi offensive. It is the last Iranian stronghold on the Shatt al-Arab's eastern coast, which Hussein's regime is claiming as part of Iraq.

Half of the 120-mile estuary, Iraq's only outlet to the Persian Gulf, belonged to Iran under a 1975 border treaty that Hussein abrogated one week before the war broke out Sept. 22.

Subscription Rates

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 325 290) is published daily Monday through Friday excluding vacations, exam periods, or holidays, for $15 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

Today's paper was produced by

Assistant Managing Editor	Ed Levine
Copy Editor	Maureen McManus
Layout Technician	Carol Rosenberg
Head Darkroom Technician	Kris Craig
Ad Layout Technician	Jay Brightman
Composing Room	Mary Kinneavy, Bob Carr, Donna Sullivan, Pam Dissinger, Michele Bedard, Ria Koning

the Hungry U Restaurant
the ideal spot for a relaxing meal
Thursday Night Pizza Special
Half Price Pitcher of Beer
with purchase of any large pizza
55 University Drive
Amherst
549-5713

Photographic Posters
Classics by the Great Photographers of the Nineteenth & Twentieth Centuries
Open Tues-Sat 10-5:30
Pratt Gallery 37 So. Pleasant St. Amherst, MA 01002

Aid cuts result in need for alternatives

By KAREN DEPASQUALE
Collegian Correspondent

The nearly 5000 University students facing a cut in their financial aid and work-study awards should begin looking for part-time employment both on and off campus, said Assistant Financial Aid Director Gerry Scanlon.

Both Scanlon and Financial Aid Director Ed Apodaca said that they are urging departments on campus who have work-study help to hire the students in part-time positions for the Spring semester, with the department paying salaries.

The information of funding cuts being disbursed now, Scanlon said will hopefully give students enough time to search for jobs for the Spring.

"We've done it as early as possible in the semester. It gives them three months. They can start making plans for intercession. We're giving them as much time as we can."

Scanlon said that all off-campus employers are being called, explaining the situation and job recruitment is being worked on.

Colleges and Universities received only 90 percent of last year's funds to begin with after the 10 percent cut in federal funding, Scanlon said.

"The basic reason for the cuts after September is that the University did not receive extra allocations of funds," he said, referring to the usual procedure annually of re-applying for a share of excess funds pooled together from colleges and universities nationwide by Washington.

Scanlon pointed out that more students are becoming eligible to apply for financial aid and due to increased eligibility and applications for work-study/financial aid, they have to look for other sources.

The Financial Aid office tries to fulfill the applicants needs with a combination of funds such as National Direct Student Lonas (NDL), Basic Educational Opportunity Grants (BEOG), Supplementary Educational Opportunity Grants (SEOG), College Work Study Programs, and HELP loans, resulting in 70 percent grants and scholarships and 30 percent loans and work study, said Scanlon.

Work study jobs vary in salary starting at $3.10 per hour and increase according to the particular job. The on-campus employer pays 20 percent of the student's salary, while combined federal and state funds pay the remaining 80 percent.

The dining commons, Campus Center, RSO and the libraries have the most work-study employees, said Arthur Hackett of Student Employment.

Hackett said that the Student Employment office puts out job description sheets which include the contact person and phone numbers regarding jobs. Students are then responsible for following through in order to get hired.

"No student is assigned a work study job at all, they have to find the jobs themselves," Hackett said.

The jobs on campus are limited, according to Student Employment staff member, Paula Noonan. The student office, she says, deals with about 500 businesses in the area, searching for campus job opportunities for students.

Students questioned about work-study, non-work study and financial aid voiced mixed feelings of satisfaction and frustration.

A former University Gallery guard last year, Jackie Sullivan applied, but was rejected for a refund of work study this year.

"I did not get work study and think it is unfair. I have a brother and sister in college and they did not get financial aid either."

Theresa Phillips, working in a non-work study job in Conference Services, said she was rejected for work-study this year. She said she was able to continue working part-time in the office she worked in full time this summer in an 03 position.

Lynn Lavallee could not get work-study this year saying, "I sent my financial aid forms in time to Princeton, N.J., but they sent them to UMass too late for financial aid." She went through the student employment to find the non-work study job she works at in the Concert series office.

Scanlon pointed out that the combination of funding cuts, increased costs of attendance, and increase numbers of applications for financial aid, necessitates turning to alternative sources of financial aid.

Students traveling to D.C., plan lobby effort for aid

By JANE WOLFSON
Collegian Staff

In an attempt to gain an increase in financial aid, approximately 40 University of Massachusetts students will travel to Washington D.C. on Nov. 16-18 to lobby local legislatures for possible raises of aid.

The trip, which will be the first of its kind, was the idea of a Legislative Process class, whose term project was to initiate a bill and then to emulate the process of sending it through Congress.

But the class then decided to put theory to practice, said class member Howard Goldman, by actually going to Washington to lobby for the additional financial aid.

About 20 members of the class will take part in the lobbying effort and will leave about 15 additional spaces for any interested students. Anyone interested must attend a mandatory meeting today at 4:15 in Machmer W24.

Workshops will be held to educate people on how to lobby as well as the Education bill itself.

The group has received $1500 from various groups on campus for the trip. The Undergraduate Student Senate has allocated $600 and the Provost, Vice Chancellor and Chancellors office have each contibuted $300.

The money will cover the traveling expenses. Food and lodging, however will not be provided.

"We really believe in what we're doing," Golman said. "This will be very important, it's a chance to go to Washington and make a statement."

The group of lobbyists will be divided into different sections, and everyone will be given varied responsibilities ranging from researching the bill to actually contacting the lobbyist.

Trustees meet, approve student proposal

By STEPHEN MORAN
Collegian Staff

Meeting at the Harbor campus of the University of Massachusetts at Boston yesterday, the Board of Trustees voted unanimously to accept student proposals for "asset funded purchase orders" and a change in the financial structure of the Distinguished Visitors Program.

Student Government Association co-President Richard LaVoice said the trustee' action "ensures more responsible financial systems for the student organizations."

DVP chairperson Howard Goldman said the new plan "gives DVP the opportunity to bring the kind of quality speakers an intellectually aware student body should have."

The Trustees' actions pave the way for student implementation of a system which allows for extending credit to student businesses of up to 50 percent of projected incomes. Accounts receivable and saleable inventory are used to determine a dollar figure of projected incomes.

Although the plan limits credit only to revenue generating activities, many of the student coops will ultimately benefit from the new system, said LaVoice.

Alterations in DVP financing include using $27,872 of the group's endowment fund interest to balance the fund at $100,000. The remaining $12,857 will be used to subsidize non-admission events.

The projected $5000 interest from the endowment fund will be used to underwrite the expenses of the Martin Luther King, Jr. Memorial Lecture Series and International Womens' Week.

When Joseph P. Healy, chairperson of the Board, opened the general meeting, he allowed comments from Charles Bowen, spokesperson for the Boston campus' faculty union while 17 union members looked on. The Faculty Staff Union, is in the same bargaining unit as the Massachusetts Society of Professors, their counterpart on the Amherst campus.

Bowen reported the union members' dismay at the pace of union negotiations. He said "We are concerned about the spirit and general progress of bargaining," and charged that "the administration approach to bargaining is obstructionist."

With a hint at future job actions, he said, "Radical actions tend to rend the delicate social fabric."

He asked the trustees to take a more active role in the negotiations, saying "We ask that (the Trustees) would use your influence for reasonableness and sweetness of life."

Attaching the tail section to the Space Shuttle, John Furbish, administrative assistant of the Campus Center, adds the finishing touches to the 1/15 scale model which has been lent to the University by NASA. The Space Shuttle can be seen, along with other exhibits, in room 164 of the Campus Center as part of the "Unlearning The Twentieth Century" conference Nov. 6-8. (Staff photo by Vince DeWitt)

Gregory talks tonight on recent trip to Iran

By KEVIN BERG
Collegian Correspondent

The controversial Dick Gregory, social activist and professional comedian, will speak in the Student Union Ballroom at the University of Massachusetts tonight at 8:00 in a presentation sponsored by the Distinguished Visitors Program.

The focus of his talk, Dawn Hines of the DVP said, will be Iran—the hostage situation and its relationship to the outcome of the Presidential election. A question and answer session will follow his speech.

Gregory spent most of the summer in Iran and came in contact with many top officials there, including the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini. Upon his return to the United States, he was detained by the Department of State for debriefing, Hines said.

His stop at UMass, free and open only to students and faculty, is one of the first lectures by Gregory since his return late last summer.

Gregory broke into the entertainment field in 1961 as a comedian, and used his talent to give benefits for various civil rights groups, peace groups, and other human rights groups throughout the 1960's according to a DVP release. His outspokenness on controversial issues cost him in excess of one million dollars in cancelled bookings, travel expenses, and legal fees, as well as numerous arrests for his participation in demonstrations.

Today, Gregory is also known as recording artist, political analyst, critic, author, actor, social satirist, and philosopher.

Senate rejects pass/fail plan

By KEN ROSS
Collegian Staff

The Undergraduate Student Senate last night voted not to support a proposed change in the pass/fail option policy by the Faculty Senate.

The proposal, endorsed by the Academic Matters Council of the Faculty Senate, recommends that students be given a "pass" grade only if they receive a "C" or better in a course. A grade below would be recorded without change.

Cathy Linn, co-chair of the Academic Affairs Committee of the Senate said that the proposal would "defeat the original purpose of the option which was "to encourage students to be venturesome in their choice of courses." She also pointed to the option as "easing the burden of the academic course load" and "helping students maintain a reasonable grade point average."

The proposed change will be reviewed by the Academic Matters Council tomorrow night, and their recommendations would be put before the Faculty Senate next week.

The proposed change, if approved, would not be put into effect at least until next fall semester, because it must go through administrative review for final approval.

In other business, the Senate succeeded in seating the commuter members of the Senate after a month of delays from protests against the commuter election results. The Senate voted without opposition, to accept a referendum put before Commuter voters last Monday in which the election results were approved by a margin of about 2-1.

"I was a little surprised that there was no debate on the floor on the referendum results," said Dianne Muellar, chair of the Governmental Affairs Committee, who chaired last month's elections. "Maybe it shows that the Senate has finally decided to settle down and do some work."

Candy Carlon was among the student senators at last night's SGA meeting who wore black arm bands in protest to Ronald Reagan's election to the presidency. (Staff photo by Bill Sample)

Graduate Student Employees Union Meeting
Deciding the future of the organization. Establishing a relationship with Grad Senate.
Nov. 12 Wed. Lunch Hour 12-1 pm
Campus Center 902

amc THEATRES — TIMES SHOWN FOR TODAY ONLY
ADULTS $2.75 — STUDENT & SR. CITIZEN WITH AMC CARD $2.25 — SPECIAL ENGAGEMENTS EXCLUDED — TWILITE SHOW $2.25 TWILITE SHOW LIMITED TO SEATING

HAMPSHIRE 4 — 584-7550 HAMP. MALL ON CAFE SQ. RT. 9, HADLEY, MASS.
- DONALD SUTHERLAND in Ordinary People — R — (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15
- LOVING COUPLES — PG — (6:15 @ $1.75) 8:30
- HOPSCOTCH — R — (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:15
- THE FIRST DEADLY SIN — R — (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30

Dinner and Movie only $5.50 Have your choice of 5 different meals at the Pewter Pot Rest at the Hampshire Mall and see one of the eight movies in this bid for only $5.50 (Sun.-Thur. only)

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 — 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9 HADLEY MASS
- GOLDIE HAWN in PRIVATE BENJAMIN — R — (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30
- CHARLTON HESTON SUSANNAH YORK in THE AWAKENING — R — (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:15
- JILL CLAYBURGH in I'M DANCING AS FAST AS I CAN — R — (6:15 @ $1.75) 8:30
- ANTHONY HOPKINS in THE ELEPHANT MAN — PG — (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15

Shoppers Show Movie FREE! Thursdays at 1:00 pm Nov. 6 Just You and Me Kid with George Burns

BLUE WALL campus center at u mass
ALL AGES WELCOME
At The Hatch Bar

Thursday Nov. 6th
JOHN COSTER & the Medicine Band
"Northern Rock and Roll"
FREE
In Association with UPC Productions

Friday, Nov. 7th
The Shaboo All Stars
featuring Matt "Guitar" Murphy (of the Blues Brothers)
$3.00 cover charge
In Association with UPC Productions

Saturday, Nov. 8th
Arista Recording Artists
THE ELEVATORS
$2.00 cover charge
In Association with UPC Productions

Due to renovations, the Bluewall Beverage Service is temporarily located in the Hatch Cafeteria in the Student Union Building.
TOC sticker & valid ID required to purchase alcohol.

WAKE UP!

DELICIOUS INTRODUCTORY OFFER
BURGER KING Make it Special™
Buy one sausage & egg biscuit, get another sausage & egg biscuit FREE with this coupon. Breakfast served every morning.
Please present this coupon before ordering. Limit one coupon per customer. Void where prohibited by law. This offer expires 11/13/80 Good only at participating restaurants in: Springfield, W. Springfield, Chicopee, Hadley, Northampton and Enfield.
New Biscuit Breakfast
Burger King—Reg. U.S. Pat. & TM Off. © 1980 Burger King Corporation

Conservatives win big in elections

By JAMES F. MAHONEY
and ED LEVINE
Collegian Staff

Tuesday's election results, both in Massachusetts and nation-wide, appear to signal a victory for the "new right", which has battled back against the liberal democratic government that has run the country for the last four years.

Republican challenger Ronald W. Reagan soundly defeated President Jimmy Carter in the second republican landslide victory in eight years. Along with Carter, many liberal senators and governors fell by the wayside, the victims of conservative republican challengers.

Carter's defeat signifies not only a victory for conservatives but also displays the country's disenchantment with Carter's economic policies and his handling of foreign policy.

One state that traditionally votes Democratic, Massachusetts, went to the Reagan camp, but only by a narrow margin of 5099 votes, or one-twentieth of one percent of the vote. The first republican victory in the state since Eisenhower was re-elected to a second term in 1956. While early returns indicated that Carter had won the state's 14 electoral votes, the results on yesterday afternoon showed that Reagan had taken the state on the strength of rural and paper ballot votes.

Across the country, traditionally die-hard Democratic districts replaced incumbent liberal senators with new conservative republicans. Falling by the wayside were such notable Democratic senators as George McGovern, D-S.D., Frank Church, D-Idaho, Birch Bayh, D-Ind., Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., and Warren Maguson, D-Wa. Among the only liberal Democratic candidates to win their first senate seat was 36-year-old Christopher Dodd, of Connecticut.

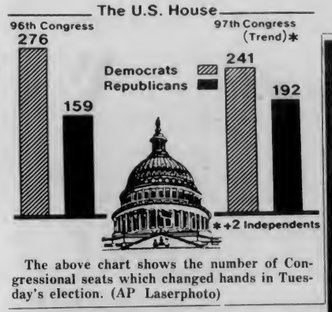
Overall, 12 Democratic candidates won senate seats compared to 20 republicans. As a result, the Republicans will control the 97th senate, holding a total of 53 seats to 46 for the Democrats. The previous senate was controlled by a 56 to 41 Democratic margin. Harry Byrd of Virginia will remain the only independent in the senate.

In the House of Representatives, Republicans won 190 seats, Democrats 242, with two independents. The Republican victory narrowed the Democrats advantage in the 97th congress by 66 seats, down to a 51 seat lead for the democrats. In state gubernatorial elections, six Democrats were seated compared to seven Republicans. Overall there will be 27 democratic governors and 23 Republicans. Previously the Democrats led 31 to 19.

Voters faced with rising inflation and unemployment

turn to page 14

Analysis



The above chart shows the number of Congressional seats which changed hands in Tuesday's election. (AP Laserphoto)

TOP PRIORITY #4
PARK AT OUR DOORSTEP!
Present your parking garage ticket to the host for VALIDATED PARKING!
Top of the Campus Restaurant
For Reservations call - 549-6000 X639

the SHOE BIN
187 n. pleasant st., amherst

Every Wednesday and Friday
ALL YOU CAN EAT!
Fish Fry or Clam Fry

Howard Johnsons
Rt. 9, Hadley

THE UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AT AMHERST
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
presents
The CANADIAN BRASS
featuring
ROBERT J. LURTSEMA
Host of "Morning Pro Musica" narrating "HORNSMOKE" - a fantasy of the Old West by Peter Schickele (a.k.a. P.D.Q. Bach)
Wednesday, November 12, 1980 8 PM
Tickets now on sale at the Fine Arts Center Box Office (M-F, noon-4 p.m.) Phone reservations accepted through Monday, Nov. 10 (413-545-2511)
$8, 7, 6 General Public
$7, 6, 5 Senior Citizens
$4, 3.50, 3 UMass Students

French craft, American style.
Now appearing at your local store.

Space Invaders
OFFICIAL T-SHIRT
WHITE ON BLACK ONLY
S M L XL Quality 50/50 50% Screened By Hand
Send Check Cash Money Order
$5.95 + .75 Shipping and Handling Each
WIZ KIDS
P.O. Box 1074, Brewster, MA 02631
A GREAT XMAS PRESENT
PRIVATE DEALERSHIP DISTRIBUTOR INQUIRIES WELCOME

IT ONLY TAKES 5 MINUTES
& ALL YOU HAVE TO DO
IS SMILE

INDEX YEARBOOK

senior portraits for Feb. grads
& students off campus
next semester
November 12 - 25
Campus Center Room 178
MWF 9 - 5 TTh 12 - 9
Call 545-2874 for your appointment
MAKE IT EARLY!

Great Gifts - Great Prices
Great Fall
CLOTHING SALE
now thru Sat.
20% OFF ALL
BLOUSES & DRESSES
20% OFF STERLING PENDANTS
SAVE 20% - 50% ON
MANY OTHER SALES ITEMS
Open 10 am - 6 pm
use the new BUS STOP out front
Great Gifts - Great Prices
THE MERCANTILE
AMHERST CARRIAGE SHOPS

Texas Instruments presents
the great educate, calculate, don't procrastinate,
rebate.

Now your family can get many of the Texas Instruments products you've always wanted. Plus, something you never expected; some of your money back.

Because right now, TI is offering rebates on many of their most popular items. Like electronic learning aids that are designed to help children explore the exciting worlds of words and numbers. Or the extraordinary talking Language Tutor. They're even offering rebates on two of their most popular desk-top printing calculators.

So don't hestitate. Stop by to get your rebate coupon and your favorite Texas Instruments product today. Because soon it will be too late for a rebate. Offer ends November 15th. A. TI-5015 Desk-top printing calculator with independent ad register. $5 Rebate. A ribbonless desk-top calculator that's as reliable as it is quiet. B. Speak & Spell® electronic learning aid. $10. Rebate. A remarkable talking device that expands as your child grows. C. Language Tutor® talking electronic language aid. $20 Rebate. It's your ticket to learning a foreign language. D. TI-5040 Desk-top printer/display calculator with special business functions. $8 Rebate. A desk-top calculator that's ideal for business or home. E. TI-30 Student Math Kit® with calculator and "Great International Math on Keys" book. $2 Rebate. A standard for students from Jr. High School through college. F. Spelling B® electronic learning aid. $4 Rebate. An innovative learning aid that makes spelling picture book easy. G. Little Professor® electronic learning aid. $2 Rebate. Adds the wonder of numbers to early learning fun.

Fifty Years of Innovation

© 1980 Texas Instruments Incorporated

The Rebate Offer
Is In Addition To
Our Already Low
Discounted Prices

All Are Welcome

Open
Mon - Fri 9-5
Sat - 11-4
Main Floor, Campus Center
University of Massachusetts
the University Store

Editorial/Opinion

The physical properties of dog-friending

Having survived birth, I considered the most promising next step toward self-fulfillment and decided to play with blocks. Bridging two narrow towers of finished rectangular and square pieces of wood pleased my parents no end—my mother especially, because she is a psychologist readily willing to make the professional assessment that my behavior exhibited an advanced abstract conceptualization capability.

I though my mother neat, though a bit whacko.

My confidence inflated, and having tired of blocks, I enjoyed a brief career in Lincoln Logs and Tinker Toys—the former lending to the expression of the sexual frustration of latency by yielding kenetically to baby-blue Keds sneakers. I could hardly wait until high school when an associated impulse could be relayed by drinking quarts of Schlitz and driving dad's car down town, much too fast.

Eric Janzsen

A driver's license still a long way off, I pursued the ambition of velocity by riding a small, red wagon down a neighborhood hill. Later, one morning, taking to a tiny bicycle (also red) with a coaster brake, I followed by big brother to elementary school. He peddled an immense, black Rahleigh three-speed, with which I struggled suicidally to keep up, and had an accident with resonance; after weaving with a heavy briefcase in a newspaper basket on one side of the rear wheel he fell, suffering a concussion.

Taking him for dead, the aim of passing distance over time seemed ill-considered as I munched a cookie and took slow, mournful, sips of milk at recess with my classmates.

"It's my brother," I told them, "Got in an accident on his bicycle."

"That's rough," one of them said, staring down into his red and white half pint carton, "Same happened to the kid across the street last week."

In junior high, self-fulfillment was served by more rebellious acts which, in the company of peers, were not coincidentally affirmations of masculinity. A cigarette had taken up a quarter of my face, but I sat smartly in the principal's office, gleaming out at Sam who tramped by and glanced back on his way to the drama club.

He is an actor now, currently in "Good Woman of Setzuan," playing the part of Wong, a chinaman who shows the gods to an honest man.

Then high school.

Then the university where the motion of aspirations take on the quality of an overpowered car in serious traffic. In the purely academic sphere, learning is no match for arrogance; fact no substitute for faith, and perseverance cannot compete with cleverness. Only here can one be doing and waiting simultaneously with all one's strength. Hamburg in a freezer, I decided to thaw underground. I brought a copy of Don Quizote and read it aloud to my dog Catherine.

Eric Janzsen is the Collegian's Executive Editor

The Hatch vs. Earth Foods

M. Shapiro

I had a dream the other night. A war threatened to break out between the Earth Foods People and the Hatch People. After all, if the Blacks and Whites, Palestinians and Zionists, and Students and Administration can do it, what would be so unusual about these two groups going at it? They have as much a reason to hate each other as the other groups do. Look at their differences.

The Hatch is disco and Earth Foods folk. One rides their bicycles from Leverett and Granby, while the other drives Dad's old car from Rolling Green. The Hatch People smoke either Merits or Marlboro. The Earth Foods People, if they do smoke, roll their own. One drinks coffee, the other cider. The Hatch People snack on french fries, the Earth Foods People sprouts. Hatch People play football, basketball, or softball. The Earth Foods People play frisbee or climb mountains.

It all started when the Hatch People were at Poor Richards one Friday night. They decided they had had it up to here in tofu, and the only solution was to rid UMass of the people who think celery stalks and grain are delectable cuisine. "Nuke the curried rice," they shouted and adjourned to Rolling Green to plan their strategy and organize a draft for recruits.

Meanwhile, over at the Student Alternative Cooperative Collective, the Earth Foods People had just biked back from a contradance in Montague. They decided that UMass would be better off without the people who have bumperstickers like "Pass the Word, The Celts Are Back," rather than "Split Wood, Not Atoms." Since they have had non-violence training, they opt for a peaceful strategy. Also, they have to recruit volunteers since they all are members of Students Against the Draft.

Back at Rolling Green, as they sit around eating hash brownies made from a Duncan Hines mix, the Hatch People finalize their plans. They will steal all the chopsticks from Earth Foods. "We'll starve them out!"

The Earth Foods People, now drinking homemade Kahlua and eating bran muffins laced with raisins cooked over a wood stove, have a plan of their own. "One of us will put on an Izod shirt and blow dry our hair. Then that person will walk into the Hatch unsuspected, disconnect the jukebox, and steal all the coffee stirrers and sugar. There is no way a Hatch person can survive without their daily dosage of disco and regular coffee. If that doesn't work, then maybe we could cover the floor of Interskate 91 with sunflower seeds and safflower mayonnaise. I hear that's the new hangout."

Word of the imminent war slowly made its way through campus. The Chancellor immediately set up the Whole Wheat/Hamburger Committee, who had the task of restoring peace to the Student Union and Campus Center. The team was made up of faculty, students, a representative from the Peoples Market, a fifth round draft choice, and a player to be named later. A most effective group.

Rumors concerning the feud were rampant. Some said the Earth Foods People would withdraw only if they got their own pages in the Collegian, but they had to be on recycled paper. Word had it that the Hatch People had managed to put a meat sauce over some of the spinach lasagna served in Earth Foods. In order to avoid violence, many fled to the Coffee Shop.

Fortunately, the war never started because neither group could get any media support. Nummo News didn't cover it because they weren't sure whether Leverett was a Third World community. The Collegian didn't cover it because they were still trying to figure whether the readership wanted more local or international events, so they ran more advertising instead. The Valley Women's Voice didn't cover it because men were involved. All that was left was the radio station, and who listens to WMUA anyways?

The two groups decided that since there was no media attention, to hell with it. After all, there was no one to listen to the threats, misquotes, and misinformation. There wasn't even a place to write insulting or antagonizing letters. There was no possible way for them to spread their hate to other people on the campus.

Their feud finally came to an end when somehow, curried garbanzo soup found its way into the coffee urns in the Hatch. The Hatch People, thinking it was more, rude Hatch coffee, found that it didn't taste so bad after all. When they realized that the "healthy food couldn't kill or cause acne," they decided that they would give it a try.

Now, if only I could slip a kosher dill into some Palestinian's syrian bread...But then, this is just a dream.

M. Shapiro is a Coffee Shop person

Letter

Student dormitory security lauded

To the Editor:

I would like to express my sincere appreciation to several factions of the University community for their performance during the Halloween weekend.

First and foremost to all the student dormitory security personnel who once again gave up their fun on a hectic weekend in order to work and provide security to their Dorm. Most particularly thanks to the two receptionists who were assaulted.

Secondly, thanks to the many thousands who went home. It made it much easier for all concerned to head off possible problems with the reduced number of persons remaining.

Finally, to the Security Coordinators in each Dorm who spent many hours planning the entire operation up until the last minute as funding for extra help was not finalized until the last week.

James E. Fitzgerald
Housing Security Officer

Collegian

BOARD OF EDITORS

ROBERT E. STEIN, Editor-in-Chief; FRANT BASCHE, Managing Editor; JEFFREY P. BIANCHI, Graphics Manager; JONATHAN KLEIN, Business Manager; ERIC H. JANSZEN, Executive Editor; RICHARD NAGLE and JAMES MAHONEY, News Editors; JANE DeVIRGILIO, Women's Editor; JIM MORAN, Arts Editor; KAREN THOMAS, Black Affairs Editor; DONNA SULLIVAN and JONATHAN HAMILTON, Sports Editors; PAUL PRIFE, Photo Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

ANDREA ATKINS, CATHERINE CLARRY, JIM KANE, ED LEVINE, GAYLE YOUNG, Associate Managing Editors; BOB CARR, Associate Graphics Manager; JOE GANNON, Associate Executive Editor; NANCY ANDERSON, Associate News Editor; LILLIAN SINGER, Associate Women's Editor; MARY KINNEAVY, Associate Arts Editor; JOYCE McLAURIN, Associate Black Affairs Editor; NANCY NITTLE, Associate Photo Editor.

BUSINESS STAFF

KATHRYN KRESS, Advertising Manager; VICKI EGGERT, Finance Manager; JOSEPH RADLEY, Circulation Manager; MICHELLE SILVERSTEIN and JAY S. LUSTIG, Assistant Advertising Managers.

The Collegian is the newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons and letters represent the personal views of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertisements lies with the individual advertisers.

USPS 333-220

Hillel receives national award for support work

By DEBORAH ASBRAND
Collegian Staff

Hillel, the University of Massachusetts center for the Jewish community, yesterday received a plaque as the 1980 recipient of the William Haber Award from the national B'nai B'rith-Hillel foundation.

The award is given out each year to campus Hillel organizations which have shown outstanding and innovative ideas in working with students.

UMass Hillel won the award as a result of their work in organizing support groups for students who were dating people outside their religion.

The student forums were first organized two years ago by Rabbi Saul Perlmutter, advisor to UMass Hillel, after several students had approached him with feeling of guilt and anxiety relating to inter-religious dating.

"I found that a number of students were having the same problems at the same time," said Perlmutter. "They had the same feelings of guilt bottled up inside, and were not sure what to do and had nowhere to talk. The exciting thing about this group is that suddenly they have a place where they can talk about it."

Perlmutter said that very often the support group is the first place students really start asking questions and dealing with the difference in their culture.

Most students who participate in the group are serious about their relationships or contemplating marriage, he said.

"We have a strong Jewish community on the UMass campus and it's nice to get some national recognition," Perlmutter said. "By the national award, it shows UMass is doing some good things."

William O'Brien of Sandisfield wields a metal saw to cut through a steel strip of sidewalk edging as Steve Yeskie of Northampton assists. Both men are employees of the Lane Construction Co., which is doing contract sidewalk work for the University. (Staff photo by Bill Sample)

★ Women's rights

continued from page 2

dment were not key issues in the election because of the focus on the economy. Kathleen Currie, Public Relations Director of ERAmerica said it is clear in the election people voted for the economy. She said feminists held their own in the state elections, but obviously the election has changed the complexion of the Congress.

"We have lost important progressive leadership and we have to look at the important policy Reagan makes because women are going to be the first to pay for it," Currie said. "There is a downward slide in America concerning jobs, and women presently make 59 cents for every $1 made by men."

In a campaign speech Oct. 14 in Los Angeles Reagan said he would not restrict opportunities for women and announced one of the next openings in the Supreme Court "will be filled by the most qualified woman I can find."

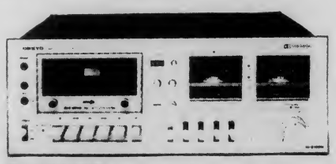
Jewish Involvement Theatre: "The dilemmas and delights of being Jewish and Female," will be presented by Sally Fox at 7:30 tonight in the Hampden Theatre of the Southwest Residential Area at the University of Massachusetts. The program will feature a series of humorous vignettes of the lives of Jewish women with audience participation. Admission is free, open to all and the event is sponsored by the UMass Arts Council.

NORTHAMPTON DAYS

Kick up Your Heels...a SALE!
25% off
everything in the store
All our Fall Goods for men & women
Thurs./Fri./Sat.
Nov. 6/7/8
3 DAYS ONLY
SIENNA FINE CLOTHING
243 Main Street, Northampton 586-6457

TAPE IT EASY

Making perfect tapes is easy when you buy your cassette deck from Sound & Music. That's because we carry only the finest tape decks and each one is individually calibrated and adjusted by our technician for optimum performance.



ONKYO TA-630DM New, improved, proven.

harman/kardon hk100M A genuine price/performance breakthrough.

SOUND & MUSIC
"Good Advice - Honest Price"
90-92 King Street (Rte. 5) Northampton
Thursday & Friday 'til 9
Mon.-Sat. 10-5
584-9547
Delivery to UMass Campus Available

Musical opens tonight

By JULIA SYKES
Collegian Correspondent

The Opening of the UMass Music Theater Guild's production of "On The Town" Thursday night will mark the 40th year of Guild performances. The show is taken from the original Leonard Bernstein Broadway musical, based on Jerome Robbins' ballet and will be performed at 8 p.m. Nov. 6-8 and Nov. 13-15 at Bowker Auditorium in Stockbridge Hall.

It has been an intensive six-day-a-week rehearsal period since the beginning of the semester for all of those involved in the production. The cast, which consists of 25 dance majors, is a synthesis of freshman and more experienced dancers. Director, Mark Morrison said he is "highly impressed by the creative ideas the cast has brought to the show."

While staying with the original script for the most part, Morrison has made a few plot changes, including modifying the end, which he said, will give a more rounded performance.

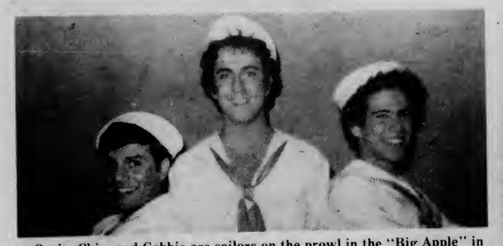
Choreographer Joseph Rich, who has considerable experience in the professional world of dancing and choreography, claims he has never taught such a "hard working and talented" group of dancers before. He added "On The Town" is the "most challenging show the Guild has ever done."

Rich has seen neither the original ballet nor the Broadway production of the show. But, he sees this as an advantage that should lend an originality and freshness to this version making it more relevant to a modern day audience.

Morrison and Rosenfeld said to particularly watch for the lighting effects which have been incorporated into the production. Lighting designer Gerald Stockman said the emphasis of lighting in a musical should be on form.

"The lighting has to follow rhythms and textures of body movement," Stockman said. His protrayal of the atmosphere of New York should prove an interesting bonus to the talents of the Guild performers.

"On The Town" is produced by Steven Rosenfeld who claims the dancing will "Blow your socks off."



Ozzie, Chip, and Gabbie are sailors on the prowl in the "Big Apple" in the play "On the Town", a UMass Music and Theatre Guild presentation opening tonight in Bowker Auditorium. (Staff photo by Nancy Nutile)

Club Listings

Barselotti's, North Pleasant St., Amherst—Drinks served daily.

Carbur's, Elmwood Shops, Rte. 9, Hadley—Happy Hour Mon.-Fri. 4-6 p.m., 9-11. Double drinks and cheese and crackers during all Happy Hours and chicken wings daily 4-6.

The Hatch, Student Union, UMass—Happy Hour Mon.-Sat. 3-6 p.m.; Rock 'n' Reggaie disco every Tues. with Jim McDee of WMUA; Crazy George's and 60's rock and trivia every Fri.; Nov. 6, John Coster & the Medicine Band, free; Nov. 7, The Shaboo All Stars, $3; Nov. 8, The Elevators, $2.

Hungry-U, 55 University Dr., Amherst—Thurs. nights 5-midnight, pitchers of beer half price with pruchase of large pizza.

Mike's Westview Cafe, Sunderland Rd., Amherst—Thurs. is Penny Nite, every third drink; Fri., smorgasbord; Happy Hour every day 4-6 p.m.

The Pub, 15 East Pleasant St., Amherst—Tues. 2 for 1 nite; Wed. Pub Mug Nite w/Jim Plunkett; Fri & Sat., disco; Sun., oldies.

Poor Richard's, 10 Belchertown Rd., Amherst—Disco, drinks nightly.

QR, Rte. 9, Hadley—Nov. 7, Foreign Objects.

Rusty Nail, Rte. 47, Sunderland—Nov. 6, George Thorogood & the Destroyers, $5; Nov. 7, James Montgomery Band, $4; Nov. 8, The James Cotton Band, $4.50.

Sheehan's Cafe, 24 Pleasant St., Northampton—Nov. 6, Greenwich Trio; Nov. 11, Lynne Meryl Trio; Nov. 2, Roger Salloon; DJ Bee-W-Bop plays 50's & 60's music every Friday.

Northampton Days are Here!
Reach 25,000 people every Thursday at a special discount rate!
Call the Collegian for more details
545-3500

CHINESE KITCHEN
Fast Food Restaurant
興旺樓
Take Out Orders Call:
(413) 586-8220/586-8221
150 King Street, Northampton, Mass.

MAKE YOUR RESERVATION BEFORE IT'S TOO LATE
Don't miss out on the highest quality and fastest turnaround offered anywhere.
Make a reservation now for your thesis or end of semester papers, and don't get left out in the last-minute rush.
call WORDPRO, Inc.
256-6736
Word Processing - Phototypesetting
OCR Scanning
Typing - Copying

What's The Buzz?
Now Serving
Waffles á la mode
with our homemade sauces.
HOT FUDGE
HOT BUTTERSCOTCH
HOT APPLE SPICE
HONEY BLUEBERRY
STRAWBERRY
BART'S
249 Main St., Northampton/7:30-11:30 daily

HARLOW LUGGAGE
on sale while they last. . .
SUNSTAR 40% off
Lightweight Polyurethane Totes
"the little leather store with a whole lot more"
157 Main St. Northampton

Campus Center Travel
• AMTRACK
• EURAILPASS
(beat the Jan 1st price increase)
• YOUTH HOSTEL PASS
Campus Travel Center
Umass 545-0500

ACADEMY of MUSIC
Northampton, Mass.
Now, Limited Engagement, Ends Tuesday
On Screen At 7:00 and 9:00
NO NUKES
"No Nukes" knocks your socks off."
JACKSON BROWNE • CROSBY STILLS AND NASH
DOOBIE BROTHERS • JOHN HALL • GRAHAM NASH
BONNIE RAITT • GIL SCOTT-HERON • CARLY SIMON
PG
AT THE GATES OF SMITH COLLEGE

THE UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AT AMHERST
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
presents
Bob Fosse's Dancin'
SOLD OUT
TONY AWARD WINNER! Best Choreography
A TOM MALLOW PRODUCTION
SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 16, 1980
3 PM & 8 PM

Timberland
Why Heartfelt?
• Timberland
• Frye
• Bass
• Justin
• Tony Lama
• Dan Post
• and lots more
Heartfelt Leather
103 N. Pleasant St.
Downtown Amherst
Open 10-6 Mon-Sat
Open Friday till 8.
253-5135

Mon.-Sat. 10-5

Union Records Unlimited

Next to the Hatch

Check Out Our Daily Specials

NEW RELEASES ON SALE

Neil Young $5.49

Stevie Wonder $5.49

Earth, Wind & Fire $8.49

Sale Ends Nov. 14th

"Your Student-Run Record Store"

UMASS SPORTS COOP

NEW INVENTORY HAS ARRIVED

Running Shoes & Sneakers:
Puma, Nike, Adidas, Tiger, Converse, Beaumont

Sweats - Sweatpants, Sweatshirts, Sweatshorts

Other - Frisbees, Hockey Pucks, Hockey Tape
Running Shorts, Jump Ropes, Knee Pads
Shoe Laces & Much More

Come See Us-Student Union Near Post Office

Tonight at

THE PUB
15 East Pleasant St.
AMHERST

it's Miller time

If you've got the time, we've got the beer.

50¢ 12oz. BOTTLES

AMERICA'S QUALITY BEER SINCE 1855

A Free Bottle of

Miller High Life Beer

TO THE FIRST 100 PEOPLE

STARTING AT 9:00

AND...

Raffles
Trivia
Door Prizes

With over 100 T-SHIRTS to be given away

OLDIES

With GREG ADAMS

9 to 1
No Cover

live wire...
by Jim Moran

THE BOOK I READ two weeks ago had a different location in the plot, what can I say? Actually, the Talking Heads really were supposed to play in Waterbury at the Palace (Live Wire, Oct. 23) last night, but the concert was switched to Stage West in Hartford when it became clear that door receipts just wouldn't prove rewarding. My apologies to all you folks who opted not to go see the new and improved version of David Byrne and the Psychos because you thought they wouldn't be coming close enough to home. There are, however, still seats available for the Saturday night show at the Orpheum in Boston, which you can fork over $9.50 for at the Campus Center Ticketron outlet...

•••••

YOU HEARD IT HERE FIRST-- As reported last week, England's new wavers, The Buzzcocks, will be performing in our area. OK, here it is -- they will play at The Rusty Nail in Sunderland on November 18. (There, that didn't hurt a bit.) Opening for The 'Cocks will be local favorites' The Paper Dolls. Check out that one, it should be a lotta fun...

•••••

...AL BUMS tells me there's some new LP's for your turntables. Just out yesterday was Neil Young's latest, on the Reprise label, entitled Hawks and Doves. First reports indicate it's a return to a more folksy style (with political overtones) with cuts like: Captain Kennedy," "Union Man" and "Lost in Space." Also out for about a week now is Stevie Wonder's Hotter Than July, a reggae-type offering, and More George Thorogood and the Destroyers. The former is on the Motown label, the latter on Rounder Records.

•••••

...ROBIN PLAIN and her Chartbusters have a new EP out on Warner Brothers, featuring a cut of one of their better numbers, "Shakin' All Over," plus a live version of "When Things Go Wrong," among others.

•••••

THE COLD SNAP IS COMING!!!!...

•••••

SPRING CONCERT SIGNING?-- Yes. He's bigger than Elvis. He's sold more records than The Beatles, and he's more famous than Slim Whitman. Since the University wants to "tone down" the size of our annual spring fest, I hear UPC Productions is consider the booking of Sheb Wooley aka Ben Colder as the headline act for Spring Concert '81. You know Sheb. He used to be the wagonmaster on the old "Rawhide" TV series with Clint Eastwood. Some of his "really big" hits are " Purple People Eater," "Big Sweet John" and "Help Me Fake It Through the Night." Well he just might be coming, so send those cards and letters to UPC and tell them you want Sheb Wooley to be signed for Spring Concert...

...DECISIONS, DECISIONS--Which concerts shall I see this weekend? Hmmm, well, let's see, tonight I could go to a soul-type show at Stage West and see The Pointer Sisters. They do a great cover of Springsteen's "Fire," and Lee Dorsey's "Yes We Can." But, on the other hand this jazz thing with Chick Corea at the Fine Arts Center looks real good. And then over at the Rusty Nail, there's George Thorogood & the Destroyers. Ah, forget it. I'll just stay home and study for my Calculus exam

...Tomorrow night I definitely gotta pahty. It's Friday man. James Montgomery's at the Nail. That'll be wicked good. But I kinda wanna see somma that new wave stuff. Maybe Candy and I will go check out Foreign Objects at the QR in Hadley, then during intermission, well, who knows?...But the Stones are real cool, man. The Blushing Brides are doing a tribute to them at Stage West. But I dunno if my van can make it that fah. So if we go to the Hatch, we can walk ovah and see The Shaboo All Stars with Matt "Guitar" Murphy of The Blues Brothers...And if I don't got a hangover then we'll be goin' out Satahday too. The Escalators, or Elevators, sometnin like tnat, are at the Hatch. But I heah that Glen Matlock, this real far-out cat who used to be in that really weird punk group The Sex Pistols is playin' with The Spectors at Rahar's in Northampton. Then, of course, there's always Spyro Gyra at Smith College. But I dunno if I can, like, deal with all those plaid skirts, man...Later!

OVERSEAS AUTO PARTS

For the most complete line of foreign auto parts and accessories in the Pioneer Valley.

Get an extra 10% off our low prices with this ad.

offer expires Nov. 15, 1980

API

Zayre Shopping Plaza
Rt 9 Hadley, MA 01305
Tel 253-3403

authorized API distributor

Friday & Saturday

DISCO With K.C.

NO COVER CHARGE

Late Night Menu Served til Midnight

THE PUB
15 East Pleasant St.
AMHERST

whole wheat PIZZA FACTORY

363 Main Street
Amherst, Mass. 01002
256-8587

143 Main Street
Florence, Mass. 01060
584-7583

OUR NEW MID WEEK SPECIALS

SUN. Double Dough or Double Cheese

MON. Onion or Sausage

TUES. Gr. Pepper or Pepperoni

WED. Mushroom or Anchovies

THUR. Gr. Beef or Bl. Olives

ON ANY OF THESE DAYS
BUY ONE ITEM & GET CHOICE OF SPECIAL ITEMS FREE ON YOUR PIZZA.

Example: On Tues. A Small Pepperoni & Double Cheese is ONLY $3.75

COKE STILL 10c

FREE DELIVERY 256-8587

SALE!

ONE DAY ONLY... SATURDAY, NOV. 8

brightly colored, hand knit

SLIPPER SOCKS

wool & acrylic

REG. 9.95

6.95

FACES

A Store-full of Ideas

Downtown Amherst /Open 10-6, Mon.-Sat.

Collegian Classifieds

• Come to Collegian Office CC 113 • 8:45-3:45 Monday - Friday • Deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day • 15c per word • Student rate 10c per word • Cash in advance • 5 consecutive days 5% discount • Phone number FREE

AUDIO

Phase Linear Mark V Speakers wxc. cond. only 2 mo old need $ $650-- or BO Bill 546-5835 anytime

Discount Stereo Equipment: Campus Sounds has everyday sale prices on over 100 top brands-all fully guaranteed!-Will beat any competitor's price! Call Eric @ 546-1147 (try again after 11 p.m.)

Stereo Console w/turntable AM/FM radio cassette player $125.00 firm 549-6988 aft 9 PM good cond

AUTO FOR SALE

1968 Volvo Wagon good condition rebuilt engine 1200 BO Joe 546-7924

68 Cougar good condition best offer over $450 call Jim 549-6321

Capri 1976 standard, black, 39000 miles, very good condition, new batteries and brakes, no rust, must sell-leaving the country $2580 Carlos 584-4185 (Hadley)

73 Buick Century 75,000 mi, excellent transportation, some body damage, has sticker, must sell nest offer accepted 253-7479

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITY

Opportunity to earn $18,000/yr by May working 10-12 hrs/wk Find out how YOU can do it for appointment call 549-1172

DISC JOCKEY

Have a Great Party!! Hire Quality Disc Jockeys Denis 546-6249 Andy 546-1164

ENTERTAINMENT

Soundsystem and DJ for hire perfect for band parties coffeehouses Rick 584-4105

Hire Best DJ's On Campus Bose 901 sound Ansy 546-164 Denis 546-6249

PA system mics echo Rhodes electric piano ideal for bands coffeehouses Loud Partys Jim 546-7517

FOR RENT

Rooms for rent So. Deerfield bus available 665-7093

FOR SALE

Gift Idea: Portrait Drawings; call dennis Delap 665-2972

TRS-80 48K or 16K System must sell mint condition call for details 546-7050

Backpack new cost $150, sell for $100 will bring to Campus 1-684-3121, 1-442-6023

Moving, must sell 1970 Valiant runs well, $1200.00 Yamaha 12-string guitar, $200 or BO furniture 253-3101

Single bed $40 Carol 549-5440 after 5

73 Gremlin 600.00 or best offer call 584-7094 after 7-PM

Mattress/sofa Queensize futon with pillow. Both have slipcovers All 100% cotton. 1 month old $175 253-2427

Mag Wheels 14x6 for most GM cars call Phil 546-6675

3-yr old Pacific Trail 100% down jacket no holes or stains; $30 call eves; 665-7134

Hockey Equipment: Goalie stick and catch gloves; shoulder and chest pads take all for $60 Keith 665-4914

Wristwatches; namebrands $110-160 retail ½ price

Springsteen Tickets for sale 12/15 show at Boston Garden call 546-7979

PA Mixer/Amplifier Randall RPA-120, 200 watts, 5 channel EQ, 6 hillo impedance inputs, reverb. Excellent condition. $275--Rob 665-3462

Guitar for sale "Home on the Range" the Epiphone greatest $125.00 or BO 546-9474

Rossignol CM; 195 cm, brand new - never mounted, retailed at $225, asking $175, call Jim after 7:00 pm 546-5214

68 Rambler American runs excellent must sell Dave 584-3298 $275

Brown suede chaps for sale: mint cond. call 253-3504 price negotiable

FOUND

1 container of film in alley by Taco Villa, 10-31-80 call 665-7983 ask for Tim

Set of keys on Aquarius key ring call 6-9153

Key found in lot near Worcester DCcall 6-4439 after 6 pm

Keys near FAC 11/3 call 6-9292

HELP WANTED

Wanted part-time radiology technician for multi-specialty group practice please call 256-8561 ext 248 M-F 8 am-4 pm

Cruises—Club Mediterranean, Sailing, Expeditions! Needed: Sports Instructors, Office Personnel, Counselors, Europe, Carribean, Worldwide! Summer. Career. Send $5.95 + $1 handling for application OPENINGS, GUIDE to CRUISEWORLD 16160129, Sacramento, Ca. 95860

Certified CPR instructor wanted to co-teach CPR (BLS) at UMass Anyone certified call 546-3296 keep trying!

Part-time Driver with own van or station wagon for self-help group of mentally retarded adults. Monday eves. Wage & mileage. Call Association for Retarded Citizens 586-0109

Overseas Jobs—Summer/year round. Europe, S. Amer., Australia, Asia, All Fields. $500-$1200 monthly. Sightseeing. Free Info. write: IJC Box 52-MAI Corona Del Mar, Ca 92625

Houseworker 2-3 hours/week, Sunderland, references required 665-4920

INSTRUCTION

English Classes (ESL) Elementary. Intermediate. Two hours an afternoon, except Wednesday. Faculty/student spouses, visitors, immigrants. People's Institute, Northampton. 584-3956 NLI, P.O. Box 34, Northampton

Hypnosis Speed reading Rm 909 Campus Center Nov 12, 13 at 7 PM all welcome KR Morse 532-5703

COBOL Tutor professional experience call 665-4722 6 PM to 10 PM reasonable rates!

INTERNSHIPS AVAILABLE

Legal Assistant Interns Wanted: The Legal Services Office has 8 positions available for full-time legal assistant interns for the Spring 1981 semester. Up to fifteen credits may be earned through Office of Internships. Legal assistants assist attorneys of the LSO with client interviewing, investigations, legal research, negotiations, giving advice and referrals, preparation of court forms, and attendance at hearings in District and Superior Courts, and participation in administrative hearings and federal litigation. Maintain continuing case load under supervision of attorneys. Applications available at Office of Internships, Curry Hicks Building, and inquire further at Legal Services Office, 922 Campus center. Applicationsdue November 7, 1980 at Office of Internships. Writing sample required. All third world and women students are encouraged to apply.

LEGAL SERVICES

Attorney Robert Astor Criminal matters, domestic relations, real estate. Reasonable rates. 584-4369

LOST

Nova Owners I hitched back to Boston on Friday Oct. 10 I left a brown and tan reversible jacket in your car call 6-7470

Lost keys—Sat nite wall across from Thoreau Reward 6-7451

Friday, sharp thin-line calculator near Hasbrouck parking lot Ray 323-4874

Icelandic Brown Sweater on Friday btw Whitmore and SBA great sentimental value please call 546-7064

Lost - small brass sword, substantial reward. Lost downtown Amherst Halloween night. Steve L. 545-0731, 549-0627

Ladies glasses green case light tan pink frames Carolyn 6-7495

Blue corduroy Jacket Lost on GRC or Goessman contact Nir 545-0971

Gold S Chain double bracelet Means alot to me. Reward call Jennifer 6-3201

Lost 3 keys on a mini-sandal Friday nite in SW 6-4169

MORNING SUNSHINE!

Morning Sunshine - Call Me

MOTORCYCLES

Kawasaki 500 3 cyl. 1976 excellent cond. helmet steal $700 John 665-4395

PERSONALS

Undergrad Pol. Sci. Assoc. interested in becoming member? Sign-up Rm 422 Thompson .

What do you think of your department, school or college? This is your chance to let the rest of the world know! Have your opinion published in the 1981 yearbook. See Maureen at the Index office, room 103 CC, or call 545-0848 and leave your name and phone number

There's nothing exactly like this. . .anywhere! Send your favorite snapshots, magazine picture, drawing. . .anything! We'll customize it into a beautiful 2 3/8" key-chain button, or pin backed button. (specify) Your personalized memento $3.00 p.p.d. T.G.R. Enterprises 2900 Griffin Road Suite #5 Fort Lauderdale, Florida 33312 + ask for giant "slogan" catalog!!

UMass Photo Co-op Raffle 1st prize Canon AE-1 Nov 3-14 CC Concourse

Layout person needed for Thursday nights at the Collegian. If you applied earlier come down again. Talk to Fran Basche

Assistant Managing Editors: meeting this Friday. Check with Fran

Up for a late night pizza and beer? Come to CHARLIE'S. Pizza served Daily 9-1. Ask about our golden club card which entitles you to a free drink per day. Card cost is $5.00 per month

Donna—Happy Birthday mad flasher. Love always Kathy and "Jock"

Minnie in a rut? Call the ghetto

Ann Thanks for Pearl Harbor. It was a blast. Now we're all turning Japanese

To my favorite gymnast: I love you more than anything. Stay with me

Happy Birthday Mary! We love you. Beth Jan and Peg

Happy 21st Birthday Bruce King! Try not to be so grumpy - the complainer next door

Hey NEWBS! Happy Birthday! Cheers to the end of Carla (0237020) Friendship forever Love your other ⅔ (joined at the hip!)

Maroo Happy Birthday Hope you hada great one Wednesday Sorry its late with LUST your favorite Martian; Perverse

Mike Happy Anniversary I love you. Lynn

Poo I Spaghetti—Face You! Pie

Lady—My needs, your needs, or our needs? Got to share. Peace & Love

Eileen—this is only the beginning Love you Tim

O'Bagsky: you missed Monday night's escapades. Signed Susie Sorority

Coma tonight - Engineering Auditorium - 8:15, 10:00 - $1.00

Hey Karen Dibenedettadenabettadeni of 12H Brandywine - what are you, from Czechoslovakia?

Full Gospel Bible Study Friday Nov. 7 CC 808 8-10 PM

Sherie Happy Birthday! Your the best! I love you & your beautiful Paul

Jeanne H You get one extra spank for every extra birthday! Happy extra spank! Michael C

RIDE WANTED

Ride needed to NYC Thurs 10/6 $$$ please call Joanna 6-8148

Ride needed to Ithaca NY for two people Leave Nov 7 or 8 return Nov 11 Share $ and driving Rainy 6-7338

I need a ride to Cape Cod-Hyannis area on Fri Nov 7 please call Barbara at 546-6425 will share expenses & can leave anytime

Ride needed NYC 1/7/80 will share $ guaranteed high time keep calling 6-8213 or 6-8220

ROOM WANTED

RESPONSIBLE, INDEPENDENT FEMALE looking for own room in house or large apartment for Spring semester. Preferably near town or campus. Call WHITNEY 546-9346

Needed room house or apt near bus next semester Rob 665-4181

Male senior looking for own room in house or apartment for Spring semester 546-8187

ROOMMATE WANTED

Own room in thre bdrm Puffton Village apt. $122 includes heat Call Bob 549-5877 after 6

Female as 4th roommate in Brittany Manor for Spring semester. Friendly, responsible. $95/mth Call 253-5729 Ask for Maryellen or Cathy

Colonial Village one bdrm in two bdrm apt $125 & elec Mark 256-6454 after 5 pm Nov. 1 sublet

2 females to share Jeffery Manor apt on bus rt, begin Jan 253-7658

SERVICES

Experienced typist available Fast, neat work, reasonable rates. 546-6439

Typing; Words-Worth, 37 East Pleasant Street, Amherst, 549-1303. Double-spaced text from 95c a page. Justified resumes from $3.50 a page. Telephone dictation line. Overnight rush jobs. Your words are worth it.

Expert Typing, Editing reasonable rates 665-4815 evenings and weekends

Need babysitter weeknights? Call Carrie 546-6847

SHITTER & TUMA

Shitter & Tuma Happy Belated Birthday Love Spunky & Dicky

SONGWRITERS

Folk-Singer, song writer researching song writing at UMass. If you write original folk, or country music I would like to interview you and profile your work in my Research--call Joe at 665-2840 10 pn-11:30 pm or weekends anytime

TO SUBLET

One bedroom apt in Southwood from 12/1 or 1/1/81 to 9/1/81 w/option $235 + 256-8958

TRAVEL

Florida—The Great Getaway for Spring Break and January Term under $200 rounc trip jet 256-6704

WANTED

Highest prices paid for class rings, gold, and silver jewelry. See me before you sell. Daniel Smith, 25 North Pleasant St between Fotomat and Logos, Amherst M-Sat10-6 call 256-0710

Top Dollars paid for class rings, gold, sterling at Wendy's. CC Concourse, twice a week approved by UMass Board of Governors

Subject needed for participation in weight training study for newly developed Dynamic Strength Machines Need male not currently involved in weight training program, must be willing to make commitment. Call 5-1337 till 5; 549-3833 after 5 PM

Cash for your old classrings, gold or silver. Call anytime—546-6607

Highest prices paid for class rings, gold and silver jewelry. See me when you sell. Daniel Smith 25 North Pleasnat St. between FOTOMAT and LOGOS , Amherst Mon-Sat 10-6 Licensed by Town of Amherst & State of Massachusetts call 256-0710

Someone who sews, to take in my P-coat I will pay generously 546-9101

WANTED TO RENT

Wanted 2 bedroom apt in Cliffside, Presidential, Riverglade, Townehouse apts. or willing to trade Squire Vill twnhouse preferably Nov or Dec 665-3034

Wanted 2/3 bedroom/or house near campus starting January Ameeta 545-1589 546-9955

Country Living at its finest. Utilities included 10 minutes from Amherst Whately Inn 665-3044

PIN AND TIE PARTY!

Wild pin and tie party! New Wave & Rock QR Disco Thurs Nov 6 8 pm Tix $2.50 at door $2.00 advance Drink Specials

The rusty nail Inn

Thurs. Nov. 6
GEORGE THOROGOOD and THE DESTROYERS

Fri. Nov. 7
JAMES MONTGOMERY BAND
with special guests
FIRST RATE

Sat. Nov. 8
THE JAMES COTTON BAND
with special guests
FIRST RATE

Rt 47 Sunderland MA 665-4937

DOONESBURY by Garry Trudeau

MARK, HAVE YOU SEEN MIKE?
HE'S UPSTAIRS IN HIS ROOM. HE HASN'T COME DOWN SINCE LAST NIGHT.
WHY? WHAT'S WRONG?
ANDERSON'S TRUMONS. MIKE'S TAKING IT PRETTY HARD.
THOSE DAMN POLITICIANS! THEY'LL BREAK YOUR HEART EVERY TIME. POOR MIKE. I BETTER GO UP AND HAVE A TALK WITH HIM.
YOU CALL ANDERSON AND TELL HIM TO GET OVER HERE.
ZONK. I DON'T REALLY THINK IT'S HIS FAULT.

Abnormal Psychology J. Demskey

CHET! THAT WAS GOD TALKING TO US!!
WHAT?! WHAT?!
NO WAY! NO SNAKE BALLS CHANCE IN HELL WAS THAT GOD!!
BUT WE BOTH HEARD IT, CHET!
WHY DO YOU GUEST ASK ME EXISTANCE, CHET? YOU HURT ME WHEN YOU SAY THINGS LIKE THAT.
STOP BEING A PSYCHOLOGY MAJOR AND START ACTING LIKE A GOD, WILL YOU?!
AHHH! HE'S GOING TO GET US HIT WITH A LIGHTNING BOLT! I JUST KNOW IT!!

Under the Influence M. Joyce

AND IT LOOKS AS THOUGH GOVERNOR REAGAN HAS WON BY A SIZABLE MAJORITY!
WELL MURPHY IT LOOKS LIKE FOUR YEARS OF DEATH VALLY DAYS!

Roller radio party

The Amherst Jayeees is sponsoring a Roller skating Party on Sunday from 12 to 4 p.m. on the Fine Arts Patio at the University of Massachusetts. Skate Rentals are $2.00 per hour, and free refreshments will be provided. Music is being broadcast from WMUA, and a 50 cent discount will be given to anyone who brings a transistor radio with them. All profits from the party go to benefit the Amherst Survival Center, a non-profit organization which donates gifts to the needy in Amherst.

★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★

Happy Birthday Marsha!

Congratulations once again on becoming legal - not that being under 20 has stopped you for the past two years!

Love, your brother.

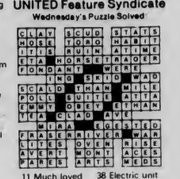
★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★

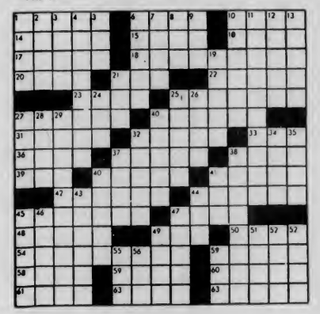
CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1 Arch-fiend
6 Textile stiffener
10 Skin eruption
14 Old womanish
15 Gelatin substitute
16 "···· was a Lady"
17 One of the wife's folks
18 Ball game result: 2 words
20 Tigers
21 Scot. river
22 Was concerned
23 Malay sarong
25 Singularity
27 Novel setting
30 Dead drunk
31 Make amends
32 Negative contraction
33 Heavenly body
36 Amer. inventor
37 Look intensely
38 Tree knot
39 Young man
40 Unctuous: Slang
41 ···· de resistance
42 Danish king of old
44 Throbbed
45 Quartz-albite rock
47 China Comb. form
48 Horseman
49 Once around the track
50 At one's ···· end
54 Pre-Airmail railroad unit: 2 words
57 Practice
58 Numerical prefix
59 Brought to maturity
60 Eur. nation: Comb. form
61 Shred: Pl.
62 Small horse
63 Sprinkle

DOWN
1 Levantine ketch
2 Ms. Pavlova
3 Slope
4 Yukoners' neighbors
5 Not yet old
6 Art gallery
7 Opposed: Dial
8 Roland's destroyer
9 Hematite
10 Fix a wicker chair
11 Much loved people: 2 words
12 Begets
13 Pays attention
19 Distinctive odor
21 Gambling cube
24 Brewery product
25 Eared seal
26 Not any
27 Asian nation
28 Mr. Harbach
29 Corresponding exactly
30 Adapt to fit
32 Declare
34 Ethnic group
35 Propagated
37 Ego
38 Electric unit
40 Express scorn
41 Paronomasia
43 Administers extreme unction
44 Orange seed
45 Had weapon
46 Ms. Dors
47 Abounding in grits
49 Legal hold
51 Building beam
52 Mahjong piece
53 Arrange neatly
55 ··· session
56 Past
57 Greeting cries

UNITED Feature Syndicate
Wednesday's Puzzle Solved





D.C. Menu

Kosher Dinner
Hamburg Special
Fish Cakes/Tartar Sauce

Earthfoods
Pizza
Green Salad
Onion Soup
Grain
Non-Dairy Bran Muffins

THE DISTINGUISHED VISITORS PROGRAM PRESENTS. . .

DICK GREGORY

Human Rights Activist
and Social Satirist
speaking on

"Social Problems: Social or Anti-Social?"

TONIGHT
Student Union Ballroom
8:00 pm Free
UMass Students and Faculty Only

★Election

continued from page 1

With 99 percent of the precincts counted, Reagan had 43 million votes, or 51 percent; Carter 34.7 million or 41 percent; independent John B. Anderson 5.5 million or 7 percent, and Libertarian Ed Clark 1 percent.

That translated to 483 electoral votes for Reagan. Carter had only 49. Reagan needed only 270 electoral votes to win.

The former California governor swept every one of the 10 biggest states, winning even in such solid Democratic territory as Massachusetts. Even Carter's native South, save his home state of Georgia, turned against him.

Reagan captured 43 states; Carter won only Georgia, West Virginia, Rhode Island, Maryland, Minnesota, Hawaii and the District of Columbia.

★LSO

continued from page 1

not leaving and must be evaluated."

A situation of student versus administration is explicit in the recent case of two UMass students filing a $300,000 class-action suit against five members of the University of Massachusetts Department of Public Safety. The students alleged police brutality.

DiMare also filed a $1.2 million suit against four University officials on behalf of a student who claims she was discharged from school for behavior centering on past emotional problems.

Ramirez-Soto said, "If the administration starts to think that there is a vendetta there instead of thinking we are asserting the rights of our clients, controlling personnel is one way they can begin their plan to control the LSO."

Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs Dennis L. Madson said, "There is clearly a problem between our current employment process and their (LSO) responsibilities." When asked if he thought there was an appearance of impropriety Madson replied, "I would not say impropriety, it just doesn't fit the situation."

Madson said two solutions to the problem have been proposed. One solution was a contract that would remove LSO from University employees where they would be given enough money to buy benefits elsewhere. The other proposal was an interim solution to come up with an informal arrangement where the evaluation process would be shared with a staff advisor having co-signatures of a student leader and staff supervisor.

However, neither Michael Pill, LSO staff attorney, nor DiMare said they have heard of such solutions. Pill said, "What two solutions?" When informed of them he said, "Let Madson put it in writing."

Neither of the solutions have been reported to the chairperson of the LSO board. Ramirez-Soto said, "There is a misconception in the student affairs office about whom they should be directing their information to."

He said, "for future reference, the LSO board is an independent body from the SGA and the GSS. Nobody in the LSO board, staff or chairperson, ever gets notified. Formal arrangements get done verbally, never in writing, which makes the establishment of the managers history impossible. This has plagued the LSO board for more than five years."

properly insulated from a possible attack from the administration. He said, "We don't want Madson to be able to overrule any decision made by the managing attorney."

★Analysis

continued from page 5

and less money in their pockets turned to the conservatives in hopes of alleviating their economic woes. Voters felt that the president and congress were not adequately dealing with the country's economic problems, and decided to clear house and revamp the obese bureaucratic government.

Locally, Massachusetts struck back at the government by passing the controversial "Proposition 2½" and by repealing the Halloween 1979 legislative pay raises. The state's residents, attempting to shed the label of "Taxachusetts", overwhelmingly approved question 2, "Proposition 2½", by a 3-2 margin, 60 percent of the vote.

Indifferent to the long term local and statewide effects of the property tax cutting measure, voters saw the short term benefits of substantiously lower property taxes as a quick-fix solution to their financial woes.

The landslide victory of Reagan may have stemmed from the developments in Iran immediately prior to the election. Voters may have distrusted Carter, thinking he was using the situation for last minute political leverage over the Republican challenger. In addition pre-election polls indicated a closer race, which may have been the result of voters expressing their support of the status-quo rather than stating their true perference.

It remains to be seen, but yesterday's results will not only effect the nation for the next four years, but for many years to come. It is evident that the political tides in the country have turned, it remains to be seen if they will flow the other way again.

DISCO ON DOWN TO...

Rt. 9 Amherst

Poor Richards DISCOTHEQUE

Thursday Special

Beat The Clock

8-9 50c

9-10 75c

All Drinks

10-closing $1.00

All Drinks

Fri. & Sat HAPPY HOUR 8-10 p.m.

50c Mon-Sat 10-5 Valley Records Amherst 50c Next to the Hatch

Lowest Everyday Prices In The Valley

50c off any album

on any Saturday in November

with this coupon

(excluding in store specials)

"Your Student-Run Record Store"

50c coupon 50c

NEW!

"Do-it-yourself"

Copy a one-hour cassette in less than 2 minutes.

Make a Copy of your Favorite Cassette For Only *99¢

*Price includes the copy cassette and the Copying Service! Guaranteed perfect monaural copies, every time.

What can you copy?

The potential uses for cassette copies are endless. Here are just a few of the most common applications:

meetings, sermons, sales messages, weddings, interviews, talking letters, family events, relaxations, exercises, word-processing data, and computer programs.

This coupon is redeemable for one (1) cassette copy of your original cassette for only 99¢. Any additional copies of your original cassette are at the prices below. Simply bring your original cassette and this coupon with you. The copy cassette and the copying service are included in one price.

Your Original Cassette Length	Regular Price Per Copy	High-Speed Copying Time
30 minute	$2.19	1 minute
60 minute	$2.89	2 minutes
90 minute	$3.79	3 minutes
120 minute	$4.79	4 minutes

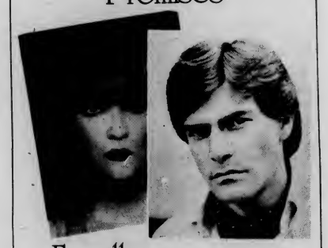
REZOUND CASSETTE COPYING CENTERS

Retailer Redemption Procedure: When cashing this coupon, please circle the copy cassette size and initial it at the time of purchase. Then anytime after the date of this promotion, send us your coupons for redemption. We will replace each coupon with a fresh cassette and invoice you at seventy cents ($.70) each regardless of cassette size. Send to: 1401-B West River Road North, Mpls., MN 55411

This Coupon Expires 11/15/80

Available Exclusively at: the University Store Campus Center Univ. of Mass. Form 1380

Great Expectations Promises:



Excellence~

The finest professional cutters consult with you to give you a precision haircut that fits your personality, features and lifestyle perfectly.

Economy~

Great Expectations offers professional services at affordable prices.

Extras~

A haircut consultation, shampoo and blower styling with each precision haircut.

GREAT EXPECTATIONS® PRECISION HAIRCUTTERS

Shampoo, cut & blow-dry only $10.00 with student I.D.

Hampshire Mall Hadley, MA 10-9:30

No Appointment Ever!

JV soccermen finish season undefeated

By CLAY BORGLUND
Collegian Staff

"I think that this was a great way to end a great season," exclaimed JV soccer coach Joel Mascolo yesterday, as his team defeated the visiting Chiefs of Springfield College, 3-1, at Boyden field, to end up 7-0-0 on the year.

For the first half though, it looked like this team would throw a wrench into the gears of UMass' perfect season. Playing with the wind, on this bitterly cold afternoon, they took advantage of the Minutemen's early sloppy play and Mark Guttmann scored the lone goal of the half at 8:03 on an unassisted effort. So despite the fact that they outshot Springfield 11-7 over the first 45 minutes, UMass looked at an uphill battle in front of them for the remaining 45.

Fortunately things were different for the Minutemen in the second half, they now had the advantage of the wind on their side.

Eric Zuckerman made it a brand new game for the two teams when he punched a penalty kick into the far right corner at 21:10. It was his second attempt at the shot, as the Springfield goalie, James Lewicki, was deemed in the wrong on the first shot by one referee for moving before Zuckerman made contact with the ball. "Hey, sure we got a lucky break on the penalty shot," said Mascolo, "but we'll take it."

Six minutes later, Mark Bonde tallied the goal which proved to be the game winner. Assisted by Herbie Sidman, he took the ball in from the right and looped a shot off his left foot that found its way into the corner. From then on, a little defense by UMass and a lot of wind spelled defeat for the Chiefs.

Bonde and Sidman switched roles for the final UMass goal, with Sidman getting credit for it and Bonde picking up the assist. The best part of this goal though, was its pretty execution. A "10" on any richter scale.

It started out as a direct kick, twenty yards in front of the Springfield goal. Steve Berlin pushed a short pass forward to Zuckerman who in turn passed to John Poutas, alone at the left post. He then crossed a beautiful pass to Bonde at the right post who then headed it in front to an open Sidman, who finished off textbook play with a nudge of the ball into the net.

★Booters end season

continued from page 16

"They were both real easy goals."

"Rickey (Wasmund) picked us up and did a helluva job," UMass Coach Russ Kidd said. "He was a starter for us in the spring; we misjudged him all year."

Farrell, a 5-6, 140-pound junior forward, gave the Chiefs the early lead when he left-footed a shot past UMass goalie Paul Healy just 4:24 into the game. Farrell took a pass from Peter Muto and fired a low drive just inside the left goal post past the outstretched reach of Healy, who made six saves in the game.

Healy, who came in to play for UMass just three games ago to replace the injured Brett Olsher, was praised by Kidd after the game. "That young kid came in and really played well for us," Kidd said. "That's only his third varsity game; he did the job."

But the number one star of the game was, of course, Wasmund. With time running out in the first half, Wasmund took a beautiful feed from Tony G. Dias and rapped a hard shot which beat Chief goalie Bernie Watt to the short side just as time expired.

Then after a sloppily played period of time, Wasmund scored what proved to be the game-winner midway through the second half. He took a pass from Kevin Flynn and booted a quick turnaround drive into the far corner which cleanly beat stunned Springfield goalie Watt.

BARSELOTTIS

Downtown Amherst

THURSDAY SPECIAL

$1.00 Off on any name Pitcher of Beer

with this coupon

Don't forget our Friday Happy Hour with Free Whole Wheat Pizza

RUSSELL'S LIQUORS

18 Main St. Downtown Amherst 253-5441

CHECK THESE PRICES

Busch ..... 12 oz N/R's/7.99

Miller ..... 12 oz N/R's/7.99

Molson's ..... 2.99 six/10.99 case

WINE

Donelli Lambrusco... 1.99/750 ml 3.99/1.5 liter

Le Domaine Rose, Chablis, Rhine..... 2.99/1.5 liter

Liebfraumilch..... 1.99/23 oz.

Tosca Soave, Valpolicella..... 3.59/68 oz

ALL BEER AND WINE SPECIALS ARE COLD

THE AMHERST DELICATESSEN

25c off with purchase of sandwich and beverage

(with this coupon)

Friday and Saturday only, Nov. 7 & 8

Serving Sandwiches, Bagels & Lox, Quality Cold Cuts & New York Cheesecake

The Carriage Shops, Amherst 549-6314

BUST OUT FOR THE WEEKEND

TRAILWAYS and PETER PAN offer frequent service to Boston, New York and many other great Get-A-Way places.

TRAILWAYS & PETER PAN BUS LINES

MAKE LIFE SIMPLER FOR YOU.

The Energy Saver

For Information, Schedules and Prices, Contact:

Campus Center Bus Office - 545-2006, or 549-6000

The Whately Inn

Quality Food Prepared To Order

Open Tues Sat 5 p.m. Sunday at 1

Steve Klos Owner-Chef

665-3044

Full Liquor License

GREAT FOOD!

FEATURING STEVE KLOC'S

BROILED LIVE LOBSTER

ALSO

STEAKS, PRIME RIB

&

SEAFOOD

Plan your Thanksgiving with us

Make reservations now for Christmas parties.

Main Street Whately, Mass.

The Umass Music Theater Guild Presents:

The Broadway Musical

"ON THE TOWN"

Music by Leonard Bernstein

Thurs, Fri, Sat, Nov. 6, 7, 8 and 13, 14, 15

All Performances: 8 P.M. Students $2.50

Bowker Auditorium Gen Admission $3.00

Special Discount Preview

Thursday Nov. 6, $1.00 off all ticket prices

Tickets now on sale at the Bowker Box Office

or phone reservation by calling 545-0783

Sports

Bonnie Quigley, a UMass cheerleader, roots the Minutemen on in their season-ending win yesterday. (Staff photo by John Bunting)

Finally a win—UM on top, 2-1

By BOB MITCHELL
Collegian Staff

It wasn't a typical victory celebration. There were no loud jubilant cries when the final buzzer sounded. They had won their final game of the season and that was that.

"I'm glad it's over," senior fullback Scott Cooper said after the UMass men's soccer team defeated the Springfield College Chiefs, 2-1, in the season-finale yesterday at Boyden Field.

"I'm sad but glad," Cooper laughed. "It's been a long four years. Now I can be a student for my last semester."

Cooper's thoughts reflaected the Minutemen's dismal season. The Minutemen, who snapped a six-game losing streak with the win over SC, ended the frustrating campaign with a 5-11 record.

The Minutemen, who outshot the Chiefs 14-9, came from behind to nip the visitors and send them home with a 6-10-1 seasonal mark.

Junior forward Rick Wasmund scored both UMass goals. Wasmund, a native of Williamsville, N.J. who has seen little playing time this season, banged in the first at the halftime buzzer to tie the game at 1-1. Dave Farrell had given the Chiefs an early lead four-and-one-half minutes into the game.

Wasmund then scored the game-winner with 27:07 left in the game after taking a pass from teammate Kevin Flynn.

"I was set up well on both goals," Wasmund said.

turn to page 15

Fullback Julio Avila takes a corner shot in yesterday's men's soccer win over Springfield College. Avila, a senior, played his last game for Mass. (Staff photo by John Bunting)

Not in the endzone—yet

By KEVIN CULLEN
Collegian Staff

One of these days, Brian Heyworth will score a touchdown.

"I'll tell you," Heyworth, a senior fullback for the University of Massachusetts, was saying. "I've been waiting four years for one. It's gotta come sooner or later."

Heyworth (at 6'3", 223) is the inside yardage man for the Minutemen, frequently carrying the ball on first down. Heyworth's inside running game complements the outside running ability of UMass tailback Garry Pearson. Yet, while Pearson leads the nation in scoring in Div. 1-AA, Brian Heyworth has not scored this year—or ever, at UMass.

Kevin Cullen

"I'm getting anxious," Heyworth admits. "It seems whenever we get down by the goal line, they take me out or line me up in a wing position."

Last year, Heyworth ran the ball 15 times for 51 yards and caught nine passes for another 134 yards. No touchdowns.

After seven games this year, Heyworth has gained 419 yards on 98 attempts for a 4.2 yards per carry average, to go along with seven receptions for 48 yards.

No touchdowns.

In Saturday's 39-21 win over the University of Connecticut, Heyworth opened the second quarter with a rambling 12-yard run bringing the ball down to the UConn three yard line. Heyworth was taken out, sophomore fullback Tom Murray sent in. Murray scored on the next play.

Heyworth watched it all.

In the fourth quarter, Murray scored again. And Brian Heyworth watched.

"It felt really good to run so much on Saturday," said Heyworth, who rushed 20 times for 110 yards against UConn. "It was the first time I got the ball a lot since the Villanova game."

In that Villanova game, Heyworth ran for 103 yards on 21 carries. But nearly half of Heyworth's carries this year have come in the Villanova and UConn games.

"We take it game by game," says UMass head coach Bob Pickett. "Brian's done a great job for us. But we don't go into a game saying 'Garry's going to get the ball this many times, and Brian's going to get the ball this many times.' We just take it a game at a time."

Sometimes Heyworth doesn't get the ball as often as he'd like.

And, still, no complaints.

"Hey, I don't argue," Brian Heyworth was saying. "I mean, scoring and all that is nice. But it's a lot more important for the team to win. I just do what they (the coaches) tell me."

Heyworth grew up in South Portland, Maine, and lettered in basketball and track in addition to football in high school. He is very much like Pearson in that when he talks football, he seldom talks about himself.

"The thing that I think is great this year is the way our subs have come off the bench and done such fantastic jobs," Heyworth said after Saturday's win. "Take the way Dean (Pecevich) played today. When Tim (Fontaine) got hurt, Dean came right in off the bench and ran the offense.

"And did you see (Victor) Pizzotti? He's a nut," Heyworth said, referring to Pizzotti's play on special teams, and filling in for the injured Fred Read at center. "I love it. We get key performances by everybody in every situation. That's why I like this team."

And, as for this Saturday at Holy Cross, or against New Hampshire and Boston College in the weeks to follow, what happens when UMass gets down by the goal line?

"Either I'm not lining up at the wing, or I'll tell Murray I'm not coming out," Brian Heyworth says with a laugh.

But, you know he doesn't mean it.

Brian Heyworth will go out and block for you all day. He'll come out if you ask him. He'll line up at the wing if you ask him.

Because, in this age of cry babies and hard guys, in an age where a lot of guys could give a damn if their team loses just as long as they play well, in an age where team play sometimes seems buried by individual performances, Brian Heyworth just happens to be a team player.

And he makes you wonder why there aren't many more.

Stickers confident with playoffs ahead

By NANCY PARKS
Collegian Staff

Nervousness isn't part of Judy Strong's game plan as she and her teammates, the University of Massachusetts women's field hockey team, head for the Northeast regional Division I playoffs at Springfield College, Friday, as second seed.

"There are only four returning players (to the playoffs)," Strong said, "but maybe the pressure is off a little since we are not seeded first. We are capable of winning, and becoming the champions again, if we play like we've been playing all season."

Strong is confident that she and her teammates, returning to playoff action as defending champions, will come up with a strong performance at Springfield College.

"I don't feel any pressure, I just play one game at a time," Strong said. "I suppose if I had sat down and looked at our score (16-1-1) it would have been scary, but I'm just going to go in and play like I'm capable of playing."

Strong also feels the younger players are not being subjected to any pressures that they haven't already felt going through their regular season.

"They know now what it's like; they went through a whole season and saw some close and tough games. They have to relax and not worry about making mistakes, everyone makes them."

"Everybody has a job to do and they know what they're supposed to do. It's fine to get a little nervous but the know what to expect."

The teams Mass will face are teams that the women have already faced in regular season play. There are eight seeds in the playoffs with the University of New Hampshire seeded first, Mass, second; the University of Connecticut, third; Springfield College, fourth; Yale University, fifth; Dartmouth, sixth; the University of Rhode Island, seventh; and Harvard taking the eighth seed.

UMass' first game of the playoffs will be Friday at 3 p.m. against URI.

Reflecting back to the last game of the season, Mass shut-out URI by an impressive 3-0. Are there hopes that a second win will be easy?

"I consider this a whole new season," Strong said, "and it can be anybody's game."

One aspect in favor of the UMass team is the fact that all the games will be played on astro turf. Playing on turf is their kind of game and to get ready for it, after a whole season of playing on grass, the women will be holding their practice sessions indoors. And tonight the women will be traveling to either Westfield State College or Springfield College for one practice hour on the astro turf fields. Each team gets one hour on the turf.

"It's a faster game on turf," Strong said. "On grass you have to drive the ball really hard, so you have to learn to pace yourself on turf because it's so much faster."

"You can make shorter passes and move the ball down the field quickly, and you shouldn't have to worry about the ball bouncing over your stick."

Strong is looking forward to another year as a member of the reigning champs of the Division I playoffs. Last year the women beat Springfield College in the finals, 1-0.

Looking back at that game Strong reflected, "It didn't matter who we played we thought we could beat them. We really played super all weekend."

After the regionals the women head to Southern Illinois for the Nationals. Last year UMass came in fourth place beating Michigan State and Saint Louis but losing to Maryland and to Penn State in double overtime. In national action it is double elimination.

UMass is ranked second in the country behind Penn State and a national championship is another goal.

"We don't go anywhere unless we win the regional," Strong said. "To win is very important, it's very important to me and I'm sure it's important to Pam (Hixon-head coach). It's a definite goal to win (the regionals), and I know we are capable of doing it."

Finals schedule in Monday's Collegian

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Volume CX, Issue # 48 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA Friday, November 7, 1980

Union threatens labor suit

By STEPHEN MORAN
Collegian Staff

Massachusetts Teachers Association (MTA) representatives said yesterday they would file unfair labor practices against the University today, in response to telegrams sent from Chancellor Henry Koffler to University Staff Association (USA) president Lynn Washburn and MTA chief counsel George Shea.

Frustrated with the University's current wage proposal, many USA members called in sick yesterday, disrupting the conduct of offical business.

Koffler sent the telegram to MTA and USA officials after he learned the sickout would take place union officials said. In the telegram, he claimed to have received information that the USA/MTA membership "was polled, agreed to, and is planning to engage in an illegal sickout."

It continued: "You are hereby advised that the University considers this proposed job action to be an unlawful work stoppage...and it shall take appropriate legal action to prevent unlawful conduct by the employees and employees' organization(s) engaged therein."

MTA officials said they intend to charge the administration with "intimidation and harrassment" of union members.

The union officials say that, since the Massachusetts Labor Relation Commission was not called in to investigate the administration's charge of an alleged sickout, the administration does not have the right to impose penalties on union members. They allege that the administration has failed to use the commission's procedure to charge the union with strike activities, and cannot unilaterally impose penalties.

Koffler has indicated he either withold a day's pay from those people who cannot produce a doctor's note verifying illness, or withhold one day's vacation time.

Claiming "no future job action has been ruled out," USA spokesperson Penny Schwartz refused to rule out the possibility of a strike or another sickout in the near future. She said the decision would be made by the union's ad hoc Crisis Committee, the committee that called for yesterday's one-day sickout.

He alleges the USA is a violation of Massachusetts labor laws and its own union contract. He said the USA contract, which expired July 1, remains in effect until a new contract is signed.

DeNyse conducted a spot check of campus offices to determine the extent of the sickout. "The results show that about 240 people called in sick." A similar check by the USA crisis committee revealed that 70 percent of union members had contracted the one-day illness. Not all campus clerical workers are union members.

DeNyse said many departments used work study students to substitute for ailing clerics. He said the University's main switchboard was almost entirely staffed by work-study students.

Few workers reported to their desks at the Department of Education, Division of Continuing Education, and Parking Office. No workers reported the Economics, Sociology, Anthropology and Philosophy department.

Thirty library staff members reported sick, disrupting library services. The medical lab at University Health Services was closed due to a lack of personnel.

Janine Bisaillon tries the door to the University Parking Office, but finds that it is locked due to the sickout by University Staff Association workers. A survey done by the University's Personnel Director, John DeNyse showed 240 U.S.A. workers remained home yesterday. (Staff photo by Paul Price)

UMass settles suit with discharged student

By KEVIN CULLEN
Collegian Staff

NORTHAMPTON—Hampshire Superior Court Judge John Moriarty yesterday granted a conditional dismissal of a $1.2 million suit filed against four University of Massachusetts officials by a senior who claims she was discharged from school for behavior centering on past emotional problems.

The case will be dismissed on Feb. 1, 1981 provided neither party in the suit takes further action, said Legal Services Office attorney Charles J. DiMare, who is representing the woman.

The student, an unidentified 20-year-old woman from Paxton, will continue to attend classes and is expected to graduate at the end of this semester. The student, who assumed the fictitious name of Janis Student in the suit to avoid public embarrassment, remains subject to the same disciplinary rules as other University students.

The University agreed to pay $2,782.30 to the student in reimbursements for expenses, grants, and refunds, in addition to a refund of her unused meal tickets to settle the case.

On Oct. 9, Hampshire Superior Court Judge Samuel Adams issued a temporary restraining order calling for the University to immediately reinstate the student, who claims she was administratively withdrawn from the school in violation of her civil rights, and in violation of University policies and procedures.

Charles J. of UMass' Legal Services Office said that provided the University pays the amount agreed upon and his client remains in good standing, a dismissal of other claims will take place.

"The agreement was mutually satisfying for both parties," said the plaintiff's attorney. "The agreement is best for both my client and the University."

Attorney Sidney Meyers, counsel for the University, was unavailable for comment.

The student agreed to waive all claims for damages which she raised or could have raised against the defendants, who include Dr. David P. Kraft, director of mental health at the University Health Services, UMass Dean of Students William F. Field, acting registrar Mary Ellen Hanley, and the University Board of Trustees.

The student also waives the right to live in or enter any UMass dormitory or other University housing, except Thoreau House in the Southwest Residential Area, of which her sister is a resident. The student agreed to leave Thoreau by 11 p.m.

The student will be permitted to use the library facilities and may enter academic buildings on campus in pursuit of academic activities. The student can not undertake employment on campus.

Dick Gregory (Staff photo by Hilary Park)

Gregory says Tuesday's elections rigged by CIA

By LISA WATERMAN
Collegian Staff

Dick Gregory, warmed up a crowd of about 900 in the Student Ballroom last night with a humorous outlook at white American politics. Then like a sudden thunderstorm at a lawn party, Gregory asserted that the CIA rigged Tuesday's presidential election.

Gregory said the CIA manipulated the electoral college system to ensure Ronald Reagan's victory. But he said the agency will assasinate Reagan in the next six months under the guise of a student revolution so Vice-President-elect George Bush would become the next President.

Bush, a former CIA director, would be more susceptible to CIA influence, according to Gregory's scenario.

"The CIA pulled on of the biggest ripoffs in American history. They are in the process of taking over the government and there is a pistol upside your head, induced into your subconscious mind garden."

Leaning over the podium and looking directly into the audience, Gregory said, "You can print up the bumper stickers now, Reagan in eighty, Bush in '81."

"Like J.F.K. and his brother and Malcolm X and Martin Luther, Reagan is on the CIA hit list too," he said.

There has not been a student riot in Berkeley in ten years. Suddenly, hours after the election one occurs.

"When a violent demonstration occurs in the next six months and a trigger is pulled on Reagan, you can bet the individual blamed will be a student," he said.

Gregory, 49, is a social activist and professional comedian. He entered the entertainment field in 1961 as a comedian, and used his skills throughout the sixties to give benefits for various civil rights groups, peace groups and other human rights. He spent much of the summer in Iran meeting with such high ranking oficials as Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

Gregory said the hostage situation in Iran was part of a power struggle between the United States and the Soviet Union to control the Persian Gulf region.

"The truth about the hostages is that we had more to do with it than Iran. The U.S. and Russia are using Iran to annihilate the Moslem nations. The Moslem nations are the only government on earth not under the control of white supremacy," he said.

See related story on page 5

World and national news

JACKSON

WILLIAMS

STONE

ALLEN

Reagan tells Iran: don't wait

By TERENCE HUNT
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES — President-elect Ronald Reagan told Iran yesterday that it will not profit by waiting for the United States' presidential transition before releasing the 52 American hostages.

He said he is willing to do all he can to help win freedom for the 52 Americans, held in Iran for more than a year, but "we are not going to intrude" on negotiations during the final months of President Carter's administration.

At his first press conference since the election, Reagan also called economics "the issue of the campaign," and said he will move to implement a freeze in the federal work force and a 10 percent tax cut. He said it would be fine with him if Congress started to work on the tax cut during the lame duck session that begins Nov. 12.

Reagan acknowledged a telegram of congratulations from Soviet leaders and warned the Soviets that in negotiating arms control, he would not ignore Soviet actions in other areas of world relations.

"I don't think you simply sit down at a table with the Soviet Union to discuss arms limitation, for example, but you discuss the whole attitude, world attitude, as to whether we're going to have a world of peace or whether we're simply going to talk about weaponry and not bring up these other subjects. In other words, I am for linkage."

The Carter administration had separated the SALT II treaty from Soviet conduct elsewhere in the world, saying that U.S. support of the pact was not a carrot to keep the Kremlin in line.

Reagan began the press conference by unveiling his transition team, reaching into the top command of his campaign organization in choosing the personnel who will plan his takeover of the government. He promised to listen to suggestions of right-wing groups.

William Casey, his campaign chairman, was named chairman of the transition executive committee and head of its foreign policy advisory board. Campaign staff chief Edwin Meese III was named staff chief in the transition.

Reagan offered his help to Carter in trying to win release of the hostages in Iran, but said he would not try to impose anything on the administration, either in that area or any other.

"World leaders must be aware the president is still the president," Reagan declared.

He named three prominent Democrats to his foreign policy advisory committee — Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, Sen. Richard Stone of Florida, and Washington attorney Edward Bennett Williams — saying he would like to establish a bi-partisan approach to foreign policy questions.

Hostage talks go into lull

By The Associated Press

Movement on the American hostage issue slowed sharply in the aftermath of the U.S. presidential election, and one prominent member of Iran's Parliament spoke yesterday of the release of the 52 captives in terms of "months."

The deputy, Sayed Mohammad Khamenei, also told The Associated Press in a telephone interview that the Iranian government would "definitely not" negotiate directly with the U.S. government.

Asked how long it would take to resolve the issue, Khamenei said, "it depends on the action which the U.S. government will take. Some of them could be resolved within 24 hours and some in less than six months."

Ronald Reagan, whose victory in Tuesday's election prompted one Iranian official to predict a delay in solving the hostage crisis, said in a press conference yesterday "we are not going to intrude" on hostage negotiations.

"Foreign leaders must be aware that the president is still the president," said Reagan.

Prime Minister Mohammad Ali Rajai said "the arrival of Reagan and the departure of (President) Carter are of little importance to us," according to the official Iranian news agency Pars.

"Once it was important because our country's policies were made by the U.S.; now that our people design their policies themselves, it is up to Mr. Reagan to ponder what kind of relations he will establish with us," he reportedly said.

Khameini, referring to the terms laid down by Iran's 228-member Parliament last Sunday, said "These conditions should not be unmanageable."

Labor in shock at election

By OWEN ULLMANN
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON — Labor leaders remained in postelection shock yesterday, trying to accept a nightmare come true: not Ronald Reagan's White House victory, but the Republicans' capture of the Senate.

Organized labor generally had worked for Reagan's defeat, but it had feared his election far less than the loss of long-time Democratic allies who had ruled the Senate for a generation — often with a friendly eye on labor's legislative concerns.

Faced now with a far more conservative Congress as well as a Republican president, dazed labor officials are trying to figure out if the next few years will be just bad or out-and-out terrible.

"It's like an earthquake hit us. It's devastating," said Fred Kroll, president of the Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks. "It's going to be a tough four years ahead."

One of the most immediate changes that frightens labor leaders is the expected installation of their No.1 Senate enemy, Republican Orrin G. Hatch of Utah, as chairman of the Labor and Human Resources Committee, through which most important labor-related legislation must pass. Hatch would replace Democratic Sen. Harrison A. Williams of New Jersey, one of labor's most valued friends.

Since early this year, labor leaders had spoken with dread about the possibility of Republicans winning control of the Senate and Hatch taking over the labor committee. The prospect was intended to fire up political activists for the congressional campaign; few believed it could happen.

Prop. 2½ hits the Statehouse

BOSTON — The first suggestion of alternative taxes to replace local revenue slashed by passage of Proposition 2½ in this week's election surfaced at the Statehouse yesterday.

Meanwhile, one state senator said he will file a bill repealing the property tax-cutting statute approved by voters 3-to-2 in Tuesday's election.

Sen. Alan D. Sisitsky said he would file the repealer for consideration in the 1981 legislative session.

"It's a disaster for the communities," the Springfield Democrat told The Associated Press by telephone.

Proposition 2½ would cut property taxes and the state's auto excise tax, the main revenue sources for the cities and towns. As a statute, it can be repealed or amended by the Legislature.

Sisitsky said the state would have to raise more than $1 billion in new taxes to replace the lost local revenue, and that would be impossible.

Digest

Associated Press

Study looks at soc. security

BOSTON — Congress faces an unhappy choice if it wants to keep the Social Security system from running out of money, says a Federal Reserve Bank of Boston study: either cut senior citizens' benefits or boost taxes, a move not likely to win approval from a Reagan administration.

"There's no good solutions," Janice Halpern, a economist with the bank, said Thursday. "In order to assure that they can pay the current benefits, they have to raise revenues, and Reagan has indicated he is for tax savings, not increases."

In an article published this week in the New England Economic Review, Halpern said the Social Security fund for the Old Age and Survivors Insurance program will begin to run out of money in 1982.

UM Iranian student arrested

BURLINGTON, Vt. — A federal grand jury yesterday indicted three Iranian students including one University of Massachusetts student on charges of trying to buy guns from an FBI agent.

The students were identified by officials as 19-year-old Hamid Arjomand, who has been attending the University of Massachusetts and 18-year-old Ramin Karimpour, and Keyvan Sabery, 19 who both have been attending Boston University.

The grand jury handed down two-count indictments against all three after meeting in Burlington for three hours.

The indictments charge the Iranians with illegal purchase and possession of weapons and conspiracy. The Iranians were scheduled for arraignment one week from Friday.

The Iranians were arrested in Burlington last Saturday after allegedly trying to buy two automatic weapons, two pistols and ammunition from a federal agent.

CORRECTION

An article entitled "Senate rejects pass/fail plan," in the Nov. 6 issue of the Collegian incorrectly reported that recommendations from the Academic Matters Council to the Faculty Senate on a proposed change in the pass/fail option would be presented next week. The recommendation will not be reported until December.

Assistant Managing Editor — Catherine Clabby
Copy Editor — Dayle Thompson
Layout Technicians — Amy Jenness and Fran Basche
Head Photo Tech — Cheryl Senter
Ad Layout Tech — Jay Brightman

Composing Room — Lise Zeiger, Michele Bedard, Liz Kantounis, Michael Krumpe, Edie Eppich, Mary Kinneavy

Subscription Rates

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 325 220) is published daily Monday through Friday (excluding vacations, exam periods, or holidays), for $15 or $11 1/3 am pus Center, University of Massachusetts at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003

Do you know how libraries work? Do you know how they can work for you?

A LIBRARIAN'S HINTS FOR STUDENTS

Christine R. Wyandt

In this concise, comprehensive guide, author Christine Wyandt unlocks the mysteries to research aids. She shows that a large library is a cohesive system, logically ordered, designed to facilitate research and encourage reading.

Learn how libraries work. Learn how they can work for you. Read A LIBRARIAN'S HINTS FOR STUDENTS. "A helpful guide."—Wilson Library Bulletin

ISBN: 0-682-49487-9 $5.50

Complete and Mail Today

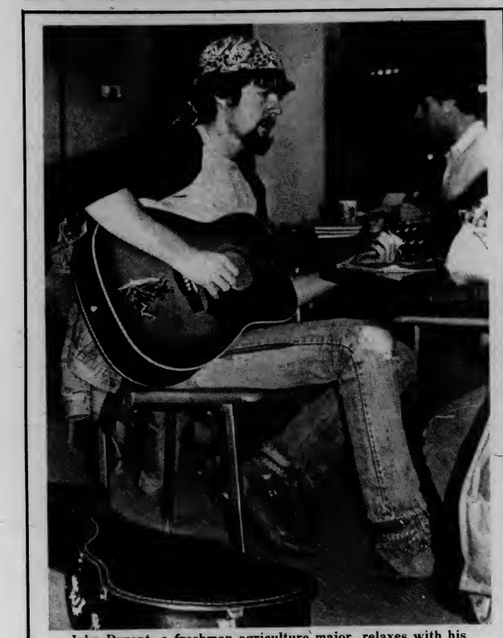
EXPOSITION PRESS, INC.
Dept. CAS
325 Kings Highway
Smithtown, N.Y. 11787
(516) 582-8655

Please send me ____ copies of A LIBRARIAN'S HINTS FOR STUDENTS by Christine Wyandt @ $5.50 plus $1.25 postage and handling per copy. In N.Y. add tax. (Master credit card orders accepted by phone or mail if $15 or more.)
Total Enclosed: $ ____
Name ____
Address ____
City ____
State ____ Zip ____

Adult Entertainment
Majestic Cinema
84 Cottage St
(Rte 141)
Easthampton, MA
Tel 527-2346
NOV. 5 - 11
Ms. Magnificent 7:30
Star Babe 9:00
under 21 not admitted
Mat. Thurs & Fri 1:30

come to Plumbley's of the common
The 1980 Cheshire "English Pub" Beer Dart Championship!
Come enjoy great English Pub Beer at Special Low Prices!
Prizes and good English Pub fun! all proceeds to Muscular Dystrophy
Wed., Nov. 5, 12, 19
7 PM
CHESHIRE "ENGLISH PUB" BEER
1980 Dart Championships

TOP PRIORITY #5
EXCITING DINNER SPECIALS DAILY
Tonight PRIME RIB with our bountiful Salad Bar
ONLY $6.95
Top of the Campus Restaurant
For Reservations call - 549-6000 X639



John Durant, a freshman agriculture major, relaxes with his guitar in the Hatch (Staff photo by Bill Harrold)

Board of Governors say news counter work illegal

By SAMUEL CHALFEN
Collegian Staff

The Campus Center Board of Governors and the University's Legal Services office announced last night they have notified the Campus Center administration that its planned expansion of the Student Union news and candy shop is illegal under the University's management and services stipulations.

In the Oct. 31 letter to Campus Center Director William Harris, Legal Services Attorney Michael Pill and BOG member Peter Taggart said "the Management and Services agreement between the University and the Building Authority prohibits construction work in excess of $5,000 without the express approval of the University Building Authority."

The letter is an attempt to delay the construction of the candy counter until intersession so that the students will not be inconvenienced in the last weeks of the term with the construction, Curtiss Wohlers, BOG chairperson said. "there will not be any construction done this semester," board member Martha Casey said.

According to Harris, the construction bid of $42,000 has been selected, approved, and work is planned to begin as soon as the prefabricated metal units are completed. According to BOG member Debby Abramoff, the expanded candy counter would be "a '7-11' type convenience store."

The board also expressed its dissatisfaction with vice-chancellor George Beatty's proposal to open a traffic lane from North Pleasant Street to the second level of the Campus Center Hotel. The lane would allow guests and conferees to drive up to the registration desk. Most board members said the increased traffic would pose a danger to pedestrians.

Wohlers said the campus was designed only for pedestrian traffic although the hotel was designed for motor vehicles. When the hotel driveway was used in past years it led to the rapid deterioration of the Campus Center roof, Wohlers said.

Ex-board member Larry Ruth said the last estimates for the repair of the roof were about $3 to 4 million. He also proposed it would be cheaper to build a registration desk on the second level of the garage.

The board announced that 14 out of 17 members of the University staff association employed in the Campus Center building participated in yesterday's sickout. Board members expressed concern over the USA members being docked a day's pay as well as losing a sickday, but took no official stand on the situation.

Wohlers said "It seems like a real antagonizing move," and urged members to investigate the situation further before the board makes an official statement."

The board also announced that the new cable vision Council's proposed budget was eliminated by the campus Center Administration, forcing that group to merge with the Governor's Program Council (GPC). The merge resulted in the loss of $1,600 from the budgets of both groups. The new preliminary budget to be approved by the GPC and the Campus Center is $19,995, according to Wohlers.

Cable Council member Martha Casey said the new color video system will be in operation by the next semester. She said about six monitors will be available for the project, and that there will be limited programming. She also announced that the project will be run by the BOG and will not

turn to page 11

VD declines at UMass

By CHUCK MARRAM
Collegian Correspondent

Despite an upsurge of venereal disease cases in Massachusetts, the disease is on the decrease at the University of Massachusetts according to information released by Health Services officials.

In a report released Tuesday by the Division of Communicable Diseases in the state's Public Health Department, gonorrhea was up 3.6 percent while syphilis was up 13 percent in the Bay State.

Thomas McBride, medical director of the University Health Services said that increases in VD are not present on the UMass campus.

"We are not mirroring the state in VD increases here at the University; in fact, we are showing signs of a modest decline", he said.

McBride said he was not surprised by the local statistics.

"Students tend not to be promiscuous; the do not jump into sexual relationships", McBride said. "When they do have sex they are usually familiar with their partner. Familiarization with the partner lessens the chances of contracting VD than by having sex with a stranger", he said.

Figures released from the Health Services show a decrease of gonorrhea cases by 14 percent in 1979/1980 at the University. Syphilis remains to be almost nonexistent.

The symptoms of VD are many, yet there are some which are quite common. Painful urination, discharging, and genital rashes are familiar to most cases.

"If a student feels that they have VD, we urge them to have a VD test at the Health Services", McBride said. "The test does not take long and the results are usually reported that same day or the next", he said.

"Students need not worry about the tests being leaked out or placed on their academic records", McBride said. "All of the Health Services' records are strictly confidential and are only used for medical purposes", he said.

Professor Joe Elkinton of the UMass entomology department, studies cockroaches which are being grown for experiments in cockroach population control at Fernald Hall. The cockroaches are numbered, let loose in the labs, then recaptured. The amount of numbered cockroaches caught, compared to the ones which grew wild, tells the scientists what the actual population in the building is. A parasite which attacks the cockroach larvae is then let loose in the halls. The parasite is doing its job, if, in future captures, the relative number of wild cockroaches is diminished. (Staff photo by Paul Price)

Photo by Cheryl Senter
Lt. Col Frederick Gregory

NASA pilot says space shuttles to become common as airplanes

By CARLA LESH
Collegian Staff

Orbiting the earth in NASA's new space shuttles may become as common as airplane trips, said Lt. Col. Frederick Gregory of NASA in a speech at the Campus Center at the University of Massachusetts yesterday.

Gregory, 42, is the first black astronaut to be trained as a pilot in the space shuttle program. He said NASA expects to launch its first space shuttle on March 10 or 14, 1984.

The program will enable astronauts to stay in space for over 25 days and will permit various types of medical and scientific experiments, Gregory said.

"The telescopes on the orbiter will enable us to discover more about the earth's past, present and future. We will be able to predict where the earth's natural resources are deposited, where water can be found in desert areas like Arizona, where the biggest schools of fish can be found in the oceans and even what parts of the country's farmlands will produce the most," Gregory said.

The new space shuttles will be reusable, unlike the rockets used in the Apollo program. They will be launched like rockets but are smaller, about the size of a 747 airplane he said.

"The shuttles are like trucks with wings. They will carry material from Cape Kennedy, Fla., to outer space and back. The astronauts will be able to construct space stations in space. Because there is no gravity in space, the station can be made of lighter material and still be structurally strong," Gregory said.

It may also be possible to build solar collectors in space large enough to provide solar energy for most of New England, he said.

The astronauts will be able to release material into space and retrieve objects from space by using a remote controlled manipulating arm, Gregory said. The "payload" or cargo, will be carried in the shuttle. The cargo area will be large enough to hold 60,000 pounds an area large enough to hold 1½ Greyhound busses, he said.

NASA plans to run as many as 40 missions a year for a 12 year period, Gregory said. There will be seven crew members on each flight, a commander, a pilot, a mission specialist, and as many payload specialists as the flight requires, he added.

"As there are some 2500 switches and gauges in the cockpit, it takes a long time to learn how to run the shuttle," Gregory said.

"The shuttle lands like a glider on a three mile runway at a 20 degree angle; airplanes land at 3 degree angles. It's only hairy the first time you land. You only get one shot at the landing; if you miss you end up with the alligators," Gregory said.

See related story on page 5

Minnesota Orchestra plays with passion

By BRIAN S. YANKEE
Collegian Correspondent

After debating for an hour how to describe Wednesday's performance by the Minnesota Orchestra under the direction of Neville Marriner, the word 'impeccable' came to mind.

The orchestra played flawlessly throughout the concert, which included the Symphony No. 38 in D by Mozart, Stravinsky's Symphonic Suite from 'The Fairy's Kiss,' and the Symphony No. 4 in D minor by Schumann.

Marriner has taken a good orchestra and made it into a great orchestra, which plays with a distinct English flavour. It was refreshing to hear an orchestra play with delicacy and true emotion instead of the insensitivity with which so many American orchestras seem to be afflicted.

The renditions of the pieces were wonderful, especially of the Schumann. At no time was there doubt or uncertainty. The orchestra played with an astounding precision. The blend of the strings and winds was well balanced, producing an overall sound that was smooth and beautiful.

The Minnesota Symphony is now ready to join the ranks of the so-called "world class orchestras." Hopefully we will se more of this fine group of musicians in the future.

Mention must also be made of an outstanding rendition of a fanfare from the "Manzoni Requiem" by Verdi, played by the University Brass Choir under the direction of Professor Walter Chesnut.

Notice

The Amherst Jaycees is sponsoring a Roller Skating Party on the Fine Arts Patio Sunday from noon to 4 p.m. Skate rentals are $2 per hour, and refreshments will be served. Music is being provided by WMUA, and a 50 cent discount will be given to anyone who brings a transistor radio with them. Proceeds will go towards the Amherst Survival Center, a non-profit organization which donates gifts to needy families in Amherst.

Future studies conference held this weekend

"The Next Millenium: Unlearning the Twentieth Century" is the theme of the Future Studies Conference being held this weekend in the University of Massachusetts Campus Center.

Several presentations focusing on women's issues are being held today.

Baba Copper from the Union of Feminist Utopian Futurists will present "An Alternative Definition of Futuristic Studies" at 9 a.m. in CC rooms 168-170-172.

"Preparing Educators to Foster Diversity and Equality of Opportunity" will be the subject addressed by Dr. Betty Nyangoni at 9 a.m. in CC rooms 174-176.

Magda McHale, director of the Center for Integrative Studies, will speak "On Education of Women and Children," in CC rooms 165-169.

Two 10 a.m. sessions are "Survival Dynamics for Women in Administration in Higher Education" and "Elementary and Childhood Education," in CC rooms 905-909. Dr. Milisande Merryman's topic will be "Enhancing the Educational and Societal Benefits of Diversity."

A panel including Dr. Linda Annis, Ball State University; Dr. Delener Sue McCamey, Detroit Board of Education; and Dr. David N. Peay, Marlboro Psychiatric Hospital, will discuss "Sexism and Higher Education" at 2 p.m. in CC rooms 804-808.

PREPARING FOR PERFORMANCE John Grillo and Dale Patyka are preparing or an art performance, which is part of the Future Conference. (Staff photo by Cheryl Senter)

Pre-Registration Forms

Can be picked up in your major departments during Counselling Week beginning:

Monday Nov 10-Friday Nov 14

Students in the BCP Program can get their forms from the BCP Office in Wilder Hall. CCEBS students should go to New Africa House. Class of NC students will receive pre-registration forms in the mail. Pre-registration forms must be returned to Registrar's Office not later than Wed. Nov. 19. All forms returned after that date will incur a $5.00 fine.

Did You Know? At one of the nicest places in Town on a Sunday afternoon you can

MIKE'S WESTVIEW CAFE

1. Make your own sandwich (that Dagwood you dream of)
2. Drink 2 12 oz. bottles of Old Mil Beer
3. Watch the Pats Football game on Two TV's and relax all for $1.00 - That's Incredible!

Good Things Remain Great
Friday Afternoon Happy Hour - Free Smorgy w/Hot Dishes

"TREAT OF THE WEEK"
~~$59.99~~
Special
$49.99

the SHOE BIN
187 n. pleasant st., amherst

SUPERIOR PIZZERIA
UMass Favorite Pizza

10 & 16 INCH PIZZAS
ALL COMBINATIONS - LARGE & SMALL
DAILY 11 A.M. TILL 1
HOT OVEN GRINDER! STEAK GRINDERS
SPAGHETTI LASAGNA RAVIOLI MANICOTTI STUFFED SHELLS GREEK SALAD
COMPLETE TAKE OUT SERVICE FREE DELIVERY
NEXT TO THE NORTH AMHERST POST OFFICE
Help Wanted - Delivery Persons. Must have own car. Apply in person.
FOR FAST SERVICE Call 549-0626
17 B MONTAGUE RD AMHERST

家酒園南湖
Hunan Garden Restaurant

MANDARIN SZECHUEN CUISINE
"The Best Chinese Food"
Luncheon Specials Dinner Specials
Take-Out Service Full Cocktail Menu
Sun.-Thurs. 11:30 a.m.-10:00 p.m.
Fri. & Sat. 11:30 a.m.-11:00 p.m.
10 Belchertown Rd., at Route 9, Amherst
256-0251 256-0252

Smith College Rec Council Presents

SPYRO Gyra
Saturday Nov.8, 1980
8 p.m.
John M. Greene
Smith College
General Admission $5.00
$6.00 at the door
Tickets available at
For the Record - Amherst
Platterpus - Northampton
Main St. Records - Northampton
no cans or bottles, please

Black Affairs

Dick Gregory spoke to a capacity crowd at the S.U.B. last night; he enlightened us with bits of information that could prove very rewarding in the future. (photo by Barron Roland)

Dick Gregory: Humor that stings

By Karen Marie Thomas
Collegian Staff

"This is a dingy old room. It looks like a place where Jimmy Carter and Ronald Reagan should spend the rest of their lives," political activist Dick Gregory said to a full house audience in the Student Union Ballroom last night.

The crowd clapped and Gregory clapped along with them.

Gregory, formally a professional comedian continued to delight the crowd.

"Amy ain't no child; she's probably a 39 year-old midget," exclaimed Greogry. The audience roared and stomped its feet.

After delivering line after line of humorous witticisms, Gregory suddenly turned quiet. The crowd tittered expectantly, wiating for the next gush of dialogue.

Gregory scanned the audience and lowered his voice.

"There's a cold day in hell when truth has to be invalidated by ignorance," he said.

"You let the CIA topple everyone else's government, why not let them come and topple yours?" Gregory continued to the hushed audience.

Gregory said the recent presidential election was a CIA ploy to get George Bush in the White House.

"It's not Ronald Reagan, it's George Bush. It was the CIA before and its the CIA now. They tell you about how old Reagan is, but they didn't tell you he was sick. If he would have died the night before, they would have stuffed him and ran him anyhow," said Gregory. The audience nervously giggled.

Gregory did not laugh, he continued his tale. "We have gone all over the world and manipulated governments and now we've manipulated our own," he said.

Pouring out fact after fact of the media and CIA knowledge of the election outcomes before the returns were in, Gregory again paused and wiped his face with his handkerchief.

"Bush said on T.V., 'If it goes the way it should go, we'll be in like burglars,' " he said.

"Politicians that represent us are nothing but a reflection of us. When you decide to change your integrity and honesty, they will change and raise with us," he said.

"You all got a big job," he added.

Gregory leaned against the podium. Turning his attention to the white members of the audience, he continued "You are the worst type of slave. I can recognize what they're doing to me, but you don't know."

"What we need to do is say to the CIA we are not going to tolerate this game you're playing," he said.

Gregory's voice cracked, he hoarsly repeated, "You've got a lot of work to do."

Openings for Blacks in Aeronautics

By BARBARA COVINGTON and KIMBERLY GREEN
Black Affairs Staff

Lieutenant-Colonel Frederick D. Gregory, the first black pilot to be trained by the National Aeronatuics and Space Administration (NASA) graced the Amherst area yesterday with a series of speeches and slide shows during the Third Annual Conference of the World Future Society.

Gregory spoke candidly about opportunities in the fields of a aeronautics and space travel for people of color, and also addressed a group of Third World engineering students about the role their majors would play in securing jobs in these areas.

His presentation included the Space shuttle's role in the commercialization of space exploration.

Opportunities for Third World persons are "outstanding," said Gregory a native of Washington D.C., "because there are so few (African-Americans) in the business. "This is due to the business industry's lucrative offers for people of color. However Gregory reassured, "when industry becomes overloaded, government occupations will become more popular only because the offers from industry won't be there."

However, potential for the glamor and glory in the extra terrestrial cannot become a reality without proper preparation. "Fifty to sixty percent of education should be math-science oriented. Yet, English, economics, history and political science are important also. You have to be able to talk about it and speak in language not only your ethnic group can understand but everyone. If you can't, it's wasted and lost."

An earthly man, Gregory expressed his love for children and his work. Much of his missionary-like zeal involves enlightning young people to the activities of NASA and the opportunities therein.

"I go to work to have fun and play. I don't have any problems." He advises young people to find a career that would make them happy, so much so that, "your job no longer is a job but basically you life," he said. This is the attitude he tries to project.

He went on to say that, "a goal comes not from being in a position but from feeling good inside."

Gregory is not the first black astronaut in the United States. In fact, the people who are credited with this are, Charles Bolten a Marine pilot, Guy Blueford an areoengineer from the Air Force Institute of Technology, Ron McNayer a NASA scientist and Dr. Nancy Long a civilian at Wright Medical School where she's studying to be a medical technician on a spaceship.

Lt. Col Frederick Gregory, the single black astronaut in NASA, honored us with his presence during "open house" at New Africa House yesterday. (photo by Barron Roland)

Homecoming this weekend

Dear Brothers and Sisters of the Five College Area,

This year the traditional Black Homecoming will take place November 9 - November 16, 1980. On Nov. 9th we will be sponsoring a Black Homecoming Parade. The Parade will begin at noon in Amherst Center and proceed to the New Africa House at UMass. There will be a rededication ceremony with refreshments. We are requesting that you and your organizations make creative banners and come march with us to make this a most successful event.

We Love You & Thank You AFRIK-AM SOCIETY.

In case of heavy rain there will be a Homecoming Rally in the Student Union Ballroom at the Univ. of Mass. in Amherst. For further information please tune in to BMCP programing on 91.1FM or call 545-1990 the AFRIK-AM office.

November 9th: Parade or March, leaving from Amherst Commons at 12 noon, arriving at the New Africa House where there will be a re-dedication of the NAH and refreshments. All are urged to participate.

November 10th: Opening dinner, taking place at the Malcolm X Center at 7:00 p.m., along with a slide show.

November 11th: Poetry and Music by Ujima and Co., 8:00 p.m. at Hampden Theatre.

LUTHER

By Brumsic Brandon, Jr.

IS YOUR ELECTRICITY OFF?
YES!
MINE TOO, LUTHER!
OURS TOO! A BIG GENERATOR BLEW UP!
OH, THANK GOODNESS!
I WAS AFRAID WE HADN'T PAID OUR ELECTRIC BILL!
BRUMSIC JR.

Spyro Gyra

Spyro Gyra will be appearing at the John M. Greene Hall, at Smith College, on Saturday, November 8, 1980. For more info contact the Smith College Rec Council at 584-2700 ext. 615.

Drumming

Drumming classes are now being offered by Pablo Landrum from New York City, Mondays from 5-8 p.m. $10.00 includes beg. and int. playing, notation, and cultural context of the music. More information: contact Joe Platz 353-5009. Don't wait; classes have already started.

Ticket

Ticket number 351 - 400 for the Ray Barretto Concert was lost on Thursday, November 6th. Anyone finding the tickets should call the UPC office at 545-2892. There will be a reward.

Hair

Latees Muhammed will be the new barber and hair stylist at New Africa House, every Thursday from 10:00 to 7:00.

Basketball Tournament

All men and women in the five college area interested in playing in the Afrik-Am Black Homecoming Basketball Tournament, please contact: Julian Tynes (546-7752, Segun Eubanks (546-7690), or Wilma Tynes/Liz Skelton (549-0074). The tournament will be held on Saturday, Nov. 15

Women's Workshop

On Saturday Nov. 8th from 9 a.m. to 12 p.m. the Southwest Women's Center will be having a workshop on Third-World Women's views of the Women's Movement. All are welcome to attend and participate. For further information call 545-0626

The Whately Inn
Quality Food Prepared To Order
Steve Kloc Owner-Chef
Open Tues. Sat. 5 p.m. Sunday at 1
665-3044
Full Liquor License
GREAT FOOD!
FEATURING STEVE KLOC'S
BROILED LIVE LOBSTER
ALSO
STEAKS, PRIME RIB
&
SEAFOOD
Plan your Thanksgiving with us
Make reservations now for Christmas parties.
Main Street Whately, Mass.

Kick up Your Heels...a SALE!
25% off
everything in the store
All our Fall Goods for men & women
Thurs./Fri./Sat.
Nov. 6/7/8
3 DAYS ONLY
SIENNA
FINE CLOTHING
243 Main Street, Northampton 586-6457

©1980 Beer Brewed by Miller Brewing Co., Milwaukee, Wis.

Now comes Miller time.

TACO VILLA
Wholesome
Inexpensive
Refreshing
Change
Downtown Amherst
A Ton (Cash Anyone)
Fri + Sat - 11-1 am
Sun-Thurs 11-9

Space Invaders
OFFICIAL T-SHIRT
WHITE ON BLACK ONLY
S-M-L-XL Quality 50/50 Silk Screened by hand
Send Check Cash Money Order
$5.95 + .75 Shipping and Handling
TO THE
WIZ KIDS
P.O. Box 1074, Brewster, MA 02631
A GREAT XMAS PRESENT
PROMPT DELIVERY
DISTRIBUTOR INQUIRIES WELCOME

The largest selection of hard aluminum MEASURING TOOLS in the country!
FAIRGATE
STRAIGHT EDGES/T-SQUARES
METRIC RULES/L-SQUARES
CENTERING RULES
TRIANGLES/CURVE STICKS
INKING RULES
and many others...
SEE THEM AT YOUR BOOKSTORE or SEND FOR CATALOG
FAIRGATE RULE CO., INC.
22 Adams Ave
P.O. Box 278
COLD SPRING, NY
U.S.A. 10516

Editorial/Opinion

God's driving?

For as long as Beatrice has had a driver's license, and probably even before that, she has craved, no, lusted for a car of her own. Cliche as it sounds, she explained to me, a car gives you that feeling of freedom that Continental Trailways cannot provide. Ever since her parents let her drive the old station wagon in a deserted parking lot when she was barely tall enough to peek over the dashboard, Beatrice has dreamed of careening a Mercedes sports car into the sunet. Surely she is not alone.

So you can imagine the ecstasy she felt when her parents telephoned her saying they would temporarily have one car too many and could she take one off their hands. Beatrice scurried home to secure her key to independence and bizarre adventure.

"What are you going to do with it?" one of her high school freinds queried.

Deborah Wayne

"First thing I'm doing is driving to the Cape, then I'd like to go to Montreal before the cold weather sets in. If school gets too boring I could always head South and bleach out my hair. And I have plenty of friends near Boston — I can't wait to speed down the Mass Pike and leave those cops in a cloud of carbon monoxide."

Needless to mention, Beatrice was barraged with the typical, well-meaning, parental guidance.

"Please obey the speed limit signs," her mother cautioned.

"Don't worry. I'll be fine."

"And don't forget your seatbelt," Dad insisted.

"I won't forget. I'll know where it is all the time — under my rear."

"Don't be so wise, young lady. And remember to drive with two hands, don't pick up hitchhikers, don't drive behind trucks, and only use unleaded gas."

"I told you not to worry. Nothing's going to happen to me."

"Even if you're careful there are a lot of nuts in this world. Remember that man who stopped to pay his money at a toll booth and got smushed from behind by a truck?"

"Mom, that happens to one in a million, maybe. Just because it happened to one person doesn't mean that it'll happen to me. We can't drive through life in a constant state of over-caution, paranoia, and pessimism."

"But you go to the other extreme! You don't take any precautions at all!"

"Yes I do! I look both ways before I cross the street . . ."

And so on and so forth.

So with countless places to visit and no money for gas, Beatrice sped back to school in record time. How free and independent she felt to accelerate her metalic-blue assembly line marvel down Route 9 and park in a tow-away zone.

The next evening, Beatrice drove to Goodell rather than wait hours for a PVTA bus. She parked behind the police station at Dickinson Hall, figuring her parents would be proud of her caution. Beatrice returned to her car near midnight, amazed that she had accomplished anything at the library at all.

"Now where did I park?" she mused out loud as she entered the lot. "I can never remember. WHERE IS THAT DAMN THING?? Oh, there it is. Gosh, the car next to it is sure parked at a funny angle. It looks like . . . GREAT CAESAR'S GHOST — THERE'S A CAR IN MY CAR!!"

Sure enough, the Mercedes parked behind her had somehow slipped out of gear and lunged for her pure and virtuous automobile, careening into its left side and leaving a noticeable indentation. A note on her windshield requested her presence inside the police station for a chit-chat. "This is not happening to me." Beatrice repeatedly whined in all her finite wisdom, as the policeman filled out the accident report, in triplicate. "I've only had the car two days. Why me?"

"I'm supposed to be a part-time atheist." Beatrice remarked to me the following morning, "but perhaps God is trying to tell me something. I guess there's a moral in all of this . . . Well, I'll think about it tomorrow."

Deborah Wayne is a Collegian commentator.

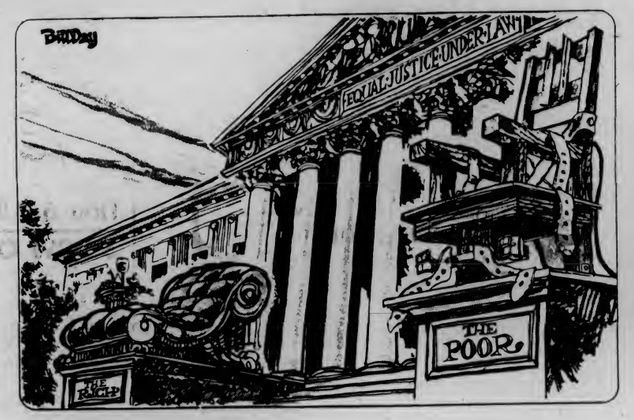
BOARD OF EDITORS
ROBERT E. STEIN, Editor-in-Chief; FRAN T. RANCHE, Managing Editor; JEF FREY P. BIANCHI, Graphics Manager; JONATHAN KLEIN, Business Manager; ERIC H. JANSZEN, Executive Editor; RICHARD NAGLE and JAMES MAHONEY, News Editors; JANE DeVIRGILIO, Women's Editor; JIM MORAN, Arts Editor; KAREN THOMAS, Black Affairs Editor; DONNA SULLIVAN and JONATHAN HAMILTON, Sports Editors; PAUL PRICE, Photo Editor

ASSOCIATE EDITORS
ANDREA ATKINS, CATHERINE CLARRY, JIM KANE, EDLEVINE, GAYLE YOUNG, Associate Managing Editors; BOB CARR, Associate Graphics Manager; JOE GANNON, Associate Executive Editor; NANCY ANDERSON, Associate News Editor; LILLIAN SINGER, Associate Women's Editor; MARY KINNEAVY, Associate Arts Editor; JOYCE McLAURIN, Associate Black Affairs Editor; SAN CY NUTILE, Associate Photo Editor

BUSINESS STAFF
KATHRYN KRESS, Advertising Manager; VICKI EGGERT, Finance Manager; JOSEPH BAILEY, Circulation Manager; MICHELLE SILVERSTEIN and JAY N LESTIG, Assistant Advertising Managers.

The Collegian is the newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administrators read it for re view or approval prior to publication.
Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons and letters represent the personal views of the authors.
The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.
The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertisements lies with the individual advertisers.
USPS 333 220



Letters

Pro-choice is not pro-abortion

To the Editor:

I am a woman, and as a woman, it is essential that I have control over my body in order that I might have real choices in decisions that affect me politically, economically, and socially. This basic freedom is being taken away from me and other women today, despite the fact that polls show that 81 percent of Americans believe it should be the woman's right to choose whether or not to have an abortion.

I feel it is very important to answer a recent column by Steve Masse (Collegian, 11/4) because Ronald Reagan, who has the same anti-woman ideas, now has the power to make them law.

Mr. Masse somehow links pro-choice with slavery and Nazi Germany. It is very easy for someone to make these kinds of arguments when the problems they create are not his problems. As a man, Mr. Masse will never have to confront the dilemma of an unplanned pregnancy, experience the horror of an illegal, back alley abortion, or experience the double burden now placed on working women who are also mothers. Also, as someone who has the time to write columns or a newspaper, it can be safely assumed that he is not in an economic position where he will have to watch hunger, lack of health care, or life on the street take his child away from him. Despite Mr. Masse's warped perspective, his arguments still need to be addressed.

As to linking pro-choice with slavery, the issue before the Supreme Court in "Dred Scott" was not whether Dred Scott, a slave, was a person or a human being. In fact, Dred Scott and all other persons of similar status were referred to as human beings no less than 21 times in the decision. I am well aware that this gain did not prevent slaves from being viewed as chattel, but this decision is an inappropriate analogy none the less. The question the Court was asked to consider at that time was whether Dred Scott could sue as a citizen in a federal court. The Court concluded that he could not. While I certainly do not agree with the Dred Scott decision, it is in no way analogous to the Wade and Bolton decisions (granting a woman's right to choose). Thus, the conclusion that just as the Dred Scott decision error had to be corrected by a Constitutional amendment, so the abortion decision "errors" must be similarly corrected, does not follow.

Steve Masse's beliefs that pro-choice people are like Nazis and that legal abortion allows mass killings, just as such killings were condoned by Nazi Germany, are either based on ignorance or a calculated distortion of historical facts. Until Hitler's rise to power, relatively safe abortions were available to all German woman who wanted them, and birth control information and methods were widely disseminated. All this changed in 1933 when Hitler enacted a program to raise the Ayran birth rate by 45 percent in one year. Promising to "do away with the idea that what he does with his own body is each individual's business' (Mein Kampf), Hitler provided financial incentives for Aryan couples to have children, closed all birth control clinics, and Aryan abortions became a major crime. Abortions for Jewish, Russian, and Polish women remained legal, however. This sounds too similar to the U.S. government's willingness to fund 90 percent of sterilization, often forced and mainly aimed at poor white and Third World women. Steve Masse and U.S. policies seem to have much more in common with Nazi Germany than pro-choice does. In Anglo-America, the only jurisdiction that punished abortion by death was Nazi Germany. The example of Nazi policies clearly demonstrates the importance of preserving American women's right of free choice.

The remainder of Mr. Masse's arguments center around the issue of whether the fetus is a person. Whether or not the fetus is thought of as a person is a matter of opinion or religious belief, not fact. There is no scientific agreement as to when a fetus becomes a person.

Mr. Masse questions the constitutionality of abortion. In a democratic society, one set of moral principles should not be singled out as a foundation for laws which coerce those who have different moral principles. Neither I nor anyone I know is pro-abortion; we are pro-choice. Mr. Masse has a right to treat the fetus as a person if he wants to. What is objectionable is his insistence that the law be used to make everyone else treat the fetus as a person as well. The position of the government cannot be expressed any better than what appeared in an editorial in the July 6, 1980 issue of the New York Times.

We continue to believe that in an a democracy there is only one rensonable solution to a matter as bitter and divisive as abortion. And that is tolerance. When the nation is so deeply split, Government cannot choose sides without inflicting great pain. Government's most constructive role is to try to minimize its interference and to allow people of differing views to follow their own consciences. That was the great value of the 1973 decision.

Beth Avenia
Coalition for Equal Rights and Reproductive Freedom

Administration insensitive to USA

To the Editor:

We are writing this letter to express our support for the University Staff Association (USA) members engaged in yesterday's job action.

For months, the members of this union, who are integral to the running of the University, have been without a contract. The majority of the clericals involved are women, who as usual are expected to accept second class salaries. The law firm of Skoler, Abbott and Hayes (remember the Amherst Nursing Home?) has been handling the negotiations for the Board of Trustees and the administration. The foot-dragging and inconsequential negotiating that has gone on are characteristic of this union-busting law firm.

In today's inflationary society, USA's demands for a cost of living raise additional anti-sexual harassment language and an end to the dual pay system, are not outrageous. The University's failure to resolve these issues has forced the USA to call a sick-out.

The administration is showing great insensitivity towards worker's ability to make a decent living and students' need to attend a funcitoning university. Certainly, more foot dragging or using students as scabs to answer the phone (in Whitmore) is not the answer.

Lisa Nazzaro
Racial Student Union

Writing a letter? READ THIS!

Letters to the editor should be kept as brief as possible, and must be typed at 67 characters per line, triple spaced.

All letters must contain the writer's name, address and phone number. Only names will be printed. All letters are subject to editing for space and clarity.

IT'S COMING
THE GREAT
SKI SNATCH
NOV 19-22 S.U.D.

The IRON HORSE
20 Center St.
584-9735
Coffeehouse
Events This Week
Sunday 11-9 Paula Lockhart sings blues in the
Bessie Smith Tradition $3.50
Monday 11-10 "Alive"
all woman Jazz Band
(from West Coast) $5.00
Wednesday 11-12
Utah vs. Phillups$4.00

the Hungry U Restaurant
the ideal spot for a relaxing meal
Sunday Special
Spaghetti
and Meatballs
includes salad and hot garlic bread
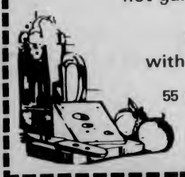
$2.99
with this coupon
55 University Drive
Amherst
549-5713



Timberland
Why Heartfelt?

• Timberland
• Frye
• Bass
• Justin
• Tony Lama
• Dan Post
• and lots more
Heartfelt Leather
103 N. Pleasant St.
Downtown Amherst
Open 10-6 Mon-Sat
Open Friday till 8
253-5135

THE UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AT AMHERST
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
and
Columbia Artists
present
The ACADEMY of SAINT MARTIN in the FIELDS
WORLD'S MOST RECORDED CHAMBER ORCHESTRA
Friday, Nov 14
8 PM
Tickets now on sale at the Fine Arts Center Box Office (M-F, noon-4 pm) Phone reservations accepted through Wed. Nov. 12 (413-545-2511)
$9, 8, 7 General Public
$8, 7, 6 Senior Citizens
$4.50, 4, 3.50 UMass Students
Partial funding provided by Andry Montgomery Ltd. of London

If it's sick to love a pen, then the world's going crazy.
It happened to secretaries first. Then lawyers, bookkeepers, waitresses cabbies, housewives, and businessmen succumbed to the beauty of our Pilot Razor Point and Fineliner pens.
Some people felt it was sick to get so emotionally involved with our pens. But is it really so crazy to love a Pilot Razor Point pen that writes with a sharp smooth line and costs a mere 79¢? Is it nuts to flip over its unique little metal collar that smartly helps to keep its point from going squish?
If it is crazy, it's going to surprise a whole lot of people. In fact, we understand that Pilot Razor Point even has what it takes to score extra points with football players.
It also comes to our attention that many coaches are fans of the Pilot Fineliner. Along with all the other Razor Point features, the 69¢ Pilot Fineliner has the strength and drive to go through carbons.
It's hard to resist a pen that holds the line like a Pilot.
PILOT
fineline marker pens
More than just something to write with Jack Says!!

Come see
what we saw...
We won all bets. . . .
so we gotta sell them
$6.67 BARRELS $6.67
Previously used for Food Transport
Truck Loads - Practically Industructable Plastic
Widemouth
Screw Top
Over 40 Gal.
Many Uses
Floatation
Rubbish
Salted Sand
Pet Food
Planters
Dog House
Toys
To Be Sold
Off The Tailgates Nov. 8 @ 8:00 AM
...and save!
You'll find our service a cut above the rest.
Make it in Massachusetts
COWLS BUILDING SUPPLY INC
125 Sunderland Road
North Amherst, Massachusetts 01059
413-549-0001

The hidden life of Freud: A fascinating drama

Freud: The Man and the Cause
(Random House) $19.95
By Ronald W. Clark

By SCOTT McGRATH
Collegian Correspondent

"They may criticize my doctrines by day, but they dream of them by night."
—Sigmund Freud

Books

Ronald Clark has written the second major biography of Sigmund Freud, the first being the three-volume The Life and Work of Sigmund Freud by Ernest Jones. This new biography is aimed at a more popular audience. It hardly ever gets particularly technical; instead it probes the renowned psychologist's life with exhaustive explanations of his actions and a developmental history of psychoanalysis. At times, the book becomes tiresome with its Freudian analyses of Freud's personal life. Sometimes the author tries to dramatize Freud by suggesting hidden naughtiness in his conduct, pandering to the reader's false sense of justice in an attempt to incriminate the master.

If our lives and biographies are truly fiction, Freud's life is at least great fiction. Freud foresaw that psychoanalysis was going to be attacked because of its revolutionary ideas, and so he did his best to keep his personal life out of what he considered his science. He wanted the attackers to cope with his theories and not with his life.

In fact, he had a habit of hiding and burning his letters and papers — something which may have done him more harm than good in the longrun since critics' imaginations have filled the gaps in with unprecedented vigor. The author laments at one point Freud's opinion that "biographical truth is not to be had," and comments on Freud's statement that Freud was "looking forward to seeing his biographers go astray." Clark thus earns our deepest sympathies. When speculations about Freud's life are varied, he is willing to present all the choices, and

turn to page 14

FOUR SEASONS
Miller btls---7.49
Bud btls---7.99
Lowenbrau btls.---9.49
Labatts beer & ale---10.99
Falstaff cans---5.99
Mr. Boston Vodka (1.75 litres)---8.99
Gordon's Gin (1.75 litres)---11.99
Gallo Premium Table Wine (3 litre)---5.99
Open all day 9 am - 11 pm on
Veteran's Day, Tuesday Nov. 11
Wines/Liquors
Open 9-11 PM
rte.9, hadley,ma./584-8174
In front of the malls

THE AMHERST DELICATESSEN
25c off with purchase of sandwich and beverage
(with this coupon)
Friday and Saturday only, Nov. 7 & 8
Serving Sandwiches, Bagels & Lox, Quality Cold Cuts & New York Cheesecake
The Carriage Shops, Amherst 549-6314

CARBUR'S
Restaurant & Lounge
Sat. & Sun.
BRUNCH 11:30 - 3:00
Quiche
Omelets
Steak & Eggs
Eggs Benedict
Bloody Marys & Screwdrivers 95c
Rt. 9 Hadley
586-1978

AMC THEATRES TIMES SHOWN FOR TODAY ONLY
ADULTS $2.75 STUDENT & SR. CITIZEN WITH AMC CARD $2.25 SPECIAL ENGAGEMENTS EXCLUDED TWI-LITE SHOW $1.75 TWI-LITE SHOW LIMITED TO SEATING
HAMPSHIRE 4 584-7550 HAMPSHIRE MALL ON CAFE 50 RT 9 HADLEY, MASS
FADE TO BLACK
Fri-Mon (4:45 @ $1.75) 7:30-9:55
Matinees (Sat- Tue) 2:15
R
MARY TYLER MOORE
DONALD SUTHERLAND
Ordinary People
Fri-Mon (4:30 @ $1.75) 7:15-9:45
Matinees (Sat- Tue) 2:00
R
THE ROCKY HORROR PICTURE SHOW
R
Fri-Sat all movies start at 12:15 come dressed for the documentary filming of Rocky Horror by WSYL-TV
PETER O'TOOLE
THE STUNT MAN
Fri-Mon (4:30 @ $1.75) 7:15 9:45
Matinees (Sat-Tue) 1:45
R
Marlon Brando
Last Tango In Paris
Guess Who's Back? NATIONAL LAMPOON'S ANIMAL HOUSE
R
JESUS ...the man you thought you knew
Fri-Mon (4:45 @ $1.75) 7:30-9:55
Matinees (Sat-Tue) 2:15
G
MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9—HADLEY MASS
GOLDIE HAWN as PRIVATE BENJAMIN
Fri-Sat (4:45 @ $1.75) 7:30-10:15
Sun-Mon (4:45 @ $1.75) 7:15-9:30
Matinees (Sat-Tue) 2:00
R
JILL CLAYBURGH
It's My Turn
Fri-Sat (5:00 @ $1.75) 7:45-10:15
Sun-Mon (5:00 @ $1.75) 7:30-9:30
R
CHARLTON HESTON SUSANNAH YORK
THE AWAKENING
Fri-Sat (4:45 @ $1.75) 7:30-10:00
Sun-Mon (4:45 @ $1.75) 7:15-9:30
R Matinee (sat, Tue) 2:15
Cartoon Film Festival
(Tom & Jerry—Pink Panther)
Sat., Sun., Mon., Tue.
@ 2:15
all seats $1.50
G
ANTHONY HOPKINS
THE ELEPHANT MAN
Fri-sat (4:30 @ $1.75) 7:15-10:00
Sun-Mon (4:30 @ $1.75) 7:00-9:30
PG Matinee (Sat-Tue) 2:00

SALE!
ONE DAY ONLY...
SATURDAY, NOV. 8
brightly colored, hand knit
SLIPPER SOCKS
wool & acrylic
REG. 9.95
6.95

FACES
A Store-full of Ideas
Downtown Amherst /Open 10-6, Mon.-Sat.

WAR!

Will there be W.W.III? Can we ever do away with war? Is war business? Is war a rich man's game? How does war relate to politics? Religion? Is the arms race wise? Insane? Inevitable? Who and what is the enemy?

War is the theme of Issue #1 of Awareness, a UMass journal of intellect. What does war mean to students and faculty of UMass? Active intercommunication is the key to learning and change. Let your voice be heard! Make a contribution to your community's awareness by expressing your views on any facet of the war of man vs. man or man vs. nature. Write an essay, book report, story or poem. Draw a picture or cartoon. (Writing; typed, triple-spaced. Drawings up to 10"vt. X 7½" hz.) Drop off is in the English Major Department, 252 Bartlett Hall. Info.: Call 546-1114 day or eve. Awareness is sponsored by the UMass Arts Council.

THE UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AT AMHERST
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
and the UMass Arts Council present

FRIDAY, NOV. 21 8 PM
SATURDAY, NOV. 22 8 PM
SUNDAY, NOV. 23 3 PM

Tickets now on sale at the Fine Arts Center Box Office (M-F, noon-4 p.m.) Phone reservations accepted until Wednesday Nov. 19 (413-545-2511) for all performances. $8, 7, 6 General Public
$7, 6, 5 Senior Citizens
$4, 3.50, 3 UMass Students

Texas Instruments presents
the great educate, calculate, don't procrastinate,
rebate.

Now your family can get many of the Texas Instruments products you've always wanted. Plus, something you never expected; some of your money back.

Because right now, TI is offering rebates on many of their most popular items. Like electronic learning aids that are designed to help children explore the exciting worlds of words and numbers. Or the extraordinary talking Language Tutor. They're even offering rebates on two of their most popular desk-top printing calculators.

So don't hestitate. Stop by to get your rebate coupon and your favorite Texas Instruments product today. Because soon it will be too late for a rebate. Offer ends November 15th. A. TI-5015 Desk-top printing calculator with independent ad register. $5 Rebate. A ribbonless desk-top calculator that's as reliable as it is quiet. B. Speak & Spell™ electronic learning aid. $10. Rebate. A remarkable talking device that expands as your child grows. C. Language Tutor™ talking electronic language aid. $20 Rebate. It's your ticket to learning a foreign language. D. TI-5040 Desk-top printer/display calculator with special business functions. $8 Rebate. A desk-top calculator that's ideal for business or home. E. TI-30 Student Math Kit™ with calculator and "Great International Math on Keys" book. $2 Rebate. A standard for students from Jr. High School through college. F. Spelling B™ electronic learning aid. $4 Rebate. An innovative learning aid that makes spelling picture book easy. G. Little Professor™ electronic learning aid. $2 Rebate. Adds the wonder of numbers to early learning fun.

Fifty Years of Innovation

© 1980 Texas Instruments Incorporated

The Rebate Offer Is In Addition To Our Already Low Discounted Prices

All Are Welcome

Open
Mon - Fri 9-5
Sat - 11-4
Main Floor, Campus Center
University of Massachusetts
the University Store

Inferior performance ruins play 'Three Penny Opera'

By JONATHAN HAMILTON
Collegian Staff

"Three Penny Opera," a political play dealing with the values and the way of life in London's underworld, is marred by the quality of acting in its local performance.

The performance put on at Smith College's Theatre this past weekend moves on to Holyoke Community College for its final two productions tonight and tomorrow night at 8 p.m.

The script, written by Bertolt Brecht, has a certain power in its statements on society. But the production, with a few exceptions in the cast, could not achieve the richness the script requires and deserves.

The play itself is a clever work made more so by some catchy songs and musical arrangements. But just as the acting is inferior so, too, are the singing and the orchestra. On several occasions the orchestra played over the singers, making it extremely difficult for the audience to hear the lyrics.

Most of the audience, though, were moved by the stirring performance of Gwendolyn Rieks, who played Jenny, a whore. Her powerful deliveries in her booming voice were a treat.

The story line is delightful. Macheath, (Mac the Knife) played by Chris Horton, has married Polly Peachum, the daughter of Jonathan Peachum, the proprietor of "The Beggars' Friend". Mr. Peachum, infuriated by the thought that his daughter has married the most notorius thief in London promises the Chief of Police Tiger Brown (Greg Alexander) he will disrupt the coronation of the Queen by sending his beggars to the event unless Macheath is captured.

Brecht gives us a poignant commentary on life in the underworld of London, as which he sees materialistic and superficial. Mac the Knife steals only the best furniture for his wedding. And so too with Peachum, who connives and schemes with his beggars to rob the rich. The superficial love of Mac the Knife is love for his wife Polly is clearly superficial. None of the couples show true love; it is merely a farce. It is also quite clear that Mac is not only an element of this life, but a symbol of it as well.

"Three Penny Opera" could have been a marvelous performance but the fact that there were few inspiring performances from the actors hurt the play considerably.

★BOG

continued from page 3

be extended to the student senate. She also accepted a letter of resignation from member John Furbish of the cable council. Furbish was unavailable for comment on his resignations.

Bells Pizza House
Do the words "Good Taste" ring a bell?
Sun.-Thurs. 11-1 am
Fri. & Sat. 11-2 am
65 University Drive
253-9051 549-1311

- Small & Large Pizzas
- Grinders
- Spaghetti
- Tossed & Green Salads

the rusty nail inn

Thurs. Nov. 6
GEORGE THOROGOOD and THE DESTROYERS

Fri. Nov. 7
JAMES MONTGOMERY BAND
with special guests
FIRST RATE

Sat. Nov. 8
THE JAMES COTTON BAND
with special guests
FIRST RATE

Rt 47 Sunderland MA 665-4937

PRESENTS
UPC PRODUCTIONS
A Reggae Dance
with MONYAKA
and Loose Caboose
December 6, 1980
at the Student Union Ballroom
Tickets
$4.00 UMass Students $5.00 General Public
Available at
Tix, Union Records Unlimited, and For the Record at Faces
No food, drink or smoke please
Thanks, U.P.C. Productions

Chinese Language and Cultural Studies
CLCS Offers:
Reasonable expenses * Travel
* Concentrated study in Taiwan
* Extensive course listing
* Full university credit

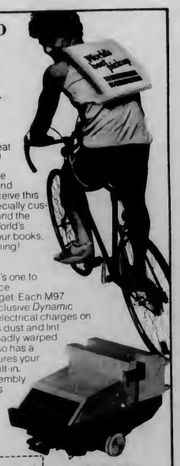
Accepting applications for all quarters
For Free Pamphlet and Couseling:
Chinese Language and Cultural Studies
P.O. Box 15563, Long Beach, CA 90815
Telephone: (213) 597-3361

Branagan's
NOVEMBER

SUNDAY 9	MONDAY 10	TUESDAY 11	WEDNESDAY 12	THURSDAY 13	FRIDAY 14	SATURDAY 15
QUICHE & WINE	Mon. Nite DRAFTS 50¢ Hot Dogs 75¢	KIR SOMETHING DIFFERENT $1.50	7.95 SPECIAL	BOB ACKERMAN	GUITARIST JIM KIMBALL 9-1
16 A GLASS of WINE or KIR on US, WITH EVERY QUICHE ENTREE EVERY SUN IN NOVEMBER	17 FOOTBALL 2 TV's SOON DRAFTS 50¢	18 CRANBERRY MIST $1.95	19 PRIME RIB SPECIAL 7.95	20 BOB ACKERMAN	21 BOTH NITES JIM KIMBALL 9-1	22

Route 9 at University Drive Amherst, MA. (413) 256-8557

Put your stereo back-on-track and Shure will put a pack on your back.



We'll give you more than a great deal on a top-value cartridge!

With any M97 Series Cartridge you buy between October 1 and December 31, 1980, you'll receive this durable canvas bike pak, specially customized with the Shure logo and the thought-provoking phrase "World's Best Pickup." Use it to hold your books, records, lunch ... almost anything!

Shure offers you six new M97 models to choose from, there's one to fit every system's tracking force requirements, and every budget. Each M97 Cartridge features Shure's exclusive Dynamic Stabilizer, which neutralizes electrical charges on the record surface ... removes dust and lint and allows you to play even badly warped records. Every Shure M97 also has a unique stylus design that insures your hearing every note, and a built-in SIDE-GUARD deflection assembly that protects the fragile stylus (needle) against accidental drops and bumps.

ACT NOW. THIS SPECIAL OFFER ENDS SOON!

To get your free bike pak, fill out this coupon and send it with both end flaps from the box your M97 cartridge came in to:
SHURE BROTHERS INC., 222 Hartrey Ave. Evanston, IL 60204 Attn. Department 63BP

(Please Print)
Name _____
Address _____
City State _____ Zip _____
Allow four to six weeks for delivery. Offer expires December 31 1980

M97
Phono Cartridges by SHURE
SHURE BROTHERS INC.
222 Hartrey Ave.
Evanston, IL 60204
Manufacturers of high fidelity components, microphones, sound systems and related circuitry

Collegian Classifieds

• Come to Collegian Office CC 113 • 8:45-3:45 Monday - Friday • Deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day • 15c per word • Student rate 10c per word • Cash in advance • 5 consecutive days 5% discount • Phone number FREE

AUDIO

Phase Linear Mark V Speakers wxc. cond. only 2 mo old need $ $650— or BO Bill 546-5835 anytime

Discount Stereo Equipment: Campus Sounds has everyday sale prices on over 100 top brands-all fully guaranteed!-Will beat any competitor's price! Call Eric @ 546-1147 (try again after 11 p.m.)

Stereo Console w/turntable AM/FM radio cassette player $125.00 firm 549-6988 aft 9 PM good cond

Pig Nose 30/60 great shape $190 negotiable John 549-1666 evenings

AUTO FOR SALE

1968 Volvo Wagon good condition rebuilt engine 1200 BO Joe 546-7924

68 Cougar good condition best offer over $450 call Jim 549-6321

Capri 1976 standard, black, 39000 miles, very good condition, new batteries and brakes, no rust, must sell-leaving the country $2580 Carlos 584-4185 (Hadley)

73 Buick Century 75,000 mi, excellent transportation, some body damage, has sticker, must sell nest offer accepted 253-7479

72 Celica good cond. price neg. call Mike 549-6087

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITY

Opportunity to earn $18,000/yr by May working 10-12 hrs/wk Find out how YOU can do it for appointment call 549-1172

CUSTOM SILKSCREENING

Sweatshirts, Nightshirts, Jumpers and Shorts All these can be ordered with a handprinted silkscreen design from the ZooMass table on the Campus Center Concourse Thursdays and Fridays

DISC JOCKEY

Have a Great Party!! Hire Quality Disc Jockeys Denis 546-6249 Andy 546-1164

ENTERTAINMENT

Soundsystem and DJ for hire perfect for band parties coffeehouses Rick 584-4105

PA system mics echo Rhodes electric piano ideal for bands coffeehouses Loud Partys Jim 546-7517

Bands wanted for battle of the bands prize $$ contact Brett House now Dan 6-9533 Sandy 6-6287 Doug 6-6234

FERP

WELL you got your name in the paper! HAPPY BIRTHDAY ar ar ar Party at Swill Sat nite!

FOR RENT

Rooms for rent So. Deerfield bus available 665-7093

FOR SALE

Gift Idea: Portrait Drawings; call dennis Delap 665-2972

TRS-80 48K or 16K System must sell mint condition call for details 546-7050

Backpack new cost $150, sell for $100 will bring to Campus 1-684-3121, 1-442-6023

Moving, must sell 1970 Valiant runs well, $1200.00 Yamaha 12-string guitar, $200 or BO furniture 253-3101

Single bed $40 Carol 549-5440 after 5

73 Gremlin 600.00 or best offer call 584-7094 after 7 PM

Mattress/sofa Queensize futon with pillow. Both have slipcovers All 100% cotton. 1 month old $175 253-2427

Mag Wheels 14x6 for most GM cars call Phil 546-6675

3-yr old Pacific Trail 100% down jacket no holes or stains; $30 call eves; 665-7134

Hockey Equipment: Goalie stick and catch gloves; shoulder and chest pads take all for $60 Keith 665-4914

Wristwatches; namebrands $110-160 retail ½ price 665-7545

Rossignol CM; 195 cm, brand new - never mounted, retailed at $225, asking $175, call Jim after 7:00 pm 546-5214

68 Rambler American runs excellent must sell Dave 584-3298 $275

Brown suede chaps for sale: mint cond. call 253-3504 price negotiable

Springsteen Ticket Dec 11 6-5591 anytime Providence

Ski Bindings for sale Look N-77 brand new, int. exp. $50. 6-5808

FOUND

Set of keys on Aquarius key ring call 6-9153

Key found in lot near Worcester DCcall 6-4439 after 6 pm

Keys near FAC 11/3 call 6-9292

Faust—found bills. Some late. See Ted?

HELP WANTED

Wanted part-time radiology technician for multi-specialty group practice please call 256-8561 ext 248 M-F 8 am-4 pm

Cruises—Club Mediterranean, Sailing, Expeditions! Needed: Sports Instructors, Office Personnel, Counselors, Europe, Carribean, Worldwide! Summer. Career. Send $5.95 + $1 handling for application OPENINGS, GUIDE to CRUISEWORLD 16160129, Sacramento, Ca. 95860

Certified CPR instructor wanted to co teach CPR (BLS) at UMass Anyone certified call 546-3296 keep trying!

Part-time Driver with own van or station wagon for self-help group of mentally retarded adults. Monday eves. Wage & mileage. Call Association for Retarded Citizens 586-0109

Overseas Jobs—Summer/year round. Europe, S. Amer., Australia, Asia, All Fields. $500-$1200 monthly. Sightseeing. Free Info. write: IJC Box 52-MA1 Corona Del Mar, Ca 92625

Houseworker 2-3 hours/week, Sunderland, references required 665-4920

Help send Ronald to the big ranch in the sky. Give him a permanent role in Death Valley. Applications now being accepted for Reagan Hit Squad. Experience with automatic weapons and explosives a plus. The wet head is dead or should be. Apply after January 20.

INSTRUCTION

English Classes (ESL) Elementary, Intermediate. Two hours an afternoon, except Wednesday. Faculty/student spouses, visitors, immigrants. People's Institute, Northampton. 584-3956 NLI, P.O. Box 34, Northampton

Hypnosis Speed reading Rm 909 Campus Center Nov 12, 13 at 7 PM all welcome KR Morse 532-5703

COBOL Tutor professional experience call 365-4722 6 PM to 10 PM reasonable rates!

INTERNSHIPS AVAILABLE

Legal Assistant Interns Wanted: The Legal Services Office has 8 positions available for full-time legal assistant interns for the Spring 1981 semester. Up to fifteen credits may be earned through Office of Internships. Legal assistants assist attorneys of the LSO with client interviewing, investigations, legal research, negotiations, giving advice and referrals, preparation of court forms, and attendance at hearings in District and Superior Courts, and participation in administrative hearings and federal litigation. Maintain continuing case load under supervision of attorneys. Applications available at Office of Internships, Curry Hicks Building, and inquire further at Legal Services Office, 922 Campus center. Applicationsdue November 7, 1980 at Office of Internships. Writing sample required. All third world and women students are encouraged to apply.

LOST

Nova Owners I hitched back to Boston on Friday Oct. 10 I left a brown and tan reversible jacket in your car call 6-7470

Lost keys—Sat nite wall across from Thoreau Reward 6-7451

Ladies glasses green case light tan pink frames Carolyn 6-7495

Gold S Chain double bracelet Means alot to me. Reward call Jennifer 6-3201

Male dog black/brown 1 ½? yrs old on Rt 9 Belchertown no collar beautiful and well behaved 256-0594

Lost a maroon umbrella in the Coffee Shop—sentimental value! Please return to Lost and Found in C.C.

A gold loveknot ring with a chipped diamond near Munchies in Southwest will give a reward much sentimental value Michelle 6-8568

MARK H. DAY

May you reach your ultimate high soon. Thank God for friends like you who pull me through. D.J.

MORNING SUNSHINE!

Morning Sunshine - Call Me

MOTORCYCLES

Kawasaki 500 3 cyl. 1976 excellent cond. helmet steal $700 John 665-4395

1976 Kawasaki KH-250 3 cylinder 2 stroke small enough around campus big enough on the highway. New: points, plugs, condenser, battery. Excellent condition and mileage. Best offer call 546-5303

MUSIC YOU CAN EAT

The Munchy Brothers—Happy Valley's music alternative offers bluegrass/astronomy fusion music, fun, and romance for under $10—an hour. Every Sunday night at Hampden Snack Bar in Southwest. No cover!

PERSONALS

Undergrad Pol. Sci. Assoc. interested in becoming member? Sign-up Rm 422 Thompson

What do you think of your department, school or college? This is your chance to let the rest of the world know! Have your opinion published in the 1981 yearbook. See Maureen at the Index office, room 103 CC, or call 545-0848 and leave your name and phone number

There's nothing exactly like this. .anywhere! Send your favorite snapshots, magazine picture, drawing. . .anything! We'll customize it into a beautiful 2 3/8" key-chain button, or pin backed button, (specify) Your personalized memento $3.00 p.p.d. T.G.R. Enterprises 2900 Griffin Road Suite #5 Fort Lauderdale, Florida 33312 + ask for giant "slogan" catalog!!

UMass Photo Co-op Raffle 1st prize Canon AE-1 Nov 3-14 CC Concourse

Assistant Managing Editors: meeting this Friday. Check with Fran

Up for a late night pizza and beer? Come to CHARLIE'S. Pizza served Daily 9-1. Ask about our golden club card which entitles you to a free drink per day. Card cost is $5.00 per month

Full Gospel Bible Study Friday Nov. 7 CC 808 8-10 PM

Guys at BKO, Thanks for the ride from BK we do talk French Ali & Eli

Snoflake: The past two months with you have been the best! Hope it stays this way for a long time! Love ya—The Inishman

To the A-1 salesman we would have stopped by but we don't like Fang! Happy Belated Birthday Bawby we love you, Shroom, and the cance spring semester sex bunnies

Happy 18 Kelly from Peter, Kevin, Debi, Valeri, Adam, Dom

Kooky Spooky, why do bees only sting when buzzing?

Spike!—Yes, Helen Darling, this is your classified! Just a word from the Birthday Bunny—have a "Happy Happy!"

Alussie it's been a great year you ownit! Thanx Bowser

Leanne and Caci forever

Betsy Happy Birthday you little Bunnie Rabbit, your the best B.S. Love, Beth

Springsteen at Hartford 12/12 tickets for sale best offer 586-0180

Inch High Private Eye The lights are low and the wine is chilled, how about doing some investigating? I love you. LB

BASICALLY, I think my RHS is going negative How do I make it feasible?

Weekend Partying? Hire the best DJ on campus - featuring Bose 901 sound! Andy 546-1164 Denis 546-6249

You've lighted my life! Every sec, every min, every days, every weeks, every months, every years. Since I've met you, my life have been brighter & happier. Happy Birthday Wanda & hope many more to come. Love, Danny

Good Luck Suzanne in KC National FFA needs you Bob

Patterson's gorgeous senator (Bob) has a secret admirer!

Paul Holt Happy Birthday you hulk! You're such a perv! 2-West

T.T. Believe Me, I didn't mean it!

Thanks to the UMass Police Officer who assisted us Sunday night Residents of 1118 Coolidge

RIDE WANTED

Ride needed to NYC Thurs 10/6 $$$ please call Joanna 6-8148

I need a ride to Cape Cod-Hyannis area on Fri Nov 7 please call Barbara at 546-6425 will share expenses & can leave anytime

ROOM WANTED

Needed room house or apt near bus next semester Rob 665-4181

Male senior looking for own room in house or apartment for Spring semester 546-8187

ROOMMATE WANTED

Own room in thre bdrm Puffton Village apt. $122 includes heat Call Bob 549-5877 after 6

Colonial Village one bdrm in two bdrm apt $125 & elec Mark 256-6454 after 5 pm Nov. 1 sublet

Responsible, friendly, independent rmmate for own room in 3 bdrm Rolling Green Apt. $115/mth, includes everything call Shelley or Conworth 256-0510 evenings prefer women

SERVICES

Experienced typist available Fast, neat work, reasonable rates. 546-6439

Typing; Words-Worth, 37 East Pleasant Street, Amherst, 549-1303. Double-spaced text from 95c a page. Justified resumes from $3.50 a page. Telephone dictation line. Overnight rush jobs. Your words are worth it.

Expert Typing, Editing reasonable rates 665-4815 evenings and weekends

Need babysitter weeknights? Call Carrie 546-6847

Excellent typist. Fast, accurate work. 75c-$1.00. Mornings, evenings, weekends. 665-4416

SHITTER & TUMA

Shitter & Tuma Happy Belated Birthday Love Spunky & Dicky

SONGWRITERS

Folk-Singer, song writer researching song writing at UMass. If you write original folk, or country music I would like to interview you and profile your work in my Research--call Joe at 665-2840 10 pm-11:30 pm or weekends anytime

TEMPEST

Dear Rock and Roll Fans We're pleased to announce that Uncle Ricky (the animal) has hooked up with a lost kid; Elias (the alien) catch the act playing at a party near you soon!!! WTF?

TRAVEL

Florida—The Great Getaway for Spring Break and January Term under $200 round trip jet 256-6704

WANTED

Highest prices paid for class rings, gold, and silver jewelry. See me before you sell. Daniel Smith, 25 North Pleasant St between Fotomat and Logos, Amherst M-Sat10-6 call 256-0710

Top Dollars paid for class rings, gold, sterling at Wendy's. CC Concourse, twice a week approved by UMass Board of Governors

Highest prices paid for class rings, gold and silver jewelry. See me when you sell. Daniel Smith 25 North Pleasnat St. between FOTOMAT and LOGOS , Amherst Mon-Sat 10-6 Licensed by Town of Amherst & State of Massachusetts call 256-0710

Someone who sews, to take in my P-coat I will pay generously 546-9101

WANTED TO RENT

Wanted 2 bedroom apt in Cliffside, Presidential, Riverglade, Townehouse apts. or willing to trade Squire Vill twnhouse preferably Nov or Dec 665-3034

Wanted 2/3 bedroom/or house near campus starting January Ameeta 545-1589 546-9955

Country Living at its finest. Utilities included 10 minutes from Amherst Whately Inn 665-3044

Apartment wanted for Spring 2 or 3 bdrm on bus rt call 6-6083 or 6-6141 we offer bribes

DOONESBURY by Garry Trudeau

MIKE, YOU CAN'T BE SO HARD ON YOURSELF. YOU KNEW IT WAS A LONG SHOT FROM THE START..
I KNOW. I KNOW...IT'S JUST I DIDN'T EXPECT THE CAMPAIGN TO BE SUCH A TOTAL FAILURE..
FAILURE? WHAT ON EARTH ARE YOU TALKING ABOUT?
MIKE, YOU HELPED SHOW THE WHOLE WORLD THAT AN UNKNOWN CANDIDATE WITH NO CHANCE OF WINNING COULD RUN FOR PRESIDENT WITHOUT MAKING A COMPLETE FOOL OF HIMSELF!
I DID?
IT'S A TREMENDOUS ACHIEVEMENT. WE'RE ALL VERY PROUD OF YOU, MIKE..
11-7
G B Trudeau

HEY, HAMLET! ARE YOU TAKING CALLS?
WHO IS IT?
IT'S J.J.!
ASK HER IF I CAN CALL HER BACK.
J.J., MIKE'S BUSY BROODING OVER THE ELECTION. CAN HE CALL YOU BACK? WHAT? OKAY, I'LL TELL HIM.
SHE SAYS NEVER MIND. SHE'LL FIND SOMEONE ELSE TO TAKE A SHOWER WITH!
NO! WAIT! DON'T HANG UP!
11-8
G.B. Trudeau

Abnormal Psychology J. Demskey

YO GOD! YOU STILL HERE?
YUP.
I WANNA KNOW ONE THING...
SHOOT
HOW DO YOU FEEL ABOUT CERTAIN ORGANIZED TYPE RELIGIONS FIGHTING OVER WHO KNOWS HOW TO WORSHIP YOU THE BEST? YOU KNOW, EACH ONE TELLING EVERYONE ELSE THEY'VE GOT YOUR NUMBER?
I'm REALLY RIPPED ABOUT THAT!
OR 'OK' WHAT ARE YOU GETTING ALL ANXIOUS ABOUT?

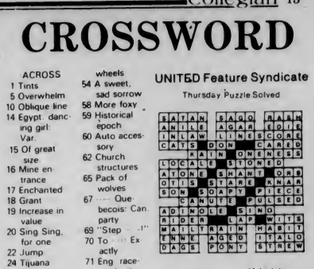
Under the Influence M. Joyce

A LOT OF PEOPLE WONDER HOW CARTOONISTS GET THEIR ZANY IDEAS!
SOME USE ALCOHOL... OR DRUGS.
I PREFER ANGEL DUST AND AIRPLANEGLUE!
MOORE 11/5

CROSSWORD

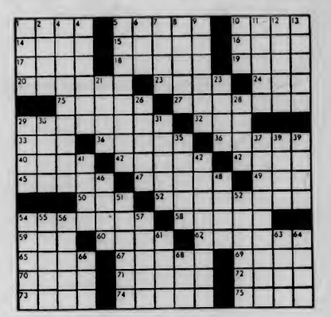
UNITED Feature Syndicate

Thursday Puzzle Solved



ACROSS
1 Tints
5 Overwhelm
10 Oblique line
14 Egypt. dancing girl: Var.
15 Of great size
16 Mine entrance
17 Enchanted
18 Grant
19 Increase in value
20 Sing Sing, for one
22 Jump
24 Tijuana cheer
25 Bankrupts
27 Reconnoitered
29 Groups of three
32 Infant
33 Toper's sound
34 Rest period
36 Holds back
40 Mild oath
42 Bank customer
44 Utter abruptly
45 Men
47 Dissuade
49 Brazil's wallaba tree
50 Transport vehicle
52 Replace worn chair wheels
54 A sweet, sad sorrow
58 More foxy
59 Historical epoch
60 Auto accessory
62 Church structures
65 Pack of wolves
67 ..... Que becois: Can. party
69 "Step ....!"
70 To ..... Ex actly
71 Eng. racetrack site
72 So. Cal. campus
73 Salamander
74 Oboe, clarinet, etc.
75 Youthful ending

DOWN
1 Instrument
2 Ending with cell or circ
3 Guided by experience
4 Arranges 2 words
5 Wool fabrics
6 Jurisprudence
7 Of the mouth
8 Fabled monsters
9 Frame an edict
10 Saloon
11 Imbecile
12 Church area
13 Horse
21 Lubricates
23 Destitute
26 Ending for farm or home
28 Chief Ouray followers
29 Those people
30 Latvian seaport
31 Dissolve
35 Lawford, et al
37 Dazed: 3 words
38 Scruff
39 Boxing match
41 Liability
43 Recovers
46 Spades, e.g.
48 Steel mill product
51 Concealed marksman
53 Start a trip: 2 words
54 Not religious
55 Marble
56 Replenish
57 Wine making fruit
61 De Valera's kind
63 Irritate
64 Musical or Mikita
66 Acquire
68 Fox



D.C. Menu

KOSHER MENU
Chicken Soup/Farfel
Gefilte Fish/Mixed Pickles
Roast Beef/Gravy
Chicken Pie

EARTHFOODS
Burritos
Green Salad
Mushroom Barley Soup
Grain
Corn Bread

PIZZARAMA
355 College St.

M-Th 11-1:30 AM
F-Sun 11:2:30 AM
FREE DELIVERY
253-3808
256-0115

* Driver wanted - must work weekends/have own car! *

Spirit Haus

The full-line liquor store that's close and has convenient parking.

CHECK OUR WEEKLY SPECIALS ON BEERS, LIQUORS AND WINE.

Largest selection of wines in Amherst; friendly, knowledgeable staff.

KEGS - ICE - CUPS - SNACKS

338 College Street. Open till 11 p.m.
Telephone 253-5384

★ Freud

continued from page 9

then, perhaps support one.

The author's peculiar sense of the irony concerning some of the turns of Freud's career shines through comments like: "Potential genius had at least been pricked into action by a spur no stronger than a normal biological impulse." The childish glory in assertions like this is hard to deal with.

Nevertheless, Clark tends toward objectivity in his biography. Most of the time, he qualifies himself with a cautious, "whether one believes in Freud's theories or not, one has to admit . . .," which is followed by an account of the man's enormous intellectual power. The author's keen sense of the drama in Freud's activities makes the book interesting. Freud was a revolutionary thinker, and his throughts remain violently controversial. He was always cool, always testing and rethinking his theories, always trying to be as objective and scientific as possible.

Hypercurricula . . .

Fri., Nov. 7

FX rocks Hampden. Friday night. 50 cents.

Shabbat Services. 7:00 p.m. in the Dukes Room, followed by kiddush, goodies, singing, socializing, discussion.

Gay/Lesbian/Bi Folkdancing: The People's Gay Alliance of UMass and Gay Men of Franklin County sponsor a gay folkdance, 7:30 -10:30 p.m. in the Commonwealth Room, Student Union, UMass. No experience necessary. All are welcome.

Sat., Nov. 8

Shabbat Morning Services, at 10:30 in the Dukes Room, 310 SU followed by kiddush and brunch with bagels and lox.

Sun., Nov. 9

6:30 p.m. ROSH HODESH. The Jewish women's new moon ceremony, a ritual and strength, renewal and growth. The ceremony will be followed by singing and playing music with Barbara Stack and friends. 45 No. East St., Amherst. (Take Belchertown Rd. bus two stops down Main St.) Rosh Hodesh will close the series

7:00 p.m. Discussion, "The Changing Values of American Judaism" led by Carol Holzberg of the UMass Anthropology Dept., a researcher on Jews in the Caribbean. Sponosred by the Jewish Grad/Older Undergrad/Working folks group, 7:00 p.m. at 174 Amity St., Amherst.

House Church at UCF — 7 - 9 p.m. at 428 Student Union — a gathering for Biblical Exploration, personal encounter, and fellowship and a simple closing communion — For more info stop by UCF or call 545-2661.

The Society for Creative Anachronism 2 p.m., next to the Campus Center, outside. People in the middle-ages did more than dance, for anyone interested in seeing how the S.C.A. relives tournament fighting and chivalry.

Undercurrents, a weekly news and public affairs program Sundays on WMUA 91.1 FM, from noon to 2 p.m. This Sunday's feature is the second of a four part series on undercurrents about the Palestinian-Israeli conflict, Territorial Imperative; the occupation and Israel's security needs.

OVERSEAS AUTO PARTS

For the most complete line of foreign auto parts and accessories in the Pioneer Valley.

Get an extra 10% off our low prices with this ad.

offer expires Nov. 15, 1980

API®

Zayre Shopping Plaza
Rt 9 Hadley, MA 01035
Tel 253-3403

authorized API distributor®

silverscape

Natural Cuisine
*fresh baked: quiche
*breads, honey desserts
*homemade soups
*pocket sandwiches
*cappuccino * espresso

COFFEE EQUIPMENT
Coffee Beans
15 varieties
$3.99-4.89/lb.

*Wine, Imported Beer, Liquored Coffee
adjacent to UMass Campus
264 n. pleasant st., amherst
Mon-Sat 9 AM Midnight Sun 11 AM Midnight

TASTE THE BEER THAT OUTSELLS ALL THE OTHERS IN CANADA: LABATT'S.

Good news!
Labatt's, Canada's No. 1 selling beer, is now imported to the U.S. So, now it's easier to try our Labatt's—and understand the secret of its popularity.
We think you'll discover a taste that's crisp, clean and natural—truly, the beer that tastes as good as the country it comes from.

THINK OF CANADA
THINK OF LABATT'S

P.S. The green Labatt's bottle comes equipped with one of those twist-off tops—which can be rather handy, especially whilst one is otherwise engaged.

© Labatt Importers, Inc. Amherst N.Y. 1980

ACADEMY of MUSIC
Northampton, Mass.

Now, Limited Engagement, Ends Tuesday
On Screen At 7:00 and 9:00

NO NUKES
"No Nukes" knocks your socks off."

JACKSON BROWNE • CROSBY, STILLS AND NASH
DOOBIE BROTHERS • JOHN HALL • GRAHAM NASH
BONNIE RAITT • GIL SCOTT-HERON • CARLY SIMON

From Warner Bros. PG

AT THE GATES OF SMITH COLLEGE

BLUE WALL campus center at u mass
ALL AGES WELCOME
At The Hatch Bar

Friday, Nov. 7th
The Shaboo All Stars
featuring Matt "Guitar" Murphy (of the Blues Brothers)
$3.00 cover charge
In Association with UPC Productions

Saturday, Nov. 8th
Arista Recording Artists
THE ELEVATORS
$2.00 cover charge
In Association with UPC Productions

Due to renovations, the Bluewall Beverage Service is temporarily located in the Hatch Cafeteria in the Student Union Building.
TOC sticker & valid ID required to purchase alcohol.

Spikers in Invitational

By MAUREEN SULLIVAN
Collegian Staff

The women's volleyball team ends its regular season this weekend when it travels to Brunswick, New Jersey to participate in the Rutgers Invitational. At Rutgers, the Minutewomen will face Rutgers, Princeton University and Hofstra University.

UMass' chances for the Easterns depend on its performance in this tournament.

"If we can do no less than 2-1 (against the teams we're facing), we'll have a good shot of getting into the Easterns," said Coach Elaine Marasco, "if we go 3,0, it'd be great. Anything less, and we'll be biting our nails waiting by the phone on Sunday."

The JVs will also end its season this weekend, as they host the UMass JV Invitational at Boyden Gym Saturday, beginning at 10 a.m. The JVs will play Endicott Comm. College at 10, then Mount Holyoke College at 11:30 and Springfield College at 1:00 p.m.

Sports Notices

The UMass Table Tennis Club is sponsoring the Third Annual Table Tennis Championships tomorrow in NOPE gym. Entry blanks are available in the games room located across from the Hatch. Winners will represent UMass in the New England Regional Tournament. All UMass students welcome. Entry fee is $1.00. For more information call 545-2527

The UMass Fencing Club meets Holy Cross tomorrow at 1 p.m. in Worcester.

Trainers EMT/Red Cross needed. Contact IM office 5-2693.

Mahar Auditorium 6:30-8:30-11:00
Tonight $1.00

The Umass Music Theater Guild Presents:
The Broadway Musical

"ON THE TOWN"
Music by Leonard Bernstein

Thurs, Fri, Sat, Nov. 6, 7, 8 and 13, 14, 15
All Performances: 8 P.M. Students $2.50
Bowker Auditorium Gen Admission $3.00

Special Discount Preview
Thursday Nov. 6, $1.00 off all ticket prices
Tickets now on sale at the Bowker Box Office
or phone reservation by calling 545-0783

Amherst Gulf
(formerly D & M Sunoco)
Skilled Auto Mechanics
Foreign & Domestic Auto Repair

Honda
Volvo
Datsun
Toyota
Subaru
Saab
VW
Capri

Trouble Shooting
Disc Brakes
Tune-Ups
Fuel-Injection
Exhaust Systems
Electrical
Suspension

catering to the Campus Area
Open 7 Days a Week
call
256-8936
48 N. Pleasant St., Amherst
Center of Amherst

KEGS—
BEER—
WINE—LIQUORS

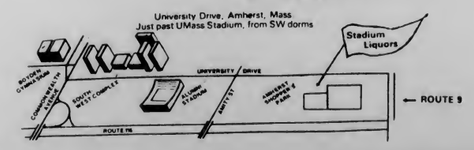
STADIUM
U. Mass.
Amherst
Catch Our Weekly Specials

LIQUORS
Save money—Save gas—Save time
10 a.m. — 253-5595 — til 11 p.m.

Miller & Miller Lite	12 oz. bot or cans	7.99	Blue Nun	750 mil liters	3.49
Lowenbrau	12 oz. bot	9.50	Inglenook	1.5 liters	3.29
Molson (Golden)	12 oz. bot	9.90	Breckenridge	4 liters	4.95
Labatts	12 oz bot	9.90	Gallo	3 liters	5.29
Moosehead	12 oz. bot	11.50	Castillo Rum	1.75 liters	9.39
Erlanger	12 oz. bot.	8.59	Cossack Vodka	1.5 liters	7.99
Pabst	12 oz. bot	6.90	Cossak Gin	1.75 liters	8.39
Wiedemann	12 oz. bot.	5.49	Canadian Mist	1 liter	6.99
			Jim Beam	1.75 liter	10.99

-Save gas-
Save money-



500—Parking places
Soda—Ice—Munchies
-Save time

Sports

The UMass women's soccer and field hockey teams will be competing in playoff action this weekend; the soccer team will be at the University of Vermont and the field hockey team will compete at Springfield College.

UM to clash with Crusaders

By KEVIN CULLEN
Collegian Staff

It is not unlike those Saturday afternoon double-feature movies you used to go to as a kid.

The University of Massachusetts football team travels to Fitton Field in Worcester tomorrow afternoon to take on the Crusaders of Holy Cross—and, when all is said and done, the outcome of another game played some 100 miles away will mean everything to a football team.

While UMass (5-2 overall, 3-1 Yankee Conference) is favored in tomorrow's contest, the result of the University of Connecticut - Boston University game in Storrs, Conn., will determine whether the Minutemen share part of the Yankee Conference title.

If UMass and UConn both win, then they will in all probability (i.e. barring upsets in remaining games) share the Yankee Conference title with BU.

"We'll wait until after our game to start worrying about UConn and BU," said UMass head coach Bob Pickett. "We're not going to concern ourselves with that game until our own is finished."

As for their own game, UMass takes on a 3-5 Holy Cross team coming off a sound 26-0 thumping of hapless Columbia. In that game, Crusader quarterack Dave Boisture set three Holy Cross records for single game passing yardage, pass completions and total offense as he hit on 27 of 46 passes for 387 yards and a touchdown.

"Sure, we're worried about Boisture. Anybody who throws for 387 yards is going to make you worry," Pickett said. "Holy Cross had a fantastic day passing last week, but basically they are just an average passing team.

Boisture has passed for 992 yards this season, his favorite receiver being Brian Kelly who has 30 receptions. Like UConn, Holy Cross lacks any one outstanding running back. Freshman tailback Mark Covington leads the team in rushing with 339 yards.

"They have what I would call typical Holy Cross personnel on both offense and defense," Pickett said. "They're very solid at the skill positions."

Holy Cross head coach Neil Wheelright, meanwhile, is concerned about containing the strong UMass backfield and dealing with what he calls the best depth he's seen all year.

"UMass has the most balance of any team we've faced all year," Wheelright said. "Both their offense and defense are strong and have depth. We're just hoping that the win over Columbia will be the impetus we need to finish strong in our last three games."

With the loss of Tim Fontaine, who will be out for the rest of the season with a bruised kidney and a cracked vertebra, sophomore Dean Pecevich will start for the Minutemen at quarterback. Pecevich came into last week's game against UConn when Fontaine was injured late in the first quarter and led UMass to a 39-21 victory running a disciplined offense while completing two of three passes he threw.

Pecevich should put the ball up a bit more tomorrow, and will hope Pearson can have just half as good a game as last week's performance against UConn. Pearson rushed for 222 yards and two touchdowns, while UMass fullback Brian Heyworth ran for 110 yards.

While the game at Fitton Field tomorrow is just the first half of the double feature, Pickett, like any theater goer, gives his opinion on the second feature:

"I hope UConn wins," he said.

MINUTEMAN NOTEBOOK:

A little good news on Fontaine's condition: while still hospitalized, he was removed from the intensive care unit of Cooley-Dickinson Hospital in Northampton...Victor Pizzotti, known mostly for his antics on special teams, will have a chance to prove himself as a starting center tomorrow as he fills in for tri-captain Fred Read, who is out for the rest of the year with a broken ankle he received against UConn...Could see freshman tight end Gary Freker in Pizzotti's place on kick-off coverage...you have to wonder whether last year's 20-18 loss to Holy Cross in the last four seconds lingers in the minds of UMass upper classmen: A few UMass players are looking to settle the score from that game, which ended a four game win streak for the Minutemen... Pearson (offense) and safety Bob Manning (defense) were named co-players of the week in the Yankee Conference... one "That's Incredible" stat shows the Minutemen have outscored their opponents 46-2 in the first period; and even those two points coming when UMass snapped the ball out of the end zone on a punt attempt down in Rhode Island...

ZULU: an 'ultimate' sports experience

By HANNA DYER
Special to the Collegian

Believe it or not, the struggle for equality in sports still exists.

Last years' Zoo Disc was the only ultimate frisbee team on campus, consisting of all men except for two women. Since then a lot of hard work has gone into the organization of Z.U.L.U., the Zoos' Ultimate Ladies Union.

"I was tired of not getting any 'playing time' on the men's team," said Donna Levine, organizer for Z.U.L.U.

Together with a friend, Eilleen Donoghue (who is now the Z.U.L.U.'s captain), they began recruiting women through a Collegian advertisement last spring.

"At first we didn't get much of a response," Levine said, "but this semester we started off right with close to 20 interested women. We haven't been a winning team, but with 10 returning players and practice every day, we should have a better chance next semester," Levine said.

Through their own aspiration, instead of superior instruction, the team learns and teaches new players the art and technique of ultimate frisbee, they said.

"Our team is a pool of knowledge. There's one girl who can pivot incredibly. When we are practicing everybody has different skills. We all demonstrate different styles. Basically, we all help each other out," Levine said.

Z.U.L.U. has played against two teams recently, but the competition has been astounding.

"All the women on our team are very athletic, but we just don't have the experience. The majority of the women have only been playing since the beginning of the semester, with just Donna and I as instructors, and we haven't been playing all that long either," admits Donoghue.

The team receives no funds from the University, which creates a lot of financial problems for the women, Donoghue said.

"I have put an awful lot of money into equipment for the team, and I knew I would. We need frisbees, uniforms, and transportation which runs up quite a bill. But I think it's all worth it," Donoghue said.

Tomorrow, teams from all over New England will come to UMass to compete in the men's regionals. "We have a game against B.L.U. (Boston Ladies' Ultimate) at noon on Saturday, and maybe we'll play Cornell, if they show for the regionals," Donoghue said.

And how does Eilleen Donoghue feel the team will do?

I'm not sure, but we'll play 'till we drop."

Both Zoo Disc and ZULU will be in action this weekend. Zoo Disc will participate in the N.E. regionals. ZULU will play against B.L.U. (Boston Ladies' Ultimate) Saturday at noon. (Staff photo by Cheryl Senter)

Look ahead to winter...or...are you warm enough?

Ken Lasker

We move along at ever-changing rates, with time slipping, sliding and sometimes even just slowly drifting by. And yet, as events come and go reminding us of the larger perspective of the life we are living, it is still easy to get overly caught up in the intricacies of day-to-day life. Holidays like Halloween move us out into the larger picture, allowing us to escape routines and realize the movement of time.

It is impossible for even the most numb of individuals not to notice the cool air rolling in and the significance which flows along with it. Yes, winter is around the corner (make sure to check that hole in last year's gloves, folks) and with it comes different things for different people. To an observer of college sports (some people tend to classify me that way to which my reply is a disconcerting shrug) this is the time to look at an overall perspective, which leads this writer to look ahead.

It does seem strange to be sitting at a desk writing an article having to do with winter athletics (that is my intent, I think). But from the basketball player to the gymnast, the coming of winter is an end of sorts. It is an end of the rigors of training, of reinforcing fundamentals, and of the endless, endless drills in practice. And while we check the football scores and zero in on the Judy Strongs of women's field hockey, there are many athletes who have been training oh so hard for the coming season, for their chance in the sun (the sun does shine in sub-zero weather, doesn't it?)

Martha Ready of the women's basketball team has recently spoken of the inherent optimism in this pre-season period. She, along with athletes from six sports here at UMass, has been practicing for weeks for winter schedules that start in mid-November.

In many sports this is really the time when friendships begin and leaders emerge. You can begin to learn who will be there when it counts and who to turn to in the clutch. The "next year" you have been thinking about is around the corner and the scent of victory lies still, eagerly awaiting your consumption.

On campus, hard work now may not produce results for a while and the glory remains wrapped tightly in a band of expectations. Yet, we realize what is going on, and await the chance to revel in achievements.

UMass has beaten UConn on the gridiron, Zoo Disc surprises us with Frisbee excellence, field hockey gains recognition nationally and volleyball and soccer have their ups and downs. Some of the results are expected and others are not. No one can accurately predict a whole college season ahead of time, making it all the more interesting to observe. So to all the winter sportsmen, we offer our optimism for success in the coming season.

And as this writer looks ahead into the colder months of our calendar (Thanskgiving turkeys dancing a cha-cha in time to the patting of my foot), visions of changing routines and attitudes bring a grin to my lips. For in the larger picture of things, the future remains as a bounty for our optimism. A look beyond makes us realize that the challenge of tomorrow brings with it opportunity.

The winter athlete (for lack of another bone-chilling reference) surely must rely on these principles. The promise of tomorrow offers hidden glory and unfulfilled potential. We are all with you. Roll on.

Final Exam Schedule — pages 8 and 9

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Volume CX, Issue 49 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA Monday, November 10, 1980

MSP protest today at noon

By JAMES F. MAHONEY
Collegian STaff

Local members of the Massachusetts Society of Professors will stage an informational picket outside of the Whitmore Administration building today at noon to protest stalled contract negotiation.

The MSP members who have been without a basic contract since July, have reached an impasse with the administration over at least two contract issues. Professor Joseph Frank, MSP spokesman, said the major issues in negotiations are two demands that have been dragged out for almost one year.

He said one issue is retrenchment, which deals with contract language concerning job security and the other is a contract for librarians, who have been without a contract for more than a year.

Bruce Laurie, vice president of the MSP, said the librarians had bargained with the University until a mediator was brought in, in an attempt to settle the dispute.

Laurie said both sides agreed on a neutral third party, who submitted their report last spring. However, the administartion flatly turned down the recommendations.

Frank indicated that retrenchment is one of the more hotely disputed topics. The MSP would like to see wording in the contract which restricted the grounds on which a professor could be released. The administration can put an employee on a temporary 30 day part time status then lay them off at the end of that time, he said.

The MSP, who are negotiating on a one to one basis rather than use a mediator, are supported by the Massachusetts Teachers Association.

Miss that bus

The free bus to Hampshire Mall, nick-named the Annie Hauler, made it last run at 9:15 last Saturday night. Mall officials say they have discontinued the service. (Staff photo by Dan Drollette)

Futurist teachers study future of teaching

By CAROL ROSENBERG
Collegian Staff

Educators who teach about the future last week studied the future of education at a conference held at the University of Massachusetts.

The conference, "The Next Millenium: Unlearning the Twentieth Century," is designed to look at both the future of American education and the study of the future as part of school curriculums, said UMass Future Studies Program Director Peter Wagschal.

Predictions were flying the first day of the conference Thursday when futurists gave workshops and speeches on school curricula, the issue of discipline in the classroom, and the future of education in America.

Christopher J. Dede, president of the education section of the World Future Society, which sponsored the conference with the UMass Future Studies department, opened the conference by telling participants, "Knowledge, coupled with long-range planning can change the here and now."

Dede, a founder of the UMass Future Studies department in the School of Education, told futurists they "can provide the bluepring for the social engineering which is needed to make change in society."

In discussing the future of American education, one conference speaker forecasted a reduction of government control of American Education in the 1980s. He also predicted the l gislation of tax credits for parents who choose to send their children to private schools.

"The tide is inevitable. We're going to see less bigness in government control of education. We're going to see more local control of education," said Frank E. Fortkamp, director of the Center for Independent Education in San Francisco, Calif.

Conference speakers project the future of sexism, racism and urban education. Page 5.

"The real revolution you will hear of in the next 10 years is going to happen in the elementary and secondary schools," he predicated. He linked the move away from federal and state controlled education with the conservatism in America which elected Ronal Reagan president.

"I think there is a massive resentment growing in this country where people are resenting the government telling them how to spend their education dollar," he said. Fortkamp said the public resented legislation which mandated desegregation and bilingual programs as causing the disenchantment with public controlled education.

He likened the trend toward private education in America with the private competition which emerged when the public became disenchanted with the United States Postal Service.

The Future Studies department at the University is one of 10 in the United States, said Allan L. Peakes, a graduate of the UMass graduate program in Future Studies. He said the UMass program was started in 1969 and is the oldest graduate futures program in America.

Future Studies, said Peakes, is "classical liberal education for the 21st century." Aside from basic public school studies a futures education incorporates the study of technology, world cultures, the environment, philosophy and ethics into the curriculum, he said.

With a futures education, "you could have a better sense of what the future could bring and deal with it accordingly,' he said. Future Studies followed the publication of Alvin Toffler's Future Shock in response to the fact that "people feel lost because of the constant changes in society," Peakes said.

Author Gross parallels Reagan with Hitler

By MAUREEN MCMANUS
Collegian Staff

Author Bertram Gross captured a capacity crowd in Thompson Hall when he cited the 'Holy Bible' editorial page of the New York Times handling of Ronald Reagan's election as an example of 'media massage' during a speech last Thursday.

Reagan, said Gross, received less than a 30 percent mandate from American of voting age. Why then, the terms in the following days of the New York Times: 'The tide that swept the country' and the 'silent majority roar'?

This landslide is an example of a 'media massage', "which some of us accept a little too quickly," said Gross. He said we must shed away what we are now conditioned to accept too readily by the news media and begin to strive for a more critical thinking.

Gross is author of the popular book Friendly Facism, which is currently sold out in the Amherst area. He was executive secretary to the Council of Economic Advisers to the President from 1946 to 1951, economic adviser to the government of Israel from 1953 to 1956, and secretary of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare from 1966 to 1967. His office is now in the Urban Affairs Department of Hunter College of the City University of New York.

Gross won the Woodrow Wilson Foundation Award given for the best book of the year in the field of government and Democracy for his book The Legislative Struggle: A Study in Social Combat.

Gross paralleled the rise of President-elect Ronald R eagan with Hitler before World War II. He quoted Reagan as saying, 'if we're going to have a blood bath, let's get it over.' Gross pointed out how Hitler and Reagan both took acting lessons before going into office. He said, "If Hitler just had television and the atom bomb, just think what shape the world would be in."

Reagan's victory, said Gross, means a tax burden on the lower and middle classes, a burden he termed a 'socialization of poverty.' The election results, said Gross, present a serious danger. The unemployment rate and inflation will continue to be catastrophic for blacks, hispanics, native Americans, and even for the primate labor force, said Gross.

Refering to the Bible, Gross said, 'The character of God is such that he may someday create a tyrant who is not ethical.' Our effort, said Gross, should be to preserve the freedom of the ethical.

"Give us the days of Lyndon B. Johnson, John F. Kennedy, Nixon and Carter," said Gross, "rather than the days we are headed for; reduction in participation and restoration of hierarchy. We will now have institutionalized sexism, racism, anti-semitism, and secularism.

turn to page 10

World and national news

Iran-Iraq war centers on oil facilities

By FAROUK NASSAR
Associated Press

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Iran and Iraq traded air and sea raids on each other's oil lifelines yesterday and both claimed fresh gains in ground combat.

Iranian President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr convened a war council in an undisclosed city in the frontline province of Khuzistan, Tehran radio reported.

Shortly afterward the radio, monitored here, said Iran would ration basic commodities, such as sugar and electricity, to help the war effort and that the price of gasoline in that oil-rich nation soon would be tripled.

Iraq, meanwhile, said it would not free the captured Iranian oil minister and declared that any city the Iraqi forces conquer in Khuzistan will be considered a "liberated territory."

Waves of helicopter gunships rocketed and set ablaze a natural gas storage facility and a gas pipeline in Iran's besieged oil refining city of Abadan in Khuzistan on the eastern coast of the Shatt al-Arab waterway, an Iraqi communique said.

Iraqi President Saddam Hussein slays a dragon in a poster displayed in Iraq. Other posters poke fun at Iranian leader Ayatollah Ruhollh Khomeini. (AP Laserphoto)

Capture of Abadan would give Iraq control over the Shatt al-Arab, Iraq's only water route to the Persian Gulf. Under a 1975 treaty, the waterway formed the border between the two Moslem nations, but Iraqi President Saddam Hussein abrogated the treaty and the war began a week later, on Sept. 22.

Iraq claimed to have killed 74 Iranian troops in fresh tank-led assaults mounted against the beleaguered city's northern and eastern gates overnight. Eleven Iraqi soldiers lost their lives, Baghdad said.

Iran said navy commandos stormed onto Iraqi oil loading terminals at Albakr and Khor Alamaya on the northern tip of the Persian Gulf and "completely destroyed" the two facilities.

"Iraq will not be able to export any oil through the Persian Gulf" as a result of the "suicide operation mounted by Iran's naval heroes," an Iranian communique broadcast by Tehran radio said.

Increase in defense spending expected

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President-elect Ronald Reagan should have little trouble getting more defense money from Congress, possibly even the $20 billion one adviser says he could request.

Congress is already so defense-minded that it approved $5 billion more for weapons than President Carter asked. And voters elected even more defense supporters to the new Congress convening in January.

Reagan adviser William Van Cleve told CBS reporter Ike Pappas last week that a $20 billion increase next year is not inconceivable to correct deficiencies, particularly manpower problems.

Rep. Joseph P. Addabbo, D-N.Y., an occasional critic of defense spending and chairman of the House defense appropriations subcommittee, says Congress might approve that.

"I hope not, but they probably would," Addabbo said in an interview. "He'd probably get it, with the mood Congress is in."

That would boost to $195 billion the $175 billion working figure Carter set last July for fiscal 1981. The $175 billion figure itself has probably increased since then.

And a $20 billion increase would boost the appropriation request to Congress to about $211 billion or more. Appropriations are usually higher because they include program funds for future years.

But although Congress is inclined to approve more defense money, there will be some rubs with Reagan on how to spend it.

Congressional committee chairpersons generally have agreed at news conferences and in interviews with Reagan's proposals for pay increases and a combat-ready reserve.

Digest

Associated Press

Freighter, crew still missing

NEW YORK — U.S. and Canadian aircraft searched the Atlantic again yesterday for a freighter missing with a crew of 33 for more than two weeks. Officials said a freak storm added a "possibly ominous element" to the disappearance.

The 522-foot Poet was reported missing Oct. 25, the day after it left Cape Henlopen, Del., with a load of corn bound for Port Said, Egypt, the Coast Guard said.

As many as 10 aircraft from the U.S. Coast Guard and Navy, Canada and other points have searched up to 400 miles offshore without sighting the freighter. The aircraft have covered thousands of square miles of ocean.

The day after the Poet set out, a freak storm lashed the sea off New York and Massachusetts, roughly the area the ship was cruising. High wind and waves and heavy rain that day added a "possibly ominous element," a Coast Guard spokesman said.

The Poet should have radioed its position daily, but as of yesterday no contact had been made. It did not pass through the Straits of Gibraltar on Saturday as scheduled.

The Poet, registered in the United States, is owned by the Hawaiian Eugenia Corp. of New York. No representative of the company could be reached for comment yesterday.

The Coast Guard knew little of the Poet beyond the length, number of crew, destination and that it was a troop carrier before being converted to haul corn.

"Normally we wouldn't have been looking for a ship as soon as we started after this one," Petty Officer Paul Mobley of the Coast Guard's rescue center in New York, said yesterday. "But the ships of this line have a record of regular reports to home. After two days of silence we started looking."

Martin Luther spurs debate

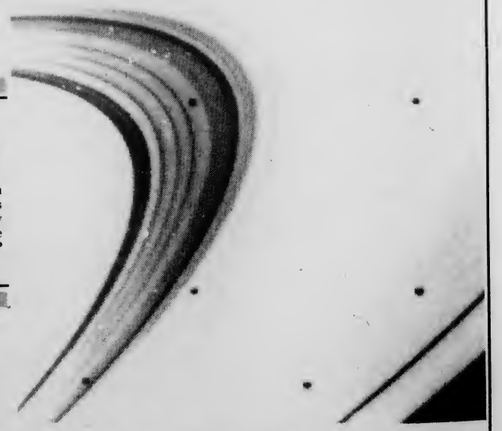
BONN, West Germany — Martin Luther, the German theologian whose teachings split the Christian faith nearly 500 years ago, is at the center of a dispute between Roman Catholics and Protestants arising during preparations for a visit by Pope John Paul II.

At issue is the treatment of the "Great Reformer," whose birthday 497 years ago is commemorated today, in a book distributed to Roman Catholic parishes by the German Bishop's Conference before the pontiff's visit.

The criticism of Luther in the book by Roman Catholic historian Remigius Baeumer angered some Protestant leaders and threatened to mar a planned meeting between the pope, who arrives Saturday, and Protestant representatives.

Voyager I photographs Saturn

The Cassini Division in Saturn's rings was photographed by Voyager I at a distance of 4 million miles. (AP Lasephoto)



Baeumer implies Luther was partly responsible for starting the bloody Peasant's War of 1524 and said even Luther's friends were shocked by his marriage to a former nun.

The controversy might have run out of steam if a copy of the book had not been sent to Lutheran Church headquarters in Hannover, and if Baeumer had not stepped up his attack in an interview with the Hannoversche Allgemeine Zeitung newspaper.

Tulsa lice cancel classes

TULSA, Okla.—Students at Oklahoma's largest university celebrated an unexpected holiday at "lice parties" after school officials scratched today's classes in order to battle an embarassing invasion of the tiny parasites.

All classes and business operations at the University of Tulsa were cancelled so campus buildings could be fumigated in hopes of eradicating the head lice. Spokesmen at the school, which has enrollment of 6,000, said they were puzzled about the infestation and could not isolate its cause.

The campus was closed "to allow us to do a thorough job on all facilities and to reduce changes of transmitting the pests to uninfected person," said John L. Dowgray, vice president for academic affairs.

Social Security may be helped

WASHINGTON — Congress' Joint Economic Committee said in a report released yesterday that a strong economy will bolster the financially troubled Social Security system.

"Retirement benefits are being threatened by inflation, unemployment and lagging productivity," said the committee chairman, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas.

"If we revitalize our economy," he said, "we will have taken the longest step toward restoring faith in our retirement program."

Station offers area berry good resources

By KAREN LANGWAY
Special to the Collegian

University of Massachusetts staff members are studying the science of cranberries at the Cranberry Experimental Station in East Wareham.

The Cranberry Station is a state-owned bog and research facility operated as a department of the University. Dr. Chester Cross, who directs the facility, said experimental cultivating and harvesting, improving the culture of cranberries and preventing undesirable side effects are the facility's main functions. In additions, it is a resource and advisory center for local farmers.

In 1900, there were 11,300 acres of cranberry bogs; there has been no increase in acreage as of 1976. However, productivity has increased from an average of 20 barrels per acre to nearly 100 barrels per acre, said Cross, which represents the contribution the station staff have made to the local agricultural community.

The proffessional staff consists of an entymologist, a chemist, a plant physiologist, a station engineer, and an extension specialist.

Cross, a graduate of UMass and Harvard University, said the Cranberry Station's primary mission is research and extension. Citizen interest and support is constant and reciprocal in nature, he said.

Since 1909, the expiriment station has been researching ways to increase the number of cranberries grown each year. In addition, the station attempts to limit the use of pesticides in an effort to protect the enviroment, Cross said.

Traditionally, cranberry sauces were the most popular product in the cranberry market. But a current trend shows that juices are contributing to a greater market share.

The experimental station is open to visitors on weekdays and Cross said he would welcome the public to view the bogs and fruit laboratories where the cranberry is scientifically perfected for purchase.

In addition to the Cranberry Experimental Station, there are two other UMass research facilities which research and improve local agricultural products. A dairy farm is operated in Deerfield and an experimental orchard is located in Belchertown.

Staff photo by Chris Grewe

Roller skating soars

By BRIAN SULLIVAN
Collegian Correspondent

First it was hula hoops, then it was yo yos, now it's roller skates.

A roller skating fad is sweeping the country, and in Amherst more and more University of Massachusetts students are opting to skate to their classes.

On the rise around the world and in the United States, the sport of roller skating is now enjoyed by more thatn 28 million people.

It was included in the Pan American games last summer as an unofficial event, and there is now talk of making roller racing, a form of roller skating, an official sport in Olympic competition.

On the local level, skating has become a major commercial business. "The Great Eskate," a skate rental shop, has recently opened up in Amherst Center, and "Interskate 91," a roller rink, has also opened in the Hampshire Mall.

Sharon Allen, of Interskate 91, said, "Roller skating is no fad and is growing steadily in the area."

Although the rink is targeted directly at the high school-college level student, it is not just for the young.

James Brooks, age 66, a resident of Northampton and a frequent visitor to Interskate 91, said he likes skating because "it is excellent exercise and a great builder of confidence and agility."

Brooks said his goal is to skate as well as he waltzes and he intends to learn how to disco on skates also.

"Skating makes me feel younger," Brooks said. He offered these words of advice to novices, "Learn to move to the music before you start to skate, get a feel for the rhythm."

Skating is not a new phenomenon, it has been around for centuries. In 1760 Joseph Hocking, from Belgian gave the world its first pair of roller skates. It was crude to modern standards and only had two wheels.

It wasn't until 1863 that the first four wheeled skate was invented. James L. Plimpton patented his skate in New York and took it to Newport, Rhode Island where he opened the first roller rink.

Variations abounded, and in 1906 a gas powered skate was unvieled at the Paris Automobile show. The skate weighed thirteen pounds and got 140 miles to the gallon. It was so popular that the Shah of Iran ordered three pairs.

Skating has come along way since then and safety is now one of the highest priorities. A complete inspection of all equipment should be made before setting out. Many accidents happen due to debris stuck on the wheels and trucks. Professionals also say a skater should wear elbow and knee pads when skating out doors on pavement.

Talking Heads add funk to their innovations

Talking Heads
Remain in Light (Sire)

By MARY KINNEAVY
Collegian Staff

Talking Heads don't change with the times — they change ahead of them.

True to their love of innovation, Talking Heads have released another whole new sound in their latest album, Remain in Light. This time they've added a five-piece funk back-up to supplement the foursome's capabilities, and the result is a musically and lyrically captivating collection of songs.

The Heads have developed the African sound they started with Fear of Music's "I Zimbra," and reached a musical fullness they strived for then but did not have the instrumentation to deliver.

The music is recognizable as the Heads mostly by David Byrne's high-pitched, quavering voice and the rentention of the nervous, jerky beat that has characterized them since Talking Heads: 77.

Bassist Tina Weymouth and keyboardist Jerry Harrison tried their hands at each other's instruments on some songs, while Chris Frantz's drumming was rounded out by the back-up percu sion.

On two songs, producer Brian Eno collaborated with Byrne on his increasingly philosophical lyrics. The Heads have been acclaimed as the most intellectual of contemporary bands, and Byrne seems to enjoy living up to the reputation, creating characters to define his obliquely pessimistic view of society.

He likes to deal with the world at large as in "The Great Curve," societal underdogs — "Born Under Punches" and "Listening Wind," and confused conformists — "Seen and Not Seen" and "Once in a Lifetime," the cut most likely to follow "Life During Wartime" in popularity.

Visual artists as well as musicians, Talking Heads take part in designing their striking album covers and sleeves, this one being a computerized photo created by heat sensitivity.

Byrne, perhaps the most self-indulgent of current musicians, has stated his reluctance to compromise, but has managed to use his ingenuity, along with the rest of the band's to produce an interesting, enjoyable album without reiterating things done before.

Although Talking Heads might lose a few ardent "Psycho Killer" fans by constantly changing, they're likely to gain enough new ones not to notice.

Without knowing what to expect when listsening to a new Talking Heads album, I always get the feeling they knew exactly what they wanted to do with it.

—Critic's Cum 3.5

'Psycho Killers' change weapons

The Talking Heads
Stage West
November 5

By STEPHEN MURPHY
Collegian Staff

Change is one of the only stable characterisitcs of today's world. Everything changes — governments, ideologies, morals, the arts, people.

And the Talking Heads.

Wednesday evening's performance at Stage West was of a markedly different group compared to their appearance at The Fine Arts Center last year. Their stage appearance, band line-up, and musical direction have all change dramatically.

Gone was the neurotic tension that lead singer and songwriter David Byrne used to characterize so well. The sudden quirkiness and jumpiness that made Byrne the living personification of the "Psycho Killer" has been replaced by a Byrne who is totally in control of his motions. He is more fluid and natural onstage, flowing with the rhythm and being part of the music. He no longer stands apart from the group but is instead a part of the whole.

The three other original band members: bassist Tina Weymouth, drummer Chris Frantz, and keyboardist/guitarist Jerry Harrison have all undergone subtle changes.

Harrison was all smiles, reflecting his happiness with the band's new musical direction towards funk. Frantz no longer seems awed by the audience but instead is more professional and driven. Of the three, Weymouth has changed the most in physical appearance. The boyish short hair which gave her an androgynous look has now grown out, giving her a more feminine image.

Talking Heads' lead singer, David Byrne, with drummer Chris Frantz and bassist Tina Weymouth in concert at Stage West last Wednesday night. (Staff photo by Peter Jepsen)

Perhaps the biggest change of all is the band itself. In addition to the original group are four ex-members of Parliament — Funkadelia and Adrian Belew, a guitarist formerly with David Bowie. This expansion has certainly affected the music. No longer quite definable as a new wave band, the Talking Heads are more a synthesis of new wave and funk. Strange bedfellows? Not at all. This new formation has made the Head's music more danceable, rhythmic and powerful.

Belew is by far the most important addition to the group. His incredible skill is matched by his crazy stage energy — a true "gonzo." He seems to have taken on Byrne's bizarre ex-personna and made it more accessible to the audience, more personable. His guitar playing adds an out-of-control element to metrical sound.

The sound. Power. The band opened with "Psycho Killer," a brilliant move which instantly brought cheers. The pace continued headlong through "Cities" and "Animals", two cuts from their Fear of Music LP. With their rendition of the African-like "I Zimbra" the "new" group's potential as a whole was realized. From there on the music was strongly rhythmical and alive.

"Stay Hungry", from the LP More Songs About Buildings and Food, proved how the new sound was adaptable to older material. From there on it was a pleasing mixture of both new songs such a "Warning Sign" and older tunes such as "Drugs" and the favorite "Life During Wartime."

The band closed with an encore of "Take Me To the River." It left everyone craving for more.

Backstage, I asked Jerry Harrison what he thought of the band's new musical look. He replied that "It isn't so much that the band is now better, it's just that it's more..."

"Fun," I interjected.

"Funk," he grinned.

Happily it is both.

The Awakening stays asleep

By STEPHEN MURPHY
Collegian Staff

Some movies don't cut it, either artistically or for entertainment purposes. Theyr'e just plain bad.

For example, take The Awakening. Here is a film which apparently had a lot going for it. The Awakening has a big name star, Charlton Heston, and an exotic and beautiful locale, Egypt. It has plenty of sudden and gory violence, a supernatural mystery, and a pretty, young starlet, Stephanie Zimbalist. It even goes so far as to have a taboo subject,(hints and talk of incest) , and a scary monster (an ancient mummy).

What exactly went wrong? Well, just about everything one can think of: Charlton Heston acted as though he had just taken a couple of valiums, there was no energy in his portrayal of an obsessed archaeologist. He simply went through the motions. Stephanie Zimbalist was there for her beauty (her acting abilities are only skin-deep). The possibilities of their having an incestuous relationship was only hinted at and never expanded. It was there only to raise eyebrows and nothing more — Cheap.

The violence shown was too much in the vein of such recent graphically violent films such as Halloween and Friday the Thirteenth: Bloody, sadistic, and visual depictions filmed in slow motion to achieve maximum agonizing effects. Shlock for the sake of shock with nothing really frightening, simply grotesque.

The story itself was one massive cliche. Taken from a short novel by Bram Stoker, The Jewel of the Seven Stars. the story looks better in print than it does on the screen.

The only mystery was that there was no mystery. Every plot twist and scenic event was totally predictable, relying heavily on ridiculous instances of coincidence. Ronald Reagan's buddy, Bonzo the monkey, could have figured out the film's outcome within minutes.

Perhaps the biggest rip-off of all was the movie's mummy monster. Suffice it to say, the mummy never arose to pillage and kill. It never even sat up.

The audience should sit up after the first fifteen minutes and leave. Or better yet do themselves a favor and stay home. Some late night on some obscure local television sation MGM's original, The Mummy (1939), will be aired. It shows what a true "mummy movie" should be. The Awakening is now playing at the Mt. Farms Mall cinemas.

Final Week

The UMass Music Theater Guild
presents:
The Broadway Musical

"ON THE TOWN"
Music by Leonard Bernstein

Thurs., Fri., Sat., Nov. 13, 14, 15

All Performances 8 P.M. Students $2.50
Bowker Auditorium Gen. Admission $3.00

Tickets on sale at the Bowker Box Office 9 a.m. - 3 p.m.
Monday-Friday, or call in your phone reservation Telephone 545-0783
Presented in cooperation with the Fine Arts Council

Get Well Soon
Donny
SK & MM

Space Invaders
OFFICIAL T-SHIRT
WHITE ON BLACK ONLY
S-M-L-XL Quality 50/50 S/S Screened to Nite!
Send Check Cash Money Order
$5.95 + .75 Shipping and Handling
(in the)
WIZ KIDS
P.O. Box 1274, Brewster, MA 02631
A GREAT XMAS PRESENT

Subscription Rates

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 339 230) is published daily Monday through Friday, excluding vacations, exam periods, or holidays, for $15 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

Come talk with:
George Espers
Associated Press
Correspondent and former Saigon Bureau Chief
and
J. Walter Green
Associated Press
New England Photo Director about their careers and the American press on Wed., Nov 12 at 8 p.m. in CC Room 903
(Sponsored by the Collegian)

IT PAYS TO MIDASIZE

Do you know the seven signs of a
BRAKE DOWN

Come to Midas for your free brake inspection and find out!

SUPER SAVER
Silver Knight* Muffler
$19.95 Installed

* Silver Knight mufflers fit most U.S. cars and are unconditionally guaranteed for one year at this MIDAS shop.

SHOCK VALUE

MIDAS sells dependable, durable Bodyguard shocks. They fit most domestic cars and we'll install them in 30 min. or less
$9.95 EACH INSTALLED

586-4840 MIDAS 143 King St., Northampton
MON.-FRI. 8:00-5:30 SATURDAY 8:00-2:00

Amherst Gulf
(formerly D & M Sunoco)
Skilled Auto Mechanics
Foreign & Domestic Auto Repair

Honda
Volvo
Datsun
Toyota
Subaru
Saab
VW
Capri

Trouble Shooting
Disc Brakes
Tune-Ups
Fuel-Injection
Exhaust Systems
Electrical
Suspension

catering to the Campus Area
Open 7 Days a Week
call
256-8936
48 N. Pleasant St., Amherst
Center of Amherst

The Stables

Best Breakfast in Town - Special
Still only 99c

Rt. 9 Hadley Opposite Mt. Farms Mall

Futurists look at crystal ball

Reproduction control

By LILLIAN SINGER
Collegian Staff

"My interest in the future is limited simply to a future in which women want to live," said radical lesbian-feminist, Baba Copper, Friday, during a feature presentation of "The Next Millennium; Unlearning the Twentieth Century," a future of education conference.

The core issues of future studies, according to Copper, are human reproduction, female control of female bodies, and alternative definitions of sex and family.

"I believe that things are changing. Women are rising and resisting," she said. "There are going to be changes in the definitions of both men and women in years to come."

"The future is shaped by our image of it," said Copper. "It's made up of a lot of unconscious assumptions."

Copper, who said she is striving to recognize the relationship between women and nature, drinks only spring water, eats only what she grows, and cuts her own wood for fuel.

"We are pushing ourselves toward the decrease of artificial energy," she said. "I come to you very fresh from a radical lesbian community. We are one of many groups of women who are struggling to make the connection between us and the earth itself. We are tuning ourselves into what the earth has to tell us."

Having been a heterosexual for the greater part of her life, Baba Copper said she left her husband and four children 10 years ago for another woman.

"I find that there are internal changes in me which would make it impossible for me to go back," said Copper. "Women are what men like them to be. That's not putting any woman in this room down, it's just stating a fact."

Minority problems

By JOE BARRETT
Collegian Staff

In discussing the future of American education in the 21st century, a panel of educators from West Virginia University focused on the question of minority education Friday.

Entitled, "Inequalities in Higher Education for Minorities: What Lies Ahead," the discussion was part of The Next Millenium: Unlearning the Twentieth Century.

Drs. Dana Brooks, Ann Paterson, Ronald Redick and William Alsop were the featured lecturers, defining how the American higher education system has absorbed minorities.

In a written report accompanying the discussion, the

turn to page 14

Sexism rampant

By CARLA LESH
Collegian Staff

Sex discrimination in higher education could be lessened if universities were forced through legislation to meet quotas for qualified women, according to Dr. A Annis of Ball State University.

She was part of a three member panel that discussed the problem of Sexism in Higher Education Friday as part of the future studies conference, The Next Millennium: Unlearning the Twentieth Century held at the University of Massachusetts. The panel was composed of Annis, Dr. Delender Sue McCamey of the Detroit Board of Education, and Dr. David N. Peay of the Marlboro Psychiatric Hospital, Tinton Falls, N.J.

"There has been, and is, sex discrimination in the university hiring system and the courts and government refuse to enforce the laws that prohibit discrimination," Annis said.

McCamey, who spoke on minority women in educational leadership said, "Although the majority of teachers at the elementary level are women there are very few women and even fewer minority women in administrative positions.

"Minority women who seek administrative posts suffer from a double whammy, first they are discriminated against as a member of a minority race and because they are women," she said.

Those women who are in administrative positions are often seen as role models for their particular ethnic group

turn to page 10

Crucial urban survival

By CAROL ROSENBERG
Collegian Staff

American cities must strengthen their public school systems, or public education will not survive the next decade, said recently fired superintendent of Boston Schools Robert C. Wood, a former University of Massachusetts president.

Wood's remarks were made Friday at a conference on the future of education entitled The Next Millineum: Unlearning the 20th Century sponsored by the University Future Studies department.

"Without urban schools, the next generation, the 10th generation of Urban America, will grow up believing that a clone-like existence of similar people and similar circumstances is how this country is run," said Wood.

Wood was fired in August as superintendent of Boston

turn to page 14

Futurist Susan Bossopitz roller skates in the basement of the Campus Center last week as part of the future in education conference. (Staff photo by Cheryl Senter)

Lesbianism offers power vs. capitalism

By LAURIE ORTYL
Collegian Correspondent

A prominent lesbian-feminist activist praised lesbianism as the most formidable political power to confront the dominant culture of patriarchy in this country, during a speech Saturday morning.

Sally Miller-Gearhart stressed her hopes of a "female future" which she defines as a "life giving force that once rightfully existed and has since been denied." Her speech was part of a future in education conference entitled, The Next Millenium: Unlearning the Twentieth Century.

She said women must first confront the "big lie" which has the female as merely a "half person" subjected to domination by superior maseuline values.

The capitalist system needs to be overthrown because of the "code of masculinity" which Miller-Gearhart said encompasses competition, greed, hierarchy, and violence, and leads to the "violent exploitation of the earth."

Miller-Gearhart proposed two vital "strategic efforts" in realizing a "female future."

"Women must be monitors of change by assuming the inalienable right to control their own bodies, and to make non-existent any male say-so in human reproduction," she said. She attributes overpopulation to the male control of the female body, as evidenced in what she calls well-established institutions of marriage, incest and rape.

"In effect they have us thinking that they have a right to our own bodies," she said.

Miller-Gearhart's statement that she wants to reduce the male to female ratio to that of a 10 percent male population brought enthusiastic applause from the predominantly female audience of 150. She justified this proposition by stating there is a higher rate of violence in men than in woman.

Miller-Gearhart said the human aspects is in danger of annihilation because this violence is being manifested in "male bonding" which raises men to a highly effective group who define our patriarchal system. The reduction of men will consequently lessen the dangers we now face, she said.

Miller-Gearhar is an associate professor of speech communication at San Francisco State University and the author of several articles in feminist issues and three books including her most recent, The Wanderground: Stories of the Hill Women.

Today's paper was produced by:

Associate Managing Editor:	Gayle Young
Copy Editor:	Laurel Hanscom
Layout Technician:	Paul Evans
Darkroom Technician:	Chris Grewe
Composing Room:	Carol Rosenberg
	Janet Milsten
	Lise Zeiger
	Grace North
	Michael Krumpe
	Mary Kinneavy

Thanksgiving & Christmas Cards
at
A.J. HASTINGS
Newsdealer and Stationer
45 S. Pleasant, Amherst

Grad Student Employees Union
Meeting
Deciding the future of the organization. Establishing a relationship with Grad Senate.
Nov. 12 Wed. Lunch Hour 12-1 pm
Campus Center 902

Hampshire Ethical Hypnosis Center
Milton H. Askinoss A.A.E.H
• Weight control • Nail-biting • Improve concentration • Insomnia • Bed wetting
• Improve study habits • Relaxation • Fear of heights • Memory improvement
• Stop smoking • Self confidence • Sexual problems • Improve sports ability • Fear of flying
Call or write for free brochure
• On-going classes for self-hypnosis
Special Fees • College Students & Senior Citizens
Lecture demonstrations
The Farrick Building Rte 9, Hadley Mass
3/10 mile Hamp Mall (Next to Rocky's Hardware)
584-1919 By Appt Only

Monday Night
A PRE HOLIDAY HAPPY HOUR
9-1
Disco with K.C.
no cover
THE PUB
15 East Pleasant St.
AMHERST

Stop & Shop closed Tuesday, Veterans Day

Stop & Shop — Honest values are what we're all about

"White Gem" and other fine brands...

Whole Chickens 2½-3 lbs lb 49¢

CUT UP OR SPLIT 2½-3 POUNDS "White Gem" Chickens ..... lb 59¢

CUT UP OR SPLIT 2½-3 POUNDS Perdue Chickens ..... lb 69¢

Whole 2½-3 lbs lb 59¢

Perdue Chickens

Bottom Round Roast USDA Choice Beef lb 1.89

Rump Roast Beef Round "Great Beef" USDA Choice ..... lb 2.09

Beef Eye Round Roast "Great Beef" USDA Choice Seamed ..... lb 2.59

Clip 18 Super Coupons

These Coupons Worth Over $4.75 in Savings!

STOP & SHOP GROCERY COUPON C B-17
chicken of the sea Chunk Light Tuna In oil or water 49¢ 6½ oz can 422
With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase. Limit 1 can per customer. Good Nov. 9-15, 1980.

STOP & SHOP FROZEN COUPON C B-14
orange juice Sun Glory Frozen 19¢ 6 oz can 419
With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase. Limit 1 can per customer. Good Nov. 9-15, 1980.

STOP & SHOP GROCERY COUPON C B-18
crisco oil 24 oz Bottle 99¢ 423
With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase. Limit 1 bottle per customer. Good Nov. 9-15, 1980.

STOP & SHOP BAKERY COUPON C B-15
English muffins Stop & Shop Regular or Split 19¢ 12 oz pkg of 6 430
With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase. Limit 1 pkg per customer. Good Nov. 9-15, 1980.

STOP & SHOP PRODUCE COUPON C B-19
potatoes U.S. No. 1 All Purpose Maine 59¢ 5 lb bag 424
With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase. Limit 1 bag per customer. Good Nov. 9-15, 1980.

STOP & SHOP DAIRY COUPON C B-16
Grade A large eggs Stop & Shop Dozen 49¢ 421
With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase. Limit 1 dozen per customer. Good Nov. 9-15, 1980.

Prices effective in Conn. Sun. Nov. 9 Sat. Nov. 15, 1980 in W. Mass. Mon. Nov. 10 Sat. Nov. 15. Copyright 1980 Stop & Shop Supermarkets. We reserve the right to limit sales to 3 pkgs. per customer. None sold to dealers.

SAVE 50¢ ON A 10 OZ. JAR INSTANT Nescafe Coffee REGULAR C 425 — With this coupon. Limit 1 per per customer. Good Nov. 9-15, 1980. STOP & SHOP GROCERY COUPON ★ B-11

SAVE 30¢ ON A 48 OZ. JAR STOP & SHOP Spaghetti Sauce PLAIN, MEAT OR MUSHROOM C 426 — With this coupon. Limit 1 per per customer. Good Nov. 9-15, 1980. STOP & SHOP GROCERY COUPON ★ B-11

SAVE 30¢ ON A 25.6 OZ PKG NON-FAT Alba Dry Milk MAKES 8 QUARTS C 427 — With this coupon. Limit 1 pkg per customer. Good Nov. 9-15, 1980. STOP & SHOP GROCERY COUPON ★ B-11

SAVE 25¢ ON A RANDOM WEIGHT PKG. STOP & SHOP Cheddar Cheese SHARP WHITE OR YELLOW BAR OR DANISH HAVARTI C 1.H — With this coupon. Limit 1 pkg per customer. Good Nov. 9-15, 1980. STOP & SHOP DAIRY COUPON ★ B-12

SAVE 20¢ ON A 9 OUNCE PACKAGE Taste O' Sea Dinner SEAFOOD OR 7 OZ SHRIMP FROZEN 4.H — With this coupon. Limit 1 pkg per customer. Good Nov. 9-15, 1980. STOP & SHOP FROZEN COUPON ★ C B-13

SAVE 20¢ ON A 12 OUNCE BAG Potato Chips STOP & SHOP 438 — With this coupon. Limit 1 bag per customer. Good Nov. 9-15, 1980. STOP & SHOP GROCERY COUPON ★ B-13

SAVE 15¢ ON A PACKAGE OF 150 Glad Sandwich Bags 437 — With this coupon. Limit 1 pkg per customer. Good Nov. 9-15, 1980. STOP & SHOP GROCERY COUPON B-32

SAVE 20¢ ON A 12 OUNCE PKG OF 12 Nestle Cocoa Mix REGULAR OR MARSHMALLOW 1.C — With this coupon. Limit 1 pkg per customer. Good Nov. 9-15, 1980. STOP & SHOP GROCERY COUPON ★ B-32

SAVE 20¢ ON A PACKAGE OF 20 Glad Trash Bags 3.H — With this coupon. Limit 1 pkg per customer. Good Nov. 9-15, 1980. STOP & SHOP GROCERY COUPON ★ B-34

SAVE 15¢ ON A 40 OUNCE PKG. OF Chunky Candy Bars MILK, PEANUT OR ORIGINAL 1.H — With this coupon. Limit 1 coupon per customer. Good Nov. 9-15, 1980. STOP & SHOP GROCERY COUPON ★ B-33

GET ONE FREE WHEN YOU BUY 1 20 OZ. MFR'S OF Beechnut Jr. Foods AT OUR REGULAR PRICE GET THE 4TH JAR FREE OF EXTRA CHARGE — With this coupon. Limit 4 jars per customer. Good Nov. 9-15, 1980. STOP & SHOP GROCERY COUPON ★ B-34

SAVE 15¢ HARD ROLLS MAGAZINER'S PKG OF 6 NOT AVAILABLE IN TORRINGTON OR WEST HAVEN 436 — With this coupon. Limit 1 pkg per customer. Good Nov. 9-15, 1980. STOP & SHOP DELI COUPON ★ B-31

Last Week... to get your WEAR-EVER PREFERRED COOKWARE — Promotion ends Nov. 15, 1980

Genuine Diamond 14 Karat Gold Filled Jewelry 9.99 ea. — Get 1 piece with each $100 worth of Gold Register Tapes. Without tapes, only $19.99 each. Only tapes dated Sept. 21-Dec. 20, 1980 will be honored. Plus Tax. With $100 in our Gold Register Tapes

Choose from 12 exciting designs by Brecci

HADLEY-
AMHERST
Route 9
at the Hadley-
Amherst Line.
8a.m.-10p.m.,
Mon.-Sat.
We redeem your Federal Food Stamps.

Editorial/Opinion

Moral Majority comes home

The smashing Republican victories last Tuesday trumpeted the ascent of a nauseating social and political movement in this country. Though racism, sexism, and hatred are hardly new concepts, the movement is known as the New Right or New Conservatism.

The New Conservatives cloak their intolerance for those unlike themselves through insular groups like the National Conservative Political Action Committee and Moral Majority, Inc., and espouse such traditional values as the inherent goodness of nuclear warheads, the divine sanctity of television Evangelists, and equality for everyone white, rich, and male enough to deserve it. They say they've grown tired of liberal cliches like peace and understanding and that it's their turn to run the country their way. Now that they have a conservative President and Congress to go along with their enormous bankroll, they feel that a complete right wing Renaissance is but a few years away.

Bob Conte

Here in Massachusetts, far from their Bible Belt stronghold, we have yet to reach a full understanding of the New Conservative's twisted psyche. What is a New Conservative? Why are they incapable of intelligent thought? Is whatever they have contagious?

The typical New Conservative lives somewhere in the midwest with his wife,' Chrysler Imperial and two children. He is white and short, and has an annoying gerbil face with a pointy nose that drips constantly eight months of the year.

He considers himself a good Christian because he watches the Jerry Falwell Old Time Gospel Hour regularly and sends a check twice a month. In fact, he is so morally upright that he feels the obligation to impose his moral beliefs on everyone else. For example, he is against abortion. Therefore, no woman in this country shall be allowed to have an abortion. And if you voted for a pro-abortion candidate, you shall burn in hell — unless you send $200 or so to Jerry, fer which he'll see about gettin' yer soul saved fer ya.

He dresses in his light gray leisure suit every other Saturday night and goes to an exciting New Conservative party with his wife. He drinks martinis with his right hand, jiggles his change pocket with his left, and talks to the guys in the living room while the gals convene in the kitchen.

Sample guy conversation:
New Conservative A: Say, old Ron Reagan's sure gonna be good for us, ha?
New Conservative B: Ain't life grand?
All: Ha Ha Ha Ha.

Sample gal conversation:
Wife A: I finally almost had an orgasm last night.
Wife B: Almost?
Wife A: Paul said he had to stop because our three minutes were up. He was too tired anyway. He had to get up early yesterday and foreclose on an orphanage.

The New Conservative began his career as a lowly corporate pawn but has been promoted twice and is now a well-paid corprate flunky. If he keeps quiet and does his job he feels he has a good chance to become the Chairman-of-the-Board's yes man within three years. He feels that America has the most beautiful and precious corporations in the world and he's damn proud to be a faceless number.

The New Conservative remembers the good old days when men were men and women were mommies and blacks were negroes. He has erotic fantasies about Anita Bryant. He believes in Readers Digest and the Bible. His favorite poet is Joe Garagiola.

He favors the draft and would like to go kill some commies himself except his old football knee's been acting up. He thinks the Cuban refugees are diluting the purity of the American race and that we should throw them the hell back where we got them. He thinks it's high time we blew those Iranian bastards away and took our damn oil. Get the damn PLO while we're at it. But he's against ERA and racial integration because they're both against God's plan. Because people don't matter. The principle's the thing.

Bob Conte is a Collegian columnist.

BOARD OF EDITORS

ROBERT E. STEIN, Editor-in-Chief, FRANT BASUHE, Managing Editor, JEFFREY P. BIANCHI, Graphics Manager, JONATHAN KLEIN, Business Manager, ERIC H. JANSZEN, Executive Editor, RICHARD NAGLE and JAMES MAHONEY, News Editors, JANE DeVIRGILIO, Women's Editor, JIM MORAN, Arts Editor, KAREN THOMAS, Black Affairs Editor, DONNA SULLIVAN and JONATHAN HAMILTON, Sports Editors, PAUL PRICE, Photo Editor

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

ANDREA ATKINS, CATHERINE CLABBY, JIM KANE, ED LEVINE, GAYLE YOUNG, Associate Managing Editors; BOB CARR, Associate Graphics Manager; JOE GANNON, Associate Executive Editor; NANCY ANDERSEN, Associate News Editor; LILLIAN SINGER, Associate Women's Editor; MARY KINNEAVY, Associate Arts Editor; JOYCE McLAURIN, Associate Black Affairs Editor; NANCY NUTILE, Associate Photo Editor.

BUSINESS STAFF

KATHRYN KRESS, Advertising Manager; VICKI EGGERT, Finance Manager; JOSEPH RADLEY, Circulation Manager; MICHELLE SILVERSTEIN and JAYN LESTER, Assistant Advertising Managers.

The Collegian is the newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons and letters represent the personal views of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete but final responsibility for all advertisements lies with the individual advertiser.

USPS 333 220

Letters

Campus unions are student allies

To the Editor:

As Co-Chairs of the Economics Graduate Student Organization, we would like to announce our wholehearted support for the struggle of the University Staff Association to obtain a just and fair contract.

Graduate students are very dependent on the services provided by the clerical staff. Job actions are no fun for anyone, and we demand that the University administration negotiate a fair contract so that we may avoid further disruption of campus services. In the meantime, however, we will gladly share any hardship with the USA, and will support any further actions which they deem necessary.

As students, we must recognize that the campus unions — the Massachusetts Society of Professors, the American Federation of State, County, and Municipal Employees, and the USA — are important allies in the fight to maintain quality higher education for the people of Massachusetts. We believe that the collective bargaining process will ensure the salaries and working conditions that can attract and retain qualified personnel. That is the only way to provide students with the kind of services necessary for the standard of education to which the Commonwealth of Massachusetts has committed itself.

To the administration, we say: Negotiate!

Ann Cronan
John Howley
EGSO Co-Chairs

Iran denies minority rights

To the Editor:

During the past few weeks there have been letters to the Collegian and Nummo News by Iranian students concerning the "racism" of Zionism and the alleged crimes of Israel against Palestinians. It seems inconceivable to me that Iranians talk about racism while the laws of their country and the actions it has taken during the past two years have shown the ugliest faces of racism that can be shown by man.

The Iranian Constitution adopted in 1906 by a newly formed government barred any minority group from holding public or governmental positions. It gave the right to every minority group to have only one representative in parliament, and it also proclaimed Iran a Shiite country. Although the Pahlevis did not rule by constitution, they respected and acted on its discriminatory policies.

Before the revolution, when Ayatollah Khomeini promised all minority groups more freedom and equal status as Iranian citizens, most of the minority groups accepted him and helped him to oust the Shah. But after Khomeini came to power, his government reaffirmed the discriminatory policies of the 1906 constitution in a newly written constitution.

After the revolution, all Jewish businesses were boycotted and twelve thousand Jewish teachers and educators were fired. All Jewish schools were forbidden to teach religious subjects and were then nationalized. These policies forced fifty thousand Iranian Jews to emigrate to Israel, and the rest have been barred from emigration.

Other minorities have not remained intact. Bahais, also a sect of Islam, have faced widespread persecution and are mostly emigrating to the United States (N.Y. Times, Jan. 1980). Christians, though a small minority, have also been hurt considerably during the past two years. Three Christian priests were killed by revolutionary guards and the Christian population has dropped to half its size (Time, May 26, 1980). Ethnic groups like the Kurds, Arabs, Baluchese and others have been oppressed; one may recall that their fight for freedom dominated the news from Iran before the hostages were taken.

The only explanation of why Iranian students have now started to accuse Israel of racism is to hide the ever-growing voice of Iranian minorities for freedom.

Name Withheld by Request

What has New York ever done?

To the Editor:

Regarding David Cole's column (Collegian 11/4) "The Village: not-so-quiet desperation," Dave, what has New York ever done to you to warrant this criticism? I live on Long Island, but I regard New York as my home. And you, as a journalist, owe your readers an honest appraisal of the city. You go there and see only abandoned tenements, the drunks, and the beggars. I see this too, but I also see beautiful tree-lined residential streets, crowded cafes and groups of people having a good time. I have never seen a mugging, let along a stabbing victim. I do not know what "desperation" you're talking about. I just know that I would pay five grand to live there (if I had it), as many do for rent.

And just as you narrow mindedly describe the symptoms of Greenwich Village's malaise, so too do you pinpoint the cause, in your myopic way: capitalism, the root of all evil.

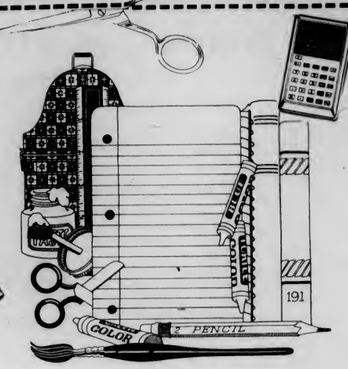
You go on to deplore the "thick Greenwich Village night air" and the "thinness of neon light." I like your imagery. But what can you be thinking of? Since many of your readers go to Manhattan rarely, if at all, you owe it to them to present the whole picture, not a biased sensationalistic one.

Michael Moss
Southwest

* * * Correction * * *

The organization that Lisa Nazzaro represented in her letter (Collegian, 11/5) was incorrectly printed due to a typographical error. It should have read Radical Student Union.

Fall 1980 Final Exams



1. The two-hour examination periods are identified by code numbers according to the following chart:

	TUES DEC.16	WED DEC.17	THURS DEC.18	FRI DEC.19	SAT DEC.20	MON DEC.22
8:00 a.m.		3	7	11	15	19
10:30 a.m.		4	8	12	16	20
1:30 p.m.	1	5	9	13	17	21
4:00 p.m.	2	6	10	14	18

COURSE	SECTION	PD.
BOTANY 485	1-2	3	implies that sections 1 and 2 of BOTANY 485 will be examined on WED, DEC.17 at 8:00 a.m.
GERMAN 230	3	18	implies that GERMAN 230, section 3 will be examined SAT, DEC.20 at 4:00 p.m.
	4	17	implies that GERMAN 230, section 4 will be examined SAT,DEC.20 at 1:30 p.m.
MKTG 422	6	4	implies that only section 6 of MKTG 422 will have an exam, and it will be WED, DEC.17 at 10:30 a.m.

NOTE: WHEN SECTION NUMBERS WITHIN A COURSE ARE LISTED, ASSUME THAT ANY UNLISTED SECTION IS NOT SCHEDULED FOR AN EXAM.

11. See your instructor for information on the place of examination. He or she will NOT have this information before Nov. 21, 1980.

111. CONFLICTS or MORE THAN TWO EXAMINATIONS IN ONE DAY. Students who have conflicts in their examination schedule (as published in this schedule) or who have more than two examinations scheduled for one calendar day, may report to the Schedule Office (168 Whitmore) for resolution of these problems.

THE SCHEDULE OFFICE WILL NOT ASSIST IN RESOLVING PROBLEMS UNLESS THEY ARE REPORTED ON OR BEFORE December 1, 1980. SO, PLEASE REVIEW THIS SCHEDULE CAREFULLY.

COURSE	SECTION	PD.
ACCTG
221	1,2	5
	3,4	17
	5	15
	6	15
	7	17
	8,9	5
	10	15
	11,12	9
	13,14	15
222	1	13
	2,3	15
	4,5	15
290A	1	17
290B	1	17
311	1,2	13
312	1	14
321	1,4	17
	2,5	6
	3	8
322	2	15
	3	2
331	1,2	3
	3,4	14
335	1,2	17
361	1	7
371	1	18
	2-4	9
ANSCI
561	1	3
563	1	21
517	1	4
1C1	1	3
311	1	14
354	1	3
359	1	5
371	1	21
412	1	19
421	1	7
431C	1	15
432	1	[illegible]
521	1	21
590A	1	21
ANTH
1CGA	1	13
1CDB	1	12
1CDA	1	13
1CDB	1	12
1C3A	1	20
1C3B	1	2
1C4A	1	19
1C5	1	6
190A	1	19
19EC	1	13
233	1	17
262	1	9
281	1	18
290A	1	6
316	1	15
363	1	7
369	1	15
375	1	9
397A	1	7
529	1	3
ARABIC
126	1	18
130	1	18
297	1	18
ARTHIS
115	1	19
522	1	17
ASTRON
1C0	1	2
	2	19
	3	17
	4	18
	5	11
	6	15
111	1	17
B A
497	4,5	5
BIOCHM
420	1	5
	2	9
523	1	2
BOTANY
1CC	1A	20
	2B	16
1C1	1A	20
	2B	15
221	1	1
225	1	15
226	1-3	9
297A	2	15
371	1	12
485	1,2	3
504	1	18
510	1	4
511A	1	21
511B	1	21
512	1	5
521	1	20
597A	1	14
C E
201	1	17
202	1	19
240	1-4	20
241	1,2	9
310	1	21
330	1	12
331	1	8
333	1	12
342	1,2	15
357	1	6
360	1	9
370	1	19
420	1	3
505	1	12
523	1	13
537	1	7
540	1	9
561	1	6
565	1	12
570	1	9
572	1	15
576	1	17
577	1	9
CA S
197A	1	6
CH E
225	1-3	21
325	1,2	21
330	1,2	8
334	1,2	15
420	1	20
444	1	11
455	1	7
561	1	21
CHEM
101	1	17
107	1,2	10
111	1-7	10
112	1,2	10
113	1	9
25C	1	15
261A	1	15
2618	1	8
262	1	14
263A	1-3	2
265	1	9
310	1	16
471	1	17
	2	17
475	1	10
	2	10
513	1	6
515	1	7
551	1	9
552	1	15
584	1	17
CHINESE
312	1	9
426	1	17
CLSICS
10C	1	18
103	1	6
105	1	7
226	1	16
COINS
122	1	3
2C1	1	16
2S0	1	11
287	1	19
287A	1	18
32C	1	6
390A	1	18
502	1	19
5C3	1	3
COMDIS
210	1	15
310	1	17
311	1	12
313	1	6
415	1	13
416	1	9
491A	1	5
510	1	3
580	1	6
COMLIT
101C	1	3
102	3	7
110	1	17
312	1	9
COMSTU
121	1	4
	2	6
150	1	9
221	1	20
226	1	20
	4,5	3
234	1	10
240	1	12
250	1	17
	2,3	11
	4	17
	5	18
	6	5
252	1	17
260	1	15
262	1	13
266	1	18
310	1	19
34C	1	18
546	1	3
590A	1	15
DANISH
110	1	7
551	1	21
DUTCH
110	1	5
230	1	17
ECE
211	1,2	20
212	1	20
303	1,2	21
304	1,2	11
357	1	6
361	1	10
41C	1,2	15
411	1	3
517	1	7
544	1	18
560	1	17
566	1	15
571	1	19
578	1	1
58C	1	14
584	1	21
597	1	3
ECON
103A	1	15
1038	2	14
103C	3	14
1030	4	12
103E	5	14
103F	6	14
104A	1	14
104B	2	14
105	1	6
141	1	17
203	1	16
203H	1	15
204	1	18
	2	10
	3,7	10
	4	11
	5	13
	6	18
306	1	19
311	1	20
322	1	18
361	1	3
362	1	14
366	1	9
491A	1	6
491B	2	12
491C	3	14
505	1	4
	2	6
	3	18
513	1	11
531	1	11
532	1,2	14
542	1	15
551	1	17
567	1	19
570	1	20
ENGIN
103	1	5
104	3	18
ENGL
125	2	11
	3	11
131	3	17
132	3	19
133	1,2	12
140	1	17
	4	18
140H	2	9
162	1	9
164	3	3
171	2	8
	3	18
	6	19
172	1	18
	3	11
	5	8
ENGL (CONT.)
203	1	19
	3	8
211	1	5
221	1	11
	3	3
261	1	9
	2	13
	4	18
270B	1	18
272	2	11
	3	19
273	1	18
	2	9
274	1	18
276	1	2
281C	1	12
312	1	17
344	1	2
350A	2	13
351	1-8	5
502	1	5
ENT
226	1	10
526	1	19
580	1	3
ENVDES
140	1	18
305	1	3
327	1	15
	2	21
543	1	17
577	1	12
ENVSCI
515	1	6
EXCSCI
130	1	9
190A	1	6
210	1	6
259	1	19
304	1	17
	2	21
305B	1	15
390A	1	12
390B	1	15
478	1	6
FAR EC
501	1	15
504	1	7
507	1	7
513	1,2	16
515	1	12
530	1	15
590B	1	17
FD ENG
501	1	12
503	1	15
509	1	15
512	1	21
513	1	11
281	1,2	6
565	1	15
575	1	13
581	1	12
FISH
565	1	17
FOREST
426	1	15
FRENCH
11C	1-21	5
113	1	7
120	1-12	21
126H	1	12
130	1-15	5
141	2	21
142	1	3
143	1	12
144	1	21
	2	9
	3	19
145	1-3	4
146	1	4
147	1	21
147A	1	21
150	1	4
151	1,2	7
171	1	5
181H	1,2	9
182H	1	17
271	1	17
281	1	6
283H	1	21
332	1	17
FRENCH (CONT.)
355H	1	13
373	1	3
475	1	4
FSAN
102	1	16
130	1	16
210	1	18
230	1	21
290A	1	17
465	1	3
466	1	9
467	1	8
502	1	12
524	1	15
541	1	3
561	1	18
577	1	4
579	1	6
581	1	12
GB FIN
260	1	2
	2,3	18
	4	2
	5,9,10,12	18
	7	2
	8	18
301	1,2	21
	3,6	21
	4	21
	5	12
	7,8	11
	10	21
3C2	1	2
3C3	1,2	12
310	1	15
320	1	11
33C	1,2	14
331	1	19
340	1	9
362	1	15
370	1,2	4
475	1	6
GEOG
145	1	6
155	1	9
340	1	12
350	1	11
355	1	9
370	1	19
GEOL
100	1	20
101	1,2	18
103	1,2	2
105	1	6
310	1	6
320	1	17
33C	1	2
34C	1	9
445	1	6
488	1	15
57C	1	17
575	1	3
590B	1	21
GERMAN
110	1A	5
	4D	5
	5E	5
	6F	5
	7G	5
	9H	5
	10J	5
	11K	5
	2B	21
	3C	21
	5I	21
GERMAN (CONT.)
120	1A	5
	2B	5
	3C	5
	4D	5
126	1	9
190E	1	12
230	1	21
	2	19
	3	18
	4	17
232	1	18
	2	18
234	1	21
238	1	6
240	1	7
	2	3
250	1,2	9
261	1	3
280	1	15
310	1	12
325	1	6
341	1	17
397A	1	7
GREEK
110	1	9
112	1	7
HEBREW
101	1-3	5
201	1,2	21
HIST
100	1	9
	2B	3
	4	9
101	1	18
110	1	12
115	1	6
120	1	5
121	1	16
130	1	3
14C	1	13
	2	13
	3	11
141	1A	13
	2	16
150	1A	19
	2B	13
	3	13
	5	18
151	1A	17
	2B	11
	3	3
281H	1	3
282F	1	12
282G	1	10
302	1	18
304	1	14
315	1	14
322	1	9
334	1	13
336	1	14
337	1	3
345	1	18
353	1	17
350	1	6
362	1	19
364	1	11
367	1	21
368	1	3
378	1	9
380	1	6
381	1	9
386	1	17
387	1	4
400	1	4
HOM EC
270	1	4
276	1	21
355	1	12
393A	1	9
59DE	1	15
59DF	1	15
591S	1	7
HRTA
100	1,2	10
156	1	5
202	1	18
	2	5
	3	19
211	1,2	2
22C	1	11
230	1	12
300	1	14
301	1	17
31C	1	15
330	1,2	20
351	1	9
367	1	10
391A	1	18
391C	1	13
491A	1	12
HUMDEV
210	1	21
380	1	5
570	1	19
I E
251	1	12
454	1	3
460	1,2	19
471	1	17
478	1,2	1
479	1	9
	2	18
520	1	3
541	1	3
572	1	6
59QQ	1	12
59QS	1	21
ITAL
110	1-5	7
126	1	17
130	1-3	5
146H	1	21
281H	1	17
JAPAN
120	1	17
143	1	21
JS
201	1	14
JUDIAC
101	1	8
200	1	6
LAT AM
392B	1	15
LATIN
11C	1-12	7
130	1,3,5,7,8	5
146C	1	3
220	1	17
532	1	7
591A	1	15
LO OPR
501A	1	5
501B	1	5
501C	1	5
501D	1	5
503A	1	3
503B	1	3
503C	1	3
507A	1	17
507B	1	17
507C	1	17
507D	1	17
M E
201	1,2	18
210	1-4	15
211	1,2	5
213	1	21
230	1-3	11
310	1-3	4
311	1	5
314	1	19
318	1	2
320	1	1
330	1-3	11
340	1	18
341	1	8
550	1	11
573	1	6
575	1	15
581	1	12
MATH
503	1	14
104	1-115	1
104A	1	20
104S	1	1
106	1-7	1
110C	1	4
110S	1	15
113	1	6
120	1-3,7,8	1
121	1-5,7	1
127	1-16	1
127A	1	1
128	3-5,7	1
131	2-74	8
132	1-9	8
229	1	10
233	1	4
	2	7
	3	7
	4,6,8,13,14	7
	5	16
	7,9	4
	10	14
	11	8
	12	4
234	1	7
235	1	13
	2	6
	3	13
	4,5	16
236	1-5	2
411	1	17
421	1	15
425	1	18
431	1	14
	2	3
	3	17
	4	17
	5	19
431C	1	9
441	1	9
451	1,2	7
525	1	9
532	1	3
MICBIO
160	1	8
310	1	20
540	1	3
560	1	13
MILSCI
190H	1A,2A	15
212	1,2	11
312	1,2	6
412	1	13
MKTG
341	5	18
410	2,3,6	5
	5	18
412	1-3	12
422	6	4
425	1	16
	2	7
437	1,2	8
MUSIC
100	1,2	12
101	1	19
110	1-3	13
111	1	13
112	1,2	18
212	1,2	6
293A	1	7
300	1	12
500	1	21
513	1	18
515	1	15
521	1	17
532	1	18
NAREST
100	1	8
NEAST
100	1	3
NS&M
197A	1-4	13
NURSE
100	1	6
200	1	12
210	1	21
300	1	6
33C	1	13
400	1	21
420	1	5
430	1	13
OHI
101	1	14
	2	19
PEP
211	1	19
230	1	18
330	1	8
401	1	15
PHIL
100	1A	19
	3C	18
100A	1	18
110	1	20
	2	19
	3	19
	4	16
160	2	17
	3	18
	4	13
160A	1	9
191A	1	9
511	1	21
551	1	7
562	1	15
PHYSIC
100	1,2	15
116	1	12
119	1	4
119B	1	2
141	1,2	17
142	1	19
161	1,2	11
162	1,2	1
171	1	19
263	1	2
273	1	19
300	1	9
343	1	12
421	1	16
422	1	7
530	1	9
531	1	9
562	1	21
564	1	3
PLPATH
501	1	13
504	1	5
506	1	6
530	1	15
590B	1	17
PLSOIL
501	1	21
503	1	5
505	1	3
507	1	7
509	1	16
511	1	17
513	1	7
515	1	11
516	1,2	21
533	1	17
537	1	7
539	1	17
562	1	15
571	1	19
574	1	2
576	1	16
591H	1	15
524	1	19
PORT
110	1,2	7
120	1	12
130	1	7
PSYCH
100A	1	6
100B	1	12
100C	1	4
100D	1	2
100G	1	9
105	1	18
110A	1	13
110B	1	20
110C	1	6
1100	1	2
150A	1	3
150C	1	16
1500	1	4
180	1	6
19DX	1	9
205A	1	3
207	1	13
208A	1	3
208B	1	7
240A	1	14
240B	1	14
240C	1	19
280A	1	3
280B	1	2
280H	1	12
315	1	15
315A	1	9
315H	1	5
320A	1	11
330A	1	12
335A	1	17
335H	1	13
350A	1	19
350H	1	9
355A	1	10
36	1	1
36OA	1	1
36OH	1	19
370A	1	4
380	1	5
390A	1	3
391C	1	15
404	1	6
486	1	12*
490A	1	12
535	1	13
580A	1	18
581	1	7
582	1	21
590J	1	13
590P	1	15
591A	1	7
591B	1	15
PUB HL
123	1	19
	2	2
	3	9
320	1	18
330	1	19
360	1	12
361	1	19
540	1-3	9
RHET
103B	1	15
ESOI	4	15
RUSS
101	1-3	12
102	1	6
111	1	3
201	1	5
201A	1	5
255	1	15
297A	1	17
301	1	6
551	1	7
S BA
523	1	10
541	1	6
SOCIOL
102	1	6
102H	1	6
103	1A	20
	2B	3
103H	1	3
104	1	9
104H	1	9
105	1	18
106	1	16
	2A	18
110	1A	16
	2	18
	4	16
11OH	1	16
211	1	19
220	1	12
221	1	6
221H	1	6
227	1	9
241	1	11
	2A	15
261	1	6
261H	1	6
SOCIOL (CONT.)
297A	1	17
311	1	13
360	1	9
36OH	1	9
383	1	15
440	1	18
442	1	19
481	1	14
564	1	7
SPAN
11D	1-35	7
111	1,2	21
120	1-15	21
126	1,2	12
13D	1-18	7
14O	1-10	21
146	1	6
190A	1	18
190B	1	12
220	1,2	14
221	1	6
SPORST
150	1	3
191A	1	18
200	1	5
201	1,2	10
	3	3
202	1	8
203	1	15
565	1	3
591A	1	12
594B	1	9
597B	1	7
695A	1	5
STATIS
121	2	19
	3,8	7
	4	2
14O	1,4-8,10,11	4
415	1-3	4
416	1	21
451	1	6
481	1	13
SWEDSH
126	1	21
THEATR
100	1	17
100H	1	3
120	1	13
160	1	9
221H	1	4
262	1	17
WDTECH
401	1	4
404	1	12
5GB	1	6
WILDLF
261A	1	21
261B	1	21
ZOOL
101	1	11
102	1	11
103	1	6
235	1	12
245	1	16
261	1	12
290A	1	16
339	1	19
510	1	19
512	1	13
521	1	3
523	1	6
527	1	6
530	1	15
531	1	7
534	1	7
540	1	5
550	1	8
560	1	19
560A	1	18
566	1	5
572	1	19

Spring Schedules

For the Spring Semester, 1981 there will be one Schedule Pamphlet with Undergraduate, Graduate and Stockbridge courses listed. Student who failed to obtain a Schedule Pamphlet last week at the Campus Center may pick one up at the Calendar & Schedule Office in the Whitmore Administration Building after 9 a.m. November 7, 1980 - as long as the supply lasts.

The number printed permits the distribution of one per person. Please retain it for use through the spring semester 1981.

Extra copies of the Final Examination schedule will be available this week at the Collegian, 113 Campus Center

'The Bride': Brilliant view of adolescence

By JULIA SYKES
Collegian Correspondent

A scene from The Bride, a play by UMass graduate Constance Congdon, performed in the Rand Theater last weekend by The University Ensemble Theater.

The University Ensemble Theater gave a most impressive performance of The Bride by Constance Congdon, a UMass Graduate student, at the Rand Theatre last weekend.

The play deals with the morally confused and complex adolescent world of the 1950's which stood in awe of the encroaching adult world, represented here by the sordid wake of parenthood. The dilemma faced by four young people in the play is implicit in the irony of the play's title.

Women were — and still are to some extent — expected at an early age to prepare themselves for a "normal" heterosexual relationship which will automatically lead to marriage. Yet, as we see in the play, this conditioning is often a denial and therfore a repression of natural and individual expression.

Cogdon exposes human realities lying beneath the "respectable" institution of marriage through the hyprocrisy of parents who wish to control the sexual behavior of their children but cannot control their own.

The playwright also satirizes religious convention, which she shows to be a manifestation of adult hypocrisies which while adding to their veneer of respectability, imposes further pressures upon the young.

All this has been said before. It is thus Cogdon's treatment of the subject and the actors' interpretation of it which are to be commended.

It is possible the exposistion of sexual roles, homosexuality, masturbation, abortion and marriage in the play could be merely the worn-out, hackneyed ideas that are so often discussed in the media from T.V. drama to women's magazines.

Yet the sensitivity and sincerity of the acting, and the sophistication of the writing, lifted The Bride far above being sentimental and cliche. Carla Pipes as Bobby, J. Gary M. J. Trahan as Ken, William G. Lewis as Wesley and Cheryl Ferris as Pooh Bear played difficult roles brilliantly. All four recaptured the immediacy and spontaneity of youth superbly in facial expression, vocal intonnation and body movement, reacting convincingly and subtly to their enviroment.

The first act deals with the years immediately preceding puberty of the characters and the second jumps in time from post puberty up to high school graduation. This transition was as convincing as the acting and the rapport achieved between the actors on stage remained consistent throughout, bringing the audience closer to the real issues brought up in the play.

Humor was an important element in saving the play from being a mere sentimental protrayal of childhood. Dialogue was witty, the pace fast, and the mixture of reality and absurdity, as we saw the world from the child's point of view, not only proved to be extremely comic, but brought across the writer's meaning more powerfully. Lines like "My mother says you'll die of ear disease", meaning veneral disease, dramatize for the audience (once the chuckles have died down) the dilemna the child faces when what he experiences diverges with what he is told.

The set used was particularly impressive. Consisting of staggered rostra and hangings depicting elements of the the emerging pop-culture, its abstract structure symbolized the distracted consciousness of the mind of the adolescent who is unable to find stability around her/him or to paint any kind of coherent picture in her/him mind of what is seen of the adult world.

Some particulary impressive dramatic techniques included the authoritarian voices of adults heard from the wings and above the stage, which focused the audience's attention upon the isolation and confusion of the child and the simultaneous sexual experiences of the four youths as they lie in their beds deeply disturbed by the double values their parents excersise upon them. Lighting was often used as a substitute for props, for example,T.V. sets, which added to the sense of isolation the child feels at her/his inability to communicate with the adult world.

Over all,The Bride was a sophisticated production which was both humorous and though-provoking and was appreciated by the audience more than many proffessional productions seen at the Fine Arts Center.

★Sexism

continued from page 5

and are expected to concentrate on either teaching children of their ethnic group or teaching about their ethnic group, McCamey said.

"Black men must be supportive of black women in higher education, said Peay.

"Black men should respect the authority of their women bosses. By being conscious of womens goals and ridding themselves of jealousy black men will be able to help black women to pursue careers," Peay said.

"Only when blacks plan their own destiny will progress be made. Black men should recommend black women to jobs. Never let her think that she's not supported," Peay said.

★Facism

continued from page 1

"If you can't sense this intuitively," said Gross, "then you don't know what dictatorship is all about."

Gross identified himself as a follower of Martin Luther King and Indira Ghandi. "We need their kind of militance that sacrifices personal interest in the name of higher codes of reality.' said Gross.

The question and answer session began with Gross saying, "The first question people usually ask is what are we going to do about this?" He said, "What is is taht we are talking about? Let's now try to understand what it is and what's being done about it.

"The media," he said, 'won't tell us. The New York Times won't tell us."

Some refer to our present situation as malaise, said Gross, but the standard phrase among radical thinkers is 'capitalistic intensive capitalism.'

Referring to President Carter's term in office, Gross said, "If we could preserve this passive moment, we'd be a lot better off. As in Faust, Goethe before his death said, 'If I could just preserve this moment forever."

Wildlife biology prof promoted

Professor Joseph S. Larson an 11-year-veteran of the wildlife biology department at the University of Massachusetts has recently been named chairman of the department of forestry and wildlife management.

Succeeding outgoing chairman Donald R. Progulske, Larson takes over the department as it nears its 50th anniversary.

"I've been too busy to think (about the future)... but we're looking forward to celebrating our 50th anniversary this year, he said. Larson, a UMass graduate, specializes in the management of wetlands.

Larson assumed the chair of the department on Sept. 1. He said that the department has one of the highest enrollment demands because of recent nationwide efforts towards conservation and natural preservation.

"We're one of the areas where there is high student demand because we have employable graduates," Larson said. He said he has had very little time to set any goals but added he hopes that the department will experience "modest growth" in the next few years.

—James F. Mahoney

COMMUNITY ORGANIZERS

ACORN needs organizers to work with low and moderate income families in 20 states (AR, SD, TX, LA, TN, MO, FL, CO, NV, PA, IA, OK, MI, AZ, NC, GA, SC, CA, CT, MA) for political and economic justice. Direct action on neighborhood deterioration, utility rates, taxes, health care, redlining, etc. Tangible results and enduring rewards--long hours and low pay. Training provided. Contact the Univ. Placement Service for interview Thurs., Nov. 20 or write Kaye Jaeger, ACORN, 117 Spring, Syracuse, NY 13208 315-476-0162

TOP PRIORITY #6

BOSTON SCROD!
Our house specialty.
Gently broiled and mildly seasoned with bread crumbs and lemon butter.

Top of the Campus Restaurant
For Reservations call - 549-6000 X639

The Guitar Workshop and Music House
233 N. Pleasant St. Amherst, Mass. 01002
Phone 549-1728
Save 40% off retail price on new Guild, Gibson, Ovation, Rickenbacker, and Yamaha guitars. Also discounted prices on Marshall and Polytone amps, MXR, and all strings and acc. Large selection of music for all instruments.

been in to see our goodies lately?

J. Austin Jeweler on the common Amherst 253-3986

Amity
GMAT LSAT MCAT
REVIEW PROGRAMS
Call for Amity's free brochure on the exam of interest to you
800-243-4767
IN CT., 1-800-922-4635

TACO VILLA
Wholesome Inexpensive Refreshing Change
Downtown Amherst
Mon Thru Wed 11-9
Thurs 11-10
Fri - Sat 11-12
Sun 12-9

FIG! WHERE HAVE YOU BEEN? YOU CAN'T JUST DISAPPEAR FOR THREE DAYS LIKE THAT!
WELL I COULDN'T GET ACCESS TO A PHONE UNTIL TODAY.
Ok, FIG... WHAT HAPPENED?
WELL, REMEMBER THE ELECTION...
CINDY DOWNING
WELL WHEN I FOUND OUT THAT REAGAN WON...

Abnormal Psychology — J. Demskey

I'VE BEEN THINKING JANET...
ABOUT WHAT?
BLAH, BLAH BLEH, BLAH
HOW TO EXPLAIN MY CONCEPT OF GOD TO YOU GO AHEAD
BLAB, UM BLEEP... BLAH
TODD IS GOOD.
TODD RUNDGREN
YEAH I KNOW WHAT I MEAN?
BUT HE'S SO SKINNY!
BLAH, BLEH, BLECH, NO UH-UH

Under the Influence — M. Joyce

I FEEL LIKE I GOT VERY DRUNK LAST NIGHT!
OH MY GOD! THIS ISN'T MY ROOM! WHERE AM I?! WHAT DID I DO?!
11/10 M. Joyce
GOOD MORNING, DEAR!
AAAUGH

DOONESBURY — by Garry Trudeau

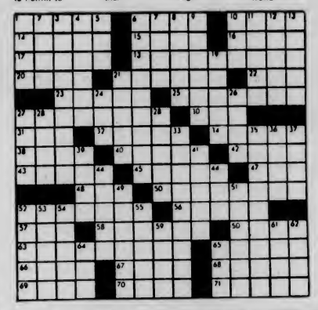
...AND NOW IT'S TIME FOR THE WEEKLY "COPING CORNER" WITH US TODAY IS OUR OLD FRIEND, DR. DAN ASHER, AUTHOR OF "MELLOW-SPEAK." I'LL LET HIM TELL YOU WHAT HIS NEW OPUS IS ABOUT. DAN?
THANKS, MARK. MY NEW BOOK IS CALLED "THE MELLOW MORTGAGE." IT'S ALL ABOUT REAL ESTATE. HOW IT CAN CHANGE YOUR LIFE AND MAKE YOU FEEL GOOD ABOUT YOURSELF.
MY BOOK HELPS YOU CHOOSE THE REAL ESTATE LIFE STYLE THAT'S JUST RIGHT FOR YOU, WHETHER IT'S LOTS OR CO-OPS. I SHOW THAT REAL ESTATE IS ACCESSIBLE TO EVERYONE FROM DEVELOPERS TO STRUGGLING NEWLYWEDS! EVEN THE POOR ARE GETTING INTO THE ACT!
THEY ARE?
WELL, THEY CALL IT "TURF," BUT IT'S THE SAME PRIDE OF OWNERSHIP.

CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1 Express pleasure
6 Nigerian natives
10 History book entry
14 Glory
15 Protuberance
16 Esau's country
17 Within: Prefix
18 Ontario, for one: 2 words
20 Paris public area
21 Patient
22 A la mode base
23 Cavalry member of old
25 Law-maker
27 Set to sea again
30 Ending for ran or star
31 Assam silkworm
32 Made public
34 Thwarts
38 Spill
40 Pac.-Northwest plant
42 Brow wrinkle
43 General sense
45 Permit to board: 2 words
47 Beaufort ---
48 Foot digit
50 Consecrating
52 En ------: in passing
56 ---- and Clark
57 High mountain
58 Impassive
60 Desist
63 Local: 2 words
65 River to the Rhone
66 Rail bird
67 Thrall
68 Radio receiver assembly
69 Looked over
70 French summers
71 Surgical thread

DOWN
1 Steamer
2 Ms. Freeman
3 Imposition
4 Chinese sailing ship
5 Cycle
6 Usually: 2 words
7 Nee
8 "The Big Knife" author
9 Closed tightly
10 Dolores --- Rio
11 Conform
12 Japanese capital: Var.
13 Arab chieftan: Var.
19 1:50, 2:50, etc.: 2 words
21 Festive dos
24 Ad ---: Kind of remark
26 Friendedly
27 Remainder
28 Man's name
29 Erased
33 News story headings
35 Demanding notice
36 Mortgage, e.g.
37 Party for the groom
39 Stakes
41 Adored
44 Banter
46 At once
49 Meal course
51 Disposable towel
52 Antiquated
53 Kind of steel
54 Fern reproductive organ
55 Breakfast item
59 Cable
61 Mountain: Comb. form
62 Honey buzzard
64 Compressed roll
65 "--- a small world"

UNITED Feature Syndicate
Friday's Puzzle Solved:



D.C. Menu

	Tomorrow
LUNCH	LUNCH
Hot Turkey Sandwich/ Gravy	Barbecued Beef on Bun
American Chop Suey	Eggs Foo Yung/Duc Sauce
BASICS LUNCH	BASICS LUNCH
Garden Chili	Soybean Croquettes
Hot Turkey Sandwich/ Gravy	Eggs Foo Yung/Duc Sauce
DINNER	DINNER
Roast Pork/Gravy, Spiced Apples	Chicken Cutlet/ Supreme Sauce
Beef Stew	Swedish Meatballs
	Bacon-Onion Quiche
BASICS DINNER	BASICS DINNER
Tofu Nut Loaf/ Light Mushroom Sauce	Spinach Casserole
Fish in Batter/Tartar Sauce	Chicken Cutlet/ Supreme Sauce
	Cranberry Sauce

(Staff illustration by Anne Cronin)

THE PARTY'S OVER!

See the final exam schedule on pages 8 & 9.

Collegian Classifieds

• Come to Collegian Office CC 113 • 8:45-3:45 Monday - Friday • Deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day • 15c per word • Student rate 10c per word • Cash in advance • 5 consecutive days 5% discount • Phone number FREE

ABSOLUTELY FREE

Kitten, female & 7 lbs kitty food 1-339-4224 aft 5

AUDIO

Discount Stereo Equipment: Campus Sounds has everyday sale prices on over 100 top brands-all fully guaranteed!-Will beat any competitor's price! Call Eric @ 546-1147 (try again after 11 p.m.)

Pig Nose 30/60 great shape $190 negotiable John 549-1666 evenings

Sabsui 881 Receiver 65 watts per chanel full features cost $550 new 2 yrs ago asking 250 549-1307

AUTO FOR SALE

68 Cougar good condition best offer over $450 call Jim 549-6321

Capri 1976 standard, black, 39000 miles, very good condition, new batteries and brakes, no rust, must sell-leaving the country $2580 Carlos 584-4185 (Hadley)

72 Celica good cond. price neg. call Mike 549-6087

1971 Satelite 318, asking 250 call after 9:00 665-7753

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITY

Opportunity to earn $18,000/yr by May working 10-12 hrs/wk Find out how YOU can do it for appointment call 549-1172

COLLOQ FOR INEPTS

If you have a pea-brain and the tact of a dinosaur call Tom Leblanc/Vincent Blanchard 549-4907 and ask for details on how to operate a simple stereo

CUSTOM SILKSCREENING

Sweatshirts, Nightshirts, Jumpers and Shorts All these can be ordered with a handprinted silkscreen design from the ZooMass table on the Campus Center Concourse Thursdays and Fridays

ENTERTAINMENT

Soundsystem and DJ for hire perfect for band parties coffeehouses Rick 584-4105

PA system mics echo Rhodes electric piano ideal for bands coffeehouses Loud Partys Jim 546-7517

Bands wanted for battle of the bands prize $$ contact Brett House now Dan 6-9533 Sandy 6-6287 Doug 6-6234

FOR SALE

Gift Idea: Portrait Drawings; call dennis Delap 665-2972

TRS-80 48K or 16K System must sell mint condition call for details 546-7050

Backpack new cost $150, sell for $100 will bring to Campus 1-684-3121, 1-442-6023

Moving, must sell 1970 Valiant runs well, $1200.00 Yamaha 12-string guitar, $200 or BO furniture 253-3101

Single bed $40 Carol 549-5440 after 5

73 Gremlin 600.00 or best offer call 584-7094 after 7 PM

Mattress/sofa Queensize futon with pillow. Both have slipcovers All 100% cotton. 1 month old $175 253-2427

Mag Wheels 14x6 for most GM cars call Phil 546-6675

Hockey Equipment: Goalie stick and catch gloves; shoulder and chest pads take all for $60 Keith 665-4914

Wristwatches; namebrands $110-160 retail ½ price 665-7545

Rossignol CM, 195 cm, brand new - never mounted, retailed at $225, asking $175, call Jim after 7:00 pm 546-5214

68 Rambler American runs excellent must sell Dave 584-3298 $275

Springsteen Ticket Dec 11 6-5591 anytime Providence

Ski Bindings for sale Look N-77 brand new, int. exp. $50. 6-5808

Don't let them steal your tunes. Take it with you! Craig underdash cassette with slipout, quick release safety feature, ff/rwnd, reverse, fader & 4 spkrs (2 never out of box) all for $100 deck alone new = $190 call Sam 256-8843 eves

FOUND

Keys near FAC 11/3 call 6-9292

HELP WANTED

Wanted part-time radiology technician for multi-specialty group practice please call 256-8561 ext 248 M-F 8 am-4 pm

Overseas Jobs—Summer/year round. Europe, S. Amer., Australia, Asia, All Fields. $500-$1200 monthly. Sightseeing. Free Info. write: IJC Box 52-MAI Corona Del Mar, Ca 92625

Houseworker 2-3 hours/week, Sunderland, references required 665-4920

INSTRUCTION

English Classes (ESL) Elementary, Intermediate. Two hours an afternoon, except Wednesday. Faculty/student spouses, visitors, immigrants. People's Institute, Northampton. 584-3956 NLI, P.O. Box 34, Northampton

Hypnosis Speed reading Rm 909 Campus Center Nov 12, 13 at 7 PM all welcome KR Morse 532-5703

COBOL Tutor professional experience call 665-4722 6 PM to 10 PM reasonable rates!

LOST

Nova Owners I hitched back to Boston on Friday Oct. 10 I left a brown and tan reversible jacket in your car call 6-7470

Lost keys—Sat nite wall across from Thoreau Reward 6-7451

Ladies glasses green case light tan pink frames Carolyn 6-7495

Gold S Chain double bracelet Means alot to me. Reward call Jennifer 6-3201

Male dog black/brown 1½? yrs old on Rt 9 Belchertown no collar beautiful and well behaved 256-0594

A gold loveknot ring with a chipped diamond near Munchies in Southwest will give a reward much sentimental value Michelle 6-8568

I left a Constitutional Law book in Hasbrouck 134. If you found it please call Chris at 323-7168. I need it desperately.

MARTY'S 18TH

Mart—The Kaopectate Kid Happy 18th your such a good egg even though you do hate dogs love ya - E!

Martha . . .Happy Birthday you owe me that kiss. Ralph

Marty. . .Let's make your birthday nite special. John J.

Marty. . .your birthday will be special for us. Eddie

Martha— Happy B-day let's do it up tonight Rosie

PERSONALS

There's nothing exactly like this. . .anywhere! Send your favorite snapshots, magazine picture, drawing. . .anything! We'll customize it into a beautiful 2 3/8" key-chain button, or pin backed button. (specify) Your personalized memento $3.00 p.p.d. T.G.R. Enterprises 2900 Griffin Road Suite #5 Fort Lauderdale, Florida 33312 + ask for giant "slogan" catalog!!

Up for a late night pizza and beer? Come to CHARLIE'S. Pizza served Daily 9-1. Ask about our golden club card which entitles you to a free drink per day. Card cost is $5.00 per month

Springsteen at Hartford 12/12 tickets for sale best offer 586-9087

It's Randi's Birthday Happy 21st ndwbpoybd ask J or D or T about the code love 50 townies

Handsom: Glad to have you back as my brother Sunshine!

Danno I didn't know there were any nice frat guys. Your definitely one of them. Lisa

UMass Photo Co-op Raffle 1st prize Canon AE-1 Nov 3-14 CC Concourse & Photo Co-op Tickets 3/$1

Looking for something fun, tired of the same old thing, come to Lambda's Scavenger Hunt! All women welcome at 8:00 PM on Thursday 11/13 for fun, prizes, drinks, munchies - 389 No. Pleasant St 5-0939 for rides

Lambda Delta Phi invites all university women to informal rush 11/12 - 11/20 389 No. Pleasant St call for info! 5-0939

B.H. seen many mini min? You're the best! L&LI.M.

Hey you two—Thanks for the best 5 semesters on campus, heres to the best 3 off! P.S. Do the "chops" pay rent? ALWAYS YOURS. . .Deb

Paul—Happy 10 mo our first double digit. .and I still think you have the best gluteus medius around I love you Kathy

Martha—Happy 18th you're a real cute kid and deserve the best Good Luck--Dana

Happy Birthday WLKG to the best roomie around, I couldn't survive without you Love Always WKL

Lisa the happiest of all birthdays to you. We love ya 4 South

Moving? We will sublet your two bedroom apt. will pay sublet fee! Please call 546-8443 or 546-8434

Fred is my boy-friend but--Fred is dead

Happy 19 Hollysan! from the other half of 301

Unimassity of Versachusetts T-shirts! Printed both sides with falling library brick logo on back! Only $5.00 call 546-5930 for details!

Puppy, Hope you are reading the personals, so you will know I'm thinking of you.

ROOM WANTED

Needed room house or apt near bus next semester Rob 665-4181

Male senior looking for own room in house or apartment for Spring semester 546-8187

2-4 bedroom house or apt for Spring sem call eve 568-8847

ROOMMATE WANTED

Own room in thre bdrm Puffton Village apt. $122 includes heat Call Bob 549-5877 after 6

Responsible, friendly, independent rmmate for own room in 3 bdrm Rolling Green Apt. $115/mth, includes everything call Shelley or Conworth 256-0510 evenings prefer women

Own room in four bedroom Swiss Village apt $122. includes utilities call Patrick 253-9476 after 9

Own room in 3 bdrm apt spring semester $85/mo bus rte 665-7743

SERVICES

Experienced typist available Fast, neat work, reasonable rates. 546-6439

Typing; Words-Worth, 37 East Pleasant Street, Amherst, 549-1303. Double-spaced text from 95c a page. Justified resumes from $3.50 a page. Telephone dictation line. Overnight rush jobs. Your words are worth it.

Excellent typist. Fast, accurate work. 75c-$1.00. Mornings, evenings, weekends. 665-4416

SHITTER & TUMA

Shitter & Tuma Happy Belated Birthday Love Spunky & Dicky

SONGWRITERS

Folk-Singer, song writer researching song writing at UMass. If you write original folk, or country music I would like to interview you and profile your work in my Research--call Joe at 665-2840 10 pn-11:30 pm or weekends anytime

TO SUBLET

1 bedroom sublet Cliffside available w/option call 665-2891 $220 inclusive

TRAVEL

Florida—The Great Getaway for Spring Break and January Term under $200 round trip jet 256-6704

WANTED

Highest prices paid for class rings, gold, and silver jewelry. See me before you sell. Daniel Smith, 25 North Pleasant St between Fotomat and Logos, Amherst M-Sat10-6 call 256-0710

Top Dollars paid for class rings, gold, sterling at Wendy's. CC Concourse, twice a week approved by UMass Board of Governors

Highest prices paid for class rings, gold and silver jewelry. See me when you sell. Daniel Smith 25 North Pleasant St. between FOTOMAT and LOGOS , Amherst Mon-Sat 10-6 Licensed by Town of Amherst & State of Massachusetts call 256-0710

WANTED TO RENT

Country Living at its finest. Utilities included 10 minutes from Amherst Whately Inn 665-3044

Apartment wanted for Spring 2 or 3 bdrm on bus rt call 6-6083 or 6-6141 we offer bribes

FLYING FEET OF AMHERST

INVENTORY CLEARANCE SALE!!

HUGE savings

up to

40% off

Store Hours: Mon. 10-6 Tues. Thurs. Fri. 10-8 Wed. 12-8 Sat. 10-6

175 University Drive Amherst 253-3354

Pre-Registration Forms

Can be picked up in your major departments during Counselling Week beginning:

Monday Nov 10-Friday Nov 14

Students in the BCP Program can get their forms from the BCP Office in Wilder Hall. CCEBS students should go to New Africa House. Class of NC students will receive pre-registration forms in the mail. Pre-registration forms must be returned to Registrar's Office not later than Wed. Nov. 19. All forms returned after that date will incur a $5.00 fine.

Hypercurricula . . .

Mon., Nov. 10

GAY/LESBIAN/BI RAP GROUP, 6:30 p.m., Monday. Campus Center Rooms 805-809. Sponsored by the Lesbian and Gay Men's Counseling Collective.

SPECTRUM—There will be an editorial meeting at 4 p.m. and the first meeting of the typeset and layout staff will be at 5 p.m. Anyone interested in joining the staff is urged to attend this meeting. Both meetings are in C.C. 104.

HILLEL MEETING at 5 p.m. in the Hillel Office, S.U. 302. New members welcome.

HUNGER TASK FORCE MEETING, 4:15-5:45, in S.U. 428. More people are needed to help prepare for November 20 FAST.

Tues., Nov. 11

TOMORROW, Veteran's Day, the UMass Transit Service will operate on a Saturday schedule including the Orchard Valley, Echo Hill, and Cushman runs.

THE U.M. SPORT PARACHUTE CLUB will hold a General Club Meeting at 6:30 at Kate & E.J.'s (161l Brandywine). Discussion will include the Intersession trip to Florida. Everyone who jumped this semester is urged to attend.

NORTHEAST/SYLVAN RACIAL AWARENESS PROGRAM film offering, Bush Mama, this film portrays a poor urban Black woman's experiences in the ghetto, police violence, welfare offices, unemployment lines, decaying tenements and social workers. 7 p.m. in the Johnson House Lounge.

UMASS BAHAI CLUB meets every Tuesday from 4 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. in Campus Center Building.

THIRD WORLD BIBLE STUDY, led by the Reverend Stanley Dennison, Pastor of Goodwin Memorial Zion AME, begins 7 p.m. at UCF, S.U. 428.

Wed., Nov. 12

GRADUATE STUDENT EMPLOYEES MEETING—12-1 p.m. in C.C. 902. Major decisions regarding the organization's future will be made at this meeting. The possibility of establishing a relationship with the Grad. Senate will be discussed. Meeting is open to all interested grad students.

NORTHEAST/SYLVAN RACIAL AWARENESS PROGRAM film offering, A Minor Altercation a film which explores the racial conflict growing out of the Boston school situation. 4:30 p.m. in Dwight House Lounge.

THERE WILL BE A GENERAL MEETING of all Photo Co-op members in C.C. 902 from 7-9 p.m. This is a very important rescheduling meeting and everyone is asked to be there or make arrangements with one of the officers.

SPECTRUM—There will be a prose staff meeting at 5 p.m. and a poetry staff meeting at 7 p.m. Both meeting are in C.C. 104.

THE HAZARDOUS WASTE PROJECT TEAM from UMASSPIRG is meeting in S.U. 423B. The speaker who was previously announced to talk on Nov. 5 has been rescheduled for this upcoming meeting, and will provide an overview for our upcoming forum. All those interested are urged to attend.

THE STUDENT CONSUMER AFFAIRS COUNCIL will hold a meeting for Consumer Economics majors and anyone else interested in Skinner Lounge at 6 p.m.

THE STUDENT HEALTH ADVISORY BOARD will meet at 6 p.m. in room 304 of the University Health Services. All are welcome.

STUDENT ALLIANCE FOR ISRAEL meeting at 6 p.m. in the Hillel office, to set plans for Israel Awareness week.

JEWISH FACULTY GROUP MEETING at 4:30 p.m. in C.C. 903. To discuss action and awareness around issues of anti-Semitism, racism and sexism, Jewish life within Academia, and plan events.

BIBLICAL EXPLORATION, 7 p.m. at UCF, S.U. 428, facilitated by Chaplain Pete Sabey. Anyone interested in an intelligent, serious, open-minded study of the Bible is cordially invited to try this out.

THE CENTER FOR HUMAN DEVELOPMENT will be on campus from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. in C.C. 801 to speak to prospective interns. The Center coordinates many human service organization including those in the fields of mental health, juvenile delinquency, family therapy, crises intervention, deinstitutionalization, and administration, fiscal and community relations. Their program is located in Springfield.

INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS' DAY, will be held from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. in Scott Gymnasium at Smith College. Patrons may sample food and browse among dozen of gift and craft booths at the fair. Entertainment will include music from many foreign countries and demonstrations of the dances native to Korea, Ireland, and India.

Thurs., Nov. 13

DESIGN AREA MAJORS—A.S.I.D. Meeting, FAC. 441. Come meet with Dick Cronin of Welleo Carpet Co. and a representative with the Badische Fiber Co. They will be discussing commercial carpets and fiber content, as well as providing samples for all participants. Don't Miss This One!

THE 5 COLLEGE SOLAR ENERGY COLLECdiscuss the bylaws and future projects. Contact: Barry 256-8981.

STUDENT COALITION AGAINST NUKES NATIONWIDE MEETING at 7:30 p.m. Come by the SCANN office, S.U. 406. There will be an educational presentation on Women and Nukes. Everyone welcome!

U.M. SPORT PARACHUTE CLUB—First Jump Course—7 p.m. C.C. 902. 3-hour classroom with ground training and jumping on Saturday. Please bring your I.D. and $75.

MEN AND WOMEN CANDIDATES FOR THE UMass Ski Teams will meet in Room 201 Holdsworth Hall at 7 p.m. Candidates should have had some ski racing experience.

SPECTRUM—There will be a meeting of the art and photography staffs at 5:15 in C.C. room 104. New members urged to attend!

ISIS, a reproductive rights group, and the Third World Women's Task Force are sponsoring a talk on Sterilization Abuse: Monitoring the Abusers. The speaker, Elayne Clift, is a member of the Washington, D.C. group, the National Women's Health Network. The talk will take place at 7:30 p.m. in C.C. 175. For more information or to request childcare, call Everywoman's Center, 545-0883.

5 COLLEGE HILLEL MEETING at 7:30 p.m. in Eliot House, Mount Holyoke College. Plan to discuss 5-college activities!

12-1: CHUG IVRI, the informal Hebrew discussion group meets in the Dukes Room, S.U. 310.

Fri., Nov. 14

COMMUTER WORKSHOP—Female Sexual Health for Women and Men from 12:30 to 3 p.m. in C.C. room 801. Free and open to the public. Questions call: Phyllis Labanowski at 584-7641.

GAY COFFEEHOUSE, 8 p.m.-1 a.m. Violet Ray loft, 19 Hawley St., Northampton. Music, good company, refreshments. All gay men, lesbians, and friends are invited. Also happening Fri. Nov. 21.

HILLEL EVENING SERVICES at 7 p.m. in the Dukes Room.

COME TO THE COFFEEHOUSE sponsored by the Yellow Sun Food Coop, 7:30-11:30 p.m. at the Unitarian Meetinghouse, Amherst. Entertainment will be provided by local artists and anyone in the audience willing to participate. Bring your own instruments, skills and enthusiasm. Refreshments will be available.

Sat., Nov. 15

FROM 9 a.m. to 12 p.m. the Southwest Women's Center will be having a workshop on Third World Women's Views of the Women's Movement. All are welcome to attend and participate. For further information call 545-0626.

THE UMASS BAHAI CLUB will be participating in a Candelight Prayer vigil 5:30 to 6 p.m. on the Amherst North Common, commemorate the persecution in martyrdom of their beloved fellow believers in Iran.

AUTHORS MARK KRAMER AND TRACY KIDDER joins the Jones Library for an Afternoon of Prose at 3 p.m. in the Burnett Gallery. Three reading is free and open to the public. Refreshments will follow. The Jones Library is the public library of Amherst.

FREE COUPLE ENRICHMENT WORKSHOP, 9:30-4:30 led by Ginny and Pete Sabey. Deadline to enroll in Thursday, Nov. 13. Call or stop at UCF, S.U. 428, 545-2661.

GEOLOGY OF THE CONNECTICUT RIVER VALLEY, a slide/lecture and demonstration by Richard Little will be presented at 10:30 a.m. at Northfield Mountain. Slides from around the world will depict local geological history. Demonstration of area rock types, fossils and the recently discovered armed mud balls will be made.

CONTRADANCE WITH APPLEJACK at the Munson Library in South Amherst. The dance begins at 8:30 and all are welcome, no experience is necessary.

Sun., Nov. 16

THE BOLTWOOD PROJECT is sponsoring a "cutathan" 11-6 p.m. in the Student Union Ballroom, UMass. Have your hair cut half price by a staff person from Regis Hairstyles, Hadley.

"FLIGHT OF THE DOVES" will be shown at 2 p.m. in the Burnett Gallery of the Jones Library in Amherst Center. The film is free and oper to the public. It is also captioned for the deaf and hearing impaired.

HOUSE CHURCH AT UCF—7-9 p.m. at S.U. 428—a gathering for Biblical Exploration, personal encounter, and fellowship and a simple closing communion—facilitated by Chaplain Pete Sabey. For more info stop by UCF or call 545-2661.

Anytime

A SUPPORT GROUP FOR OLDER (25+) WOMEN STUDENTS is forming at the University. Sponsored by the Older Student Service Network, this group is specifically for women returning to school after years away, who may be feeling overwhelmed or just out of sync with the 18-21 year old scene. For info and experience-sharing and mutual support. Friday, noon to 2 p.m. at Everywoman's Center in Wilder Hall. Call Dorothy Howard or Barbara McCallum at 545-0333 for details.

THE CRAFTSMARKET ON THE LOWER LEVEL of Thorne's Market is proud to announce a showing of fine crafted tea sets by local artists from Nov. 15 through Dec. 27.

DUE TO THE LACK OF VOLUNTEERS the University Photo Co-op has new hours as of Nov. 7:

Monday, Wednesday, Thursday—10-3:30
Tuesday, Friday—12:30-3:30

LESBIAN AND GAY MEN'S COUNSELING COLLECTIVE provides peer counselling Tues., Wed. 3-5 p.m. Thurs., Fri. 5-9 p.m. Call 545-2645 or drop in 406F S.U. with any questions or concerns on lesbian/gay issues.

INTERESTED IN A SPRING 1981 INTERNSHIP? The deadline to begin your plans is Friday, Nov. 10. Call or stop by the Office of Internships, 545-0727, 16 Curry Hicks to sign up for an Introductory Meeting.

Wednesday

FORMER ASSOCIATED PRESS Saigon Bureau Chief George Espers and the head of New England AP Phot will talk with students at 8 p.m. in CC 903. Ask them about jobs in pring and photo journalish, the press and the Vietnam War. Sponsored by the Collegian. Staff members are urged to attend.

We're Doing It Tonight!

PATS vs. HOUSTON

MIKE'S WESTVIEW CAFE

Sunday Smorgasbord Special during Monday Nights Football during the Game.

Come down and make the biggest sandwich you want as many times as you want!

FREE on the House!

While the Pats beat Houston

Thayer School of Engineering Dartmouth College

Recruiting for Masters and Doctoral Candidates in the following areas:

biomedical engineering electrical engineering environmental engineering solid mechanics & mechanical design fluid mechanics
metallurgy and materials science radiophysics and space research system simulation and policy design cold regions science and engineering

Fellowships and Research Assistantships available.

Interviews from 12 p.m. to 4 p.m., Wednesday, November 12, Placement Service, Goodell Building.

★ Urban ed

continued from page 5

Schools, after a tenure of three years. Before taking the position of superintendent of schools, Wood was president of the tri-campus Univeristy system from 1970 to 1977.

Thirty years of urban decline, marked by abandonment of the cities and flight to the suburbs led to the deterioration of city schools and an increaes of parochial and private education, Wood said. He described the American city as "a reservation for the poor and minorities and a playground, a sandbox, for experimentation."

Wood gave his speech, "Why Believe in Urban Education," before asparse audience of futurists on the second day of the conference, held this weekend at the Campus Center.

Urban schools are unprepared for the tasks which have been assigned to them, Wood said. They have "increasingly taken the burdens of teaching the poor," and in the last decade were given the responsibilities of bilingual and special education.

"Now they find themselves first having to carry out the strongest and ugliest burden of resolution in desegration. Suddenly they have assumed the role of peacekeeper."

He described the urban school as "the glue to make a city whole." That was the reason, he said which "led me, in my torurous part, to tackle the Boston school system"

"Without Urban eduation," said Wood, "you're going to lose public education.

"Urban education can link the city, give diversity, concentrate on certain areas," such as "the hetrogenity of an Urban System," he said.

★ Inequality

continued from page 5

moderators summarized past trends: "During the decades of the 50's and 60's, the access issue was framed within the context of civil rights for blacks. The early 70's emphasized access for women, and more recently the handicapped have come in for attention. Despite the different population groups, the goal has remained essentially the same: the right to an equal chance to use one educational system as a means for obtaining the good things in life."

"While the more serious problem is clearly economic inequality, it is also true that minorities are more affected by class disadvantage than are majority groups," said Brooks.

Brooks said there are three traditional ways in which minorities (especially blacks) have used higher education as a means to rise above their disadvantaged status, those being athletics, the community college and professional education.

Alsop discussed the history of the black athlete. "When one realizes how many minority people chase this goal, and then looks at how few professional athletes there are, you can see that this is an unrealistic aspiration for all but a few," he said.

Alsop also questioned whether schools that seek talented minority athletes are actually interested in that students' education or just in using that person to bolster their schools' reputation.

The absence of blacks at key positions in sports such as football and baseball was also a problem even in 1980, said Alsop. "Not only is this not right, but it also provides few role models for others." Absence at key managerial positions was also a problem, said Alsop.

This also related to the lack of black professors as role models. Paterson showed that, although professional education has also been an area of access for minorities, most studies will show these instructors generally teach in urban area.

amc THEATRES — TIMES SHOWN FOR TODAY ONLY

ADULTS $2.75 — STUDENT & SR. CITIZEN WITH AMC CARD $2.75 — SPECIAL ENGAGEMENTS EXCLUDED — TWILITE SHOW $1.25 — TWILITE SHOW LIMITED TO SEATING

HAMPSHIRE 4 — 584-7550 HAMP. MALL ON CAFE SQ. RT. 9, HADLEY, MASS.

DONALD SUTHERLAND in Ordinary People — Mon (4:30 @ $1.75) 7:15-9:45 — Tue-Thur (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15 — Matinee (Mon-Tue) 2:00 — R

the man you thought you knew JESUS — Mon (4:45 @ $1.75) 7:30-9:55 — Tue-Thur (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30 — Matinee (Mon-Tue) 2:15 — G

THE STUNT MAN PETER O'TOOLE — Mon (4:30 @ $1.75) 7:15-9:45 — Tue-Thur (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15 — Matinee (Mon-Tue) 1:45 — R

FADE TO [illegible] — Mon (4:45 @ $1.75) 7:30-9:55 — Tue-Thur (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30 — Matinee (Mon-Tue) 2:15 — R

Dinner and Movie only $5.50 — Have your choice of 5 different meals at the Pewter Pot Rest. in the Hampshire Mall and see one of the 8 movies in this ad (Sun-Thur only)

FREE! SHOPPERS SHOW — Thursdays at 1:00 P.M. Nov. 13 — DOM DeLUISE HOT STUFF — PG

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 — 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9 HADLEY, MASS.

GOLDIE HAWN in PRIVATE BENJAMIN — Mon (4:45 @ $1.75) 7:15-9:30 — Tue-Thur (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30 — Matinee (Mon-Tue) 2:00 — R

CHARLTON HESTON SUSANNAH YORK THE AWAKENING — Mon (4:45 @ $1.75) 7:15-9:30 — Tue-Thur (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:15 — Matinee (Mon-Tue) 2:15 — R

JILL CLAYBURGH It's My Turn — Mon (5:00 @ $1.75) 7:30-9:30 — Tue-Thur (6:15 @ $1.75) 8:30 — R

ANTHONY HOPKINS in THE ELEPHANT MAN — Mon (4:30 @ $1.75) 7:00-9:30 — Tue-thur (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15 — Matinee (Mon-Tue) 2:00 — PG

THE UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AT AMHERST

FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL

in cooperation with the University Student Activities Office, presents

SONNY ROLLINS

Saturday November 15, 1980 8 PM

A Duke Ellington Series Concert

Tickets now on sale at the Fine Arts Center Box Office (M-F noon - 4 pm). Phone reservations accepted through Th., Nov. 13. (413-545-2511)

$7, 6, 5 General Public
$6, 5, 4 Senior Citizens
$3.50, 3, 2.50 Umass Students

Tuesday

OLDIES

TWO FOR ONE

All Mixed Drinks • 9 til 11

NO COVER CHARGE

THE PUB

15 East Pleasant St. AMHERST

Add experience to your degree.

Facts indicate that you may work in three to five different careers. It won't be unusual to make changes as you go. And it's entirely possible that your final career does not even exist today.

Often in a first job, you are an assistant to the assistant. Your responsibility is limited to a desk and typewriter.

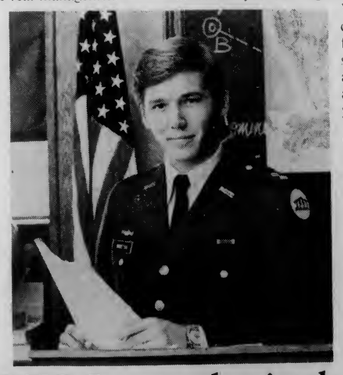
But when your first job is an Army 21 T, you'll have real management experience. You'll be in charge. On a specific job assignment, you could have 30 to 40 people working for you. And you could be responsible for millions of dollars in equipment.

Responsibility for people and resources is exactly the kind of "take charge" experience civilian employers seek. It's a margin of difference in the increasingly competitive job market.

Prepare to rise to the top in your field. Make your first job 3 or 4 years as an Army Officer.

If you have two years remaining in school, you can begin ROTC this summer. You'll be compensated financially; stimulated physically and mentally. To add experience to your degree contact

CPT PATRICK MERRYMAN
5452321/2322



Army ROTC. Learn what it takes to lead.

Great Expectations Promises:

Excellence~
The finest professional cutters consult with you to give you a precision haircut that fits your personality, features and lifestyle perfectly.

Economy~
Great Expectations offers professional services at affordable prices.

Extras~
A haircut consultation, shampoo and blower styling with each precision haircut.

GREAT EXPECTATIONS® PRECISION HAIRCUTTERS

Shampoo, cut & blow-dry only $10.00 with student I.D.

Hampshire Mall
Hadley, MA
10-9:30

No Appointment Ever!

★ Soccer

continued from page 16

UMass shut-out Harvard 1-0, with the lone tally coming from halfback Debbie Pickett, assisted by Maddie Mangini. Both Pickett and Mangini played injured, as did a host of others. Coach Ken Banda described his team as "the playing wounded."

"This was our best game of the tournament, said Banda. "We did not play as well as we sould have in our semi-fanal loss to UConn.

